FISH

CROCKETT--D&B Fish Farms has become the first private fish hatchery in Texas to successfully spawn hybrid striped bass.

State hatcheries have spawned hybrid stripers for a number of years, but D&B is the first private hatchery to spawn the hybrids and offer them for sale in Texas.

"Our fingerlings can reach one pound in one year," D&B owner Mike Baughman said. "We expect they'll be three pounds in another year, then six to seven pounds the year after. That's exciting growth! We've found these hybrids can reach 12 pounds even in small ponds."

The hard-fighting hybrid stripers are highly prized as put-and-take sport fish and as an aggressive predator to thin out lakes overpopulated with small fish. Hybrids do not compete with large mouth bass.

D&B's hybrids are unique in that they are offspring from a male striped bass and female white bass. Hybrids created by State hatcheries have typically been a male white bass/female striper cross.

California fish farmers have begun raising and selling hybrid stripers as a food fish. Unlike other bass species, hybrids will eat pelletized fish food as readily as channel catfish.

"We see tremendous long-term potential for hybrids as a food fish and sport fish," Baughman said.

For more information on D&B's hybrid stripers, call Mike Baughman, D&B Fish Farms, 1-800-544-7465.

Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them. Matthew 7:12

HUBERT EMIL MENGER

Hubert Emil Menger, 80, passed away Tuesday, July 21, 1987 of a rare form of anemia.

A member of a pioneer San Antonio family, he was a certified professional geologist who was still practicing his profession after 51 years.

Menger's great-grandfather, David Russi, served with the Confederacy and restored the Alamo in 1849, 13 years after the historic battle.

He and his wife of 51 years, Johnowene Brackenridge Peeler Crutcher Menger, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last year with a dinner party for 500 friends from all over at the San Antonio Country Club.

Menger was a charter member of Post Cambrian Geological Society, which he served as president, vice president, secretary and treasurer.

Survivors include his wife; two daughters, Owene Caruth III and Roberta Byrd, both of Dallas; a brother, Allen R. Menger of San Antonio; and two grandchildren.

BORDER FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

Jim Cannon — President

The BORDER FEDERAL CREDIT UNION is a "not-for-profit" financial institution. They have three convenient locations in this Southwest Texas area. The main office is at 600 East Gibbs in Del Rio, phone 774-3503; Building 336 at the Laughlin Air Force Base, phone 298-3171; and in Eagle Pass at 222 Jefferson, phone 773-5847. This financial cooperative provides consumers with a valuable financial alternative by offering services in ways unique to a credit union's purpose, structure, management and operating styles. The main difference between a credit union and any other type of financial institution can be seen in the way a credit union provides its services. Based upon the philosophy of "not for profit, but for service," Credit Unions are owned by the people who save and borrow there.

The BORDER FEDERAL CREDIT UNION earnings are returned to members in the form of better service, lower rates on loans or higher returns on savings. Deposits are federally insured up to $100,000 each account by the National Credit Union Administration, an independent agency of the U.S. Government.

All persons residing or employed in Maverick, Kinney and Val Verde Counties are eligible to join BORDER FEDERAL CREDIT UNION, except those persons eligible for memberships in an existing occupational credit union within these counties.

The BORDER FEDERAL CREDIT UNION has recently installed automated teller machines at their main office, at the Laughlin Air Force Base office and inside the Cousins Convenience Store in Del Rio. They are a part of the Pulse Network which gives credit union members access at over 5000 machines throughout the southwestern United States.

Demonstrating their dedication to providing close personal service for ALL members regardless of their deposit size, the BORDER FEDERAL CREDIT UNION urge members to take advantage of free investment and financial counseling services.

GREEN TIPS

BY KATHY BADER

To continue our discussion on fruit trees for our area, we will go over apple trees.

Apple trees have become very popular over the last few years as more and more varieties have been adapted to our area. This has been done by selectively grafting onto better resistant root stock. Apple trees, like most fruit trees, have been grafted to produce dwarf, semi-dwarf, and standard trees.

The biggest problem with apple trees in Kinney County is that our soil has cotton root rot. And inevitably apple trees will die of this root disease. The soil must be prepared correctly when planting apples and must be maintained throughout the life of the tree. Large amounts of sulfur need to be added when the tree is planted, and it should be mixed with the soil deeply and throughout the dripline. A correct soil analysis will help to determine how much sulfur should be added.

As to varieties, the most popular and prolific are the Anna/Dorset Gold combination. Anna (a yellow/reddish color) must be pollinized by either a Dorset Gold or Einshimer apple. Because the Einshimer apple blooms later than the Anna, the Dorset Gold is a better pollinizer. Einshimer apples are also a very good tasting apple. It, and the Granny Smith apple should be planted along with the Anna/Dorset Gold to extend the harvest throughout the summer. Other nice varieties include: Stark Crimson, Red Delicious, Starkspur, Golden Delicious, Mollies Delicious, Adina, Holland, and Jerseymae.

Apples do very well here when properly cared for, and the harvests have been spectacular for the last 4 years (ask Bess Fritter).

There is also a newly created Apple Growers Association for apple producers (or lovers) that meets regularly in Uvalde to discuss problems, record harvest information, and to exchange the newest developments in the apple industry. It is alot of fun. If anyone is interested in joining I'll pass on the address.

Well, thats all for today. Good picking!

STATE AID CUT FOR BRACKETT SCHOOLS

Brackett I.S.D. Superintendent, Bob McCall, received notice Friday that Brackett I.S.D. will receive from $4000. to $13,000. less in state aid for 1987-88. These projections came from the State Senate Office of Judith Zaffirini. McCall noted that the reduction was not unexpected. He did however express concern that public education did not benefit more from the record tax bill of 5.7 billion. Raising that much money one would think that Brackett I.S.D. would be able to receive at least as much state aid as in 1986-87.

McCall noted that teachers salaries continue to increase at a state mandated rate of $1140. a year per teacher. With no additional money coming in from the state, these increases must come out of local funds. This leaves less money each year for building maintenance and purchase of instructional supplies.

BIBLE SCHOOL AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Pre-Registration and Preparation Day is this Saturday, August 1, at 8:30 in the morning. A big VBS parade is also scheduled.

The Vacation Bible School at First Baptist is open to all children and youth. An excellent group of workers will be prepared to help make this VBS week an exciting time in the life of all who attend. No charges or costs to the children -- it's free. Welcome!

Ft. Griffin in Northwest Texas was established in 1867 and abandoned in 1880. The terrain is not unpleasant along the Brazos in groves of pecan, elm and hackberry trees.

Several civil war commanders saw service here, among them were Lee, Thomas, Hood, Van Dorn, Hardee, and Sibley.

The settlement that sprung up near the fort was called "The Flat", and was one of the West's four wildest towns, made up mostly of outlaws, whores, gamblers and killers. "The Flat" was the home town of Frank Conrad, W.S. Dalrymple, Jude C.K. Stribling, H.W. Ledbetter, Matthews and Reynolds, and Union officers, George H. Thomas, J.N. Palmer, George Stoneman and K. Garrard, and Robert S. Neighbors, superintendent of Texas Indians.

Between June 1862, not less than eight hundred persons had been killed up to the year 1868 by the Indians.

From 1875 to 1880, "The Flat" increased in size from one to two-thousand, which was twice as many transients, buffalo hunters, and cowboys.

The Fort was a colorful site, one saloon was called the Bee Hive. In front was the following sign;

In this hive we are all alive,
Good whiskey makes us funny,
If you are dry, step in and try
The flavor of our honey.

Temporarily called "Camp Wilson" the name was changed to "Ft. Griffin" after General Charles Griffin, commander of the Military Department of Texas from 1866 to 1867. The officers fared better at mess than the enlisted men. Officers had bacon, cured ham, vegetables, fruits, jams, jelly and spices. Breakfast for the enlisted man was beef, bread and coffee, with occasionally fish balls or mackerel, with some for dinner with vegetables or soup in season. For supper bread and coffee with apples or molasses added.

In 1876 one hundred and twenty-five thousand head of cattle passed through Fort Griffin by passing Fort Worth on the way to Dodge City.

One days sale in "The Flats" was about four-thousand dollars, about twenty-five hundred being spent for guns and ammunition.

The F.E. Conrad store was associated with the Sutler Store owned by Charley Rath and moved to "The Flats".

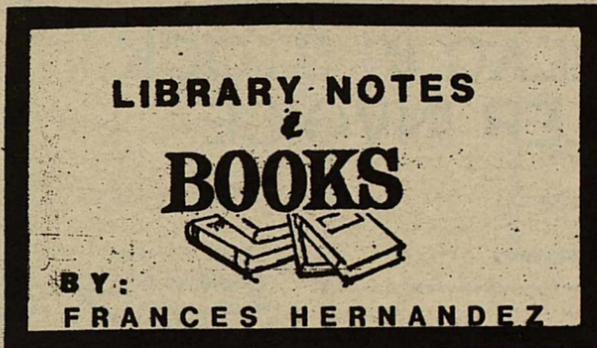

In 1872, in one month, two-hundred and thirty-eight felonies had been committed in only sixty-eight counties. Small boys wore six-shooters to school and no one considered himself safe in the absence of a young arsenal strapped about his person.

Captain John F. Lytle sent cattle up the trail through Ft. Griffin. Cattle was also shipped by George W. Saunders of the Texas Trail Drivers association, Shanghai Pierce, Seth Mabry, Doc Burnet, Dan Waggoner, and John and Al Blocker.

In 1878, Fort Griffin or "The Flats", boasted as citizens, "Hurricane Bill, Doc Holliday, Big Nose Kate, Wyatt Earp and Pat Garrett" among others.

In 1877, sixteen hundred hide hunters were on the range. In August of that year about two-hundred thousand hides were brought into Fort Griffin.

When the Southern Buffalo herd was destroyed, Ft. Griffin declined and in the fall of 1879, was over and done. About 1881 to 1884, even the Tonkawas moved back to the Indian Territory.

The following article appears in the 1987 August issue of McCall's magazine under Notes from our Editor: "Getting our kids to read" At McCall's, of course, the word "reading" resonates with meaning-after all, it's a big part of our jobs, and the mothers on our staff agree that, sad to say, we can't leave the urgent questions of our children's ability to read entirely to the schools.

Nothing demonstrates this more clearly than the results of the literacy test administered by the Bureau of Census last year. Given to 3,400 Americans, this test was flunked by fully 13 percent of those who took it. From these appalling figures, it is projected that 17 to 21 million adults in the U.S. cannot read. And this does not take into account those people who, although technically literate, cannot read well enough to perform simple tasks, such as filling out job applications.

What's revealing about these statistics is that many of these people are young adults-high-school graduates and dropouts alike who left the school system lacking the most basic skills. But these facts don't have to be, according to the mothers at McCall's who are all big believers in the positive influence that parents can have. We live in a society where the picture takes precedence over the word, they say. So we must, by example, motivate our kids to read...by helping to foster your child's interest in good books, newspapers and magazines, you can encourage feelings of self-worth and also help Janie and Jim to function in society later on.

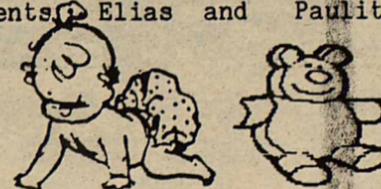

Start with one hour a week put aside for recreational reading. Make family visits to the local library. And be sure that your bookshelves and magazine racks at home are well stocked. To instill a love of reading is not an act of charity but an act of love. Like charity, however, it starts at home.

BUSING EXEMPTION GRANTED FOR POPE'S VISIT

Anyone who has attended the State Fair, the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo and the Cotton Bowl, to name just a few of our state's big events, can tell you that big crowds are nothing new to Texas.

We're good at handling these hundreds of thousands of people, and I expect the same to be true when Pope John Paul II visits San Antonio this September. The Papal visit could, in fact, be the largest single gathering of people in the history of our state.

But despite the best efforts of local organizers, an overdrawn federal regulation almost made it impossible for thousands of people to participate in this event. A number of other religious and secular organizations inform me that this recently implemented regulation also threatens their transportation programs.

The intent of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration regulation is to protect the owners of private bus companies from unfair competition by public transit systems that receive federal funds.

The effect is that if you have a private bus operator who wants to provide service to an event--even if he only has one bus--then public transit systems cannot charter their buses for that event.

What does this mean for the Pope's visit? That San Antonio's

VIA Transit Authority couldn't use its 400-plus buses or buses from other parts of Texas.

I can't believe that is the purpose of UMTA's regulations.

Nor was it the intent of any federal legislation I am aware of.

And that's what I told Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole and UMTA officials when I asked them to grant an exemption for the Pope's visit.

Secretary Dole called several days later to inform me that she had granted the exemption. That was good news for the Pope's visit--and her prompt action makes the organizers' task much easier.

Now, with that immediate obstacle cleared, we have to rewrite these regulations. I have pointed reservations about them. If my mail is any indication, so do a number of Texans.

I have heard from various denominations--Baptists, Catholics, Episcopalians, Methodists, Presbyterians and others--who oppose the regulations.

I also have heard from rural communities and public interest, non-profit organizations who fear what this dramatic change in policy means for their transportation programs.

These widespread concerns and the trouble this overregulation already has caused should be sufficient reason.

Road to Prosperity is Paved With Fresh Economic Ideas

By William P. Clements, Jr.

At the start of every new year, many Texans take some time to ponder the future; set goals and pledge to break bad habits.

I am no exception. Late in December, about a month before I assumed office, I put pen to paper and set some goals for myself—and Texas.

The goals, quite simply, involve turning the Texas economy around. Our economic malaise, triggered by the collapse in oil prices, is well-known and far-reaching.

Now, six months later, I am happy to report that we are making substantial progress. We are not yet there, but in our recently completed legislative session we built a solid foundation upon which economic recovery certainly can be built.

Second, it is important that our economy be diversified and that we wean ourselves from a reliance on oil and gas.

But much more was accomplished in the legislative session in terms of fostering an economic revival. For example, lawmakers agreed to the creation of an 18-member State Economic Planning Commission to develop a state economic development framework.

Also at my urging, lawmakers enacted legislation limiting government regulatory red tape for small business. We must foster the development of small business in Texas, not put innumerable obstacles in its path.

In addition, a legislative green light was given for the establishment of foreign trade zones in several Texas cities,

GONZALO MARTINEZ

World War 11 veteran Gonzalo Martinez is pictured with a dozen service ribbons, badges and medals he received 42 years after seeing some of the worst combat of the Pacific Theater. Among the decorations are the Purple Heart and the Bronze Star shown at the center of the arrangement. The box at the front of the arrangement contains a small collection of war souvenirs. (SIP photo)

Mr. Martinez is 67 years old and was here last week visiting with his cousins, Ramona Flores and Raymond Aguilar, who are Brackett residents. Mr. Martinez comes to Brackettville every year for his vacation.

Our World War 11 veteran took almost 42 years to get his medals. He said he just never got around to picking them up.

When World War 11 broke out, Martinez was a young man still living in his home town of Brackettville. He was drafted and sent to California for basic training and later sent to the Pacific Theater in the Seventh Infantry Division. Martinez's unit occupied the Aleutin Islands following the Japanese withdrawal, and later participated in the liberation of the southern Phillipines. In 1945 the unit took part in the battle of Okinawa, the scene of some of the heaviest fighting in the Pacific. It was here that he was wounded.

After his discharge, he married his wife, Mary, and in 1968 brought his family to Heyburn. The Martinez have three sons currently living in the Heyburn area.

Gonzalo Martinez is still very patriotic and fly his country's flag outside his home on National holidays.
