BORDER FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

Jim Cannon — President

The BORDER FEDERAL CREDIT UNION is a "not-for-profit" financial institution. They have three convenient locations in this Southwest Texas area. The main office is at 600 East Gibbs in Del Rio, phone 774-3503; Building 336 at the Laughlin Air Force Base, phone 298-3171; and in Eagle Pass at 222 Jefferson, phone 773-5847. This financial cooperative provides consumers with a valuable financial alternative by offering services in ways unique to a credit union's purpose, structure, management and operating styles. The main difference between a credit union and any other type of financial institution can be seen in the way a credit union provides its services. Based upon the philosophy of "not for profit, but for service," Credit Unions are owned by the people who save and borrow there.

The BORDER FEDERAL CREDIT UNION earnings are returned to members in the form of better service, lower rates on loans or higher returns on savings. Deposits are federally insured up to $100,000 each account by the National Credit Union Administration, an independent agency of the U.S. Government.

All persons residing or employed in Maverick, Kinney and Val Verde Counties are eligible to join BORDER FEDERAL CREDIT UNION, except those persons eligible for memberships in an existing occupational credit union within these counties.

The BORDER FEDERAL CREDIT UNION has recently installed automated teller machines at their main office, at the Laughlin Air Force Base office and inside the Cousins Convenience Store in Del Rio. They are a part of the Pulse Network which gives credit union members access to over 5000 machines throughout the Southwestern United States.

Demonstrating their dedication to providing close personal service for ALL members regardless of their deposit size, the BORDER FEDERAL CREDIT UNION urge members to take advantage of free investment and financial counseling services. Jim wishes everyone a Very Happy Holiday Season!

DEER HUNTING FORECAST PROMISING

If you don't bag that trophy buck this November, it's not because Mother Nature hasn't done her part.

Timely spring rains, coupled with two mild winters in a row, are working to produce a bumper crop of wildlife, including deer, available to hunters this fall, according to a wildlife specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

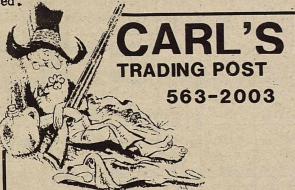

Dale Rollins, of San Angelo, said that mid-summer surveys have indicated good to excellent fawn crops for white-tailed deer and antelope.

Antler growth is also reflected in the good growing conditions and as such, deer should have above average antlers this season, Rollins said.

In traditional high deer density areas, such as the Edwards Plateau and the surrounding area, landowners should consider heavier than average doe harvests, he said.

"The exceptional forage conditions that we're currently experiencing won't last forever, and when the next drought inevitably comes, there's going to be a lot of hungry mouths out there," he explained.

Day-hunting during the late season and archery hunting are two ways to increase the antlerless harvest and generate additional income from hunting leases, he added.

BECAUSE THEY CARE

The ambulance crew works day and night, to help those in need.

They do what they do, for they feel it's right, with little thanks indeed.

They have their families, and their jobs to do, what time they give is theirs.

But countless times, that call comes through, and they leave their family cares.

In the dark of night, on winter's first snow, they're there to help you out.

They work as a team, which makes them whole, for they know what caring's about.

But now it's time, for the truth to be told, and it tells what life's about.

How thankless people, can be so cold, and cruel without a doubt.

The words that are spoken are strong and hard, and feels like a slap on the face.

Leaving behind emotions that are marred, with the insults of bad taste.

The attendants are there, out of love for life, even though they get put down.

So stop those words, that feel like a knife, and tell them you're glad they're around.

And when you see, that big ambulance roll, it's time you stop and think. It makes no difference, if you're friend or foe, they'll be off to help in a blink.

Detect Tornados With Your TV or Radio

The following is a tip on how you can use your television set or radio to detect tornados when such a danger has been broadcast for your area. Using your television: First, warm up your set and tune in channel 13 and darken the screen to almost black using the brightness control. Then, turn on channel 2 and leave the volume down.

Your tornedo detection device is now in operation. Lightning will produce momentary white bands of varying widths across your screen. (Color sets produce color bands.) A tornado within 15 to 20 miles will produce a totally white screen and remain white, or color on color sets. Should this occur, turn off your TV set, take a portable radio and seek a place of shelter immediately.

This system was discovered by Newton Weller of West Des Moines after 12 years of study. It works because every TV set has channel 2 at 55 MHz. Eightning and tornados generate a signal near this frequency which overrides the brightness control. Channel 13 is at the high end of the frequency band and is not affected. This is why the darkness must be set on that channel.

Using your radio: Use a portable radio for emergency instructions and in case of power failure. If the radio is tuned to 550 KHz band, lightning will cause intermittent static. A tornado will cause steady, continuous static. Most homes have these two warning devices. It might be well to clip these instructions and keep them on hand during tornado season.

On September 16, 1893, the Cherokee Strip was opened to settlement in Indian Territory. Temple Houston, the youngest son of General Sam Houston, was thirty-five years old and already a noted lawyer.

Temple Houston was a dignified man and it was said he had never allowed another man to lay a hand on him in anger. He very seldom was forced to draw his gun but he did draw on the lawyer brother of Al Jennings who was a well known bank-robber. Of course, it was a fatal incident for Ed Jennings who was also a resident in what is now Woodward, Oklahoma.

Temple Houston was an impressive man, with curly hair to his shoulders, tall and straight as an arrow. He dressed fancy and wore a wide brimmed black hat.

In the courtroom he was a very dramatic speaker and could sway his listeners the way he wanted.

Temple was the first child born in the governors mansion in Texas when Sam Houston was sixty-seven years old, needless to say he was the apple of his fathers eye. Sam Houston died when Temple was three years old, and his mother died when he was seven. Then he lived with a sister until he was seventeen when he rode west to the Panhandle. Then he got a job as a night clerk on a steam boat on the Mississippi.

On the boat he met up with an old friend of his fathers who got him into the United States Senate as a page. Three years there and he was determined to get an education. So he came back to Texas to his sister and went to Bryan Military School and then went on to study law. Admitted to the Bar at nineteen, he began his career. At twenty-one he was County Attorney of Brazoria County, Texas.

At twenty-two he was appointed District Attorney of the Panhandle. At twenty-three he married Laura Cross and went to Mobeetie, calling the trip their honeymoon.

Temple served two terms as a State Senator but ruined his own political career when he launched an attack on the Court of Appeals over an unfair ruling.

In the courtroom Temple was very appealing and displayed wonderful acting ability. He was a commanding figure in his swallow tail coat with the butts of his six guns showing when he moved.

On one occasion, he was asked to give some advice to a thief before his trial, so Temple took him into another room to talk to him. When the Sheriff came into the room, Temple was sitting in a chair in front of an empty chair and an open window. When the Sheriff asked Houston where the thief was, Temple said, I gave him some good advice, and he took it.

Temple Houston loved history in which he was well versed, and as a hobby collected historical artifacts and Indian relics.

Although he was an imposing figure as a lawyer, he also had a more human side and counted many faithful friends.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY CANDACE DUDDEN, BSN

Part 1 What is Hypertension?

Hypertension is high blood pressure. Your heart is a pump, pushing blood through the arteries and veins. As it moves through the arteries, it pushes against their walls. The force of the blood pushing against the walls of the arteries is called "blood pressure".

Your blood pressure goes up and down depending on the activities you are performing. If you are sleeping, your blood pressure will be slightly lower than if you are engaged in an activity. High blood pressure exists when your blood pressure is consistently higher than normal. This condition is called "hypertension", meaning there is too much (hyper) force or tension on the artery walls.

Hypertension does not mean nervousness. Many relaxed, easy going people have hypertension.

A doctor detects high blood pressure when on two or more subsequent visits readings of at least 15 points higher than normal for you are obtained. These readings are taken with a stethoscope, which acts to make sound audible, and a sphygmomanometer (blood pressure cuff).

When pressure is slowly released - from the cuff, the doctor listens - for the return of the sound of blood flowing through the brachial artery in your arm. He watches the dial on the meter to see the number that registers when he begins to hear the sound. That number, the "systolic" blood pressure, is the upper number of the reading. As more pressure is released from the cuff, a point is reached where the blood flow can no longer be heard. This number reflects the "diastolic" pressure, or the bottom number of the reading.

The normal average blood pressure readings for most adults will be between 100/60 and 140/90. Because all people are different, it is important that the doctor have a "baseline" reading from the client, so that over time any changes can be monitored.

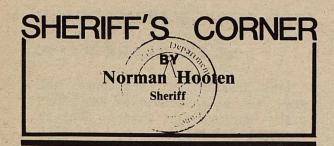

Who Gets High Blood Pressure?
Anyone can. However, there are people who fall into certain risk groups making them more prone to hypertension. People at risk for hypertension are:

- 1) Obese
- 2) Diabetic
- Those with family history of hypertension
- 4) Those with a history of heart disease
- 5) Alcohol users
- 6) Blacks
- 7) Poor
- 8) Those who use birth control pills, antihistamines, steriods diet pills, tricydic antidepre ssants.

If you belong to one or more of these high risk groups, it is important for you to have your blood pressure checked two or more times per year. In this area you can have your blood pressure checked at several locations other than your doctor's office: United Medical Centers, Val Verde Hospital, HEB, and at the Public Health Department.

Peter the Great of Russia, in an attempt to encourage his subjects to adopt a Western look, levied a high tax on beards.

Election Day 1987 has come and gone and the voters of Kinney County have voiced their opinion on issues on the ballot on both the state and local levels. Evidently only about 40% of the registered voters in Kinney County had an opinion as approximately 60% did not choose to exercise their right to vote.

I had mixed emotions about the outcome of the election, being disappointed by the relatively light turnout but extremely pleased by the outcome of local Proposition #1 concerning bonds for repairs and renovations to the county jail. On this issue the voters of Kinney County who turned out to vote their opinion passed the proposition by an overwhelming 2 and 1/2 to 1 vote margin with the final count being 528 FOR and 201 AGAINST. means that the voting public stands strongly behind our efforts to bring the county jail up to the minimum standards required by the Texas Commission of Jail Standards for a safe and secure facility. This also means that we will be federal able to continue the prisoner program that will bring in thousands of dollars a year in much needed income and will allow us to a professional law continue enforcement operation serving the people of Kinney County. I want to take this opportunity to thank the voting public for their strong support on this issue and consider the outcome of the election as a strong show of support for our efforts.

Pari-mutuel betting on horse racing also passed strongly on both the state and local levels indicating that the voting public of the state and county have a strong interest in economic measures and realize that something had to be done to bring in more revenue to the state. Hopefully the passing of the pari-mutuel betting issue on a statewide level will prevent the necessity of a state income tax. The other three propositions on the local ballot concerning bonds for inprovements to the courthououse, auditorium, and parks were strongly defeated, again an indication that the voters of this county are more concerned with economic issues these days,

The results of the election is probably shown elsewhere in this paper, but I have condensed the local results as shown below for your information.

Proposition #1

$90,000 bonds-Jail
528 FOR 201 AGAINST
Proposition #2

$35,000 bonds-Courthouse
325 FOR 356 AGAINST
Proposition #3

$12,000 bonds-Auditorium
296 FOR 372 AGAINST
Proposition #4

$10,000 bonds-Park
283 FOR 382 AGAINST
Proposition #5
Pari-Mutuel Betting
543 FOR 173 AGAINST

Hopefully bid selection construction and work to the county jail will be completed shortly and we believe that the actual work on the jail will begin shortly after the first of the year. In the meantime we continue to operate special authority of the Texas Commission of Jail Standards and our current jail population is 4 county prisoners and 25 federal prisoners. We are receiving $28.00 per day per federal prisoner. Should we maintain this population we will be taking in $21,000 a month in federal prisoner care fees. As I predicted earlier this the apprehensions and prosecutions of federal prisoners is slowly on the rise and we should able to maintain adequate numbers of those prisoners to greatly assist us in financing our jail operation and help pay off the money we are having to borrow to repair the jail.

REFLECTIONS

Have you ever stumbled over a rock or some other object? That can be a humiliating experience. Let me suggest some "stones" over which we may take a big fall.

Selfishness is a stumbling stone. When we become more interested in getting and keeping than in giving, the stone of stumbling called selfishness becomes real in life.

Leo Tolstoy, the famous Russian writer of "War and Peace" tells the story of a farmer who offered one of his servants all the land he could walk around in one day. The servant started out at sunrise. He ran north as far as he thought he could go - nearly exhausting himself. Then the man turned west and ran and ran. At mid day he went south. Late in the afternoon with his feet bleeding and his body aching, the servant turned eastward toward his point of departure. The next day, according to Tolstoy, the servant was found dead - several miles from his destination. His selfish spirit caused him attempt to reach too far and too much in the brief span of one day. Selfishness is a cruel fact of life.

Prejudice is another stone that causes a lot of people to fall. When I grew up on a 120 acre Arkansas farm, we were prejudiced against the "city folks". These in that nearby city of 700 people looked more awesome to us than Washington bureaucrats. The people from Junction City even went to Friday and Saturday night movies - so we heard!

If we "look down" at another person because that one speaks a different dialect or language, lives in some other social circle, drinks beer or wine, or is a Jew or Muslim - well, that's prejudice! To be free from all prejudice is next to impossible. However, to let this monster proudly raise its ugly head means that the one who harbors this evil will suffer the most. Prejudice is a real rock of stumbling.

Unbelief. To me this seems unbelievable. How can man allow the big stone of atheism, agnosticism, or unbelief lie in his path? Neverthe-less, the disastrous problem finds its expression in the lives of many.

God loves us. He has expressed His eternal care and purpose for us in the greatest gift man ever received. I have been totally humbled recently by the gift of a new, luxurious automobile - totally undeserved and never merited. God has done much more for us. How can we afford not to believe after his perfect gift to us? The road of life is safer when the stones that us to stumble are not scattered along the way. Should you and I clean up our highway a little? BY PRESTON TAYLOR

THE NITTY & THE GRITTY BY JOE TOWNSEND

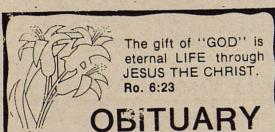

How many times I have said, "If I were that person I would do such and such" or "If I had been that person I would have done thus and so." I have now learned that if I were that person I would probably do exactly what he did. Different backgrounds and different experiences lead to different responses.

Were I to be coming from the same background and had the same experience, I would likely do the same as the other person. The heart of the matter is so often we presume to be smarter and better than the other person. And maybe we are, and maybe our actions would be different and maybe we would be right, but how many times do we make the wrong turn or with all our superior knowledge and experience, do the wrong thing. It is difficult, for most of us person the other the give priviledge of being wrong. After all, God has given to each the power of choice and no person has the right to usurp that power. I make the wrong decision I must pay the tab. If another is wrong he must bear the consequences. The main thing is I must not presume to be better in my judgements and actions than another simply because would make a more accurate decision.

If I give every person the right to be wrong, I am making him to be what God made him, a human being "created in the image of God." I dare not do less.

UNSUNG HEROES BY JOE TOWNSEND

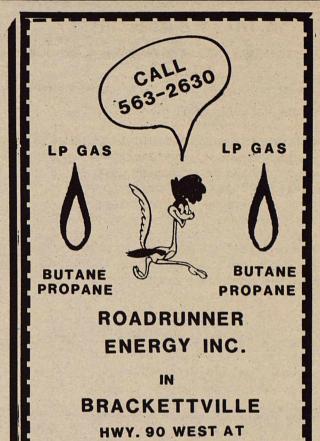

There is a lady in our community who through the years has spent most of her time helping others. Throughout the years the number add to the hundreds who needed help, a little or much, who in time of need had this lady come to the rescue, many times without being asked.

She seems to sense when some older person needs assistance or some family needs help and suddenly appears on the scene. She uses her time, her energy, her car and gas to do anything that can be helpful.

She has raised two exceptional children and has been a strong supporter of her husband through the years. Throughout the existence of her church, she has faithfully taken care of the building without being paid, simply because she loves her Lord and His Church.

She has been faithful to her Church through the years and has reared her children in the atmosphere of her Christian faith and her Church. In the eyes of God, and who counts more, she is certainly a hero, and yet among her peers she remains one of Brackettville's UNSUNG HEROES - Enemencia Starzel.

Psychologically Speaking by Dr. Glenn Albright

Q. Do they still electrocute people who have mental disorders?

A. Electrocute is not quite the right word for describing a treatment still used by many professionals today. The term is electroconvulsive shock therapy or ECT.

ECT is advocated only in the treatment of severe depression, and then only if the depression has not been responsive to other ' approaches such as psychotherapy or drug treat-current through the brain. This triggers a convulsion and the patient loses consciousness for a short period of time. The convulsing component of the treatment is beneficial, because it is thought to restore chemical balance, thus alleviating the depression. Muscle relaxants and sedative drugs are given before ECT to soften the impact. Treatments usually involve six to eight sessions spread over three to four weeks.

Many people criticize the use of ECT claiming that its side effects are too great to warrant its use. I believe that with careful screening, a severely depressed per-The treatment itself son with constant thoughts involves placing a short of suicide, who does not duration (less than one respond to therapeutic second) 150-volt electrical intervention, has few choices, and as such, justifies the use of ECT.
