Learn Your Traffic Rules

Mark Twain once said, "Everybody talks about the weather but nobody ever does anything about it". When you get down to it, the same thing might be said about traffic safety. This is an obvious conclusion when you stop to realize that, in just the past year, over 2500 Texans were killed on our streets and highways. A terrible waste of human life!

Everyone is, to a certain degree, affected by our traffic problem since all of us, in varying degrees, travel in motor vehicles or cross streets on foot—and many a pedestrian's life has been snuffed out by some unsafe act!

With over 3 million vehicles now registered in Texas, with drivers, and with pedestrians to further complicate the problem, it is immediately apparent that anything involving such a large number of people requires a set of rules.

Traffic laws, the rules for drivers, were not invented; they grew quite naturally from old customs and habits of the horse and wagon period. As the traffic flow increased these rules were changed and finally established in law to fit present needs.

The success of any set of rules, however, depends on the good will and sportsmanship of the players—in this case, the drivers. We make these rules through legislation and most of us enforce them upon ourselves with willingness—when we know the rules.

It, again, is apparent that in view of our terrible accident toll, that many of us do not know the rules of the game of traffic. Perhaps many of us know the rules but have neglected to apply our knowledge and skills to the game. Let us all join with the Texas Safety Association in an effort to be good sports and skillful players in one of the biggest games of all—traffic.

Arrest Total Slumps Again

AUSTIN — The Director of Law Enforcement for the Texas Game & Fish Commission said the downward trend in arrests by game wardens continued during April.

He said the monthly statements shows 190 arrests for a total of $3,470.20 in fines and court costs. This contrasts with 294 cases and $6,667 in fines and costs for April last year, and 236 cases and $5,377.42 for March this year.

More than one fourth of the violations involved infractions of the fishing code, since 58 arrests were made for failure to possess proper fishing licenses.

Shooting out of season, involving 15 cases for hunting deer, brought some heavy fines. A Three Rivers father and son caught headlighting netted a penalty of $150. A San Antonio man paid $200 on a pollution count.

Coat Hanger

A Philadelphian went to a dance hall with a friend who asked where the check room was. Told to take the first door to the right and go down three steps, he opened the elevator door by mistake and fell three stories to the basement.

His companion saw him disappear through the door and called down to him: "Whatcha doin' down there?"

"Hanging up my coat," the answer floated up, "but look out for that first step!"

Our Washington

By Congressman O. C. Fisher

A FAULTY GRADING SYSTEM of lambs under OPS regulations is being reviewed by the Department of Agriculture. Fort Worth stockyards buyers have complained for some time—as have some growers—about the methods used in grading lamb carcasses. There is a lot of difference in the price that is paid for lamb and for yearlings. That difference runs into a lot of money. Yet, under present government grading practices, buyers insist that animals that a year ago would have been graded as lambs are in many instances graded as yearlings today.

Many of us joined in urging the Meat Grading Service to return to the system of "break jointing" old crop lambs and yearlings to determine which is lamb and which is mutton. The present severe grading practices are depressing the markets and causing severe hardship for growers and feeders. In conferences, again, last week with the USDA, we were assured the subject upon which the complaints are based will be promptly investigated.

SAM R. ELLISON of San Saba, was given an award by the Secretary of Agriculture last week for his outstanding work in San Saba County as a Supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration.

Accompanied to the Capitol by Mrs. Ellison, San Saba Supervisor listened to a speech by the President and others during preliminaries preceding the presentations. "For exceedingly wise planning, and effective leadership in the development of improved living for FHA families and the achievement of a sound and profitable agriculture in San Saba County", was the description given to Mr. Ellison's service which resulted in the citation.

For these awards, only 9 County Supervisors over the Nation were chosen, three of them Texans. The recognition given Mr. Ellison was very evidently well deserved. During the past year he has handled 146 disaster loans for the farmers of San Saba County. Those farmers could not obtain loans elsewhere. "Every one of those loans will be paid back, with interest," says Mr. Ellison. And that has been the record for years of the Farmers Home Administration in its loan program. It has made many landowners out of tenants, and is one of the best managed agencies in the government.

ROTC Summer Camps

Nearly 4,000 senior division ROTC cadets will attend summer camp training in the Fourth Army Area between June 21 and August 1, it was announced by Col. C. M. Culp, Chief of the Texas Military District today.

Plans for the six-week camps have been completed to train 2,158 at Fort Sill, Okla., under Col. Richard C. Singer, camp commandant; and 1,258 at Fort Bliss under Col. Evans R. Crowell.

During the period of June 14 to July 25, 126 medical and dental students will be trained at Brooke Army Medical Center, San Antonio. Between July 26 and September 5, 107 will take the same training. Both camps will be commanded by Col. Prentiss L. Moore.

Lt. Col. Donald C. Kelly will command the camp at Medical Field Service School between June 23 and August 1 for 245 veterinary and pharmacy students.

Another senior ROTC activity which is attracting considerable attention in the Fourth Army Area is the commissioning of approximately 660 distinguished military graduates as second lieutenants June 15.

There are 18,000 ROTC members in the colleges and universities of the Fourth Army Area which embraces Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and New Mexico.

Texas Health Service

AUSTIN, May 26—How much is a year of health protection worth to you?

How much is it worth to you to have maintained a staff of experts to control flies, mosquitoes, rats, and disease-bearing vermin. How much is it worth to conduct those well child conferences and supervise immunizations in your town?

How much is it worth to you to know that your food supply is protected and that it is fit for human consumption?

How much are the tuberculosis chest x-ray services, and the state's venereal disease control organization worth?

How much is it worth to insure that your city water supply isn't full of contamination? Those public health nurses who teach expectant mothers how to handle themselves and their new babies—what are their services worth to you as an individual?

Would you say all this is worth more per year than the cost of a single pack of cigarettes?

That's exactly what Texans are paying for health services today—20 cents a year per capita. And there are many other services besides those mentioned.

It isn't enough to pay for the sore of health protection State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox would like to see Texans have. Out of every tax dollar collected in this state, about one cent is spent on the protection of public health.

"Too much economy in health work is dangerous," the health official cautioned.

With the expenditure of fifty cents per capita, Texas could approach the national average in this country, Dr. Cox said. As things stand today, Texas is near the bottom among the states in the amount spent for health work.

"When you cripple a health department by fund cutting, you end up with more—rather than less—expense. Money put into public health is repaid many times over in reduced sickness and lives saved," Dr. Cox said.

Hide Firm Sued By OPS

Tanners Hides Inc. of Texas, of 908 South Medina Street, San Antonio, is named defendant in an injunctive suit filed in U. S. district court by the federal government alleging over-ceiling price sales of cattle hides.

The suit, filed for the Office of Price Stabilization, seeks an injunction to restrain the defendant from further alleged violations and asks judgment for treble the amount of the alleged overcharges. The government seeks treble damages amounting to $10,742.94.

OPS pointed out that the alleged violation occurred prior to removal last month of cattle hides, kips and calf skins from price control.

MENTAL

MEANDERINGS

Vacation Time. What a picture that conjures up. Of course we mean in the minds of those who can afford it, who have places to go. And, of course, the youngsters who, having completed their school term, are free for another three months. Barefooted, summer time, fishing, hiking, fun-seeking. Maybe, one of these days, before it gets too late and time runs out, some of us might get to take such a vacation as we have always dreamed about.

Those graduates who completed their high school work just recently, are now ready to meet the world. Or so they were told in glowing words by most of their Commencement Speakers. Some of these harder souls tried to give them a more realistic picture of what was really waiting for them. But then, when we try to give advice to youth we get little hearing and still less taking. This has been going on for many, many years. Experience is still, as always, the best teacher.

When we begin to think about the younger people, and their troubles, home life, juvenile delinquency, we think the problem is modern. We remember reading some years back where, in ancient Egypt, before the time of Christ, Egyptian parents were in some measure complaining that the youth of the day had no respect for their elders nor for their religion. And THEY wondered what would become of the younger generation.

The political picture is rather confused at present, and no one seems to know exactly what is going on, or what to expect. Possibly, we might say, excepting for the lords of the double cross who are getting ready the axe for some one. Its getting exciting folks. No shooting either, like in other countries.

Those pioneer riots which occurred on Kojie Island, where the rough and tough Communists were held in check or we thought they were, caused the United States considerable confusion and embarrassment, especially in the manner in which we were caught "red"-handed by the enemy, and our top generals on the island agreed to the unreasonable and unnecessary demands of the enemy. That such a thing should happen to Americans is something that is hard to believe, until we remember that despite the realistic approach to war or even this so-called police action, many Americans are sentimentalists. These and those who still think this is something to be soft over, should talk to the boys who have been, or who are still in the trenches. Maybe then, their reasoning will change.

Seems like in the matter of propaganda we are still way behind our enemies. If we can't do any better than we have been, then we ought to get some of those European propagandists who have been heckling Russia and her satellites over here to help us. They know how to needle a communist and to irritate the Russians. We don't seem to be able to needle anyone but our ourselves and the taxpayer who is footing the bill.

Despite the recent ranges, there are some areas which can still soak up a considerable amount of moisture when, and if, it comes. Some of the areas have had a hard struggle of it through the long and sustained drought and need more moisture. Hear that, Rain-Maker? Just a few inches more. Till we say "When".

The cost of medical treatment and hospitalization, says the medical association itself, is getting out of hand. Now they tell us. Many a poor person or family, who have had occasion to get hospitalization especially, soon found that out and that it pays to keep well rather than be sick.

A friend who is of a literary bent the other day remarked that in his opinion the hardest books to proofread are the dictionary, the Bible and those used in education. We grant that the dictionary should be well proof read because of its use and by its own nature; the Bible also has to be well proof read for obvious reasons. In 1632 there was issued what was and is called the "Black Bible" because of the omission of the word "not" from the 7th commandment which thus condoned the commission of the evil, which shows why proofreading is sorely needed there. While there is much need for proofreading carefully books on education, we are still—and probably always will be—more in favor of correcting what goes into those books than how it is stated.

Science has been using hormones, chemicals, herbs and many other products of nature and man to try to hold back age, both in appearance and in the simple matter of living. Why? Your guess is as good as any one's else, but we wouldn't exactly concur with a guy's remark on the subject: "The government wants you to live longer so they can collect more from you."

Strikes. And more strikes. To get more pay to meet the rising costs of living, so we are told. To shorten the hours even if more is paid for them, in order that the men may have more time to enjoy the good things of life with their families. A pretty picture. But not for those who have no chance to strike, who must make their few pennies do for their simple livelihood. Let's hope the people won't strike for themselves one of these days unless it is to get their necessary and earned share of the good things America produces.

Seems that we of all persons, have had a real and a big black market in potatoes. Right here in the US. We keep hearing of what black markets they have in Europe and in other countries, and feel sorry for those guys. Then we find that we have lots of unpatriotic American, who interested in the almighty dollar, no matter its worth, trying—and actually getting—an easy dollar by black marketing food which so many need. Well, we believe now that those heathen chinese and others of less culture (?) have the right answer to black market. Eliminating the black marketeers. But of course that is just an opinion; nothing like that ever happens here to anyone, even traitors.

REWORKING ROADS

The recent rains have placed the Kinney county country and farm to market roads in such a condition that all precincts have had to start reworking their roads. The Nueces was up considerable which necessitated the working of some roads in the in the river bottom while the Pinto and Elm being up also caused work in the other precincts. While the Pinto was up high, those below Brackettville report that the Elm creek was the stream which rose to the highest crest known in many years.

Charleston is the capital of West Virginia.

County Welcome Fine Rains

Fine rains, which thoroughly soaked the parched Kinney county ranges last week have succeeded in breaking up what few reminders we have had of the extended drought which began in 1950 and continued on until early portion of this year.

The rains which we received during the past week and over the week end were heavy and all areas of the county, and in fact most of the southwest received some of the same, too. Ranging from approximately two inches in the center to town, the rain became increasingly heavier as it extended to the north, ranging from three to about six inches to the north and northwest of town and from six to eight as it extended along the Pinto and hill country. The rains especially were very heavy to the west of here and sent the Pinto and all creeks up to Sycamore up and over their banks. The Pinto creek had the biggest rise and held up traffic over highway 90 for several hours. The late May rains have placed Kinney county ranges and consequently most of the ranchers, in a very favorable position for the late spring and summer months. Such range areas as had not entirely been denuded of grass are beginning to green up and shrub and brush which had been doing so poorly are coming along fine. Some of the ranges will need reseeded but with the good amount of moisture in the ground now and warm weather coming it will take very little to make grasses and vegetation green again. All tanks in Kinney county are full and creeks running.

Most of the ranchers who had been feeding have been relieved of this burdensome and costly practice but there is still some small amount of feeding going on. Kinney county now starts the growing season with the best prospects in recent years.

John Quincy Adams was the only President of the United States who was bald headed.

MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day was quietly observed in Brackettville. Locally all business places were opened for business as usual the only exception being the P.O. and the court house where most offices were closed.

CANDIDATES FILE EXPENSE

Candidates for offices who are subject to the democratic primaries in July last week on May 27, were required to and filed statement of expense in behalf of their candidacy. The requirement under revised Texas laws does not limit the exact amount of expenditures but it does specify that expenditures or receipts over $10.00 be named as well as the donor. All Kinney county and other candidates filed as required.

Letter From State Health Officer

AUSTIN, TEXAS. — State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox has forecast the death this year of some 30,000 Texans due to heart and blood vessel diseases. Twenty thousand will be men, and at least half the total figure—both men and women—will be less than 65 years old. The problem of worn-out hearts, thickened blood vessels, and kidney disorders is an old one, he asserted, but said the longer length of average life isn't the whole reason for the great numbers of heart disease deaths.

To prove that point he quoted these figures: Of the 30,000 Texans that cardiovascular (heart and blood vessel) diseases will kill in 1952, about 15,000 will be less than 70 years old, 700 will be in their 30's, 2,000 will be in their 40's, 4,500 in their 50's, and at least 7,000 in the 60's.

Since 1941, the male death rate has exceeded the female rate by something like 70 per cent, the health officer said. For those 75 and over the risk of death from heart disease is a fourth again as great for men as it is for women.

These ever increasing deaths to heart, kidney, and blood vessel disorders have been observed for the last 30 or 40 years.

"If a statewide heart program is to develop," he declared, "it will be necessary that there be provided a professional coordinating committee that will council on program procedures and give necessary directions on essential medical services."

He credited the American Heart Association with "successfully influencing" fund appropriations and for formulating a heart control program for the nation.

Solved

The problem: A motorist was 100 yards from an open, level railway crossing and was proceeding at 50 miles an hour. A train was also approaching at 60 miles an hour, and its distance from the crossing was 375 feet.

The question: Did the motorist get across?

Solution: Yes, the motorist got a cross. His widow bought it out of the insurance money.

Just For Laughs

Scanning over the application to see if it had been properly filled out, the agent saw:

"Age of father, if living—129"

"Age of mother, if living—112"

He asked the applicant in astonishment, "Surely your parents aren't that old, are they?"

"Oh, no sir," was the reply, "but they would have been if living."

The government reports an increase of illegal manufacture of alcohol and alcoholic drinks. Higher taxes of course. Seems as if we're back to an era where we were, once upon a time.

Commissioners Meet For Road Bids

A special meeting of the Kinney county commissioners court was held Monday morning at ten o'clock at which time bids were opened for the moving back of fences on the Macie road for an approximate distance of 35 miles. Eight bids were offered. The moving of fences and furnishing of poles and staves necessary for replacing the fence as it was, was necessitated when the court undertook this move as a part of its compliance with a highway request to widen the roadway prior to its being topped by the state.

The contract for the moving back and replacement of the fence and furnishing of needed fence posts and staves was awarded to L. E. Davis of Menard Texas, who expects to begin work about June 15th. Mr. Davis will also do similar work on the new entrance to the Pinto Road.

The boy thought a moment and then replied: "Let's see it."

"Mr. Watson, come here, I want you" were the first words spoken over the telephone. It was the inventor Alexander Graham Bell calling to his assistant.

Rice and Sausage Casserole is a dish which is extra delicious and extra economical. The home-maker finds this casserole dish particularly useful for busy days when she arrives home at the same time as her hungry family. The sausage is cooked in a very few minutes. The can of vegetable soup and the cooked rice are added and the casserole is ready for the oven in a jiffy.

A salad is prepared and the table is set while the oven transforms rice and sausage into a piping-hot, hearty, appetizing treat.

INGREDIENTS:

- 1/2 lb. bulk pork sausage
- 1 11-oz. can condensed vegetable soup (without meat)
- 1 1/2 cups cooked rice
- 1/4 cup water

PREPARING THE FLUFFY WHITE RICE: To make 3 liberal cups of fluffy rice; put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt in a two-quart saucepan and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Bring to a vigorous boil and then turn the heat as low as possible—leave over this low heat for 14 minutes. Turn off the heat. This cooking time results in firm grains of cooked rice. For extra tender grains, allow the rice to steam—with heat off—for an additional 5 minutes before removing the lid.

Never remove the lid nor stir rice while it is cooking. After rice is cooked, remove lid, lift rice gently with fork to allow rice to steam dry to the desired consistency. It is then ready—perfectly cooked—with all the grains separate and fluffy. This method allows all the water to be absorbed and the full nutritional value of the rice to be retained.

Keep left-over cooked rice in the refrigerator in a covered container. You will find it convenient for making many quick, easy and delicious dishes.

METHOD: Fry the bulk sausage (loose—not formed into patties) until brown. Drain off fat to save or discard. Combine sausage, soup, rice and water in skillet. Mix well. Bake in a greased casserole or in individual casseroles in a 350° F. oven for 30 minutes.

If you want to add a decorative touch, fry some sausage in small balls and use these with some of the peas and carrots out of the soup as a top garnish. Add this garnish during the final minutes of cooking period. This recipe makes six servings.

Veterans Questions And Their Answers

Q—I'm going to school under the GI Bill, and my entitlement will run out a couple of weeks before the end of my course. Will I have to pay for the rest of the course myself?

A—No. So long as your GI entitlement carries you past the midway point of your term or semester, you will be permitted to finish that term or semester under the GI Bill, even though you haven't any more entitlement.

Q—May I join with a non-veteran in starting a business, and get a GI loan to finance my share?

A—Yes. However, the guarantee cannot extend to any portion of the loan which may constitute all or part of the non-veteran's contribution to the business.

Q—I'm a totally disabled veteran of Korea and my disabilities are service-connected. May I apply for the new insurance for disabled veterans who served since Korea? If so, may I have my premiums waived because of my total disability?

A—You may apply for the new insurance and, at the same time, you may apply for a waiver of premiums. But be sure you include the required premium with your application, and continue to pay premiums until VA notifies you whether the waiver has been granted. Then if the waiver is granted, premiums paid under that waiver will be refunded.

Q—Does the new insurance for veterans who served since Korea pay dividends?

A—No; it earns no dividends. But its premiums are lower than other forms of Government life insurance which do pay dividends.

The index to the cost of living so we are told by government officials, with a straight face, has not risen as much as expected. Being that it had quite a while back got out of hand, and was way beyond the reach of most of us, this statement didn't raise any chuckles of glee nor refrains of noisy enthusiasm. Trying to make our money stretch for food purchases is like trying to measure a guy for a suit without use of a tape measure.
