Timely Moisture Benefits May Planting Prospect

Corn, Onions Are Thriving; Wheat Growth 'Slowed Down'

It's planting time in Bailey County, and Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley says that approximately May 1 or so will be time for cotton and grain sorghum planting in this area.

Recently, producers were concerned about a lack of rainfall needed to help replenish diminished moisture.

5-Area Telephone Presents Three Area Scholarships

Three scholarships were given to area graduating seniors by Five Area Telephone Cooperative, Inc. These three scholarships were made available through the Cooperative by the First Bank of Muleshoe.

Receiving this year's $400 scholarships were:

Carmen Teresa Espinoza, of Muleshoe High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Camilo Espinoza, Muleshoe.

Second recipient was Steven Neal Bradshaw, Lazbuddie High School. He is the son of Donnie Bradshaw of Abilene, and his guardian is Lloyd Bradshaw, Lazbuddie.

Don Denny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jon Denny, is the third recipient. He will be a graduate of Bledsoe High School.

It was explained that the scholarships may be used in any college or university of the student's choosing. They are paid in four checks of $100 each semester for the first four semesters the students are in college. The scholarships can be used only if the student is enrolled in college, trade school or a technical training institute.

Kathryn Taylor, office manager said, "The employees, directors and members of Five Area Telephone Cooperative Inc. wish to congratulate these students for their outstanding achievements."

"Since then," said Tanksley, "we have received good rainfall amounts in April. Hopefully, another one to two inches of rainfall will come. That would put us in an excellent moisture situation."

"Unfortunately, there are still some dry areas that need additional rainfall in order to plant."

Texas Crop and Reporting issued a report breaking down the 14 different reporting areas of the state. Only three of the areas have received 80 to 100 percent of normal rainfall for the year.

"Many areas of the state are going through severe drought conditions at this time. The crop prospects downstate continue to decline," said Tanksley. "But, we are one of the three areas that has received average or normal rainfall."

"Based on moisture observations, we will just have to use good judgment and sound management making decisions about planting, and conserve the moisture we do have."

The County Agent also said weather conditions continue to not favor getting a good start on crops due to very cool temperatures.

He spoke of starting some days, as late as the past week, with freezing temperatures, and often accompanied by high winds.

According to research, most cotton responds to 60 degree or above soil temperature, with warm days and nights for good germination.

In this area, soil temperature is still very low, registering less than 60 degrees over a 10 day average. This cool average will cause seedling disease and germination problems, said the county agent, unless the cotton seed planted is of very good quality.

Lubbock CofC Group In Muleshoe

Alighting from a Greyhound bus in Muleshoe Thursday afternoon were realtors, bankers, real estate people, insurance people, SPS employees and others. They were all, more than 30 of them, in Muleshoe representatives from the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. And, they were in Muleshoe on a Community or 'goodwill' tour.

Hosted at the Bailey County Civic Center, the group was in Muleshoe to boost 'togetherness' especially when it comes to facing the Texas Legislature or government agencies in Washington.

Lubbock CofC spokesman, Bob Gaffga, said, "We are trying to be good neighbors. Our trip to Muleshoe is just a small way of saying 'Thanks' to you."

Gaffga told the group that the entire area, including the small cities and towns around Lubbock need to present a united front to the Legislature and to Washington. He said it would be helpful to both Muleshoe and Lubbock, to work together on various political things.

Clint Peat, co-manager of the Heritage House Inn was winner of a drawing conducted by the Lubbock group. He was presented a bottle of wine.

Toni Eagle, manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, gave brief remarks and introduced Ron Montgomery, president of the Muleshoe CofC.

Montgomery told the group, "We appreciate your visit, and appreciate you being here, but we're still going to fight tooth and nail to keep our dollars in Muleshoe." However, he made the comments with a smile, and went on to tell the group "I certainly boost the idea of us pulling together. Otherwise, one day, we're going to find Austin and Dallas telling us what to do."

Always Running-Toward A New Challenge!

ALICE LILES

(Editor's Note: This week, it's back into the teaching field for a look at an unusual and very 'classy' lady. Come along, while we become better acquainted with Alice Liles.)

It was a long way from Rosenberg, TX to Muleshoe, and went by way of Arkansas, before Alice Liles moved to Muleshoe with her husband, Bill and children, Caroline and A. J. But, here they are, in Muleshoe -- and a very busy family, indeed.

But, this story is about Alice Liles, gifted/talented teacher at Watson Junior High School, and some of her accomplishments.

Let's take a look at another side of this unusual woman -- who thrives on personal challenges.

She considered herself a 'jogger' until she attended a 20-year class reunion in 1984 and started to fill out a form, updating her activities since graduating from high school.

On another form, she noticed that a friend, "a beauty queen, drum major type," had filled out the form that she was a runner. Alice said she began to revise her thinking about being a jogger and sent off for runner information. Becoming a runner became a personal challenge. She says she wanted to see if she could do it.

Her biggest challenge was deciding to run in the Houston Tenneco Marathon in 1987. With a goal to finish the race running -- she didn't want to walk in -- "and, I didn't," she said.

Now, remember, a marathon is 26 miles, 385 yards. Alice says there's lots of four mile days of running/behind entering the Houston marathon. According to all literature, she wasn't really prepared for a marathon, but she did enter, and did finish -- running.

"If you can run, or endure, a marathon, you can do just about anything," she believes. She has run in a couple of 10-K's, which are a little over six miles, but the ultimate is a marathon. True runners build up endorphines, which is the "runner's high," she says, and people get addicted to running and to the 'high' that accompanies it.

Of course, Alice didn't 'just take up running.' Instead of going to lunch when she was a student at Texas A&M, she would run. She also played a lot of volleyball, to further build up her body and her stamina.

After Caroline was born, she started running again to get back in shape.

"I feel better when I'm running," she said. "I want to try Houston again, but don't know if I will be prepared."

"My family likes for me to run," she added. "If I don't run, I get grouchy. That's part of the runner's high. I like the physical part of running. I like what it can do for you, and I like the quiet time."

On a spring or summer night, you can find Alice, accompanied by her dog and some of their friends, running along by moonlight. She says winter time is very hard for a runner, when the weather gets too bad to be out running, and she always eagerly awaits spring to start running again.

Another very challenging aspect in the life of Alice Liles would be her gifted/talented class at Watson Junior High School.

She explained that gifted/talented students are the kids that drive the teachers crazy -- asking all the questions.

She explains that gifted/talented students are those kids who are literally gifted. They are on a higher level and are quicker thinkers.

Alice is very enthusiastic about a conference on 'Thinking' she attended recently with a few other Muleshoe teachers.

The conference is designed to have teachers give a high level thinking challenge to all the students, to all students who are taught under the 'Gifted' umbrella -- to take that challenge to expand the program to all kids.

The teacher, who spends very long hours preparing for her classes, as she also teaches seventh grade reading, said high achievers are sometimes hard to single out.

They are tested carefully for subject aptitude, creativity. She also said with some high achievers neatness may not count. They are so busy 'achieving' they don't pay much attention to anything else. Then, you turn that around to the other extreme -- and the student may be a perfectionist.

Her G/T classes are given

Pioneer Woman Of The Plains To Be Named At Celebration

The sixtieth Pioneer Round-up, scheduled for Saturday, May 21, will for the twenty-ninth year, honor a pioneer woman of this area.

Deadline for nominations for the "Pioneer Woman of the Plains" has been set for May 6, according to Charlotte Malone, chairman of the Program Committee. The Plainview Business and Professional Women's Club is the sponsoring organization of the Pioneer Round-Up.

Entry blanks for the "Pioneer Woman of the Plains" have been mailed to civic clubs, women's clubs and organizations in Plainview and surrounding areas. Individuals may also submit names to be considered for this honor.

All entries must be signed by the organization or individual who is submitting the letter of nomination and must state whether or not she would be able to attend the Round-Up, if selected.

The nominee must have been a pioneer resident of the High Plains and be at least 80 years of age. Of most importance, this woman should be one of the early settlers to make her home on the Plains and have a true "pioneer" spirit. A short biography of the nominee must be submitted, including her outstanding contributions to the home, church, community and general welfare of her fellow-man.

A group of judges will select the winner based on information submitted. The number of times a person is nominated will have no effect on the selection of the honoree. All entries must be postmarked no later than May 6, 1988. Entry blanks and additional information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Malone, 293-3635 or 293-7481.

Announcement of the "Pioneer Woman of the Plains" will be made at the evening activities of the 60th Pioneer Round-Up during the program beginning at 8 p.m. at the Ollie Linder Center.

Pat Ray, president of the Plainview BPW Club, said other events of this year's Round-Up include the reception beginning at 6 p.m.; the program at 8 p.m. and the square dance following at 9 p.m., all in the Ollie Linder Center on the south edge of Plainview on Highway 87.

Coming Home?

There's widespread speculation that the next president will begin bringing home the hundreds of thousands of American soldiers and dependants in western Europe (most of them in West Germany).

This is likely because in the Gorbachev era few in Europe think the Russians will attack the western democracies. Few believe the United States would now resort to mutual ICBM destruction in case of fighting there.

The trend in NATO today is toward more and better conventional arms. Intermediate-range nuclear missiles are being removed. The number of ICBMs held by the superpowers is to be reduced.

Russian leaders have gone on record repeatedly pledging that they will not attack the West, will not be the first to employ nuclear weapons. While this cannot be accepted without caution, this is a major, official, change of tone.

The U.S. Army keeps 300,000 troops, plus dependants, in Germany. There are air bases in Great Britain, Spain, Italy and elsewhere, and U.S. naval bases.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—Residents of Muleshoe Nursing Home who celebrated their birthdays in April were honored with a birthday party Thursday afternoon in the day room of the Nursing Home. The Needmore Community Club hosted the party and Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Shanks and the club members provided the music. (L-R) Julia Hawkins was born on April 20, 1903; and Juanita Snow was born on April 15, 1903.

Salmonella In Eggs A Safety Issue

Recent reports of salmonella in eggs are causing confusion for consumers, says a poultry marketing specialist with Texas A&M University's Agricultural Extension Service.

According to Dr. David Mellor, the Center for Disease Control (CDC) first reported a correlation between eggs and increased incidence of salmonella enteritidis in 1987. Concern about a salmonella in eggs was voiced again at a New England Poultry Health Conference in late March.

What's new about the CDC report is that it points the finger at salmonella bacteria within the egg, not just on the shell, he said.

"Egg-washing has been shown to be effective in removing egg exteriors of salmonella enteritidis," explained Mellor. "Most eggs are clean, but are still run through machines which wash them with a detergent, sanitize and then dry the eggs both from market appearance and as a safety measure."

When it comes to possible salmonella contamination inside eggs, the poultry specialist said the findings are still unclear.

"There have been no serious outbreaks of salmonella enteritidis since September of 1987. Researchers at Cornell University tested eggs from producers providing 80 percent of the New York state supply and found no evidence of salmonella enteritidis," he remarked.

Mellor said that in inoculation studies conducted at Cornell last summer, chickens which received salmonella bacteria isolated from a human outbreak quickly spread the bacteria throughout their own system, but there was no evidence that it spread to egg interiors.

Although Mellor conducted similar inoculation studies with the same negative results in the 1960's, he said further research is needed.

"The poultry industry is supporting more testing, including some with different strains of salmonella and immunosuppressed chickens. But as it stands now, the evidence is incomplete."

"We still don't know if salmonella enteritidis outbreaks can be attributed to eggs or food containing eggs," he emphasized.

Marilyn Haggard, a food safety expert and nutritionist, also with Texas A&M's Extension Service, said that the possibilities of contracting a food-borne illness from salmonella in eggs is remote.

"As with any food-borne illness, the very young, the elderly and people whose immune systems are compromised due to illness are most vulnerable," Haggard noted.

"But none of this means people have to stop eating eggs. Both CDC and the Egg Board recommend that eggs be thoroughly cooked, she said. "That means a hard yolk rather than soft-boiled or sunny-side up eggs."

She also advises taking the same precautions with eggs as other perishable foods; keep them refrigerated before preparation and don't let them sit out at room temperature for more than two hours, before or after cooking.

Cakes and some breads may have uncooked batter on the bottom center. Microwave until a wooden toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean.

Quiches may have uncooked area on the top center. Microwave until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean.

Rebekah Lodge Celebrates 169th Anniversary

Muleshoe Rebekah Lodge No. 114 met in regular session Tuesday night, April 26 with Novella Price, Noble Grand, presiding.

Adele Tompkins, Lodge Deputy, held a school of instructions.

Louise Allen thanked everyone for their cooperation this past year to make the association a success. Sandi Robinson read the history of Odd Fellowship in America. This is the 169th anniversary of Odd Fellowship.

Refreshments were served to 17 members by Pat and Audrey Langfitt.

The following is the history of Odd Fellowship taken from the IARA (International Association Rebekah Assembly) news paper:

Throughout the broad domain of Odd Fellowship, the members of the fraternity annually observe April 26th as the anniversary and founding date of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in Baltimore, Maryland.

This fraternity was organized in England some time during the eighteenth century, and it has often been stated that the membership was composed mainly of mechanics and tradesmen. In the year 1803, a coach spring maker, named Thomas Wildey, joined Lodge No. 17 in London, England. He served in every office in the lodge and assisted in organizing Morning Star Lodge No. 38 in another section of the city.

It was in 1817, that he and his wife emigrated to America, arriving in Baltimore. Being a good workman, he found immediate employment. A year later, he became acquainted with John Welch, a house and ship painter, and upon learning that Welch had been an Odd Fellow in England, Wildey decided to try and organize a lodge in Baltimore.

After publishing several notices in the Baltimore American, three former members, John Duncan, a shoemaker; John Cheatham, a painter; and Richard Rushworth, a blacksmith, responded to the notices and on Monday evening, April 26th, in the Seven Stars Tavern, Washington Lodge No. 1, was self instituted. The five men gathered in a small candle lighted room on the second floor of the structure and elected Thomas Wildey as their Noble Grand.

Thus began Odd Fellowship in America under rather unfavorable circumstances. Only a few years passed since Baltimore had been the scene of the Revolutionary War. Perilous times were still prevalent, for the country had not recovered from the dire efforts of the War of 1812. Inasmuch as these two great struggles had been against England, the hatred of Englishmen was intense, and no place in the United States was this hatred greater than in Baltimore.

Each of the new members of Washington Lodge was a mechanic of little or no social standing, and all of them had been residents of this country less than two years.

Thomas Wildey in his remarks to his brothers that evening said:

"Upon each one of us

depends principally the success of our Society.

New members are our first need, but we should make an effort to secure only those members who will prove a credit to our Society. Regular attendance at our meetings, and a personal good deportment on the outside, will help to make the residents of our city respect our Odd Fellowship.

From this humble beginning, Odd Fellowship grew and prospered with hundreds of thousands of men and women affiliating with the Order. Odd Fellowship looks forward to the day when one law shall bind all nations and all people of the world and that law shall be the law of Universal Brotherhood.

Sovereign Grand Master Percy Henry has asked all Odd Fellows and Rebekahs to observe this very important anniversary, and what better way to observe our "Founders Day" than to hold a special Anniversary Initiatory Degree" or "Anniversary Rebekah Degree" to welcome new members into our fellowship.

Future Journalist Records Field Trip To Clovis Zoo

(Editor's note: Occasionally, some youngster from one of the local schools comes up with something different, and most definitely unusual. This week, the third grade class from DeShazo Elementary School, all 159 of them, accompanied by teachers and parents, went on a field trip.

During the field trip, one student, and one only, was noticed to be taking notes in a pad -- in fact, a lot of notes. She was encouraged to write a story from her notes. The third grader, is in the home room of Shera Foster, but it was Mrs. Jane Sanders, her Language Arts teacher, who encouraged the young daughter of Lillie Ham to write the following story.)

By: Keshia Torbit
Third Grade, DeShazo

The whole third grade went on a field trip to Clovis. We went there to the Zoo.

I saw forty seven animals there. I will tell you what I saw at the zoo. I will also talk about the animals.

First, I saw some fish of all kinds. They live in a big fish tank. Then I saw a raccoon. It is very shy. A person who worked there got him out of his shelter and fed him.

On a sign I saw a big spider web with eggs. Then I saw a bird that was called a ring-neck dove. In the next cage there was a bird called a silver pheasant.

There was a humongous cage with three monkeys inside. The monkeys are from South America. They are endangered. There is also a cat called an ocelot. It was neat.

The ocelot is endangered. Next I saw a bobcat. He likes to stay inside of his shelter.

Clovis Zoo takes good care of their animals.

I saw some billy goats. You can buy food at Clovis zoo for 25 cents each.

There is a whole bunch of mules there.

Never feed any of the animals that eat meat.

I also saw an arctic fox. It lives at the North Pole. It stays in temperature of 60 degrees below 0. I also saw a silver fox. The colors of it is black and gray. Next I saw a Mexican red fox. One of them is pregnant.

Then I saw a cape buffalo. The cape buffalo is related to the water buffalo. They also have a javelina. Then I saw an ostrich. Their ostrich is seven feet tall. There is a deer that is called a fellow deer. I also saw a black buck antelope. Next I saw a guanaco.

Then I saw an African elephant. I feel sorry for him because he has a big hole in his trunk. His skin is real baggy.

In the water I saw some white swans. Also I saw some ducks and a pelican. I also saw a black swan.

I saw an American elk that is from the west coast. I also saw a sandhill crane. I also saw a Texas longhorn. Then I saw a turkey. Next I saw an American bison. I saw some geese, too. I also saw an Aoudad. Then I saw two vultures.

Then I saw a cougar that weights 200 pounds. I also saw a jagler. There was a lot of doves.

Clovis zoo also has a place where you can pet the animals. Don't chase the animals because it will scare them.

At the petting zoo there was some deer and a lamb and a baby goat. There is a lot of baby animals in the petting zoo. My favorite animal is the rabbits. As we get out of the petting zoo we see the last animal. It was a white faced Capuchin monkey.

The second place we went to was the Mesman Dairy. Not everybody can go to the dairy because the school made special arrangements to go there.

We saw all sorts of things.

We saw a newborn calf. They have seven hundred cows there. They also make cheese out of the cow's milk.

I had a lot of fun on our field trip.

said, "We have not accumulated over 10 heat units for cotton in April; and about 100 heat units for corn. Heat units are vital for the growth and yield of the crops."

He said turps are anticipated to be a lot heavier this year, as they are already showing up heavier in alfalfa and wheat. "We are looking for more and a much heavier infestation," said Tanksley. "This may be a good year to use a systemic insecticide."

"I would like to report there is cotton and grain sorghum planting on some acreage in the county," he added. "But producers still need to be very cautious about planting too early."

Corn conditions across the county have been good, and is up to a good stand in many fields at this time. However, the cool temperatures have not allowed real fast growth at this time.

"Some of the old timers feel the onion crop is off to a very good start," he added. "With the good start, the plant population in the fields is excellent."

Most potatoes are progressing very well, and are "hillingup" as they are expected to be coming through the ground within the next few days.

Irrigation has been needed on most crops, reported Tanksley, and wheat acres across the county is in a number of different stages of growth and conditions.

The county agent anticipates much "shorter" wheat this year, and he says the yield will most likely be only average.

The area agronomist is cautioning producers to protect the wheat flag leaf from the Russian wheat aphid, because the flag leaf is responsible for about 60 percent of the yield.

"The cool weather has kept the Russian wheat aphid somewhat in check," says Tanksley, "but, we still anticipate a build-up in numbers when warmer weather conditions arrive. The producer should be continuing to scout and check their fields."

Wheat is approximately at the flag leaf and heading out stage at this time. I have noted a couple of fields being cut for hay already," added Tanksley.

He reported alfalfa as growing very slowly, once again, due to the continued cool weather conditions.

Range conditions in the county are said to be improved greatly due to the recent moisture. Pastures are expected to be good now until early summer.

We hope to see you there."

upper level books. They read, then discuss the books as a class. One particular favorite was reading '1984' in 1984, and talking about 'Big Brother' and an Orwellian world. "The kids did beautifully with that book," she commented.

A school wide voter registration program was undertaken, using the exact method used for registering and voting as adults would.

The importance of voting was taught, as well as the importance of being registered to vote.

English skills and responsibility were taught -- as those who had failed or refused to register to vote were not allowed to vote in school elections. In order to vote, the student must present his or her 'green' registration card. They quickly learned the importance of being registered to vote if they wanted to participate in their own school elections.

Taking her students into the world of careers, Alice Liles takes the students, when possible, on field trips. Of course with new regulations, field trips have been cut back. But they still manage to get in a few trips.

Such as a day at Cannon AFB, Radio, TV, newspaper and Don Caldwell's Studio in Lubbock. The GTE exchange in Littlefield. Mahon Library for research at Lubbock.

In Muleshoe, such places as Bob Stovall Printing; a trip to the jail and to watch an autopsy (necropsy) on a cow performed by Dr. Jerry Gleason. They have spent a day in Bailey County court, with Judge Gordon H. Green presiding.

Alice says one of her deep regrets is that she cannot take her regular classes on some of the field trips made by her G/T students.

She has taken her class to see 'Cats' the Broadway play, at Lubbock. She said she would definitely encourage every parent to see that their children see a Broadway play.

When asked why she became a G/T teacher, she said, "I saw it as a challenge. I love it. I also see it as a chance for me to learn new things. Anytime I take them (the students) some place, they really keep you hopping."

After a student asked, "Why do they call it 'dry cleaning' when it's not?" the entire class visited Lambert Cleaners to watch the entire operation.

The students have worked with cameras, showing a story in 'picture sequence' working with a repetition of circles, squares and lines.

They watched a movie, "It's A Wonderful Life," which dealt in part with a pharmacist. Then they visited Damron Drug to see how prescription drugs are dispensed.

"I try real hard to instill in the kids the fact that there is a difference in opinion -- there's more than one way to look at something," added the teacher.

Now, Alice Liles did not start out as a GIT teacher. Certified to teach English and P.E., she started out first teaching Language Arts, then P.E.

At Edna, she set up a P.E. program and coached for four years. Alice said she was very proud of the P.E. program she instituted for the school at Edna.

When she moved to Muleshoe, she declined an offer to continue coaching, and went to work at junior high as a reading teacher. When Linda Marr moved to high school, Alice became a G/T teacher.

Nearly three years ago, looking for something new to do, another challenge came along. She trained to be a disk jockey and worked weekends and summers at KMUL Radio in Muleshoe. She still occasionally works a shift 'on the boards'.

"I love music, all kinds of music," she said. "And, it was just something I wanted to see if I could do -- and I did."

Basically an animal lover, Alice does admit her favorite animals are horses and cats.

She looks just as home aboard a horse as she looks in front of her classroom, or running down a country road, accompanied by her dog.

As a child, she wanted a horse very badly, but was very 'protected' by her family. At the age of 10, she lost a 16-year old sister to leukemia, so her parents became very protective, and refused to buy her a horse.

So, she made a 'deal' with a friend who had horses. She would feed a horse, and work it out, take care of it, if she would be allowed to ride it -- and that worked until she was a freshman. At that time her parents bought her a horse.

This was 27 years ago, and she still has the same horse. It is penned behind the Liles home. "I don't ride her anymore," said Alice, "but, I keep her. She's my best friend."

As a youngster, Alice participated in horse shows, 4-H Horse Clubs, and raised four colts.

Since coming to Muleshoe, she has worked cattle a couple of times, and says she did it 'just for fun.'

Alice's husband, Bill, is manager of the Federal Land Bank. They are the parents of Caroline, a senior and A. J., a sophomore, at Muleshoe High School.

Betcha' Alice Liles is casting her eyes around for a new challenge -- right now -- wanna bet!

SCAC Names EMS Group As 'Citizens'

The Student Community Action Club held its monthly meeting Tuesday, April 19 at the Depot. The President, Armando Del Toro, opened the meeting and Elizabeth Posadas said the opening prayer. She also said the minutes from the last meeting. Deborah Lackey gave the treasurer's report.

Christy Maia then introduced the guest speakers, the Bailey County Ambulance Service. The individual members gave their names, and Rachelle Watkins gave a presentation which included the areas the ambulance serves, the volunteers of the service, and the qualifications that each level of worker must have. At the end of presentation, Deborah Lackey surprised the ambulance service with a plant and the announcement that they had been chosen as the April Citizens of the Month.

The meeting continued with the discussion of the upcoming Celebrity Auction. Times that the members were to work was discussed. Deborah Lackey made a motion on how much should be spent by the Club at the auction. That motion was passed.

Armando then gave a report on how the new members will be chosen. Each officer and New Member Selection Committee will interview a prospective member. Another meeting will be held to vote the new

DOING A ...
MAN SIZED JOB

Heat ... sweat ... fatigue ... blisters ... aches ... Dad says its all a part of "carrying my share of the load." He also says that, "it's important that I help make provisions for the present and near future." But he says "that it is even more important because I am preparing for the days ahead when I am a full grown man." Sometimes I think that my Dad has the wisdom of Solomon, that's this thing that I learned about at church ... and that's another thing that Dad says is important ... "that I go to church regularly, so that I can learn about God, and prepare my spiritual life for the future, too." You know ... Dad must think it's important ... He goes to church, too.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Mid-Year Crop And Livestock Report Sought

Beginning June 1, representatives from the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service will be contacting farmers and ranchers across the state to help set the 1988 planted acreage estimates and mid-year livestock inventories. "These surveys are very important this year because they will be the first measure of the impact of the changes in the 1988 national farm program," state statistician Dennis Findley explained.

"Information from these surveys will provide Texas producers with solid facts and figures they can use when making their production and marketing plans in light of these changes."

Individual reports will be combined with other reports to set state estimates. Results of the confidential interviews, conducted by telephone or in person by field enumerators, will be published later this summer. The 1988 acreage forecast will be published July 12, and the mid-year cattle inventory will be published July 29.

"Remember, these are sample surveys, so if you are contacted it is important to provide the requested information, since one report represents similar operations of the same size and type. Our estimates can be no better than the numbers producers provide," Findley added.

Vital Records

Vital records are just that... vital. We need access to them. In this age of bureaucratic documentation, everyone has need of copies of records of birth, death, marriage or divorce. An application for benefits from the Veterans Administration or Social Security, a passport or marriage license must have the information contained in these records and sometimes copies of the records themselves.

All these records are stored permanently by municipalities, counties, states and the Federal government.

The Consumer Education Research Center, a national non-profit consumer group, found that there was little uniformity on where the records were available and the costs. In some states, birth records are kept by the city and in others by the county or state. To further complicate matters, often older records are held in a different place than current ones. In addition, the addresses where the records are kept are changed quite often.

The consumer group found many people had difficulty in locating the records they needed in many cases it was necessary to make expensive long distance calls just to find out where to write, what information was required and how much money to send. For that reason CERC is publishing a book entitled WHERE TO WRITE FOR VITAL RECORDS which contains a state-by-state listing of the addresses and telephone numbers of where each record can be found, the cost of a copy of the document and sample form letters containing all the information needed to get these and other vital documents.

To obtain a copy of this useful book, send $5 to CERC, Documents, 439 Clark Street, South Orange, N.J. 07079 or 1-800-872-0121 for credit card orders.

For those whose records are in foreign countries there are instructions on where to write for birth and death records of U.S. citizens as well as birth records for alien children adopted by U.S. citizens.

Robert L. Berko, executive director, of CERC says that originally the book was published to satisfy the needs of persons applying for various benefits but many others have found it useful. He has received letters from libraries, coroners, law enforcement, social agencies, credit grantors, collection agencies, stock ownership tracers, lawyers, persons searching for missing heirs and even those interested in searching their family roots. All these and others have found use for a book that helps them locate and prove the status of individuals.

Many times documents can be used to prove things other than what they record. For instance, one woman wrote to the group telling them that a birth certificate for her child proved her residence at that time in the United States and helped her in efforts to become a citizen.

Dr. Crawford Retires

The most significant change in family life observed in almost three decades of working closely with homemakers is the number of mothers employed outside the home although they have pre-school children, says the retiring district director for home economics with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. Catherine Crawford retired April 1, ending 28 years of service with the Extension Service, an arm of the Texas A&M University System. She joined the agency in 1960 as Howard County Extension agent for home economics. In 1971 she was named South Plains District director, supervising and administering agents in 20 counties surrounding Lubbock.

"At the time I started to work with Extension, mothers with pre-school children, for the most part, didn't enter the job force until the children got into school," Crawford said. "Therefore, they were present to take a primary role in the care and upbringing of the children."

She feels that many times the decision to work outside the home "hasn't been free choice as much as necessity to maintain the lifestyle they want for their families."

Working mothers also have had to take "a really different approach to their own lives," the veteran educator observed. When the working mother spends some eight hours on the job and then has the primary functions within the household which she maintained previously, it drastically reduces her free time.

"It really has left (the working mother) without very many decisions to make about her time," Crawford said.

This, in turn, has brought about a major change in the way the Extension Service plans and presents educational programs for mothers with young children, compared to 1960, Crawford said.

"At the time I started with Extension, it wasn't uncommon to have a large number of younger women involved in Extension Homemaker Clubs," she said. "We could do clothing construction workshops, food workshops, things like that, and have really good attendance. We could schedule them during school hours when women are free to get away from the house, and then get them home by the time their youngsters came home from school."

"Now, to reach a lot of the young homemakers we have to do programs at night or on Saturdays."

Crawford said Extension now makes more use of mass media, newsletters, and some types of correspondence course. She predicted the future will see more Extension education done on videotape so husbands and wives can check them out and use them whenever it is most personally convenient.

She said her Extension career has brought her satisfaction at two levels. In the first, as a county agent, she had the satisfaction of helping youths and adults "acquire skills and knowledge that helped them at that time or would help them with their daily living."

As a district director, Crawford said, her great satisfaction has been in getting to know students in high schools or colleges, tracking them through their courses, having the opportunity to hire some of them in their first professional position, and helping them grow and develop professionally.

A native of Wheeler, she is the daughter of a Methodist minister. She graduated from Spring-Lake Earth High School and received B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in home economics education from Texas Tech University. Prior to joining the Extension Service, she was a homemaker teacher at Denver City High School; instructor in food, nutrition and diet therapy at Scott and White Memorial Hospital School of Nursing; chief dietician at Santa Fe Hospital in Temple, and dietary consultant at Big Spring Nursing Inn and Medical Arts Hospital, Big Spring.

She married Delanie T. Crawford in 1948. They have three daughters and a son. All three girls have degrees in home economics and the son has a degree in engineering from Texas Tech.

In 1982, Dr. Crawford was named Texas Home Economist of the Year by the Texas Home Economics Association and Distinguished Home Economics Alumnus by the College of Home Economics at Texas Tech.

GTE Offers Several New Phone Options

GTE Southwest is now renting selected business telephone equipment to customers through its deregulated division - GTE Business Phone Systems, according to Bruce Cole, GTE vice president - marketing. Effective April 15, the types of rental offerings were either month-to-month or under the term for two to five years, depending on the type of system.

The rental offering will be only to GTE Southwest customers in towns where GTE provides the customer with local service. All rental rates will include maintenance.

Rental customers will have three options subsequent to contract expiration:

1. Customer may purchase the system at the price established at the time of the original rental.
2. Customer will have the option to remove the system.
3. If the customer does not select to purchase or remove the system, the monthly rate will be reduced to 50 percent of the then current rate and rental will continue. This 'stepdown' rental rate will also include maintenance.

New tax laws have made direct purchase of equipment less desirable to customers than in the past. In a recent market survey, more than 70 percent of the respondents indicated they were interested in a rental arrangement that included maintenance.

"The customer benefits are obvious," Cole said. "Not only are the tax advantages of ownership reduced but the customers need not invest their capital in a communications system. They retain their flexibility to move and expand, and, more important, they need not be concerned about maintenance."

Kiwanis Hear Speaker Talk About Water

By: R. A. Bradley

Fifteen members and six guests met Friday morning at the Old Corral for the weekly Kiwanis Club breakfast meet. Guests were Sam Reeves, B. F. Thigpen and Curtis Crofford, all from the South Amarillo Kiwanis Club. Charles Martin was guest of his dad, Don Martin and Jon Keith Turner was the guest of his dad, Keith.

Don Clapp led the club in the pledge to the flag and the invocation was given by R. A. Bradley. Brad started to give the friendship coin to his brother-in-law, Curtis Crofford from Amarillo, but was afraid that Curtis would not make it back to Muleshoe real soon. Brad gave the friendship coin to Keith Turner, because he has brought his son, Jon Keith, for the last two weeks.

Sweetheart Sue Haire was missed, as last week, she was in Odessa for UIL contest. Today, Sue and the Muleshoe Mighty 'M' Band are on their way to a band contest at 6-Flags. We wish them the best and hope they have lots of fun.

Carmon McCain, representative of the High Plains Underground Water District No. One was speaker.

This is the oldest and largest water district in the U. S.

Water is the most precious thing that we have and there is no substitute for water. Water is something that each and everyone of us use and too often is taken for granted.

Carmon stated that on the average, each person uses 165 gallons of water per day, or 60,225 gallons per year.

Through conservation efforts of everyone, Carmon was proud to report that the Ogallala Aquifer has risen .9 percent feet in 1987.

This was a very good program that each of us need to learn about -- Be Conservative!!

Soil Fertility Makes 'Big' Yield Difference

Soil tests reveal that soil fertility levels in the Southern High Plains of Texas will limit average crop yields to less than 300 pounds of lint per acre if producers do not apply fertilizers.

Cotton requires about 18 inches of water and from 50-60 pounds of nitrogen to yield 300 pounds of lint per acre. Five hundred eighty samples collected from 200 farms contained an average of 36 pounds of nitrate nitrogen in the top two feet of the soil.

These soil samples were collected in the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District's service area by the USDA-Soil Conservation Service and Water District personnel in December 1987 and January 1988 while making the pre-plant soil moisture survey.

Plant nutrient levels measured in the soil samples were nitrate nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, calcium, magnesium, zinc, iron, manganese, copper and sodium. In addition, soil pH and salinity were measured. Only nitrogen appeared to be low enough to limit crop production.

Cotton requires about 22 inches of water and 80-90 pounds of nitrogen to yield 500 pounds of lint per acre. If a higher yield goal of 750 pounds per acre of lint is desired, 30 inches of water and 110-120 pounds of nitrogen are needed. In addition to the nitrogen, 20 to 25 pounds of phosphorus (P205) are required for a yield goal of 500 pounds of lint per acre, while 35-40 pounds of phosphorus (P205) are required for a 750 pound yield. The sampled sites had an average of 122 pounds of phosphorus (P205) in the top two feet of the soil.

Research demonstration plots at Texas Tech University, on the Texas A&M University Research Station, and on producer's farms in 1987 did not show significant responses to the addition of phosphorus on cotton.

Nature provides about 20 pounds of nitrogen per acre each year from soil organism activities, soil chemistry interactions and from the atmosphere in this area where cotton generally follows cotton. It should be safe to assume that one-half of the nitrogen provided by nature will be available during the growing season.

If you add this 10 pounds of nature-provided nitrogen to the average of 36 pounds of nitrate nitrogen found in the top two feet of the soil, 46 pounds of nitrogen would be available for crop use during the growing season. This 46 pounds of nitrogen would support a cotton lint yield of a little less than 300 pounds of lint per acre, which would not be a break-even yield for most producers.

The average amount of nitrate nitrogen found in the top two feet of soil in Armstrong County was 69 pounds per acre. Bailey County had 16 pounds per acre. Castro County had 66 pounds per acre. Cochran County had 48 pounds per acre. Crosby County had 22 pounds per acre. Deaf Smith County had 97 pounds per acre. Floyd County had 51 pounds per acre. Hale County had 32 pounds per acre. Hockley County had 22 pounds per acre. Lamb County had 24 pounds per acre. Lubbock County had 16 pounds per acre. Lynn County had 8 pounds per acre. Parmer County had 27 pounds per acre. Potter County had 8 pounds per acre, and Randall County had 53 pounds per acre.

These averages should not be used to determine fertilizer needs for individual farms in the counties represented. Producers are urged to collect soil samples from their own farms for fertility analysis to make these determinations.

Nitrogen moves with the moisture in the soil. Therefore, a split application of nitrogen helps prevent leaching losses. A small pre-plant application of nitrogen helps insure seedling vigor and provides the plant with adequate nutrients to retain an early fruit set.

During the growing season, the addition of five pounds of nitrogen per inch of water applied as irrigation or received from precipitation will insure an adequate nitrogen supply for maximum water use efficiency and yields. Water use efficiency can be increased by 20 to 30 percent with a balanced fertility program.

MICROWAVE COOKING

By Linda Attaway

For a quick way to cook ground beef for sauces, cook and drain the beef at the same time in your microwave. Crumble one pound of ground beef into a dishwasher safe colander with no metal parts.

Place the colander into a two-quart casserole or deep glass bowl. Microwave on High for 4 to 6 minutes or until the meat is no longer pink. Stir with fork to break the beef apart every two minutes.

CAUTION!! The grease collected in the glass bowl will be very hot. Use care in removing it from the oven and in discarding it.

Drive carefully and avoid the sorrow that will come to you if you cripple a child for life.

We Could Use a Few More Muleplexes

Earlier this year, I worried about the plexing of Albuquerque. I'm still worried about Albuquerque. But in West Texas, just across the New Mexico border, at least Muleshoe is in good hands.

In January, New Mexico's economic development director said, "There was substantial growth in manufacturing products outside the Albuquerque metroplex."

This was the beginning of something bad. I thought it would be only a matter of time before plexing spread and Albuquerque would become The Duke Pler, or the Metroplex of Friendship.

Ed Campbell of Sandia Park wrote to confirm my worries.

"Well, it's started to spread as predicted," he said. "Although, I must admit, not without some humor. El Paso and Juarez have begun to refer to themselves as a 'metroplex.' Interestingly enough, Midland and Odessa seem to have decided to call themselves the 'petroplex.' There's a dealer in multiple lines of automobiles in Amarillo who refers to his 'autoplex.' But the best one I've run into on my travels is Muleshoe, Texas, which has a billboard on the Lubbock side of town welcoming the traveler to 'The Greater Muleplex.'"

It is the Muleshoes of the world that make me think we'll make it. Every time I begin to feel depressed and hopeless, along comes a Muleshoe.

Muleshoe made me so optimistic I decided to investigate "The Greater Muleplex." I wanted to check out a theory I had about the difference between a metroplex and a Muleplex, the theory being this:

Jim Arnholz

Metroplexes are big and important, and because they are big and important, they become impressed with their bigness and importance, so impressed that they can't do anything but run themselves ragged maintaining their bigness and importance.

A Muleplex, on the other hand, isn't big and isn't impressed with itself. A Muleplex knows how to enjoy life.

I called the Muleshoe City Hall. The receptionist switched me over to Toni Eagle, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

"I'm up in the front office," she said. "Just hang on a second and I'll go back to my office and I'll be glad to visit with you."

Right away, I felt good about The Greater Muleplex. When you call a Chamber of Commerce and the manager says, "... visit with you" instead of saying "Let me call in our spokesman," you know you're dealing with a Muleplex, not a metroplex.

"Actually, we have five Greater Muleplex billboards," she said. "We have them up at every entry into town. The idea came from a gentleman who owns a service station in town. He had some bumper stickers made up with Muleplex on them. We put up the billboards around the first of year. I don't know anybody who doesn't like them. I haven't heard a single negative comment. "In conjunction with the signs, we revamped the national mule memorial, too. He's looking really good. He looks brand new."

"We try not to take ourselves too seriously. But there's a lot of community pride here, too. You have to understand that we live here because we want to. We chose it. Back a year ago, when the oil business fell through, we were hit hard, too. We don't have any oil, but we have a lot of agriculture. And it seems the harder you hit us, the higher we bounce back. We're all family here."

"We have 50 clubs in a town of 5,000. I'd say our pride comes from our people, from the youngest to the oldest. When our hospital closed, which is not unusual in a rural area, the only thing that got it reopened was our people. We had whole families that would take a single hospital room, go down the inspection checklist item by item, and get that room back in shape. We did it all ourselves. You don't see that in a lot of towns. Of course, with a name like Muleshoe, you tend to remember it, too."

Toni said the next project is the other side of the five Greater Muleplex signs. They want to put a good-bye message on the reverse side of the welcome message.

So you can see why I'm optimistic. I don't know that world needs another metroplex, but a few dozen Muleplexes sure couldn't hurt.

Toni thanked me for calling and said, "I never pass up a chance to brag on Muleshoe."

I can't say that I blame her.
