Social Security

Although most farm and ranch operators who employ regular hired help are now filing quarterly social security tax returns, it is important to bear in mind that seasonal workers may also work long enough to qualify for old-age and survivors insurance credits, according to John K. Shelton, manager of the San Antonio social security office.

To insure that all qualified employees are properly reported, Shelton stated that the farm operator should do these things:

- (1) List the names and date employed of all new employees.
- (2) At the end of each calendar quarter review this list. Any new employee who has been employed during the entire quarter should be included with the listing of regular employees.
- (3) Secure the newly qualified employee's social security account number.
- (4) Make regular tax deductions unless it is known that the employee will be discharged before working 60 additional days on a full-time basis.
- (5) If the newly qualified employee continues to work on a full-time basis for at least 60 days and earns $50 or more during the quarter following qualification, his wages must be reported the same as all other regular employees.
- (6) Contact the nearest office of the Social Security Administration for advice in doubtful cases.

The SST-1 (Training & Target Submarine) has a complement of two officers and 12 men; cost $4¼ million; length is 131 feet; beam 13½ feet.

Sul Ross College To Hold Summer Band And Twirling Clinic

A ten-day school band and twirling clinic will be held on the campus of Sul Ross State College in Alpine, from June 9th through the 18th according to Joe Bellamah, college band director. Two of the most outstanding men in their respective fields will conduct the clinic. Walter Beeler, Professor of music and director of bands at the Ithaca College of Music, Ithaca, New York, will be the band clinician. Mr. Beeler is an outstanding composer, band arranger, and clinician and served as clinician at the Band and Orchestra Director's National Convention at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago, this year.

The drum-major and twirling clinician will be Dick Smith, present drum-major of the famous University of Michigan Band. Mr. Smith was featured in the RKO movie short, "Here Comes the Band". He appeared in Life Magazine October 30, 1950; Etude Magazine October 1951; News Pictorial November 11, 1951 and served as twirling judge at the National Contest.

A band directors class will also be held during the ten days of the clinic at which time Mr. Beeler will lecture on band problems. Graduate credit will be given band directors attending this clinic upon proper enrollment.

Our Washington Newsletter

By Congressman O. C. Fisher

THE TIDELANDS ISSUE was advanced one step further toward a show-down last week when the House and Senate conferees agreed upon a bill which compromised the differences between the House and Senate versions of the legislation. The House passed its bill a year ago by a vote of 265 to 109, and the Senate acted on a somewhat similar measure a month ago, by a closer vote of 50 to 35.

Under terms of the conference agreement, Texas is given its full title to its off-shore lands for a distance of 10¼ miles along our entire seacoast. Other States which border the sea are given a quitclaim to the lands that extend 3 miles seaward. The Texas case is different because of our boundary agreement when we entered the union.

This agreement is a major victory for Texas, although we are faced with a possible Presidential veto. If that occurs, the House will, it is generally agreed, be able to override with the necessary two-thirds. In the Senate, however, the vote will be closer and the chances of getting the two thirds is in doubt but not necessarily hopeless.

There is some talk going the rounds up here, wholly unconfirmed, that President Truman may not veto this bill, despite the fact that he vetoed one we passed three years ago. The gossip is that he may allow this one to become law and thereby avoid having Tidelands an issue in the Presidential election this Fall. It will be recalled that General Eisenhower has already come out in favor of confirming title in tidelands in the States, and it may be that the political leaders would like to avoid having this featured as a major issue in Texas, as well as in most of the States of the Union.

This is just talk, but it is rather persistent around Washington recently. The House and Senate will act on the Conference report on tidelands this week, and the measure will then go to Mr. Truman's desk. In any event, we will know where we stand on the Tidelands subject within another month.

During the last four months approximately 200 persons applied for social security cards and did not receive them, according to John K. Shelton, manager of the San Antonio social security office located at 419 South Main Avenue.

Give Your Correct Mailing Address

Shelton stated that the cards were returned as undeliverable because the applicants either gave an incorrect mailing address or moved and did not leave a forwarding address. He added that there is no way of getting the cards into the applicants' hands unless they get in touch with his office.

Shelton pointed out that all persons engaged in social security work should have a social security card in order to receive credit on their old-age and survivors insurance account. Working without a card, he said, may result in the worker and his family losing some benefits under the program or, possibly, may result in no benefits at all being paid.

Power Of Attorney Explained By Bar

There are only two ways to get a thing done. You do it yourself or get someone to do it for you. When you get someone to act for you he is your agent. This right to represent you may be given orally or in writing.

It is best to have the agency relationship carefully defined and written down. When written, the document often takes the form of a "Power of Attorney."

Any person legally competent to act for himself may give to another power of attorney to act in his place. With the growth and expansion of business it is difficult for one man to handle the variety of complex tasks that come his way. It is more expedient to delegate power and responsibility to others, thus giving such persons authority to make binding contracts in his name.

The person who delegates the power is called the principal, and the person to whom the authority is given is the agent. Third persons can deal with a properly authorized agent with the knowledge that the law will enforce the obligation against the principal.

The law sets up two broad classes of agents—special and general. Most agents are special agents—that is, they have specific authority to do only certain things. When a person is named in a power of attorney as a general agent, he is authorized to act in all proper cases as if the principal were acting in person.

For example: A citizen soldier leaves home to go to war. He needs someone to represent him while he is away. He names such a person—usually a parent, wife, or trusted friend—in a power of attorney, giving this person specific powers or a general power to act in his behalf. If the soldier wants to sell his home while overseas, he can give such agent the power to sell the home, and may limit the agent's authority to this one matter. When this agent begins negotiations for the sale, the prospective buyer can, by an examination of the power of attorney, know exactly what authority the agent has.

If the person is given a general power of attorney, he can transact all the serviceman's business as though the soldier were home to act for himself. Suppose the soldier owns a store and wants someone to run it while he is away. He may authorize this person through a power of attorney to buy, sell, extend credit, collect bills, deposit and withdraw money from the bank, and, in short, do business on the same basis as the serviceman could if he were present to run the store himself.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

MENTAL

MEANDERINGS

The work being done and to be done by the State Highway Department in Kinney County is something to feel good about. The Highway Department is again setting out to do something about the narrow highway bridges on Highway 90 through Kinney County. These, we understand, will be widened, which should eliminate most if not all of the wrecks which have occurred on the highway in the past. Then, soon, we will be having bids let on the Macie Road, which will connect Highway 90 and the Del Rio-Eagle Pass Road. New rest and shade spots are being constructed on Highway 90 at Pinto bridge and Fritter Park. Which will make the highway safer, more available and attractive when all is completed.

Are you taking part in the Clean-up drive? Seems that a large part of our people have. Those who haven't probably have been unable to secure help to aid in the cleaning up, or are temporarily out of town. But don't let that deter you. Notice how clean and attractive a place can look after it has been cleaned up? Yours may look more attractive—let's go.

The Kinney County Chamber of Commerce wants more members. It has been doing a good work, but it needs more members and a more united effort to do things that can really wake up the community to its rightful place in the sun. No group ever accomplished miracles unless it had the support of all and the community had the faith of its every citizen. Its up to you to do what you can to make this a better county and community.

A sign: Treat everyone as if he is your brother, but don't use that as an occasion to borrow from him.

Don't know why the UN members of the Korea peace commission just sit back and listen to the Chinese and Korean generals berate them, call them names, yell at them, insult them. At least they could be more original and if nothing else, by negative means nullify the tirade of these commies. We remember a guy who, having to listen to countless questions, tirades from irate persons, scathing name-calling, was asked if it bothered him greatly. "Nothing bothers me as much," he replied, "as taking the cotton out of my ears when I get through for the day."

We used to have tries years ago at making ours a beautiful garden. And we made good progress, despite weather conditions, our lack of constant effort against bugs and, of course, the neighbors chickens. Right now we can sit back and contemplate with some enjoyment our often times futile and again rather effective measures against these marauding pests. However, we always wonder why one who has chickens lets them loose, to roam at will. Those who want to have nice gardens, clean lawn furniture, privacy and peace, naturally do not want chickens on their places. If we had chickens—and thank goodness those we get someone else raises (for eating, that is)—we don't think we would like to furnish our neighbor with a nice meal.

Now we read that the Flying Saucers are considered old stuff; that for the past three hundred years or so such as these have been seen by people everywhere. Well, let's see: nope, can't lay it to effects of too much over-indulgence, to optical illusions, to what? Maybe there were some, after all. Wonder if the storm cellars are ok, tonight?

Now they are again finding out—or so some of these scientists say, and write—that perhaps the full moon has plenty to do with human behavior, with animal antics and other things other than tides. They say that people do looney things under the moon (nope, not like romancing and wanting to get married), and that those who have tendencies away from normal, mentally speaking, get more erratic in their behavior when the moon is full. Well, well, now we know that the moon madness caused by looney moon just as we suspected—something was screwy all along.

It is odd to read about what long-lived persons lay their long life to. Few claim it was because of temperance in habits and in living. Some claim that a mild diet did it, some that tobacco and a few drinks, others that no drinks or smoking, but the one that took the cake, at least some thought, was the old codger who said that his long life was due to eating what he pleased, doing as he pleased, and drinking as and what he wanted, and then remarking that "I can't do that anymore even if I want to—it don't agree with me anymore."

The national political pot continues to boil, and there is plenty of activity, speech-making, juggling of forces, fence-riding and what not especially among the Republicans who have three big candidates to pick from. Contest is running hard amongst these, especially Ike and Taft. We are also having loads of dogans coming up in their faces, and in the Democratic party too. All in all, it's a grand mixup, plenty of fireworks coming. Aye, Mr. Voter, just sit back and listen, or read.

Seems there are three—at least so far that is what we can find—kinds of people who read the Bible: those who look to it for spiritual guidance and comfort, those who want to have people think they read the Bible for righteous purposes but only do it to justify their acts, and those who read it to try to see what novel ideas they can get from it. This last like the guy who figured how many words are in the Bible, what chapter ends in a comma, how many times certain words are used, why Methuselah died during or at the time of the Great Flood, etc.

Summer vacations are on again. Seems like this year the youngsters, or at least a number of them, are gonna get themselves a job or work of some sort, getting social security cards we understand, and then saving up some dough for a special occasion. Some will just take time up to catch up with their loafing and playing.

Before you question your husband's judgment, take another look in the mirror.

Veterans Questions And Their Answers

Q.—I am a disabled World War II veteran. If I get VA's approval may I still start vocational training under Public Law 16, or did the cut-off date of last July end my chances for taking the training?

A.—If you meet all requirements, you still may begin training under Public Law 16. Under the law, you may start at any time, so long as you can finish by the program's wind-up on July 25, 1956. The July 25, 1951 cut-off date applied only to training under the GI Bill, and not under Public Law 16.

Q.—A close friend, a World War I veteran, died recently, and I paid the burial expenses, since he had no family. May I be reimbursed by VA for the expenses?

A.—Yes, VA may pay up to $150 for burial expenses of an eligible veteran. You can get necessary application forms at any VA office. You must file your claim for reimbursement within two years after the veteran's burial.

Q.—My wife and I are both World War II veterans. We want to open a dress shop with the help of a GI business loan. May we both use our loan guarantee privileges together?

A.—Yes, However, your total combined guarantee may not exceed 50 per cent of the loan.

Q.—I understand that VA will stop mailing premium receipts on GI insurance this summer. Does that mean we won't be getting those premium notice envelopes, as well?

A.—No. The premium notice envelopes will continue to be sent to veteran policyholders. Only the mailing of receipts will be discontinued.

The complaint lists 35 separate transactions in which the OPS alleges over-ceiling prices were charged in sales of used cars by the defendant, doing business as Dave's Used Cars.

Rice and Egg Casserole Hits an All Time High in Eating Perfection

Truly spectacular in flavor and appearance. Every bite of this magnificent casserole has "come-back-for-more" appeal. The peas, pimiento, and cheese, along with a dash of onion, combine flavors in the rice to produce out-of-this-world eating and make a delicious combination with the decorative eggs.

Happily, this casserole may be assembled ahead of time. The eggs are added a half-hour before the meal is to be served and while they bake the table is set and the rest of the food assembled. Then prepare to bask in the heap of praise which eaters will send flying.

INGREDIENTS:
3 cups cooked rice
1 1/2 cups cooked peas
2 tablespoons diced pimiento
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup melted butter or margarine
1 cup grated cheese
1/2 cup milk
6 eggs

PREPARING THE FLUFFY WHITE RICE: To make 3 liberal cups of fluffy rice; put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt in a two-quart saucepan and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Bring to a vigorous boil and then turn the heat as low as possible—leave over this low heat for 14 minutes. Turn off the heat. This cooking time results in firm grains of cooked rice. For extra-tender grains, allow the rice to steam—with heat off—for an additional 5 minutes before removing the lid.

Never remove the lid nor stir rice while it is cooking. After rice is cooked, remove lid, lift rice gently with fork to allow rice to steam dry to the desired consistency. It is then ready—perfectly cooked—with all the grains separate and fluffy. This method allows all the water to be absorbed and the full nutritional value of the rice to be retained.

METHOD: Mix together the rice, peas, pimiento, parsley, onion, salt, butter or margarine, and half of the cheese. Spread evenly in a greased baking dish (10"x6"x2"). Pour the milk over the rice mixture. Make six wells in the rice mixture and drop an egg into each well. Sprinkle the remaining cheese over the top of the eggs and rice. Bake at 350° F. for 30 min. or until the eggs are set. This recipe makes 6 servings.

Kinney County Gets A Soaking Rain

A storm period hit here Tuesday morning bringing the total of 1.82 inches of rain. It was accompanied by a fairly high wind. Rising waters over flood the Las Moras out its bank in town, flooded North and Ann street and lower sections of the city. The Mud Creek was up but soon ran down and the greatest decrease on Highway 90 was Finto Creek led by a 6 inch rain above which overflowed and covered bridges thereon.

Veterans Questions And Their Answers

Q.—Is a down payment required for a GI business loan?
A.—No. Neither the law nor recent credit control regulations require a down payment for a GI business loan. But your lender has the right to ask for one if he chooses.

Q.—I'm studying engineering under the GI Bill. I want to drop my math course for the time being. Am I allowed to do so under VA's post-cut-off date regulations?
A.—Yes. VA's post-cut-off date regulations apply to changes of over-all programs of study, and not to changes of individual courses within a program of study. Therefore, dropping or adding a course, within a program of study, is permitted.

Q.—I'm drawing a pension, and I wonder if I would be eligible for the increased maximum of $120 a month which goes to veterans who need regular aid and attendance of another person. My doctor has prescribed rest in bed for a couple of months, while I recover from an illness, and I need constant aid while I'm in bed.
A.—You would not be entitled to the $120-a-month rate during your temporary confinement to bed. The increase is for those who are permanently in need of regular aid and attendance of another person.

Q.—I wear an orthopedic brace on my right leg because of wounds I received during World War II. Can I get emergency repairs to my brace without prior approval from VA?
A.—You can get emergency repairs to your brace up to $15 from any commercial brace or repair shop without prior VA approval if you have the new "Prosthetic Service Card—Orthopedic Braces." VA Regional Offices are now in the process of issuing these cards.

Q.—I'm eligible for a 1952 dividend on my National Service Life Insurance. In my case, VA is holding the money to pay any premiums that I miss paying. When does this system start?
A.—VA can pay your premiums out of your dividend money only after the anniversary date of your policy has passed. Be sure to pay your own premiums until after the anniversary date. Otherwise you're taking a chance that your policy will lapse.

Q.—I am on active duty, and I have an NSLI term policy which is under waiver. However, the term period of the policy is about to expire. Is there any way I can keep my insurance protection after it expires?
A.—Yes. Under the law, your term policy will be automatically renewed for another five-year term. Premiums on this new insurance also will be waived during the remainder of your service and for 120 days afterwards. But when you start paying your own premiums again, the amount will be higher—based on your age at the time the new term went into effect.

Veterans Were Reminded

Veterans training under the GI Bill were reminded today by the Veterans Administration of steps they must take in order to move up from their present courses to courses at the next higher level.

First, said VA, they must apply for the advanced training either before they complete their current course, or within 90 days following its completion.

And second, they must go ahead with their additional training either within 30 days after finishing their present courses, or on the first day that enrollment of students in their new course is permitted, whichever is later.

The normal summer vacation period doesn't count as a period of interruption for veteran-students in colleges and other schools organized on a term, quarter, or semester basis. A veteran, pursuing an undergraduate course, who applies for graduate training in time, need not start his advanced course until the fall semester.

VA said its rules apply to nearly all veterans in training under the GI Bill: those discharged on or before July 25, 1947, who started their courses on or before July 25, 1951, cut-off date, and who have been in training since except for certain reasons beyond their control.
