Between Us

JOE TOWNSEND

Sometime ago I was driving through small town. The highway runs far about two miles through a busy section of business. It was a good while before daylight. I was taking a patient to the hospital in San Antonio for early morning surgery. There was not a car to be seen moving, when suddenly out of a secluded spot came some flashing red lights. I pulled over and a nice looking Mexican American Police officer came to my car. He told me I was driving 55 mph in a 30 mph zone. I had no room to argue because I'm sure he was right. He had been trained in the use of the radar and was in his jurisdiction in the city and about his assigned responsibility of managing traffic. He radar was no doubt legally registered for his operation. Had he given me a ticket I could not have had room for complaint. He was however, very nice and handed me a post card. It was a picture of the sign in their town "This is God's Country, Please don't drive through it like Hell." He said, Please read the back of this card before you throw it away. On the back was a message about how the town was cooperating with the State Highway Patrol to try to have safe driving. I thanked him, apologized for my waywardness and went happily on my way. Never have I had anything but good to say about the towns enforcement of speed limits. They were interested in maintaining proper speed. They were interested in projecting a good image to the traveling public. They saw the value of having people like their town. A short time before that they were gaining a reputation as a "speed trap". Wisely those in authority put a stop to such feelings. Where the idea in patrolling highways is to make money and enhance the ego of self appointed traffic officers there can come nothing good for the community. The extra dollars brought in through fines is very costly to the image of the town and hence costly to the businesses of the community. People may fuss but seldom deeply resent receiving a ticket from the Highway Patrol because they realize this is their job. Others seeking to get in on the act do more harm than good.

Carl Esser Reports:

SAN ANTONIO--South Texans, especially San Antonians, are in for a special treat.

Many Texas horticultural experts, knowledgeable in all areas of horticulture, will host a meeting at Holmes High School (6500 Ingram Road at Loop 410 West) on Saturday, Feb. 25. The speakers will be talking about all aspects of Texas horticulture in a way that everyone can understand it.

The term horticulture includes the care and culture of lawns, gardens (flower and vegetable), trees (fruit nut and shade) and shrubs. Texas horticulturists are often frustrated with the lack of good, pertinent information on care and culture of plants in an environment which is unique to the southwestern United States.

Without regionalized information the novice gardener is at a complete loss and doomed to failure since this region of the country is so different from other areas.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Texas State Horticultural Society and is intended to provide good, pertinent information about vegetable gardening, fruit production, lawn-landscape management, and other horticultural subjects.

This information will make you more successful at whatever type of horticultural interest you might enjoy. Plan to attend. You may come and go as you please. The meeting is free and open to everyone who loves plants. We will start at 8:30 a.m. and end at 5 p.m.

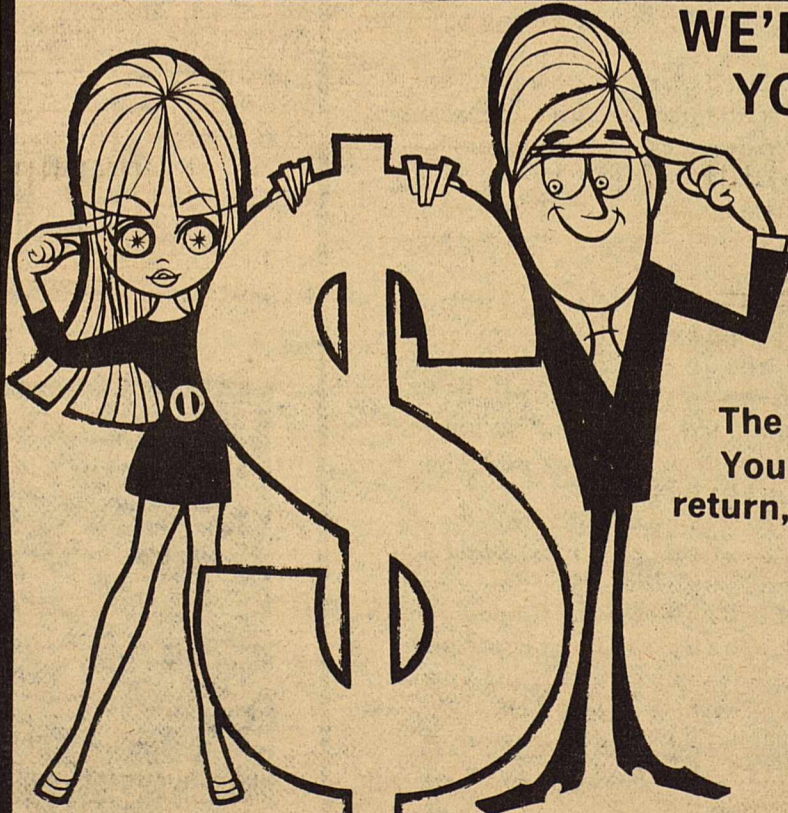

Questions and problems you have will be personally answered and diagnosed by one of the experts in attendance. Come enjoy the program, and be a better plantsman in '78. This is the most comprehensive horticultural program ever made available to south Texas.

Present Day Myths

by: JOE TOWNSEND

If has usually been her the attitude of Congress and the people that the President should have emergency powers to act immediately where an emergency arises. As the North and the Northeast still shiver in the cold for lack of coal the situation daily becomes more critical and more ridiculous. If is totally unthinkable that a relatively small handful of billgrant men feeding on tax payers food-stamps and welfare can cause such havoc in lives of so many. Had America a president with a little less concern for a few labor votes and more concern for the "general welfare" he swears to carefor, the situation would never have reached this state. He cannot say he believes in majority rule so let the Union do its thing. He has amply demonstrated he cares little for what the majority think. Along with Senator Bentsen he smirks at the majority and wants to hand the Panama Canal to the Communists. He cannot logically stand in his campaign promises to "labor" lanish and outlandish as they were. He has already broken almost all the promises he made, though he again dusts off those same tired speeches and re-reads them to try to have elected his political cronies who helped elect him. He cannot honestly hesitate and legitimately ask Congress what to do because he has so long and loudly espoused his power over Congress. He has in his hand the tools to move coal. The Taft-Hadley Act is the law of the land. It is meaningless unless the President uses it. It was passed for his use in just such cases as this. He has the army he could use to move the coal. One President had courage and integrity enough to use the Army to get the railroads moving. The radical and unthinking labor leaders on their disproportionately fat salaries want the government to "take over" the mines and control wages and profits. They feel comfortable in the present labor controlled Congress. But what of the day when a different tune is played? There will come a day when America will not longer be content to dance to the tune of "labor" Aside from that, without exception, where "government" is most involved there is the biggest mess and worst problems. We can't help but wonder when America will awaken to the responsibility of the privilege of voting and elect men of courage and leadership.

The Birch Log

Social Security: Dangerous Fraud

by John F. McManus

Belmont, Massachusetts — In the closing days of 1977, Congress passed and the President signed the largest peacetime tax increase in our nation's history. Few called it that, however. Instead, they said it was "the savior of the Social Security System." Never mind that saving Social Security might kill the nation.

Congress Excludes Self

Social Security, federal government style, is a monstrous fraud kept alive only by compulsion. It's a chain letter scheme and a con man's dream. Doubters need only realize that successive Congresses, which have forced millions into the program and then upped the ante repeatedly, have also pointedly excluded themselves from its none-too-tender clutches. That's right! Members of Congress and employees of the federal government are not compelled to pay Social Security taxes for the dubious benefits available. So they don't pay them. And nowhere can anyone find these privileged few demanding to be let in on the scheme.

No Trust Funds

Its promoters like to talk about Social Security's trust funds as if the program were being run like an honest insurance fund. But the truth is that there are not and never have been any trust funds for Social Security. The money taken as "contributions" has been spent as fast as it has been collected. When Social Security promises come due for more and more Americans, the government simply raises more taxes to pay for them. If a private company ran a retirement fund or an insurance program that way, its officials would be jailed for fraud. Why government should be exempted from the same set of rules is never explained.

Not only is there no trust fund, but there isn't even any ironclad guarantee regarding benefits. Congress has the power to pay whatever benefits it chooses, or none at all. The age at which benefits are to be paid can also be raised or lowered. And the government can also pay benefits in dollars that are far less valuable than the ones put into the program. Call that a consequence of inflation, another form of government fraud.

When Social Security began forty years ago, its take per worker never exceeded $60 a year (always half from the worker and half from the employer). Now, the maximum tab is $1,930 a year. And by 1987 the combined employee-employer tax will be $6,092 for those in the highest bracket. All along the economic scale, taxes will be zooming.

Same Goal as Marx

When Social Security is stripped of all its cosmetic camouflage, it is clearly a scheme designed to gain political power and to redistribute wealth. Karl Marx had the same goals in mind, and his program wasn't so cleverly disguised. If, instead of Social Security, America's working millions had been able to put their dollars to work in industry via private investment programs, their return and the boost to the nation would be immense. The growing stagnation in America's industry has been caused by the stifling drag of too much government. Tripling Social Security taxes is like trying to cure the stagnation with suffocation.

The Social Security System should be scrapped. But it has to be done in such a way as not to abandon those who are already dependent on it. Those on a pension, or about to obtain one, must be guaranteed the promised benefits. But most who have paid into the system should have their funds returned. The consequences of continuing the Social Security fraud include economic ruin for most Americans, and for the nation itself.

SPEECH CLASS COMMERCIALS

By: Noemi Terrazas

Anyone walking into the speech class last week could have mistaken Room 2 for a T.V. Studio. Members of the were reenacting commercials seen frequently on television. Mrs. Bunsen said everyone preformed. Two of the best commercials featured Moses Benites eating "Wheaties" and Cathy Wills and Anna Marie Martinez eating an Oscar Meyer Bologna Sandwich. Moses walked in front of the camera and told everyone that he played for the Brackett Tigers and the "Wheaties" was the nutritious "Breakfast of Champions".

Cathy and Anna turned a plain green table into a pier and did the Oscar Meyer" commerical complete with fishing pole. If Anna Marie is selected as a Tiger Claw "Mystery Person" she may list "My Bologna Has a First Name.." as her favorite song. The speech class is now working on a five minute report.

GLASSER SAYS TV VIEWING TOO INTENSE

Children's television viewing habits may be causing discipline problems in the schools, Dr. William Glasser, nationally recognized educator, recently told the American Association of School Administrators.

While Glasser blames TV for causing apathy in children due to their intense viewing of the passive medium for too many hours, he says some positive things can be done.

First, TV viewing hours cain be curtailed, and children can be sent outside to play. This releases hostilities and agressions and allows children to grow within the social system of play, Glasser said.

Second, Glasser claims that TV deprives children's brains of "time out: to think, because TV keeps them so entertained, so captivated, that they don't just relax and ponder. Since children have not had their needed renewal growth periods, Glasser said, they are also less capable of learning in school.

Third, TV intimates that there are very simple solutions to very complex problems, which makes it difficult for children to cope with harsh life realities when they are faced with their own severe problems.

Glasser accuses TV of causing many of the discipline problems found in schools today. He notes that children who watch TV on a daily basis before they go to school are more hostile during the day, and he suggests that one positive approach is to encourage parents of school-age children not to allow TV in the morning.

WOOL CONTEST

The Texas Make It Yourself With Wool contest produced a national winner this year.

Ms. Ramona Skinner, Childress, took top senior honors in the Texas competition and for her efforts received a $300 scholarship from the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association. She then moved on to the national competition at Denver and duplicated her Texas win by capturing the national senior championship.

Other Texas representatives were junior state division winner Lisa Beth Letsinger of Rocksprings and adult winner, Carolyn Neighbors of Krum.

Comptroller's Report

AUSTIN--State Comptroller Bob Bullock said his Revenue Processing Division Tuesday made its largest deposit ever of taxes processed and collected in a single day, a record $100,286,060.78

The previous largest single-day deposit in the State Treasury by his department was $83,257,815.60 for May 18, 1977, Bullock said.

Bullock said Tuesday's deposit represented $70.3 million in state sales taxes, $14.3 million in city taxes and $2.4 million in motor vehicle sales tax.

Various other taxes collected by the Comptroller's Department made up the balance.

That ain't bad for one day's work," Bullock said of the record collections. "I just wish we could do it every day."

FARMERS TO EXPLORE JOJOBA POTENTIAL HERE

UVALDE--A firm interested in developing production of the desert plant, Jojoba, in Southwest Texas will meet with area farmers and ranchers here Saturday, February 18, at the Uvalde Fairgrounds at 1:30 p.m.

A representative of Jojoba Growers and Processors in Baltimore, Md., will discuss the feasibility of growing the Jojoba plant for seed in this area.

Jojoba is an evergreen desert plant native to the Sonoran desert of Mexico and the United States. Its native range is usually at the 2,000 to 4,000 feet elevation on well drained, coarse desert soils.

The plant matures to a height of six to eight feet and produces an acorn like capsule that usually produces one seed. These nuts are rich in edible oil.

In early days the Indians and white settlers used the nuts to make a coffee substitute. Jojoba oil is a product with numerous potential applications. It offers an unsaturated, liquid wax readily extractable from a plant source. The wax is almost identical chemically to sperm whale oil, and can be used in many industries as lubricants, paper coatings, polishes, electrical insulation, carbon paper, textiles, cosmetic and many others.

Research into the production of the plant and its uses is now being conducted in Arizona and California and test plots have been planted in the Trans-Pecos area of West Texas to determine the adaptability of the plant to that region.

ESP IN ENERGY

If all this time since you first heard the initials ESP you thought they meant extra sensory perception, you were only partially correct. Now the Alliance to Save Energy informs us that these letters have a new meaning in today's energy short America.

ESP also stands for Energy Savings Payback. Translated into pocket-book terms it means: How much money can you save by purchasing new home appliances which consume less gas and electricity. The expression used in the trade for these fuel savers is "energy efficient".

According to the American Gas Association which concocted this acronym ESP is a good selling point for marketing new appliances in an era of dwindling energy resources. "The cost of operation," says Paul Smith of the AGA, "Can have an even greater influence on appliance buying decisions than the initial purchase price of the appliance itself."

What he is talking about is the lifetime operating cost of a new efficient, even though more expensive appliance. For instance, a gas range with a continuously running pilot generally costs less to purchase than one with an automatic igniter. However, over the estimated 13-year life of these appliances, those with automatic igniters will burn about $100 less in gas.

So what the ESP promoters are saying is that you should select an appliance which, in the long run, cost less to operate. This is ESP---precisely one of the points the Alliance to Save Energy is trying to get across to consumers. Conservation, the Alliance points out, can be achieved by the wise selection of energy-efficient appliances and their wiser use.

TIPS FOR GREEN THUMBS

by: JOE TOWNSEND

FLOWER BEDS are troublesome but they are beautiful. Now is the time to prepare the soil. It should be loose and well pulverized. It would be good to fertilize it. In flowers it is generally better to buy bedding plants and put them out than to try to grow from seed. Some flowers such as zinnias and marygolfs grow well from seed but most others are difficult to germinate and grow. There are chemicals that can be used to control weeds and grass in the beds in case you do not enjoy continuous and tedious weeding and cleaning the beds. The largest problem in growing flowers is the watering. Some can easily be overwatered and will do no good. Others need much water. Only experience or proper advice can tell which is needed. If you begin now you can have beautiful beds of blooms until frost.

SHEEP & GOAT RAISERS NEWS

Sponsored by the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, Operation Dead Lamb is an attempt to obtain some form of documented inventory of lamb and kid kills by golden eagles. Producers are reminded to bag and freeze any suspicious lamb carcasses then drop them off at one of the area collection centers designated below.

From There, the carcasses will be taken to the San Angelo Research and Extension center for eventual posting by Dr. Bart O'Gara, University of Montana. Dr. O'Gara is one of the few nationally recognized authorities on golden eagles, and is capable of determining whether or not an individual animal was killed by an eagle.

The importance of documenting eagle predation cannot be stressed too heavily. As long as no form of documentation exists, eagle protectionists can and will maintain that predation is either minor or imaginary.

The recent revival of interest and controversy is graphic proof of that--after finally being forced to admit that eagles do kill lambs, the protectionists have dug in and held tight to the claim that such kills are "rare". Producers whose stock disappear like popsicles on a hot day know the truth, but have been powerless to prove it alone.

The now have the opportunity to prove it together, by taking suspected eagle kills to: Elvil's Grocery and Market, 1705 N. Milam, Uvalde (512) 278-9576; D & W Processing, Menard (915) 396-2101; Del Rio Locker Plant 515 Pecan, Del Rio (512) 775-2901; Kountry Korner Food Store, Lintersec-tion of Hwy 90 & 163, Comstock (512) 292-4466; Branding Iron Smoke House, Dee Tyler, Sonora (915) 387-2801; Priour-Varga Whse., Rockspring (512) 683-3970; Bernhard's Ingram Locker, Ingram (512) 367-5321; Mesa Packing CO., Hank Elliott, Old Alpine Hwy., Ft. ALABAMA COSHATTA INDIAN RESERVATION

INDIAN VILLAGE, Texas--The Sid Richard son Foundaiton of Fort Worth announced a Grant of $40,000 to the Alabama-Coushatta Indians. The money will be used to produce the fourth season of the play "Beyond The Sundown" in the Sundown Amphitheatre at the East Indian Reservation this summer.

Valleau Wilkie, Executive Vice-President of the Foundation stated "I visited the Sundown Amphitheatre and was impressed with the facilities and the Tibes' enthusiam for the play. This Historical Drama needs to continue as it is exciting, educational, and just a good place for a family to enjoy themselves, stepping out of the fast pace of today into the Tribes' fascinating past history."

The Tribes started the Historical Drama in 1975 and are requesting grants and donations for the 1978 season. The Trull Foundation of Palacios gave $5,000 and the Humphreys Foundation of Livery gave $15,000 for this year's

KENNY ROGERS, DOTTIE WEST TO HOST TV SPECIAL

Leading country music performers including stars of Nashville's Grand Ole Opry, will be among 100 entertainers headlining "The World's Largest Indoor Country Music Show", a two-hour special hosted by Kenny Rogers and Dottie West to be presented on the NBC Television Network in the Spring.

Announcement of the special event was made by Aaron Cohen, vice-president Program Administration, NBC-TV.

The show will be taped in March during a scheduled concert performance by the stars at the Pontiac Silverdome arena in Pontiac, Michigan.

Performers include: Roy Acuff (dean of country music); minnie Pearl (star of the Grand Ole Opry and queen of the county comedienes; Grandpa Jones (of Hee Haw) and his wife, Ramona; Bill Monroe, The osborne Brothers, Porter Wagoner, Little Jimmy Dickens, Don Williams, the Oak Ridge Boys; comedy team of Lonzo and Oscar; Wendy Holcombe Jeanne Pruett, Benny Dean, and harmonica virtusoso Charlie McCoy. Others will be announced.

President Carter's brother, Billy is scheduled to make an appearance on stage.

This special is the first non-sports network TV show to originate at the Pontiac Silverdome, home of the Detroit Lions. It is being produced by Rudy Callicutt Productions. Jim Fitzgerald is the executive producer. Callicutt and Fitzgerald are co-producers and Vicent Sacarza is the director.

Fitzgerald said: "This telecast will faithfully capture the events on stage. There will be no theatrical or electronic gimmicks, just pure country music entertainment. We also plan to take the TV audience backstage for glimpses of the excitement and chaos which take place when 100 musicians prepare to perform."

Rudy Callicutt Productions set the previous audience record for an indoor country music concert last April 16, when 27,000 fans were at the Capitol Center in Washington, D.C. The Pontiac concert is to be performed for nearly 80,000 people, further proof, if proof is needed, of the dynamic and continuing growth of country music's popularity. The company also produced a TV special for the NBC Television Stations, "County On Stage Backstage", with Fitzgerald as host.

production. The operation of the Theatre is highly professional and somewhat expensive to produce. The Tribes are still searching for an additional $4,000.

Chief Fulton Battise announced "The Sid Richardson Foundation assures us that the necessary funds will be available for the 1978 Summer Production of "Beyond The Sundown". Our people are very grateful for this help from the Trull, Humphreys, and Richardson Foundation".

The Outdoor Historical Drama will play nightly at 8:30 p.m. except Sundays from June 23 to August 26 this summer. The amphitheatre is on a hillside in the beautiful Big Thicket Forest of the Alambama-Coushatta Indian Reservation, 80 miles North of Houston
