The greatest and most abused quality man has is Faith, ath in the self and in the w rl land in the eternal. We read often in the old and the new Testaments about the "Faith that would move mountains." This supreme quality seems to have been discarded for the ignoble and degenerating ones of selfishness, lack of confidence in anything, and trusting in the thing ne call luck. Put faith in yourself and your town and you then rest at peace.

BROOK FISH.

Why They Do Not Get Carried Away Out Into Deep Waters.

If you watch a school of minnows in some stream that has a strong and swift current you will see that they always head upstream. The reason is plain. Only by constantly swimming against the current can the brook fish remain a brook fish and not finally be carried out to sea, as the brook empties into a river, and the river empties into the ocean. But we cannot suppose that the brook fish knows that this will happen if it weakly allows the stream to carry it along. The young minnew is born with the instinct to resist the flow of the brook. The most natural supposition would be that the instinct amounts to a tendency to push against the pressure of the water, but experiments have shown that it is not the sense of of the brook fish is not to swim against the current, but to keep near the same "scenery" on the banks or bottom of STADLER Secretary. the stream. .

The experiments that proved this were performed some years ago by Professor E. P. Lyon. He put some little fish into a bottle filled with water and corked the bottle, which he then placed in an aquarium, whose sides had seaweed upon them. When he moved the bottle along by the wall all the fish crowded to the hinder end of the bottle. Of course there was no current in the bottle. The fish were trying to keep alongside that part of the seaweed covered wall that was opposite them before the bottle was

In another experiment the professor reversed the conditions. He made a wooden box with wire netting at each end. Its bottom he covered with sand and its inner sides with seaweed. Then he put the fish into this box and placed it in a stream. As long as the box was kept still the fish headed against the current, but as soon as the box was allowed to float away in the stream the fish inside it swam in any direction While the box was still the fish unless they made head against the stream, were carried along past their landmarks on the sides and bottom of the box. But when the box floated along with them they carried their landmarks with them, and so they made no opposition to being swept along by the stream .- Youth's Companion.

Left Handed Men Not Defective. As left handedness is an inherited characteristic, apparently behaving as Mendelian recessive, it is interesting to note the belief of some investigators that it is one of the stigmata of degeneracy, says the Journal of Heredity. Bardeleben is quoted in German periodicals as saying:

"That a few great men, such as Leonardo da Vinci, were left handed does not neutralize the prevalent belief in all ages that left handedness implies a substandard subject. The percentage of left handed recruits is but 6.8; of school children somewhat higher. These figures are very de pptive, however, for of the left han led children who become right handed the percentage is some 26. This, added to the persistently left handed, raises the original percentage of left handed con-

After pointing out that the gibbon and orang outang are as a rule right handed and the gorilla and chimpanzee left handed the speaker decided there was no evidence at all that a left handed person was mentally or physically inferior.

Love-And Understanding. "To know all is to perdon all," out French friends tell us. Yet love and trust will supply the lack of knowledge and produce the same happy end. to spite of the fact that the natures of men and women are different, it is possible for a man and a woman to live happily together, although not under standing each other. This lack of understanding is for their good. It a man knew every thought, feeling and motive of a woman, what would his love be worth? Love is faith. True love knows no jealousy, no doubt. It is because a man does not know a women, but has faith in her purity and honesty, that he is so dear to her. She knows that he is taking her upon trust, as she takes him, and it is their faith in one another that binds them. There are no rifts in the rosy cloud of true love, for true love is perfect faith, and the cloud that is riddled by the shafts of doubt and jealousy is a ragged cloud that reflects only a little of the sunshipe of life, while the greater part filters through and is lost in the mists beyond.

Record in Hard Work. Lord George Bentinck's record of political work, as set out by his biographer, seems even more striking than that accomplished by Wellington in 1834. "It is very difficult," writes Disraelt, "to convey a complete ploture of the laborious life of Lord George Bentinck during the sitting of parliament. At 9:30 began his elab orate and methodical correspondence, all of which he carried on himself in a handwriting clear as print, and never employing a secretary; at twelve or one o'clock he was at committee, and be only quitted the committee-room to take his seat in the house, which he wever left until it adjourned, always long past midnight and often at 2 a. m. His principle was that a member should never be absent from his seat. . . Al though he breakfasted only on cry toast, he took no sustenance all this time, dining at White's at 2:88 in the morning."-London Daily Chronicle.

Country Hotelkeeper Not at All Awed by the Dignity of the Governor of the State of Ohio.

They tell this one on former Gov. George Hoadley of Ohio, says Judge. Once upon a time, in the midst of a campaign. Mr. Hoadley was to deliver a speech at a little town in the great and glorious Buckeye state. When he reached the one hotel the town boasted he walked up to the register and wrote his name. The proprietor - head - porter - stewardhead-waiter-depot-runner was behind the desk in his shirt sleeves, his hat on the back of his head, and a cigar stump held between his teeth. When the visitor had put down his John Hancock, the factotum turned the register around, read without a flicker of an eyelid the name there written, wrote "10" beside it with a lead pencil and said:

"You kin jest take yer grip right up that stairway there an' back down th' hall clean to th' end. Yer room's right on th' lifet-hand side of th' hall, in th' corner-No. 10."

With considerable astonishment and not a little injured dignity, Ohio's chief executive pointed to his name, smiled faintly, and said:

"I am George Hoadley, governor of the state of Ohio!"

Turning then with a look of exasperated impatience on his face, the hotel man exclaimed: "Well, what d'ye expect me t' do-

Trimming Ideas for Wash Frocks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

SPRINGTIME is here, which brings | figures, the thread for the neckband thoughts of the sewing campaign | and cuffs is also an ecru shade. The which is and ever will be at this season of the year.

Here's a timely word of advice, be sure to stock your work basket and your sewing cabinet with a goodly assortment of crochet hooks and crochet threads and yarns, for a touch of hand crochet is the call of the hour. Paris is all enthusiasm on the crochet subject and so is every style-wise American woman and her next-door neigh-

It is taken for granted that you have been buying up all sorts of pretty wash materials in anticipation of this annual sewing bee, for who can resist the lure of the perfectly lovely cottons, rayons and linens and washable silks which have been so temptingly on display throughout the various fabric departments this many a

As usual the "still small voice" is bidding mother to consider the needs of the little folks of the household first. Which is the reason why we are showing this group of interesting styles for children. Seeing that hand crochet is so exceedingly popular, why not adorn little daughter's bright washable-print school frock with neck trim and sleeve bands of hand crochet. They will give an air of distinction to her gown such as only handwork can give.

These little crochet pieces are so easy to do that an entire set like that which adorns the frock to the left in the picture can be made in one evening while listening in on the radio. The short story hour would afford sufficient time, for the stitch is easy and the strips are straight. Since the tub material selected for the frock shown is brown with orange and ecru tiny french mesh, filet, or even the modified irish crochet stitch may be employed with equal effect. Use 30 to 50 mercerized crochet thread and a No. 10 or 8 steel crochet hook.

The neckband and cuffs are applied with a trim stitch thread in one of colors of the design in the fabric. The trim stitch is done on the machine. and set the gauge for nine or ten stitches to the inch. Bias trim in orange shade outlines the clever yoke effect at the waistline.

Speaking of bias trim, any young girl will be most delighted with a plaid gypsy girdle with head band to match, such as is worn by the seated figure sketched above to the left. The idea is to stitch bias trim in various colors outlining a plaided design as is shown. This is really a unique idea and one which can be worked very effectively in a trimming way. Jade, scarlet, pilot blue, orange and black bias trim make a striking combination when plaided as suggested.

Just as novel and interesting is the braided hatband and girdle which the other young miss is wearing. This set is also made of bias trim, such as can be bought by the bolt at any notion counter. Fold the bias trim in half, and fasten the ends with thumb tacks to a desk blotter or pad. Then interlace the strips firmly, continuing with pins to hold in position as you proceed from one side to the other. The hat band may be made a little narrower than the belt, using five instead of seven strips. The little girl who is going stepping, in the foreground of the picture, has her pretty white blouse smocked to perfection, in gay colors.

(C. 1932, Western Newspaper Union.)

COLOR FEATURE OF SPRING ENSEMBLES

The color theme is a predominating feature of many of the new spring ensembles. A dark coat with a light touch is worn with a light frock that boasts a dark note to match the coat, and there is the ensemble. Of course, it is not quite as simple as all that, but this color scheme is certainly extremely popular here.

You will like the new ensembles, for they certainly are different from almost anything shown for many a season, most attractive and wearable, and refreshingly new. Fine materials and furs are used. The frocks often boast a very complicated cut and yet the outcome is an apparently simple costume, without any trace of the opulent or lavish.

Pale Beige Is Favored

for Spring Ensembles Beige may be announced with anthority as one of the smart shades for spring. It returns to fashion very pale aften an absence of several years. Many a woman will give thanks for this return, as it is both a becoming and a practical shade.

The bright colors that have been high style items for more than a year are being seriously menaced by beige and other neutral colors. It looks as if these gaudy shades might be pushed out of the style picture in another few months. They've had a pretty good day, and may well have run their course.

Be that as it may, though, you will do well to keep this prophecy well in mind, beige is in again. It is being used by the great French dressmakers for jacket ensembles that are going to e smart next spring and that may worn under the fur coat instanter.

CORDUROY PRINT By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Corduroy goes printed for this smart a tama ensemble which is carried out in the ever good-looking black and white combination. The strictly taiiored lines are featured this season for pajama costumes which go cruising, or strolling on the beach, or which enter into sports of any description.

Jackets, Jackets!

Jackets are an integral part of the season's dress. They range from bolero to finger-tip lengths.

Number Tens

MATTIE REYNOLDS took stock of her wardrobe: a half worn-out coat, a three-year-old flimsy blue silk and two print dresses, a wool sweater and one pair of shoes without holes in the soles. Nothing to wear anywhere. Certainly nothing to wear to a wedding. And Joe had just sold the calves for a hundred dollars.

What a lot of things a hundred dollars would buy. . . . Oh, well, she knew when she married Joe Reynolds that his farm-

"But there's just one more payment after this, honey," he'd said when she mentioned a rug for the bedroom-and clothes, "Clothes? Why, girl, you always look dressed-up to me, and as for a rug-well, you just wait till the last payment is made. It'll hurt your eyes the way we'll doll up. Just one hundred more and my girl'll have a home."

And now had come that invitation to Ernest's wedding. "And I haven't a thing to wear," she told Joe, "except that flimsy old silk-and I hate it,

But Joe was immovable. The payment must be made promptly. "And as for that wedding invitation-"

He didn't finish the sentence but Mattie knew the invitation hadn't interested her husband. Well, it interested her-and they'd go. It would be the last affair of any kind they would attend together. She'd endured this old, unpaid-for farm as long as she could. One suitcase would hold every garment she possessed. Joe could have the dishes; their few pieces of furniture. She was sick of the

But she would like to look nice at Ernest's wedding. Ernest had been fond of her in the old days.

Well, there were those two five-dellar bills hidden away in the toolhouse. Joe was saving them for seeding the small meadow. And there were four dollars and seventy cents-she'd kept careful of the count-in her dime bank, almost another five. Joe had been dear about dimes for her little bankbut too determined about business. Always business first, with Joe.

"Fifteen dollars would buy that flowered satin dress she'd seen in the down from twelve-seventy-five, and shoes. The very best shoes in the store would cost less than five dollars.

Here her glance rested upon Joe's best on the closet floor beside her own. Their bulk reminded her of something Ernest had said once, about Joe's "number tens" being in the way when her future husband had been slow to catch a figure in the square dance. She had resented the inferred comparison at the time. Ernest wore sevens. Thoughtlessly, she picked up the big shoes beside her own small ones, idly turned them over. Why! there were holes in the soles. Joe's best. Joe would go stark naked to make those detestable payments. Well, let him.

Let's see. Where was she? Yes, her dime-bank money for shoes; the ten dollars for the satin dress.

She would walk to the village. She paused before the mirror in the store window. The fresh air had lent additional color to her cheeks, a bluer blue to her eyes-why, three years couldn't be an eternity. She was still young, and lovely-and there was the flower-budded dress. She felt a bit of civic pride as she looked at the store things in the windows. Like a shop in the city. Men's articles on one side. Women's on the other.

With her hand on the doorlatch, she faced the men's window: Shoes. Well, what of it? Of course there would be men's shoes in the men's window. Except for one pair, all her own had holes in the soles. This stony country left its mark, and she and Joe-

But Joe hadn't even one pair without holes in the soles. These men's shoes in the window-the price screamed at her-were exactly fourseventy. Warm, thick-soled, dressy

She was suffocating too warm in the store. She would walk to the post office. Those shoes-she would look at the other window as she passed through the door. She walked past the post office, turned and passed it again. On down to the the blacksmith shop. Back again: Rosebuds. Men's shoes. Rosebuds. But she must hurry. She'd planned hot biscuits for Joe's supper. She smiled, thinking of her husband's boyish liking for hot biscuits and his pride of her skill in making them. And how proud he was of-Heavens! Why need she, at this moment, remember his pride in her economies! He must never know how she'd felt about these farm payments. It was for her he'd been so determined a home for his girl comforting protecting. . . . She put her hand to

D., he should take his ledger under his arm and go around to see the credit managers of the various stores (or the owner or manager if there is no credit manager). He should point out that he is again a regular customer at the store; that he has balanced his budget and is resolved to keep it balanced for the future; and that he would appreciate the extension of limited credit to prove his good faith.

Then, when credit is extended, he should pay his bills immediately on receiving them. Thus, slowly, but surely, the confidence and faith which are credit can be restored. And it is worth all the trouble it costs, ten times over .- Henry H. Heimann in the American Magazine.

Women Inventors Increasing

The number of applicants from women for patent papers has increased greatly in recent years. When the last detailed analysis was made, women were applying for patents at the rate of about 500 a year, but it is known to have increased considerably, since recently a large should of women have entered industrial life. As might be expected, the highest percentage of inventions of the number studied a few years ago confined themselves to domestic devices, but a great many applications are now from the realms of metallurgy and other higher technical fields.

Suppose that a man, through ignorance, catelessness, bad luck, or bad management, has thoroughly ruined his credit standing in the community. He realizes how foolish he has been, and wants to reestablish his credit. How shall he

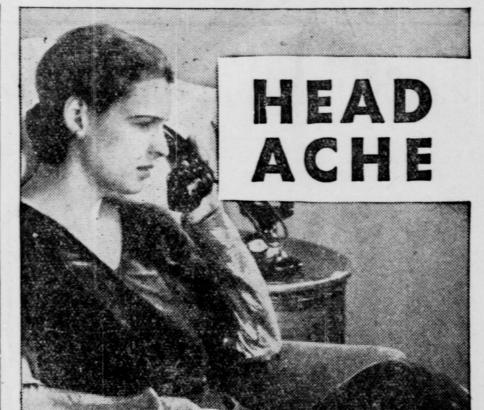

First-He should begin by keeping a careful, detailed ledger of all his expenditures and receipts. Nothing is more reassuring to a credit man than such a record. Some years ago, when I was credit manager of a company in Chicago, a business man from the Northwest visited me and said he wanted to buy $10,000 worth of goods on credit. I was very doubtful about extending it. He took from his suitcase two heavy ledgers.

"This one," he said, "contains every cent of my personal income and expenses for the last five years. The ness. Look them over." Fifteen minutes with those books was enough for me. A man who kept such a record could not be irrespon-

THE woman who lets headaches upset her plans must have her eyes and ears closed to certain facts about aspirin. There is always swift comfort, and never any harm, in genuine aspirin tablets that bear the Bayer cross. Doctors have said so; men and women everywhere have found it so. Any headache-from any cause-is always relieved by one or two tablets. And lots of other aches and pains. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Rheumatism. Nagging pains. The pain from colds which make you "ache all over." Sore throat. Systemic or "muscular" pain. Bayer Aspirin can spare you lots of needless suffering! Just be sure you get the genuine.

IS A WONDERFUL WHITTLER.

Coorge A. Jones of Philadelphia Challenges the World.

George A. Jones of Philadelphia challenged the world to produce his equal as a whittier. The challenge brought a reply from B. F. Clay of Fernwood, who offered in evidence a wonderful display of his work.

Mr. Clay is 75 years old and a machinist by trade. In the illustrations given here are shown two varieties of chains, each of which he cut out of one piece of wood.

The five-sided link, or anchor chain, shown is of cedar. The idea was taken by Mr. Clay from a watch chain. Another section of this chain is the eight-link production referred to above, with a fancy bit forming a pentagon, the hollowed-out inside containing a double loop knot made of the stick's core extending laterally when pulled. The pentagon, with five sides open, revolves on the core.

riety and les flat. Mr. Clay has made many artices besides chains, such as tweezers, Inchers and furniture sets. but he has made a specialty of chains: and believes that in that line he stands foremost.

INFLUENCE OF THE OCEAN.

The Power of the Mystic Sea Affects All Men.

Throughout all ages, in every clime, to people of every race, the forces of old ocean have ever appealed with irresistible power. Its vast area, its solemn grandeur in repose, its sublime spectacle when lashed to fury by the wind, its mystic depths where lie the fleshless human victims of its mighty wrath, and whence issue strange forms and fearsome noisesall are potent in their awe-inspiring effect on the beholder. Under its magic spell ordinary mortals stand in

be none the less profound because of the inability to give them verbal utterance; but poets with their meed of skill have ever tried with we"termed phrase to tell us of old Neptune's moods-his smiles and frowns and vagaries. Even among the common fisher-folk this great influence is noticeable in its effect upon their superstitions.

The accompanying picture is of a scene in the coast rocks at Fairhead. near Ballycastle, in Ireland. Fhir Leith, or The Gray Man's Path, is a fissure in the precipice, and viewed either from land or sea is never to be forgotten. It seems as though some supernatural power had caused the fearful chasm that divides the rocky promontory so that it might visit or summon the spirits of the deep without treading a road made by mortal hands. In its narrow part the passage is spanned by part of a large basalt pillar, suggesting a gigantic bridge. Farther on the passage widens; its dark sides tower to a greater height, giving a more wild and somber magnificence to the scene, and at length the face of the mighty promontory is reached, where the northern ocean rolls its threatening billows.

by Tiffany & Co., and orders have been given to cut the die.

This is said to be the first device adopted for any of the government departments which is absolutely correct in all heraldic details, and at the same time having full significance in the varied duties and purposes of the department. The ship is adopted as the symbol of commerce, and the anvil and hammer typify industry and labor. The crest is the eagle of the American arms and denotes the national scope of the department.

"The Cruel Plant."

Our picture illustrates a curious Canadian climber upon which there has been bestowed the name of the 'Cruel Plant," because of the way in which it treats certain butterflies. It is an autumnal bloomer, and the insects, attracted by its perfume, hover round and push their probosces into its corolla, on honey-sipping intent. But the act is fatal, for the poor flies get gripped tightly by a pair of remarkable vegetable pincers in the heart of the flower, and held until death terminates the struggle.

Johann Most, the Anarchist editor of Die. Freheit, who was sent to the penitentiary some months ago for publishing a seditious article in his paper the day before President McKinley was assinated, has been released from prison. The article which Most published and for which he was tried and convicted advocated the death of kings and rulers. Most's defense was that he had not written the article in question and that it was merely a reprint from another publication.

ne receipts last week? at Kane Dity were 320 cars as compared with 661 cars the same week last year. The market was a little lower the first half of the week, but gained 15 to 20 cents before the close. A good proportion of the receipts were cows, for which there was ample demand, but at prices more or less unsatisfactory to sellers. At this season of the year grass cows are always unpopular, as they kill out poorly. However, there was a noticible improvement in the cows market at the canana and and close of the week. The good kinds of Quarantine cows sell from $2.50 to $2.80. Steers ranged from $2.75 to $4.10 last week for grass stuff, but the bulk of the sales were from $3.20 to $3.85. Hardly any bulls came in, mostly thin canner kinds, which sold from $2.00 to $2.50. Veal calves still remain low and bring$4.00 down, although there was one sale last week in Quarantine division at $4.40. The supply of cattle in Southern division

ORDER NO. 5.

A letter to the President protesting against the abuse of this community and publication of same

AND ASKING FOR REDRESS

Mr. Morin's Letter.

Brackett, Tex., March 21, '03. Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, Washington, D. C.

Sir:-I beg leave on behalf of this little town, to call your attention to General Order No. 5, issued by the Department Commander of Texas, revising the trial of Sergt. Haynes and denouncing this community in no unsparing terms. The publication is as unwarranted as the attack and the accusations are unsupported by the actual facts. The Reviewing Officer admits decase and resorting to the general notoriety to support assertions that do not now, and in fact never did exist.

His source of information must certainly be supplied in the same manner in which he is now supplying it for others.

in this charge against this community and deny all of its allegations. There are saloons here it is true, there is also gambling west and whose valor, devotion going on, possibly there are lewd, and patriotism made the name of Women to those who know how to find them. What town in the United States is wholely without than twenty of the sons of those either? All of said evil exists old veterans at once enlisted. under the very shadow of the On the bloody field of El Caney Capitol.

PROTEST TO GENERAL been indicted for buying soldiers clothes, and not in all this time has anyone ever been accused of buying Government property. The facts of this particular case show on their face that the assertion "90 per cent of the Court Martials and dishonorable discharges could be traced to the pernicious influences of the vile resorts of Brackettville," is not true, and that it is the tyrany practiced by petty officers in Court Martialing a soldier for taking a drink of liquor that has been the prime cause.

> The justness of the decission of Major Kendall in passing upon the facts of the case before him stands out in marked contrast to the tyrade of the Reviewing Officer in departing from the case to wantingly vilify an unoffending community.

This little town is probably no better, but certainly no worse than any other town of its size and it certainly is not the act of a brave, generous and intelli gent officer, from a fortified poparting from the evidence in the sition, to attact it in this manner.

The town people are made up of pioneers and old soldiers. Pioneers who blazed the way into the wilderness, fought the Kiowa and Comanche on the very ground that Fort Clark now stands, and built their rude huis on the bank of the Las Moras I refute every accusation made the site of the present town. Of old soldiers, who in the sixties, marched with Sherman to the sea, fought with Lion in the Grant immortal.

At the first call in 1898 no less the life of one was sacrificed on In twenty years one man has his Country's Altar. In the trenches of Manila another of the "Men from Brackett" went down Another with to rise no more. Hare, through the wilderness in the Philippines won his shoulder straps. The rest, weatherstained and scarred returned to their old home.

These are the men that the Revieving Officer calls "Vultures" and their home a "Den."

I protest against this unwarranted attact on this defenseless community. I Protest against the language used by the Reviewing Officer, I protest against the reading of said review before the roops and I most strenuous. ly protest against the publication of same in the daily papers.

That this libel on this community may be effectually erased, I ask that the findings of the Reviewing officer be reversed and the judgement of Major Kendall sustained; that the President disapprove the action of the Reviewing Officer and require him to publish said disapproval in all manner as the original review.

Herewith attached is a copy of said article as appearing in the Express of March 20th. much respect, I remain,
