

County Officials Take Oath of Office on New Years Day

New Commissioners Alvin McClure and Plunker Sheedy are pictured above being sworn in by Judge George Thurman.

Our new County Judge Tim Ward takes his oath of office to start his four year term. Judge George Thurman is pictured here swearing the new Judge in.

New Years morning at 11:30 a.m. District Judge George Thurman swore in seven County Officials.

Tim Ward was sworn in as County Judge, Alvin Hall as County Wide Justice of the Peace, Martha Smallwood as Tax Collector/Assessor, Dolores Raney as County Clerk, Carlotta De La Rosa as County Treasurer, Alvin McClure as Commissioner, Pct. 4, and Plunker Sheedy as Commissioner of Pct. 2.

County Auditor, Betty Deason and Constable Bill Bizzell had already been sworn in.

Bill Bizzell Appointed Constable

The County Commissioners Court Meet on Monday, December 31, 1990.

All Members were present.

Officers were appointed to replace Rose Mary Slubar and Bill Bizzell on the TDOC project. Tim Ward was appointed to take Rose Mary Slubar's place and Ruben Fuentes was appointed to replace Bill Bizzell.

A resolution was passed to assume responsibility for contractors as to liability for use of TDOC Grant Funds so that for the Current project, the Senior Citizen Center, no contractor shall be required to provide a performance bond. They will get paid on job completion.

The Court voted to accept Constable Gregorio Juarez resignation that he had tendered on December 28th. Mr. Juarez later on, on December 31st, tried to turn in an amended resignation but the Court could not act on the second resignation since it was not on the agenda, and the first resignation had already been accepted by County Judge Tommy Seargeant on December 28th.

The Court then accepted Commissioner Bizzell's resignation.

With much discussion, the Court then appointed Bill Bizzell to fill the vacancy of County Constable for the remaining 2 year term.

Freedom of Information Act

Freedom of Information Act Does Not Apply to Private Employer Personnel Files

Dear Commissioner Nabers, I recently read in your column that an employee doesn't have the right to see his/her personnel file. I thought this right existed under the Freedom of Information Act of 1974. Could you please clarify?

J.K.
Dayton, TX

Dear J.K., I am glad you wrote because your question illustrates a common misunderstanding about the Freedom of Information Act. Under the Freedom of Information Act, citizens have the right to access non-classified information COMPILED BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT. The Act restricts the ability of the federal government to withhold information from the public. It does not apply to individuals or entities outside the federal government and has nothing to do with the rights and responsibilities of private sector employers and employees. It would, however, be available for use by employees of the federal government who wanted to access their personnel files if access were being denied.

I would suggest contacting your U.S. Congressman for further information about the scope of the Freedom of Information Act.

Dear Commissioner Nabers, The new Worker's Compensation law which goes into effect in January of 1991 requires employers to have a drug prevention program in place. Since the Worker's Compensation Commission has not yet finalized rules which tell employers what to do, will employers be subject to any kind of penalty for NOT having a program in place on January 1, 1990?

B.F.
Corpus Christi, TX

Dear B.F., According to officials at the WCC, employers have until the middle of June 1991 to get their drug prevention program in place without penalty. Even though the rules have not yet been finalized, the WCC is NOT mandating or advocating drug testing as a part of any drug prevention program. Whether to drug test will remain up to the discretion of the individual employer.

Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers represents all Texas employers. If you have any questions you want answered, please write Commissioner Nabers at: Texas Business Today, 614 TEC Building, 15th and Congress, Austin, TX., 78778.

The Bible Says

"Everyone who exalts himself will be humbled and he who humbles himself will be exalted," says the Word of God. My father early in my life said to me, "Son, you don't ever seek to tell or show people how good you are. If you are good they will find it out and if you're not they'll find that out too." Jesus says plainly if anyone seeks to exalt himself he will be humbled. If one truly wants to exalt himself he must be humble about himself and exalt his fellow man. If one forgets himself and seeks to help others, he will be blessed with friends, have a joyous life. If however his concern is for himself, he is relegated to a lonely and eventually a disappointing life.

One is exalted by what he does for others, now what he does for himself.

Rory's Video Review

SHORT TIME

"What's a guy gotta do to get himself killed around here?" No, policeman Burt Simpson (Dabney Coleman "9 to 5", "Tootsie") isn't crazy, even though his ex-wife (Teri Garr "Mr. Mom") and his partner (Matt Frewer "Honey I Shrunk the Kids") think he is.

Mixed-up medical tests have mistakenly convinced Burt that he's dying and he wants his son to collect on his insurance policy--a big one that only pays for death in the line of duty. Burt's problem ... he's got just five days to retirement.

It's nonstop action and laughs as Burt chases killers, mad bombers and crazed gun smugglers, all in an attempt to get one of them to bump him off--quickly. But getting killed isn't as easy as it looks.

Unsung Hero

By: Joe Townsend

In the early days of the development of Ft. Clark Springs, a lady came to our area with her husband. She quickly made friends and became widely known and loved. With her husband they managed the restaurant on the Fort for several years and did the best job that's ever been done. This good lady quietly and without fanfare is truly a caring and helpful person. Very often where there is sickness or a problem she makes a pot of delicious soup or other food to help. She is keenly concerned wherever there is a person in need. She is faithful to her church and truly is a friendly and warmhearted person. Surely Lorraine Lundquist is an "Unsung Hero".

The Kinney Cavalryman Crew sends congratulations to Terry and Karene. We can't wait to see the baby!

Accent on Health

Use Seat belts, Avoid Alcohol for Holiday Traffic Safety!

Sobriety and seat belt use are the simplest, but perhaps the most effective, precautions for saving lives on Texas highways every holiday season.

"Many people who died last year might be alive to enjoy this year's holidays, had they buckled up and driven sober," Dr. Robert Bernstein, Texas Commissioner of Health, said. "It is senseless to fail to use your seat belt and to drive while intoxicated," he added.

Statistics from the Texas Department of Public Safety show that motorists who do not use safety belts are 15 times more likely to be killed in accidents than those who do. In 1989 about 75 percent of the 3,361 persons killed in traffic mishaps in Texas were not wearing safety belts.

Bad weather and drunk or fatigued drivers make Texas roadways especially risky during this time of year. Last year, DPS counted 36 persons killed in traffic accidents during the 78-hour Christmas period and some 32 more during the 78-hour New Year's period.

Seat belts hold passengers in place during a wreck, preventing a second "human collision," against the windshield, dash or door. They also prevent people from being thrown out of their vehicles. Since children are especially vulnerable to being injured or killed in a traffic accident, they should ride protected in child passenger safety seats.

Texas law requires that those younger than 2 must ride in safety seats. From age 2 to 4 they must ride either in safety seats or be secured by safety belts. All front-seat passengers, regardless of age, must ride buckled up.

"Some people brag that they can drive just fine when they drink," Dr. Bernstein said. "If this is true, why do so many deaths on Texas roads involve alcohol?"

Last year in Texas, some 40 percent of all fatal auto accidents statewide involved driving while intoxicated as a contributing factor.

Dr. Bernstein endorses a "designated driver" plan, in which one person in a group volunteers not to drink and assumes the responsibility of driving others home. Some restaurants and bars now provide free non-alcoholic beverages to a designated driver. In addition, many communities are arranging free or low-cost taxi service for persons unable to drive safely.

Dr. Bernstein said each ounce-and-a-half of liquor or 12-ounce beer requires about an hour to be metabolized in the bloodstream. Food helps slow the absorption of alcohol, but eating while drinking will not keep anyone from getting drunk. Also, coffee and cold showers cannot help a person become sober.

Reflections

One station in town sells gas for $1.10 per gallon. The one who fills up the gas tank, at that place, must wait in line, however.

All of us keep our eyes open for bargains, don't we? That's not a bad idea for those who have to pinch pennies and stretch dollars to survive.

Jesus told a story about "bargain hunting." That parable has a lesson for all of us to learn.

The Lord said a man found a treasure in the field. That fortunate man left the field, sold all he had, and with his money purchased the field so he could claim that vast treasure.

Jesus told another story in Matthew 13:45-46 about a merchant who looked for good pearls. he found one of big value. Then the wise man rushed off to sell all he had so he could buy that valuable pearl.

More than "buying and selling and treasures" are to be found in these brief accounts.

Jesus tells us that He is the "Pearl of Great Price." He is worth more than all our possessions. We need to let Jesus be the central person, the Saviour, the Lord of life.

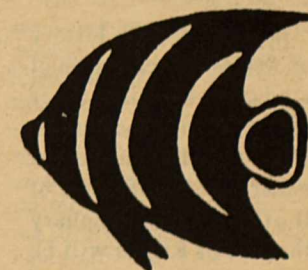

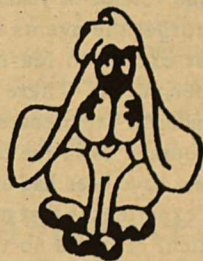

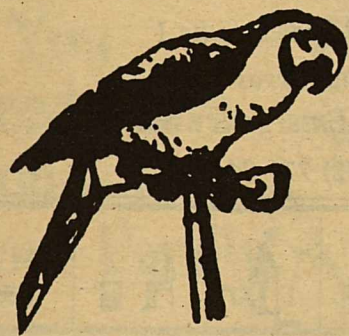

Bargain hunting? Find Jesus, accept Him, trust Him, and you'll have the bargain of eternity.

There is a marker down the valley of the Brazos and just east of Waco, or at least there was. It may be gone now. Once at this point over a hundred years ago, there was 6 or so log buildings. They were Republic of Texas - approved John F. Torrey's Trading Post. The marker said in part - "Here the Indians signed treaties and received present until 1854. If you look around you can see the last Great Council grounds in this once Empire of the Tejas. Near the river are as much as a thousand teepees. There are Chiefs and braves of twenty nations and tribes from the ancient Caddo to the Shawnee. Three thousand of them, the mightiest peace talk, ever in Texas.

These nations were on the Great Council Grounds for the last time in the Republic. There were Caddo, Hainai, Anadarko, Kichai, and their western allies, Waco and Towakoni. There were Delaware from far away in the Alleghenies, Shawnee from Ohio, Chickasaw and Biloxi from Mississippi, Cherokee from the Carolinas, Pawnee & Wichitas from the Plains and angry Comanches from the west.

Finally it could only end in the ultimatum - reservation and the Indians last desperate reply - "The Great Spirit did not make me a reservation Indian."

And the Indians ("the really first Texans) slowly rode away from their last Captial of the land of the Tejas, in 1854.

Library News

Welcome to the New Year!!! Your library staff and volunteers hope that 1991 sees all your hopes fulfilled. Also, now is the time to think of resolutions you wish to make for the coming year. Make just one or two and your more apt to see them through to fruition.

January is black history month as well as the celebration of the birthday of Martin Luther King. Further, and most appropriately, the year 1991 marks the bicentennial of the ratification of the Bill of Rights. On January 27th, the Bill of Rights will be featured in pre-game activities of Super Bowl XXV. Surprise your husbands, ladies, watch the pre-game activities with him.

Currently, we have displayed on the center table, books of interest to black history and cordially invite you to browse. We inadvertently omitted one memorial made for the month of December. Ms Grace Rose donated a copy of the eighth edition of the handy book for genealogists in memory of Mr. Paul Hill. We received a copy of the book, Deadly Deceit, Low Level Radiation, High Level Cover-up given in memory of Wilhemina Taft by C.A.R.E. Also, Mr. & Mrs. Edward Gould have donated books to the library.

We continue to receive new books for your reading pleasure. We have most which are currently on the best seller list and many have no waiting list. Further, we continue to receive large print books for all our patrons, but especially to insure that those with visual impairment are not penalized in their reading materials.

We have now sent two boxes of paperbacks to our service personnel in Saudi Arabia. We continue to encourage those of you who have paperbacks which are appropriate to bring then to the Library. Only those books designated for this purpose will be sent. As no monies are designated for shipping costs for these books, we will have to rely on donations for this purpose also.

Your librarian wishes to bring your attention to several non-fiction choices which are excellent; Abilene, The Key City (Abilene, Texas), The Encyclopedia of Boxing, Selenium As Food & Medicine, North American Indian Wars, The Medicare Survival Guide, Deadly Deceit, By Way of Deception, The Saudis Inside The Desert Kingdom. All these books can be located in our reference area, or on display here in your library. As always, we invite you to come visit the Warmest, Friendliest, Brightest Little Library in Kinney County !!!

Between Us By: Joe Townsend

We now have a new page in the volume of years. It's time to forget the events of the past year except to learn from the experiences. There have been wonderful experiences which can encourage us in the days ahead. There have been had and distasteful experiences that must be forgotten. There's no value in rehashing and grudgingly repeats bad things of the past. One thing for sure, we can't rewrite history. What is past is past. Regardless of successes and failures we must go on from right here and start right now. The New Year gives us new opportunities. If we make the same mistakes of the past year or do the same harmful things or repeat the same debasing stories or ideas, we are showing our stupidity. If we do not reach new heights of enjoyment or do those things make our neighbors and world better, we show our lack of concern not only for others but for ourselves. What we do for the benefit of others inevitably rebounds to make life richer for us. The year ahead should make Brackettville, Ft. Clark Springs, Kinney County, The United States and the World better. A better place to live; a better place for future generations; should be the goal of every individual. It's easy to lose our identity in the mass, forgetting the mass is simply a multitude of individuals. I'm not responsible for what the mass does. Nor is the mass responsible for what I do. Each of us makes his own decision and must bear the responsibility of his actions. Humility over past faults and wrongs and the thrill of past good and victories should be motivation enough for each of us to make our own New Year the best we've every known. If we make our year good, we'll help make everyone's better. Happy New Year!!

Old Army Days

By: Wallace Morgan

Somewhere in Mexico, circa 1913. A U.S. Army First Sergeant, assigned to the 5th Cavalry, is shown in his office (tent) in the field. The "Field", was some area in Northern Mexico. The reason for the 5th U.S. Cavalry Regiment to be in this location, was due to the agreement between the United States of America and the Mexican government which allowed U.S. troops to cross into Mexico in pursuit of the alleged "Bandit", Pancho Villa, who had raided the U.S. border town of Columbus, New Mexico. Villa, was also responsible for other border raids, into Texas and Arizona. Of course there are always two sides to every story. To Villa, these raids were justified, due to the fact that as a revolutionary, he and his army, or bandits, needed supplies in order to oust the dictatorship which was in control of Mexico.

The U.S. Government, had a much different attitude about the border raids than did General Pancho Villa. This government considered that these raids were absolute banditry! Therefore, the agreement between the two governments regarding the entering of Mexico by U.S. troops in pursuit of the "Bandits", entered into effect.

The First Sergeant in this photo is wearing the uniform of the era, turn of the century khaki, copied from the British army. Of course this particular khaki color is not the same as the khaki shade that troops of World War II, and Korea remember. He is wearing rank chevrons the same as a Buck Sergeant, with a Diamond centered and just below the lower stripe. Note the old typewriter just to the left of him. He is not my image of an old army First Sergeant, he appears too mild mannered looking.

First Sergeants, came into being about the end or right after the Civil War. Since Revolutionary War days, officers realized that they needed a noncommissioned officer to be in charge of the enlisted troops. So, what they came up with was a sergeant that was the roughest enlisted person in the outfit, that at least had enough sense to guide all of the enlisted, to do what the officers wanted. In other words, if you were a private during those times, and someone with authority gave you an order which you did not like, and you decided that you were not going to do it, the "Tom Sergeant" could possibly take you behind the "barn" to put some knowledge into your body!

This photograph was furnished by Fred C. Crowell, whose father was in this outfit. Mr. Crowell resides in Tulsa, Ok. I will be placing more of Mr. Crowell's photos in this article, as the weeks pass.

TDHS Announces New Centralized Referral System

The Texas Department of Human Services announced today a new centralized referral system will be effective January 11, 1991. This system will help assure a more timely and consistent response to community referrals within region 09. Region 09 is comprised of 21 South Texas Counties. This system will also allow for a more accurate identification of referral patterns within each county and help improve delivery service.

The new centralized referral system will be administered out of San Antonio and will utilize a toll free number, 1-800-292-5032. Two rural staff members, Megan Gardner and Leticia Hernandez will be assigned to handle rural referrals.

In conjunction with the centralized referral system, a regional Night Duty unit will also be implemented. The Night Duty unit will provide coverage after hours, weekends and on holidays. All after hours calls will be handled by this unit accessed through the rural toll free number. After midnight all calls will be referred to the Abuse Hotline in Austin (1-800-252-5400).

"Implementing both the centralized referral system and the Night Duty unit will help us provide a better more consistent response to the community," said Michele Huels, Rural Child Placement Director. "Once the new systems are in place they will free up local staff to provide more services to their clients."

For more information about the new centralized referral system call your local Child Protective Services office.

A Near Tragedy

People who fire firearms in town should be very careful. A tragedy almost happened at the Bernie Cervantes residence. On Tuesday, January 1st Mr. Cervantes and his family had been outside of his home and had just gone in the house when the mishap occurred. Mr. Cervantes walked into a small room attached to his garage when he heard a loud noise or something hit his roof.

It was a bullet that went all the way through the roof and the rafters and onto the floor of the garage where only moments before his children were playing.

After examining the bullet, it was determined that it was from a 30-06 (soft point core) a high powered deer rifle.

Please think twice before discharging any type of firearm in a residential area because it could kill or injure someone.

Protecting Our Environment

Can We Afford Pollution?

Can you put a price tag on pollution? Two Americans who have researched the high cost of air and water pollution, and how it affects our economy, were recently honored for their efforts.

John V. Krutilla's and Allen V. Kneese's work began in the 1950's when there was little concern for the environment. Prior to their groundbreaking work, economists regarded air and water as free commodities, since they lacked market-pricing mechanisms. Their research led to the cost-benefit analysis contained in environmental impact studies.

The Volvo Environment Prize this year carries with it a $260,000 cash award, to be shared by the winners. The Prize goes annually to those who have made an outstanding contribution to the environmental field. The recipients are chosen by a committee of internationally prominent environmentalists.

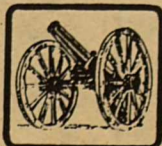

The committee said the professors' work laid the foundation for a growing body of research and knowledge about the complex relationships between the environment and the economy. As a result, environmental economics has become an important area of environmental and economic research, combining theories of production and economic growth.
