

Miss Lena Boyd, of Santa Anna, who marked her 82nd birthday recently, claims the distinction of being the oldest native of Santa Anna now living here.

Miss Boyd, who lives on South Crockett Street, was born in a log cabin situated on the farm presently owned by Chap Eeds, in 1883, three years before Santa Anna itself became a reality along the new Santa Fe Railroad tracks.

200

At the time of Miss Boyd's birth, the community was known as The Gap, and was located, logically enough, in the gap be-tween the east and west segments of Santa Anna Mountain.

The log cabin in which Miss Boyd first saw the light of day was located about one and one half miles south of The Gap, on the southeast corner of what is now the Eeds farm. Miss Boyd's father purchased the place approximately one year before her birth from Frank and Miles Wofford, who had been using the cabin to keep their sheep in to protect them from the many coyotes that were then a part of the population hereabouts.

The Texan happened to be sitting next to a native of Ken-tucky on the airline flight, and he kept up a running commen-tary about the Lone Star State— it had the biggest, best, and most of anything and everything.

Finally the Kentuckian could take it no longer. "We have some important things in my state," he said. Seeking to impress the Texan, he pointed out that there was enough gold in Fort Knox, in Kentucky, to build a fence of solid gold one foot thick and three feet high clear around the state of Texas.

The Texan seemed properly impressed, and thought about that for a while. Finally he remarked, "Tell you what, son. You all go ahead and build that there fence, and if we like it, we'll buy it!'

We had some happy hounds over the weekend. We took a half dozen of our better field trial dogs out for a run Saturday cottontails in one day than we turkey, 32 mph. have seen in all the time we have been here before.

By the way, we are wanting to buy some cottontails, live and unharmed (see our ad in the classified section of this paper). We need these rabbits to use in training our young beagles. Since a beagle seldom catches sight of the rabbit, doing the trailing by scent, it is sometimes difficult to get a beginning hound to understand just what it is he is supposed to be trailing (some of our young hounds ran a good trail recently, finally cornered their quarry under a big mesquite tree-and it turned out to be a very large and very smelly skunk). We use the captured rabbits to show the young dogs just what it is they are hunting. With the dogs on a leash, we show them the rabbit, which they can not get to, being tied. Then we turn the rabbit loose, letting the dogs watch it until it is out of sight in the brush. Then we turn the dogs loose, and since they cannot trail the rabbit by sight, and since they now know what a rabbit smells like, they learn to trail by scent. At least they are supposed to.

The rabbit is in no danger, since it can easily outrun the hounds, particularly the young ones. Catching the rabbit is not the purpose in field trial competition, but rather the dogs are judged on how well they trail, with certain errors or faults in the method of trailing counting off points. In fact, in more than four years of field trial beagling, both in trials and in our own training runs, we have seen only one rabbit caught, and that was dumb bunny that made a rong turn during a field trial nd got trapped. Beaglers do heir best to see to it that nothing happens to the rabbits, ince the more bunnies there are the better the hunting conditions for the hounds.

So if you have any live wild cottontails you would like to sell, give us a call.

EDITORIAL

Why Editorials?

Why do newspapers carry editorials?

This is a good question if you are responsible for putting out a newspaper, and it is a good question if you read newspapers.

What are editorials all about anyway? What is their purpose? What do they hope to accomplish?

A newspaper prints editorials, at least this newspaper does, because it is concerned with the wellbeing of the citizens of its community. And because things are never as good as they could be, that there will always be room for improvement.

It would be much easier, particularly on the editor's ulcers, to foregoe editorials altogether, to fill this space with some "canned" material sent from some newspaper feature syndicate, like how to crochet lace doilies or the proper care and feed of the domestic goldfish.

But we feel that we would be failing to live up to our responsibility to our readers, to our community, and to our profession, if we took this easy way out. Be sure, it costs us to print editorials here. Some people feel that a newspaper should state only opinions that agree with theirs, and if this turns out not to be the case, these people pull their advertising out of the paper. Of course, this is a form of economic censorship, an attempt to subvert the freedom of the press, but these people do not see it that way.

Of course, most intelligent businessmen realize that a newspaper exists not to always agree with their personal opinions, but to help get their advertising before the greatest number of readers. And they also realize that a newspaper that has the courage of its convictions, that will take a stand for what it believes, is respected and read, which means that their advertisement is read.

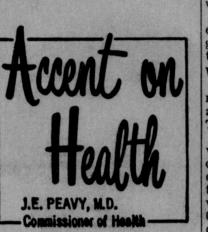

None of us likes a person who is too wishy-washy to stand up for anything. The same is true of a newspaper.

And remember this: The purpose of an editorial is to get the people to think. The man who writes an editorial is not so conceited as to believe that he has the answer to every problem, or even to most of them. Instead, he is concerned with pointing out the fact that problems do exist, and with saying, "this is what we think might be a solution to this problem." He knows that if he can get more than 1,000 readers thinking about the same problem, many of them will come up with solutions better than any he ber 7, 1941), and the essentials warning, without pain. might suggest. And this is the purpose of editorials, to point out of geography (that Missouri is

A $3,600,000,000 budget providing for expanded services in every area of state government and affecting every citizen. Record improvement in higher education, including creation of the powerful coordinating board for Texas colleges and universities

A $101,000,000 salary raise for school teachers, $70,000,000 of which will be paid by the state. A sweeping overhaul in the en-tire system of state mental hospital and tuberculosis control administration.

Major public welfare expan-sions, including a proposed constitutional amendment to permit full state participation in the new Federal medical care program for the aged, blind, and disabled. A provision of the amendment would qualify noncitizens who have lived in the state for 25 years or more.

Overhaul and extension of the state's program for water con-trol and development.

If voters approve constitutional amendment, the senate will be enlarged from 31 to 39 members and terms of the governor and other statewide-elected officials now limited to two years, as well as those of state representatives, will be extended to four years.. Governor John Connally emerged as the most powerful governor in modern Texas history.

WHAT IT WILL COST

Despite its record achievements, the 59th session handed a relatively modest tax bill to Texas citizens.

Cigarette smokers will bear virtually the entire share of the cost. Tax was increased from eight to 11 cents a pack-the nation's 5th highest state rate. This will raise $70,000,000 to $73,400,-000 in new money during the coming biennum.

A one time gain of $6,000,000 will be achieved by setting of a A disease called glaucoma 15 months-from-date-of-death heritance tax.

Teacher pay raise will also require financing at the local level. Present estimate is that the owner of a $15,000 home will pay $2.52 more in annual property taxes to

CENTER PROPOSED

McKinney Veterans Hospital would be used as a women's job corps center, if applications of Texas Education is granted.

Request was made contingent on closing of the hospital facility. However, Congressman Ray Roberts of McKinney is appealing decision to close the hospital. Application calls for center with initial 600 enrollees and a staff of 275. A grant of $3,600,-000 is sought for program begin-ning August 1, with average participation of 500 enrollees per month.

Hospital has 100 acres of land and 100 buildings.

PRESS RIGHT UPHELD

A conference committee report on the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which contained the nation's toughest restrictions on pretrial news coverage, was rejected.

Revised information restriction states:

"It is the duty of the trial court, the attorney representing the state, the attorney representing the accused, and all peace officers to so conduct themselves as to assure to the defendant a fair trial upon the presumption of inocence and at the same time afford the public the benefits of a free press.

A legislative resolution directs a study in the area of informa-tion on pretrial activities. NEW COLLEGES ASKED Petitions have been submitted to the State Board of Education for creation of new junior colleges in Scurry, Bee, Maverick, Tarrant and McLennan counties. Board has set hearings on the petitions for June 5.

Increase in applications is beleived due to more state and Federal aid to junior colleges and requests by the legislature that ior colleges undertake expanded programs in academic and techjunior colleges undertake expanded programs in academic and technical-vocational fields. SHORT CUT TO JUSTICE

A's car, parked on a slope with the brakes off, rolls downhill and smashes into B's car. To collect damages in court, does B have to prove the law of gravity? Of course not. If a person had to prove every single fact in his case, lawsuits would last forever and a day. As a short cut to justice, the law allows a court to "take judicial notice" of the obvious. That is, a court may take some facts for granted even if they are not proved in the usual manner.

But which facts are so obvious as not to need proof? What do we know for sure?

"Those who are wise men shall shine like the brightness of the firmament; and those who turn many to righteousness, like the stars for ever and ever."—Daniel 12:3, (RSV)

My doorbell rang and when I answered it, a cleareyed, brightfaced boy looked up at me and said with pride in his voice, "I represent my father." He told me what his father's business was and how he would like to serve me. He did not apologize nor hesitate: his message was clear. How much more should we, children of the heavenly King, make it clear that we represent our Father, and tell others that He would like to claim each heart and life for His own?

Daily, in our work, our neighborhood, on the bus or waiting for it, we meet and talk with many who do not know the Lord. At least some of them are longing for some way to lift them-selves out of their dreary, purposeless existence. Are we keen to make known to them the joy we find in relationship with the Father?

PRAYER

Father, forgive our selfishness, our slowness to share what is the most glorious thing in our lives. May we be sensitive to the needs of others and alert to point to them the way. In the name of Christ, who is the way, the truth, and the life. Amen.

Brownwood sent five pitchers to the mound in an unsuccessful effort to halt the Santa Anna

High points of the game included the hitting of the DeLeon brothers, with Raymond and Alex DeLeon also pounding homeruns; a Brownwood hidden ball trick that caught Parker napping off third base in the sixth inning; and a doubleplay from shortstop to Jimmy Taylor to second baseman Alex DeLeon to first baseman Jim Quinn that erased the first two Brownwood batters in the ninth inning. Parker then struck out the third St. Mary's hitter to end the game.

The Mounties travel to Brownwood next Sunday, June 6, to play a rematch against St. Mary's.
