These are very handy little stickers and you are urged to put yours on the telephone for use in an emergency.

Nearly all of us enjoy "boosting" our home town, but perhaps some do a better job of it than others. At Sweetwater, Terry McIver is called Mr. Trickham," and Ora Beth is sometimes referred to as "Mrs. Trickham." In order to prove to some of her students that Trickham really exists, Ora Beth McIver took a group of her students on a tour of the community recently.

Betty Bryan of Rockwood is widely known for her cake baking. She baked a special cake for the girls basketball team's celebration on Friday, Feb. 28. The cake was shaped and decorated like a basketball with "Congratulations District 9-A Champs" written on one side, and "Happy Birthday Vicki Jo" on the other side. The cake was on a brass pedestal that rotated, giving it the appearance of a trophy. The cake was unusual to look at and good to eat, according to those present. She also baked cakes for the 1961 girls championship team and the 1966 District Football team.

Drunk drivers have always (or nearly always) been a menace on roads and highways. As early as 1904, the Quarterly Journal of Inebriety reported drunk drivers were at fault in at least 19 of 25 fatal accidents involving "automobile wagons." That was nearly 80 per cent of the accidents. Now the Texas Safety Association's report shows more than one-half of the state's highway deaths may be attributed to drunk drivers.

A farmer delivered a load of vegetables to an insane asylum and one of the inmates helped unload the truck. The farmer, making conversation, asked the inmate, "Have you ever lived on a farm?"

"Yep," replied the inmate, "Have you ever lived in an asylum?"

"Nope," answered the farmer. "Well, it sure beats farming," answered the inmate.

Be sure to attend this good program next week!

While you're saving money for college, make sure there's a college to save money for.

There are all kinds of ways to save money for a college education.
A good savings account.
Life insurance.
Or U.S. Savings Bonds.
You see, U.S. Savings Bonds will not only save you money, but they'll insure your country's future at the same time.
It's one way of making sure there's a college whenever you're ready to send somebody to college.
But back to the money part. Let's say you buy your one-year-old son a $25.00 Bond every month. When he's 18 and ready for college, he'll have $5,506.00.
A $50.00 Bond every month would give him $11,012.00 when he's ready to enroll. And the beauty is, you never have to worry about this investment. You simply sign up through a Payroll Savings Plan where you work and then sit back and let the money pile up.
Savings Bonds now pay a new higher rate—4 1/4%—when held to maturity of 7 years.
And if they're lost, stolen, or destroyed, the Treasury Department will replace them free.
Also, with each Series E Bond you buy, you're entitled to buy the same or lower denomination Freedom Share. Which pays 5% when held to maturity of 4 1/2 years and is redeemable after one year.
Any way you look at it, buying U.S. Savings Bonds makes sense.
They not only get the kids ready for college. They keep the colleges ready for the kids.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Parking "Fine": $2,500
Late for an appointment, George hastily parked his car in a pedestrian crosswalk. The possibility of a fine for illegal parking was not enough to deter him.

But to his dismay, the "fine" turned out to be $2,500. A pedestrian, forced to detour around his parked car, was knocked down by a passing truck—and George was held legally liable for the accident.

That is not an isolated case. Generally speaking, whenever you park your car illegally, you can be held responsible for all the foreseeable consequences. This may include not only injuries to pedestrians but even collisions between two other cars.

For example:
When two cars collided at an intersection, a court put the blame on a truck driver who had parked too close to the corner—blocking the STOP sign from view. An oncoming motorist, who had no reason to expect a stop sign had driven squarely into the path of another car.

In fact, you run the risk of liability whenever you stop your car in an improper manner, even if you are not violating a specific parking ordinance. Take this situation:

A motorist on the highway, catching sight of some deer in a meadow, stopped to look. But he neglected to pull off the road first. As a result, there was a chain collision of cars behind him. Finding the man liable, the court said:

"The right of a motorist to enjoy the beauties of nature does not warrant stopping his automobile in the midst of traffic to satisfy his artistic and poetic proclivities."

On the other hand, the motorist who stops improperly is not responsible if there is no casual connection between his stopping and the accident that follows.

Thus a driver who had parked in a no-parking zone was held not to blame when a second car ploughed into him from the rear. It seems the second man had been driving with his eyes down-cast, scanning the floor for a fallen cigarette.

The court pointed out that, even if the first car had stopped lawfully—say, because of traffic—the collision would have occurred just the same.

FIRE PREVENTION THEME

The following is one of the fire prevention themes written by Santa Anna High School students.

FIRE PREVENTION by Janet Wells

Linda Hollis was finally asked out by the school football hero, Don Harris. She had to look just right for this date, and of all things she dropped chocolate on her new dress. Linda pulled the dress off and applied lighter fuel on the spot. She had just enough time to re-dress before Don arrived. Hearing him drive up she said goodbye to her mother, who was resting in the next room.

Linda danced all night without a single worry. When returning home, she noticed several cars parked near her house. She then spotted the fire truck and a blazing house. The house was her own home.

It suddenly became very clear to her. In the hurried moments she had not closed the lighter fuel, and had placed it on the cabinet near the kitchen stove.

But it was too late to be sorry, her mother had died in the flames. Because of carelessness, Linda had lost the most precious thing in her life.

The price of carelessness is high, don't be the victim that must pay.

A message to those Americans who don't happen to think the land of milk and honey is going all sour.

Our country is in a strange mood these days.

Uncertainty surrounds us. So what can you do about it? Well, first of all, maybe you should take a long, hard look at this country of ours. Maybe we should look at our healthy side as well as our ills.

And maybe, just maybe, you'll find we're not all that bad. Sure we have our problems. And they're not going to go away if you just stand along the sidelines as a spectator.

But they might start to go away if you seriously want to do something for your country.

A U.S. Savings Bond is one way. Let's say you fork over $18.75 of your hard-earned cash. Through a Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or at your bank. That will give you a Bond that's worth $25.00 in just 7 years. If you did that every month you'd stash away quite a nest egg for yourself.

And so would your country. You country would be economically stronger to find remedies for some of the headaches we have. While it's preserving something called freedom.

Something that's hard to appreciate. Until you lose it.

Savings Bonds now have a new high interest rate of 4 1/2%. And buying them gives you the privilege of also buying the even higher interest 5% Freedom Shares in combination.

However you look at it, it simply makes a lot of sense to invest in your country. After all, it's the only country you've got.

If they're lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace 'em.

Austin, Tex. — Thwarted in one effort to keep down the size of the 1970-71 tax bill by school fund diversion, Gov. Preston Smith took a new approach.

He called on Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin to rush an opinion as to whether income from state-owned submerged lands (bays, river banks, etc.) can be used for current school spending.

Martin earlier held unconstitutional the governor's plan to get $71.6 million in state land revenue bound for the sacrosanct permanent school fund for educational financing during the next two years. Only investment income from the permanent fund can now be spent.

Smith accepted Martin's original opinion, but noted that revenue from submerged lands was not dedicated to the school fund by constitution but by statute in 1939 and 1941. So, if the Legislature can dedicate the money from those oil-rich lands, Smith feels it can dedicate as well.

"If 72 per cent of the royalties involved were utilized it would mean approximately $52 million which the taxpayers would not have to produce to meet anticipated revenues needed to finance state government during the coming two years," Smith maintained.

He asked Martin for an early ruling in preparation for a supplemental message the governor will deliver to the Legislature, in which he will spell out alternative sources for the $71.6 million item invalidated by the attorney general's March 3 decision.

Smith first said he has two alternatives: budget-cutting or a reinforced revenue plan. He decided he did not have much fat left to trim in his budget and settled on alternative money raisers.

LEGISLATURE ACTS

Legislature finally reached its full complement, with the election of Rep. John H. Poerner of Hondo, a Republican, to fill the vacancy created by the death of Rep. D. C. Howard of Uvalde. And the lawmaking process continues.

Legislators have completed action on the workmen's compensation reform bill which raises benefits to injured workers from $35.00 a week (maximum to $49. Measure went to the governor for his signature following House passage 146 to 1. The Senate acted earlier.

One of the session's most important measures, a proposed constitutional amendment raising the water bond ceiling to $3.5 billion to finance the state's share of the $10 billion Texas water plan, passed the House 131-15 and went to the Senate.

In their liveliest action, both houses voted out a bill to provide maximum fines of $200 and jail sentences up to six months for disruptive activities on school and college campuses. The bill went to conference committee for adjustment of differences.

Another bill cleared by both houses would permit Texans to buy rifles, shotguns and ammunition in adjoining states despite the federal gun law. Similar action is being considered in other states.

The Senate passed a variety of bills including a Texas Meat Inspection Law (which is necessary to prevent federal regulation of meat), a trailer house uniform standards act, a 45-minute daily planning break for school teachers and extension of time for homecoming Vietnam servicemen (90 days after return) to renew their driver's license.

House approved bills allowing persons between 19 and 21 to be licensed as cab drivers, protecting the rights of developers of new varieties of cotton, and requiring the labeling of eggs as to their state or county of origin.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Legislators kept dropping more and more bills into both the House and Senate hoppers, including:

* A bill to require telephone companies to maintain a business office in every county seat where it provides telephone service.

* Creation of a 50-member Governor's Committee on Human Relations "to recommend programs of action designed and intended to promote and obtain a better understanding and relationship between the various groups."

* Establishing a Texas Board of Examiners in the Fitting and Dispensing of Hearing Aids to license and regulate all persons in that business.

* Allowing haulers of agricultural products to get a permit to operate without having to prove their service would fit the "public convenience and necessity," which other truckers must show.

* Creating the Legislative Modernization Committee to study and improve the legislative process.

* Closely regulating when and how and for what purpose state law-enforcement agencies can use electronic eavesdropping or "bugging."

* Requiring all elections in Texas to be with the use of voting machines which the state would furnish but which would be stored and maintained by the counties.

* Allowing school districts to increase the length of their school terms from nine to 10 months.

* Increasing the penalty for the crimes of rape, armed robbery and murder.

* Providing state support for kindergarten programs voluntarily operated by local school districts for 5-year-old children.

* Requiring door to door salesmen to return a customer's money, if the customer demands it within three days after buying something that he did not solicit.

* Establishing a Texas presidential primary to replace the existing system of a series of conventions and prorating the state's national-convention delegate votes according to the returns in the primary.

APPOINTMENTS

Former State Rep. Joe Burkett, Jr., of Kerrville was named by Gov. Smith to the Texas Liquor Control Board for a short term extending until November 11. He succeeds O. E. Crawford of Jasper, who resigned.

Smith named Leslie R. Neal of San Antonio to succeed William E. Berger of Hondo on the Texas Water Rights Commission.

Governor appointed Tommy V. Smith of Austin as Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Gov. Smith appointed Dr. Albert B. Spires of Taylor to the State Board of Medical Examiners; James W. Throgmorton and Daniel J. Bromley, Jr., of Port Arthur as branch pilots for Sabine Bar, Pass and Tributaries.

He reappointed Laurence R. Melton, Dallas, as chairman of the Committee for the Employment of Handicapped.

COURTS SPEAK

The Supreme Court listened to arguments of two banks over which bank is entitled to administer $3000 million estate of Scruta Kenedy East pending a decision on which will of the South Texas ranch owner is valid. Will contest itself will be heard in Kenedy County district court near Kingsville.

A 19-year-old San Antonio youth, hit by a taxi while trying to help a girl hurt in a previous traffic mishap, is not entitled to damages awarded him by the trial court, says the high court.

A merchant seaman seriously injured when he fell on an unsecured plate on a catwalk should recover $54,264 judgment, the Court found.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES

To nobody's great surprise, Attorney General Martin declared unconstitutional Governor Smith's proposed diversion of money earmarked to the permanent school fund for current education spending.

Martin said legislation making air and water pollution misdemeanor offenses is unconstitutional as applied to associations and firms in that the constitutional reference applied only to individuals and private corporations. A variance by state agencies would be complete defense to prosecution.

Attorney General held as not qualified an applicant for registration as a professional engineer who holds an agricultural degree from Texas Tech College prior to 1962.

BRUCELLOSIS CHALLENGE

A McMullen County rancher is challenging the constitutionality of the Texas Animal Health Commission brucellosis program, which requires that cattle owners must sell any stock with brucellosis to slaughter houses.

R. J. Nunley got a temporary restraining order to stop the Commission from quarantining his cattle, which apparently have the disease. A Sinton court was to hear arguments on the issue.

Animal Health Commission is concerned because, if the brucellosis control program is ruled unconstitutional, then other states likely will prohibit the importation of Texas cattle.

Experiment will be carried out April 1-June 30. Cotton plants used will be grown in Erownville. Weevils used to bait thermal traps will be flown in weekly from Mississippi laboratories.

There will be a city-wide church census taken March 16 from 1:00 to 3:00 p. m. The sponsoring churches are the First United Methodist, the First Baptist and the Northside Baptist Churches. This census is vitally needed in order that the churches may continue serving effectively. The census workers may be identified by a badge which they will wear. There will only be a few questions to answer.

The names and ages of each family member, the church affiliation of each member, where they attend church and how often are the most pertinent questions. Getting this information will only take a few minutes and the cooperation of everyone will be appreciated. The information obtained will be compiled and other churches will have access to it upon request to one of the sponsoring churches. If any person would like to volunteer to help in the census, their help would be appreciated. Just be at one of the sponsoring churches at 1:00 p. m. this Sunday, March 16.
