Texans Blast House Proposal On Tidelands

Reaction in Texas to the bill introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) was immediate and scathing. Representative Kennedy's proposal would give the Federal government complete control and earmark all tidelands revenues for hospitals, medical services, doctor training, a miniature socialized medicine program. Attorney General Price Daniel was quick to point out that the Kennedy proposal is just another example of Federal fumbling in an attempt to justify the theft of property from the school children of Texas.

Continuing his stinging lash at the Kennedy bill, Daniel said, "First, it was for national defense, but when the facts showed that more oil is produced under state operation, that argument was dropped. Next, the Federal landgrabbers said, 'Let's divide the swag up among all the schools'. They soon found that they were robbing state school funds so they had to seek another excuse. Now, Congressman Kennedy wants to use our tidelands for federal hospital and medical care. It all gets down to further socialization of the country by stealing from the States and their school funds. It must be stopped by Congressional action restoring the lands to the states."

The House of Representatives passed the Walter-Gossett bill in the last session of Congress by a vote of 265 to 109 to ratify full ownership by the states. The reaction of Guy C. Jackson, Jr., Chairman of the Statewide Tidelands Committee, to the Kennedy bill followed the same line of reasoning pursued by the Attorney General. Said Jackson, "This is another handfull of Federal hay held out till they get the rope on the fatted calf of tidelands revenue. Our Federal busy-bodies couldn't whip the medical profession on the merits of socialized medicine, so they are going to try to get the job done by a bare-faced steal of our tidelands if we don't fight back with every weapon at our command."

Jackson said that the Statewide Tidelands Committee has plans made to work on a national scale within the near future, to carry the true facts of the tidelands issues to the people of all the states. Currently, the Committee is carrying on a fund-raising campaign to finance the national program.

Veterans Questions And Their Answers

Q.—I am planning to apply for a GI farm loan. Must I actually live on the farm that I buy with the guaranteed loan?

A.—No. But you must, at least, supervise the farming operation.

Q.—I am a blinded Korean veteran, and I understand I am entitled to a trained seeing-eye dog to help me get about. The nearest place to learn how to make use of such a dog is 100 miles away. Will VA pay my travel expenses?

A.—Yes. Travel expenses for such a purpose may be paid both ways. In addition, if you are required to be away from home during the period of adjustment to use of the dog, VA also may pay for your meals and lodging during that time.

Q.—What is the largest amount of money a veteran can borrow, and have the loan guaranteed under the GI Bill?

A.—The size of the loan depends solely on the amount of money the lender is willing to lend. The only limitation is on the amount of VA guarantee.

"CHAMBER OF HORRORS"

Defense officials have come to refer to the exhibits of waste before the House Armed Services Subcommittee as the "chamber of horrors". It is indicated that some members of the armed forces are disposed to write off duplications and waste too lightly. Certainly the taxpayer has a right to be angry when he reads of one service paying substantially more than another service for the same supply item.

This expression and the attendant recent publicity was a result of a committee display of various items, picked at random, purchased by the various services at prices that in some instances were far from uniform, even though the things bought were practically identical.

For a year now, the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Hebert of Louisiana, of which I am the ranking member, has been exposing waste and inefficiency wherever it could be found. As a result, multiplied millions have been saved, new centralized procurement methods have been set up, and procurement officers have become more economy-conscious. All three of the services have cooperated with the committee in this revamping operation.

Of major importance has been the Committee's drive for a uniform catalogue system for all supply items. The Munitions Board has the task of unifying procurement between the services. Already, some 15 million separate catalogue items have been reduced to 1,500,000. This is a painstaking process. In some instances, one item has been found to have as many as 50 different listings.

We are assured that once this uniform catalogue system is perfected, cases of excessive purchases will no longer result. And there will no longer be any excuse for the "chamber of horrors."

STRAW IN THE WIND

Whether we like it or not, ever since our government was founded, politics plays a big part in lawmaking and in party policies, particularly on Presidential election years. Evidence of politics is often bad in legislating, because too much attention is given by some Members to votes in November rather than to what should be done in some instances.

It is no wonder, therefore, that early elections and primaries are watched with eagle-eyes by Party Bigwigs, watching for indications of how the voters may line up in November when the chips are down. A special election in New York City last week grabbed Washington headlines because an anti-Truman Republican defeated a pro-Truman Democrat in the election of a Congressman from a normally Democratic district. The vote was light, and it might not mean much. But it was a 'straw in the wind' as both Party leaders put their interpretations on it.

Some Dopesters, who get paid for using crystal balls and writing out theories and exploding others, think the "straw" indicates a swing toward more conservatism as opposed to Fair Dealism and excessive spending. If that is true, the trend bodes well for Southern conservatives who have been outspoken against many of the Truman Fair Deal policies and non-essential spending in recent years, and who have not gone along with the leadership which has been smitten with a pro-labor complex on issues where the Big Brass in the unions have favored excessive spending and many "Welfare State" measures.

Then, there are the crystal gazers who figure the South might revolt this year and thereby throw the election of a President into the House of Representatives for the first time since 1824. If, they reason, the South should refuse to accept the Democratic or Republican candidate for President, and favor their own choice, the election would then go to the House of Representatives.

The last time the House decided an election was in the contest between Andrew Jackson and John Quincy Adams. Jackson got 99 electoral votes in the election and Adams got only 84. However, Adams won in the House balloting when Henry Clay threw his support to Adams and as a reward was named Secretary of State.

In the House elections (if an impasse should occur and neither candidate got a majority of electoral votes in November) the voting is by States. Each State has one vote. The vote is cast by the State's Congressional delegation after a caucus. Bitter wranglings could be expected within the various delegations. In the case of Texas, most of the Members are considered conservative and through a coalition consistently oppose extravagance and socialistic measures despite the Party leadership and Administration overtures.

Truckers Clean House

The truckers of Texas are to be commended upon the splendid showing they have made in reducing the number of overloading violations.

The last Legislature increased the truck load limit from 48,000 to 58,420 pounds. The truckers adopted a policy of law observance and pledged themselves to a policy of staying within the new weight limitation. A self-policing committee, under the direction of W. W. Callan of Waco, was created.

That the industry, through this committee, has tried hard and successfully to carry out this policy is shown in figures from the Texas Department of Public Safety.

According to these figures, the rate of violations found by the Department's inspectors is 85 per cent less than it was a year ago.

The trucking industry, as represented by Texas Motor Transportation Association, has pledged its continued efforts to keep down overloading, as well as to promote courtesy and safety on the highways and generally to strive toward the goal of giving this state the best kind of truck service.

Promises are cheap—we hear many of them without having much faith in their being fulfilled—but the motor carriers' promise is backed up by a record of achievement.

It took determination and hard work to do what they have done. They have cleaned house and it appears that they intend to keep it clean.

The truck is an essential part of our transportation system, and the trucking industry has long paid a substantial amount of money every year to the state in taxes.

It is gratifying to greet the truck operator as a good citizen.

MENTAL

MEANDERINGS

Spring! It's a grand season, and soon to be with us. The time when Nature, so the poets say, awakens from her long winter sleep and begins to deck herself in the brightest of colors and the prettiest of flowers. That much we feel very much in tune with, but we also have the realist with us. The guy who talks about good old "Bock", the grandmother who thinks (or do they?) in terms of sulphur and molasses. But we still stick with those who have enough soul left to experience a real thrill when Spring comes, whether it be afore the calendar date or after, listens to the trill of the mocking birds and other of nature's creatures; it helps you, like we once heard someone say, "shake the cobwebs off your soul."

This is the time of Lent! To the Christian it has been for many a long year, a time when one can, without recourse to the oldtime sackcloth and ashes, do some penance. It could be made a time of revealing faith if one believes really in his Christianity. No man is perfect, and no man is all good, therefore the need for a soul cleansing is as urgent as is that spring housecleaning some housewives get themselves into. Times have certainly changed, but man has not.

Soon we will have our first election of this, the big election year. The municipal election, at which time will be chosen a Mayor, and three aldermen, according to the election notices posted in public places. It will give the voter a chance to exercise his right of choice. This is a great right, folks, one that those under dictators and autocratic control are not permitted to use. Exercise that privilege, and show the world what it is, and has always been, the keeping of America strong.

March came in like a lamb. So hope we don't find it going out like a lion.

It begins to appear that we will have quite a flock of candidates for the Presidency, on both the Republican and Democratic sides anyway. There are quite a few who think they are of presidential timber, and some who others think would well qualify for the high office. These are strenuous times, but it does not seem to have much effect on many of these people. Anyways, the more the merrier, or as someone might more aptly put it, it will make a bigger show and give the voter more for his money.

Like in many other situations, the question as to whether the congressional probes of communistic influences in government and especially in the State Department are detrimental to national safety, derogatory to character in most cases or not. There is no doubt but that there is a deep-seated corruption that reaches into high places, but not all are crooks. Not all who are in the State Department have communistic leanings or are partial to red theories. But there are a large number who are. It is difficult to separate the sheep and the goats in this case, but the committees seem to be doing a fair job of it. The wisest way it would seem, is that once said years ago: "By their works you shall know them."

You don't always have to have the most expensive equipment to get the best results. Just recently we saw some pictures taken with a pinhole camera, which to our notion were as of high quality and equal to many others taken by more expensive and fancy equipment.

A hot rod passed a friend of ours the other day, doing plenty on the highway. "He was hell bent on speed," said the friend. Then on second thought, "But he didn't make it this time."

There was a bartender's contest in England not long ago, and seems to have attracted lots of attention. They came up with liquid mixtures which were sampled, it is presumed by the judges or others, and then the one who tickled the palate and probably warmed the cockles of someone's heart, got the nod. We would have thought there were sufficient mixtures in the world without adding any more. We remember hearing about one Joe bartender who could mix em, like the old French 45's, to be drank sitting on the edge of the bed. Or moderately and mellow, tingling every nerve down to the stomach. We read about these, folks, and we are taking someone else's word for it.

Prayers for peace have been and are being made by many Churches and church people. This is as we should have been for some time past. A few have recognized that our need is not only material but spiritual. Don't let the good resolutions die down.

A cheerful soul is a mighty nice gift these days. The one who can tell you, when you ask him how he is, "Fine", even though he is not in the best of health or is beset by troubles that would weigh down an ordinary person, is indeed one to know and appreciate. Too many long faces in this old world.

W didn't think about it, but the other day we saw a youngster trying to roll a cigarette with one hand. Like in the movies. He said he wasn't going to smoke it, just trying to roll it. Just got to wondering what they would take up next.

We got sorta stumped the other day and asked our partner what he thought would make a good editorial. He got sorta funny and said that he wouldn't know, never having seen one. Mulling that one over for what was in it, we just about came to the conclusion that what he meant to be a rub-down the other way was in essence quite a truth. We don't believe we ever saw an extra good editorial either. Perhaps there were some exceptions like that famous one on the Dog that saved the canine's life, that letter explaining why there was a Santa Claus, and—there were probably many more now the more we think about it, but like good things they slipped away from us in the midst of the turmoil and troubles of life. Soon, however the shouting and the tumult will die—we always like that one too.

American Plan for European Army Endangered by Allied Bickering

EUROPEAN ARMY—The American plan for a united European army to check Communist aggression in Europe, to which America has given millions of dollars, equipment, and its greatest military brains, is on the verge of being smashed. Old and bitter national feelings have climbed out of the grave of history and asserted themselves.

The big question is how and under what conditions West German troops are to be included in the European army. The United States has proposed that West German manpower be brought into an "integrated" force under General Eisenhower. West Germany and France have their own views of how this can be accomplished and to what extent.

The German view: She will agree to participate in the "integrated" force only if taken in as a full partner in the Atlantic alliance. In addition she wants several other concessions, including maximum sovereignty under the "peace contract" yet to be signed.

The French view: France would agree to inclusion of German units, but stipulates that they can not be recruited until after the five other participating nations have ratified the treaty. These nations are France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, and Italy. This stipulation means a delay of months at least since ratification of a final treaty is a long process. In addition, the French want several other checks, particularly control of war production in Germany as a safeguard against the rebuilding of German military might.

The three big powers—the United States, Britain, and France—have already told the Germans they can not be included in the Atlantic alliance for the time being. There was a hint that if Germany signed the European army pact, however, and showed the Allies she could behave, then it would be a much easier job of selling western Europeans on the idea of bringing Germany into the alliance. The three powers did offer concessions, including a seat on a projected four-power appeal board that will have power to review and modify the sentences of more than 1,000 German war prisoners.

West Germany and France are still far from satisfied and remain suspicious of each other. The door is still open for a possible settlement, but the whole thing hangs by a thin thread. A few wrong words at the wrong time can still wreck the plan that has cost home towners of America millions of dollars. But more important, it could cost the west a united front against communism. It has been said that an European army can not work without West Germany and France. It is obvious, then, these two must compromise their demands for the good of the whole and world peace.

RECORD DIVIDENDS—The Department of Commerce reports corporations in the United States paid a record $8,053,000,000 in cash dividends during 1951, a 2 per cent gain over 1950.

However, many corporations reported profits down during the last half of 1951, with a drop of 16 per cent for the month of December. It was partly attributed to increased tax payments.

Dividends were reported up in all fields except manufacturing. Automobile dividends dropped 25 per cent and electrical machinery and chemical goods manufacturers reported dividends down about 10 per cent.

The oil refining industry registered one of the biggest gains with 19 per cent, mining was up 16 per cent, railroads 10 per cent, and paper and printing 8 per cent.

ATOMIC TESTS—A new series of atomic tests will be held at Eniwetok atoll in the Pacific, it was announced by the Atomic Energy Commission. It was also revealed that further tests are planned for the near future in the Nevada desert near Las Vegas.

In keeping with the secrecy that surrounds such tests, exact dates and the type of atomic weapons to be tested were not announced.

Meanwhile, the British government has announced it will test its first atomic weapon this year in Australia. The British turned down an offer from the United States for a site for the tests and it was understood that no U.S. observers would be on hand to witness the experiment.

POLITICS—As the political pot begins to boil in earnest, the biggest question in the minds of most home towners remains: will President Truman seek the Democratic nomination? There seems to be little question but that the President can have it by simply saying so. Since January when most observers were willing to say "I don't think he will run again", observations have gradually changed to "he might" and "he will".

But until Mr. Truman announces his intentions, the Democratic side of the question is wide open. There is increasing evidence that Senator Kefauver—although he is unseasoned as far as presidential timber is concerned—is gaining strength. His campaign is showing surprising strength at the grassroots level and if Mr. Truman suddenly announces he is not interested in reelection, he will have a great advantage over those "better-late-than-never" candidates who will come out into the open.

THE DRAFT—The armed forces will draft 19,000 men this month—15,000 for the Army and 4,000 for the Marine Corps. The April call brings to 894,000 the total of announced draftees since the draft was resumed in September, 1950. Also, the April call is the lowest since September, 1951, when 16,900 men were requested by the two services.

KOREA—The United Nations have agreed to the Communist proposal for a conference after an armistice is signed in Korea to discuss political issues concerning Korea. An armistice in Korea, however, is still a long way from an accomplished fact. At the moment there are three important unsettled questions. They are:

- (1) The Communists want Russia included as a neutral power to help supervise the armistice. This is unacceptable to the United Nations since it has been established without any doubt that Russia has trained and supplied Communists in Korea with arms of all kind.
- (2) The Communists insist upon their right to construct airfields in North Korea during an armistice. The United Nations deny this right.
- (3) How, where and when the exchange of prisoners of war will take place.

When these questions are settled, the home towners of the nation can then begin to hope for an armistice.

CONSERVATION PROGRAM

Water Resources Legislation Proposed

President Truman's water resources policy commission has proposed legislation establishing a national water resources and related land conservation policy. The legislation was drawn from a recent report from the commission to the White House.

The proposed legislation would establish the policy of recognition of river basins as units of development; define broad national objectives in safeguarding of essential resources and would affirm the duty of the federal government, with state and local agencies, in cooperation with people of the several basins, to bring about maximum utilization of water and land resources. The Budget bureau also is studying the commission's proposed legislation.

Workers Transform 'Poor Man's Mountain' Into Promising Source of Annual Income

They're rich in scenic loveliness, those Blue Ridge mountain areas in Patrick county, Virginia. But the local people looked on their beauty with disdainful eyes and scornfully labeled them, "Poor Man's Mountain" and "No Business Mountain," because, as they phrased it, people had no business trying to make a living on such rugged hillsides. So they gave their time and labor to tobacco growing, cattle raising and orchard cultivation. The honey-sweet blueberries and big luscious blackberries that grew wild on the mountain sides, they left for the birds to gather, until in the 1940's.

An enterprising investor aware of the whole world's critical need for food, provided the facilities that enabled Patrick county to harvest its abundant wild berry crop. He opened a cannery at Stuart, the county seat; set up receiving stations every few miles in farm homes and country stores. He visited mountain homes, and became known as the "Blackberry Man."

With the backing of the county agent and the home demonstration agent, he persuaded the people to gather the berries and take them to the receiving stations to be weighed, picked up by trucks and hauled to the cannery. Berries picked in the morning were collected in the afternoon; and by seven o'clock that evening they were at the cannery. By the next morning they had been processed and canned, ready to be shipped. This prompt processing plus the natural goodness of the fruit won for Patrick County the highest rating of any canned berries purchased for the armed forces and inspected by the government that year.

The berry-picking season comes in Patrick county during a lull in tobacco-growing activities, so the men are free to help gather the crop. Most of the pickers, however, are women and children. Among them you'll find little girls pushing wheelbarrows of berries along the Blue Ridge Parkway; small boys hang their berry-filled buckets close together on a long pole. Two boys, one at each end carry it to the receiving station, where each youngster is paid cash for the berries he individually picked.

One six-year-old girl filled her five-pound lard bucket often enough to make $7.50 before the berry-picking season ended. One four-member family earned $84 a week; they came three times a week to the receiving station and averaged $28 a trip. Three members of another family earned $12 a day and they confess that not one of the three over-exerted himself.

In the beginning, Patrick county had citizens who set their heads against undertaking the new enterprise. It had calamity howlers who were certain that they would not have enough berries to keep the cannery going. Other wise guys declared that the people would not pick the berries. Still others doubted that the wild berries would sell even if they harvested and processed them. None of these predictions came true by a long mountain mile.

That first year the pickers were late starting; trucks for hauling the berries were not plentiful; local estimates of the crop gathered vary from 2 per cent to 40 per cent, with the conservatives holding out for 10 per cent.

Disregarding the percentage of the crop harvested, this much is certain—41,000 gallons of blackberries and 32,000 pounds of blueberries were picked in Patrick county that season. And that was a real accomplishment when we consider that up to then, no one had picked any berries, except once in awhile a lone individual, hard pressed for money, had gathered a gallon or two which he peddled in Martinsville. Or at rare intervals, a truck might haul a load of blueberries to Georgia to be canned.

Now, with $31,000 cash-money representing the proceeds from one season harvest, the mountain berries became things of value, economically significant. Many who had not considered wild berries worth canning for home consumption, now gave family needs a priority. The home demonstration agent states that the year following the big sale she found home shelves filled with canned berries. One woman, we are told, refused to sell a single berry until she canned 119 quarts for her family.

Kremlin Fliers

IT ISN'T pleasant to contemplate, but the inescapable fact is that Russia is not only outproducing us in planes, but is building up a reservoir of battle-tested pilots to fly them. The blunt fact is that the Kremlin is using Korea as a graduate school to train Russian pilots how to fly against American planes.

Rotating "classes" of Russian pilots have been manning the MIG's over Korea and learning American combat techniques first hand. The present class showed up in Korea on November 1, is now about ready to graduate.

Each class takes the same prescribed course. The first month is spent making navigational flights across Korea. The second month is spent observing American formations at a safe distance. During this period, the MIG's will occasionally make a pass at a bomber formation, but it is all in practice. They never fire a shot. The MIG's also take care to keep out of the way of air force F-86 Sabrejets during their breaking-in period.

By the third month, however, the Soviet student-pilots begin to tangle with American fighters—preferably with slower F-80 Shooting Stars and F-84 Thunderjets. As the Russians gain experience, they mix it up with our crack F-86 squads.

The result is that the green Russians are shot out of the skies at the rate of 13 to our one. But the survivors become tough, skillful pilots, baptized by fire and able to hold their own against our best.

Note.—In contrast, we send only our crack pilots to Korea, give our new pilots no battle training. Reason is that we are so short of F-86's that we cannot risk letting green-horns fly them in combat.

Messages to Moscow

A lot of schools all over the country are taking advantage of the arrangement whereby the school children of America can broadcast via the Voice of America to school children behind the Iron Curtain. Many newspapers are also cooperating.

In Charleston, W. Va., the Gazette is running a four-week contest among high-school children for the best "Messages to Moscow." The winner of each week's contest will be announced weekly, and at the end of the month the final winner will be given a trip to New York to visit the United Nations and broadcast personally over the Voice of America.

The Los Angeles News and the Wichita Eagle are cooperating with California and Kansas schools in running similar contests.

The messages should not be over 150 words, should tell about conditions in American schools, and how the youngsters of this country want peace and resent the artificial barrier to friendship imposed by the Kremlin. Since the youngsters of today will have to carry out the American foreign policy of tomorrow, this is an opportunity for them to help mould that foreign policy now.

Costello's Friends

For the first time in years, a senate committee will defy the unwritten code of congress and question congressmen.

Specifically, Arnold Bauman of the senate D.C. crime committee wants to know why certain congressmen have been so chummy with racketeer Frankie Costello's Washington lobbyist, Murray Olf.

T-men have actually traced long-distance phone calls to Olf from Costello's partner, Dandy Phil Kastel. Olf also kept racketeer Joe Adonis overnight in his hotel room while Adonis was hiding out from the senate crime committee. Olf himself has a criminal record.

Yet this same Olf has been living in style at the Congressional hotel, has entertained at least 50 congressmen at cocktail parties. A handful of congressmen have been extra close to Olf and at least one has actually run errands for the racketeer.

Bauman intends to find out why. He personally will call on the congressmen and take their statements. Among those who can expect a visit are Congressman Morrison of Louisiana.

Note.—Fear that something like this would happen was one reason why the senate crime committee had a hard time getting its work extended.

Franco's Successor

Secret agreement has been reached among the principal advisors and supporters of Spanish Dictator Franco to make Martin Artajo, present foreign minister, the heir-presumptive to the dictator when the generalissimo retires—which will probably happen early in 1954.

Franco himself took the initiative in this decision and backed Artajo as his official successor. Until recently Franco dreamed of a dynasty.

EILEEN O'FARRELL is the perfect soloist for the "Telephone Hour" on St. Patrick's Day, so she is being announced way ahead of time. This broadcast will be a special event, broadcast from Carnegie Hall, where she scored a brilliant success with her recital in 1950. The daughter of Irish parents formerly billed in vaudeville as "The Singing O'Farrells," she has fulfilled their dreams by becoming one of our outstanding dramatic sopranos. But she is not one of our temperamental prima donnas; she refuses to be glamorized, and will let nothing interfere with her home life with her husband, Robert Reagan, and her son, Robert Reagan, Jr.

Fred Heider, producer of "The Paul Whiteman Revue", received a congratulatory telegram after a recent broadcast. It came from an old friend in Hollywood, Gordon MacRae; they shared a locker when they were page boys at NBC.

"Brigadoon" is to be filmed at last by M.G.M., with exterior scenes filmed in Scotland, as they should be. This lovely musical was not as satisfactory as it should have been on the stage, though it had a long run. It is perfect for pictures. The authors, Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, will do the screen play and score, and Gene Kelly will have a leading role.

Richard Beedle, William Holden's brother, will make his movie debut in Paramount's "Stalag 17". It's his first attempt at acting. He has been working in a laboratory owned by his father, before that, operated a flying school.

The size of the audience reached by Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis on television was proved by the result of an appeal for funds to support research in muscular dystrophy, which they made recently. The appeal brought in more than 7,000 responses. There were scores of letters from dystrophic victims who never knew there was a Muscular Dystrophy association, despite wide publicity.

June Jeffery, the 21-year-old actress who recently completed the second leading role in Charles Chaplin's forthcoming "Limelight", has been signed to play an important role in Paramount's "Botany Bay". She was featured in "The Fighter".

It took about three months and 500 interviews, requiring the use of four recording companies, before Phillip H. Lord selected Don MacLaughlin for the role of "David Harding" in "Counter-Spy". Lord is a perfectionist, which probably is one reason why this popular NBC radio show is about to celebrate its 10th anniversary. He knows just what he wants, and gets it.

Del Wood, the new pianist with a boogie beat who recently made her debut on "Grand Ole Opry", is a native of Nashville, a housewife and a clerical worker. Until she hit success with her first record a year ago she played with a local band.

When making the film, "Roman Scandals", before the war, Eddie Cantor noticed a beautiful redhead who was breaking up the cast with her comic antics. He advised her to try professional comedy instead of being just a show girl. Her name is Lucille Ball, a star of the screen, television and radio. Now she and Eddie, with their own shows, have the same sponsor.

Susan Whitney, 11 who has a major role in Warners' "The Miracle of Our Lady Fatima", started her career as a photographers' model at the age of 3, when she became one of the youngest magazine "cover girls" in the country.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Hedy La marr, who said she'd quit pictures for good, now says she'd like to make some in Europe. "Tonight We Sing", a 20th Century-Fox production, will give music lovers a treat, with the famous pianist, Arthur Rubinstein, playing himself in a cast that includes Ezio Pinza and Jan Peerce. Dayton Lumis, a veteran of the Broadway stage, will portray the late Graham McNamee, the radio broadcaster, in "Alexander, the Big Leaguer" it is reported.

RESIDENT A SERIAL STORY

NURSE

By LUCY AGNES HANCOCK

THE STORY SO FAR:

Nurse trainee, Gay Gaynor, Bethesda orphanage "product," is studying to become a children's nurse and aspires to be resident nurse at Bethesda. She has gained her position on the Bessemer hospital staff through intercession of Dr. Borden who quieted snobbish objection to employing orphans with "questionable family background." Gay dislikes Thad Borden, Dr. Borden's son, because of his insolence toward her at an orphan's picnic and because of his attentions to Vivian Poole D'Archer, "glamour queen" of Bessemer at the expense of his medical training. However, she hears at the hospital that Thad is aiding his father in surgery.

CHAPTER XV

"Oh, no, he doesn't have to, Myra," Gay said hotly. "Thad Borden's supposed to be a doctor. What's he doing chasing all over creation when he should be ministering to the sick? No, he goes around with her because he's still in love with her. She jilted him once but he simply refuses to stay jilted. That's love, my dear Myra. Real, honest-to-gosh Love with a capital letter."

"I don't believe it," Myra said stubbornly. "But let's forget Thad for a minute. It's Doc I'm worried about. He's in a bad way. Why don't you run over to his place and see him, Gay? Twon't hurt you none, and I'd like to know what you think about it. It worries me—Doc's one of my best friends—yours, too."

Gay demurred for a moment, but when she discovered it was Doctor Borden's office hours and would still be for the next half hour, she consented. It wasn't far to the old Borden estate and Gay rang the bell and walked into the waiting room now only sparsely filled. She sat down and looked about. It had been a long time since she had been in this room and much had happened. She knew none of the patients seated there. A woman with two small children who looked anything but in need of medical attention; a boy with a bandaged hand; a man who kept jingling the coins in his pocket while staring at the ceiling; and a young girl who spent her time examining the face reflected in her compact, turning from side to side, perfectly oblivious of the others in the room with her.

Thad Is Worried About His Father

For a moment Gay knew a wild desire to leave and yet why should she let Thad Borden drive her away? He was probably pinching hitting for Mrs. Potter who acted as office nurse during office hours. And after all, she came to see his father, not him. She picked up a magazine and tried to concentrate on its contents, but she was acutely aware every time the inner door opened and closed. At last she was alone in the office. She would be next. It was five minutes to three. Someone said, "You wish to see my father?"

Gay got to her feet. "Yes," she said. "May I go in?"

"Dad is resting," his son said evenly. "I am taking over his office hours for the next few days. Is there something I can do?"

The girl said nothing for a moment, then, "Is the doctor ill? Myra is worried about him and sent me to see for myself."

"Dad's been working too hard, but you know Dad. He never considers himself. Then you are not ill? I mean—"

"No, I am perfectly well. It was just that I wanted to talk to Doctor Borden—a personal matter." She turned to leave.

"It was kind of you to be concerned, Miss Gaynor," Thad said stiffly. "I'll tell him and—sure there is nothing I can do—"

"I'm sure," Gay said, her hand on the door. It was then the doctor reached the lower hall and they met face to face. He greeted her cordially and Gay saw how very worn he looked.

"This is a surprise, my dear," he said, taking her hand in both of his. "Surely you're not in need of a physician, Gay. You're blooming as a rose in spite of hard work, long hours and little time for recreation. Come into my office. I have a few minutes before I must drive over to Wayne Tyler's."

"You've been very kind to me, Doctor," the girl said. "I owe you a very great deal. Have—have you heard anything more about the Bethesda job, Doctor Borden?"

She saw his face cloud and went on hastily, "Don't answer. I know. Well, I can always do private work or I can stay on at Memorial. Both Doctor Cushing and Miss Smith want me to, but—well, you know Bethesda has been my goal, Doctor. I don't think I shall give up—not entirely."

"Of course not, my dear. After all, it's an innovation, you know, and the Board doesn't take kindly to innovations. We'll both keep plugging and—Thad, too. You know he is taking over that part of the work. He specialized in Pediatrics, or didn't you know that? The kids at Bethesda adore him. You would have worked well together, I know, but—what was that you came to see me about, Gay?" he asked.

"Please don't be angry, Gay," he pleaded. "I—I meant no harm. We couldn't help seeing the ring—" quick to see the stiffening in the girl's attitude.

"Myra sent me," she said tersely. "Myra? And what ails Myra?"

"She's worried about you. She says you don't look well, and I can see that with my own eyes. What have you been doing to make you so hollow-eyed and—well—haggard?"

"Worrying, perhaps," he said softly. "And yet I warn my patients to avoid worry as they would the plague. I'm going to ask you something, Frances Gaynor, and don't you dare take offence. Why do you hate Thad?"

Gay was startled. "But—but I don't. I—I—"

"Oh, yes you do, my dear, or at least you manage to give a better than reasonable facsimile. It used to worry Grace—she loved the boy, and it worries me, too. After all, Gay, he is all I have. He's restless and unhappy and I think he feels your treatment of him keenly."

"My—my treatment of him? Why, I—I never see him—"

Dr. Borden Asks Gay Forgive Thad

"That's what I mean. He can be in the same room with you—as close as I am to you this minute and yet you never see him. He has never mentioned it to me, but I know it ranks. He never told me what happened years ago when you were both children—"

"He was no child, Doctor Borden," Gay said sharply.

"Oh, well, he was young and no doubt feeling his oats. I could never get it out of him, but he told Grace about it—"

"He did?" Gay cried.

"Yes, and she told me. She knew I was concerned. Of course I can quite see your point, and yet I'm sure he meant no harm. The boy hasn't a vicious thought in his head, my dear. I'm his father and I know. He was angry and it is obvious he took the quickest, easiest way to get even."

of the very handicaps you have overcome and the annoyances you weathered in those old days. Today you are a poised, beautiful woman, my dear—one all of us privileged to know you can love and admire. Have I talked too much, child? You know I should always felt for you a father's interest and affection. Grace knew it—together we shared you—watched you grow into young womanhood, proud and happy in your development."

The eyes Gay raised to his were bright with tears. "You make me feel so ashamed, Doctor Borden," she whispered.

There was a light knock on the door and at the doctor's "Come in!" Thad thrust his head inside. "Mrs. Perkins is— Oh, I'm sorry, I didn't know—"

"Come in, Thad," his father said, getting to his feet. "I'll just see Mrs. Perkins—I'll be back, Gay. Don't go—"

Silence followed, heavy and disturbing. Gay fidgeted. After a moment Thad said tentatively, "Are we to congratulate in order to extend good wishes?"

"Thank you," Gay said, relaxing somewhat. "Of course I am happy about it. I never expected to be first. I thought there were others who stood higher. But I am proud and happy that I lead the class. It is a great satisfaction to me—a Bethesda girl." She added the last defiantly and was instantly ashamed.

Vivian Poole Returns To Adrian D'Archer

"I—I wasn't thinking of that," the young man said. "I referred to your engagement to young Boothe. It is an engagement, isn't it?"

"For your information and not because it is really any of your concern, it isn't," she said coldly, and got to her feet. "Tell your father I will see him again," she said and started for the door, but Thad was there before her.

"Please don't be angry, Gay," he pleaded. "I—I meant no harm. We couldn't help seeing the ring—"

"I'm quite aware that you saw it—and certainly misconstrued the entire picture," the girl said. "Please let me go."

"Dad wants to see you," he reminded her. "Won't you sit down again? He won't be long. I wish you could persuade him to take a vacation—go over to the cottage for a few weeks—fish and swim and just loaf."

"I doubt if I have that much influence with him," Gay said.

"He's extremely fond of you—"

"And I love him," the girl said quickly. "He's wonderful!"

"Wonderful and stubborn," his son said. "His patients would no doubt set up a howl, but after all, I'm a doctor, too, and no doubt they would get used to me. If they didn't—why, there are other doctors here."

"Is that what's worrying him?" Gay asked.

"I—I suppose it is," Thad said after a moment, his fine eyes searching her face. "What else could it be?"

THE RAYON STORY

WITH wool getting scarcer, and not nearly so necessary with the coming of warmer weather, it's good news to you all, that rayon, nylon, cotton and many new fabric alloys, looms large and plentiful on the horizon. So you'll have lots to choose from at your store, for that spring furbishing of self, family and home.

The big cotton crop of 1951 assures you of plenty for your clothing needs, at much the same price as of late.

More important has rayon become, that soon you will be seeing a mysterious label on both the ready-to-wear and yard goods at your store. That large AS (American Standard) is a guide to the best buy for your money, for durability, and perfect suitability to the purpose. And that AS guarantee is due to appear on all garments and fabrics that contain 50 per cent or more rayon.

No longer will you be buying by look, feel and hope. No longer will you be let down when a favorite garment wears out before you tire of it. The AS label is awarded only to rayons that fill this new set of requirements. It guarantees good wear under normal use.

Rayon, as you know, is not just one fabric, but a big family of fabrics with different characteristics. When you spy a rayon dress at your store, and see the AS label, you are assured that it will hold up well under all the wear conditions to which it would normally be subjected. For the fabric was originally made up, tested and guaranteed for that specific dress.

The same for-the-purpose theory applies to the yard goods spread so temptingly on your store counters, too. With the AS label, you'll know the performance standards it will meet, and sew it up into the type of thing for which it was tested, guaranteed and designated.

And would you believe it, there are 51 different items coming under the banner of these new rayon standards. Your own wearing apparel, from suits and dresses and underthings to gloves; your man's shirts, ties, and suitings; and such household stuff as bedspreads, slipcovers and upholstery fabrics—all these will have that stamp of approval, from AS, from your clerk, and from yourself.

Shine on Rayon
Shine on your rayon, when you iron it? Then you're doing one of four wrong things, according to authorities in the field. Maybe your iron's too hot—leave it at the rayon spot on the dial of your automatic iron, or alternate on and off if you haven't the automatic heat control. Or maybe your board is too thinly packed—that could explain a shine. Or you're ironing on the right side, without benefit of pressing cloth. Or shiny spots appear here and there? That could be soap left from insufficient rinsing.

It's not a hard job to iron rayon—it's just different.

Crowbars Needed To Free Man from Ice-Covered Bed
CHICAGO—Police were forced to use crowbars to free the body of a 75 year old man from his ice-encrusted bed.

Officers said that a broken pipe had apparently spread water over the bed where Morris Spiegel lay sleeping in an unheated bedroom-kitchen in the rear of his second-hand store.

Yonkers Bank Lets Clients Make Change
YONKERS, N.Y.—The Central National Bank of Yonkers put some of its money out in the lobby recently and invited its clients to make their own change without supervision. It was only $5, but a principle was at stake—whether the honor system would work where money was concerned. At the end of the day not a penny was missing. It was the first time such a thing had been tried in that area.

Effective Cough Syrup, Mixed at Home for Economy
No Cooking. No Work. Real Saving.
Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, and is still one of the most effective for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.
Make a syrup with 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup water. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.
Now put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly and tastes fine.
And you'll say it's really excellent for quick action. You can feel it take hold swiftly. It loosens phlegm, soothes irritated membranes, helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy and lets you get restful sleep.
Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

The whole of the State of Texas has been designated as a drought disaster area by the department of agriculture, and therefore eligible to receive benefits from lower rates on feed stuff for their livestock. Previously about two-thirds of the counties of the state had been so designated. Lack of rain generally throughout most of the past area prompted the designation.

Will Kinney Co. Hold Primary?

There has been little to suggest that a primary election will be held this summer in Kinney County, although it is possible and probable that such a move will be held. However, not much encouragement has been had to date in this direction.

It is a vital necessity that a primary to be held in Kinney county this July, along with the rest, so not to do as will virtually disenfranchise the Kinney County voters and preclude their taking part in state district and national election and voting for their choice.

It is hoped that the primary will be held, and that steps will soon be forthcoming toward that end.

INCOME DEADLINE MARCH 17

According to an announcement from the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the deadline for making and filing of income tax returns for 1952 only will be Monday, March 17th. Returns will have to be postmarked this date to be accepted without penalty. The extension was made because Saturday, March 15, usual deadline, comes on Saturday, usually a holiday for bureau employees, and the next day being Sunday, it was decided to have the final date on March 17th.

REFERENCE SCHOOL GROUNDS

A compact and most appearing wire fencing was placed the past week on Ann street line of the Brackettville school grounds. This fence, which greatly adds to the appearance of the school plant, will serve a dual purpose of keeping the school children from crossing at other than safety zone crossings, and to keep others from using the grounds as a short cut. Inasmuch as traffic on this street is heavy at time, this innovation will aid in adding to safety measures all ready in effect.

OPS CITES INFLATION HISTORY

The ability to maintain a healthy, decent standard of living is at stake in preventing inflation, says OPS. The inflation history has always shown sharp reduction in the buying power of the dollar.

OPS reports that at the end of the Revolutionary War the dollar dropped 67 per cent in buying; after the civil war the loss was 56 percent; world war I brought about a 60 percent in buying power.

More than 60 percent of the inflation of World War II took place after the fighting and wartime controls ended. Between August, 1945, the cost of living rose 35 percent.

New Car Dealers Must Post Prices

District Office of Price Stabilization officials this week urged new car dealers to post ceiling prices in their showrooms as required by OPS regulations. Failure to post 18 by 24-inch signs, displaying a breakdown of their ceiling price charges, is as serious a violation of OPS regulations as failure to file specified information with the district OPS office, officials said.

OPS also pointed out that the service and conditioning fee charged by the dealer must not exceed 5 per cent of the basic price of the new car, or the charge that the dealer had in effect during the period Jan. 26 to Feb. 24, 1951, whichever is lower.

Funeral services were had Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Spofford for Dave Owens pioneer citizen of Kinney County and long time resident of Spofford. Interment was made in the cemetery at Spofford. Grave-side services were held at the cemetery by Lea Morris Lodge No. 444 Masonic Lodge.

Mr Owens died Monday morning at Uvalde where he had been for some time in a rest home. He had been in failing health for several years. Dave was at one time a commissioner from precinct No. 4, at Spofford. He was a life member of the Rockdale Masonic Lodge.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT AT PINTO BRIDGE

The narrow concrete bridge at Pinto Creek, about 7 miles west of Brackettville on Highway 90, was the scene of another wreck last time. This time the bridge and a truck were principal sufferers, the driver escaping with minor injuries. While crossing the structure the truck swerved into the side of the bridge and knocked out two side supports. Traffic was not interrupted. This is the latest of quite a long series of accidents, some of them fatal, which have occurred there and has caused its designation by some as the "jinx bridge."

The P. T. A. expressed its gratitude to "The Chabats" who because of their efficiency and expert knowledge in menu planning and who so graciously gave their service in sponsoring the P. T. A. dinner made it possible for the association to clear $130.00.

The following newly elected officers will serve the PTA during the ensuing year:

President, Mrs. J. T. Shahan
1st Vice Pres, Mrs. H. H. Senne
2nd Vice Pres, Mrs. L. O. Weathersbee
Treas, Mrs. James Morris.
Mrs. Fritter's third grade were awarded the attendance banner for the month.

Mrs. C. J. Rohsenberger returned Monday evening from San Antonio, where she spent a week with Col. Rohsenberger who is in the General Brooke hospital for observation.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvia Berry of Sabin visited relatives in Brackettville last week end.

Mrs. Richard Coleman of Harlingen was in Brackettville over the week end visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joann Gilder.

Edwards-Jenkins

A pretty wedding was that solemnized Sunday March 9th, at 7:30 o'clock P. M., at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, when Miss Mamie Jenkins became the bride of Willie Lee (Bill) Edwards of Del Rio. The Rev. O. W. Nickie officiated in the beautiful marriage ceremony. Miss Patricia Neuman of Del Rio was the bride's maid and Mr. Jerry Jenkins served as best man.

Following the ceremony, the entire congregation assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bartberger, where all enjoyed a delightful reception given by the ladies of the Episcopal Guild.

The best wishes of all their Brackettville friends accompany the young couple in their new life together.

REA GETS ANOTHER LOAN

From the office of Senator Connally, Washington D C Washington, March 7—A loan of $520,000 to the Rio Grande Electric Cooperative at Brackettville has been approved by the Rural Electrification Administration, REA informed Senator Tom Connally today.

The money will be used to build 50 miles of new distribution line—all in Brewster County—and to build 75 miles of new transmission line.

The coop operates in Kinney, Uvalde, Val Verde, Webb, Terrell, Crockett, Dimmitt, Edwards, Maverick, Zavala and Brewster counties.

Pedro Benites is here visiting his family. He has recently returned from Korea where he had been for some time.

Of particular interest is experiment being made at Frost, Texas, where rabies shots were taken to see if they would control polio. To date it appears that there is something to the theory, but the results are not conclusive. Just promising, but oh how promising.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Serve Simple Refreshments Graciously (See Recipes Below)

Entertaining Lightly

ANY WOMAN WHO belongs even to one club will have to take her turn at entertaining the members every once in a while. Perhaps it's a sewing circle, a bridge group or a committee.

These occasions which come in the afternoon or evening need something of the light refreshment variety. You'll want something your friends will rave about, but at the same time, keep it simple and easy to serve. Light desserts are welcome often, and so are tasty but dainty sandwiches or cookies. If these can be made in advance, you're free to devote the last few minutes before they arrive toward looking your prettiest or giving the house a once over lightly to have everything at its best.

If the refreshments are to be served buffet style, with all the ladies going to the dining table or sideboard to help themselves, this can be set in advance. Your prettiest tea set with attractive platters of cakes, sandwiches or cookies will make for a decorative occasion. A few blossoms or leaves attractively arranged can add festivity even to simple tables. If you have a lovely glass bowl, try floating a few flowers in clear water, or place some vines in a well designed container.

Refrigerator cookies can be mixed and chilled several days ahead of time, to be baked on the morning of the day you entertain. This type is especially colorful:

*Fruity Ice Box Cookies (Makes 6 dozen)
1/2 cup shortening
2/3 cup granulated sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup minced candied cherries
1/4 cup minced candied green pineapple

Blend together shortening, sugar, egg and vanilla. Stir in remaining ingredients and blend until smooth. Divide dough into four equal parts and shape each portion into a 1-inch roll. Chill rolls thoroughly. (They may be wrapped in foil or waxed paper). Slice off cookies about 1/4-inch thick and place on ungreased cookie sheets 2 to 3 inches apart. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven for 15 minutes.

These date cookies are really sandwiches and give you nice variety with any other kinds of cookies served:

Oatmeal Date Sandwiches (Makes 48 cookies)
Cookie Dough:
1 1/4 cups butter or substitute
1 cup brown sugar
2 1/2 cups flour
2 1/2 cups rolled oats, uncooked
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup warm water

Filling:
1 pound dates, minced
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup cold water
To make cookie dough, cream

LYNN SAYS:
Enhance Your Vegetables To Add Menu Interest

Preserve fresh green colors in vegetables by cooking without the cover. Some vitamin loss will occur, but short cooking can prevent much of this, and vegetable will be eaten if it's more attractive.

Cabbage and cauliflower should be washed carefully to prevent any worms from lodging in the vegetable. If placed in cold, salted water for a short time before cooking, worms can be drawn out.

butter or substitute and add brown sugar, flour and oats. Combine soda and water and add to first mixture. Combine mixture thoroughly. Drop by teaspoons onto cookie sheet and press very flat with the bottom of a glass. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven for 10 to 15 minutes.

For filling, combine dates, sugar and water and cook in a double boiler until mixture is thickened, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and cool. When both cookies and filling are cool, spread filling on one-half of the cookies and cover with the remaining cookies, matching them by size.

Swedish Snowballs (Makes about 4 dozen)
2 cups rolled oats, uncooked
2 cups sugar
3 tablespoons cold coffee
1 tablespoon cocoa
2 teaspoons vanilla
1/2 cup butter or substitute, melted

Combine rolled oats, 1 cup sugar, coffee, cocoa and vanilla in mixing bowl. Blend well with melted butter. Shape mixture into small balls about an inch in diameter. Roll balls in remaining sugar. Chill thoroughly in refrigerator.

Date-Coconut Pie (Makes 1 9-inch pie)
2 eggs, slightly beaten
3/4 cup sugar
1 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon fine bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup dates, minced
1/2 cup moist, shredded coconut
1 9-inch unbaked pie shell

Beat sugar together with eggs; beat sour cream slightly and add to egg-mixture with all remaining ingredients. Stir until well mixed. Pour into pie shell and bake 15 minutes in a hot (425°F.) oven, then reduce heat to moderate (350°F.) and bake 30 minutes.

Here are two spreads which make small, tasty sandwiches. Use them on bread which is cut in small strips, rounds, triangles or crescents:

Peperoni Spread
3/4 pound peperoni sausage
1 5-ounce jar cheese spread (relish or pimiento)
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1/4 cup heavy cream, whipped

Grind the sausage and blend with cheese. Fold in parsley and whipped cream. Let mellow in refrigerator for 4 to 5 hours, covered, for best flavor.

Zesty Spread
1/2 pound braunschweiger sausage
1/4 cup salad dressing
1/4 cup pickle relish
1 teaspoon horseradish

Blend together and whip with a fork.

Combine leftovers of vegetables to achieve colorful triumphs like peas or corn in scooped-out beets, lima beans in squash nests, carrots in green pepper, spinach molded in rings for creamed onions and cauliflower with pimiento strips.

Mashed potatoes should be as light and fluffy as it's possible to make them. Older potatoes should be boiled in water to which some milk and lemon juice is added to prevent darkening. Use hot milk in which butter is melted to make them fluffy.

SPORTSMAN'S HORIZON

Seasonal Delight

Just as the home gardener revels in his seed catalogs each year, with their myriad attractions in riotous color and enormous profusion, the angler, too, shares kindred thrills and delights as he thumbs ecstatically through the many fishing tackle catalogs which come his way.

In fact, it is the arrival of these catalogs which happily bridges the span between the last lingering weeks of snow and ice and the first days of real fishing weather. There are many of us, indeed, who would be hard put to contain our fishing fever to an extent which keeps us out of our home state mental institutions were the fishing catalogs not at hand to keep our minds busy and "wish-booking" until we can get our casting arms busy.

Set Anglers "Wishing"
Naturally, space here doesn't permit the fine tributes we'd like to pay to all the tackle manufacturers who have sent catalogs, but we believe the industry would bear us no ill-will for letting the annual Heddon catalog serve as a symbol for them all.

Once again the Heddon people have issued an outstanding catalog, a beautifully-colored booklet, with a color picture of a rainbow trout suitable for framing as an added treat.
As does all the other catalogs, Heddon's instantly sets the angler's mind spinning with themes such as "I wish I had that," and "I wish I had this." Like the others, too, it symbolizes practically everything the angler and his brethren might want or need.

Offers Tiny Two
We were particularly interested, however, in the company's offering of a new series of lures for the light-tackle addict. We liked these because we're planning to do a comprehensive article here soon on what the industry has cooked up for the fellows who like the long, light rods, tournament-type reels and 4-to-6-pound test lines. This equipment is the plug-caster's answer to spinning gear, and with it he can handle most spinning-type lures and cast them almost as far.
Anyway, as information for those who'd like to know, at least, where some of these light-tackle lures may be found, the Heddon folks, who pioneered fishing plugs in the first place, have come up with their "Runt" lure in a 1/5 ounce weight, a tiny Torpedo, with a spinner aft, and the justly famed and reliable "Lucky 13" both in the 1/5 ounce size. We'd like to know how you can beat that for light-tackle gear. This tiny trio of lures, with all Heddon's "know-how" behind them, will fill the bill for many an angler.

Good Deal
Here's good news for anglers who have been turning more and more to Kentucky's lakes for record bass catches.
The State's Game and Fish Division has had introduced in the Legislature a bill which would provide for the sale of non-resident fishing license at $2 for 10 days. Heretofore, non-resident licenses were sold for periods of only three days and cost $1 each. That meant that the out-of-state angler would have had to pay $4 for 10 days fishing rights, whereas under the proposed legislation he can now enjoy that privilege for only $2.
This action is but another in continuing steps by Kentucky to capitalize upon its various attractions to tourists, and chief among these are certain to be the state's many and vastly-improved fishing waters.

May Eclipse Others
Already such well-paying-off lakes as Herrington, Dale Hollow and Kentucky have won renown throughout all anglerdom, but coming on even now is another body of water that bids fair to eclipse all the others. And that is the newly-impounded Wolf Creek reservoir in the south-eastern part of the State.

With impoundment complete less than four months, anglers were reporting catches of as many as 200 bass in one outing, but with only some six or seven of this number being "keepers." But with impoundment almost two years old this spring and summer, the "little ones" should have grown to "keeper" size and thus have put into the making a veritable angling paradise.

The States Game and Fish Division is going along farther with sportsmen by including in that same legislative measure a provision empowering the director to remove fish creel and size limits wherever deemed advisable.

About Trout

Sometimes trout hang in the water at the very tail of a pool, just before it breaks into the next riffle, and take insects from the surface as they float along. When they are here it usually is possible to sneak up on them from downstream, but it is hard to get a natural float from this position.

Sometimes a very short cast from cover can be used, and at others it is possible to float a fly down to them from upstream.

Over Loading Reduced

Austin, Tex., Feb. 16.—Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., today expressed appreciation of an 85 per cent reduction in violations of the overloading law by Texas truck operators.

The Department of Public Safety director attributed greater law observance to co-operation on the part of Texas Motor Transportation Association, whose members last year set in motion an industry "self-policing" program.

"We appreciate the co-operation given by Mr. W. W. Callan, chairman, and the other members of T.M.T.A. Policy Committee, in encouraging those in the trucking business to comply with the State's laws," Garrison said in a letter to Col. James E. Taylor, executive director of T.M.T.A., "and progress has been made."

Callan, a Waco truck operator, is chairman of the T.M.T.A. committee which is in charge of the self-policing program.

Taylor expressed gratification at the vast improvement in law observance on the part of truck operators. Speaking for the motor transportation industry, he pledged continued efforts, not only to promote compliance with the weight law, but to encourage good courtesy and safety practices on the highways, and generally to give Texans the best possible kind of truck service.

Reports of The Department of Public Safety were quoted by Garrison to show how the motor carriers were improving their law observance record. He noted that:

During the period September 1 through December 31, 1950 there were 4,309 trucks found to be guilty of overloading out of a total of 40,157 inspected. For the same period in 1951 there were only 992 trucks in violation out of 63,322 inspected.

Percentage-wise, 10.7 per cent of the trucks inspected during the last quarter of 1950 were in violation of the load limit, while for the corresponding period last year (after T.M.T.A.'s "self-policing" program was initiated) the number of violators was only 1.6 per cent of all vehicles inspected. This is an 85 per cent reduction in the number of violations.
