Film On Crippled Children's Camp Shown by Lions

The Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children at Kerrville was honored Tuesday with a special film showing activities at the camp, during the Santa Anna Lions Club meeting.

The club paid tribute to members and other Lions of Texas who are providing the handicapped children of Texas with a camp of their own.

The camp was opened in 1953 and accommodated 236 crippled, blind, deaf and mute youngsters the first year. Since then, the camp has grown steadily until it is now serving up a summer filled with fun to 720 children each year.

The unique camp has given more than 9,000 youngsters the thrill of a lifetime as they learn to swim, to camp outdoors under the stars and develop new skills in various handicrafts.

The camp represents an investment of more than $700,000 in permanent buildings. It is financed by dues of Lions and by gifts from members, clubs and friends of crippled children everywhere.

Lions Pancake Sale Is Friday

Pancake eaters will have an opportunity to satisfy appetites Friday when members of Santa Anna Lions Club will be cooking flapjacks most all day for the club's annual Pancake Sale.

Serving hours will be from 11:30 a. m. until 1:30 p. m., and from 3:30 until 8 p. m. in the Lions Club building.

Members have been selling tickets to the event for 75 cents each, which entitles the purchaser to all the pancakes he can eat, plus a liberal serving of ham, milk and coffee. Members will also be selling candy at the same time.

If you have not bought a ticket, come on down anyway, the Lions will be glad to take your money at the door.

It has also been announced that several turkeys will be given away during the day, so this would be a good time to take home that Christmas dinner.

Proceeds from the sale will be used by the club in its numerous charity projects.

Terry McIver Gets "Fighting Indian" Award

The McMurry College football coaching staff has named junior linebacker Terry McIver winner of the final "Fighting Indian" award for the season.

This is the second time Terry has earned the award.

He was selected for his outstanding play against Sul Ross.

Last week he was selected for his fine play against Howard Payne. He made 18 tackles and 12 assists, two of which were key stops preventing the Yellow Jackets from scoring from the one-yard line.

McMurry Coach Buddy Fornes said, "Terry was all over the field making key plays and especially a fine play on third and fourth downs on a goal line stand. He prevented the Jackets from pushing over the TD."

Coach Ronnie Giles said, "while viewing the film, I could see No. 67 (McIver's number) sticking his head through the line and stopping important plays all afternoon long."

Terry, a graduate of Santa Anna High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grady McIver, is a junior at McMurry.

2 Mounties Named On All-Area 'A' Team

Two Santa Anna Mountaineer football players were selected on the Reporter-News Class A All-Area Football team released last week end.

Mountaineers chosen were fullback Eddie Jones and halfback Butch Makuta.

Jones was the workhorse of the Mountaineer team, reeling off 1271 yards in 157 carries, while Makuta carried 130 times for 879. Makuta and Jones racked up 193 points between them while leading the Mountaineers to the District 9-A Championship. Makuta tallied 108 and Jones chalked up 85 during regular season play.

Two other Mountaineers received Honorable Mention. They were stalwarts Tommy Blanton, end, and Korby Wise, tackle. Blanton played the rugged nose-guard position on defense, and aided the Mounties in their race for the district crown with his numerous extra point kicks after touchdowns.

Makuta and Jones are seniors this year, rounding out their football careers at Santa Anna High. Blanton and Wise are Juniors and have another year of eligibility.

The 9-A Champions lose only four players from the 1966 squad. They are Jones, Makuta, and Larry Rutherford, who played guard; and Steve Valdez, who will be ineligible for the 1967 season.

"Coach of Year"

Head Coach Wendell Robinson, in his first year here, was chosen "Coach of the Year" by the Reporter-News Sports staff. According to reports, voting was close for the title, but Robinson finally received the nod after leading the Mounties to the 9-2 overall record and the 9-A Championship. The chore by the staff on the pick was even more noticeable when it is remembered that the Mountaineers had only a dismal 2-8 record in 1965.

Hidden Ears
Inside the olive of a martini, under the handle of a briefcase, behind the knob on a dashboard, within the cavity of a tooth—in all these places, electronic "bugs" have been hidden for the purpose of eavesdropping.

The startling sophistication of such devices has lent new cunning to both the spy and the counterspy, to both the law violator and the law enforcer.

It has also raised one of the toughest legal issues of the day: should the information obtained in this manner be valid evidence in the courtroom?

Since the circumstances vary so widely, there can be no simple answer. However, certain basic principles are already pretty well established.

Thus, eavesdropping evidence is not acceptable if it was gotten by unlawfully breaking into a person's home.

In one case, police broke into the home of a suspected bookie and planted an electronic bug under a chest of drawers. Sure enough, the recordings indicated that the man was guilty.

But a court rejected this evidence, because the police had ignored the constitutional ban on unreasonable search.

"It is preferable that some criminals go free," said the court, "than that the right of privacy of all the people be set at naught."

On the other hand, the mere fact that the eavesdropping was done secretly does not spoil it as evidence. For example:

A revenue agent, talking with a suspected tax dodger, had a wire recorder hidden in his pocket. During the conversation the man offered a bribe, duly recorded on the wire.

But in this case there had been no breaking into private quarters. Furthermore, the suspect, by merely talking to the revenue agent, had knowingly taken the risk that the agent might tattle on him.

Holding this evidence admissible, the court pointed out that the agent himself could testify to the conversation—and the recording device simply did the job better.

In short, the law is seeking to strike a fair balance between the desire for personal privacy and the need for righting crime. Research and study in this area are intense. And, as legal arguments go, the debate is passionate.

But so it should be. In a free land, this is basic business.

4th Army ROTC Ups Scholarships

"Twice the number of ROTC (Reserve Officers' Training Corps) four-year scholarships have been authorized for school year 1967-68 than in each of the first two years the scholarships were available," Lt. Gen. Thomas W. Dunn, commanding general of Fourth U.S. Army, announced.

He explained that the five-state Fourth Army area (Texas, Arkansas, New Mexico, Louisiana and Oklahoma) will have a quota of 200 nominations for the coming year. In each year since the enactment of the ROTC Vitalization Act of 1964 there were 100 authorized for the area, from which approximately 45 were selected for scholarship benefits.

ROTC graduates have the same total obligation of military service as all others who enter active Army duty—six years. Every ROTC graduate must serve two years on active duty and four in a Reserve component as an officer. Those receiving Regular Army appointments must serve three of the six years on active duty, and scholarship students must serve four of the six years on active duty. Inductees into the Army serve two years on active duty and four in a Reserve component.

Granting of a four-year scholarship is based on the applicant's high school record, results of the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB) Scholastic Aptitude Test, participation in extra-curricular and athletic activities, physical examination and interviews.

High schools throughout the nation will give the CEEB Scholastic Aptitude Tests on Dec. 3. Any students who failed to meet the application deadline in time to be included in this testing period but desiring to apply for ROTC scholarships may yet arrange for individual administration of the CEEB tests. They may contact the directors of education centers at Ft. Polk, La., Ft. Sill, Okla., Forts Bliss, Hood, Wolters and Sam Houston, Tex., for appointments. Education directors have agreed to administer the necessary tests between Dec. 19 and Jan. 6.

March of Dimes Patient Cheats Death To Develop Into Pint-Sized Tarzan

"The hospital suggested that I sign the autopsy permit ahead of time because my son had practically no chance to live."

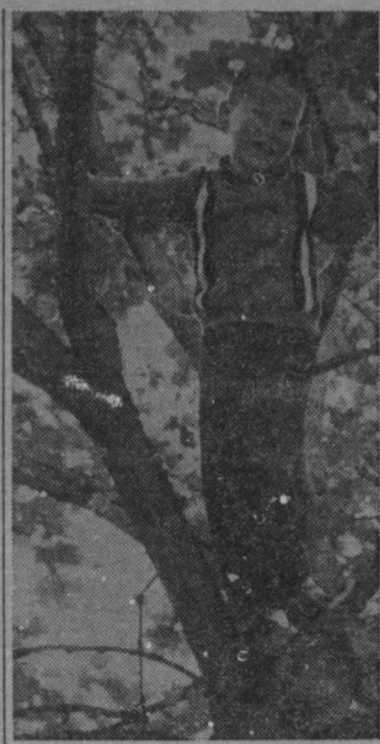

In these words, Rosalind Bessell, Natick, Mass., recalls the ordeal that she and her husband, Henry, lived through four years ago when their newborn, premature baby lay wasting away in an incubator with death coming ever closer.

Mrs. Bessell's story is borne out by the records at Boston City Hospital to which the infant was hurried soon after his birth with a severe intestinal obstruction. But an air of unreality surrounds her grim recital because, as this attractive young teacher recalls the days and nights when her baby hovered at death's door, she points out the window at home where this same boy—seemingly healthy as a young Tarzan—is now swinging from a low branch of a towering maple tree, grinning and yelling, "Look, Ma!"

"Today, as I think back," she says, "I often believe that none of this happened at all, that it was just a frightful nightmare, that I was never told my baby was dying, and that my brother, a rabbi, hadn't really raced down here from Utica to conduct the funeral service."

There is no air of unreality, however, about the records at Boston City Hospital where young Mark received treatment at the March of Dimes Birth Defects Center and to which he regularly returns for check-ups.

Mark, a second child, was premature by six weeks and weighed only 4 lbs., 10 ounces at birth. Doctors soon estab-

LANTERN PROTECTION

That fragile mantle on your gasoline lantern will last longer if you glue a base of sponge rubber on the lantern's bottom. Shock of setting the lantern on hard surfaces often is enough to start the mantle tearing. The sponge rubber also prevents the lantern from slipping into the water while night fishing.

Today's MEDITATION

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

© THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Read Matthew 18:10-14

I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth. (Luke 15:10)

For manufactured products, as well as natural ones, there are laws and adopted customs which require them to meet certain standards. Products that do not qualify are known as substandards and as such can never be classified as first quality.

It is not so in the spiritual realm of life. Christ often said that He came to redeem man, who had fallen from grace because of his disobedience. He was so concerned over the sin of man, and placed such a supreme value on each life, that He gave His own life to redeem man.

Thanks be to God, the spiritually substandard life can through Jesus Christ gain the spiritual quality God intends for him. The condition is that the unredeemed person realize and confess his imperfections. Then he needs to strive daily to live by the principles of life as taught and exemplified by our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

PRAYER: Our heavenly father, we thank Thee for Thy matchless love toward us. We are grateful for Thy marvelous plan for the redemption of all who seek to live like Jesus. In His name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
By yielding our substandard lives to God, we can become perfect in His love. Paul R. Daniel (Ga.)

W-T Boys Ranch Mails Christmas Seals This Year

For the first time in their twenty year history, West Texas Boys Ranch is mailing Christmas seals with their annual Christmas letter, which was sent last week. The specially designed seal depicts a large boy kneeling to tie the shoe of a small boy in front of the Ranch's Gibson Memorial All-Faith Chapel. The caption is "Sometime we all need help. West Texas Boys Ranch needs your help." The annual Christmas appeal by West Texas Boys Ranch provides funds to purchase Christmas presents for the 68 boys at the Ranch. Another reason for mailing the seals this year, according to Ranch President Joe VanderStucken, is to get the regular supporters of the Ranch to use the seals on their holiday mail and thus tell more people about West Texas Boys Ranch.

The Ranch, located 18 miles west of San Angelo, is supported entirely by the free-will donations and contributions of the public.

Austin.—Gov. John Connally has released his budget proposals for public health agencies, mental health and retardation and for the Youth Council.

Recommendations for public health and tuberculosis control include salary adjustments so that top-flight personnel might be attracted; funds to raise salaries to conform with the general pay raise for state employees; money to assume enforcement of food and drug laws; funds to implement the Air Pollution Control Board program; funds to expand the State Health Department building in Austin; and a fund to train personnel to staff public health facilities and tuberculosis control and treatment centers.

Mental health and retardation recommendations include efforts to expand the state's efforts to assist local communities through grants in aid and contract treatment services; $700,000 for cost and planning staff for community centers for two years; $400,000 to set up a training fund to be used for in-service training and short courses; and $134,000 to establish and staff new community half-way houses.

Connally's budget also calls for an additional facility for girls for the Texas Youth Council, a director of research to make program evaluations and six additional parole officers.

Total budget figures are: Health Department, $19,999,468 in 1968 and $16,139,826 in 1969; Mental Health and Retardation, $85,193,947 and $69,796,746; Texas Youth Council, $14,438,640 and $9,182,718.

Connally's combined budget for the three agencies from the general revenue fund calls for expenditures of $119,632,055 in 1968 and $95,119,290 in 1969, compared with expenditures of $54,298,815 in 1965 and $71,823,195 in 1966.

WEST TEXAS UTILITIES AN INVESTOR OWNED ELECTRIC COMPANY

ENROLLMENTS UP

Texas' 55 state-supported colleges and universities enrolled 248,711 regular students this fall, representing an increase of 22,300 students . . . or about 10 per cent . . . over last fall.

Biggest gainers, percentage-wise, were Stephen F. Austin, Nacogdoches (18.7 per cent); Southwest Texas State, San Marcos (17.3 per cent); and West Texas State, Canyon (15.6 per cent).

Big growth in junior colleges was noted at Henderson County, Athens; Texas Southmost, Brownsville; Panola, Carthage; and South Plains, Levelland.

The 1966 enrollment figure approximately doubles the number of students in the college and university system 10 years ago.

SEGREGATION DECLINING

Segregation in schools in Texas is on the way out.

All but four of Texas 1,303 school districts have filed intentions to comply with the 1964 Civil Rights Act with the U. S. Office of Education, says the Texas Education Agency.

Out of 283,426 Negro students enrolled in state schools a total of 84,575 are in substantially integrated schools.

Of the 1,875,352 white pupils tabulated, 718,537 were on integrated campuses, and an additional 401,497 were on campuses having a small percentage of Negroes. There were 504 on campuses having a predominantly Negro enrollment.

"Of the 754,314 white pupils on campuses without Negro pupils, 285,231 resided in school districts having no Negro pupils," the report said.

Major action against a district failing to comply with the Civil Rights Act is the loss of funds under the Elementary and Secondary Act, which this year totals a little more than $66,000,000 for Texas schools.

RETAIL SALES UP

Texas' retail sales surged upward five per cent during October, mainly because of a 16 percent increase in the durable-goods sales, according to a report by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

October durable-goods sales totaled $514,000,000, up $71,000,000 over September. The strongest increase was in the area of new car sales, showing a 25 per cent increase, but still two per cent short of the October, 1965, gain.

SCREW WORM ERADICATION

Airplanes dropped 263,525,250 sterile screw worm flies during October to fight Texas' screw worm infestation. So says a joint report by the U.

Bacteria Perform Highly Useful Jobs In Oil Industry

Although bacteria are held in low repute by many people, the oil industry thinks the wiggly little organisms run a close race with the canines for the title of 'Man's Best Friend.'

Billions of bacteria perform highly useful jobs in the oil industry by helping dispose of waste and by aiding in exploration and production work.

Scientists at Humble Oil & Refining Company's research affiliate in Houston have developed processes in which chemicals made by bacteria are used to thicken water to provide a viscose base for improved drilling muds. This thickened water, when pumped into underground formations, also helps increase the flow of oil to the production well.

And if it were not for the "friendly bacteria," Humble admits it would be hard pressed for a method to clean the millions of gallons of water used each day by its plants and factories.

Water at the various facilities is used for cooling, generating steam, and processing petroleum products. In performing this work the water can pick up contaminants such as spent acids, caustics, and some oil.

The refineries must process the waste water, called effluent, so that it can be returned to streams and lakes in a clean condition. Bacteria which operate as chemical factors, literally eat up impurities in the water.

The bacteria must have a place to perform their clean-up work, and refineries provide for "workshops" in several ways. These range from settling basins and water treatment plants to trickling filter systems where water pours into a sieve of algae-covered stones which house billions of bacteria, just waiting to assimilate the impurities.

Refineries also use bacteria to gobble up solid waste material on filter clays, in separator sediments, and in tank bottom settlements. In some cases, oil wastes are mixed into the soil, and bacteria consume the oil, changing the organic carbon into carbon dioxide which is needed for plant growth.

To break down petroleum and its products, scientists in the oil industry are trying to harness the ability of some bacteria to utilize hydrocarbons as their sole source of carbon. Results suggest that certain organisms can carry out oxidation of some hydrocarbons to yield useful products such as stearic and palmitic acids.

With bacteria playing so many roles in the petroleum industry, one oilman suggested: "We ought to put them on the payroll."

"Yes," another agreed, "but they'd probably eat their own paychecks."

HEALTH & SAFETY TIPS FROM THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSN. Measles

No longer is it necessary for your child to have measles.

All that's needed is immunization against this disease that once was taken for granted as one of the hazards of growing up.

A veteran medical expert on communicable diseases said this fall that measles could be eradicated in the United States in a relatively short time if all young children were immunized.

Already more than 12 million American children have been immunized against measles since a vaccine was licensed in 1963, and the disease has dropped to a mere fraction of its once high incidence.

Doctors have long known that measles is sometimes a much more serious disease than many parents realized. True, most children recover from measles in a short time and with no ill effects. However, in recent years deaths attributed to measles have averaged more than 400 per year, and other non-fatal effects have caused serious health problems for many more children.

Even though deaths and serious after effects are not particularly common among children who get measles, it isn't wise to take a chance. And it isn't necessary to take a chance.

The American Academy of Pediatrics, the professional society of the physicians who specialize in health problems of children, recommends that the measles vaccine be given at the age of about 12 months. If your infant is routinely under the care of a physician, the chances are he will give measles vaccine at the proper time.

But if your child is past the age of 12 months and hasn't yet been immunized against measles, don't delay. Call your physician and ask his advice about measles shots. There are several different types of measles vaccine available. Your doctor will select the vaccine that will be best for your child.

HENS OR TOMS?

Are you set in your ways about turkey? Many consumers are. They demand hens rather than toms and are willing to pay more for the hens. Hens were once more tender than toms. Today, thanks to improved production practices, there will be very little difference.

Best Prices On Floor Coverings

Carpet - Linoleum We Also Do Carpet Cleaning M. L. Marrs Phone 625-5322 Coleman, Texas

The hen still has one point in her favor. She usually weighs only between 10-15 pounds which is the popular size for families. Toms weigh 18-24 pounds. Remember a turkey's bone growth stops when it reaches about 12 pounds. Beyond that weight, added pounds are all meat.

Criminalistic Burden Grows Heavier As Rights of Citizens Disregarded

America is a proud, majestic nation. She stands bold and erect, inspired by a priceless heritage of freedom, liberty, and justice. She is rich, prosperous, and generous to a fault. Her people live, defend, and even die for the rights of man and the concepts of democracy. Throughout the world, our Nation is a beacon of hope for oppressed people. She has great schools and magnificent churches. Free enterprise and industry flourish in her thriving cities; an over-abundance of food is harvested from her fertile, lush farmlands. Within her far-flung boundaries, nearly 200 million citizens live, work, and play, secure in the knowledge that their representative government, based on the rule of law and a balance of power in its judicial, legislative, and executive branches, will protect and promote their well-being.

But, the scene is not altogether serene. Today our proud Nation wears a yoke of infamy — a yoke made of greed, hate, violence, apathy, and lawlessness. Collectively, it is called — CRIME.

This criminalistic burden grows heavier from disregard for the rights of peaceful citizens, sprouting youthful criminality, riots, engulfing entire communities, unfounded and irresponsible charges against police, public apathy, disrespect for law and due process, and undue concern and sympathy for the lawbreaker. What has happened to the moral fiber of our people? Recently seven leading citizens of a community testified in court to the excellent reputations of the defendants although they admitted knowing those on trial had engaged in criminal activities for many years.

Crime and law and order are natural enemies. In a sense they are inseparable. Their courses lead to an inevitable collision. At times, crime and violence erupt in the streets of our communities and all but overrun our legal barriers, which are becoming porous and weak by abuse and misuse.

We see examples every day where the supremacy of law and order is put to test. Enforcement officers are called on to handle explosive situations—riots, premeditated arson, civil disobedience, and wild rampages—that border on insurrection and anarchy. Whole areas of cities rise in smoke, pillage, and destruction. While enforcement officers strive to restore order, they are shot, assaulted, and taunted.

How is the cause of equal justice under law served by noisy, defiant mobs yelling slogans, denying the free exercise of constitutional rights of other citizens, and turning whole communities into nightmarish jungles of looting, rioting, and assault? Can we seriously consider, even for a moment, that this is the precious right our forefathers referred to as a peaceable assembly to petition the government for a redress of grievances?

No fair-minded person minimizes the significance of the right to dissent and to petition for redress of grievances. These are essential elements of a free people. On the other hand, rioting, looting, burning, and killing—deliberate crimes—are outrages spawned under the banner of civil disobedience, a dangerous philosophy based on shallow reasoning. Too many well-meaning but misguided Americans not only support the doctrine of lawbreaking for a worthy end but also oppose penalties for violators. This is a difficult theory to fit into a system of government which says the law applies to all, or it applies to none.

There is another aspect of this problem which bears watching. In some communities, police have been admonished by civic authorities not to arrest thugs, rioters, and looters who exploit trouble spots and demonstrations for fear that the show of force would provoke even more damage. There may be instances when this policy will ease the tension of the moment, but you can be assured that such a palliating practice, if continued, can only lead to greater grief and turmoil.

Recent court decisions seem to place more emphasis on the conduct of the police officer than on the conduct of the criminal. The question of guilt is obscured and lost in a maze of procrastinating technicalities and legal joustings. Many times, truth, which often exposes guilt, is only a secondary objective; the main search is for error or a technical loophole for the murderer or hoodlum.

Crime rates in the United States will drop when the criminal is convinced that his arrest will be swift, his prosecution prompt, and his sentence substantial. Is today's criminal certain that all, or even one, of these conditions exist? Certainly not. For example, a masked criminal recently fled from a bank with several thousand dollars but was quickly arrested by local police and the money recovered. Although he admitted the crime and was indicted, all charges were dismissed on recommendations of parole officials. Consequently, today's criminal is convinced that an apathetic, uncooperative public will delay his arrest; that new court decisions will postpone or prevent his prosecution; and that through unjustified leniency, his sentence will be negligible. And all the while, apologists under various professional disguises will relieve his conscience of guilt and blame society for his actions.

Crime and chaos in our land cannot be defeated by playing with naive theories of penology, nor by feeble adherence to principle and eye-closing cowardice. It is our heritage to stand erect, proud, and unafraid, not cowering before any master nor bending to any threat—a Nation where freedom, equality, and justice are attainable conditions, not hollow phrases.

The height of human dignity is reached by free men deliberately choosing their destiny, humbly mindful of their obligations to their Creator and their fellow man.

We have the facts on which to make a choice. The facts are on our streets and in our courtrooms, in front of our eyes in every metropolis and hamlet. And a right and rational choice must be made, or we shall consign to oblivion the most cherished hopes and aspirations ever conceived for freedom in the history of mankind. As Edmund Burke stated, "The only things necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing."

Let the hoodlum, the racist, the demagogue, and the exponent of anarchy know that the great, quiet power of this Nation lies in her law-abiding citizens, and they will stomach no more. The choice is ours. The time is now.
