DICKENS COUNTY PRODUCE EXHIBIT

In response to the offer of prizes made by the business men of Spur for the best collection of farm and orchard products of Dickens county there is now a fine collection of maize, kaffir corn, cotton, June corn, oats, broom corn, peanuts, peas, squash, cucumbers, watermelons and twelve or fifteen kinds of canned fruits on display at the Commercial Club room in the city.

This exhibit from the farms and orchards of Dickens county is a fair sample of the products of the county and if carried to the Dallas fair and properly arranged for display will compare favorably to the very best exhibits to be shown this year.

Dickens county is by no means a one crop country as is evidenced by the display of its products of various kinds, and that the soil is exceedingly productive is now and has been for a number of years demonstrated by the farming interests of the country. A great variety of products can be grown in the various character of soil of Dickens county, and that too with the least effort in method of cultivation on the part of the farmer and agriculturist, and when this fact is considered in connection with the exhibit of products there are few who will doubt but that Dickens county ranks among the best agricultural sections of the state in diversified farming and abundant yields of all products, and when scientific methods of cultivation and moisture conservation are generally practiced in this section of Western Texas no country will excel Dickens county in quality and quantity of yields of all character of produce.

During the past twenty years a limited amount of farming has been done under adverse circumstances and at a great disadvantage, yet the farmers of this section are the most prosperous and best fixed men of the country. Heretofore the farming interests were hampered by the cattle interests, no produce markets were afforded and the farm yields were principally of products for home consumption. However, since the advent of railroads things have now changed. Towns are building, produce markets established and the cattle interests have not only given away to the demands of the farmer but in every way encourage agricultural and commercial interests and are cutting up the big pastures and selling in small and suitable tracts and on the very best terms to the farmer and agriculturist, and chief among them all are the Swensons. They are cutting up the noted Spur Ranch into small areas of farm lands and are doing everything in their power to promote the agricultural interests of this section, and since this is a procedure for which the farming interests have been clamoring for years it is right and proper that we should cooperate in the rapid settlement and development of the agricultural resources of the country, and in no more convincing and substantial manner can this be done than by a demonstration of the agricultural possibilities and an exhibit of the products of the soil of this section. Secretary Reagan of the Spur Commercial Club has made arrangements for a place of exhibit at the Dallas Fair which opens October 15th, and is now collecting an exhibit of Dickens county products for the purpose of showing the outside world the character and quality of products of this section. No better place of exhibit can be had than at the Dallas fair, and the people of this section should cooperate in this matter, not only in securing the various products but in contributing to the expense of such an undertaking. It is to the individual farming interests, the interests of the country and to the advancement of the development of Western Texas.

Red Mitchell, sheriff of King county, was in Spur Thursday on business.

MUSICAL RECITAL.

Spur has never had such a musical treat as was afforded by the recital given by Miss McNeil and the Misses Hinkle on Tuesday night at the Methodist tabernacle for the benefit of the Presbyterian church. All three were artists and it is an impossibility to discriminate between them.

Miss McNeil as accompanist played with exquisite taste and her voice—a lyric soprano of great range and sweetness—was shown especially in her rendition of the "Indian Love Lyrics" and "May Morn." Miss Margaret Hinkle has also a fine soprano and her high notes were unusually clear and pure. This was shown especially in her rendering of "Song of the Soul" and "Sing On." Miss Hinkle's voice was a very sweet and rich contralto. Her sympathetic rendition of Tosti's famous "Good Bye" was classical music of unusual culture. Aside from their musical ability the young ladies were rare types of beautiful womanhood so they were a pleasure to the eye as well as to the ear. They are from Galveston and are guests of Mrs. J. C. McNeil at the Alamo ranch.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

Saturday morning of last week Sam Golightly fell from a wagon in which he was riding to Matador and was instantly killed by the fall. Sam Golightly was an old timer of that section of the country and was well known all over the country. He was a brother-in-law of J. Y. Higgins of Spur and Mr. and Mrs. Higgins attended the funeral Sunday at Matador. Mr. Golightly leaves a large family of children and numerous relatives in different parts of Western Texas. He was a member of the Odd Fellows and W. O. W. and the funeral services were conducted under the auspices of those orders.

J. M. Bennett returned Thursday from Stamford where he spent several days with his family at that place. We understand that Mr. Bennett will move his family to Spur at an early date and make this their permanent home in the future.

SPUR GIN NOW IN OPERATION

Thursday the Spur gin blew its first whistle and ginned its first bale of the season. There has been some delay in installing the machinery, but now everything is in readiness for the ginning of all cotton brought to Spur.

A number of bales have already come in and have been waiting for the gin to get in shape, while others aware of the delay are holding their cotton at home until the gin is prepared for business. From this time on we expect to see the cotton coming in from every direction and the fall season open up in earnest.

It is estimated by those in a position to know that possibly six thousand bales of cotton will be marketed in Spur during the fall and that at least four thousand of that number will be grown on farms within the county. Spur will be not only the cotton market for Dickens county but expects to get cotton from the surrounding counties throughout the fall season. The buyers here will pay the top prices at all times and will make Spur second to no other market point of the country. Arrangements are now being made to establish an exchange or cotton market bureau here and if these arrangements materialize Spur buyers will be in a position to be advised of the price of the staple at all points and at all times throughout each day. Such arrangements will also insure the farmer the regulation market price of the country and make the town a standard market point.

Others familiar with the conditions of the country state that the crop of the country in their opinion is being underestimated at this time and that much more cotton will be made than is expected. We have often heard it said that Western Texas could promise less and produce more than any section of America, and in this instance the statement will be verified.

EX-CONFEDERATE REUNION.

Saturday at Dickens there was a reunion of the old ex-Confederate soldiers of this section of country. In the morning Judge Ferguson made the welcome address. The welcome address was followed by appropriate speeches by Prof. Branen and Jeff D. Reagan. At twelve o'clock a sumptuous basket dinner was spread in the Court House square and enjoyed by all. It is reported that not more than ten or twelve of the old soldiers were present to enjoy the occasion. The old soldiers are rapidly departing into the great beyond and within a few years they will all have passed over the great divide, but their memory will be everlasting.

Judge McClain was in one day this week after a load of lumber to be used in the construction of his five room bungalow on his Cat Fish ranch. Buildings continue to go up in all parts of the Spur trade territory.

Tuesday the J. R. Leach tin shop was purchased by Riter Hardware Company and all the tools and stock were moved to their place of business on Fifth Street. The J. R. Leach place of business was purchased by the Spur Sheet Metal Works and Mr. Leach and family will soon move back to Childress and make their home. As a result of this sale the Riter Hardware Company's tin shop will be better prepared to do tin work in the future. The Spur Sheet Metal Works, we suppose, will soon move to their new quarters and the town will have one less tin shop in the future.

The Connecting Link of Rapid Development in Western Texas.

IN large cities the commission merchant is recognized as a great factor in the sale of produce and all kinds of products. He brings the farmer and stock raiser close to the buying public and insures to the purchaser and the seller not only the very best market prices and the best products on the market but is at all times in a position to accommodate the public in his line. Life is too short for a man to run all over town trying to get the best price for a bushel of potatoes when he can give a commission man 5 per cent of the sale, close the deal at once and get the price.

So it is with the real estate man in Western Texas. He has a list of the property for sale in the country, tell the prospector the advantages and resources of the country, refers to his list for something that will suit the buyer and makes the sale, when if every man who wants to sell or buy acts as his own salesman or purchaser and chases out over the country to make a deal the chances are that he will spend many days in a fruitless search for what he wants.

The real estate man is the connecting link in promoting rapid development in Western Texas. He, with the newspaper, do more boosting, booming and talking for the development progress of the country and get less out of it than any other class. We have had much for and much against the real estate men are the most ardent promoters and workers in the settlement of the country, have more faith and confidence in its future possibilities and spend more money in advertising and telling the outside world of this Western country than all other men combined.

STATE EXPERIMENTAL FARM STATION AT SPUR

Recognizing the great possibilities and wonderful future of Spur Farm Lands, the state is now operating an Experimental Farm Station at Spur. This will be a great benefit to the settlers in this region, showing them by actual demonstrations on the lands what crops can be most profitably raised; best methods of cultivation, and assisting in all the problems of the farm. This decision was reached after a visit to the lands by Judge Ed. R. Kone, Commissioner of Agriculture, and Dr. H. H. Harrington, Director of Experimental Stations, who recognized the unusual farming value.

To the first comers, ready to develop, we are willing to sell one-half our holdings of 673 square miles on easy terms and reasonable prices. We reserve the other half for big increase sure to come with development. We stand shoulder to shoulder with the homeseeker. Cotton, no boll weevil, corn, alfalfa, all feed stuffs, grains, fruits, melons, vegetables. Great hog country—no cholera ever known. The hog farmer is king, and nowhere can hogs be matured so cheaply. Quick run to Fort Worth market. Delightful, healthful climate—altitude 2000 to 2,500. The great extent and variety of land insure the homeseeker such range of selection that the man early on the ground can find exactly what he wants. SHELTERING MANHOOD.

The fowing extract from a sermon by Rev. Bradfield recently is one of the best we have heard and is worth reading. His text was Isaiah xxxii, 1-2:

"Behold a King shall reign in righteousness and Princes rule in judgment. And a man shall be as a hiding place from the wind, a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place; as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." He said in part:

"The text is Isaiah's dream of a just government. A "King shall reign in righteousness and Princes rule in judgment." It is remarkable that Isaiah's loftiest conception of the Messianic reign is a just government. A King his Messiah should be who reigns in righteousness. Isaiah's dream is the dream of the ages. History is little more than a record of the struggles for just government. A government allowing equal opportunities for all, giving every man a "square deal," has been the desire of all peoples. Men want justice here and now. More than benevolence or charity, men demand simple justice. It is too late now to seek to compensate men for injustice here by the promise of justice after they are dead. Shelterless people here are no longer comforted by the promise of mansions in the skies. Hungry people are no longer compensated for hunger here by the promise of eating bread in the kingdom of God. Men demand justice here, and the dream of millions of hearts is for the just government which Isaiah foresaw.

The text gives us Isaiah's conception of the fountain force of society: "A man shall be as a hiding place from the wind"—a man. Society is composed of an aggregation of individuals and no scheme for social betterment is worth while which has a goal other than the improvement of the character of individual men. The fountain force of government and society is the individual. "A man shall be as a hiding place from the wind"—a man. The word "masses" was not in the vocabulary of the Christ. He did not seek to reach men en masse. He aimed at the personal character of individual men and women. His ministry was much to individuals, now to a ruined woman weary of her sin, now to a confused seeker by night. The sum total of his three years' work was the training of a half dozen or more individual men. The fountain force of society is the individual man or woman. Disseminate learning, distribute wealth, do what you will, but you have done nothing permanent for society until you have reached and bettered the personal character of individual men and women. Exactly this is the fountain force of society as Isaiah saw it. "A man shall be"—a man.

The text is Isaiah's portrait of a sheltering manhood.

PUBLIC ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

Perhaps there never has been a period in the history of Texas when the people were more alive to the spirit of universal progress which is manifest in the one question of building better public highways. And this movement is not confined to Texas—it is taking strong hold in almost every state of the Union, and is being supported by the very best thought of the land and upheld by the most conservative economic writers. Coming down to the simplest analysis, it is purely a matter of the people helping themselves to better things in the affairs of life, advancing in civilization and using the combined strength of communities, districts, counties and states vouchsafed in the power of reasonable taxation, to secure to the people as a whole and to the coming generations, the very best in public comforts and conveniences. A country without good highways, is fast falling behind this age of material development, and the people who look well to such improvements add much to their material wealth and civic supremacy.—Western Reporter.

John Mayfield, of the Jayton country, passed through the city Monday on his way to Mexico and while here was a pleasant caller at the Texas Spur office. He reports that while the crops of his section are not exceedingly good yet compared to crops of other sections they will do very well. He is going to Mexico on a prospecting trip and we are confident that he will return better satisfied with this section.

J. H. Neely returned Sunday with two wagon loads of household goods from his former home at Texico, New Mexico.

Dr. F. A. Burnum, a prominent citizen and physician of a few miles east of Dickens, was in the city Monday trading with the merchants and attending to other business matters.

County Attorney B. G. Worswick and his father-in-law, Mr. Berlin, were over Monday looking after legal matters.

The following definition of a dollar is, in our judgment, a pretty good one: "A dollar is what some men promise to pay for a country paper. It is something a newspaper man enjoys more in anticipation than in reality. It is the price of a day's work for some men and a single night's drink for others. It is what the wife frequently needs, but seldom has. It is the power that make and unmake men. It is the hardest thing to get and the easiest thing to get rid of known to mankind. It is a blessing in a small measure and a curse in many instances. It is mighty and scarce. No man ever had more than he wanted and no man ever will. A dollar is a snare and delusion and every one is chasing the delusion.—Ex.

YOU get what you BUY at RICHARDSON LUMBER Co.

And it came to pass that after he advertised his goods, there came unto him great multitudes from all the regions around and did buy of him. And when his competitors saw, they marveled among themselves, saying: "How be it that this man is busy while we loaf idly about our doors?" And we spake unto him: In this age of push and hustle it is easier for a camel to enter the eye of a needle than for a business man to flourish without advertising.—Ex.

I would rather fill my purse with money and keep its beautiful gate forever ajar to my happy girls while yet they linger under my roof, than to clutch it with a miser's hand until the harpstrings of youth are broken and all its music forever fled. I would rather spend my last nickle for a little bag of striped marbles for my barefooted boys, than to deny them their childish pleasure and leave them a bag of gold to quarrel over when I am dead.—Bob Taylor.

E. D. Chambers unloaded a car of bagging and ties here Saturday and hauled it out to Afton. Mr. Chambers owns the Afton gin and will operate it this year and quite a number of bales is expected to be ginned at that point throughout the fall season. Crops in the Afton country are reported in fine condition at this time and it is said that more cottou will be ginned in that section and Dickens county as a whole than in any portion of Western Texas, acreage considered.

Zade Polk and wife, after spending several days at the home of J. P. Horton and wife, returned Saturday to their home in Fisher county. Zade says that he will soon return to Spur and make this his home. He likes this country, the town and is enthusiastic of the future prospects of this section. We are glad to note that he and family will make this their permanent home and wish them much prosperity and a pleasant home here.

Jno. W. Scott, formerly of Sweetwater, has located in Spur and will open up a law office here at once. Mr. Scott is an attorney of prominence and lawyer of ability and we are glad to have him locate with us. He will move his family here at an early date. He has secured offices over the Spur National Bank and will soon be prepared for business in his profession.

W. J. Clark, of six miles north of Dickens, was in the city Monday and was a pleasant caller at the Texas Spur office. Mr. Clark brought in some products from his place and left the exhibit at the Commercial Club room to show the people what can be grown in Dickens county. Mr. Clark is one of our most substantial citizens and has one of the finest places in Dickens county.

Mrs. Hearn, who has been on an extended visit to relatives in the eastern part of the state, returned the latter part of the week to her home in Spur.

A PROBLEM IN MOISTURE.

E. R. Parsons, a practical dry farmer of western Colorado, in a letter to the Dry Farming Bulletin, of August 15, says:—"The most vital point in the dry farming operations is the storing and economizing of moisture. Moisture means crops and good crops mean profit. Little attention is paid to this by some farmers. They will plow whole fields before harrowing. This allows thousands of tons of moisture to escape into the atmosphere and leaves the land dry and full of clods for the raising of an indifferent crop.

"Moisture is lost by not breaking up the surface as soon as a crop is taken off. A patch of forty acres may evaporate as much as 200 tons of water into thin air in one single warm day. This is like throwing away gold."

When we read this statement we thought the man was talking wildly, when we figured it out we saw that he was well within the bounds of reason.

Thus, 200 tons is equal to 400,000 gals. of water. At 8 lbs to the gallon that is 50,000 gallons. One-fortieth of that is 1,250 gallons to one acre. It requires 27,500 gallons to put water one inch deep on an acre. Divide this by 1,250 gallons gives .22 of an inch deep on an acre. In other words we find that 200 tons of water will cover 40 acres only .22 of an inch deep, and it is easy to believe that that much will evaporate during a hot day when the land is turned up to the sun and wind.

The moral or lesson is, follow your breaking closely with the harrow put a mulch on and save the moisture.

Helen Louise, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Love, died Thursday of last week at their home in Stamford, after an illness of one week of typhoid fever. WAIT TO CHOOSE PARTNERS

British Statistics Show that Marriages Are Taking Place Later in Life.

The average age of the community is becoming older, it was pointed out by the president of the London, England, Royal Statistical Society recently. It is interesting to note that the age of marriage has also the same tendency. According to the available returns, as many as 40,000 girls marry in England under the age of 21, that is, in less than one-seventh of the marriages registered. Thirty years, a generation ago, more than one-fifth of the women marrying in a year were minors.

Another interesting fact that seems to prove this tendency to later marriages is provided by the figures of the last decade. In 1907 the number of marriages of women between the ages of 21 and 25 was just over 6,000 more than in 1898, while the marriage of women between the ages of 25 and 29 increased by just over 12,000.

The average or mean age of all spinsters who married in 1896 was 25 years and one month. This has advanced to 25 years and six and a half months in the last available returns. Widows at their second and third marriages are also older, having advanced from an average of 40 years and seven months to 40 years and 11 months.

Thus spinster brides are nearly six months and widow brides four months older than those of a few years ago.

THE MAKING OF A GOOD PLAY

Plot, Skillfully or Unskillfully Drawn, Is at the Bottom of Success or Failure.

A good plot is that sure edifice which slowly rises out of the interplay of circumstance on temperament, and temperament on circumstances, within the inclosing atmosphere of an idea, writes John Galsworthy, in the Atlantic. A human being is the best plot there is; it may be impossible to see why he is a good plot, because the idea within which he was brought forth cannot be fully grasped; but it is plain that he is a good plot. He is organic. And so it must be with a good play. Reason alone produces no good plots; they come by original sin, sure conception, and instinctive after power of selecting what benefits the germ. A bad plot, on the other hand, is simply a row of stakes, with a character impaled on each—characters who would have liked to live, but came to untimely grief; who started bravely, but fell on these stakes, placed beforehand in a row, and were transfixed one by one, while their ghosts stride on, squeaking and gibbering through the play. Whether these stakes are made of acts, or of ideas, according to the nature of the dramatist who planted them, their effect on the unfortunate characters is the same; the creatures were begotten to be staked, and staked they are!

J. E. Sparks was in Thursday from the Red Mud country. He brought in an exhibit of maize to be added to the collection at the Commercial Club room. The maize is said to be the best yet shown. The Good Dinner.

The successful housekeeper was planning a dinner for a few of her husband's friends.

"I must have apple pie and cheese for dessert," she remarked without a flicker of indecision.

"But I should think you would want something more dainty this time of year," suggested the woman who always worried herself sick over a company dinner, "an ice or a frozen pudding."

"Oh, but apple pie is my husband's favorite dish. When he has company I always serve what he likes best; then he thinks his guests have had such a good dinner, and everybody is happy. At least my husband and I are happy, and if the guests aren't no one is the wiser."

Cause of Divorce.

Miss Ella M. Haas, an inspector of workshops in Ohio, said at the Washington meeting of the American Federation of Labor, that sending girls out into the world unprepared for any of life's vicissitudes was the primary reason for the wide prevalence of the divorce actions. This might have been controverted, she said, if the education of these girls had been along technical rather than classical lines. Girls are not educated along domestic lines, and children are being turned out by the thousands not equipped for life's battles. She declared that the wonderful advance of the nation in industrial work makes it necessary that girls have industrial education.

J. R. Leach sold his residence this week to Mr. Tidwell. We understand that Mr. Leach and family will leave Saturday for their former home at Childress.

FEELS GRATEFUL TO DOCTOR

Baltimore Man Shows Proper Appreciation of Treatment Accorded Him by Physician.

"When a man in comfortable circumstances is taken ill a long way from home he expects to have to pay the piper," said P. S. Sieder of Baltimore at the Raleigh, according to the Washington Post.

"Some years ago I was traveling in western New York, looking into the fruit situation, orchard products being my business, when I was taken suddenly ill in the village of Pen Yan, and was laid up there for some time. A local physician was called and devoted his time and talents to me for ten days, after which I left the town as well as ever I was. Before departing, however, I asked the doctor for my bill, and I almost had a relapse when I was told by him that for the ten or fifteen visits he made to me his charge was only $7.50. It was so unusual to get treated so honestly that I kept the doctor's name permanently on the tablet of my memory and every year he gets the first and best water melons that come to Baltimore. At Christmas time he receives the choicest oysters that the Baltimore market can supply, and in other ways I try to let him know that I appreciated the way he took care of me and his moderate charges."

French Birthrate Grows.

France, after all, may not be falling. Last year's census of that country, where the signs of decadence are usually believed to reveal themselves in a declining population, shows that in 1905 there was an excess of births over deaths amounting to 46,411. In two years prior to 1907 there was an excess of deaths over births. But the excess of births over deaths last year was higher than the average for the preceding ten years. It is noteworthy that for 1908 the number of deaths was the smallest in 11 years and considerably smaller, of course, than in the average for the preceding ten years. The birthrate, then, is a recovery. And marriages are the largest in 11 years, five per cent. greater than the average for the decade.

BUTTONS MADE FROM HOOF.

At the big beef-packing houses the hoofs are assorted into three grades, the white ones being used for a certain grade of button closely resembling the better quality of pearl buttons. A striped hoof is flattened into a plate through pressure under heat and used in the manufacture of hairpins; striped hoofs are also used in the manufacture of buttons. Black hoofs and hoof scrap are used in the manufacture of cyanide and chrome. Scraps of hoofs ground up into fine powder make nitrogenous fertilizer for grapes and other crops.

OUR SCHOOL CHILDREN.

It is estimated that the census of 1910 will show that the United States has a school population of at least 14,000,000. The school army ten years ago was 13,367,147. Of that number 4,266,302 were between the ages of five and nine, and 6,453,394 ranged from nine to fourteen. About 13 per cent. of the whole number were from 15 to 17 years old, and about five per cent. were 18 years of age or upward. Of all the children between five and nine reported in the census of 1900 only about one-half regularly attended school; of those from nine to fourteen, four-fifths attended, and of those from 15 to 17 a little more than two-fifths.—Chicago Examiner.
