Coyotes Come Away With Exciting Win Over Cougars in District Opener

By Coach Richey

The Borden County Coyotes traveled to Klondike Friday to play the Cougars in the district opener for both teams. This was a huge contest as the winner would have a foot in the door towards the play-offs and the loser would be in a must win situation with their backs against the wall the rest of the way.

The Coyotes took the opening kick-off and methodically marched down the field relying heavy on sweeps with a mix of play-action passes. With the drive seeming to stall deep in Cougar territory after a couple of penalties the Coyotes found some magic as Riley Herridge rolled to his right and threw a pass down field that Frank Banman snagged out of the air. He turned the catch into a 27 yard touchdown pass and an early lead that the visiting team would actually never give up. Herridge added the kick out of the hold of Mason Coor and snap by Michael Taylor to push the Borden County advantage to 8-0 early in the first quarter.

On the ensuing kick-off the Coyote kick coverage of Jordan Martinez, Korbin Martinez, Nathan Ham, Colby Pennell, Jayton Lewis and kicker Herridge pinned the Cougars deep in their own territory with a perfectly placed kick and coverage. On the first offensive play by Klondike the Borden County defense got into the scoring act as pressure by Banman, Tristen Benavidez and Corbin Sumners forced an errant throw that Korbin Sumners caught in the air and raced the short distance into the endzone and a quick 14-0 lead.

With all of the momentum squarely on the shoulders of the Coyotes, the wind was let out of the sail as the Cougars returned the kick-off 78 yards for the score. This cut the Borden County lead to 14-8, but more importantly seized the momentum from the visiting Coyotes. The Coyotes managed to regain the momentum as they took their next possession and marched down the field. This mostly by way of the ground with the final 7 yards being covered by Corbin Sumners, Herridge added the extra point kick to push the lead back to 22 to 6 still in the first quarter of play. The Cougars would march down the Excuses are used to justify why a particular goal can not be achieved. In essence, excuses justify failure. By attempting to formulate a plausible reason for failure, any incentive to succeed is eliminated. Excuses condition a person to accept failure rather than to strive for success.

Excuses

While some people make excuses for why something is impossible, others find ways to get it done. Excuse makers are adept at articulating why something can't be done. Successful people specialize in finding ways dreams can be transformed into reality.

The excuses are many and often rather creative. "I don't have time." "I don't know how." "It won't work." "It's not possible." "What will others think?" "No one I know is doing it." "I tried it once and it didn't work." "The odds are against success." "I will be laughed at." "I had a bad experience." "My parents discouraged me." "I'm not smart enough."

For every excuse that's been concocted, there is a person who has refused to be limited by it. If you think you can't do something, you will make excuses. If you believe you can succeed, you will find a way. Successful people don't waste a minute dwelling on excuses.

Excuses are a limitation. They prevent accomplishment. As you get in the habit of using excuses, they become an automatic response when facing challenges. Excuses are the path of least resistance that avoid risk and therefore guarantee failure.

One of the reasons people make excuses is because they don't truly believe in themselves. They have self-imposed limitations preventing attainment of their goals. They don't recognize the restrictions they put on themselves. They genuinely believe in the validity of their excuses.

Even though a person may use excuses to justify inaction, feelings of dissatisfaction will still form. Watching others achieve their goals will invariably exacerbate these feelings, even if only subconsciously.

Rather than making excuses, why not concentrate your efforts on finding a path to your desired destination. You may have numerous excuses but you only need one reason for succeeding. One reason to succeed is more potent than dozens of excuses. Additionally, success is infinitely more satisfying than failure. But you have to

BHS Speech Team Places Fourth Overall at Big Spring Tournament

Students' Debut in Congress Proves Successful

Confirming once again that small schools' broad experiences often make a difference, Borden County's speech team used FFA backgrounds and speaking skills to compete with the big schools once again.

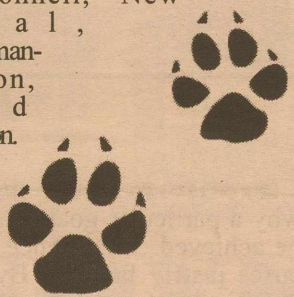

Entering the new UIL event for the first time, senior Zach McMeans and sophomore Nathan Souder used the parliamentary lessons honed in FFA to take first and second place in Student Congress. The new event is not new on the Texas Forensics Association circuit, where larger schools have been competing in the contest for years. However, many of them do not take FFA classes, which gave Zach and Nathan a crucial edge. Debating experience and speaking talents did the rest as Zach took first place and Nathan second to earn two more trophies.

Poetry readers Kassie Gaines and Robert Jordan advanced through all three rounds to make it to Saturday's finals in Big Spring. In the preliminary rounds, Kassie earned the second spot and was ranked first in her second round to advance to semis. There she received the second-ranked position, moving her to finals where she finished 6th with 5-6-6 scores.

Last year's 1-A state qualifier in Poetry as a freshman, Robert went 2-2-2 in both preliminary rounds and in the semis. His 3-3-5 ranking in the finals left him in 5th place as a result of judge preference in the 3rd place tiebreaker.

Speech team members will return to competition this weekend, joined by senior Mollie McMeans who is also on the Student Congress squad. District competition in the inaugural year for the event is November 12 in Lubbock against Region XVII 1-A schools. Of date, the following are competing in addition to Borden County: Sudan, Sundown, Whitharral, O'Donnell, New Deal, Wellman-Union, and Morton.

Coyotes Win District Opener...

field managing another touch-down, bringing the score to 22 to 14. The Coyotes had little success on their next possession and were forced to punt the ball back to the Cougars who at this time had all of the momentum. After a couple of nice runs by the Cougars, Jayton Lewis made a huge hit on the Cougar runner that forced the ball lose by the Cougar runner and Korbin Summers fell on the loose pigskin to squelch the Cougar drive. Unfortunately on the play, both players would leave the game, Jayton to the sidelines for the rest of the game with a stinger and the Klondike player had to be removed on a stretcher with a neck or back injury.

Borden County took this big momentum changing play and drove the ball deep into Klondike territory, but had to overcome several penalties in the process. In the end on a 4th down play, the Coyotes used a little trickery to get a receiver wide open and Hunter Jones found Tristen Benavidez in the end zone for a 23 yard scoring strike and a 28 to 14 halftime lead.

The Cougars would get the ball to start the second half and they would manage to start near midfield after a nice kick-off return. The Coyote defense battled and battled on the drive and forced the Cougars to convert two 4th down plays during the course of their drive. In the end they managed to convert a 4th and 20 play for a 20 yard scoring strike to cap the 5 minute drive cutting the Coyote lead to 28-20. The visitors, hoping to regain the momentum on their next possession and hoping to take some time off the clock, used 7 straight running plays getting the ball to the 13 yard line of the Cougars, Unfortunately, on the 7th run, Colby Pennell looked to be headed to the end zone only to have the ball jarred lose as he was about to cross the goal line for the score. It turned into a touchback and the home town Cougars had the ball and all of the momentum on their side.

As the 4th quarter started, the Cougars began marching into Coyote territory, but the defense again stepped up and forced a Klondike turnover on downs holding the Cougars on a 4th and 2 giving the ball back to the Coyotes. Borden County again had penalty issues and as a result they were forced to give the ball back to the Cougars. The Coyote defense again stiffened and forced the ball over on downs again. This time the Coyotes took to the ground game hoping to run as much time off of the clock while also hoping to score the icing touchdown in the process. As Borden County ran sweep after sweep, they finally busted one as Corbin Summers seemed to reach the end zone for what would have been the clinching score, but penalties nullified the touchdown and forced the Coyotes to continue the drive. On 4th down the Coyotes threw a pass into the end zone and for a brief moment it appeared that they had that clinching score, but on the slide to make the catch the ball squirted out and the defense was then forced to go back to work.

The Cougars found something that worked on this final drive and they managed to work their way deep into Coyote territory and eventually would get into the end zone to make the score 28-26 with only :39 remaining. The Coyotes would be coming hard to block the extra point, but with the added pressure of needing to be perfect, the Cougars snap was a little high and as a result Borden County still had the two point lead and needed only to recovery the onside kick. Frank Banman did just that for the team and after lining up in victory formation for one play the Coyotes escaped with a two point victory and a 1-0 record in district play.

The Coyotes will next travel to Grady with an opportunity to capture their 6th district title in a row with a win over the Grady Wildcats.

Leading the way for the Coyotes was Corbin Summers with 28 carries for 189 yards and a score also 7 tackles with two for a loss, Hunter Jones had a carry for 6 yards and was 5 of 7 for 53 yards and a score while also being in on 9 tackles. Riley Herridge was 4 of 6 passing for 41 yards and a score. Jordan Martinez had a carry for 3 yards and was in on a tackle. Korbin Martinez had a carry for 12 yards 2 receptions for 6 yards and 9 tackles with a recovered fumble and an interception returned for a score. Tristen Benavidez had a catch for 23 yards and a score and was in on 12 tackles one for a loss. Frank Banman had two receptions for 42 yards and a score and was in on 8 tackles. Colby Pennell had a carry for 12 yards, two catches for 22 yards and was in on 5 tackles, one for loss. Jayton Lewis had 3 tackles with a caused fumble. Mason Coor had a tackle. Nathan Ham had a tackle and made several nice blocks. Also contributing to the victory were Michael Taylor and Michael Deax.

Colby Pennell carries the ball for a 12 yard gain for the Coyotes in Fridays' game against the Klondike Cougars.

Label Claims: What They Mean

Various labels and health claims cover food packaging these days. Some labels and health claims are regulated by the FDA, while others are simply advertising. Deciphering labels can be confusing and the laws and regulations behind them are even more confusing. Hopefully this will help to simplify and clear up some confusion about "organic" versus "natural" labeled products.

ORGANIC

Definition: "foods that are grown and processed with minimal synthetic materials" Regulated by the USDA. There are regulated synthetic substances that may be used as well as nonsynthetic substances that cannot be used in the production of "organic" products.

100% Organic: In order for a product to be labeled "100% organic" it must be grown and handed in an establishment that has been certified by the National Organic Program.

Made with organic ingredients: For a product to be labeled as "made with organic ingredients" it must contain at least 70% organically produced ingredients.

Only certain ingredients produced organically: May not display the USDA seal shown below, but may identify individual ingredients that were produced organically. For example, "Made with organic carrots."

NATURAL

Definition: By law, there is not one! This label is not regulated. There are no limitations to using the term "natural" if the food "does not contain added color, artificial flavors or synthetic substances".

Understanding what these labels mean can help you be a savvy shopper and avoid getting tricked by misleading labels. The most important thing is to eat a diet rich in fruits, vegetables, whole grains, low-fat dairy and lean protein. It is a personal choice whether eating organic is important to you. Keep in mind that there are many foods that are high in fat, sodium and sugar that are also certified organic. Reading the nutrition facts label is the only way to really know how healthy a food is for you and your family.

Josiah Wedgewood was the founder of one of the world's finest pottery businesses. It was his practice to walk through his plant carrying a little hammer. Whenever he detected the slightest defect in any of his earthenware, he would break it and shout, "Only the best is worthy of the name of Wedgewood." That is why his china has maintained the reputation of being among the world's finest.

Have you ever considered what it means to be called "Christian"? It means that we are being called by the name "Christ." What a privilege! But are we worthy?

Often individuals find fault with the way some who are called "Christian" behave. It is not that those in question "believe" wrong, it is simply that they do not "behave" right. It is an observation about how they live and what they do. The world finds no fault with Christ, but has difficulty understanding why those who represent Him do not live as they are expected to. Perhaps this is why many do not receive Him.

Too many of those who claim His name find it easier to "talk" as He did than to "walk" as He walked.

Dare to Live...

be willing to discard your excuses. Your reason to succeed can be simply, "I really want this to work." With a burning desire, you will find a way.

Changing your approach begins with recognizing your own unlimited potential. Any chains holding you back are of your own design. These chains have taken years to forge. They won't be broken overnight.

You must believe in yourself. Within you lies the ability to find at least one reason to succeed. Once you find it, you have to focus on it to the exclusion of all other mental distractions. Any temptation to revert to excuses has to be resisted. Distractions from others will abound. As if you can't do it yourself, other people will suggest excuses for you to use. Ignore these as well.

Your objective is to focus on where you want to go and figure out how to get there. Giving in to any excuse will halt your journey. Should this happen, you have to get up and keep going. Just because you become sidetracked, you don't have to give up.

Fighting off excuses is an ongoing battle. Even the most determined individuals deal with this. Successful people aren't deterred by excuses, they look past them, keeping their destination in clear view.

Starting today, don't make any more excuses. Grab hold of one reason to succeed. Fan your desire. Let no person or thought deter you. You can do it.

Payments for Popular Conservation Program Ready Following Shutdown Delay

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29, 2013 – Farmers waiting for their Conservation Security or Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP) payments should receive them in the coming days. The shutdown of the federal government delayed some of the $907 million in payments from USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) to CSP participants who have enrolled millions of acres to improve the overall conservation performance of their operations. "Farmers and ranchers are stewards of our natural resources, and their efforts show the value of conservation – working farms, ranches, and forests can provide food and fiber as well as clean water and valuable wildlife habitat," NRCS Chief Jason Weller said. "We're happy to have our staff back in the field where they can continue working with farmers and ranchers to put conservation practices on the ground." The payments are part of a financial assistance program for producers who are already established conservation stewards and are implementing additional conservation activities for higher, farm-level benefits on their property. This work leads to cleaner water and air, healthier soil and enhanced wildlife habitat, while also supporting rural economies. The Conservation Stewardship Program, now in its fifth year, replaced the former Conservation Security Program. To date, farmers, ranchers and forestland owners have enrolled about 60 million acres into the programs. Funding for other Farm Bill programs expired Sept. 30, including the Conservation Reserve Program, Grassland Reserve Program, Wetland Reserve Program, Chesapeake Bay Watershed Initiative and Healthy Forests Reserve Program. NRCS is not accepting applications for these programs at this time. For more information, visit a local USDA Service Center or visit NRCS' website.

The Dialville Turtle

Dialville is a little place between Rusk and Jacksonville that developed in the 1880's when John Dial opened a store on a railroad line. The place was originally called Dial, but when residents applied for a post office, there was already a Dial in Fannin County, so the post office was named Dialville. It became a shipping point for tomatoes, peaches and other produce. At the town's peak in 1915 it had two churches, a school, a bank, two newspapers and a theater. About 200 people live there now. A store in Dialville sells sandwiches, coffee and a few other essentials. It's a meeting place for neighbors and sometimes there's a domino game going on. Annette Kimbrell of Dialville has a turtle.

"Down at the Dialville store one day, the owner, Rebecca had a big ole turtle in the back of her truck and she asked us if we had a place to keep it. I told her yeah, we had ponds and everything. That turtle was big, really a neat looking turtle. It was a soft shell."

Annette asked Rebecca how she got the turtle. "She said this guy came in and he was drunker than Cooter Brown. He had this big turtle with him and every time that poor turtle would poke his head out, he'd pop it in the head with his fist. So they got to feeling sorry for the turtle and asked the man if they could buy the turtle for five dollars. The guy said, 'why, sure'. About that time that turtle stuck out his big ole long neck, reached around and bit that guy on the belly. He wasn't wearing a shirt. Anyway, they gave us the turtle."

The turtle has found a home in a pond right above a zip line that Annette and her husband Billy started in their back yard in July of 2011. Their business is called Adrenaline Rush Zip Line Tours. Zip lines cross over ponds and treetops on some of the highest elevations in East Texas. During the Christmas season, the zip lines are lighted.

There are group rates, but for 50 dollars a person can ride five zip lines. 60 dollars gets you on seven and 75 bucks gets you on eight. The most expensive one includes a ride on one of the longest zip lines in Texas. It's 1700 feet long and people hooked to it reach speeds up to 40 miles an hour. Adrenaline Rush provides all the necessary equipment for a ride, but closed toed shoes are required. People eight years and older can ride, provided they weigh between 65 and 275 pounds. The rides are by reservation only (903 683-6855 or info@daretozip.com). Annette and her husband live on 109 acres of land and have mined iron ore on their property and in the neighboring area. Some of that ore is beneath a layer of sandstone, which has some unique patterns in it. Annette thought it was attractive. She rocked the outside of her house with it. "I was thinking of having someone else do it, but when I found out how much it would cost, I thought I would try my hand at it. I rocked that whole entire house all by myself. It took three years to do it." Tumbleweed Smith of Big Spring is a folklorist, humorist, after dinner speaker and producer of THE SOUND OF TEXAS radio series. Contact him at ts@tumbleweedsmith.com

Thank You

A very special thanks to The Blue Paw for letting family, relatives, friends, former Students, and Teachers of Borden Co. School and 1967 classmates gather together after the graveside services of our dearest friend Don Nunnally on October 19, 2013.

With the support of Amanda Blissard and her staff that afternoon (Kim, Jayme, & Stevey), all of us were so fortunate to have a meal and fellowship!

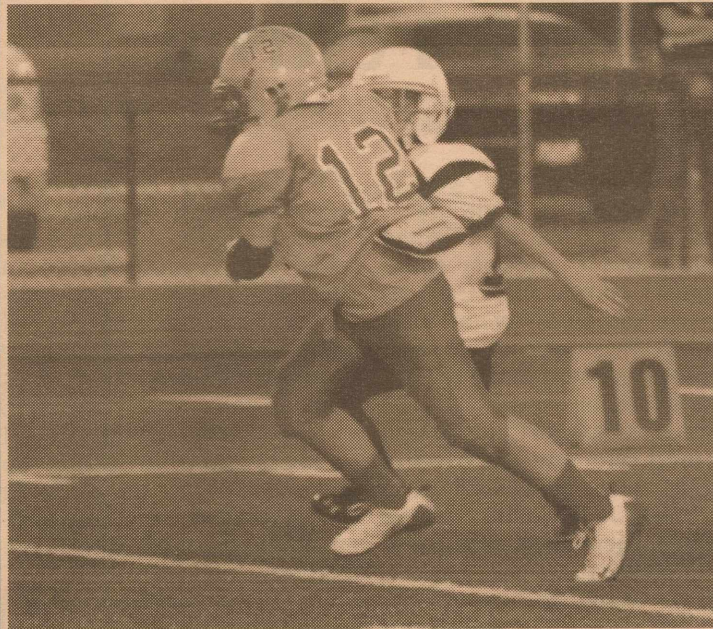

And, also, many thanks for the kindness shown from Donnelle and Randy Hensley paying for all the meals!!

Bless You!!

Such an opportunity to celebrate the Life of our Borden Co. friend and classmate! We Thank You!!
