

JUDGE AND COMMISSIONER REFUSE CITY'S OFFER

Pictured above is the County pool after damage was done by heavy rain about two years ago which caused the pool, after drained, to float up. Attempts were made to repair pool with no results.

COUNTY HAS SPECIAL MEETING

In a Special Commissioners Court Meeting Wednesday, August 23, 1989, the County Judge, Tommy Seargeant and one Commissioner, Joe Garza, blocked an effort of the City of Brackettville to help the County put a new swimming pool and get it back in operation for the children of Kinney County. Commissioner Slubar and Commissioner Bizzell were willing to work with the city with the advice of County Attorney Tully Shahan that everything was legal and in order. Since there were only four present, the vote was two for and two against.

The County Swimming pool had been damaged for approximately 2 years and was not useable. Two years ago when the County had approximately 9 to 10 inches of rain and the City flooded, the pool was drained and this caused it to float up because of the water still standing underneath the pool. The County has not been able to come up with enough money to replace the pool. A Parks and Wildlife Grant was applied for about a year ago. This was done by Mr. Charles Trost with the help of Rose Mary Slubar and Tim Ward. As of this date, the County has not been granted this grant for approximately $24,000.00. The County would have to match this grant with approximately $24,000.00. At this point and time, the pool could not be repaired or replaced for $48,000.00.

The City can apply for a $93,000.00 grant to replace the pool. They were willing to do so! They requested that the County just back them up (if needed) with the $24,000.00 that they had already agreed to match with the Parks and Wildlife Grant. This would only be used if needed and it would not even have to be budgeted until the 1990-1991 budget year.

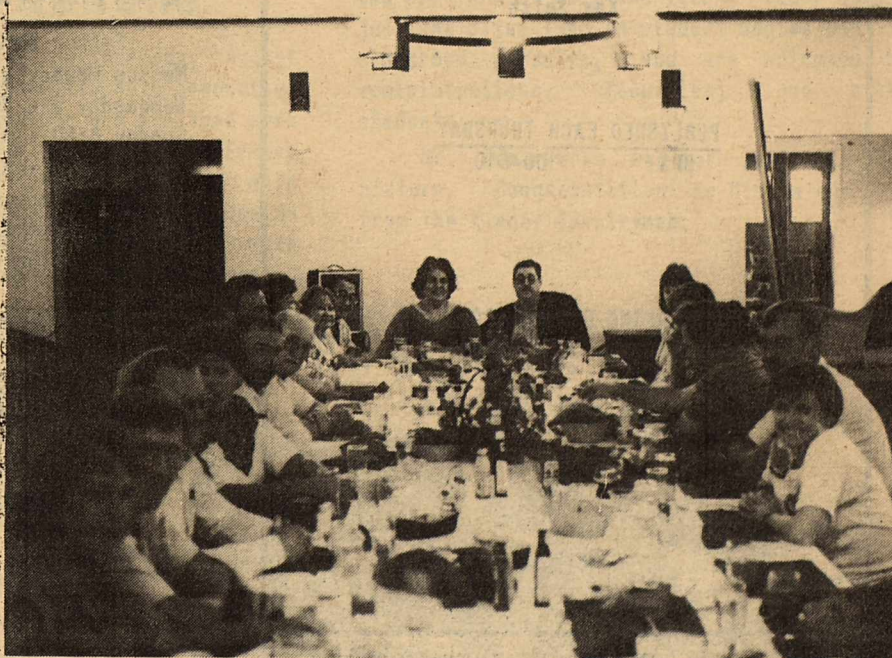

Hopefully the City, Friday at their meeting, will go ago with this project. The children of this community really need a pool. For the benefit of the County and the City and the Children of this Community, offers of forming a donation committee was made by County Attorney Tully Shahan, with offers of help from Commissioner Slubar and Bizzell. Maybe the Community can raise the back-up money ($24,000.00) to help the City with the pool.

Mayor La Gioia stated that this unwillingness to work with the City by the County Judge and Commissioner Garza will not affect the relationship between the City and County and that the City's doors will always be open to the County.

The Mayor also wanted to thank the Commissioners Court for letting the City buy the patrol car for the Chief of Police from the County.

A meeting was also held to adopt the 1989-1990 County Budget. A public hearing was held with no input by the public. The motion to adopt this budget was made by Commissioner Bizzell and Seconded by Commissioner Slubar. The motion carried.

KENNETH AND GLORIA MULLIGAN

A going away party was given for Kenneth and Gloria Mulligan by Dr. and Mrs. Agustin Luz, Friday, August 18th. The Mulligan are moving to El Paso where Kenneth will be teaching and coaching and Gloria will be close to her family who reside in El Paso.

The Mulligans have been residents of Kinney County for the last five years. They have contributed much to this community, Kenneth as a teacher and coach and Gloria as a nurse at United Medical Center.

The Mulligans will be leaving this Saturday to their new home. We wish the whole Mulligan family lots of luck in their new home and jobs and we want them to know they are leaving many friends behind in Brackettville.

BISD ADOPTS BUDGET & MAINTAINS TAX RATE

The Brackett Independent School District held a board meeting on Wednesday, August 16, 1989, in the Board Room of the school. The main purpose of this meeting was to discuss the budget.

Brackettville Independent School District Trustees adopted a record budget of $2,680,954. Most of the nearly $300,000 increase was due to salary increases and benefit increases for District Personnel. The beginning salary for a first year (no experience) teacher at the Brackett Independent School District is $18,200 for 183 days. A teacher with twenty years of experience and a Master's degree will make $29,700 for the same 183 days. Also, included in employee benefits for the first time in a District contribution of $55.26 per month toward employee health insurance. This is the first time that the District has been able to contribute.

After a year of chaos with three different insurance carriers, Bob McCall, Superintendent, said, "We were looking for stability." That stability was possible only with a contribution by the District. Other major items in the budget include:

1. Upgrading student computer labs and development of a technology plan.
2. Word processing equipment for business education.
3. Contingency money for classroom air conditioning.
4. Aluminum bleachers for the football field.
5. Initial funding for a high school baseball program.
6. Purchase of a new school bus to retire a 1972 Dodge Van.

Reductions in the number of aides and secondary personnel were used to keep the budget increases as low as possible.

Despite the record budget, school property taxes will not increase in 1989-90. The Board of Trustees set the tax rate at Seventy-three (.73) will be assessed for Maintenance and Operations, and .1271 cents will be dedicated to retiring the condded indebtedness of the District.

An increase proposal for the school lunch prices was on the agenda. Prices have remained the same since the cafeteria opened, but there will be a reduced, as well as some funding. There is a need to put the cafeteria on a pay as you go method. Lunch prices were raised to $1.10 for Pre-Kindergarden through the sixth grade, and $1.25 for the seventh grade through the twelfth grades.

It was also discussed that students now are required to be in attendance for eighty days, out of a total of eighty seven during each semester.

This rate is the same as the rate for 1988-89, although falling property values would have allowed the trustees to increase the rate significantly. Superintendent McCall said, "We are really pleased that we can maintain a steady tax rate for 1989-90. Many districts in our area and around the state are going to raise taxes 20% or more just to stay in business."

TWO BRACKETTVILLE RESIDENTS GRADUATE WITH HONORS

At Alpine, Texas, on Thursday, August 17, Sul Ross State University held graduation ceremonies for 168 students who finished work on bachelor and master degrees during Summer 1989. 139 completed studies at the main campus in Alpine, and 29 at the Uvalde Center. Of the 168 students, 10 graduated with honors denoting high scholastic achievement.

Summer 1989 graduates included two from Brackettville. Gloria Benacci, Bachelor of Arts in English, earned the only summa cum laude honor in the entire group of 168. Don Parks, Bachelor of Arts in Communication, was one of four who finished with cum laude honors.

This attainment of scholastic excellence by two so-called "non traditional" students is an important demonstration that it is never too late to return to education. In ever-increasing numbers mature people are turning to college campuses across the nation to undertake studies interrupted in earlier times by career, family, or other demands. These students are considered "non traditional" because they have not gone directly from high school to higher education.

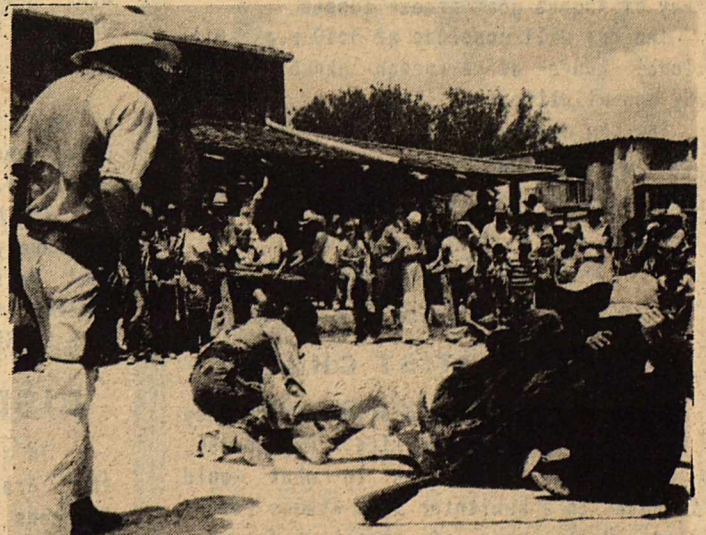

Sul Ross University's enrollment recently included 52% non traditional and 48% traditional students. These figures are today normal at a great many colleges and universities. Higher education is no longer the province of only the young. Older people join and often lead in student bodies and in classroom pursuits, and are welcomed by administrations, faculties, and other students.

Mr. Don Parks was not available for picture. Congratulation to Gloria and Don from The Kinney Cavalryman.

BY ALAN L. MCWILLIAMS

I had an opportunity to attend a training course in Uvalde last week for recertification as a private pesticide applicator. If you currently hold a certified private, commercial or non-commercial, applicator's license from the Texas Department of agriculture, you must attend a recertification training to continue to hold that license. There are other legislative changes that could affect your use of state limited used pesticides that all applicators should be aware of. These changes will take effect September 1, 1989. If you are in doubt about how these new laws affect you I would suggest you call the Texas Department of Agriculture at (512) 463-0013.

Producers may also be interested in attending the annual Sheep and Goat Field Day in San Angelo at the Texas Agricultural Experiment and Research Center. Registration will be at 9:00 a.m. This year's field day is being dedicated to Dr. Charles Livingston, Jr., a long-time center veterinarian. Livingston is retiring and has been with the Texas A&M System for 34 years.

The day's formal events will begin with a morning tour of some of the work being conducted at the center. The various stops will include Cashmere goat and Australian Merino Research, new mesquite control developments, and new measurement techniques for wool and mohair. Also to be looked at will be control of external parasites and the status of lean lamb in the sheep industry.

There will be a catered lunch and the afternoon section will be conducted by Ralph Mayer, newly elected president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raiser's Association.

There will be industry updates and research overview of the center flock. The remainder of the program will feature talks by Extension personnel covering cotton gossypol problems in early weaned lambs, new wildlife management developments, and a survey of Angora goat freeze losses.

The day will conclude at 3:00 p.m. with optional tours of a forage shrub grazing study and wildlife food plots.

If you need more information about the field day or the licensing requirements, please feel free to give me a call.

REFLECTIONS

BY PRESTON TAYLOR
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

May I make a few suggestions which may be helpful in your family life? Of course, you may add your own ideas to what would contribute to a healthier more stable family setting. Maybe some of these words will encourage you.

1. Remember there is no perfect family. Yours will not be an exception to the rule.

However, your home can be a happy one if every member will work at the job.

2. Expect some failures and set backs along the way--and forgive one another for mistakes and communication breakdowns. Try to stay on speaking (not shouting) terms. Husband, wife and children form a wonderful triangle. Keep it beautiful.

3. Expect and accept some feelings of hostility and jealousy toward one another. However, don't try to "get even" with the others. Do not "spite" brother, sister, mate, parent or child. Love one another!

4. Don't try to be too defensive about your faults. We all have wonderful qualities as well as some defects.

5. Admit the fact of failure and bungling. At the same time, let's praise one another and say "thank you" for kindness shown.

6. Remember that progress in any area is slow and fluctuating. Problems that develop over a long period of time are not solved quickly. Practice patience. Yes, patience.

7. Don't make snappy, hasty judgments. They usually "snap real soon". Make healthy, long range plans for all the family.

8. Let Christ be the central person in all the family relationships because God loves us!

9. Remember that many friends are interested in you and have many of your similar joys, struggles, and hopes.

10. Read carefully Ephesians 4:30-32, 5:21-25, 6:1-4.

MOTIVATION

Og Mandino, President and Managing Editor of "Success Unlimited Magazine," list several classic rules for success. Some of his ideas may interest you.

Form good habits and become their slave. Greet each day with love in your heart. Persist until you succeed. Live each day as though it were your last. Laugh at the world and be happy. Master your emotions today.

Multiply your worth a hundred fold. Act now. These ideas and others are in Mandino's small best-seller entitled "The Greatest Salesman in the World."

Another important rule which is not directly given is motivation. The late Dr. J.B. Gambrell said he personally knew a man who had been bed ridden and unable to walk for months.

One day a snake fell on his bed from a rafter in his old house. The man jumped out of bed and was cured before he thought of his inability. Motivation moves people.

The Master motivator is Jesus Christ. He can make your determination strong enough so that failure will never overtake you and success and prosperity to those who commit life to Him.

BISD SETS TAX RATE

In a Monday, August 21, 1989, meeting, the Brackett Independent School District Trustees set a tax rate of .8571 cents for the 1989-90 school year. This rate reflects no increase over the 1988 tax rate, and in fact is a net decrease in the rate needed to generate revenue for school district operations.

"We have tried to hold tax increases to a minimum in the past year, but we have had to go up. The administration and the trustees agreed that we would try to leave the rate the same this year," Bob McCall, Superintendent of Schools, stated. Voting for the tax rate were President, Jimmy Bader, Zack Davis, Secretary, Beth Ann Smith, Vice President, Lingo Sandoval, and Eloy Garcia. Absent and not voting were Jewel Robinson and Diane Bravo.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS WOULD BOOST TEXAS ECONOMY

"I will always believe in private enterprise as the backbone of economic well-being in the United States," President Franklin Delano Roosevelt told the nation in a radio address.

If this is true for the nation, it also is true for our state. In this, the third article in my series on proposed state constitutional amendments which voters will decide in November, I will outline two which are central to our state's prospects for economic recovery.

Proposition 3, sponsored by Rep. Dudley Harrison (D-Sanderson) and Sen. Chet Edwards (D-Duncanville), would allow voters to authorize the issuance of general obligation bonds to support business development.

The proposition will read as follows on the ballot:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for the recovery and further development of the state's economy, with goals of increasing job opportunities and the development and production of Texas products and businesses."

Specifically, the legislature would be authorized to issue bonds to fund a Texas Product Development Fund, a Texas Small Business Incubator Fund and a Texas Agricultural Fund. Although the three funds were established by the 70th Legislature, their funding is subject to statewide voter approval.

The Texas Product Development Fund would assist in the development and production of new or improved products through loans, loan guarantees, and equity investments. Lawmakers could issue as much as $25 million in general obligation bonds to support the fund.

The Texas Small Business Incubator Fund would stimulate the growth of small business through loans and grants, using the $20 million in bonding authority granted to the legislature.

Because new business is provide two-thirds of the new jobs in Texas, support of the growth and development of small businesses should result in the creation of jobs.

According to "Inc." magazine's 1988 ranking of metropolitan areas in terms of new business starts, three of the top 25 are in Texas: Austin is first, the Dallas-Ft. Worth area is ninth, and San Antonio is 21st.

The Texas Agricultural Fund also would be funded if voters approve the bond obligation in November. It would foster the production, processing, marketing and export of Texas agricultural products grown by small agricultural businesses. Lawmakers could authorize up to $25 million in bonds to provide initial support for the fund.

Another proposed economic stimulus for Texas to be decided by voters in November is Proposition 5 by Sen. Bob McFarland (R-Arlington) and Rep. Hugo Berlanga (D-Corpus Christi). The proposition will read as follows on the ballot:

"The constitutional amendment promoting economic growth, job creation, and fair tax treatment for Texans who export goods to other states and nations by restoring and allowing, on a local option basis, and add valorem tax exemption for certain purpose of assembling, storing, manufacturing, processing, or fabricating."

This proposition is more commonly referred to as the "freeport exemption proposition." Texas is the only state that taxes goods in transit through the state; all other states provide special tax treatment or exemptions to such products.

Texas first imposed taxes on goods in transit in 1968. Proponents of the proposed amendment say these ad valorem taxes are costing Texas far more in lost business opportunities than they are netting the state in taxes.

Proposition 5 would make Texas competitive with other states in attracting businesses which would bring goods into Texas temporarily for assembly, storage, processing or fabrication, thereafter to ship the goods back out of state for distribution.

"Economy is the method by which we prepare today to afford the improvements of tomorrow," Calvin Coolidge told the Congress. Regarded in that light, these proposed constitutional amendments are both economical and forward-looking and in the spirit of our great state.

PROPOSITIONS WOULD AFFECT YOUR REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT

"Democratic institutions are never done," Woodrow Wilson said. "They are, like the living tissue, always a-making."

In Texas our democratic government and our constitution involve to satisfy new demands and to resolve emerging problems. In November voters will evaluate 21 proposed amendments to the Texas constitution, eight of which would change subtly the way in which constituents are represented.

Those eight propositions will be described in this continuation of my series of articles on proposed amendments to the Texas constitution.

Proposition 1 by Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos (D-Austin) and Rep. David Hudson (D-Tyler), for example, proposes increasing legislators' salaries for the first time in 14 years.

It would raise the current annual salary of $7,200 to $23,358, one-fourth of the governor's salary, which is set by general law. It also would raise the salaries of the speaker of the house and the lieutenant governor to one-half of the governor's salary.

Proposition 11, also by Barrientos and Hudson, would increase the permitted per diem expense allotment for legislators to the maximum amount allowed for deduction by the Internal Revenue Service. This means an increase from $30 per day to $81, which is more realistic.

Proposition 7 by Sen O.H. Harris (R-Dallas) and Rep. Debra Danburg (D-Houston) would shorten the cumbersome oath of office for legislators and would incorporate a new requirement that they sign statements affirming that they have not bribed voters.

Proposition 14 by Sen. Buster Brown (R-Lake Jackson) and Rep. Jim Tallas (R-Sugarland), calls for a change in the term of office of the Ft. Bend County District Attorney. While this is an issue of interest primarily to voters in that county, the change in terms of office must be made in the constitution and therefore must be approved by voters statewide.

The same holds true of Proposition 20 by Sen. Don Henderson (R-Houston) and Rep. Danburg, which would abolish the office of county surveyor in seven counties, including two in Senate District 21, Bexar and Webb. Proposition 20 also would enable these counties to transfer the duties of the surveyor to other county offices.

The Texas Constitution requires legislative approval for the creation or abolition of local hospital districts and specifies the length of the terms of board members.

Proposition 16 by Sen. Kenneth Armbrister (D-Victoria) and Rep. Mike McKinney (D-Centerville) would establish general guidelines for hospital districts and then would empower localities to create their own hospital districts.

BROWN OXYGEN SERVICE

Brown Oxygen Service exists today primarily due to the successful past experience of Russell A. Brown. I am a Texas State Licensed Respiratory Care Practitioner. I have eleven years experience in hospital Respiratory Care department management. I have five years experience in Home Oxygen and Respiratory Equipment to the local physicians and patients of the community of Eagle Pass, Texas. Brown Oxygen Service has diversified sales and service in the last one and a half years which was initially limited to home oxygen, and was later expanded to include ambulatory aids such as Wheelchairs, Walkers, Quad Canes, Walking Canes and other devices, to Hospital Beds, and Lift Chairs. Last Summer Colostomy Care Products and Incontinence Supplies were added to products available for sale. Sales for 1987 were expanded by 500% over the initial eight month period in 1986.

Brown Oxygen Service was established to provide a locally based, high quality, home medical equipment company capable of providing for the needs of the local community, while at the same time maintaining a high degree of profitability. I also plan to add the capability of performing Electrocardiogram and Electroencephalogram services in patients homes and in nursing homes. I already have the capability of performing Arterial Blood Gas Analysis. I am trying to place my company in a position to provide diagnostic and therapeutic services to patients outside the hospital in an emerging alternate health care delivery system.

THANK YOU

The family of Eva Vincent wishes to express our appreciation to those who furnished food and a cold drink at the Slaton Hall after the service.

DREAM DAY REMEMBERED

August 28 marks the fifth annual Dream Day, commemorating the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s "I Have a Dream" speech delivered during the August 28, 1963, March on Washington. Attended by an estimated 250,000 people, the March on Washington was one of the most influential events during the civil rights movement. The march led to the prompt passage of the Civil Rights Bill of 1964.

"Dream Day is an opportunity for all of us to say 'We are one America'," says Dee D. Smith Simmons, founding president of the Chicago-based Global Committee Commemorating King Days, which sponsors Dream Day. "Some of us have over-come, and through efforts like the Dream Day celebration, perhaps more of us will be motivated to do the same."

Participants are encouraged to wear black and white on August 28 to show support for racial harmony and cultural coexistence.

BUSTAMANTE ANNOUNCES HOME FOR HOMELESS

G. Bustamante (D-TX 23) has announced that the former U.W. Immigration and Naturalization Service Border Patrol station in Carrizo Springs is being made available by the U.S. General Services Administration (GSA) to assist homeless persons. "It's going to mean a lot to some fortunate people in the area."

The property at 1705 N. First St. is being assigned to the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) under provisions of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act. HHS will lease the property to Community Services Agency of Dimmit, LaSalle, and Maverick counties, headquartered in Carrizo Springs. The agency plans to establish a multiple purpose facility to provide food and shelter for up to 20 homeless people.

The .3-acre property contains a 980-square-foot office and a 1,312-square-foot detached garage. It was certified suitable for homeless use by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Commenting on the government's decision, Bustamante said, "This will provide needy people with a place to sleep while saving a great deal of money, and putting to good use an otherwise empty building."

ENERGY CONSERVATION

ENERGY CONSERVATION -- IMPORTANT BUT NOT ENOUGH

Test your energy I.Q. True or False?

By the year 2000, the United States is likely to --

1. Use energy more efficiently
2. Need more energy.
3. Import more oil.

If you answered all three questions "true," you're batting a thousand. No, it's not a contradiction. According to the most recent projections by the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE), the United States will be more energy efficient in the years ahead, but still will use more energy and import more oil.

That's because even though the same amount of energy will go further in the year 2000 than it does now, anticipated growth in the U.S. economy will still drive up total energy use. DOE estimates that each BTU (a standard energy measurement) will produce 15% more economic output by the year 2000 than it does today. However, because the gross national product (GNP) in the year 2000 should be about one-third larger, DOE also projects the nation will still use more energy -- 13% more -- by the year 2000.

Because the share of U.S. energy consumption supplied by oil is likely to remain about the same, DOE projects that the United States will be using more oil -- 1.6 million barrels a day more -- in the year 2000 than it does now.

And DOE may be underestimating future U.S. energy use. First, DOE assumes that the U.S. economy will grow more slowly than it has since 1970. Second, the oil prices DOE assumes have not resulted in as much conservation in recent years as DOE projects for the future. Other institutions, such as the First Boston Corporation, an investment bank, project the United States would use even more oil than DOE projects if oil prices were as low as those assumed by the DOE study.

How high would prices have to go to keep

TRACKS ALONG THE TRAIL BY DORTHY PAYNE

The dogs of Red River, New Mexico were special citizens. These dogs played a very important part in the old mining community. In the early 1990's the St. Bernard dogs were loved and appreciated by the people of Red River.

The most famous of these dogs was a dog named Noah. Noah was abandoned in Red River when his owner went away and left him. He would wander through the town taking handouts by the local store owners. Pretty soon he grew to like steak and beer and he would drop by the lodge for food and by the saloon, where the saloon keeper would meet him with his usual ration of beer and let the saloon patrons pet him. When the saloon and the lodge changed hands Noah had to go with the deal.

Another famous Red River dog was "Old Red", another orphan. He followed the same chow line as Noah. Old Red would get food wherever he could. He was a beautiful Irish Setter, but a few years later got mixed up with a fast car on the road. It would take money to take him to a near by town to a vet. The towns people dug in their pockets for the necessary funds for his transportation and treatment. The citizens, when Old Red was healed, lowered the Red River speed limit to ten miles per hour, so their town dogs would be safe. The people loved their dogs and were loyal. After all a man's best friend is supposed to be his dog.

Red River has grown into a fun place through the years. The fair there is crowded with booths on crafts, leather work, silversmiths, etc. People from across the country mingle in friendly fellowship.

The sking in the winter is good, to say nothing of trout fishing. There is something for everyone all year around. In the old days Red River had a few buildings at the bottom of its famous pass. Now it is a bustling resort town with more than enough to keep its visitors busy.

a yellun! Some are a little reluctant about gettun ready for school, so I hear tell. Some are already workin out with the Band and Cheerleadin and all. Gonna miss them younguns a wanderin and a funnun around. Those little girls just a giggelin - and those sassy little boys and their pranks. My, it's gonna be a bit lonesum and quiet.

Sure would appreciate ya'll a placin a phone call to Sarah, here at the Cavalryman Paper, and she will pass the message on to me, and I'll shore write up somethin about yore happenins, and about your friends who come ta visit yall. The number is 563-2991.

Talkin about Sarah Hoover, well seems shes been a poutin around a bit, since she came back from her Houston solution, and the reason? Her wonderful son has been a working to fix up her kitchen, an since she loves to cook, she has been just a little bit inconvenienced. Jest git your lip up outten yore lap Sarah, put back on that aprin and smile, and soon things will be so purty in yore kitchen, you can jest whip up a great meal.

Well! Heard tell that Jean and Tom Faulkenberry, went ta visit their chillun's and grand-chillun's in Alaska. Tom, got some wonderful fishin in, and they jest had a jim dandy time. Let Tom, tell yall about his fishin stories - Wow! At the ones that got away. And he said the weather got a bit warm, around the middle seventies, and they were a wishin, while they were a fishin that they had an air conditioner. Can you believe that? In Alaska?

Well some folk talk and some don't, and I shore keep my ear a tuned in and a watchin. I happened to see Mrs. Jackson, along with her two boys, Matthew and Steve. That Matthew boy, is a sharp little fella. I thought he was around five years old. Lawdy! He ain't even four yet. But almost as the kids say, come September.

And some other cute kids are the Charles and Penny Ingram's little uns. Kyle and Candice. They was a workin the boxes at the Burger and Shake while a puttin down some vittles one day last week. They shore are cute little rascals.

Have ya'll seen Jonsie, lately? Why that thar poor gal, done felt need of attention, and she broke her left shoulder. If'n ya'll ain't to busy, give her a call, and cheer the gal up a mite. She love ta paint, visit, and watchin her T.V.

While I'm about this visitin bit, there is a very lonely lady on the Fort, shore would enjoy a visit, or a card from anyone.

Might jest give her a call before you come, she has a problem gettin round, and her eyes ain't what they use to be, she does have her number in the Fort, telephone book. She is the mother of Hawkins Huey, and her name is Ethel Hawkins, and I believe I hear tell that she lives in unit one.

Another person who thrives on a visit from anyone a wanten ta find a fine person ta talk too, and that is lovely Ann Butler, and her husband Bill. They got so much to share, and they do git lonesome too. She had heart surgery last year, I'm told, and she's spunky, and a gittin round somethin fierce. Now you jest be careful there Ann. Heard that her husband makes the most delicious home made bread. He's a good cook to so they tell me.

Thar was a Birthday party out at the Golf Course the other day, and they danced, and had a time of it. Seems they celebrated some eight birthday's in one.

Did ya'll git to the Pot Luck Dinner last Wednesday (a week ago)? Heard that there was a great selection of food, but only three or four tables were full. Harlan Hunter, was a gonna have a sing-a-long, but not enough people showed up he said. Soooo, he up and left, and at one of the tables, three die hards, joined in harmony, and they sang a song. Believe it was led by Herb Voracek, and joined by Bea Workman, of Temple, Texas, and Marj Love. Were they any good? I leave that up to the listeners. Speakin of Bea Workman, I heard tell that she and her husband Roger, have land picked out on the Fort, north of the Eckenroth's home, and plan to return here and reside. We shore do welcom ya'll back Bea and Roger.

Heard that Ben and Virginia Nelson have returned from their long vacation. Ya need ta know how they did? Give em a phone call. Ya see, ifun I gave you all the news, ya wouldn't get out and say howdy to these here folks, who want to know that they been missed!

Well folks my space has been ate up, and there is so much more to share with ya'll, but I have ta get back to my mendin and bakin, cause you never know when someone might drop in. Ya'll golfer's get out there and hit them balls straight. And ya'll git perpared for the return of the "Winter Texans". They'll be showin up shortly.

Now ya'll don't forgit ta call a askin for "Snoops", 563-2991, and I'll shore write ya up, otherwise, I'll be thar a snoopin! See ya'll next week. God Bless ya'll!!!

ENERGY CONSERVATION

U.S. energy consumption constant through the rest of this century? The answer, based on past behavior, is not encouraging. An American Petroleum Institute study found that, assuming the economy continues to grow at its recent pace, the price of energy would have to rise three or four times -- from $13 a barrel in 1987 to $38 in the year 2000 -- to maintain the same overall level of energy consumption. To reduce consumption 10 percent, energy prices would have to rise five or six times -- to $61 a barrel or more -- by the year 2000.

Rather than depend on higher prices to encourage conservation, why doesn't the government simply impose restrictions on energy use? Because that approach can also cause severe economic dislocations. A government mandate to use less energy does not guarantee more efficient use of energy. Instead, forcibly cutting back on energy use can mean that factories operate fewer hours, pay lower wages and employ fewer people. Energy use restrictions can also create serious inconveniences, such as the long lines at service stations during the federal gasoline allocations and price controls of the 1970s.

Finally, even halting the growth in energy consumption would only slow, but not stop, rising U.S. dependence on imported oil. Why? Because DOE projects domestic oil production will continue to decline -- by more than 2 million barrels a day by the year 2000. That's a major reason DOE projects that at the turn of the century, about 60 percent of the petroleum used in the United States will be imported.

Conservation -- or energy efficiency -- is important. But conservation alone will not solve U.S. energy problems. Instead, a range of policies that promote both conservation and increased domestic energy production still be needed during the coming decade.

ALAMO VILLAGE

Relive the Old West in Alamo Village. Unique movie location. Alamo Village has something of interest for everyone in the family. It is not unusual for a Longhorn or a horse to wander through the Village. Or, to see a stagecoach rumble past. And, for sure, in the summer time, there will be gunfights -- in fact, four each day and each one a different show. Talk to the man who operates the whole thing -- Happy Shahan.

For good music, Alamo Village can't beat Mike Montana's Gringos -- Mike Montana, Sergio Salinas, and Clyde Hepline -- do four shows a day inside the Cantina (that's the place that serves good food, ice cold tea, soft drinks, and hot coffee). They are joined by the beautiful and talented Templeton Sisters -- Mary, Carol and June. Charming and witty Michelle Burns will be there as Emcee to relate the history of Alamo Village, the Shahan Ranch, and share information about stars and the movies they have filmed at the Village. Tour the exact replica of the Alamo built for John Wayne's The Alamo.

Robert Hooker, brilliant young sculptor, has bronze work on display and will even let you watch him create his work. If you like visiting museums filled with authentic Western items, Alamo Village has that, too. The Trading Post, the General Store, and the Indian Store are air-conditioned for your shopping delight.

If you don't meet your friends at Alamo Village, you can make new ones. Relaxed, friendly, colorful, leisurely, Alamo Village is a delightful change from an ordinary day for the whole family.

Admission is $5.00 for adults, $2.50 for children 6 through 11, and free for children under 6. That's every day. The gate opens at 9 a.m. For a free color brochure, write or call Alamo Village, P.O. Box 528, Brackettville, Texas 78832, (512) 563-2580.

PROPOSITIONS

Voters could create new hospital districts by submitting to county commissioners petitions signed by at least 100 voters. Commissioners then would call elections to authorize the districts and the tax levies to support them.

Proposition 6 by Sen. Bill Ratliff (R-Mt. Pleasant) and Rep. Sam Russell (D-Mt. Pleasant) would permit future passage of laws authorizing four-year terms for hospital district board members. It also would pave the way for anticipated legislation passing control over the length of those terms from the state to the localities.

It would create a Fire Department Emergency Fund to provide loans and grants for the training of fire fighters and for the purchase of fire-fighting equipment, thus enabling local fire departments to comply with state and federal laws.

These eight proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution would make slight modifications in the way Texans are represented and in the processes of democracy in our state.

"It is a strenuous thing this living the life of a free people," Woodrow Wilson concluded. "We cannot escape the burden of our inheritance." In November we shall meet the terms of that inheritance by voting on these proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution.

RORY'S VIDEO REVIEW

MISSISSIPPI BURNING

In 1964 the South was ablaze with racial unrest. The disappearance of three young civil rights workers prompted the FBI to intervene. Agents Anderson (Gene Hackman) and Ward (Willem Dafoe), and a horde of assistants descended on a small Mississippi town to find the missing boys. They received little help from the Klan-dominated town or its officials. Even the local black community, suspicious of the FBI and victimized by lynch mobs, and firebombs were at first reluctant to help. Eventually the boys were found dead and the power of justice and freedom met hatred and bigotry head on.

HEATHERS

Life at Westerburg High is a rat race--where getting ahead is more important than getting along. Life here is no game...it's a full-scale war for popularity. And like the saying goes, all's fair in love and war. All's fair, that is, until students start dying.

Westerburg's feminine elite quartet is "The Heathers" composed of the powerful #1 Heather Chandler, the green with envy #2 Heather Duke, and the cowardly #3 Heather McNamara. Rounding out the foursome is Veronica Sawyer (Winona Ryder), who is so fed up with the Heathers and the entire peer pressure cooker that she starts running with J.D. (Christian Slater), a motorcycle-riding newcomer. But what begins as their noble effort to rid Westerburg of its bad apples, ends up taking a real toll. And their teen rebellion produces a serious and mounting body count.

HEATHERS, a comedy of bad manners and post-pubescent politics, puts an intriguing new spin on teen turmoil. It is a wickedly colorful dark comedy about young adults...and the extreme and cut-throat tactics they will employ to achieve success.

FORT CLARK ARMY DAYS
BY WALLACE MORGAN

AUGUST 6, 1944

T.O. Construction:

These one story tar papered buildings were the barracks, supply rooms, orderly rooms, etc., built for use of the second cavalry division prior to its arrival. A division has more than one regiment under this chain command, so when it was known that this large amount of troops would be stationed at Fort Clark, these temporary buildings were constructed. Previous to the Second Cavalry's arrival, normally only army units of regiment size were stationed here, such as the Fifth Cavalry Regiment.

All of the T.O. Constructed Buildings were heated by coal stoves. In a situation such as this during cold winters. The men near the stoves would be extra warm on the side of their body that was close to the stove, and the opposite side could possibly be pretty cold. Incidentally, I spent most of my childhood years in Houston, and San Antonio, Texas, and the only experience I had ever had with coal heat was at riding stables which were large enough to have their own horse farrier shop. During this period most farriers used coal heat to shape horse shoes, while all other heat was natural gas. When I entered military service, and stepped off of the train at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, during the winter, I suddenly smelled the familiar scent of burning coal. Of course I naturally thought that there must be lots of horses and some farrier shops about. However, during this period of time, the army horses had mostly been branded with a "S" for surplus, and sold. I was to find out that coal was used for all types of heat, etc., in this area, to include the large cook stoves in the mess halls. When you worked in areas where coal is used, if you happened to have a cold, you would discover that your handkerchief would turn black, if you used it.

The buildings in this picture were located on the east side of Las Moras Creek. To view the area, go east on Travis Road, cross the creek, and most of the area to the north of this road to Spofford road was filled with this type of buildings. In addition there were several large motor pools, which were located from north of Travis road, between the creek and the asphalt road which runs north and south along the dump, to the next asphalt road which runs west to the creek and used to cross over near the old commissary.

I met an old soldier here who had been stationed at Fort Clark with the Second Cavalry Division, and he asked me if he could view his former troop area. When I took him to the area, and he did not see any remaining buildings, he turned to me with a tear in his eye and said "I've seen enough, lets go!"
