Point Rows

The following was mimeographed by a Coleman English teacher and given to each member of her class. She said she wanted them to get an idea of the type of things she has to cope with in the papers they turn in. This is supposedly a note from a student to his English teacher:

Dear English Teacher: you have never past me in grammar because you never thought I would learn to write right any how. But at least I've done pretty good in athlaetics and basketball. Well, the other day I finally got to writing the rule's down so I can always study it if they ever slop me mind.

1. Each pronoun agrees with their antecedent
2. Just between you and I, case is important.
3. Verbs has to agree with their subjects.
4. Watch out for irregular verbs which has crope into our language.
5. Don't use no double negatives.
6. A writer mustn't shift your point of view.
7. When dangling, don't use particples.
8. Join clauses good, like a conjunction should
9. Don't write run-on sentences you got to punctuate it.
10. About sentence fragments.
11. In letters themes reports articles and stuff like that we use commas to keep a string of items apart.
12. Don't use commas, which aren't necessary.
- 13 It's important to use aposrophe's right.
14. Don't abbrev.
15. Check to see if you any words out

This boy obviously has a brilliant future ahead of him as a newspaperman.

Speaking of newspapermen, a friend of ours who operates a smalltown weekly was visited by a reporter from a big city daily, who asked, "How can you keep your circulation up in a town where everyone already knows what everyone else is doing?"

To which the weekly editor answered, "They know what everyone's doing, all right, but they read the paper to find out who's been caught at it."

When we were down in Corpus during the Christmas holidays, we ran into an old Marine Corps and newspaper buddy, who gets this paper. He commented that he liked this column, but he wondered where we came with the name of "Pierre Rowe" for that imaginary character we wrote about from time to time. We couldn't convince him that Pierre was for real.

Seriously, we kid Pierre in this column from time to time, for two reasons. In the first place, we know that he can hold his own, and usually gives as good as he gets in the kidding field. And in the second place, we know that he is such a good sport that he will take what we write in the spirit in which it was written, and won't get mad, or sue us for libel, or cancel his subscription, or do some other rash act, like taking after the editor with a buggy whip. (He tried that last week, but he couldn't locate a buggy whip.)

Our beagle hounds were quite perturbed by the snow. We have never seen dogs come quite so close to getting all four feet off of the ground at the same time as those hounds did. They might have known it was impossible, but they were giving it a good try nonetheless.

Driving through the countryside last week, we saw a sight that you could see only in Texas: Prickly pear cactus with snow on it.

We bet those subtropical cactus plants wondered what the dickens was going on!

Appeal Court Upholds City; Rules Election Valid

The Deadline Is Monday

Next Monday is the deadline.

In a very real sense, 300 years of history will go down the drain when January 31 passes without each Texan obtaining a poll tax receipt, if he requires one to be eligible to vote. Some 300 years ago the first settlers came to the wilderness that was the North American continent, braving the dangers of the unknown and unexplored wilderness for the chance to build a society in which the individual was important, and in which he would have a voice in deciding his own destiny and form of government. Many of them died. They felt the risk was worth the goal that they were seeking.

One hundred and eighty years ago, the poorly organized and weak colonies declared their independence from Great Britain, the most powerful nation in the world at that time, because they felt the risk was worth the chance of obtaining true freedom, and they wrote, in their Declaration of Independence, "That to secure these rights, governments are established among men, deriving their just power from the consent of the governed."

Today, millions of people throughout the world would consider it a fantastic privilege to be able to cast a free ballot to select their leaders, and the form of their government. All this is a privilege each of us can enjoy if we care enough to take the small amount of time, and expend the small amount of effort, required to insure ourselves that we will be able to exercise the right of self-determination that has been the goal of men from Plymouth Rock to the jungles of Viet Nam.

Although the Texas poll tax is currently under attack in Federal court, even the judges who are hearing the case have urged Texans to pay their poll taxes this year, since the final ruling in the suit will not be made in time to affect this year's elections.

Among the elections facing the citizens of Santa Anna during 1966 will be the selection of a United States senator, the US representative, state representative, a number of county officials, and three members of the Santa Anna City Council.

For those who find it inconvenient to go to Coleman to obtain the needed poll tax receipt, Billie Guthrie is authorized to issue these receipts here in Santa Anna.

When you come to think about it, $1.75 is a pretty small price to pay for a privilege that many men have paid for with their lives. Isn't it?

Job Corps Opportunities Available To Santa Anna Area Young Men

There are openings for area boys who qualify, in the various Job Corps centers throughout the country, according to R. E. McCrary, manager of the Texas Employment Commission office in Brownwood. At present, he said, there are more than 90 Job Corps conservation centers, usually located in government parks, and spread through 36 states. Each of these conservation centers may have from 100 to 200 enrollees. In addition, there are eight urban Job Corps centers, located in eight states.

To be eligible for the Job Corps, a boy must be between the ages of 17 to 21 years nine months, inclusive. He must have been out of school for at least three months at the time of his application. He must have the desire to become a Job Corps enrollee, and certain requirements concerning need must be met. It must also be shown that he has had difficulty in securing or holding a job.

McCrary pointed out that the education and experience gained by a Job Corps enrollee depends on how long he stays in the Job Corps. The maximum period of enrollment is two years. During this time, the enrollee is furnished all clothing, food, and housing, all medical care, and he receives an adequate amount of spending money. He also accrues monthly an amount of money to be paid him at the end of his enrollment period, and in most cases he may also send an allotment home each month.

Any Santa Anna area boys who are interested and would like more information, may contact the Texas Employment Commission office, in Brownwood, in person, may write to Post Office Box 790, in Brownwood, or may telephone 643-4591, McCrary said.

No April Showers, Rain Record Shows

R. L. (Tucker) Newman has been keeping rainfall records on his place, near Santa Anna, for many years. The totals for 1965 show some interesting and unusual patterns. For instance, the famous April showers were a little late last year. April totalled only .20 of an inch, while the next month, May, was the top month of the year for rain, with 7.85 inches. The honor for being the driest month in 1965 goes to July, which was as dry as possible, with no rainfall at all. Monthly totals are tabulated below:

MONTH	RAIN
January	1.50
February	3.15
March	.50

May	7.85

January 21 Decision Opens Way For Water, Sewer Improvements

The 11th Court of Civil Appeals, in Eastland, returned a ruling upholding the judgement of the 35th District Court, which had declared that the election held in Santa Anna on February 26, 1965 was valid, and that no fraud or grounds for nullifying the results of the election existed. This ruling had been appealed to the Eastland court. Purpose of the election was to okay issuance of $264,000 in bonds to finance additions to the municipal water system and the construction of a modern sewage treatment plant. The City had been informed by state health officials that the present sewage disposal system did not meet minimum state standards and if a new method of sewage treatment and disposal were not voluntarily put into operation by the City, the state would take legal steps forcing the City to comply, as has been done in a number of communities. By following the voluntary route, the City was able to take advantage of a Federal grant that paid part of the costs of the project, was also able to obtain lowest government financing for the bonds, saving more than $50,000 in interest charges. These savings would not have been available had the City waited until it was forced to make the needed improvements.

The bonds carried by a margin of six votes for the water system improvements, and nine votes for the sewer additions, of a total of 325 votes cast.

One month later, to the day, Friday, March 26, 1965, a suit contesting the results of the election was filed in 35th District Court, in Coleman. Originally, 19 persons were listed as plaintiffs in the suit, but 14 of these petitioned the court to have their names removed from the action, for various reasons, leaving only five as plaintiffs: Dan Blake, Lela Campbell, Maggie Culver, Homer Goodgion, and Leland Thompson.

After an all-day hearing, Wednesday, May 19, Judge Joe Dibrrell held that the election was valid. The votes of three persons were taken from the totals, two who had voted for the proposals, and one who had voted against.

On Wednesday, July 21, a petition was filed with the 11th Court of Civil Appeals, appealing the district court ruling. Appellants were the five persons listed as plaintiffs in the original suit. C. D. Bruce and L. A. Welch signed the appeal bond.

The opinion delivered last Friday is seven typewritten pages long. The decision was rendered per curiam, which means that the decision was made by the entire three man court, rather than only one of the judges, as is sometimes the case.

In summarizing the case presented by the appellants, the decision says in part:

"Contestants allege numerous irregularities and illegalities in the holding of the election which they assert were sufficient to vitiate the election or to change the results thereof. Contestants also sought to have the ballot boxes opened for a recount of the ballots."

The Appeals Court decision continues a recap of the case:

"The (district) court after hearing the evidence... held that the election was... legal and valid, that there was no fraud in the manner in which the election was conducted, refused to allow the ballot boxes to be opened, and found that both propositions had lawfully carried."

The Appeals Court, as part of its opinion, stated:

"In our opinion the irregularities and omissions complained of involve statutory provisions which are directory. Article 8.21 of the Code provides that: 'the mere failure of the presiding judge to sign the ballot shall not make any ballot illegal.' It is not shown that any of the irregularities complained of affected or changed the result of the election. The (district) court correctly refused to hold the election void or to order a recount of the ballots."

The opinion states that several findings of fact were made by the 35th District Court, including, among other things, that the election judge correctly affixed his name, or caused it to be affixed, to all ballots; that the votes were properly tallied and counted; that no qualified voter was denied the right to vote; that no person was refused the right to render property for tax purposes; that the stub and ballot boxes were properly sealed and handled; that each election official was properly sworn; that the election officials had properly examined and found each ballot and stub box to be empty prior to the voting; that no person voted because of information improperly received as to the status of the balloting; and other points. The appeals court upheld the district court on all these points.

Conclusions of law found by the district court, based on the facts outlined above were summarized by the appeals court in the following quotation from its opinion:

"That there was no fraud or misconduct in the holding of the said election nor in the casting or tallying of the ballots therein, and that said election was conducted in a fair manner."

"That in the absence of the showing of any fraud or misconduct in the election, and in order to protect secrecy of the ballot no order should be issued ordering the opening of the ballot boxes and the recounting of the votes cast."

"That said election was valid and legally effective and the canvass of the results was correct in declaring that both propositions were affirmatively passed and voted 'for' by a majority of the voters at said election."

In declaring the appeals court's judgement concerning these conclusions, and the appellants' questioning of them, the opinion says:

"After a careful examination of the evidence we are of the opinion appellants' complaints concerning such findings and conclusions are not well taken. We overrule appellants' points contending that the findings of fact are without support in the evidence and are contrary to the great weight and preponderance of the evidence, and overrule appellants' points complaining of the court's conclusions of law."

"We cannot agree with appellants' contention that the court erred in concluding that there was no fraud in holding the election, and that such conclusion is not supported by great weight and preponderance any evidence and is against the evidence. The fact that some directory provisions of the Election Code were not followed by the election officials does not, of itself, show fraud. There was no showing that any of the claimed irregularities affected or changed the result of the election. There was no showing that anyone who was a qualified voter was denied the right to vote...the evidence supports the findings of the court that each vote cast was properly tallied and counted; that no vote was counted but once and that the ballots were officially counted and tallied only by duly appointed officials of the election and by no other persons. The evidence further shows... there was also ample evidence to the effect that no one who voted in the election was influenced for or against the questions to be determined by those who had knowledge of the status of the count during the day. The evidence further shows that the votes were correctly counted and interpreted and that such functions were performed by the election officials. Contrary to appellants' contention, the evidence supports the findings of fact filed by the trial court and such findings are not against the great weight and preponderance of the evidence. The conclusions of law filed by the trial court are, in our opinion, proper and correct, and have ample support in the evidence. The court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to order the opening of the ballot boxes to examine the ballots therein, including those which were not counted because mutilated.

"Appellants have presented a total of 44 points. We have considered all of these points and find no reversible error."

"The judgement is affirmed." The judges who decided the appeal are Chief Justice Clyde Grissom, and Associate Justices Cecil C. Collings and Esco Walter.

According to Court Clerk Homer Smith, if no further action is taken in the case, the decision becomes final in 15 days from the date of the decision. If the appellants plan to pursue the matter further, he said, they must file a petition for rehearing within the 15 day period (since the 15th day following the date of the opinion, January 21, falls on a Saturday, February 5, the appellants would have until the following Monday, February 7). If the request for rehearing is allowed, the case will be reheard and re-examined by the appeals court—which would be done if the appellants could convince the appeals court that it has erred in its interpretation of the facts or the conclusions arising from the facts. If the appeals court rejects the petition for rehearing, the appellants may then appeal to the state supreme court, which they must do within 30 days of the denial of the application for rehearing, Smith said.

City leaders hailed the 11th Court of Civil Appeals decision as an opportunity for Santa Anna to move ahead with the projects for the benefit of all the people, providing necessary facilities and additional jobs at the lowest possible cost to Santa Anna's citizens.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

We don't consider it eavesdropping to "hear" our children's prayers. Nor is it too much trouble! In fact, it is part of our responsibility to God.

For Mollie and Ted are His children, too. Parents are partners with—not substitutes for—our Heavenly Father.

It is this sense of partnership that has brought faith and the Church into the life of our family. We are not foolishly depending on our mere adulthood to inspire character in them. We do not command that they do what we say, not what we do. And we never sit at home while they are in Church, as though the truth they have gone to seek weren't worth a grownup's effort.

We figure God wants us at the listening post, to monitor their spiritual searchings, to share with them the blessings He has given us all.

County Only Three Fourths Medicated

About one fourth of the Coleman County Social Security beneficiaries, 65 or older, who received enrollment cards for the medical insurance part of Medicare through the mail have not yet returned them, R. R. Tuley, Jr., Social Security district manager in Abilene, reported today.

This enrollment card is important. Social Security beneficiaries can use it to sign up for medical insurance, which will help pay doctors' bills when Medicare becomes effective next July, he continued.

This card should be filled out and returned to Social Security as soon as possible. Anyone who has lost the enrollment card can get another by checking with the field representative who visits Coleman regularly, or by writing the Abilene Social Security office, but he should do it soon.

Social Security beneficiaries, along with nearly all other people who will be 65 or over before 1966, will have medical insurance when the plan goes into effect only if they sign up by March 31, Tuley said.

THE BIG INCH

The ruled box above is a one-inch ad. It measures one column wide by one inch deep. It costs advertisers 45 cents.

It looks kind of lonesome by itself.

But look at it this way:

What you get when you buy a one inch ad in The Santa Anna News is not just a single space in the paper, but one inch multiplied by more than 1,000 copies each week. And by more than 4,000 readers each week.

So you are really buying 1,000 inches, which (at 120 column inches per page) would be some eight and one-third pages of printed newsprint.

That is a mighty big chunk of space to cost 45 cents. Just imagine trying to reach all those Santa Anna News readers by postcard. It would amount to more than $160 just for the postage. But The News does it for just 45 cents.

So you can see that a little one inch ad is a big inch when it is advertising space in The Santa Anna News. And two inches will tell your story twice as well as one, and four will get your message across four times as well, and so on. It is the most effective and economical way possible to let people in this area know that you have wares and services they could use.

Call FI8-3545 and let our advertising representative show you how our big inches of advertising space can be a big salesman for you.

EDITORIAL

Want To Pay For A Blank TV Screen?

In a good example of bureaucracy gone wild, the Federal Communications Commission has suddenly decided that it has the right to tell you what you can—and cannot—watch on television if you are a customer of the Santa Anna Cable TV. Not only that, but the FCC has informed Congress that it has decided that it has this power, and that Congress can, in effect, go jump in the lake.

This power grab by a Washington bureau is something you should be interested in if you are concerned with the runaway growth of bureaucracy in our government, or if you are concerned with the continuing trend away from government by legislation and toward government by bureaucratic edict—laws made by men who are not chosen by the voters, or if you just enjoy television and would like to get full value from your investment in cable television service.

Briefly, this is what is about to happen. For years the FCC, which is the government bureau in charge of communications by broadcasting, which means radio and television, has been saying that it does not have authority over community antenna television (CATV). It has been harrasing Congress to give it this authority, which Congress has steadfastly declined to do. Now the FCC has given Congress an ultimatum. It has, it says, decided that it has authority over cable television after all, and unless Congress acts, it will assume control as of February 7. This is about the most arrogant proposition a Washington bureau has come up with in many a moon. And what makes things worse, according to the plans announced by the FCC, the rules they will put into effect will serve to black out large segments of time on the cable. For instance, if a regular station is showing a program, that program cannot be seen on cable television for a period of 15 days. The FCC also plans to take the okaying of community television away from the local community. All cable television installations will have to be approved by the FCC.

It seems that the proposed action of the FCC is not in the interest of the country for several reasons. In the first place, it establishes a precedent of a bureau dictating to Congress. In the second place, it is a blatant grab for power by the FCC, an attempt to extend that bureau's area of control from media that broadcast their signal to those that transmit their signal by wire, which does not lie within the present jurisdiction of the FCC. Third, it will result in the elimination of complete cable television service to the millions of people now served by that type of service throughout the country. In the fourth place, it will take away from communities the authority to regulate cable television within their boundaries, moving that authority to Washington, where so many local rights have disappeared over the past several years. And fifth, it will tend to eliminate free enterprise.

If the FCC is so anxious to find more work, we would suggest that it might devote some attention to cleaning its own house. For instance, it could do something to eliminate the farce that now exists in the Citizens Band regulations, and provide adequate arrangements for both hobby and business bands. It could control the walkie-talkie sets that are cluttering up the Citizens Band frequencies—without control (this is supposed to be the FCC's job). And it might do something about the television situation in Austin, where one station has been allowed to hold a monopoly because it is owned by a family named Johnson (Austin is the largest city in the United States, and the only state capitol, with only one television station). Perhaps if the FCC got on the ball, and took care of the many responsibilities it has been failing to meet, it might be too busy to dictate to Congress and try to usurp powers that do not belong to it.

If you are interested in keeping a complete selection of programs on your cable-served television, we suggest you write to your United States Senators, John Tower and Ralph Yarborough; and to your Congressman, O. C. Fisher (and also to Omar Burleson, who will be representing this area under the new districting setup) and protest this attempted takeover of your right to watch the television program of your choice, by the FCC.

Agricultural Status

Texas agriculture recorded steady, but not spectacular, gains during 1965, according to Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Commissioner White said production gains were made in cotton, wheat, sorghum, rice, hay, potatoes, peanuts, soybeans, peaches, and pecans, but production fell below the 1964 level in corn, oats, barley, rye, flaxseed, and broomcorn.

Total value of Texas' principal crops totaled $1,557,000,000 for the year, compared with $1,381,000,000 in 1964. Cotton and cottonseed value totaled $742,000,000, or 48 percent of the overall value. The second most valuable crop was sorghum grain with 19 percent and then came rice with seven percent.

Commissioner White said corn continued to decline in importance as a Texas crop. The Commissioner said less corn was planted and harvested in the state than ever before. Seeded acres amounted to about 638,000 acres, which is only about half the five year average.

In most areas, the Commissioner said, moisture and other weather conditions were almost ideal for farming. No big losses from natural disasters were reported, and the threat of drought in some areas never materialized.

"I consider 1965 to have been a year of good sound progress, even without spectacular gains," White said.

"Although figures are not complete," he said, "some gain in general farm income was made. As usual, the farmer did not get rich, but the trend toward increased farm income is encouraging."

Cotton Report

Snow and light rain gave cotton ginners a chance to clear their gin yards last week. Ginners in Colorado City, Big Springs, Snyder, Rotan and surrounding areas are expecting a moderate rush in harvesting as soon as fields and cotton dry enough for machine strippers to get started. Several ginners from the area north and south of Abilene reported ginning their last bales of the season.

B. B. Manly, Jr., at the United States Department of Agriculture Classing Office said sample receipts remained high until the last part of the week when most gins caught up. The volume classed dropped due to the loss of two classes; however, 30,200 samples were processed which moves the season total to 444,410 samples. About 6,000 unclassified samples were on hand Friday night.

The most noticeable change in the quality of District 2 cotton was a moderate decline in micronaire readings, according to Manly. Twenty-nine percent of the samples milled below 3.3, compared with 15 and six for the two preceding weeks. A breakdown of readings looked like this: One percent, 2.6 (wasty); seven percent, 2.7 through 2.9; 21 percent 3.0 through 3.2; 24 percent, 3.3 through 3.5; and 47 percent, 3.6 through 4.8. Low micronaire cotton entering the Commodity Credit Corporation loan is discounted about $15.00 per bale on 2.6; and lower, $8.25 per bale on 2.7 through 2.9, and $3.00 per bale on 3.0 through 3.2. No deductions are made on cotton milled 3.3 through 3.5; and about 60 cents per bale premium is paid on cotton that mikes 3.6 through 4.8. Most cotton buyers are discounting low mike cotton the same as does the Commodity Credit Corporation loan. However, a few also dock 3.3 and 3.4 mikes $1.25 to $1.75 per bale.

Grades of District 2 cotton dropped slightly. The amount of White cotton remained at seven percent of the total, while the percentage of Light Spotted cotton dropped from 84 to 77, and Spotted grades increased from nine to 15 percent. Tinged, Light Gray, and below grade cotton totaled one percent. Samples reduced in grade because of bark totaled seven percent, and reductions because of preparation increased to one percent. Staple lengths were steady at one percent, 7/8; 22 percent, 29/32; 76 percent, 15/16; and one percent, 31/32.

Market activity continued slow, with prices remaining steady compared to the previous week. Local buyers reported difficulty in making sales and most have a large volume of cotton in stock

State Capitol NEWS

A substantial tax increase will be needed next year to provide for fastgrowing state colleges and universities.

Frank Erwin, chairman of the Committee for the Governing Board of Texas Colleges and Universities, estimates that higher education expenditures will go up by one hundred million dollars for the coming biennium—above the present $432,000,000 budget. That is a hike of nearly 25 percent.

Some authorities feel that increased expenditures for education will run closer to $170,000,000.

Erwin predicted that college and university enrollments will double by the early 1970's, and admitted that the task of providing facilities for all appears virtually hopeless.

Texans, he said, must be as enthusiastic in support of new taxes for education as they were in backing increased appropriations last year.

Other sources say the higher education budget looming next year may reach $650,000,000. In that event, about $500,000,000 may have to come from direct taxation.

Should an increase as large as now foreseen become necessary, pressure almost certainly would be renewed to hike the $50 per semester tuition fee required at state institutions. In the past, however, legislators have been quicker to raise taxes than tuitions.

After hearing the sobering story of the financial plight of the colleges, the Coordinating Board for the Texas College and University System settled down to its first meeting of the year.

The Board authorized a local election on establishment of a new junior college district to serve the Port Arthur-Nederland-Port Neches area, but postponed until July a decision on a similar institution for Scurry County.

Board members learned that Texas' new, $85,000,000, state supported loan program for college students will be fully operative by next fall.

CANDIDATES FILING

A rash of entries in Democratic primary races for statewide offices indicates there will be plenty of action on the political front this spring after all.

Houston natural gas producer Stanley C. Woods, 43, announced he will take on Governor John Connally, and called for a supporting team of candidates to oppose other major incumbents. State Representative Bill Hollowell, of Grand Saline, was scheduled to reveal this week whether he will join Woods' "team" as a candidate for lieutenant governor.

Hillsboro friends paid the filing fee of Secretary of State Crawford C. Martin for attorney general. Whether he gets opposition from State Senators Franklin Spears, of San Antonio, and Galloway Calhoun, of Tyler, is in the hands of the State Supreme Court, which has heard arguments on their eligibility to run.

Incumbents who have deposited their hats in the ring for reelection include State Treasurer Jesse James, Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, Agriculture Commissioner John White, Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler, State Supreme Court Associate Justice Clyde E. Smith, and Court of Criminal Appeals Judge W. T. McDonald. District Judge John F. Onion, of San Antonio, is opposing Judge McDonald.

Liberals are still looking for a Democratic opponent to run against State Attorney General Waggoner Carr in the race for the nomination to oppose US Senator John Tower, who will be running for reelection.

State Representative Paul Haring, of Goliad, is already actively campaigning for Byron Tunnell's seat on the Railroad Commission.

OIL ALLOWABLE EDGES UP

Texas' oil allowable has been edged up for the second month in a row—to 32.7 percent of capacity, for February.

The percentage factor applied by the Railroad Commission adds up to a production ceiling of 3,100,000 barrels a day next month. January allowable of 32.6 percent permitted slightly less. But it was the most promising start Texas oilmen have enjoyed in eight years.

Railroad Commissioners, after setting the allowable, went into conference with an Air Force general to learn what effect the accelerated flying in Viet Nam will have on petroleum demands. Best guess at the moment—not too much.

RECREATION GRANT SET

Texas has established eligibility for a $3,500,000 grant from the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund for acquisition and development of state and local outdoor recreation areas.

Will Odom, chairman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, said Texas' Statewide outdoor recreation plan was approved by the Department of Interior's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

Funds will be allocated to the state for sharing among agencies on a city and county level. Included are water improvement districts and river authorities.

Texas' plan may include emphasis on development of existing park and recreation areas, particularly those located on lakes and streams.

The Parks and Wildlife Department is preparing a manual of instructions for political subdivisions to guide them in making applications to share in the program.

DRAFT QUOTAS TOLD

State draft boards are scheduled to induct 1,372 single and married men during February. The married men to be inducted will be those without children.

The quota actually is less than January's 1,475 and December's 1,523 and represents Texas' share of a national call for 29,400 men. Inductees will be 19 to 25 years old.

Colonel Morris Schwartz, State Selective Service Director, emphasized that no married men with children, or expected children, will be selected to fill the February call. But he warns that information on unborn children, certified by a doctor, should be promptly sent to local draft boards.

TEXAS 65 PLAN ENDS

Texas 65. Health Insurance will be discontinued after July 1, 1966, when Medicare benefits become available to those 65 years old and older.

Read 1 Corinthians 9:16-23

Restore to me the joy of thy salvation, and uphold me with a willing spirit. Then I will teach transgressors thy ways, and sinners will return to thee. (Psalm 51:12-13, RSV)

Catherine Milward was the daughter of a rich English gentleman. Their household maid found a spiritual experience in a religious meeting held in a barn. She was so changed that Catherine asked questions. The humble maid witnessed to her faith in Christ and brought her mistress into contact with the minister, John Mumford.

He helped Catherine to a spiritual experience which led her to physical as well as spiritual healing. She married John Mumford. They were the parents of Catherine Mumford, who became the wife of William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army.

So a humble servingmaid, whose religion showed in her life, and who was not afraid to witness for Christ, proved to be an effective missionary for Him. Any Christian whose religion shows in his life and who takes advantage of opportunities to witness can win others, often setting in motion a chain of events that will work wonders for God.

PRAYER

Help us, O Lord, to witness for Christ by our daily life and by the words we speak. Give us the insight to know when to speak and the courage to speak. In Jesus' name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

We can be missionaries anywhere we are by living for Christ and witnessing to Him.

Boys, Girls Both Lose Goldthwaite Games

The Santa Anna basketball teams traveled to Goldthwaite, Tuesday, January 18, for district games, and received a cool reception, as the boys lost, 60-42, and the girls dropped a 38-35 decision.

Sears, of Goldthwaite, was the leading scorer in the boys contest pouring in 16 points for the winners. Gary Rider led the Santa Anna scoring efforts, with 14 points.

The girls led most of the game in their half of the evening competition, but a lastminute Goldthwaite scoring rush sent the local girls down to defeat. Lois Simmons was the leading point collector for the game, scoring 18 points.

A scheduled return match against Goldthwaite, in Santa Anna, Friday, January 21, was postponed due to the weather conditions prevailing.

REMEMBER WHEN?

"In the late 1800s families drew lots to see who would wash the dishes. I certainly hope yours doesn't, because there's no need for it. There are so many advantages to the automatic electric dishwasher that I'm sure when you've heard them all you won't be able to argue yourself out of having one. For instance, dishes washed automatically turn out more sanitary than those washed by hand—that's because much hotter water can be used in the machine than on your hands. And the latest dishwashers offer cycles not only for pots and pans but fine china and crystal, also dish breakage is 1/5 that experienced when dishes are done by hand. Best of all, the kitchen stays neat and uncluttered—even after between meal snacks. There are so many advantages to automatic dishwashing, there just isn't room to list them all.

See your electrical appliance dealer and tell your family they can quit drawing lots."
