LETTER TO THE EDITOR

"THE TRUE MEANING OF CHRISTMAS"

Let's put the CHRIST
back in Christmas

So often during the Christmas Season, I hear things like, "Discover the true meaning of Christmas, buy your loved one our product." It makes me sick. Christmas is the most important, yet most overlooked holiday ever. Christmas is not buying or getting gifts, or even giving them. The true meaning of Christmas was over 1900 years ago, yet as much alive today as then. It was then that our Saviour, Jesus of Nazareth, was born. When this occurred, mankind received the greatest gift ever. The gift of eternal life.

So much today, there are proclamations of "Happy Holidays", "Merry X-Mas", and now, for the proud athiest "Happy Solstice". They are used in the same sense as "Have a nice day". Few seem to care, as they hurry to get the last gift bargains, that this day is a CHRISTIAN holiday. There are no slurs against other religion's holidays, but more and more, there are cries of unconstitutional when we attempt to put up Nativity Scenes or other Christian decorations in public.

The Constitution of the United States is worded "...Freedom of Religion..." It did not say "freedom from religion". It was intended for the purpose of allowing any citizen to exercise his or her right to worship as he or she sees fit.

Christmas is OUR holiday! Note the word holiday. It was derived from, yes, "HOLY DAY". Not from "Let's party". Christmas was when our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, was born. Born so man may not die for his sins. Can you think of a better Christmas Gift? It is a joyful time, but did you ever stop to think WHY it is a joyful time from the beginning? It was not because of someone going home to see his relatives in Bethlehem. It was and IS because for God so loved the world, that he gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever shall believe in Him shall not perish, but have life everlasting. Keep it in mind whenever you're shopping, going about your day to day work, or the next time you see the word "CHRISTMAS", or hear someone say "MERRY CHRISTMAS". Keep your thoughts on this, and you'll find the TRUE MEANING OF CHRISTMAS!

MAY THE PEACE AND JOY OF KNOWING THE LORD LOVES YOU KEEP YOU IN COMFORT AND WARMTH FOREVER MORE. AMEN.

David L. Bohmfalk

Brackettville Lions celebrated the Christmas spirit on Saturday, December 20, by handing out boxes of food and toys to local needy families. For many years, Uvalde's growers, producers, and shippers have cooperated with the Brackettville Lions by providing the vegetables used for this cause. A special thank you is offered to everyone involved with this worthwhile project.

As we recall that holy night, we ask His blessings upon you and your family.

Brackettville FFA members cut and sold Christmas trees this season as one of their many fund-raising projects. Above, students display a few of their best trees.

Santa received warm greetings by the families he and members of the Brackettville Lions Club visited as boxes of food and toys were distributed to many of the needy families in our city. The Grandmother's Club assisted the Lions in organizing the visits. Nicephore Niepce, a Frenchman, in 1826 took the first photograph by coating an eight inch by six and a half inch pewter plate with bitumen of Judea, (a kind of asphalt) and put it in a wooden box that had an aperture fitted with a lens. He pointed the box out his attic window at the barnyard below, leaving it all day. At dark he took out the plate, washed it in lavender oil and petroleum, and the image remained.

Other inventors had been working on the same idea by making sun prints on paper or leather coated paper but the pictures quickly faded. Niepce's picture was permanent with the first true photograph.

A Parisian scene painter named Louis Mande Daguerre, became Niepce's partner. Niepce died in 1833 and Daguerre worked on trying to improve the process.

William Henry Fox Talbot, produced the first paper negative in England. In 1837, Daguerre produced on treated copper plate, his first daguerre-type. Two years later it was perfected and introduced to the world.

By 1841, nearly every major city in Europe and the United States had at least one portrait studio. The invention of the compound lens and faster plates reduced the exposure time to less than a minute, hereto for the subject had been forced to stare into the light or sunlight for ten to twenty minutes.

In the United States, many Daguerre typists learned their trade from Samuel F.B. Morse. One of his most celebrated pupils was Matthew Brady, the famous Civil War photographer.

Daguerre's process was not popular with everyone, duplicates could not be made, except by re-photographing, but during the next twenty years his process flourished.

Fox Talbot's paper negatives provided Daguerre's first competition and Talbot's process produced some of the finest photographs ever made even though the exposure time was not as short as Daguerre's.

News pictures were made at the very beginning but newsmen could take better pictures with the new wet-plate, which was simply glass coated with chemicals in a wet collodion solution which was developed in 1851. Later came the dry plate in 1864 and modern film in 1882. The newsman turned his picture over to a woodblock carver who copied it for an engraving to be printed in a paper or magazine.

About 1872, in France, Etienne Jules Marey, produced a camera capable of photographing birds in flight.

The revolution in subject matter occurred slowly. In the 1880's, Jacob Rils, a police reporter of the New York Sun, began photographing the slums and used the pictures in his book, "How the Other Half Lives".

Also in the same years prints called "Carte de Visite" were made and so called because they were left with calling cards when one paid a visit, but was a fad which didn't last very long. In the late 1890's, Eugene Atget made complete photographic records of Paris life. But it was left to the American, Alfred Steiglitz to open the way to modern photography.

BOHMFALK LECTURES AT L.A.F.B.

Tuesday, December 16, Brackettville Police Chief David Bohmfalk presented a lecture on Texas Law to incoming personnel at Laughlin Air Force Base.

An audience of 30 enlisted personnel and officers listened responsively as Bohmfalk spoke on laws in Texas regarding Driving While Intoxicated, the mandatory seat belt law, and the paying of citations. Bohmfalk also reminded his audience to take caution while driving due to the frequency of deer crossing the highways.

During his talk on the use of seat belts, Bohmfalk related a story of his own and showed photographs of an accident in which he was involved that almost cost his life.

He explained that he and a partner were in pursuit of a D.W.I. suspect when they were hit on the passenger side of their vehicle at an intersection. Bohmfalk, the passenger at the time of the accident, received a severe concussion a fractured pelvis, a bruised spleen, a chipped front tooth, and had his right ear torn off. "If it were not for the fact I was wearing my seat belt," he emphasized, "I would not be here today."

Due to the overwhelming response to Bohmfalk's speech, David Radner, Chief of Ground Safety at Laughlin Air Force Base, requested that he return and speak to future classes of new personnel.

Brackettville Police Chief David Bohmfalk informs new Laughlin personnel of Texas Laws concerning D.W.I., the wearing of seat belts, and paying citations. Bohmfalk was so well recieved by his audience that he was asked to return at a future date.

MERRY CHRISTMAS FROM ALL OF OUR STAFF

Tots To Teens by Sue Ellen Sullivan

Dear Sue: How do I know that the carriage, crib, etc. that I buy for my baby is safe? Joan G.

Dear Joan: The Juvenile Products Manufacturers Association puts a label, "JPMA Certified" on playpens, strollers, cribs and similar products that meet with safety standards. Standards for baby walkers will be in effect by the end of this year and baby gates by the end of next year. Remember, though, no matter how safe a product is made, accidents can still happen. You have to watch your baby. Never leave babies unattended when they are in a high chair or walker.

Dear Sue: I was shocked by recent news stories about children turning their parents in to the police because of the parents' drug use. Everyone seems to think these children are heroes. Whatever happened to family loyalty? Talk about biting the hand that feeds you! I think these children are a disgrace. Camille R.

Dear Camille: When parents are drunk or stoned, children are in danger. Children in those situations need help. Ideally, children should be able to get help from a relative, teacher or clergyman, but if they feel that they have no one to turn to, then they should go to the police. Children of alcoholics and drug users are neglected and often abused. No one should have to live like that.

Home stretch. You can tell that we are there now. The school has let out for the Christmas holiday. Kids can now put aside the tediums of reading, writing, 'rithmetic, and biology, and concentrate on more important aspects of life, like sandlot football, dates, and letting it all hang out. But as a result, we adults must be on the guard for them. Make them live to see the tediums of 1987.

Kids on vacation tend not to have a care in the world, and that can be witnessed as they walk down the road to wherever their destination is at that time. Please be wary when encountering pedestrians. They may not be paying attention to you. At any moment, for any reason, one might try to cross the street. Please, if at no other time, slow down when you see them. John F. Kennedy said it best when he related that the youth of this country "are our most valuable natural resource." Let's conserve them.

By the same token, look out for children's safety. Not all toys are for all children. Toys for older children may contain small parts that can easily be swallowed. Tots can take a toy apart before you know it. Be sure to buy a toy that is suitable for the child's age.

Some may be on the road this Christmas Season. If you're one, be sure that your home is secure. Leave lights on. If possible, get a timer, and set it to turn on or off certain lights at certain times. Or get someone you trust to turn your lights on and off at various times. Moving cars around at different times will give your home that added lived in look, and it will give the engine time to run for awhile. This will keep it in running order, and the battery charged, if you are planning on being gone for extended lengths of time. The person may also keep pets fed, and, in general, watch over your house. It is also advisable to leave an emergency phone number with them, just in case something goes wrong. Thus starts a seed which can become a neighborhood watch program. HAVE A SAFE AND MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Reggie Pena and Cecilia Rodriguez

COUPLE BETROTHED

Mr. and Mrs. Angel C. Rodriguez of San Antonio announce the engagement of their daughter, Cecilia Ann to Reggie C. Pena of Bay City. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Richard Pena of Brackettville. The bride-elect is a graduate of Providence High School and Bauder Fashion College of Arlington. She is presently employed by Worths Stores in San Antonio. Reggie Pena is a graduate of Brackettville High School and Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos, he is presently employed by Phillips Petroleum Company in Sweeny. Pena is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Serapio T. Cardenas of Del Rio and Mrs. Roberta Pena and the late Atanacio Pena of Brackettville. The couple plans a February 21 wedding in San Fernando Cathedral, San Antonio.

A WORD OF THANKS

Dear Friends and Fellow Citizens,
As the time approaches for my term to end as your County Commissioner of Precinct 4, Rose Ann and I would like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation of your confidence, support and help during the last four years. It has been a challenging time for our County Government. Though the results have not been easy to come by, I am proud of the many accomplishments attained.

Please make an effort to help the present and incoming County officials in whatever way you can. Working together, let's make "Kinney County an even better place to live!"

Have a Happy Holiday Season and an even greater New Year. Again, thanks for helping me serve as your commissioner.

ACADEMICS/HANDS-ON TRAINING IMPORTANT IN VO. AG.

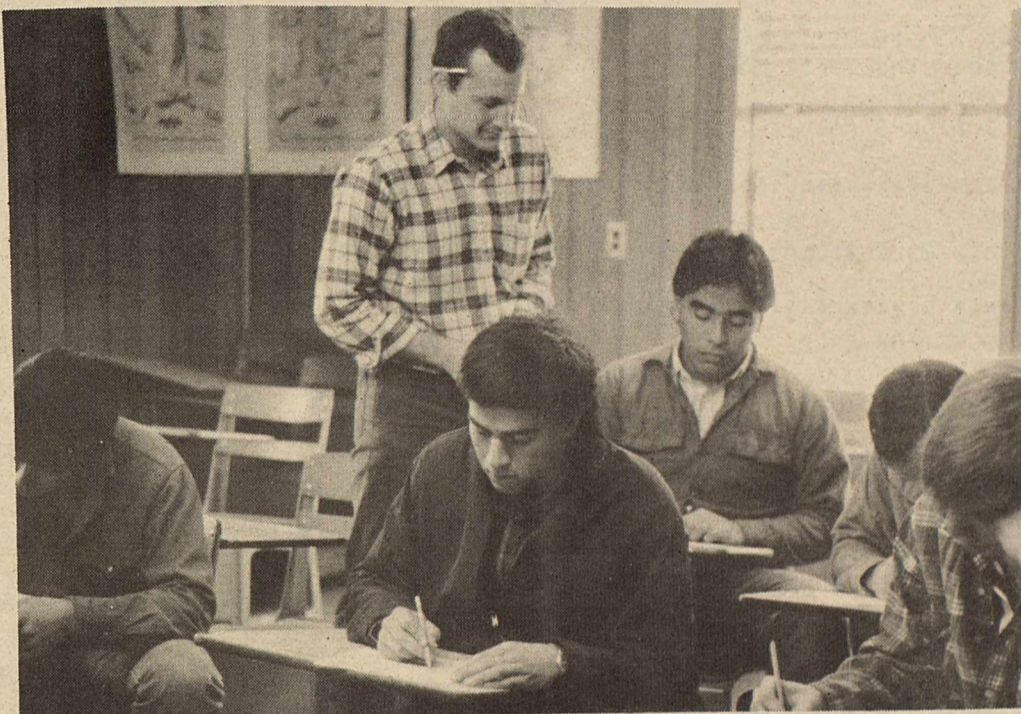

New agricultural supervisor Chap Traylor begins the transition implemented by the State of Texas of the traditional vocational agricultural program during January, 1987. Hands-on experiences will still be used in a vocational sense, however; the new program is titled Agricultural Science and Technology. The title gives the reader a clue which implies that academics of the classroom will become as important as raising animals, crops, shopwork, and farm management in the curriculum.

Commenting on the proposed changes, Traylor stated, "The agricultural industry is becoming a field which leans more and more on science and technology. This means management skills are necessary and in demand. Combining animal, plant, shop, and the classroom will continue to give students an education of which they will be able to use in the future."

With the efforts to combine animal, plant, and shop responsibilities, students, assisted by supervisor Chap Traylor, employ hands-on training to receive a well balanced education in the Vocational Agriculture field.

Vocational Agriculture students incorporate academics into their curriculum at Brackett High School. Above: Agriculture supervisor Chap Traylor assists students with a complicated arithmetic procedure.
