Let's Talk Livestock

By Ted Gouldy

Fort Worth. — Nearly 11,000 cattle and calves arrived at Fort Worth Monday, the largest number since June, 1917. Everyone held his breath to see whether the run would ruin the good gains made last week — but a surprising strong undertone prevailed and prices ranged from steady to 50 cents off most of the way. A few spots $1 lower were noted on excessively full and on plain and medium kinds on the late rounds.

Hogs gained 25 cents, topping at $22.50. Sows were steady.

Most sheep and lambs moved along steady on the slaughter kinds, but steady to 50 cents lower on stockers. Lightweight stocker lambs were the kinds encountering trouble. The sheep run was 10,000 head, unusual because it came so late in the season.

Comparative prices:

Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings cashed at $26 to $32, and plain and medium butcher sorts sold at $16 to $25, with culls from $13 to $16. Stocker and feeder steers and yearlings of medium to good grades sold at $18 to $26, and choice lightweight steer yearlings sold to $26 and $27. Commoner stockers $15 to $18.

Fat cows cashed at $16 to $19, while canners and cutters sold from $10 to $16.50. Bulls sold from $15 to $23.

Stocker cows cleared at $14 to $22, and stocker heifers sold at $25 downward. Good and choice stocker calves $25 to $29, while common and medium quality sold at $16 to $25.

Good and choice fat calves sold at $25 to $28.50, while common and medium at $16.50 to $25. Culls sold from $13 to $16.

Good and choice fat spring lambs sold for $24 to $29, and medium to good kinds drew $20 to $24. Stocker and feeder lambs sold from $10 to $18. Stocker and feeder yearlings cashed at $10 to $15, and fat yearlings sold at $17 downward. Aged wethers sold from $8 to $10. Two-year-old wethers cashed at $14 downward. Slaughter ewes sold at $6 to $8.50. Old bucks sold around $6 to $6.50.

The Human Side Of Social Security

By W. A. Watson

Article No. 5

The provision in the 1930 amendments to the social security law permitting beneficiaries to earn up to $50 a month while still accepting their benefit payment checks is frequently a vital factor in a beneficiary's plans to keep the family unit together. This was true in the case of a 66-year-old widow who called at the field office to discuss her benefit rights under social security. She is the wage earner, as well as the home-owner, in a household that includes her mother and an aunt. Both are over 80 years old.

Recently, the mother and aunt have required considerable care, and it seems very likely that this care will be greater in the months ahead. Moreover, the wage earner's own health is failing, and she can no longer work full time in the grocery store where she is employed.

The social security office computed her retirement benefit at $42.60 a month. In addition, she has a pension of $65.00 a month as a widow of a Spanish War Veteran. It was explained to her that she can go on part-time work with earnings up to $50 a month and still accept her old-age benefit payments.

She added up the figures on her little memorandum pad as the interviewer talked. "Let's see . . .", she said, half to herself. "That makes $107.60." Looking up, she said: "I think we three can get along."

Wardens Seize Night Hunters

AUSTIN, Aug. 30. — The Director of Law Enforcement for the Texas Game & Fish Commission said 29 cases for hunting deer at night were included in the monthly arrest report.

He blamed the development to "a few trigger-happy folks who were trying to jump the season."

The Director said game wardens are using radio-equipped patrol cars to "discourage over-eager people."

The monthly report included 29 cases involving illegal taking of deer.

The approach of the regular season for harvesting game also was reflected in the seven cases for shooting mourning doves. The season on these birds opens in the North Zone September 1 and in the South Zone October 1.

The predominance of cases on the July arrest roundup involved fishing law violations. Wardens named 121 persons with lacking individual licenses. Eight were fined for using an electrical device to take fish.

A Kountz man felt the law's sting after being caught with an electrical device. He paid a total of $115 on three charges — $50 for using an illegal device, $50 for fishing without a license and $15 for trespassing.

One of the highest fines for the month was the one for $200 assessed a Channel View man for killing deer in a closed season.

Total cases for the month were 271 with fines and court costs of $5,717.50. This compared with 252 cases and $6,197.05 for July last year and 305 cases and $6,571.45 for June of this year.

Stethoscope Discovered By Accident

In 1819 a young girl lay in Necker hospital in Paris, stricken by some heart disorder. As a 38-year-old doctor, Rene Theophile Laennec, leaned close trying to listen to the sounds of her heart blanketed under corpulent flesh, she shrank from him in confused modesty. Baffled, he turned from the patient to walk in the hospital grounds while he pondered the case.

His attention was drawn to a group of children at play. Some were tapping at one end of a hollow log while others at the opposite end listened in delight. Dr. Laennec sped back to his patient, rolled a piece of paper into a tight cylinder and putting one end of the tube against her chest heard clear and distinct the telling heartbeats and respiratory sounds of the chest. Thus was the modern stethoscope born.

Later that year he published one of the classics of medical literature on diagnosis of chest diseases. Yet, seven years later this scientist who had forged so powerful a weapon against the greatest killer of his time, tuberculosis, died at 45 of the disease.

The Pigstick aboard a Navy ship is a small spar projecting above the top of the mainmast or which the ship's commission pennant is flown.

New Licenses To Be Shipped

Austin, Aug. 30. — The Chief Clerk of the Texas Game & Fish Commission said the new hunting and fishing licenses are scheduled to be in the hands of approximately 2400 state agents in advance of September 1. They will be shipped from Austin on August 20.

He explained that all hunting and fishing licenses must be renewed by September 1, which marks the beginning of the fiscal year for the state.

The licenses range from the $1.65 individual license for fishing and $2.15 individual license for hunting upwards to $200 for wholesale fish and oyster dealer licenses.

The Chief Clerk said the licenses will be available in practically every good sized town in the state, through licensed deputies, game wardens and county clerks. Approximately 2000 of the 2400 agents are licensed deputies, comprising mainly merchants of various kinds.

The Chief Clerk advised Texans to consult their game wardens or their licensed deputies or county clerks if they are in doubt about when fishing or hunting licenses are necessary.

He said approximately 325,000 persons got fishing licenses and approximately 350,000 hunting licenses during the present fiscal year.

Cost Of TB High

cost of one case of tuberculosis can be estimated as $14,000 or $15,000, the National Tuberculosis Association reports.

This is a composite figure obtained as a result of several studies, most of which were made by the New York State Department of Health. This amount includes cost of medical care, compensation, loss of wages, pensions and relief payments to the patient's family while the patient is incapacitated. The estimated figure does not include loss of the patient's productive capacity and the potential future earning power of those who succumb to this disease.

Business Briefs

The British budget for the current fiscal year is not only balanced, but income taxes have been reduced by amounts ranging from 50 per cent in the lower brackets to 10 per cent in the middle brackets. Meantime, unless spending is reduced, the United States is faced with a deficit of from $10 to $14 billion this year—even at present high tax levels.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration ought to be thoroughly administered. It has just announced the appointment of a new deputy administrator for administration.

The Federal Government, which publishes a wide variety of books and brochures on just about every conceivable subject, has now come out with a set of books on "Mathematics." The idea, according to the Government book salesmen, is to teach folks the basic rules of mathematics. As any schoolboy knows, there are in existence a multitude of privately printed books on the same subject. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States wants to know whether or not the Government has now decided to inject the bureaucratic viewpoint in the teaching of two-plus-two-equals-four.

MENTAL

MEANDERINGS

Confusing seems to be more or less the right word for the political mess we voters of this United States find ourselves confronting. There is so much to be said for and against almost every issue involved, concerning the candidates themselves or their supporters, that it is a most difficult matter to grasp rightly what its all about. However, the consensus of opinion seems to be both of the candidates themselves seem to be of high caliber, but its the hangerons who are causing most of the furor, trouble and embarrassment which has ensued. And, we predict that from now on until the fateful day which decides the winner for the Presidency, it will continue to get hotter, more confused and perhaps more violent — in a Democratic sort of way.

Now that the schools have started up again, and that interest in school sports — principally football—have come on again, we can expect that the school spirit and enthusiasm, and of the faithful who follow the fortunes of their young athletes and the school, will wax again. It will incidentally, give the lot of us back at home something to look forward too.

The lingering drought has caused the Government of Texas to ask that this state be classed as a disaster area and entitled to such benefits as can come to it for alleviating this stock feeding problems. It has been a hard summer and the continuation of the hot dry weather had, up to this writing, been causing untold monetary loss to ranchers. This, in addition to other factors resulting from high costs of everything, lack of good markets, and the spiral of inflation, has made the situation of many of these ranchers a very hard one. Only rain, in good quantity and soon, can in measure alleviate their distress.

Now, we are having the threat of a coal strike over us. Seems that just about the time we get out of one such mess we are in the middle of another one. While this strike may not be as ruinous as that of the steel workers against their companies, it will nevertheless affect a large number of industries. And, as usual, there is no doubt that the miners will get a raise in pay, the coal companies a hike in prices, the consumer — even as you and I — a hike in what we pay for products, and the government will shove the cost of living index up another notch. And the poor guys, those who don't get raises nor opportunities, will have to tighten the belt another notch or two. Its nice for those at the top who get good wages, even after withholding and taxes, and still have 'nuf to eat on; but when you can't stretch that less-than-fifty cent dollar any further, well its just a case of the forgotten man being forgotten all over again.

A fellow the other day showed us a little clipping wherein was copied the manner in which different nations say their greeting, our "How do you do?" While interesting, it did not affect us very much as we have not desire—and the means of going to places where we could use these neighborly greetings. We still wonder what sort of a kick our neighbor got out of that knowing how to greet a Russian or a Chinaman, as he would probably get sent to Siberia or the desert of Gobi if he tried anything like that.

Road work is being let in good numbers over the Southwest by the State Highway Department. Among these is Kinney County, where the Macie road work will be among those let and which will be a paved road between the Highway 90 and the Highway 277. This will link another set of good highways in this county, and give us about 23 miles more of good paved rural roads in the county.

They say that vitamins (Thaimin) heighten your learning ability. It has been a source of experimentation for several years past, and what has been found is that in a number of cases, the ability to learn has been upped. Or so we are told. It would be a wonderful matter indeed if some way or some method or means was to be found which would make mankind brighter or at least give it the means of learning more. But even after years of experimentation and processing, it is usually found that what was at first thought to be a real help, mentally or physically, turns out to be just another guess or a dud. Maybe one of these days!

While some places are having a boom due to military expenditures, or from influx of workers or industries, many other places are finding it hard to get along. This is true chiefly in such rural areas as where the prosperity of the countryside is dependent on farming, ranching and basic industries.

The other night we were reading a remarkable book, "How to Get Rich in Washington?" It was well written, full of informative facts and figures and gave lots of sickening details of the squandering of the taxpayers money — the money which we all give up without much of a struggle. The story, which is authenticated by facts, relates the workings of federal bureaus which while supposedly dependent on Congress, had made themselves almost independent and which were throwing money away without regard to future results, and, apparently for the purpose of enriching themselves, their friends and in perpetuating themselves in office. After reading it, we wondered what ever use was our two bits sent in for tax purposes. Maybe it was to tip the porter of one of those big lavish night clubs where these guys went to for recreating and ease from spending so much money.

As usual when we get to reading something we like to discuss it, but the other night we got our bill into something that stopped us. It was an article describing the new remedies, and although we recognized some at the start such as Amino Acid Creams, Nox-toxic sedatives, Bone Phosphate Therapy, etc., we soon ran into and into such items as Chlorophyl Allergens, Imadyl Uction, Kelp and Duise, Devogan, Duodenin, and a host of others. The best we could do was just look and wonder what they do and who they are going to do it to. Hope not use, in medical terms so speaking.

Veterans Questions And Their Answers

Q.—I am a World War II veteran, and I just received notice from VA that my GI term insurance policy will expire soon. Must I take some action before that date—either to renew or convert — or will I have a grace period afterwards, to do something about it?

A.—That expiration date is a final date, and there is no grace period. If you want to continue your insurance, you must send VA your application for renewal or conversion, along with the proper premium for the new policy.

Q.—I am a World War I veteran, and I've just passed my 65th birthday. Am I entitled to a VA pension based on my age alone? I've never been sick, and I'm not disabled—but I do need the money.

A.—You would not be entitled to a VA pension based on age alone. Pensions are paid to veterans who are permanently and totally disabled for reasons not connected with their service, and whose yearly incomes fall below certain levels. However, age is considered in establishing eligibility in relation to employability and the degree of disability.

Q.—I recently was discharged from the WAC and would like to take a full-time course in school under the Korean GI Bill. I am married, and my husband has a full-time job. We have no children. Would I be entitled to the $135-a-month allowance paid to a veteran with one dependent?

A.—No. Under the law, a woman veteran would be entitled to the $135-a-month rate only if her husband were "in fact" dependent on her.

Q.—Before I reentered service over a year ago after having served in World War II, I bought a home with a GI loan, which was guaranteed for $7,500, the top amount. Under the Korean GI Bill, will I be entitled to another GI loan, based on my service after Korea?

A.—No. Since you have used up all your entitlement under the World War II GI Bill, you will not be eligible for another GI loan under the new law.

AN ELECTRIC RANGE IS EASIER!

Until electricity came along, all cooking was done substantially the same way this primitive cave man and spouse are doing it — over a fire. Whether you build it outside or bring it in the house, a fire is still a fire. It makes heat and smoke... it has to be watched.

Electricity makes heat, too...but no flame or smoke. This heat can be controlled so perfectly and accurately in both time and temperature that a whole oven meal can be cooked safely while you're away from home. That's why electric cooking is automatic and easier. What's more, electric heat is transferred directly to food in the cooking process, so there's no waste. That's why electric cooking is fast, clean, cool and economical.

In thousands of South Texas kitchens today, you'll find automatic, electric ranges. These homemakers know electricity is the modern, easy way to cook. Ask your friends and neighbors who have electric ranges to tell you why they like to cook electrically.

Enjoy the freedom of automatic electric cooking. See your appliance dealer for your electric range right away.

SCHOOL BEGINS

The 1952-53 term of the Public schools system began Tuesday September 2nd. There was almost an average attendance on this day. The term began with a complete faculty and with bright prospects for another successful school period.

At this writing we do not have a complete listing of the number of pupils enrolled in the grade nor in the high school but we will have a more complete summary in our next issue, in order that we may all know how the term started.

Remember Slow Speed In School Zone

Now that the school term has begun, it is advisable that we all observe the school zone speed laws, as there will be children going to and from school or traversing the streets in this zone. Safety patrols will be established as in prior terms, for the regular recess and school and closing hours. But in effect it will be up to the motorists in their observance of the speed laws, to do their part in order that the children be safe while going to and from school and crossing streets.

Article No. 3

Gretel's story for us begins in Berlin in the year 1947. In her early twenties, she had somehow never lost faith in life. Reared in the tense atmosphere of a totalitarian nation preparing for war, happiness had eluded her even in childhood. Then came the war . . . then along came Jim.

"You have to believe in happiness or happiness never comes," Jim would say. And when Jim proposed marriage and a home in America, she did believe in happiness. For a brief while she knew real happiness. America was all that Jim had hold her it was and more. Her first child came — and then the second one — a family of four in a real home!

After Jim deserted them she couldn't afford to live in her home any longer. Now she had to live in another person's home — a nursemaid to another person's child. "It hurts to leave your own children crying to take up another's," she explained, "but after all they had to eat."

There were two surprises, however, in store for Gretel. The first was when she was told Jim had been killed in an accident, and that the children were entitled to benefits.

The second was the amount of the children's monthly benefit. It sounded too good to be true. She had expected perhaps ten — maybe twenty — dollars a month — but seventy-four — that, added to her earnings, was the difference between having a home of her own and not having one. No, Jim hadn't kept faith with her. But America had.
