At a special City Council Meeting on Thursday, August 28th. the Brackettville City COuncil not only rejected a rate increase request of the Brackettville TV Cable Company, they also directed the City's Municipal Attorney to give notice to the company that their franchise with the City would be cancelled in 90 days if service was not improved.

The council's action followed a public hearing on the rate ques tion held at the Civic Center the previous Monday night. The majority of the approximately 100 residents that attended the meeting not only objected to the rate increase, but, raised the question of Brackett was not receiving more channels as other South Texas com munities that were paying lower fees than the local company was charging. Many of those present complained of the poor service they were receiving from the company on the existing 4 channels that are supplied.

The CAVALRYMAN was informed that Mr. Ralph Brown, The City's Attorney, had prepared a letter that was being sent to Mr. Louie Younts and MR . Fred Brien (owners of the Brackettville Cable TV Company) who both reside in Del Rio, informing them of the Council's action.

Ferns are foliage plants unlike most plants, in that they reproduce by means of spores, not seeds.

Wild ferns grow throughout the world, and many of these are not suited to the home environment. Those that grow in the wild in the warmer regions are those that we are most familiar with as house plants.

Many ferns are epiphytes -those whose roots grow into vegetation of crevices of trees for physical support. They thrive in humid, shady areas.

Ferns reproduce by means of the spores found on the underside of the fronds. Inside these spore. cases are dust-size particles that scatter when the spore cases burst open. Some ferns also grow baby ferns on the fronds. These can be detached and used for pro-

SCREWWORM FIND IN KINNEY COUNTY, TEXAS, ENDS 102 DAY PEST FREE PERIOD

MISSION, TX--Eight worms M.M. Nelson of Rafter L Cattle Co. at Brackettville took from wounds in the heads of two sheep have been identified as this years second positive screwworm collection in the United States,

Dr. James E. Novy, director of the U.S.Department of Agriculture (USDA) Screwworm Laboratory, says the sample was collected in Kinney County, 22 miles northeast of Brackettville August 20 .. The only other known screwworm infestation in U.S.animals this year was identified April 15 in worms taken from lambs in Coleman County, Tx.

The Kinney County sample, collected August 20, arrived at the Animal and Adult female screwworm flies deposit their eggs on the edges of open wounds in warm blooded animals. As eggs hatch the tiny larvae (screwworms) enter the wound to feed on living flesh.

Since 1962 millions of screwworm flies have been reared each week on an artifical medium at the Screwworm Lab, rendered sexually sterile by exposure to radiation, and then released among wild populations. Eggs resulting from a sterile to fertile mating will not hatch, ending the screwworms' life cycle.

Since 1976 the U.S. effort has been matched by a joint Mexico-U.S. Program to eradicate the parasite from all the southwestern U.S. and most of Mexico. Successes this year had pushed the most northernly known edge of the wild screw worm population 200 and more miles south of the international border--until ident ification of this sample from Kinney County.

For some time no sterile screwworm flies had been distributed in the U.S. All flies produced at the Mission insectary had been released in Mexico.

With screwworms again known to be in theU.S., Novy urges pet owners and stockmen to carefully watch their animals for signs of screwworm infestation. He asks that samples of any worms found in wounds be sent to the Screwworm Lab for identification by specialists.

This is especially important now since almost the entire area at risk has received rain, says Novy, "This. has greatly improved the habitat for screwworms."

Kinney County LIBRARY

BADACTA

DEAR K.C.,

Demand is a strong governing factor in book selection. The public Library in the broad sense is an educational facility which leads in many directions to self improvement on the job, to help school children get better grades, to help business men make more money, and to help preachers write sermons that will keep their congregation awake (to name a few); but ultimately book selection must be tailored to the community's needs. A public library completely void of public interest would be a steril, stereotyped mockery in its worst form. Obviously then, for our public library collection to grow and mature into its greatest potential--- to be truly your library, your imput is essential. Let the Librarian know of your wants and needs. The Senate Finance Committee, working with unprecedented speed and in unprecedented harmony, has finished work on a tax cut.

The committee completed in one week a process that usually takes over a month, approving a tax reduction that will amount to $39 billion in 1981 and rise to $75 billion a year by 1985.

Many people are amazed that committee Democrats and Republicans could cooperate on a politically volatile issue like a tax cut, especially in the middle of a national election campaign.

But, based on my experience as Chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, I was not surprised. When I took over the JEC Chair almost two years ago, many people warned me that it was a highly partisan committee. They pointed out that it hadn't issued a unified report in 20 years.

The average report, cynics emphasized, consisted of two versions, one Democratic and one Republican, with dissenting views by individual committee members tacked on at the end for good measure.

Yet since 1979, the Joint Economic Committee has issued four major reports-all of them unified. The most recent, the JEC Mid-year Report for 1980, came out a few days ago, in the midst of an election year.

Ever since taking the helm of the Joint Economic Committee, I have worked to unite members on the need to revamp this country's tax policy to stabilize our economy, end inflation and create the jobs required to keep Americans at work

In its reports, the Joint Economic Committee has stressed the need for a tax policy that will spur savings and investment so we can put new tools in the hands of American workers. We must do this to gain a competitive edge on our trading partners in the world marketplace.

The committee has consistently called for an end to the traditional kinds of tax cuts that we've seen in this country since World War II. This traditional approach simply pumps money into the economy and kindles inflation.

Instead, we need a tax policy that will halt the unprecedented 18 months of declining productivity in the U.S. and will modernize this nation's productive capacity.

Recently we saw Democrats and Republicans on the Senate Finance Committee work hand-in-hand to craft just the kind of tax cut that Democrats and Republicans on the Joint Economic Committee have been advocating for several years.

I believe this indicates a broad agreement in this country on the need to stabilize our economy through bold, innovative action.

The Senate Finance Committee's tax bill will offer $22 billion in cuts to individual tax payers, much of it along lines I had proposed. For example, it reduces the so-called marriage tax "penalty" and it helps compensate people whose Social Security taxes will be increased next January.

The measure also would enlarge the "zero bracket amount"-what used to be called the standard deductionfrom $2300 to $2400 for a single taxpayer and from $3400 to $3600 for a married couple filing a joint return. The committee also included in this tax legislation the Bentsen bill to encourage investment by allowing accelerated depreciation on equipment and machinery and on commercial structures

This bill permits investors to depreciate equipment and machinery roughly 40 percent faster than they now can. It also vastly simplifies depreciation procedures in the tax code, something that will prove especially helpful to small businesses. This measure should go a long way in helping to lift our country's sagging rate of productivity.

And the bill would increase the capital gains tax exclusion for individuals from 60 to 70 percent. Back in 1978, I sponsored legislation which was enacted to raise this exclusion from 50 to 60 percent. So I'm pleased that we've prevailed again on this issue.

In short, the Senate Finance Committee has approved a carefully targeted, non-inflationary tax reduction designed to help restore prosperity and stability to our economy.

Plant Helath Inspection Service (APHIS) operated Screwworm Lab and identified August 27. Entomologist Bob Richard and a team of fly trappers immediately drove to Kinney County to begin efforts to learn how many fetile or wild, screwworm flies, may be in the area, and to monitor effectiveness of screwworm fighting efforts.

Dr. A.A.Belcher of the Texas Animal Commission and several livestock inspectrs immediately joined the effort to find and suppress the Kinney County screwworm population.

APHIS veterinary epidemologist Dr. Steve Smith had been working in the Del Rio area and immediately began studying the year's second screwworm find.

At the Mission Lab Novy said preparations were made to disperse Screwworm Adult Suppression System (SWASS) pellets in the area of the case from aircraft August 28. First aerial release of sterile screwworm flies in the area was also set for August 28.

Lillian Sheety has made a donation for a memorial to Mrs. Nipper.

One of the major authorition bills of every congress, authorizing expenditures by the Department of Defense, won approval in the House last week by a vote of 360-49. The bill provides $52.8 billion for fiscal '81 purchases of weapons, research and development of new military systems and sets military and civilian personnel ceilings. We acted on a conference report that was $340 million below the House-passed figure and $868 million above the Senate version.

Nearly $37.8 billion was authorized for weapon and equipment procurement, including $16.6 billion for aircraft and helicopters, $8.4 billion for new warships, and $2.3 billion for military tanks andother armored vehicles for the Army and Marine Corps. The authorization for military research, development and testing was $16.9 billion, while $120 million was authorized for civilian defense.

We included in the bill anumber of military pay and benefit programs previously approved in separate House bills and we raised the education requirements in another effort to improve the allvolunteer force.

OVER RIDE VA VETO

By an overwhelming vote of 401-5, the House voted to over-ride the President's veto of a bill that aims to maintain medical, dental and other health care services of the Veterans Asministration. Our hearings had shown that we needed to increase pay. rates to attract and reain skilled personnel who would provide the best possible care for our veterans, so we insisted on salaries that would insure VA hospitals had competent. personnel.

The same sentiment obviously prevailed in the Senate, where the vote was 84-0 to reject the veto. It was the first over-ride action of President Carter's administration, but even those of us who generally support him wanted excellent health care provided by VA hospitals.

MORE ENERGY BILLS

The HOuse continued to advance our nation's energy program in actions last week. B y a vote of 365-7, we approved an experimental laboratory to develop a fusion energy system. Nuclear fusion or the harnessing of hydrogen istopes in a doughnut-shaped device called a tokamak, may have the potential to produce huge amonts of energy and while the project may cost $10 to $20 billion over the next 20 years, I am aware that oil imports will cost us $90 billion this year alone. I voted for the bill as a wise investment in our nation's future.

WE also passed by voice vote a bill providing greater federal attention to the safe operation of nuclear power plants. We know that nuclear plants are now safer that other significant power sources, but the Three Mile Island accident showed that more improvements can be made. We, therefore, directed careful study by the Department of Energy of the entire nuclear fuel process.

We also looked so another energy source when we passed the wind energy study bill, authorized federal aid to projects that may develop electric power from new systems that use the wind.

NEW FIRE ANT WAR

The Department of Agriculture advised me that it would share the costs of a new war on fire ants in Texas and four other southern states. A new product, called Amdro, has been conditionally registered for aerial application, the only truly effective way to cover range lands, pastures and farm fields.

Colonies of these anis build large mounds that can damage farm equipment injure cattle, and cause human" reactions ranging from discompfort to infection that may be fatal. I have supported efforts to develop an effective yet safe insecticide, and welcome the scientists' finding that we now have one.

COPING WITH FINANCIAL CRISIS

Texas farmers and ranchers continue to be caught in a severe cost-price squeeze points out Carl Esser, County Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service Texas A&M University System.

They have had to deal with sharp increases in the cost of energy, interest and other production inputs while farm prices have continued under pressure. To add to their misery, the state is now in the grips of a severe drought.

To cope with this crisis situation of economic survival, producers need to take a close look at possible adjustments in the areas of financing, makreting and production economics, says Esser.

To curb rampaging inflation the Federal Reserve Foard and the federal government launched programs early this year to tighten money supplies and restrict credit. Resulting skyrocketing interest rates and tightening credit hit famers and ranchers hard.

However, interest rates have started down recently, with a prime rate of 11-12 percent forecast by Novem ber, notes Esser. But interest rates on farm loans will likely fall more slowly than the prime rate, just as they lagged behind the prime rate when interest rates were increasing.

While producers have generally been able to obtain loans to cover operating costs, loans to finance capital expenditures have been hard to come by. Now, through the Economic Emergency Loan Program, $1 billion has been made available to states ($31,859,000 to TExas) to help farmers and ranchers pay installments on existing debts, re finance existing farm debts, re-organize farms to make them more viable, or pay farm operating expenses. Where drought has severely reduced farm income, emergncy loan funds are being expanded for use by eligible producers. The availability of loan funds to finance capital expenditures in 1981 will be influenced mainly by how well producers repay their 1980 debt commitments and by the projected farm income picture at that time, explains Esser. Many farmers may have a tough time qualifying for credit in 1981 due to their deteriorating net worth statement.

A side effect of the dry, hot weather, however, is less production and a higher price level for some commodities. This may contribute to a substantial improvement in 1981 income #### for many Texas farmers.

To help obtain financing for the year ahead, producers must know how to prepare financial statements and how to apply for emergency credit. Key tools necessary to negotiate financing of any type are the cash flow statement, income statement and balance sheet, says Esser.

The cash flow statement provides a monthly summary of expected cash outf* (for operating expenses, debt servici..., necessary capital expenses and family living) and cahs inflows (from farm products sales, off-farm income and other available sources.)

The income statement provides a summary of operating expenses and income for the farm's opeation over a specified period, usually one yearl

Finally, the balance sheet provides a financial summary of all assets and liabilities of the farm business as of a specific date.

For in-depth information dealing with the current economic pooblems faced by farmers and ranchers, Esser suggests a copy of "Coping with Economic Crisis in Agriculture," available at the county Extension Office.
