

Neugebauer, Conaway Concerned About Climate Change Bill's Impact on Agriculture

By Shawn Wade

This week High Plains agriculture was well represented during a hearing on pro-posed Climate Change legisla-tion by the full House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture.

Lubbock Congressman Randy Neugebauer and Midland Congressman Mike Conaway, who both serve on the House Agriculture Committee, expressed similar concerns during the hearing.

Getting to the heart of the matter, Rep. Conaway noted that global warming is an issue that ignores national boundaries. He further stated that even if the underlying science supporting global warming is correct, the proposed economic costs to agriculture and U.S. consumers is "too steep a price to pay for a plan that cannot even begin to guarantee that it will be able to meet its objectives É because the problem lies largely outside of the jurisdiction of the legislation at hand.

"The U.S., while the world's most industrialized nation, is no longer the largest emitter of carbon dioxide," said Conaway. "The United States cannot unilaterally address such an issue. A global problem requires a global so-

In his statement, Rep. Neugebauer noted that the proposed legislation would "raise the cost of fuel and electricity in ways people have never seen before, and it will prove detrimental to rural economies.

Both Congressmen expressed their thanks for the opportunity to express their concerns and gain additional clarification about the proposed legislations impact on agriculture to House Agriculture Committee Chairman Colin Peterson (D-MN).

In his opening statement Rep. Conaway noted that Chairman Peterson has consistently emphasized the concerns and interests of rural America and agriculture over the politi-cal aspects of the climate

Conaway added that he hoped other House leaders would take a similar stance to ensure that the bill's potential impacts are fully understood and the concerns of agriculture and other adversely impacted constituencies are clearly heard and taken into account before the legislation moves

I realized this year while teaching high school students World Geography that many of us are locked into a limited perspective: seeing events and people and issues through one set of eyes: through Gail America eyes, Texan eyes, American eyes, Christian eyes, Republican or Democrat or Independent eyes. Such "vision" limits the Creator, who at last check, was responsible for creating all folks on the face of this earth. Will we ever reach a point when we see the world through His

tant memory, so make sure you and your family get the most out of it with this end-of-summer checklist.

The days are already getting shorter, and, before you know it, you'll be reaching for a sweater instead of your flipflops. So while lightning bugs still flicker in the dusk, make some time to savor some sweet summery activities

1. Run under a sprinkler. On a sizzling hot afternoon, throw on your bathing suits and have a splish-splashing good time while your lawn and garden enjoy a refreshing drink. (Be sure to check local regulations for watering lawns if you live in a drought-prone area.)

2. Sleep outdoors. Set up a tent in the backyard and enjoy the feeling of "roughing it.

3. Have a sunrise picnic in the garden. Take advantage of the slightly cooler temperatures first thing in the morning.

4. Take a spin. Grab a seat on a Ferris wheel or a merrygo-round and enjoy the ride. Bring along a camera to capture an interesting view or wide-eyed expressions. And remember, blur is not always a bad thing. It can create a sense of motion in your photos.

5. Ring a bell. Get a bell for your bicycle and ring it frequently. It's a friendly and nostalgic way to greet your neigh-bors and alert pedestrians if you have to ride on sidewalks. Consider getting a bell or horn with a distinctive sound for each member of your family.

6. Eat most of your meals outdoors. It's too nice outside to spend time cooking big meals in a hot kitchen. Instead, whip up a healthy meal in minutes with convenient steam bags. They're a great way to enjoy the fresh flavor of bountiful summer produce. Just steam, serve in a bowl or on a platter and bring out to your patio or porch.
7. Eat a campfire treat—in-

Summer will soon be a dis- doors. Just a taste of indoor s'mores will take you back to the summers of your child-hood. To make, simply layer graham crackers on a pizza pan or baking sheet, top with layers of chocolate chips and mini marshmallows and pop under the broiler for a minute or two until the marshmallows are toasted.

8. Stay up late for some stargazing. Evening showers are forecast for August. The Perseid meteor showers, that is. They appear every year around the middle of August. Any clear night is great for picking out constellations. Just look for a dark location away from bright lights and bring along some insect repellent for effective protection from biting in-

9. Sing campfire songs and tell ghost stories. Songs and stories passed down from generation to generation are as much family heirlooms as grandma's wicker picnic basket. Sing a few verses of your favorite camp songs or hold a flashlight under your chin to make your spookiest face while you read from The Curse of the Campfire Weenies: And Other Warped and Creepy Tales, a collection of stories with just the right mix of scary and hilarious!

10. Get a new flag and let it wave! Just check with an area veterans association for the proper way to "retire" your old were honored with a party hosted by their children celebrating the Anderson's 58th wedding anniversary and 80th birthdays.

Anderson's Honored with Celebration

The party was held June 6, in Lubbock, Texas at 4 Bar K with Jody Nix providing the music. Family from as far away as California as well as Texas and New Mexico, fraternity brothers of Rich Anderson form Oklahoma University, and friends form Angel Fire, New Mexico, were in attendance. Of course, long time friends from Big Spring, Texas, and Borden County ten grandchildren attended as well as their five great-grandchildren. Ronnie Harris of Lovington, New Mexico, started the evening with a prayer of thanksgiving and Rich and Barbara Anderson blessing for the evening and the family. 4 Bar K served a meal of Bar-b-que and all the "fixins" to 175 hungry family and friends. Before Jody kicked off the first dance for Barbara and Rich with "Waltz Across Texas", Rich had a few words to say to the crowd. He was humbled with the gathering of friends and family but impressed on those in attendance the importance of family, heritage, and legacy. Then he and Barbara waltzed across the dance floor. Everyone enjoyed the night of eating, dancing, and visiting. The next morning at the Embassy Suites, Giles were well represented, too. Lee, uncle of Rich Anderson Eight of Rich and Barbara's and Frank Goad Clayton, cousin of Barbara Anderson, held "court" in the breakfast area and entertained the crowd of family and friends with stobracket play. By winning their pool the night before the Coyotes played the last team from Pool 3 which was Strawn "B' The boys won that game and advanced to face a tough Throckmorton team

The Coyotes didn't play their best game, but they worked together and defeated Throcmorton to advance to the semi-final game against Valley "A", the same team they defeated the day before in pool play.

Both teams scored on every possession tying the game at halftime. The Coyote defense finally got the stop they needed to hang on to the win and make it to the championship game.

The Coyotes would face Strawns "A" team in the Championship Game, with the temperature over 100 and the humidity high.

Strawn came to the tournament as champions of last years 6 on 6 and the 2008 Division 1 State Champs. This did not phase the Coyote

A frightened lady called the fire department and shouted, "My barn's on fire!"

"How do we get there?" asked the chief

"Use your fire truck," she answered

Haven't you wondered how to go to heaven?

team. They took it as a challenge to prove they can play with the best. The boys did not disappoint. The Coyotes took the lead and held on to it the entire game.

In the second half, the Coyotes pulled away and defeated Strawn "A" to become the 2009 6 on 6 State Champs. Just a side note: Borden County and Moran were the only Division 2 teams in the tournament.

The Coyotes have had a great summer. The 6 on 6 Championship and before that Champions of the Smalltown Basketball Team Camp held at the Borden gyms after school was out. The basketball team consisted of: Michael Cooley, Karl Lamming, Brendan Tarleton, Zach Telchik, R.T. Shafer, Quentan Shafer, Tony Soto and Tanner Richey. This team went 10-1 over a 2-day period to win the camp.

Lady Coyotes The have been active over the summer as well. They went 8-2 over a 2-day period to place third in their Smalltown Team Camp held at the school also.

The girls team consisted of Olivia Key, Stefanie Cooley, Taylor Richey, Krista Tarleton, Bailey Anderson, D'Nae Johnson, Brittney Day, and Raegan Belongia. The girls are playing on a summer league team in Snyder so I will have the results from those games when we are finished playing over there.

Fans of the Coyotes and Lady Coyotes be ready for what could be an unforgettable year. Every athlete is working hard to make the next year the best it can be in every sport, so make plans to see all the games you can and cheer on the hard working youth of our community.
