Three In A Row; How Sweet It Is!

They came to town snorting and stomping, those Hart Longhorns ready to protect their two game winning streak, and make it three in a row.

However, it just didn't work out that way, as the Muleshoe Mules refused to be denied their own third victory in a row.

Even with penalties, a fumble and two interceptions, the Mules dug in when they had to and refused to allow the Longhorns to take away their glory.

On the way to their 20-18 victory over the Longhorns, the Mules totally dominated the first half of the game.

Winning the coin toss, the Mules elected to defend the north end zone, and action got underway. Two costly interceptions in the first quarter saw the ball turned over to the Longhorns at 5:01 of the first quarter, and again at 3:25 of the same quarter.

The Longhorns failed to capitalize on their good fortune, and the first ended with no score for either team.

Going into the second quarter, with 11:20 left to play before halftime, Michael Dunham slammed through from the five for the Mules' first TD of the game. Greg Young kicked the PAT to make it a 7-0 game.

With 4:31 left till halftime, quarterback Michael Angeley added six more when he scooted four yards into the end zone. Again, Young kicked the extra point.

At halftime, the scoreboard showed Muleshoe 14-0.

But, at halftime, the coach for the Hart Longhorns evidently 'really had a talk' with his players. They came out all fired up, and almost totally dominated the second half.

At 6:52 of the third, the Mules added another six, when Angeley went over from the one on a quarterback keeper. This time, Young's toe failed him, and a low snap that barely got off failed to clear the uprights.

Highly touted as a passing team, the Longhorns only hit on two of 11 pass attempts in the first half, but began to connect in the second, and Longhorn quarterback Brett Ritter hit eight of 18 pass attempts.

Longhorn Chris Rodriguez made it in from the one for the Local Thefts And Burglaries Are Cleared Up

It took a lot of checking, and a lot of 'gathering up' of stolen merchandise, but under leadership of Muleshoe City Police Department Sgt. Julian Dominguez, a number of local and area burglaries have been solved during the past week.

It all started to clear up when some local residents reported gunshots being fired in a yard near their home. Dominguez found a man with a rifle. The man, and illegal alien, had possession of a rifle which had been reported stolen by Joey Bruton on September 6.

Bruton told officers the rifle had been taken from his vehicle at the Sale Barn east of Muleshoe. The man who had possession of the rifle named juveniles who had given him the gun.

As the juveniles were taken into custody by officers, they told of several burglaries and thefts which were subsequently cleared and in many instances, the stolen merchandise recovered.

For instance, a rifle which had been taken from a pickup owned by Steven Ethridge was recovered. A .25 automatic pistol taken from Poyner's Otasco Store was recovered. Still missing are a .22 pistol and a .22 rifle.

Also found was a jig saw which had been taken from Fry and Cox; clothing stolen from Anthony's and tennis shoes stolen from Muleshoe High School.

A purse which had been taken from a locked vehicle during a football game last Friday night at Muleshoe high school was also recovered. One

This year marks the 43rd annual observance of National Farm Safety Week, co-sponsored by the National Safety Council and the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. "Be Protected From the Unexpected", the 1986 theme for the farm safety campaign, stresses the need for preventive safety measures.

"People who operate and work on farms and ranches suffer more than their share of personal and economic loss from accidents and work-related illnesses. Much of this loss could be avoided if people would not only work, play and drive safely, but also take the extra steps to protect themselves ahead of time from potential hazards. In other words, they should adopt the Scout motto: 'Be Prepared'."

During this week, a statewide campaign is being undertaken by the Texas Farm Bureau; the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council; the Texas Safety Association; the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and 4-H Clubs; the Texas Education Agency through the Texas Future Farmers and Future Homemakers of America, the Young Farmers and Young Homemakers of Texas and the Bailey County Farm Bureau with the theme, "BE PROTECTED...FROM THE UNEXPECTED".

The National Safety Council estimates indicate that in 1985 farm work accidents resulted in approximately 1,600 deaths and 170,000 disabling injuries. Many more farm and ranch residents and workers were killed or seriously injured in home, recreation and roadway accidents. An undetermined number of people involved in agricultural work suffered job-related illnesses known to cause disability or death.

Accident prevention is often a matter of common sense and troubleshooting. Many lives and millions of dollars could be saved each year if more agricultural producers would take time to protect themselves, their families and their employees from the unexpected.

Since motor vehicle collisions are the leading cause of accidental death, Texas Farm Bureau provides several safety education services for its members, including teaching Defensive Driving Courses and the auto child restraint seat sales program.

During the past three years, 3,641 drivers have graduated from the 168 DDC classes taught in 81 different counties.

Some 178 county Farm Bureaus are participating in the Texas Farm Bureau Safety and Health Department's Child-Saver Program. Farm Bureau members can purchase a child restraint seat for $20 from Cosco, a well-known baby furniture manufacturer, and when finished with it, can return the seat to the county office for a full refund. Farm Bureau members have purchased 980 Safety-T-Seats since the program was introduced in April.

Former Residents Are Returning To Nursing Home

Since Medicaid inspections were conducted and the Muleshoe Nursing Home was re-certified to accept Medicaid patients, eight new patients have signed up, according to George Florey, administrator at West Plains Medical Center.

He said several of the patients were former residents of the Muleshoe Nursing Home who have returned. This brings the patients back to 32 at this time, with 21 beds to be filled.

At the same time, West Plains Medical Center is experiencing difficulties with Medicare, who recently conducted a 'surprise' inspection. West Plains Medical Center was cited for deficiencies, said Florey. According to the hospital administration, all the 'deficiencies' concern the nursing staff. "We are working out the problems right now," he said Friday afternoon.

Mike Dunn, chairman of the board of Westworld Community Healthcare, Inc. is due in Muleshoe next week, and will be meeting with the hospital board on Tuesday night. However, the meeting will not be open to the news media, said Florey.

EMS To Continue Top Care

"Emergency Medical Services Week is designed to provide the public with information on all aspects of emergency medical services," says Richelle Watkins, EMT/LVN Director of the EMS in Muleshoe.

She continued, "I would like to share some of the goals that we have for the next year concerning the ambulance service.

"Our number one goal is and will always be:

"First and foremost, to provide Bailey County with the most advanced type of care available, with up to date equipment, and highly trained, committed individuals who are there for one united purpose -- The Life of the Individual.

"And number two, we plan to increase the number of first responders in Bailey County, to teach as many as we can, classes in First Aid, CPR and Safety; and to hold another EMT class at some point during this year, and to increase our volunteers."

Mrs. Watkins said the staff presently consists of herself as director of the ambulance service; Randy Watkins, Paramedic; John Baum, EMT/Special Skills and Starla Ellis, EMT. The volunteers who assist the Bailey County Ambulance Service are Wayne Wauson, EMT/Senior Volunteer Crew Chief; Joe Don Prather, Todd Ellis and Kenneth Wilhite, all EMTs.

She also issued a special thanks to Larry and Deanna Rasco, who served as volunteers during the past year.

"Recently the ambulance service underwent a change," she added, "West Plains Medical Center requested that the county resume responsibility for the service, while there was some change, for the most part, the ambulance service remained the same."

Mrs. Watkins concluded, "Our new name is Bailey County EMS. Our address is the same, 715 West Second St. If an

Texas A&M scientists work to raise beneficial parasites

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M University scientists are working on a project that one day may give beneficial parasites — and ultimately farmers — the upper hand in the battle against worms that annually destroy millions of dollars of crops.

Dr. S. Brad Vinson, an entomologist in Texas A&M's College of Agriculture and project leader, says the scientists are looking into the possibility of artificially rearing hundreds of thousands of tiny mosquito-like parasites. The parasite, campeletis, lays its eggs in the larvae of a worm that destroys a variety of crops, including cotton, tomatoes, pecans, sorghum, soybeans and lettuce.

Vinson, who holds a joint research appointment with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, hopes to raise the parasites in laboratory conditions.

In addition to learning how to artificially rear parasites, Vinson said scientists also are investigating how to better attract the parasites to fields of crops.

Set Water Heater Lower For Energy Savings

If you're searching for ways to reduce your utility bill, don't overlook the hot water heater.

Although heating or cooling air consumes the largest share of home energy, hot water heating accounts for 18 percent of the home energy bill, says home energy expert Dr. Susan Quiring.

"Heating water over 110 degrees Fahrenheit, which is about the hottest the human body can tolerate, doesn't make much sense," she says. "Yet water-heater thermostats are often pre-set much higher than that at the factory."

In homes with a dishwasher, a hot water temperature of 140 degrees is needed for best results. But if the dishwasher contains its own heating element, a lower water heater setting will be more practical, says the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service housing specialist.

Some homeowners have to set the water heater thermostat higher just to get comfortable water at the point of use, Quiring observes. In this case, the loss of heat is usually due to the distance the water travels through bare pipes.

Since water loses one degree per foot when traveling through bare line, insulating hot water pipes in unheated crawl spaces and garages can minimize heat loss, the specialist maintains.

Most do-it-yourselfers can insulate water lines by wrapping them in flexible tubing, foam type insulation or wrap-around pipe insulation with pipe tape.

Insulating the water heater tank will also help keep the water hot. Readymade insulation jacket kits are sold at building supply stores and require only about 15 minutes to install.

Be sure to cut away the top and bottom areas of the insulation jacket as directed in the insulation kit, cautions Quiring, since covering the entire water heater is hazardous.

Maintaining your water heater, especially in hard water areas, further increases energy efficiency, the specialist says.

For hot water heaters under a year old, she recommends starting regular maintenance by completely draining and refilling the heater once a year. In addition, a bucket of water should be drained from the heater as often as every other month in problem water areas. This removes sediment which absorbs heat energy.

But water heaters which have not been drained regularly may already have sediment in the drain valve. Once opened, a clogged drain valve may not close completely, so Quiring advises against draining older heaters.

If you're in the market for a new water heater, the specialist suggest reading the energy label before you buy.

The yellow and black energy label on the water heater states the annual estimated operating cost of that model. It also lists the lowest and highest operating cost of other water heaters of the same type and size.

Seams - look for machine stitches that are short and firm and will hold the pieces of fabric together without puckering.

- Check the firmness of the stitching by gently pulling the fabric on each side of the seam holding it up to the light. If the stitching is too loose, you will be able to see between the garment pieces.

- Examine for smooth seams; make sure there are no unwanted tucks; check for smoothness of gathers.

- Look for seam allowances that are at least "¼" wide to prevent unraveling or pulling out when there is strain on the seam.

- Wide seam allowances will allow you to let out a garment that is a little too tight and still have enough fabric left for an adequate seam.

- For fabrics that ravel, check for finished seam edges such as zig-zagging or overcasting, pinking or binding zippers.

- Examine zippers carefully to be sure they are smooth and flat, are securely stitched and are of a compatible type, weight, strength, and color.

- Run zippers up and down to be sure they work properly. Zippers should remain closed at the top under stress.

- Straight, even stitching should hold the zipper in place and completely hold zipper teeth.

Buttons and Buttonholes - look for buttons that are firmly attached, properly placed and a compatible size and type for the garment.

- For garments, such as coats and sweaters, check to see if an envelope containing extra buttons is attached, especially if buttons are covered.

- Examine buttonholes to make sure they are neat with no loose threads or raw edges showing. Stitches should be firm and close together. Loosely sewn buttonholes will pull out and allow the fabric around the edges to ravel.

Hems - try on the garment to make sure the hem is inconspicuous and parallel to the floor.

- Examine the hem to see if its uniform in width, flat and smooth, but not over pressed.

- Check for quality stitching so the hem will not easily pull out.

- Examine the hem to see that its not pulled off grain or stretched out of shape.

- Check to see that the raw edge is finished appropriately for fabric to prevent unraveling.

Interfacing - look for interfacing in the collar, lapels, cuffs, neckline and sleeve facing. Interfacing will give "body" and prevent these areas from stretching out of shape.

- Crush an interfaced section to be sure it springs back into place.

Elderly And Disabled Offered New Service

The Emergency Response Service (ERS), a program operated by Lutheran Social Services of Texas, gives elderly and disabled adults 24 hour access to emergency assistance. Help is available at the push of a button, according to Susan L. Farrell, Emergency Response Service Program Coordinator.

She said most elderly people wish to remain in their own homes or neighborhoods for as long as possible. Yet some of them have serious illnesses or disabilities that may suddenly become critical. Some people fall and are unable to get up or to call for assistance. Many emergencies occur at night when individuals are alone and neighbors are asleep.

"Illness, disability and the inability to summon help are of deep concern to the elderly, their friends, and relatives," added Ms. Farrell. "Consequently, some people have been prematurely institutionalized or forced to live with persons outside their familiar environment."

Emergency Response Service is a system using a device connected to a telephone. By pushing a button on the main unit or the hand-held unit, the person sends a signal to the Response Center, based at the Lutheran Home of West Texas. If the phone is not answered, designated friends or relatives

Longhorns at 2:23 of the third and a two point conversion from Ritter to Paul Ramirez made the score 20-8.

After being caught right at their own end zone going into the fourth, the Longhorns added another two points when Mule QB Angeley was trapped in the end zone.

This was followed by a one yard TD by Johnny Washington for the Longhorns at 6:04 of the fourth. This time, the attempt for two points failed and the score was 20-16.

A thriller, cliffhanger finish then happened at Benny Douglas Stadium in Muleshoe, with the entire crowd on its feet the last one and one half minutes of the game.

Hart fumbled the ball away at 1:30 left in the game, as the Mules were making a desperate goal-line stance at their own one yard line.

As the clock wound down, the Mules took a deliberate delay of game penalty followed by a deliberate safety on a fourth down play to keep the Longhorns from taking over the ball with time to score.

With 28 seconds left, the Mules punted to Hart, and then held the team until the final seconds ticked away on the clock. A cliffhanger finish reminiscent of several years ago, when the Mules consistently 'pulled the game out of the fire' in the waning seconds.

Penalties and miscues hampered the Mules during the evening, with more than 85 yards of penalties being racked up by the Mules, to under 35 for the Hart Longhorns.

Backup quarterback Michael Angeley played most of the game, although starting QB Johnny Garcia, who was injured in the Muleshoe-Boys Ranch game last weekend, saw limited action in the game.

The Mules had 17 first downs to 11 for the Longhorns; the Mules punted three times for an average of 36.6 while Hart punted five times for an average of 37.8; each team fumbled the ball away one time and the Mules were intercepted twice.

Next week will be the first out of town game for the Mules, when they travel to Springlake, Earth to take on the Wolverines. Gametime will be 8 p.m.

are called on to investigate. Fire, police, or ambulance services can also be called if appropriate.

A 24-hour timer, if not reset daily, sends a signal in the event a person is unconscious or unable to push the button to call for help.

The hand-held button works within 200 feet of the main unit that is plugged into the telephone, explained the coordinator. Therefore, people are able to go about their daily activities and still have the security of all emergency assistance without having to get to the telephone.

People use their units for a variety of emergencies: heart attacks, strokes, falls, emotional stress, robbery, assault.

Lutheran Social Service of Texas has a contract with the Texas Department of Human Services (TDHS) to provide the ERS to those persons meeting their eligibility criteria. Currently, the monthly fee is $16.25 locally, $21.75 long distance. The Emergency Response Service is available in the counties of Lubbock, Hockley, Lamb, Lynn, Floyd, Hale, Crosby, Dickens, Terry, Bailey and Parmer.

In the Plainview area, volunteer support is provided by the Venture Club and Trinity Lutheran Church, Providence Community.

For more information regarding the Emergency Response Service, contact: Susan Farrell, Lutheran Social Service of Texas, Panhandle/South Plains Office, 1411 19th Street, Lubbock, TX 79401. The phone number is 806-763-7051.

Computer model helps small communities assess economic impact

COLLEGE STATION — Small town officials who want to know the economic impact of a new industry have a computer model that can help determine the benefits as well as the cost of additional services to public agencies.

"We've developed an economic impact model to help project the impact of new industry on rural communities in Texas," said Dr. Lonnie Jones of Texas A&M University's Agricultural Economics Department. "In the past six to seven years we have applied the model to over 250 rural communities in Texas who wanted to know the impact of new industries planning to locate a plant in a community."

The model considers such factors as the size of the industry, the number of employees and payroll. It also can be used to estimate the impact of the new industry on the private sector, such as the amount of additional business that will be obtained from local stores, said Jones, leader of the project who holds a joint appointment with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. In addition, the model examines the costs and benefits of public agencies affected, including how municipal and county governments and the school district would be affected.

ALL TANGLED UP--Although the Muleshoe Mules breezed through the first half of Friday night's football action against the Hart Longhorns, they found the going got tough in the second half. However, the Mules waltzed away with a 20-18 victory over the Longhorns. This made it three in a row for the Mules.

Three New Directors Named To Farm Bureau

"Preserving Our American Heritage" was the theme of the annual county convention of Bailey County Farm Bureau when it convened Saturday, September 13, in the Muleshoe High school Cafeteria. Several items from Donald Harrison's collection of farm and ranch antiques decorated the cafeteria, including a Georgia stock, a corn sheller, one-row planter, horse-drawn harrow, mule collars, cream cans, quilts, and other items.

The president, Sam Harlan, presided over the meeting, and introduced special guests: Mr. and Mrs. S. M. True, Plainview; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Little, Temple; Mr. and Mrs. James Race, Floydada; Randy and Douglas Field; Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Turner; Mr. and Mrs. Danny Noble; Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Price; Robert Montgomery. Reports were given by the President, Sam Harlan; Agency Manager, James Lee; Curtis Carpenter of Baker Farm Supply, the T. A. S. C. O. program; and Randy Field gave the Financial Report.

S. M. True, president of Texas Farm Bureau, admonished the members that while preserving the past they should adapt to changes. "The future belongs to those who recognize and have the ability to change. We must overcome the natural resistance to change." Then he enumerated some of the accomplishments of Farm Bureau in legislation, benefits to members through the youth programs by Farm Bureau each year. "It is a source of pride that the American Farm Bureau is coming to Texas in October to take note of the successful methods in our state," said

True who also addressed the problem of stress among agriculture producers today.

In the election of four directors to the board, Alec Schuster was re-elected and Curtis Hunt, Allen Smyer, and Dale Vise were elected to serve for three years.

The meeting was preceded by the free Bar-b-que and home grown vegetable meal.

Trained Emergency Personnel Is 'Critical'

A farmer involved in a tractor accident miles from a hospital depends on trained emergency personnel to give immediate care in a situation that could be life-threatening.

With advance training and more elaborate radio communications available on the South Plains, that care is being provided where little previously existed.

Between 225 and 250 rural volunteers are training in emergency care each year by Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center (TTUHSC). Bonnie Jackson, training coordinator who works in the Department of Surgery, said a 15-county area is covered by the service, which has allowed rural areas to upgrade the care they provide before patients arrive at a hospital.

Counties served by the program include Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Motley, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, King, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn and Garza.

Jackson began the training program at TTUHSC in 1982 after serving nine years in the same capacity at Lubbock Christian College. Before 1973, emergency service in rural areas was often provided by funeral homes because they had the means of transporting people lying down.

"Funeral homes and private services did a very professional job for the standard care that was expected then, but now we expect a lot more," Jackson said. "Most pre-hospital emergency care currently is provided by fire departments or separate emergency medical service systems."

Persons participating in the TTUHSC program can achieve up to four levels of certification recognized by the Texas Department of Health.

The first level, emergency care attendant, provides the participant skills in basic first-aid and in at-the-scene care for life-threatening illnesses and injuries.

The second certification level, for basic emergency medical technician, allows students to gain experience in caring for ill or injured patients through clinical rotations with major hospitals and emergency medical services.

A specially skilled emergency medical technician receives training in advanced life support at hospitals and on emergency vehicles. The major emphasis is on the care of the trauma patient.

The final category, paramedic emergency medical technician, allows the student to learn skills in the most advanced life support and requires the most classroom and clinical hours. Advanced cardiac life support is part of that program.

Before training was available the goal in emergency situations was to get the patient to a hospital as quickly as possible.

"Now, persons trained in emergency care may make the difference in reducing the length of a patient's hospital stay later, and in some instances, may mean the difference between life and death," she said.

An early state law required persons giving emergency care to have eight hours of first-aid training. A later law was passed in 1983 and requires certification as an emergency care attendant, but Jackson would like to see the minimal level in the future at Emergency Medical Technician status.

"With training and communication with the hospital, emergency personnel can give appropriate care at the scene and also prepare the hospital for the type of patient being brought in," Jackson said.

She said that with a physician's order over the radio, advanced level personnel can provide care similar to what a doctor would provide in the first few minutes upon arrival at the scene. Those few minutes are critical until the patient can be brought to a place where more equipment and expertise are available.

Application for admission to the training program may be made by calling 806/743-3218 or writing Emergency Medical Programs, Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center, 3601 Fourth St., Lubbock, Texas 79430.

Firefighter's Report
 by Wayne Peterson

H.E. Reeder called business meeting to order. Bill Kinard read minutes from August which were approved as read. Ralph Sanchez was voted into the department as a rookie fireman, and is now ready to learn fire fighting and do his part to serve his community. Bob Copeland made a motion to put running boards and signs on the new Suburban, seconded by Fred Clements, motion carried. We also want to thank Jimmy Mills for his time and expertise in installing the new fender on Unit # 9. The department was asked to have a display of equipment at the Bailey Co. Fair in which we did, and considered it a part of our service to the community. We want to thank Bob Copland for a job well done. The date of September 20 has been set for the used items auction to be held at the department. There are a good many useful items someone could make use of. The Canyon Fire School was held Sept. 10 & 11 and attended by these fireman from the Muleshoe department. Chief Jack Dunham, Asst. Chief Donald Harrison, President H.E. Reeder, Charles Lorance, J.O. Parker, Scott Churchman and rookie Ralph Sanchez. It was noted that Larry Rasco and James Martin would mow the beautiful back yard lawn as soon as possible. Motion was made, seconded and passed to adjourn. The September portrait of a fireman is on James Robert Martin (Smoky on the spot), James joined the department Sept. 22, 1976. He and his wife Gloria reside at West Dallas here in Muleshoe. James has been a great fireman and is willing to serve when ever called on. James Martin has attended fire training schools at Texas A&M four times, Lubbock fire school three and Canyon three years. Classes in fire fighting, breathing apparatus, air force certificate, familicozation, certificate from Texas Department of Health on Radiological monitoring. This adds up to many hours of training. Add to this many more training hours here at the department. This all adds up to the ability of Muleshoe fireman being will qualified to handle most any situation confronted with. There were 9 fire calls during the month of August, 6 in the city and 3 rural fire calls. These are added up as 1 auto, 1 smoke alarm in house, 3 trash, 1 storm watch, 2 grass, and 1 tractor farm emplement. Forty seven man hours were required but only 166 total miles on fire units. Fires and other type calls have been much to our liking - fewer than normal.
