THE AMERICAN WAY

THE TOOLS OF PROSPERITY

By Harry T. Everingham
President of "We, The People!"

Isn't it time we put up an argument — against those people, both here and abroad, who insist on calling Americans "lucky" because we have "more natural wealth" than anyone else? They call us lucky and say that's why we should take care of the rest of the world!

What kind of talk is that? We didn't get our wealth by luck, we found ways to produce it. It's the rest of the world that's lucky that we happen to be around to lend a helping hand.

In the Middle East, so many things are still provided by the same animal power that has been used for thousands of years. While in America we use machine power. Their ways produce so little — ours, so much. There's all the difference in the world between those two systems, just as there is between their economic system and ours; that's why we are the wealthiest people in the world.

NATURAL WEALTH

They say about two-thirds of the world's people go to bed hungry every night. Yet, in many of their lands throughout Africa, South America, India, China and Southeast Asia, there may be more natural wealth buried under the ground than there is in the U.S. Think of that! People starving to death above ground, while great natural wealth lies buried under their feet. Why?

For nearly 180 years we Americans have had a form of government which leaves everyone free to dream his own dreams, and to work to make his dreams come true. In most other countries, the average man is seldom free to make the best use of his God-given abilities. He must depend on a master for his security — usually the government — and do whatever the master planner thinks is best.

But here in America where men are free, they can make the best use of their abilities in order to get ahead. To improve their competitive position, our people strive to invent new products, develop new methods and improve their machinery to produce a better product or render a better service at a better price.

You see, our American system is a competitive race to see who can "get that fustest with the bestest" — and the customer picks the winner when he decides which one offers him the best buy for his money. It's this competition between everyone trying to do a better job that has raised our standard of living and made America both wealthy and great.

FREEDOM REQUIRED

It won't help to aid other countries until they can get rid of the socialism that robs them of freedom of enterprise. Any people, to become prosperous must have a form of self-government that gives them freedom to compete in business. To make progress, people need modern machinery, the tools of prosperity. But they have no chance to save their money to buy those tools if the government takes most of their earnings away in excessive taxation.

We'll never have world peace and prosperity until the benefits of individual freedom are enjoyed by people throughout the world. Then their governments can say to their people: "Plan your own future... improve your own worth... produce your own wealth... provide your own security... and manage your own life!"

Many people throughout the rest of the world hate our system of American capitalism and yet they continue to beg for the fruits of that system. Let's help them learn that they, too, need capitalism to provide them with the tools of prosperity — and freedom to use these tools.

Lubbock Man Killed In Wreck Near Rockwood

A Lubbock man, Frank W. Higinbotham, 58, became the county's second 1964 traffic fatality about 10:45 a. m. Wednesday of last week, when he was involved in a two-car wreck near Rockwood. Mr. Higinbotham died at the scene of the accident, but was not killed immediately, according to some of the first at the scene of the accident.

The other fatality was on the same highway, about 13 miles south of Santa Anna, in January.

Mr. Higinbotham was driving a 1960 Rambler, headed north on U. S. Highway 283. Mrs. Cora Bryan of Rockwood, driving a 1958 Oldsmobile, was headed south on the highway and apparently was attempting to turn to her left, to go into the town of Rockwood. The collision was almost head-on, according to Jim Petzold of the Texas Highway Patrol.

Both cars were a total loss, according to Petzold. Both drivers were alone in their cars.

The body of Higinbotham was brought to Santa Anna and later transferred to Lubbock. Mrs. Bryan was taken to Brady Hospital, but was brought to the Santa Anna Hospital Wednesday night. She suffered numerous cuts and bruises, several broken bones and other injuries. She is recuperating in the hospital at this time.

School Transfers Must Be Made During May

All pupils who plan to attend a school during the 1964-1965 term other than the school of their home district must be transferred during the month of May. Since transfers are good for only one year at a time, transfers must be made annually. And failure to transfer will necessitate the paying of tuition if a pupil should attend the other school anyway.

Either parent of a pupil can file the application for a transfer at the office of the County School Superintendent.

Head Coach R. C. Smith Resigns

Head Coach R. C. Smith resigned his position with the Santa Anna Schools last week, after accepting a position on the coaching staff at Lockhart, Texas. Lockhart will be a Class AAA school, beginning with the new school term this fall. Smith will be one of several on the Lockhart staff, but is not going there as head coach.

Smith coached one year at Farmersville and served in the Armed Forces before coming here five years ago.

Supt. Cullen N. Perry said the job is now open and he was accepting applications for the position. Perry said anyone applying for the position should be either a Math or Science major or a combination of the two.

Kids Christian Crusade To Be Held June 1-12

A "Kids Christian Crusade" is scheduled to be held at the Assembly of God Church June 1 through June 12. Classes will begin at 8:30 a. m. each morning and will be dismissed at 11:15 a. m. A refreshment and recreation period will also be held.

Workers have planned exciting and challenging ways to present Bible truths and Christian character to all ages. Each day there will be visual teaching on the life of Paul, Old Testament lessons, flash card stories for beginners and primary ages; character builders and sword drill for older groups; and scripture memorization for all.

New songs and choruses will be enjoyed in this crusade daily. On the last day a picnic will be held at the Coleman City Park with planned recreation for all ages.

The public is invited to come at 7:30 p. m. June 12 to a service designed especially as a review of the crusade.

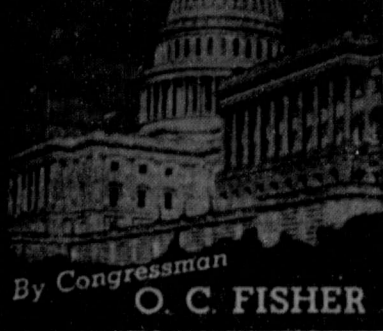

The pastor, Rev. James Ford, and the church wish to invite all the boys and girls of the community to accept the challenge of "Kids Christian Crusade."

EFFICIENT LEADER

Mrs. John D. Murrell served as president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Coleman County Medical Society for the past year. She was a very capable and efficient leader in their quest for the many honors received.

Trees are the oldest living things.

Our WASHINGTON Letter

By Congressman O. C. FISHER

POVERTY! Poverty! Poverty! Ah, what sins are committed in thy name!

Anyone who is in favor of poverty should be ashamed of himself. Everyone is against it. And any sensible antidote has a natural and proper appeal. But many remedies recommended for sick patients turn out to be phonies. And that, can happen to anti-poverty remedies.

Actually, we have been up to our necks in a so-called anti-poverty war for years. Indeed the combined federal, state and local governments pay out $40 billion a year now to bolster the income of at least 25 million people, with a wide range of programs.

These include old age assistance, social security, food stamps for the needy, school lunches, WPA projects, retaining and rehabilitation programs for disabled and unemployed, unemployment payments (which cost $2.8 billion a year); aid for the blind, dependent children, widows, and a multitude of others. And we give the Indians $150 million.

Now, the Congress is asked to fork up $1 billion for a down payment on another anti-poverty attack, to be added to the other programs. This includes the Kennedy proposals for a new Youth Employment program, a Domestic Peace Corps, and even more of the WPA projects.

FARMERS WOULD GET IN on this gravy train. Secretary of Agriculture Freeman says half the poverty is on farms. He wants low-interest unsecured loans of up to $2,500 for poverty stricken farmers who are unsuccessful in farming business, plus up to $1,500 in outright cash gifts to busted farmers.

TOTAL ULTIMATE COST of the new drive is estimated at $15.1 billion — on top of the other welfare programs already going on. The announced goal is to raise personal incomes of married couples up to $3,000 a year and that of single people to $1,500.

ACTUALLY, the most meaningful and logical treatment yet proposed — and not endorsed by the government — is dissemination of birth control information. At the current rate of increase there will be another 150 million people in the U.S.A. in 36 years, in addition to the present 190 million. This would apply treatment to the cause — not the symptoms — of our problems. Otherwise the stepped up welfare state proposed in the anti-poverty war will go on ad

Texas 65 Health Insurance Again Offered Citizens

The Texas 65 Health Insurance Association will hold its second open enrollment period for senior citizens during the first two weeks of June, according to an announcement by H. Lewis Rietz of Houston, president of the association.

"Over 50,000 Texans, past the age of 65, took advantage of the first Texas 65 enrollment period last October. However, it has become increasingly apparent that many more of our senior citizens wish to avail themselves of the benefits of Texas 65, so we have decided to open the program for additional enrollments June 1 through June 15," Rietz stated.

"That Texas 65 is filling the need we hoped it would is evidenced by the fact that over $1 million has been paid in claims to 4,500 senior citizens of our state since the program went into effect last November," Rietz concluded.

During the first two weeks of June any resident of Texas, past the age of 65, may purchase the low cost health insurance regardless of age or physical condition and without completing a lengthy medical questionnaire.

Poultrymen Must Do Small Jobs Well

The successful poultryman, as any other successful businessman, is the one who does the common things uncommonly well, explains Ben Wormell, poultry husbandman with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

And a major part of the commercial egg producer's success depends on what Wormell calls the preventive pullet program. By this he means the preserving of as nearly 100 percent of the pullets as possible.

He admits that complete protection of the pullet flock is impossible but suggests several measures to aid in the plan. He states that husbandry is the area of poultry production too often deficient in Texas, and sees much room for improvement in this phase of most poultry operations.

Also, sanitary measures are all important in preserving pullets, says Wormell. Sanitation concerns all aspects of cleanliness from clean houses to proper drainage and the control of weeds around the houses.

Immunization is another step important to protect pullets, and housing environment a third. He listed concrete floors, adequate space, ventilation, and lighting as environmental considerations.

Wormell reminds that the period of bird growth is very important and says that during this time they require special care in all the aspects of poultry handling.

Attitude and aptitude are both important to poultrymen but Wormell emphasized that doing the small jobs better can make the greatest difference in raising a large percentage of pullets.

Some Seniors May Be Eligible For College Help

An important reminder for seniors graduating from high school this spring came today from the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Waco. Glyndon Hague, manager, urged the seniors to check their possible eligibility for VA aid with their college plans.

Under the War Orphans' Act administered by VA, financial aid is granted for the education of children of servicemen who died of injuries or disease incurred in line of duty in active service during the two World Wars, or the Spanish-American or Korean war periods.

In exceptional circumstances, Mr. Hague added, such benefits are also extended to the children of servicemen who died in line of duty in peace-time service.

Children who qualify are eligible for a maximum of 36 months of education or training. Normally, training benefits are authorized after graduation from high school and end at the age of 23. Exceptions to the beginning and ending dates can sometimes be made.

High school seniors who are eligible for these benefits should apply in person at the VA Regional Office, 121 South Sixth, Waco, Texas, or 2208 Main Street, Dallas, Texas, or write the Waco office Mr. Hague said. They may also seek information from County Service Officers or veterans' organization service officers.

Frances Davenport Presented Crisco Homemaking Award

Miss Frances Davenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Davenport, was presented the Crisco Trophy at the high school recently, as the most outstanding student in Home Economics. The award was presented on the basis of Miss Davenport's outstanding academic and extra-curricular activities during the past year. Today's MEDITATION

The Upper Room

Read Galathians 5:4-14. The harvest of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, fidelity, gentleness and self-control. There is no law dealing with such things as these. (Galathians 5:22-23, NEB.)

One needs only to read the newspaper or listen to a broadcast to see how desperately the human family must continually apply civil and military law. Still the harvest of evil spreads throughout the world.

But the living of life by the individual who is fully yielded to God's Holy Spirit will produce all the things which the civil and military law can only strive to maintain. The Holy Spirit dwelling in the human heart can effect this. How wonderful to know the way of life that requires no law enforcement!

While a patient in the hospital, I became friends with the orderly. One day he gave me his personal concept of Christian living. He said, "If I can't bring peace, I will not bring confusion. To have a good world, we have to let God's love dwell in us and share it daily with others."

PRAYER:
Our Father, we give unto Thee our whole being — mind, heart and spirit. So possess us we pray, that the fruit of the Holy Spirit will be the harvest of our lives. In Jesus' name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
The Holy Spirit can so fill us that we are blessed with an overflow of love for others.

119 Commercial — Coleman

Austin — There is a certain sadness around the capitol. An old friend is about to depart. That old friend is the majestic Walton building. For many years it was the home of the Game and Fish Commission (now part of the State Parks and Wildlife Commission). The building soon is to be demolished, by order of the 58th Legislature, to make way for a parking lot.

The white limestone building with its fanciful towers and elegant facade is an old-timer. Built in 1875, it was the Travis County Courthouse until 1929, when Gov. Dan Moody and the Legislature bargained and bought the building for the state for $40,000.

Although the Walton building was best known to sportsmen and conservationists coming to call on the Game and Fish Commission, it also was the home of the vocational education area office of the Texas Education Agency, the Rehabilitation District office and the Texas Aeronautics Commission. Just when the Walton building will be demolished is a decision due to be made by the State Building Commission, composed of Gov. John Connally, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, and Charles Coates of Chappell Hill, chairman of the Board of Control.

POLLUTION BY SALT WATER
At the request of the Railroad Commission Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr is reconsidering his opinion that the Texas Water Pollution Control Board has jurisdiction and permit-granting power over oilfield waste disposal.

Oil operators told a special committee reviewing the opinion that much of the oil industry has not accepted the new Board's jurisdiction, and look instead to the Railroad Commission for disposal regulation.

Water conservationists support the Board's authority, claiming that the 1961 Legislature gave the Pollution Control Board jurisdiction over pollution by oil and salt water in Art. 7621d.

TRAVEL WRITERS' TOUR
Texas Tourist Development Agency is looking at West Texas for a repeat of its successful April tour for out-of-state travel writers.

On the first go-round, the agency led the writers from Dallas to San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Houston and several other cities in the eastern half of the state.

In November, they plan to take them to such favorites as Palo Duro Canyon, El Paso and Juarez, Big Bend National Park, Fort Davis and the Davis Mountains, Guadalupe Peak, Fort Clark and Alamo Village at Brackettville.

Feature articles in metropolitan dailies and national magazines already are reflecting the favorable reaction to what the writers saw in Texas on the first tour. Agency spokesmen feel the result of the valuable free publicity should mean more tourist dollars in every Texan's pocket this summer.

HOSPITAL BUDGET DRAWN
State Hospital Board has requested a $128,600,000 budget for the next two-year fiscal period. It includes a $28,000,000 increase for operating expenses and $13,200,000 for new facilities.

These new institutions would be constructed if the budget is approved by the Legislature: Mental hospitals for Dallas and the Gulf Coast area (4,000,000 each); Special schools in West Texas and Corpus Christi (2,500,000 each); and a food service training school (250,000).

HIGHWAY FACTS CITED
State highway spending has grown from $40,200,000 in 1940 to an expected $450,000,000 this year, reports State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer.

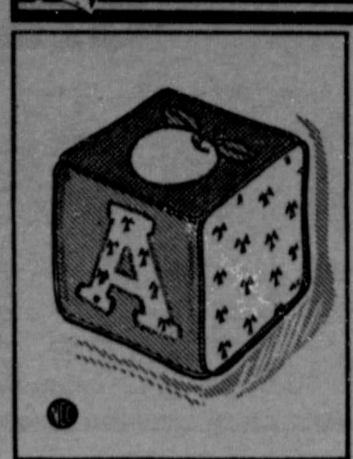

He also cited these facts: Total Texas highway mileage has increased since 1941 from 20,359 miles to 65,798; autos have increased from 1,700,000 to 5,500,000; Highway Department employment has grown from 7,600 to 16,000.

Greer also noted that while Texas has 22 more metropolitan areas (50,000 or more population) than any other state, it still ranks fourth among all states in rural population.

fore he decides if he has authority to enter a dispute involving discharge of some locomotive firemen.

Railroad brotherhoods say the state's "full crew law" should be observed although a federal arbitration board award permitted dismissal of firemen on some diesel engines.

Walter Caven, Texas Railroad Association attorney, said several prosecutors have agreed they won't accept complaints involving dismissals of the firemen.

Lubbock and El Paso prosecutors were among those who would not file complaints against the railroads under the full crew law, said E. F. Jergins of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engine-men.

YOUTH CONFERENCE SCHEDULED

The second annual Texas Attorney General's Youth Conference will be held here July 10-12. More than 1,600 junior and senior high school students will attend.

Delegates will discuss juvenile delinquency, vocational training, public awareness projects, church and youth activities and other projects resulting from the 1963 meeting.

Program is based on the idea that Texas youth can find solutions to their own problems.

Noting that 40 percent of Texas crimes are committed by youth under 21, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr termed the conference a vital step toward finding new cures to an old problem.

REDISTRICTING HEARING SET

First meeting of the Texas Legislative Council Committee on congressional redistricting is tentatively set here for the weekend of May 30.

Sen. George Moffett of Chillicothe, chairman, said he probably will call an informal session at that time, as most study committee members will be in Austin anyway for President Johnson's address at the University of Texas.

Hearings in major cities over the state, to seek public advice on how to carve up districts on an equal-population basis under court order, will begin after the second primary elections, June 6.

Moffett, Texas' oldest lawmaker in point of legislative service, said he doesn't think the public is nearly as interested in the problem of redistricting as political furor over recent court action indicated.

He indicated there will be no revelation of the study committee's final recommendations for a redistricting bill before the Legislature convenes in January.

MANUFACTURING GROWTH RAPID

Value added by manufacture in Texas products for 1962 came to $6,300,000 of the $9,700,000 total for the West South Central States (Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas).

University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports total state employment has risen 67 percent since 1947, and production workers have increased 45 percent. Automation was cited for the relatively slow growth rate in the latter group. Productivity of Texas labor is high as measured by manufacturing value added per production worker on U.S. Bureau of Census scales. The Texas figure is $52,816 per worker for 1962, compared with $36,572 for Louisiana and $30,946 for Oklahoma.

SHORT SNAKES

Atomic Energy Commission sponsored a conference here, first of its kind outside Washington, D. C., that attracted representatives from New York, California, Kentucky, Mississippi and Arkansas which, like Texas, control their own problems of radio-isotope usage.

Attorney General Carr has notified Willacy County Attorney Miss Edna Cisneros that the county has authority to pay a special prosecutor who assisted her in a murder case.

June 1-15 will be the second enrollment period for the Texas 65 health insurance plan for citizens age 65 and above.

New military draft quota for June calls for 234 men compared with 258 for May in addition to 10 veterinarians to be assigned to 10 veterinarians to be assigned. State Board of Education announced a profit of $373,648 on a $10,600,000 sale of municipal bonds.

Thirteen forfeited Veterans Land tracts were resold for $84,174.

Governor Connally has named Secretary of State Crawford Martin to represent him at the inauguration of Louisiana Gov. John McKeithan.

Giant Snakes On The Prowl

The Parks and Wildlife Department warned campers, hikers and wild flower lovers that snakes of all kinds and especially diamondback rattlersnakes are out of winter dens and are being encountered in all parts of the state.

Game Warden Bill Gooch of Raymondville reports a pair of giant diamondbacks was recently killed on the El Sauz Ranch in Willacy County.

The largest of the lethal pair measured 7 feet 6 inches and had 23 rattles, while the other was 6 feet 6 inches long.

Bright Future Predicted For Senior Class of '64

By Jimmy Taylor

The year is 1962. It is a warm, sunny day in May. I walk along this narrow, winding path. I come upon a small lake. I stop by its edge and look into its clear water. At first I see nothing but then a vision appears. I look closer and see that it is the faces of my former classmates of 1964.

The first that is recognizable is that of Charles Allen. I remember that he always liked sports, especially track. He always brought home a first place trophy for winning the mile. His only dream was to someday run the mile in the World Olympics. With Travis Allen as his coach and manager, he finally made it. He was behind in his first race but faithful coach, Travis, was in front urging him on from a go cart, hollering "Kick, Charlie, Kick!" Seven minutes later we find Charles dragging in, but he received a huge round of applause for finishing the race. Nice going, Charlie.

The next vision I see is that of Terry Blanton. I see him chasing his beautiful, private Secretary, Anneda Blount, around his desk. Terry is now the superintendent of the Blanton Elementary Schools of Santa Anna and has the privilege of giving Cullen Perry orders.

Next, I see two, very off-beat characters, Mac Boyet and Bobby Clifton. They are the stars of the Earla Buse Pepper Shack, originally called the Sugar Shack. They call themselves the Bugs after the unfamous Beatles. The owner and waitress, Earla Buse, was once a famous basketball player until she broke her arm practicing her falls.

The next face I recognize is that of Freddie Cullins. He is with a group of very talented musicians, the Santa Anna Salvation Army. Being a very talented bass horn player, he was asked to share his talent with the organization.

Next I see a very lonesome and barefoot girl from the wilds of Trickham. I realize that this girl is Frances Cordelia Davenport. She never had any luck with boys so she sent her name into Sears and Roebuck and became the mailorder bride of the wealthy rancher, S. D. Fellers. He is a very intelligent person as he spent twenty years in school.

Next I see the bleached blonde star of the "You Bet Your Nose Show." Her name is Sandra Davis. The contestants on the show are given a ball and try their luck at Miss Davis' nose. There are lots of winners, but who could miss!

The next face I see is that of Sherry Drake, the avid Beatle fan. She is wearing her beatle wig and is snapping her fingers to the tune of "She Loves You, Yeah, Yeah, Yeah."

My vision now carries me to Africa. I see Jerry Ellis, the great white hunter, tied to a stake in a savage tribe of head-hunters in the depths of Dark-est Africa. Their leader is Georgia Eppler.

Next I see the owner and ringmaster of the famous Gilbreath Circus, Glenn Gilbreath. I see him as he is introducing the two main attractions: the bearded, fat lady, Cheryl Fitzpatrick and Lefty the Liontamer. His real name is Bill Horne. He is called Lefty because he had a bad habit of sticking his right hand into the lion's mouth. One day he didn't get it out quick enough. This accounts for him being left handed.

Next I see two great tennis players who never won a match. They are Sharon Gilbreath and Stanley Hartman. They were seeking improvement and are still searching. Sharon had a wild serve which accounts for Stanley's flat nose.

Next I see Billy Don Haynes, a bookkeeper on Wall Street. He is paid twenty-five cents an hour. I see him sitting behind a pile of books working his way down. The person responsible for his great skill is the famed Virginia Sikes.

My vision moves to one of the largest Dude Ranches in Texas. The owner is Kay "Tex" Haynes. She acquired this name from her bow legs, which are a result of constantly riding horses on the Double H. It is called this because of their marriage to her childhood sweetheart.

Next I see a small little shop called the James and James Florist Establishment. Stanley and Wanda James are co-owners of the establishment. They did this because of their childhood romances (kissing cousins).

Next I see one of the most glamorous movie stars of all times, Sheila Jeffcoat. Her director is Bobby Squyres. While on location in Palm Springs, California, he became very fond of her. While walking back to the hotel one night, they walked smack dab into a swimming pool. This caused her to develop a severe case of laryngitis. She is now a famous star of the Silent Movies.

Next I see Karen Jones, alias Speedy Fingers. She was always good at typing. After she finished college, she was able to type 200 words a minute. That's not counting the mistakes of which there were 199.

The next face I see is that of Sherlyn Simmons. Her desire to be librarian was so great that she agreed to stay at Santa Anna High School and undertake the fulltime job as librarian.

Next I see Edwinna McCarrell. She played as a guard when she was in high school. Evidently she was satisfied as a guard because to this day she practices an hour every day on free throws and hook shots. She is planning to play professional ball, but by the time she gets good enough she will probably be too old.

My vision now carried me to the Kraft Candy Kitchen. Here I see the famous candy taster, Barbara McIntire. Although she is required to be in the kitchen constantly, she is able to keep her charming figure.

Next I see Terry McIver, the famous playboy of Santa Anna (Ha! Ha!) He was always considered a lady-killer among the girls. Wherever you go, you will hear girls talk about that handsome playboy.

Next I see Bobby Morgan on the mound for the New York Mets (Pee Wee League). He is now 35 years old. Some people says he will advance to the Little League but with that pitching arm, I doubt it.

Next I see Donnie Neff, the poor boy. He lost his fortunes while on his honeymoon with that famous tennis player in Las Vegas, Nevada. You see, he had a bad habit of gambling.

Next I see Linda Pittard. Although she is married now, she still is a soda jerk. She is known world-wide for her pecan sundaes.

Next I see a man with a big, white handkerchief, Wade Rehm. He has always carried this handkerchief because when he doesn't get his way it makes him unhappy (especially in English IV).

Next time I see Byron Rowe.

As always he is wrapped up (in white tape). Ever since his last year in high school he has worn white tape. There is really no reason for this, it is just a habit.

Next I see Gary Sudderth. He no longer works at the Tile Plant because after seventeen years of employment, he owns it. His gray hair is not natural and neither is it caused by troubles at the plant or at his home. It is because the tile dust has just become a part of him.

Next I see another person involved in big business, Joyce Townsley. She was made co-owner and manager of the Clover Grill because of her faithful work.

Next I see Leland Williams, the roving photographer. Because of his outstanding ability with cameras, he was made head photographer of Candid Cameras, Inc.

Next I see Charles Hogue, the all-around athlete. He is great in football, basketball, track, tennis and baseball. Of course, he wins by playing with toy machines.

Next I see Joyce Jasper, the Florence Nightingale of modern times. She runs around all day with a needle in her hand hollering "Next Victim."

The next face I see is that of Hermilo Trinidad, the outstanding drummer of Santa Anna High School. He is graduated now and after 18 years has started a career as a drummer. He has proved to be a success because of his wonderful years at Santa Anna High School.

Next I see Bruce Tiner, the scientific genius. He acquired this genius from his high school biology class.

The visions are slowly beginning to fade away. I had been so interested that I didn't even notice the sudden spring shower. The only face I see now is that of my own. That was the last I saw of my former classmates.

SANDRA JEAN DAVIS

On July 12, 1946 in the Sealy Hospital at Santa Anna, Texas, a baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alton B. Davis. They named her Sandra Jean. For about six months, Sandra and her parents lived in Santa Anna. Then, since her father was in the United States Air Force, they moved to Graham, Texas, where he was stationed. From Graham, they went to Waco, Texas, then on to Lampasas, Texas. By this time Sandra was six, and was ready to become a first grader. She and her mother came back to Santa Anna, so she could continue her education uninterrupted by Uncle Sam's wishes. Her father was always fortunate enough to be stationed fairly close, so he came home every weekend.

After Sandra's first and second grade years, she lived both summers in San Angelo. The family planned to move to San Angelo for her third grade year, until her father was sent to Korea.

So it was back to Santa Anna for Sandra and her mother. In the spring of Sandra's fourth grade year, her father passed away. So there were no more moves to be anticipated.

Three years later, Sandra's mother married W. F. Hicks, who had a son, Dale.

Sandra has continued to go to school here in Santa Anna, and is now a senior.

After graduation, she hopes to go to Southwest Texas State College in San Marcos, Texas, where she plans to major in business or English.

CON MEN

HOW TO TURN THE TABLES ON THE WHEELER-DEALERS

(Editor's note: The following article is published for information of persons who might be tempted to take chances with get-rich-quick schemes, presented by confidence men, who use various methods to swindle the public through the sale of worthless securities. It seems this is at its peak in the Spring of each year. We urge you to read the article carefully and take heed before investing in some get-rich-quick deal.)

BY SAM WEINER

Houston Post Business Editor
Wheeler-dealers are clever, but there is an easy way to turn the tables on them.

Like most other thieves, wheeler-dealers prefer to conduct their business under the cover of darkness.

Let in a crack of daylight, and the wheeler-dealers begin to squirm.

Turn the harsh glare of a spotlight on their legitimate-looking investment schemes and the con men will burn up the roads heading for the nearest airport.

So it's easy to stop them cold. All you have to do is pick up the telephone and call the State Securities Board in Austin.

'Have To Trust Me'

"Some people call us, but not nearly enough do," says William M. King, state securities commissioner.

A legitimate businessman should have no qualms about your checking him out with the securities board. He expects it. Wheeler-dealers, though, can come up with carloads of excuses for your not calling the securities board, or anyone else, about their transactions. That, in itself, often be the tipoff.

The wheeler-dealer, who may already have created a good impression on you, often appears to have his feelings hurt when you start to call the securities board.

"You have to trust me," he says, his voice downcast. "You have to have confidence in me."

"That," says Commissioner King, "is where the term, con man, came from."

Listen to the soothing voice of the wheeler-dealer and he'll take you for every dime you've got.

No License — No Deal
But invest a dollar or two in a telephone call to Austin and you can save, rather than lose, your lifetime savings.

That's King's advice. The State Securities Board will tell you right away, without charge, whether the deal being offered you is honest or crooked.

Before anyone can sell you a security in Texas he must have a license from the State Securities Board. He must also be able to produce his license identification card.

Con men don't have such licenses for the simple reason that their schemes are as crooked as a barrel of snakes and the State Securities Board will not issue licenses to them.

So, if a wheeler-dealer offers you an enticing deal, check on his license.

No license, no deal. Better yet, call the State Securities Board in Austin and check on him.

All Aren't Gilt-Edged

A con man may try to convince you that the deal he is offering you does not involve securities and therefore isn't subject to regulation by the State Securities Board.

Actually, however, there is a long list of things which don't sound like securities — but which, under Texas law, are.

Besides the stocks, bonds, notes, debentures and other types of IOUs, there are investment contracts, interests in oil, gas or other minerals, any type of commercial paper, certificates in profit sharing or other participation agreements, and others.

"All securities don't have a gilt-edge," says Commissioner King.

Some times the con man's pitch is in written form, sometimes oral, sometimes a combination of both.

$10,000 Elephant?
He may claim to have a patent on some electronic marvel. He may claim he can guarantee you a high return so that you can set up college educations for your children. He may claim he is letting you become an "insider" on a stock deal.

An important point to remember is: What is the actual value of the thing, or plan, you are buying?

Or, in other words, how much can you re-sell it for?

You may pay $10,000 for an elephant," said Commissioner King, "but you can't get $10,000 for an elephant, unless you sell it to a zoo."

High Rate Interest?
One wheeler-dealer sold thousands of shares in his corporation at a price of about $2 a share in Texas.

Somehow, he forgot to tell investors how much he was paying for his shares in the same corporation.

It was 1 cent a share. The State Securities Board described his profit as "so gross and exorbitant as to be unconscionable."

Another corporation offered debentures which were to pay a high rate of interest, payable at a specified bank.

The State Securities Board checked the bank where the interest was to have been paid

This map of Six Flags Over Texas shows the more than 70 rides, shows and attractions in the 115 acre family recreation center. The 1964 season opened April 18 and will continue through November. and found the information to be false.

The debentures had not been registered by the board. A cease and desist order was issued against the firm.

Another firm, trying to get a license from the State Securities Board, was found to have almost all of its meager assets tied up in a foreign corporation.

The foreign corporation's properties, according to the board, consisted of several mines, "largely water-filled, caved-in, and abandoned for many years."

"We find," the board dryly informed the company, "that the plan of business does not meet the standards of 'fair, just and equitable,' as prescribed by the Texas Securities Act."

He May Tell Truth
The federal government has no such standards. All that it requires is full disclosure.

The full disclosure must be made in the security's prospectus. Before buying a little-known security from anyone you should ask him for a copy of the prospectus and then read it thoroughly.

After all, the prospectus might inform you quite truthfully — fulfilling the requirements of full disclosure — that you will lose all of your money in a month's time if you invest in the security.

Hot Dogs On Moon?
Under federal laws, you can cook up almost any kind of scheme and be registered by the Securities and Exchange Commission — just so you tell the full truth about it in the prospectus.

You could, for instance, set up a corporation which plans to sell hot dogs on the moon.

But the SEC would require you to make a full disclosure of all facts. You would have to note that there has been no landing yet on the moon, that even should there be a landing there, it might be years before commercial enterprises are permitted there.

You would have to disclose that even if you did manage eventually to get transportation to the moon that it might prove to be the worst place in the world — or out of this world — for the hot dog business.

You would have to note that in the unlikely event that the moon has inhabitants, they might dislike either hot dogs or foreign competition for their own hot dog stands.

So long as you disclose all facts and financial data about your proposed venture, the SEC is satisfied. It does not rule on the merits of your proposal.

"The federal government," says Fred Wyrick, attorney in charge of the Houston office of the SEC, "takes the position that if people want to take a financial risk with full knowledge of all facts, then they should be able to do so."

"That," says Wyrick, "is the essence of free enterprise."

Texas, however, looks at it differently. To get a license to sell securities in a business venture in this state, you must not only tell the truth but the venture also has to be "fair, just and equitable" to the people who buy the securities.

The State Securities Board is charged with investigating each proposal and with deciding whether the venture does meet those standards.

If it doesn't, no license is issued. Then the wheeler-dealer can peddle his schemes in Texas only illegally — until he is caught.

Commissioner King believes that full disclosure is beneficial to experienced investors who can read financial balance sheets and who understand business terms and operations.

This, however, isn't enough for the inexperienced investors, he said.

The board's investigators scrutinize a company's financial records. They determine if officers' salaries are too high and if the price which the promoters are paying for their stock is fair in relation to the price the public is paying.

They determine what the firm's markets are, if any; what its earnings are, if any; what its net assets are, if any.

They check to see whether the security itself or the distribution of the security would work a fraud, on the public.

Because of this close scrutiny, some securities which are cleared by the SEC don't get to first base at the State Securities Board at Austin.

Promoters of securities sales (and there are many honest stock promoters as well as a few dishonest ones) do not have to apply to the SEC if they plan to sell their securities only in Texas.

To sell securities in Texas, they must be licensed by the State Securities Board.

Some securities, however, are exempt from regulation by the board.

A few years ago, quite a few were. But a number of companies, including some insurance firms, collapsed, and the state erased the exemptions and made them subject to regulation.

Bank stocks are regulated by the state banking board, and savings and loan institutions are regulated by the state savings and loan commissioner.

Securities listed on major exchanges are exempt from regulation by the Texas board.

Government and municipal securities are also exempt from regulation by the State Securities Board.

Some other securities are also exempt from regulation when they are sold to only 35 entities who are known to each other. There can be no advertising or solicitation to the public on those, however.

King believes that the big question that someone should ask himself when he is approached by a stranger offering him a big return on his money is, "Why is he letting me in on it if he wants to keep it a secret?"

If it were really as good a deal as it is presented to be, the wheeler-dealer could get financial backing at a bank, King said.

The investor, King said, should keep in mind that the higher the return on an investment the higher the risk is.

"You should use the same prudence in investing as you would use in buying anything else of value," he said. "Kick the tires before buying."

Sometimes a wheeler-dealer searches until he finds the dormant charter of an old corporation — one begun in 1895, for instance — with all of the stock having been issued and outstanding before Texas began regulating securities.

The stock would be exempt from regulation — but the wheeler-dealer could still be tripped up, because to sell securities in Texas, he must have a license, and the license is renewable each year.

At times, King said, certain franchises and certain royalties can be considered securities in Texas.

There also have been the so-called "wheel of fortune" companies. These are holding companies that have a variety of other types of concerns under their wing.

Scrutiny might show that none of the ventures has any potential for producing a profit for investors — but the wheeler-dealers do not risk scrutiny. They sell the securities without bothering to get a license.

One of the wheeler-dealers' pet schemes is to let you become one of the "insiders" on some stock they are selling.

"The insiders, though, often are the outsiders," said King. "They get into the deal at as much as 200 times what the promoters are paying for their stock."

Despite all the crooked schemes dreamed up by the wheeler-dealers, however, they constitute only a small part of the overall securities industry in Texas.

"Every time you have a scandal," King said, "you get the feeling that everyone is a crook. It's not so. Ninety-eight percent of people who deal in securities are as honest as they can be."

"We approve more than $1 million in legitimate securities to be sold in Texas, every day."

Tracking down the scheming securities dealers, however, is what takes much of the board's time.

Although they operate under different rules, the State Securities Board and the SEC cooperate with each other in trying to put the con men behind bars, Kind said.

"After all," he noted, "there's enough business to go around."

Ever have your favorite fishing rod smashed by a car door, or trampled by careless feet? Here's how one angler solved the problem.

He purchased a steel steering wheel column at an auto junk lot. He trimmed both ends off smooth, then capped each opening with a small can top. It made a strong yet light fishing rod case.

Many Teen-agers Do Not Have Good Eating Habits

Texas teen-agers, with a record amount of allowance money to spend, are the most undernourished age group in the state, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White revealed recently.

White blamed "jitterbug diets" of hot dogs, soft drinks, and candy bars as the big robbers of proper nutrition.

"With a plentiful supply of the best food available, recent studies show the age group from 13 to 18 years has the worst eating habits of any," Commissioner White said. "They can be characterized as a generation addicted to the 'skipped breakfast', the 'cola and candy lunch' and the 'TV dinner'."

"I think it is astounding that the State of Texas distributed over 27 million dollars in food and services on school lunch programs in the past school year; yet statistics show that our teen-agers, as a group, are sadly undernourished," said White. "It isn't the fault of the school lunch program, however. The food is there for them but the young people have too many temptations to divert their lunch money for other items."

"In view of this, it might be a wise idea for our school systems to ban soft drink and candy dispensing machines from school property," White maintained.

Poor eating habits developed at school and in the home will carry over into adult life and cause us even greater concern for national health in later years, he added.

"It is a sad paradox that we produce a tremendous amount of beef in Texas, yet fully 10 percent of our teenagers are deficient in protein, the important food element in meat," said Commissioner White. "We are a major producer of citrus fruit and yet 20 percent of the young people do not get their required amounts of vitamin C. And though we have a tremendous surplus of milk and dairy products, fully 40 percent of them need more calcium in their diet."

White said a number of schools have removed vending machines from the property in recent months.

"It is vital," he said, "that proper eating habits be encouraged among our young people. The vigor of our young people depends upon what they eat. The record isn't so good, right now."

Selecting Boot Tops

Don't wear excessively high boot tops when unnecessary. The added weight can slow you down perceptibly on an arduous hunt.

Also, they put additional pressure on the tendon back of the ankle.

For usual wear a seven-inch top, or even a pair of high-top shoes, is ample. Use high-top boots only in swampy, snake-infested areas.

Texas Vets and Families Received $371 Million in '63

Veterans and their families in Texas received a total of $371,893,886 in cash benefits and services during the fiscal year of 1963, the Veterans Administration announced today.

Actual distribution of this sum is outlined in the 1963 annual report of the VA, now on sale at the Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

In Texas, compensation for service-connected disabilities and pension for total and permanent non-service-connected disabilities were paid to 164,995 living veterans in the amount of $152,899,314.

Death compensation and pension were paid to the dependents of 61,851 deceased veterans in the amount of $55,011,835.

Certain GI insurance dividend and indemnity payments totaling $47,579,647 were made to veterans and their beneficiaries.

An average of 366 disabled veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict in Texas trained during the year under the vocational rehabilitation act to overcome the handicaps of their disabilities. They received $723,351 in subsistence, tuition, supplies and equipment.

An average of 2,719 veterans trained during the year under the World War II and Korean GI Bills. They received $3,690,185 in cash allowances.

The remainder of cash benefits, service and other VA expenditures in Texas during the year totaled $115,679,739. This included war orphans' educational allowances, hospitalization, loan guarantees and direct loan programs, automobiles for certain disabled veterans, wheel chair homes for the seriously disabled, administrative costs and miscellaneous benefits.

LOOKING OUTDOORS

College Station — Young men training at Texas A & M University to become game wardens were taken behind the fish hatchery scenes in a lecture by Harmon Henderson, superintendent of the San Marcos State Fish Hatchery. He described a recent scientific conquest in the adaptation of a solution to control bothersome crayfish without harming the fish.

J.E. PEAVY, M.D.
Commissioner of Health

Austin — If the warm spring weather has drawn you out to work in the yard, incited you to start a fertilizing project, or inspired you to plant a garden, and you haven't had a tetanus immunization you are, in fact, giving tetanus an open invitation.

Tetanus, alias lockjaw, is no respecter of persons. A long-time gardening enthusiast learned that lesson the hard way. Her flower beds were the prettiest for miles around.

For years she fed her camellias, pruned her roses and weeded the beds just so. Last year the gardens were the prettiest ever. She spread barnyard manure, as well as commercial fertilizer, over the yard. She didn't spare the water, and lovingly cared for the plants herself.

To protect her hands and manicured nails she wore work gloves, and when mosquitos were about she used insect repellent. But she didn't protect herself against the dread invader — tetanus.

This year when gardening time came... when tiny sprigs of green began to pop up out of the earth and buds began to appear on the bushes, she wasn't there to tend her plants. You see, she died of tetanus.

Tetanus is a killer. Even when treatment is started almost immediately, about one-third of the victims die anyway.

Fortunately, there is an effective and safe immunization procedure against this disease. But an initial series of tetanus inoculations won't help if given after an injury. A booster will do, if you've had initial protection. Otherwise, only a horse serum, which is hazardous itself, must be used.

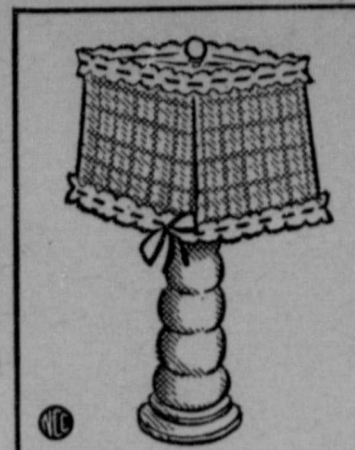

Spores of the bacteria which cause tetanus are almost everywhere. They are found in soil, street dust and animal droppings, particularly in manured soil. A scratch, cut or open sore may allow some of the unseen spores to enter the body.

Once inside the body these tough spores turn into a form of tetanus germs that may secrete a powerful toxin — or poison. One-fourth teaspoonful of this toxin is enough to kill 100,000 people. In humans, the toxin causes muscle spasms, convulsions and, frequently, death. The label "lockjaw" refers to a spasm of the jaw muscle which clamps the jaw shut.

Unless you have had a basic tetanus immunization in the armed services or from your family doctor, you must do so before injury to be protected.

The Rio Grande River rises at the foot of the Continental Divide in Southern Colorado and flows through New Mexico to enter Texas near El Paso.

Two Revisions In Park Rules

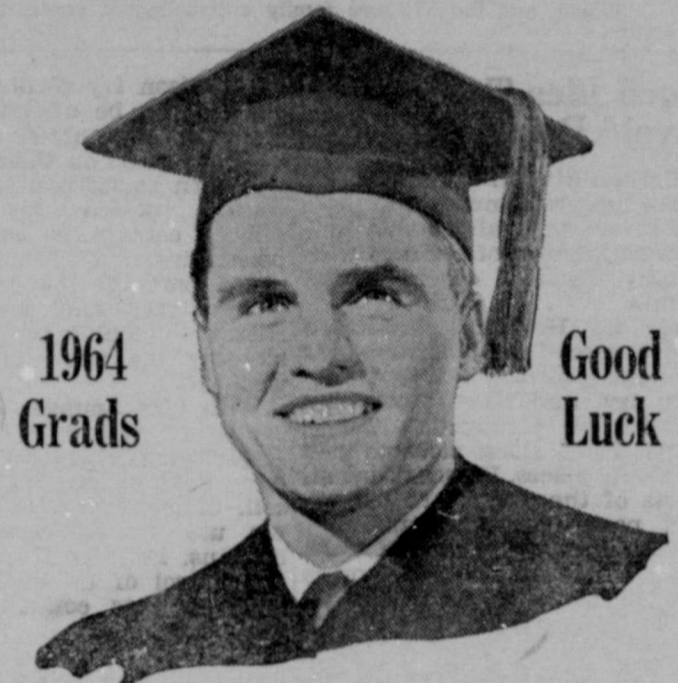

Austin — Two key regulations for state parks have been revised according to J. Weldon Watson, executive director of the Parks and Wildlife Department.

The new regulations, effective April 1, will permit camping and shelter occupancy for a 14-day limit during the regular park season between May 1 and September 15.

Radios, recorded music and musical instruments will be subject to a 10 p.m. curfew in picnic, camping, shelter and other overnight facility areas of the parks; however, they may be permitted in the concession buildings and immediate concession areas until 11 p.m.

"Our new regulations, which conform generally with those in national parks, have been well received by the public," said Watson.

THOUGHTS OF THE FUTURE

Every man must think of his future in this age of competition and world crisis; he must plan and prepare. Your graduation is the first step, so it may be well to remember the words of Plato: "The direction in which education starts a man will determine his future life." We wish you well and urge you to further study.

Guests to Six Flags Over Texas are continually surrounded by unlimited vehicles of entertainment. The Happy Motoring Freeway gives visitors an opportunity to drive peppy sports cars around a winding track, while the Astrolift transports visitors overhead from the modern U.S.A. area to the Texas section, 55 feet over the park. In the background is the Sky Hook, with its dual baskets which carries guests up to a height of 155 feet for a spectacular aerial view of Dallas and Fort Worth, and the 115-acre family entertainment center below.

Good Idea To Avoid Poison Ivy

College Station — Every year many people unnecessarily suffer severe and painful skin irritations because of contact with poison ivy and other related plants.

G. O. Hoffman, Extension range specialist at Texas A&M University points out that poison ivy and poison oak are widespread throughout Texas, particularly along streams and in shady places. He says that all parts of the plants are poisonous, particularly the sap.

Only a small amount of toxin from the blisters on a person is needed to cause inflammation to be transferred from one person to another. Don't be fooled by the idea that burning the plants will serve as a protective measure, for the toxin may also be spread in smoke.

Hoffman offers these suggestions for preventing of poisoning by the plant. Take particular care not to come in contact with poison ivy plants. Neither should pets be allowed to run through the plants as toxin can be transferred on their feet. Do not burn leaves and trash that contain poison ivy plants. Should contact be made with poison ivy, wash the contaminated parts of the body thoroughly with soap and water. Neither should contaminated clothing be worn until it is washed.

With care, ammate will satisfactorily control all growth forms of poison ivy without danger to other plants or the soil. The chemical is also safe for use around animals and humans. For more information on control of the plant, Hoffman suggests contacting your county agent.

Will Your Chicken Lay a Golden Egg?

Start a 4-H poultry project and find out

Shown here are starting salaries and potential earnings in five of the poultry sciences

The 4-H Club members enrolled in a poultry program soon learn that to raise even a small flock successfully requires some knowledge of the poultry sciences related to feeds, breeds, disease control and production.

They get this information from extension poultry bulletins, from the local 4-H Club leader and from the extension worker. And applying what they learn often produces the "golden egg" that discloses a future career.

Project Determines Career

High school students say that experience gained in tending a flock of birds determined their choice of college courses to prepare them for a career in the poultry industry.

The $6 billion industry in the United States involves scores of specialized fields such as engineering, genetics, nutrition, pharmaceuticals, and large-scale production. And, according to a recent survey made by the Western Poultry Congress, there is a shortage of college trained young people to fill these jobs.

Among 500 commercial firms surveyed recently, the lowest starting salary for college graduates was $5,000 (see illustration above) and potential earnings over $30,000.

Jobs Go Begging

What's more, the survey reveals that in one year less than 100 students were graduated with a bachelor's degree in poultry science. There were more than 250 jobs waiting to be filled.

One prospective employer, Heisdorf & Nelson Farms, Inc., helps to get 4-H'ers started in a poultry project, and offers incentive awards along the way.

Through arrangements made with the National 4-H Service Committee and the Cooperative Extension Service, the firm annually provides six national $500 college scholarships, educational trips to the National 4-H Club Congress and medals for high ranking poultry members in the county.

Statistics forecast that many boys and girls will leave the farm to earn a living elsewhere. There appears to be a golden egg in the poultry industry.

Water Sports Can Be Safe

College Station — Water sports are popular in America. Some 80 million Americans are participants. But before the summer is over more than 6,000 will not be around to enjoy life unless they follow water safety rules, points out Wayne Keese, a Texas A&M University agricultural engineer who does a lot of work in the farm and home safety field.

Drownings, he explains, accounts for more than 6,000 fatalities each year in the nation and ranks fourth among the major death causing accidents. And, he emphasizes, the number of one-year olds leads all other age groups in the number of fatalities. Small children should never be permitted to play around water unless closely supervised.

About a third of the drownings occur while people are swimming or playing in the water and the other two-thirds result from falls into the water from docks, bridges or shores or while the person is fishing, boating or is engaging in non-swimming activities, says Keese.

A few simple rules could prevent many of the fatal accidents and the first rule, according to the engineer, is to know how to swim if you plan to engage in any type of water sport or activity. Learn to float, he adds, so you can rest in the water. Know the area in which you swim. Swim with others and never alone. Learn how to give mouth-to-mouth respiration. If you are a novice at swimming, don't get in water over your head and don't go into deep water after dark.

Never engage in rough play in the water nor stay in the water during an electrical storm. Use the buddy system when swimming with groups and always wear a life preserver when boating or skiing, advises Keese.

If you have a farm pond, make it safe for swimming. Mark the swimming areas and post safety rules. Provide life saving devices such as a ring buoy, a long pole and ropes and it's a good idea to mark danger points such as stumps or sharp rocks, he says. Swimming, he adds, is one of the healthiest forms of outdoor recreation and by following common sense rules of safety can also be one of the most enjoyable.

"Your Family Store In Coleman"

GLEN WILMAN GILBREATH

On April 21, 1946, a boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gilbreath in the Coleman Hospital. He was named Glenn Wilman Gilbreath.

At the age of six, he entered the first grade in the Santa Anna Elementary School. While in the fifth grade, he joined the band and began trying to play the trombone. At first he wasn't very successful, but later in the seventh grade he made it to the senior band and the stage band. Also, Glenn was president of the eighth grade class and had many difficulties with the banquet and graduation exercises.

After graduating from the eighth grade, Glenn entered high school as a freshman. During this year of hazing he was a member of the Student Council, All-District and All-Region Band and received the Scholarship medal. He was also a member of the F.F.A.

As a sophomore Glenn again received the scholarship medal and was a member of the All-District and All-Region Band.

When Glenn entered the junior class, he was elected President. The headaches this job brought on were unending. After struggling through the Junior-Senior Banquet, Glenn found that he had again won the Scholarship Medal and was again a member of the All-District and All-Region Band. Also, he was chosen to attend the Nuclear Science Symposium at Texas University that summer.

Being elected as runner-up to the most outstanding band member at McMurry Summer Band School was another honor.

As Glenn became a senior, he entered as a member of the Beta Club. Also he again became a member of the All-District Band. During this year, Glenn played basketball and received his second letter.

Glenn's future plans are to enter Texas Tech to major in either math or science.

GARY VON SUDDERTH

Gary Von Sudderth was born in Grand Prairie, Texas on January 28, 1946. In 1951, he moved to Santa Anna and lived on a farm outside of town with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Turney. Gary has attended school at Santa Anna since the first grade. He lettered in football and track two years in Junior High School.

Gary ran track two years and played football three years in high school. He was a two-year letterman in football. He was a member of the F.F.A. two years and a charter member of the F.T.A.

Gary plans to attend college, but is undecided as to where.

Armour Co. Gets Trademark on Texas Cut Steak

Houston (Special) — The trademark TEXAS CUT STEAK has been granted to Armour and Company for the rib steak created in its Houston facility on Rankin Road and introduced throughout Texas in the past year, Bill Bass, general manager, announced Saturday.

The trade name has been registered in the name of Armour and Company in the Principal Register of the United States Patent Office under the Trademark Act of 1946 (Lanham Act) and the company has been granted exclusive use of the trademark for a period of 20 years, Bass stated.

The TEXAS CUT STEAK is produced from quality rib sections, aged 21 days under controlled conditions and so far its marketing has been confined to hotels, motels, private clubs and institutions.

It was brought into being, the Armour official explained, as a result of the growing and expanding Texas feed lot operation which in recent years has supplanted to a great extent the detour of native Texas beef to northern feed lots.

"It proved once and for all that native Texas beef can be fed and finished in Texas feed lots in the same quality that has been achieved in feed lots in other sections of the country," Bass said.

In the past 12 months public approval of the quality cut steaks has been such that more than 20,000 have been requested and served at most of the larger conventions, dinners and public functions held in Houston's top hotels, he added.

Changing Agriculture

College Station — How times have changed! Not too long ago, when you thought of the agricultural industry, you thought of the farmer. Kenneth Wolfe, Extension economist-agribusiness, points out that today, the agricultural industry is a network of interdependence. In fact, of each 10 Texans employed, four are in agriculture; but three of the four are off the farm.

On one side of the farmer and rancher, Wolf explains, are such businesses as chemical, farm equipment, fertilizer, financial, utility and many others. Each year, in Texas, they supply agricultural producers with $1.8 billion worth of things needed to grow the products. The products grown are then sold for about $2.4 billion.

On the other side of the farmer and rancher, he adds, are those businesses engaged in marketing the product. A few of these are storage warehouses, textile plants, railroads and trucking lines, packing plants, wholesale grocers and supermarkets. These off-farm businesses add about $3.9 billion to the value of the products raised by the farmers and ranchers.

This changing picture of agriculture has resulted in changes not thought possible 30 years ago. In 1930, for example, one farm worker produced enough to feed 10 people. Today he produces enough to feed 28. The average wage earner had to work 60 hours 15 years ago to buy a month's food supply for his family. Today it takes him 38 hours, Wolf says.

Business management in our present agricultural industry has played a major role in making the industry so efficient, believes the economist.

Old Fort At Mexia

Mexia, a thriving little city in Central Texas, Limestone County, fast is becoming a business-minded, industrial center.

This is far removed from its history as an early oilboom town.

You can imagine what happens when an oil strike abruptly changes a town of 4,000 into a town of 50,000. That's what happened to Mexia. But things are stable and settled now.

Another site, with a stormy history, still stands nearby though — Old Fort Parker.

The Parker's young daughter, Cynthia Ann, was kidnapped by the Comanche Indians. She lived with them nearly 24 years and became the mother of Quannah Parker, one of the most noted Comanche warrior leaders.

Cynthia was recaptured by the whites but never was happy. She died in 1864, four years after her return to live in the white man's world.

Farmers Able To Harvest Crops Up To 20% Faster In 1964

This cell-type separating grate in 1964 Combines will help farmers harvest up to 20% faster.

A major engineering breakthrough in the design of combines will make it possible for a farmer to step up his harvesting capacity as much as 20 per cent in 1964 without buying a bigger model combine.

Engineers at the John Deere Harvester Works in East Moline, after years of intensive research, have developed a cell-type separating grate which solves a problem that has plagued harvesting operations since the advent of power farming.

The power to move through fields faster has been available, but farmers have had to throttle down because grain loss climbed sharply as ground speed was increased. If farmers wanted to harvest their crops faster, they had to invest in bigger model combines.

With the new cell-type grate, farmers will be able to move at faster ground speeds without suffering higher grain losses. The harvesting capacity of every size of combine—from the smallest pull-type drawn by a tractor to the largest self-propelled—will be stepped up as much as 20 per cent.

The grate, like most inventions, is relatively simple. But its development required intensive studies of the functioning of a combine.

As a combine gathers crops, it feeds them between a threshing cylinder and a grate, called a concave because of its shape. This separates up to 90 per cent of the grain from the straw and husks. The remaining grain slides with the straw across flexible rods, called finger extensions, onto straw walkers. As the straw is "walked" out of the combine, the action is designed to separate the remaining grain.

Through extensive tests of each of these actions, John Deere engineers found that as the ground speed of the combine was increased, the straw moved across the walkers faster and more grain was lost.

They concluded the easiest solution was to separate more of the grain before it reached the straw walker area. They replaced the flexible finger extensions with a rigid cell-type grate. Now as the straw passes under a beater onto the straw walkers, the grain hits cross bars in the grate and is deflected downward and is saved.

Less grain now reaches the straw walker area, and it is possible to step up ground speeds without suffering higher grain loss.

VA's major research programs include studies into hardening of the arteries, various types of heart diseases, strokes and similar seizures, lung diseases including the increasingly prevalent emphysema, and cancer.

Pointing out that President Johnson has declared May to be Senior Citizens Month, VA notes there are 20 living veterans of the Indian Wars and 22,000 veterans of the Spanish-American War that took place 66 years ago.

Nearly 2,280,000 veterans of World War I are 65 years of age and older — in fact, their median age is 68-plus.

Each day, some 1,000 Americans join the ranks of our Senior Citizens. By 1970, 20 million men and women will be over the age of 65.

More than eight of every 10 persons receiving veterans pensions from the VA is age 65 or older.

One third of all VA hospital beds are occupied by veterans 65 or over.

In addition to operating its 168 hospitals and 67 major outpatient clinics, the VA has 18 domiciliarys, operated for 16,800 members, most of them in older age brackets.

The VA has also developed: Half Way Houses where newly discharged patients can gain confidence to face the world.

Foster homes where veterans can be exposed to normal living.

The VA's nationwide system of 168 hospitals uniquely lends itself to such an approach. Such research is made all the more feasible because many VA hospitals are already intimately affiliated with medical school for research.

A fossil is defined as some evidence of plant or animal life preserved in rock.

One In Each 5 Senior Citizens Is War Veteran

One of every five men in America 65 and over is a veteran of America's wars, the Veterans Administration reported today.

For this reason, the VA is expanding its program of research in aging.

Major emphasis is being placed upon new ideas and new approaches to the many problems which aging and the increasing population of senior citizens present.

The VA is obtaining cooperation of non-VA scientists and physicians known to have important ideas on the subject, by offering them facilities and staff in nearby VA hospitals as "satellite laboratories" in which the VA will serve as a partner in advancing their ideas.

By this means, important concepts may be explored to form the basis of new research in aging.

John S. Gleason Jr., Administrator of Veterans Affairs is deeply interested in the program and serves on the President's Council on Aging with Anthony J. Celebrezze, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; C. Douglas Dillon, Secretary of the Treasury; Orville L. Freeman, Secretary of Agriculture; Luther H. Hodges, Secretary of Commerce; W. Willard

Outer Space Craft And House Have A Great Deal In Common

Techniques and basic material forms currently utilized by the building industry have proven eminently suitable for insulating manned spacecraft used in our space program. These facts were revealed in a report issued recently by Johns-Manville, whose unique position in the building industry and as a primary developer and supplier of thermal insulations used in our manned spacecraft projects allowed the comparisons to be made.

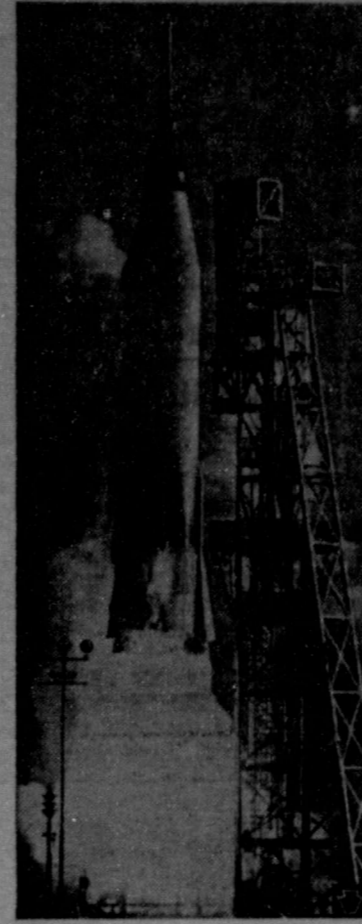

Oddly enough, reports E. F. Briggs, Manager for J-M's Aerospace Products Group, comparing a house and a spacecraft is not as ridiculous as it seems at first glance. Structurally, a spacecraft is a one-room house with a picture window. While the view is a bit unusual, and getting in and out somewhat more difficult, the space "house" and the earth house perform the same function — protection of occupants from the outside environment.

True, the outside environment in space is a bit more hostile than that experienced on the ground. As a result, the air conditioning and plumbing, as well as the caulking and weather stripping, are somewhat more elaborate in our spacecraft than in a house. However, and this is where the comparison really applies, the basic structures enjoy a good number of similarities, which space engineers have recognized and applied.

Both spacecraft and house are completely enclosed units whose walls are composed of thin outer and inner skins separated and supported by structural members to give needed strength. In the case of the house these members are called beams, while in the spacecraft they are called ribs. In both house and spacecraft, a fluffy fibrous type of insulation is placed between these structural members to protect the interior from excessive cold or heat on the outside, as well as cut down on noise transmission through the walls.

Where plumbing or piping serving the interior lies close to the outside surface, unprotected by other insulation, it is covered with special pipe insulation, in both the earth and space "house." Further, the outsides of both houses and spacecraft are covered with shingles, wood or asbestos-cement on houses and metal on spacecraft.

Naturally, the Johns-Manville report notes, space insulations are more efficient and lighter in weight than those used around the home, as well as more expensive. But the fact must be accepted that without the years of research and development by those concerned with residential and industrial insulations, many of the materials and techniques being used in our space program would have required a great deal more investment in time and money for their development.

Further, it is gratifying to learn that in the same way the space program has been assisted by building technology, space technology is assisting the development of improved building materials. A case in point is the development by J-M of a new high temperature refractory lining for residential oil burners that is based on a ceramic felt insulation used on our spacecraft for protection during orbital flights. The material, called Cera Form, considerably reduces the cost of home heating, as well as eliminating much of the soot and noise commonly associated with oil heating systems.

Beef Stands At Top Of May Plentiful Foods

College Station — "Flowers that bloom in the spring, trade" are being joined by an abundance of beef for tasty menu attractions.

Beef heads the list of May plentiful foods, reports the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The five-item list also points to huge supplies of turkeys, canned ripe olives, salad oils, milk and all dairy foods.

All cuts and grades of beef will be plentiful all month, as the cattle inventory on farms stands at the peak of a six-year buildup. Beef output the first two months of this year was 9 percent higher than a year earlier.

So watch for special values in beef as retailers provide attractive displays and prices. May will be an excellent time to serve beef often and generously. The Service suggests starting the outdoor barbecue season with beef.

Spring salads will be enhanced by generous use of salad oils, dressings and canned ripe olives. Supplies are huge.

Count on turkeys, too, to provide the light touch to spring days. Marketings in May will run about one-fourth greater than a year ago. March storage holdings were up 12 million pounds.

Milk and all the delicious dairy foods will be abundant as production reaches toward its early-summer peak. In January and February, milk output ran slightly higher than a year earlier.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service compiles the list of monthly plentiful foods as a guide for consumer buying. Items listed usually are available in a wide choice of quality at attractive prices.

HEALTH AND SAFETY TIPS FROM THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSN.

Goiter

Goiter is an enlargement of the thyroid gland in the neck. It is usually caused by lack of iodine in the diet.

In the United States in recent years goiter has been greatly reduced by the simple expedient of adding a small amount of iodine to common table salt. In some areas of the country, such as the Great Lakes region, there is very little natural iodine in plants and water. In these areas people are likely to develop goiter unless they add iodine to the diet. The body needs very little iodine, but without a sufficient amount, the thyroid gland cannot produce a necessary substance called thyroxin. The gland thus enlarges in an effort to make up the deficit. As the enlargement continues the neck increases in size, and sometimes becomes quite large and disfiguring, as well as sometimes causing protruding eyes, increased sweating or nervousness.

Although lack of iodine is the cause of simple goiter, there are other things that can cause goiter growth, such as improper functioning of the thyroid gland or inflammation. Also, there's always the chance that the enlargement signals cancer of the thyroid.

Because of the possibility that something other than iodine deficiency is at fault, self-diagnosis and treatment of goiter can be dangerous. Your doctor will find out the true cause and will carry out the proper treatment.

If goiter is treated early, it will sometimes shrink or disappear, through proper medications. In some cases, surgical removal may be recommended, or some form of radiation may be used.

Despite iodine's importance as a preventive, it usually won't make a goiter go away once it has started.

Any swelling in the neck that might be goiter should have prompt medical attention.

It's the Law in TEXAS

NEW PROVISIONS IN DRIVER SAFETY RESPONSIBILITY LAW

To make the Texas Safety Responsibility Law as effective as possible, the 1963 Legislature enacted several amendments. The strengthened law became effective January 1, 1964.

To protect your driver's license and motor vehicle registration, you should know the following facts about this new law:

In any accident in which a person is killed or injured or where there is damage to the property of any one person to an apparent extent of at least $25 or more, the operator of every motor vehicle involved is required within 10 days to report the accident in writing to the Texas Department of Public Safety. If the accident involved death, personal injury or damage to one person's property of at least $100, the accident then comes under the Safety Responsibility Act and its requirements must be met. Accident report forms can be obtained from any law enforcement officer.

The Department of Public Safety is required by the new law to suspend the driver licenses and all motor vehicle registration plates of both the operator and owner of vehicles involved in an accident coming under the Safety Responsibility Law, UNLESS:

Evidence of liability insurance coverage in the minimum amounts of $10,000 where one person was injured or killed, $20,000 where more than one and $5,000 for property damage is reported to the Department of Public Safety, OR a release signed by damaged or injured persons is filed with the Department of Public Safety. Other evidence of financial responsibility is covered by the new act. In addition, the operator and owner must file proof of financial responsibility for the future and maintain it for five years.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

INFORMATION FOR VETERANS

Questions & Answers

Q — When a veteran is to be admitted to a VA domiciliary, will the VA pay his travel there?

A — Yes, as a rule, for the initial admission.

Q — Is it true that those servicemen who hold on to their GI insurance in-service premium waiver may be depriving their dependents of certain benefits?

A — In some cases, keeping the in-service premium waiver could be detrimental to the interests of dependents should they become beneficiaries. They would be unable to receive Dependency and Indemnity Compensation under the law if the insured died with the waiver in effect. Since it differs for individual cases, each serviceman should check to see how his family will be affected.

The Myth Of Oyster "R" Months

College Station — This may come as a shock to many Americans. The 'myth' or belief that oysters shouldn't be eaten in any month that doesn't have an "R" in its name is fiction, says Wallace Klussmann, wildlife specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A recent research report released by the U. S. Department of Interior's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries shows the 'myth' or belief has no scientific basis. In fact, May and June are cited as the best two months for dining on the mollusks.

Oysters are fatter and taste better in the spring because they are storing glycogen — an animal starch — in preparation for the summer spawning season, says Klussmann. During the summer and early fall, oysters become thinner, their nectar watery and their flavor declines, he explains. The oyster industry would benefit, according to the report, if the peak of the oyster harvest was changed from fall to late spring. It was pointed out that oyster mortality is usually heaviest in summer with losses ranging from 25 to 50 percent. An earlier harvest could therefore result in the harvest of more bushels of oysters from a given area.

But, the specialist said, the Bureau doesn't expect any sudden change in harvest tradition until more people ask for oysters on the menu in "Ray, Rune, Jury and August."

Good Buys Still Found In Beef

College Station — Most cuts of beef remain low in price, particularly the good and choice grades of beef now coming to market in large volume, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist, says.

Prices on round, sirloin, porterhouse and T-bone steaks have advanced slightly due to heavy demand. Good buys will be found on chuck roasts and steaks.

Chicken is plentiful and the price makes it easy on the food budget. Fryers have attractive price tags, and the birds can be prepared in many delicious dishes.

Egg prices remain about the same as a week ago, with large eggs the best buy by weight.

In the vegetable line, fresh asparagus is still available. Other good choices are green beans, carrots, cabbage, mustard, collards, fresh onions, radishes and lettuce. Cauliflower, broccoli and eggplant are moderately priced choices.

Strawberry prices and quality continue to fluctuate as weather conditions vary in production areas. Berries are being featured in some stores, however.

If you need to keep a close rein on your budget, try cheese. It's a high quality protein food at moderate to low price levels. Don't overlook plenty of milk for each member of the family, too.

Palmetto palms are native to most of southern Texas.

Decorate with applique, monogram or other trim to match tone.
