

SCHOOL NURSE HIRED

The Brackett Independent School District Board of Trustees approved the hiring of a school nurse at the January 16, 1989 meeting. Hired was Mrs. Glenda Westphal. Mrs. Westphal has recently moved to Brackettville with her husband from Uvalde. She will be replacing Leticia Rodriguez who resigned to return to school full time at Sul Ross State University.

Mrs. Westphal will begin work at Brackett ISD on Wednesday, January 25, 1989. Her duties include maintenance of student immunization records, physical therapy for selected students, vision, hearing, and scoliosis screening of students.

NEW MEMBERS APPOINTED TO TAX APPRAISAL BOARD

The Brackett Independent School District Board of Trustees accepted administrative recommendations and appointed Sam Heninger as a new member to the Tax Appraisal Board. Mr. Heninger is a long time resident of Fort Clark, and has expertise in real estate values. Mr. McCall told the trustees that he felt Mr. Heninger would do an outstanding job representing Fort Clark's interests on the Board.

Mr. McCall also recommended that Mr. Lloyd L. Davis be reappointed to the Tax Appraisal Board. He cited Mr. Davis' past service on the Board, and described his performance as "extremely knowledgeable and fair." James W. Bader, President of the School Board, had been appointed to replace Mr. McCall on the tax Appraisal Board at the December School Board meeting.

Members of the Tax Appraisal Board serve two year terms. They are responsible for overseeing the management of the Kinney County Appraisal District Office, and the appointment of members to the Appraisal Review Board. Currently the membership of the Tax Appraisal Board are Lloyd Davis, Joe York, Jr., Tim Ward, Jimmy Bader, and Sam Heninger.

"HUNTING LIONS IN THE AIR"

The annual "Hunting Lions in the Air" contest was held Sat. Jan. 7 and Sat. Jan. 14th.

The main objective of this contest, sponsored by the Lions Club International, is to "Create and Foster a Spirit of International Understanding and Cooperation" among Lions and ham radio operators through worldwide communication. The contest is held to commemorate the birthday of Melvin Jones, founder of Lionism.

On Jan. 7th, a local Lion member and ham radio operator, Ron Frisby, KOIJU, made 16 contacts on S.W. (morse code). This included 5 Lion members and non-members in 10 countries.

On Jan. 14th, he contacted, by phone, 66 amateur radio operators from the U.S., Australia, Bermuda, Brazil, Jersey Island, Rep. of S. Africa, and Japan. This included 51 Lion members.

This activity is sufficient to insure for himself and the Brackettville Lions Club a certificate in both the C.W. and Phone category.

Final results of the contest will be available later this year when Lion Ron will be notified where he placed in this World-wide contest.

WHY WE

DON'T NEED MORE TAXES

by James C. Miller III

Despite George Bush's impressive ride to victory on a "No new taxes" pledge, the Washington Beltway Crowd is gearing up to show the rest of the country that they know better. Already, we're being deluged with commentaries asserting that President Bush and Congress must raise taxes.

The numbers you'll hear from the tax-increase fellas will sound something like this: The deficit is about $150 billion. Spending on defense, Social Security and interest on the national debt will account for about $700 billion of next year's budget, and either economic realities or political promises make them impossible to restrain.

That means that the rest of the budget, about $450 billion, will have to fall by $50 billion to meet next year's Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit target. Since this part of the budget includes such things as welfare, education, farm subsidies, the interstate highways and Medicare, it can't possibly absorb that kind of reduction. Therefore, more taxes are inevitable.

Sounds convincing, doesn't it? But the tax-raisers cleverly forgot to tell you one other important fact: Both the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and the Congressional Budget Office predict that federal revenues will rise by as much as $80 billion in each of the next four years.

All the talk about "tax increases" has obscured the fact that the federal government will already receive whopping revenue increases. Revenues will rise because more people will be working and paying taxes, people already working will get raises and pay higher taxes, and businesses will pay higher taxes on profits and payrolls.

The Washington Beltway Crowd doesn't call this revenue increase an increase. In Washington language the only thing that qualifies as a revenue increase is any new tax increase that isn't already on the books.

But the American family knows better.

Larry Lunchpail and Louise Lawyer know that if they make more money next year than they did this year, that's an increase. They might use that extra income to buy a new car, or they might use it to pay off some old debts, but they don't pretend that they're making the same amount of money that they made last year.

We should expect the same from our government. An $80 billion revenue increase is an $80 billion revenue increase.

With a $150 billion deficit and tax revenues rising by $80 billion each year, the government could eliminate the deficit in just two years by holding spending at this year's level. Or, Congress and the president could meet all of the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit targets and balance the budget by 1993 if they devoted just half of the new revenues to deficit reduction.

So the next time your congressman says that the budget can't be balanced without further tax increases, ask him whether he's fudging the numbers or if he just hasn't looked at them.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

After postponing the regular monthly meeting on January 9, 1989 for lack of a quorum, the Brackett Independent School District Board of Trustees met on Monday, January 16, 1989. Beth Ann Smith, Jimmy Bader, Tony Frerich, and Zack Davis were present. Diane Bravo, Lingo Sandoval, and Eloy Garcia were ill and unable to attend.

Discussion items on the agenda included taxation of personal property, board training, proposed policy for stolen, misused, or lost lunch tickets, and the lease/purchase of school buses. The Annual Performance Report scheduled for this meeting was postponed until February so that more board members could be present.

Mr. McCall delivered the monthly financial report, and suggested that the Board review Update 33 of the Board Policy Manual which is to be adopted in February. Action items on the agenda included hiring a new school nurse, the superintendent's evaluation, and appointment of members to the Tax Appraisal Board.

BURROW'S WORK WAS HIS LEGACY

by D.L. Grant Jr.
Express News Staff Writer

Richard Thomas "Ric" Burrow was a commercial artist, illustrator, designer and custom cabinet maker who left a lasting legacy in San Antonio.

"I can walk into La Playa and see the bar that he built there. His work is in people's homes, business cards and letterheads," said his wife, Marge Wright-Burrow of San Antonio.

Burrow, 44, died Friday with cancer.

"He was very independent, proud and unique," his wife said. "He always wore a black hat. Ric was self-contained, very self-reliant and a very good friend to anyone who needed him."

Burrow was born in Lubbock and attended art school in Paris, France; Madrid, Spain, and Dallas.

"His art work was strictly pen and ink," his wife said. "It was very unique and everyone recognized his art. It was cross-hatch technique and he won numerous awards."

Burrow first was employed by Sosa Art and was one of the core members who established the local advertising firm.

"He did a lot of work for the agency. He designed logos for numerous San Antonio businesses and won an award for the logo he designed for Jersey Lilly Steak House," she said. "He was a great person for conceptualizing. He would sit at La Playa, grab napkins and start drawing things. At home I learned not to ever throw anything away."

His wife said Burrow loved San Antonio and was in the middle of a project he hoped to one day present to the San Antonio Conservation Society.

"He was working on this project for over a year. He was illustrating all the historic homes in the King William District. He was hoping to publish a book and present it to the society," she said. "He had already finished four homes and still had a few to do."

Burrow also served as one of the mascots of the now defunct San Antonio Gunslingers of the United States Football League.

"He loved San Antonio and the Gunslingers. He traveled to Houston when the Gunslingers played in the Astrodome and he was always proud of them and he enjoyed what he did for the team," his wife said.

Other survivors include a stepson, James R. Wright, and stepdaughter, Deborah Wright, both of San Antonio; his parents Tom and Dot Burrow of Brackettville, one brother Michael Burrow of Dallas, and a sister, Carole James of Grand Prairie.

CARE OR NO-CARE

By Huguette Hirsch, FCS

A recent news brief tells about a huge new nuclear complex to be constructed by China. That may not be unusual or significant because this is a world-wide trend. What was significant in the report was the Chinese solution for their disposal of radioactive waste. They have selected a site somewhere in the remote expanse of the GOBI Desert, far from populated areas.

The GOBI is vast, covering over 500,000 square miles of wind-blown arid terrain in central Asia, along the northern boundary of China on the southern flank of Mongolia. It is truly an inhospitable isolated region of the world with little or no proximity to surface or underground sources of sweet water for humans or animal life. This appears to be a most thoughtful solution.

I have lived in China and see first-hand some of the hardship and poverty that teaming millions of Chinese endure, contributing to their short life-span. It is easy to understand why the value of life there falls far short of our standards.

Nonetheless, the Chinese show more concern for the protection of populated areas from hazardous waste than seems to exist in the US, as evidenced right here in Kinney County. Here a proposed waste dump would threaten the future of Spofford and neighboring Brackettville. They appear to CARE for their people, their future and their quality of life. Here we see a NO-CARE attitude. Why?

Fortunately, we have a group of concerned citizens in the county who are determined to preserve our precious water resources, clear air, uncontaminated ranch land, habitat for wild-life, and sanctuary for folks who want no part of urban communities where pollution prevails. Known as CARE, (Community Against Radioactive Environment) this working organization deserves the financial and moral support of every concerned resident of the county who wants the best for now and the future.

Let's unite with CARE to resist the NO-CARE profiteers who are promoting their idea with distortions of fact and glib promises of "temporary" economic benefits. A waste dump offers no lasting value -- it offers only "fools" gold.

Let's take a lesson from the Chinese with respect to radio-active waste disposal. The US has remote desert areas away from homes, people, historic areas, water resources, and other God-given assets that we must protect and treasure.

GRAND CHAMPION STEER

written and submitted by Texcor Industries.

Texcor Industries, Inc., was high bidder for the Grand Champion Steer at the 34th Annual 1989 Kinney County 4-H & FFA Livestock Show Sale. The animal was shown by Tammy Frerich, a senior at Brackettville High School. She is the daughter of Tony and Nancy Frerich.

The animal, which weighed in at 1,260 pounds, attracted the high bid of $1.50 per pound.

Usually, animals bought at auction are sold back to a packing house, which pays a "floor price" back to the purchaser. The difference between the auction price and the floor price goes to the student who raised the animal.

However, Texcor President Charles Salsman donated his floor price refund (approximately $880) back to the Kinney County 4-H & FFA Livestock Show Committee, which is trying to establish a scholarship fund for area students.

According to Brackettville ISD Superintendent Bob McCall, the scholarship money will be used to help graduating 4-H and FFA students defray the costs of attending a college, university or technical school. According to McCall, the money is distributed to the school after students are enrolled.

Additional contributions are being accepted to the scholarship fund from anyone else who would like to support the further education of ag students from Kinney County. For more information, or to make a donation, please contact David Carroll, vocational agriculture teacher, at 563-2825; or the Conty Agriculture Extension Service office at 563-2442.

CANCER DETECTION UNIT

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of every ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime during her lifetime. Every year over 37,000 women die as a result of breast cancer.

According to a spokesman from the Regional Breast Care Center at Women's & Children's Hospital in Odessa, Texas "The death rate from breast cancer could be drastically reduced if women would have mammograms done before a problem exists." By using modern state of the art x-ray equipment breast cancers can be found when they are about the size of a grain of rice and well before the cancer can be felt. A woman who is diagnosed with breast cancer at this early stage has a 90%-97% survival rate. However, a woman who is not diagnosed until a lump can be felt has approximately a 50% survival rate in five years.

In an effort to find cancers at the earliest possible stage and prevent unnecessary deaths, a mobile breast cancer detection unit will be made available to local women, on Friday, January 27, 1989. The mobile unit will be parked at the United Medical Center, Brackettville. Appointments may be made by calling 563-2434. For more information you may call the Regional Breast Care Center at Women's & Children's Hospital at (915) 334-8888/561-9999.

A WINNING TRADITION

written and submitted by Texcor Industries.

Winning the Grand Champion Steer competition was only another accomplishment in a long series of blue ribbons for Tammy. In 1988, she showed the Grand Champion Steer in the Kinney County Show, and she won Reserve Champion in 1987. In addition, she has won numerous awards over the past nine years showing lambs on the county and state level.

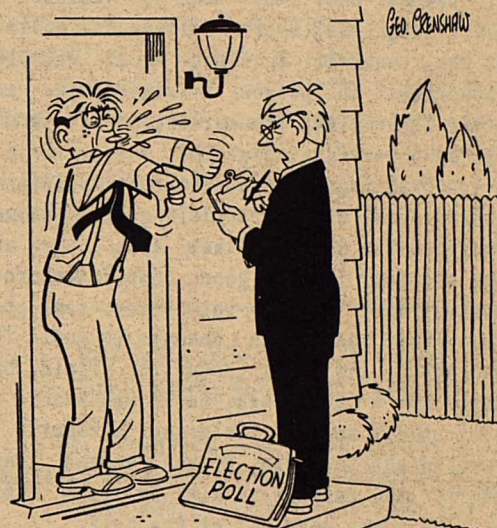

She is an A-student, has been elected Vice President of the Student Council for the past two years, is Secretary of the local chapter of the National Honor Society, and has been on the varsity cheerleading squad for the past four years serving as head cheerleader this past year. She plans on attending Angelo State University next fall.

HIDDEN TAXES

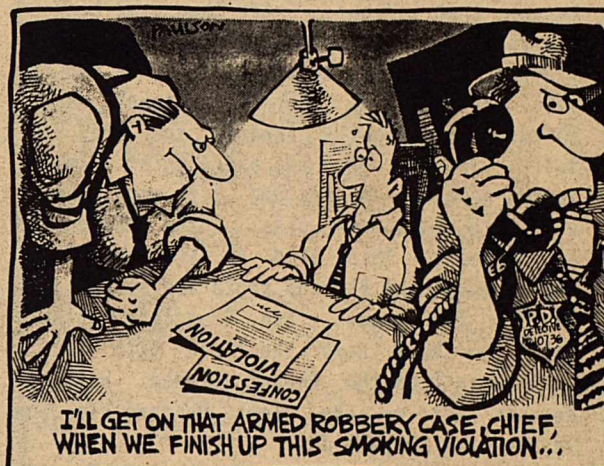

Did you know that every time you make a phone call, fill up the car or buy a pack of cigarettes, you're paying an excise tax to the state and federal governments? In fact, cigarette taxes are the most regressive of all excise taxes, taking a much greater percentage of income from poor families than from the rich--up to 15 times as much, according to a report issued by the Congressional Budget Office.

If you smoke, nearly 40 percent of the price you pay for a pack of cigarettes is the result of tobacco excise taxes. Smokers in Minnesota, for example, paid more than $202 million in federal and state tobacco excise taxes in 1986--more than the state spent on natural resources, including agriculture, fish and game, and forestry. That same year, New York smokers paid nearly three times more in excise taxes than their state spent on police protection.

49ERS WIN SUPER BOWL!!

BY J.J. GUIDRY

MIAMI, Fl. - After all the smoke cleared, the San Francisco 49ers were the Superbowl XXIII champs and they had 49 seconds to spare. Though most sports editors and writers spent their weekend in sunny Miami watching the Superbowl in person, I stayed home and observed it in windy Brackettville. It turned out to be a very exciting game.

San Francisco scored the first points as Mike Cofer made a 41 yard field goal. Boomer Esiason and the Bengals then took over and things started looking good. San Francisco's defensive back Ronnie Lott made some good tackles and caused the Bengals to punt. The 49ers moved the ball down the field, but because of a bad snap, Cofer was unable to convert on his second field goal attempt. In the second quarter, Jim Breech scored three points for the Bengals on his 34 yard field goal. The score read 3-3 at the half.

The game soon became very offensive, unlike the first half. Breech scored another field goal, this one from 43 yards out. The Bengals then led 6-3. Cofer then came back to tie the score again with a 27 yard field goal. Stanford Jennings pleased Coach Wyche and the other Bengals as he returned a kickoff return 93 yards to give the Bengals the lead once again. Breech added the extra point. In the fourth quarter, Joe Montana hit Jerry Rice on a 16 yard touchdown pass. Cofer added the extra point. This tied up the game 13-13. Breech then came through again and scored on a 40 yard field goal. San Francisco quickly moved the ball down the field with little resistance from the Bengal defense. With :43 seconds left on the clock, Montana hit John Taylor on a 10 yard TD.

This Sunday is the Pro-bowl in Hawaii. The most talented players in the NFL will be playing. There will be a write-up in the next paper.

DEAR NOSEY

Dear Nosey,

What would you do if you were pregnant and you didn't tell your mom, and she was going to find out one way or the other. Should I runaway or just leave home and never come back, or should I just stay at a friends house. Should I still go to school? Please, tell me what I should do!

Sincerely,
Helpless

Dear Helpless,

You are really in a bad position right now but the smart thing to do is tell your parents what has happened. If you are scared of what your parents may do to you, you should still tell them, because in the long run you will go back to them for help. I know that schooling will be difficult for you but one thing you don't want to do is drop out. If you are going to go through with having your baby, the first thing you want to do is finish school, and get a diploma. If you get your diploma you can get a job and be able to support you child, which will now be your major part of responsibility. You probably need your parents more now than ever. Play it smart and do the right things. I hope things go well for you!

Glad I Could Help,
Nosey

Dear Nosey,

One of my best friends likes a guy. One night I was with him and we became very close, but he still likes her. Should I tell my best friend or be loyal to the guy who used me?

Faithfully yours,
Confused

Dear Confused,

You don't have to tell your friend anything, just think of that night as nothing, unless it really meant something to you. If and when you are approached by this guy just treat him as your friend, and make it seem as if that night you spent with him was just a friendly night. Don't take that night as "I was used!", because if you knew this was going to happen you could of just left him, this way you wouldn't seem stuck in the middle. On the other hand if you really feel something for this guy, then you should discuss this with your friend. If she is one of your "true" friends, maybe she'll understand. This might be the only choice you've got, if you like the guy. It's a chance you just might have to take! Let me know how it goes, I'll always be here.

Write back,
Nosey

????????? Do YOU Have A Problem ??????????

Write to NOSEY! Let Nosey solve your problems. If you need a little advice, well Nosey is the one to write to! Here's all you have to do....

1. Write you problem down on paper.
2. Place your problem in the "Nosey Box" found in the High School Library.
3. Wait!

COOKING UP A BALANCED-- AND DELICIOUS--MEAL
FOR THE LACTOSE INTOLERANT

It's not just what you eat, but how you cook it that makes mealtime an enjoyable experience. This is just as true for the estimated 30 million Americans who experience some degree of lactose intolerance as it is for the rest of us.

Modern research is showing that lactose intolerant persons need not give up the taste, convenience and nutrition of dairy foods if they make wise choices of which ones to eat when, and how they eat them. Experts have come up with a practical list of suggestions, many of which can be applied to recipes:

- * Drink milk and eat dairy foods with meals or snacks, not alone. Most lactose intolerant persons can better handle 4 to 8 ounces of milk when it's consumed with other foods.

- * Try drinking and eating dairy products in smaller, more frequent servings.

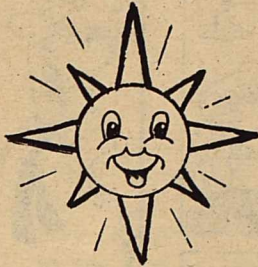

- * Choose certain dairy foods that have been shown to be better tolerated. These include whole and chocolate milk, aged or ripened cheeses (Cheddar and Swiss, for instance), ice cream, ice milk, yogurt and frozen yogurt (containing active cultures).

- * Pick the yogurt with active cultures. The enzyme needed to digest the milk sugar lactose -- lactase -- is released in the intestine by these active cultures.

- * Check out your dairy case for reduced lactose products. In some parts of the country, the choice includes milk, ice cream, cottage cheese and American process cheese food slices. You can expect these products to be slightly higher in price than other dairy products.

You can apply these tips to cooking, as well. For example, use Swiss or Cheddar to top a hamburger and use lactose-reduced milk in recipes.

A few cookbooks whose topics include low-lactose recipes are Lactose Intolerance--A Resource Including Recipes, the American Dietetic Asso., Chicago, Ill., 1985, and The Milk Sugar Dilemma: Living With Lactose Intolerance, S. Skinner and R.A. Martens, Medi-Ed Press, East Lansing, Mich., 1985.

GREENTIPS

BY KATHY BADER

January & February are very busy times in the yard and garden. This month should be used to clean up debris in the garden and flowerbed to prepare for the next plantings to be made. All old cuttings, leaves and trimmings should be burned. Fill in a good layer of organic mulch or fertilizer. Turn under any old weeds or leaves left on the ground. This will help control disease and fungus down the road.

January is also the time to spray fruit trees and vines. I have a spray schedule at the nursery that tells exactly what types of sprays to use for which trees. Come by and pick one up. As this is the time to do pruning and trimming on fruit trees, it's best to do it properly. Next week I'll go over the recommended trimming procedures for fruit trees and grape vines. Grape vines do extremely well in Brackett and are very easy to maintain.

This is an excellent time to plant some winter vegetables such as asparagus, beets, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, chard, collards, endive, kale, lettuce, some onion, radishes, elephant garlic, shallots, spinach, turnips, some peas, and many more. Just for fun try rhubarb in a tub or barrel.

This is also the time to plant roses. The next few weeks is also the time to do your pruning and spraying on roses. I'll be going over this in the next few days too.

Trim up your fall bedding plants. Remove old, dead leaves and apply a general fertilizer to give them a boost. Plant a few new ones for added color. The ornamental Kale and Cabbages are beautiful right now. Some new "Texas Star" winners include the "Carpet Series" Petunias in plum, pink, rose, velvet, red, and white. Pansies are still blooming nice too.

The extension service, the Texas nursery and most local nurseries are working together over the next few months to plant thousands of recommended shade trees in the state of Texas. It began last week with Texas Arbor Week and will continue thru April to coincide with National Arbor Day. It is hoped thru this promotion that people will plant long lived, correct varieties in our area for beautification and good health.

We will be listing the trees in the paper. We also have a list posted in the nursery, and watch for articles in the S.A. Light and Express. Remember, trees bought and donated to organizations can be deducted on your income tax. So go do something dirty --plant a tree.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as a result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate. (The cost is only $50.00)

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

There is a little blue and white chapel in Spofford, Texas. This little chapel called St. Blaise is a mission of St. Mary Magdalene of Brackettville. It was built by the brothers of the Oblates.

The Oblate Missionaries came to southern Texas and Mexico in 1883. Their history is full of adventure and excitement. The Oblates arrived in Texas in 1849, but their work in the American southwest didn't begin until 1852. At that time Bishop de Mazenod, Oblate Founder sent a band of seven missionaries under the leadership of Father Jean Verdet to Bishop Odin's Diocese of Galveston. Along with missionary work they took to the saddle to carry the gospel to hundreds of settlements called "ranchos," along the Rio Grande and for into the interior of Texas. In 1858, they also spread into Mexico.

The obstacles caused by the geography of the region, by war and yellow fever, by the cultural poverty, and by the missionaries own frailties, almost caused the Oblates to pull out. But they did remain due to the Assistant General of Congregation, Father Martinet.

All of the Oblate Missionaries were outstanding in zeal and spirit. For twenty years Father Pierre Yves Keralum rode the wilds of southern Texas along the Rio Grande. The Mexicans called him "El Santo Padre Pedrito." He was born in France, when he decided to become a priest in 1851, he chose to be an Oblate of Mary Immaculate. So at the age of thirty-five he was ordained and was sent to the pioneering group in Texas. He built, designed and supervised the Immaculate Conception Church at Brownsville and in 1872 he helped the secular priests of Laredo build their church.

He studied Spanish, practiced horseback riding. He worked for twenty years, visiting the 70 odd ranches at least three times a year. He never carried food and slept under the stars.

Because of an affliction of his speech, he used very little oratory, but taught by his good example in all things, and never complained if he was hungry but was always in a happy and cordial manner.

His hair became white, his sight weaker and he seemed an old man at fifty-two years.

Finally on the 9th of November, 1872, he started on a long trip up the Rio Grande to distant ranchos. He had often said that if he was ever near the point of death he would turn his horse loose so he could find food and water. Three days later, somewhere between Mercedes and the ranch of Los Piedras, he turned up missing. His horse was found three days later grazing in a pasture without a saddle. Evidently he had taken the wrong trail because of his poor eyesight. After many attempts to find him the searchers gave up.

Three months later, Feb. 18, a Requiem Mass was celebrated in Brownsville. His death remained a mystery for ten years. Then two cowboys came upon some cattle caught in a thicket. After bringing back axes from the ranch, they hacked into the thick brush and found an old rotten saddle, some human bones and chalice and the long last Padre Pedrito was found. Among the remains they found a rosary, cross, an altar bell, other belongings, including a watch and eighteen dollars in silver. So Padre Pedrito had not been the victim of violence or robbery as had been thought. He had evidently become lost, even snake-bit, anyway his discovery became in the nick of time. There had been serious talk of withdrawing the Oblates home from the missionary field but thanks to the sacrifice of Padre Pedrito the Oblates remained to evangelize Texas.

The little chapel of St. Blaise is still alive in Spofford to carry on the brave spirit as shown by the life and spirit of the Oblate missionaries.

REFLECTIONS

BY PRESTON TAYLOR, PASTOR
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

A small plant called the "Bitter Weed" grows in some pasture lands. When the milk cows eat that horrible-tasting plant, the milk is bitter and raw tasting.

Have you ever met a bitter person? Such an individual becomes filled with distasteful attitudes. He vents those sour, cutting feelings at any opportunity. The roots of bitterness that spring up in life not only pollute the one in which bitterness grows, but others are also defiled and poisoned by associating with one who has turned rancid.

Are you bitter with your job? Exodus says "the Egyptians made the lives of the Hebrews with hard bondage." Work that crushes a person or does not really offer a reward makes one bitter. The work may be an algebra problem or a history assignment. The job could be that of preparing a meal or driving a truck. Bitterness may spring from one's inability to do quality work. Misfits become bitter. Bitterness grows in work today where employees are not satisfied.

Negative family relationships become good ground for seeds of bitterness to sprout and flourish. Interestingly enough, Paul counseled "Husbands, love your wives and be not bitter against them." One husband disliked his wife, saying she couldn't make biscuits like his mother did. She retorted, "Yeah and you don't bring home the dough like my dad did."

Children may harbor bitter feelings toward parents. Our race may not care for another race—the Germans may hate the Chinese and the Eskimos may disdain the Afghans. One town may not like another town. Bitterness may spring up between "inlaws and outlaws."

Some may even feel an intense bitterness toward God, "I don't like me as I am!" And as a consequence we eventually point an accusing finger at God. We strive with our Maker. We ask, "God, why did you let this happen to me?" If He is God as He claims, couldn't He do a better job? That's our question. And maybe God would have to answer, "Yes, but do you really want me to get rid of you?"

If the poison of bitterness is allowed to flow, the result will be death. Get rid of every cluster of bitterness. What's the alternative? Maybe this could be too sentimental and be pushed too far, but be sweet. Take along a little honey on your journey, and life will be not bitter, but better.

FIRE DEPARTMENT NEWS

On Saturday, January 21, 1989 a fire was called in and reported at Fort Clark Springs. It was started by a cigarette ash accidentally dropped in a waste paper basket. There was some damage done to one room but could have been worse if there was not some quick thinking of a neighbor who doused everything down with a water hose immediately.

At approximately 11:30 p.m. Sunday night, January 22, we received a call for the jaws of life at an accident this side of the Nueces River. Before we were ready to roll the call was cancelled. Four people were injured in the car wreck.

ST. MARY MAGDALENE ENGLISH MISSION

Missions throughout the year are very important for all of us. It gives us a chance to renew our Religious Faith. And to help us to become more aware of the Holy Spirit.

During the month of February, there will be two missions. The first will be held Monday Feb. 6th through Friday Feb. 10th at 7 p.m. lasting 1 and 1/2 hours each night. This mission is a Renewal of Faith Mission, its for the purpose of deepening and enlivening our prayer life and relationship with Jesus, our Savior, and also to help us become more aware of the Holy Spirit in our lives and to render more vital and compelling commitments to Jesus Christ.

Our second mission is for the Grace of Reconciliation of Marriage Relationships. It will be held Feb. 13th through Feb 16th.

Brother Timothy Wrinn has 26 years of missionary experience, 13 years in Bolivia, S.A. and 13 years in missionary work throughout the Southwest United States, from Texas to California. His many years experience in inner healing prayer for people have endeared him to many. He has worked in parishes from Asherton to Uvalde.

Brother Wrinn extends an invitation to each of you to come by the rectory and visit with him.

As the Texas Department of Agriculture begins its sixteenth year of registration for the Family Land Heritage Program, we again seek your support in helping to make the program a continued success. Family farmers and ranchers in our state are struggling to survive under ever mounting odds, and we want to honor those who have persevered for a century or more.

Since 1974, some 2,310 Texas farms and ranches have been registered through this program. In fulfillment of program guidelines, we ask that families present supporting documents to you for certification before forwarding their applications to our offices. Although final approval is granted by the Department, your assistance in ascertaining proper ownership would be most appreciated. This year's application forms have been enclosed for families in your county.

Owners of land determined to meet program requirements, will receive certificates and gate markers acknowledging the designation at ceremonies in Austin this November. The deadline for applications is July 15, 1989. Enclosed is a draft news release that may be used either as a news article, a newspaper column, or in a newsletter. Also enclosed is a copy of the Family Land Heritage application.

I appreciate your past assistance and hope you will continue to support the program this year. If you need additional applications or have questions regarding procedures, please contact our Family Land Heritage Coordinator Frankie Whitesides at (512) 463-7678.

BULLOCK FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

Austin--Campaign reports filed this week by Bob Bullock show that he's raised more than $1.6 million since he announced for Lieutenant Governor and has $1.3 million in the bank for his campaign.

The reports show that Bullock has borrowed no money and is still the only announced candidate for the job.

Bullock's report, filed with the Secretary of State, went beyond the requirements of state election laws by showing the financial history of his campaign since he first announced for Lieutenant Governor.

Bullock, a Democrat, who is now State Comptroller, is running in the 1990 election to succeed Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who is retiring.

"We reported more than is required because I think that is the spirit of the campaign finance disclosure law," Bullock said.

"Public financial disclosure and a secret ballot are the two prime ingredients of honest elections."

Bullock's report showed that more than 1,200 Texans and business, civic and labor groups contributed to his campaign in the last six months. More than 70% of the money raised came from individuals.

Bullock, a native of Hillsboro, attended Hill Junior College, Texas Tech and Baylor University Law School. He received the Distinguished Alumni Award from Texas Tech last October.

Bullock has served in the Texas House of Representatives, and has also been an Assistant Attorney General, an Administrative Assistant in the Governor's office, Texas Secretary of State and State Comptroller.

He is an attorney and an Air Force veteran.
