Did you know mayonnaise is fatal to snakes? If properly administered, that is.

Three east Texas men recently encountered a belligerent cottonmouth moccasin while hauling hay. After an unsuccessful search for a stick or rock with which to kill the snake, one of the men remembered a jar of mayonnaise in his lunch bag. A well aimed throw by the man stunned the snake long enough for the other two to administer the coup de grace with quart cans of motor oil.

Well, I suppose motor oil may also be used to kill snakes.

One of the most clever features of the Headstart graduation program last Friday night were the "caps and gowns" worn by the graduates. Mrs. Welton Holt, Mozelle teacher, made mortarboards of white cardboard and fabric, and each child had a tassel in his or her school colors. The robes were the white choral robes already on hand—but hemmed up to fit the small children. They were really a sight to see.

We saw Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mathews and daughter in town Monday afternoon. They are now living at Monahans after residing here for many years.

The Labor Day Junior Rodeo is a big event for many local and area youngsters. On Monday of this week a young man from San Angelo stopped in the Santa Anna Insurance Agency office to get an entry blank and enter the rodeo events. Entry blanks have not even been printed yet!

W. T. Hays is the writer of "In Our Opinion" that appears in the NEWS. We were sorry he didn't have his name on the column in the July 3 issue as his "opinion" on the Ted Kennedy recent happening was quoted in an article in the Monday Dallas Morning News. The quote appeared on the editorial page in an article by Mike Kingston on what small Texas newspaper people said about the incident.

Regardless of whom the credit was given, it is good to know the NEWS is being read by Dallas journalists.

It is hard to believe that school will begin in just over a week. Classes will get underway on Monday, August 25. High School students will most likely register the week prior to the starting date.

Where did the summer go?

HOME FROM GERMANY

S. A. Schools Get Assistance Grant

On August 5, 1969, the Santa Anna Independent School District received notice of approval of a Consolidated Application for State and Federal Funds in the amount of $16,029.00. Of this amount $15,364.00 is granted under the ESEA, Title I program. This grant is based on the number of students enrolled in the school system who come from the low-income families (as set up by poverty guidelines in Washington, D. C.) This grant enables the school to provide two additional teachers whose duties are to instruct and aid the slow learning student. These funds can be used for no other purpose, nor can they be used to pay the salary of a regular classroom teacher.

Also included in this grant are funds to help pay for the lunches for 15 students from low-income families. These students are also offered a small amount of free health services.

The Santa Anna schools have operated Remedial classes under Title I since the program was first started in December, 1965. Teachers employed under the ESEA, Title I program for the 1969-1970 school term are Mrs. Martha Perry, Remedial classes grades 1 through 4 and Mrs. Sue Newman, Remedial classes, grades 5 through 8.

Postal Dept. Orders Trickham PO Closed

Santa Anna Postmaster, John C. Gregg, has received instructions from the regional post office department that the Trickham rural branch post office is to be closed at the end of business on Saturday, August 30. The report stated that the closing of the office was for lack of service needs and in view of the cost of operation. A notice of the closing has been posted at the Trickham postal station.

The closing of the Trickham office had been recommended by a postal service officer on a visit here several months before, so the closing order was more or less expected by Trickham people.

Petitions with numerous signatures asking for the continuance of the Trickham postal station have been sent to the post office department and elected officials. The Trickham office was a Fourth Class post office until being made a rural branch in August of 1958. Mrs. Minnie L. Wilson was made clerk in charge at that time.

If the Trickham postal station is closed it is likely that the star route will be extended to take care of patrons who are being served at the rural station.

STATE Capital NEWS By VERN SANFORD

Water development leaders already are talking about another try with the $3.5 billion water bond authorization in the wake of last week's constitutional amendments elections.

Water bonds — to finance the state's share of the $9 billion Texas water plan — were defeated by only a few thousand votes out of some 700,000 cast.

Meanwhile, say water experts, the master plan is not dead. Preliminary negotiations for out-of-state water can continue, and another vote can be scheduled on the bonds in 1971. Hopefully by then, some of the major objections will be resolved.

Texas, in the amendments election, solved one of the state's pressing problems, for the time being at any rate. They voted nearly two-to-one in favor of raising the welfare aid ceiling $20 million a year, to $80 million. This will get aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) payments back to par, and stave off any more cuts in the near future.

Voters also favored issuing $200 million more in college student loan bonds to continue the Texas Opportunity Plan of aid to needy youngsters bent on higher education.

Elimination of deadwood from the state constitution met strong favor. So did payments to survivors of volunteer firemen, reserve or auxiliary police and other state or local government employees killed in line of hazardous duty.

On the other hand, voters were antagonistic toward four other proposed amendments on the August 5 ballot.

They overwhelmingly rejected pay raises for state legislators and annual sessions of the legislature. They disapproved property tax exemptions for non-profit water supply corporations by a fairly strong margin and narrowly rejected lifting the constitutional interest rate ceiling on state bonds.

Defeat of the annual sessions amendment put an end to hopes of many legislators that another single-year, no-tax state budget can be passed in the current special session and accepted by Gov. Preston Smith.

TAX BILL TO SENATE — Now it's the Senate's week to wrestle with the tax bill.

House passed its $341 million version of revenue raising to balance a biennial budget and sent it across the rotunda. From comments, it is an overstatement to say senators don't like it, but hearings are under way in an attempt to come up with an acceptable compromise — and that won't be easy.

Here is what the House bill does (all levies effective January 1):

- Raises the sales tax rate from three to 3.5 per cent.
- Boosts the cigarette tax five cents a pack, to 16 cents.
- Launches a new 3.5 per cent tax on telephone and telegraph, auto repairs, appliance (except washing machines, dryers and refrigerators) and jewelry repairs, parking, laundry and dry-cleaning (except self-service coin-operated) and professional entertainment services. (Included in the latter would be admission charges to professional athletic contests, night clubs, dance halls, amusement parks and scenic attractions.)
- Levies a 10 cent transactions tax on each sale or purchase of stocks, bonds, warrants and other securities, with few exceptions.
- Cuts the gross receipts tax on telephone and telegraph companies from 2.5 per cent to 1.9 per cent (which would reduce the industry's direct taxes about $5.7 million per biennial fiscal period).

City officials are angry because, while new sales and service taxes would be levied at 4.5 per cent rate in those municipalities which levy local option sales tax, they would get none of added revenue.

One thing seems certain: what comes out of the Senate is unlikely to bear much resemblance to what came over from the House.

LOAN BONDS SOLD — Frist $14 million in new college student loan fund bonds were sold here last week (Aug. 7).

First National City Bank of New York and Associates was successful bidder at a net effective interest rate of 5.4162 per cent. Announcement came from Tom Sealy of Midland, chairman of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System Board administrators the program.

Bonds will be formally authorized and awarded to the purchaser at the meeting of the Coordinating Board on September 2. Funds will be available for fall semester loans. About 36,000 needy Texas resident students have benefited from a total of nearly 100,000 loans since the program went into operation in 1966.

HOSPITAL AID CUT LOOMS Texas hospitals got warning from Texas health authorities that federal building funds may be sharply curtailed under White House budget proposals.

Twenty-eight Texas applicants for Hill-Burton hospital construction aid were notified that the State Health Department received a tentative allocation indicating a "drastic reduction" in U. S. money for the state.

Tentative allotment is reported about $2.1 million for general construction and $689,000 for modernization of Texas hospitals in 1970. About $1 million would go to public health centers, according to health officials who said they hope Congress will raise White House recommendations. About $8 million was allotted Texas for general construction this year and $2 million for modernization.

FOOD - MEDICAL GRANT APPROVED — A $474,000 emergency food and medical services grant has been awarded Texas Office of Economic Opportunity and approved by Governor Smith.

Program will start Sept. 1 to supplement the existing commodity distribution program for 71,000 Texas families. It will operate in 26 counties with highest per centage of poor. Outreach basic food stuffs and medical services will be used to counteract conditions of starvation and malnutrition among poor.

These counties will benefit directly: Austin, Burleson, Caldwell, DeWitt, Falls, Fayette, Freestone, Goliad, Gonzales, Grimes, Houston Lavaca, Lee Leon, Limestone, Madison, Milam, Newton, Orange, San Jacinto, Trinity, Tyler Upshur, Walker, Waller and Washington.

'TREASURE' RETURNS — Last of the material recovered from the Spanish galleon sunk off Padre Island arrived at the Texas Memorial Museum in Austin Wednesday night from Gary, Indiana.

It may be a while before the inventory committee gets through with its checking of the material. Gaylord Armstrong, law partner of former U. S. Rep. Joe Kilgore (one of the inventories), said that the inventory lists and the artifacts seem to tally pretty well, but the committee will have to go through step-by-step, piece-by-piece, to make sure. Nobody is sure when that check will be made, since Kilgore is on vacation on Padre Island and Dr. W. W. Newcomb, head of the Memorial Museum, also is vacationing, and the third committee member, Rep. Don Cavness of Austin, is likely to be tied up with the Legislature for a while yet.

Well, What Do You Know? fun, games and knowledge

by MARTHA GLAUBER SHAPP, Editor, The New Book of Knowledge

What is a mirage?

Suppose you are riding along a country road on a hot day in summer. If you look ahead about a quarter of a mile, you may suddenly see a silvery lake covering the road. You may even see another car reflected in this lake, as in a mirror. When you come up to the place where you saw the lake, you may find that the pavement is perfectly dry. What you saw was not really water. It was only an appearance that is called a mirage. The lake seemed to be there because of something that happens to light rays passing through the air. Usually the light by which you see things travels through the air in straight lines. This is true as long as the air is all at the same temperature. But air, like most other materials, expands and becomes less dense (thinner) when it is warmed. As a result, light is bent aside when it goes from a layer of air at one temperature to a layer at a different temperature. On a sunny day the road becomes quite hot. This warms the air just above the road, while the air higher up stays cooler. Light coming down from the sky through these layers is bent upward again to your eyes. The bright patch of light looks like water.

How did Mother's Day originate?

Mother's Day was first observed in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on May 10, 1908. Six years later President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed the second Sunday in May for public observance of Mother's Day. It is now observed in countries all around the world, including England, France, Sweden, Denmark, India, China, and Mexico, where the celebration lasts 2 days. Carnations are the Mother's Day flowers. Children honor their mothers on this day with gifts, visits, and the wearing of carnations.

What is the difference between a rabbit and a hare?

Rabbits are generally smaller than hares, and their ears are not so long. At birth the young of rabbits are blind, naked, and helpless. Newborn hares are wide-eyed and fully furred. They are able to hop about on the day of their birth. Hares make their nests in ground hollows. Most rabbits, on the other hand, dig far-reaching burrows and bear young in an underground nest.

Cure Worse Than Disease?

More than a year has passed now since the Battle of the Surtax ended on the banks of the Potomac with peace between the President and Congress being sealed with passage of a 10 per cent temporary surtax.

For months before, the battle cry of the Administration had been "Pass the surtax to stop inflation." Take away some of the peoples buying power, through higher taxes, and inflation will be controlled. That was the argument, and Congress finally capitulated.

The surtax began nicking breadwinners for a larger withholding deduction, and then the full impact of the surtax struck home when everyone faced up to Form 1040.

Now a full year after passage of the surtax, inflation is still pushing prices up as fast as before. Consumers and businessmen alike are still paying more at every turn. And the argument made last year by one leading banking spokesman—that the surtax would be a bargain to the American people because inflation (which would end) was taking more money from their pockets than the surtax would—has proven as phony as the Wizard of Oz.

Inflation is taking it from one pocket while the surtax takes it from another.

The nation's small businessmen were almost unanimously opposed to the surtax in the National Federation of Independent Business.

first place, and many are convinced that it has increased inflation instead of slowing it. The bigger companies, in a position to do so, hiked their prices, passing the added tax on to the consumer. When this "pass the buck" started among utility companies, the President's Economic Advisory Council said it was "deeply concerned" and that "consumers shouldn't be asked to pay the companies taxes, too."

Most small and independent businessmen are less able to boost prices, and must absorb some or all of their tax increase, as well as wholesale increases passed on to them.

When the surtax failed to halt inflation, the Federal Reserve System started increasing interest rates and reducing the money available for loans. Many businesses, especially home building, have been adversely affected by this.

Now, the President has asked for extension of the surtax for another year, and Congress is threatening to repeal the investment tax credit which has enabled some small businessmen to expand.

All these measures—the surtax, higher interest rates and loss of a tax incentive—strike the small businessman squarely where it hurts. All eat into his working capital and profits, which could cause slow strangulation. This is one case where the cure for one disease could lead to an epidemic.

Lynne spent Sunday visiting in Brownwood with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Blackwell, Diana and Brenda, while Mr. Dockery was at Guard. Ted Ford and Diana Blackwell visited in the Dockery home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Day and family of Coleman were Sunday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leffel Estes and Geneva. Mr. and Mrs. James Estes and children were Sunday afternoon visitors.

We have the report of the death of Mrs. Hagler of Coleman, a sister of Ray Caldwell. Mrs. Hagler died on Monday at 2 p. m. and services were held Wednesday.

Mrs. Kate McIlvain and Mrs. Blake Williams visited Saturday with Mrs. Fox Johnson and Miss Bernice.

Mrs. Jim Rutherford, Billie Gay, Jimmy Gail and Jennifer spent Sunday in San Angelo, and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Eckles and Dawn and Mrs. Gussie Wise and Larry Rutherford. Billie Gay remained for a longer visit. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rutherford and Majetta Lynn of Santa Anna visited his parents Monday afternoon.

Santa Anna area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps Placement Test at 1:30 p. m. on Saturday, August 16 at Room 2201, Abilene Post Office Building.

The Peace Corps uses the Placement Test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. Persons interested in serving with the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before the test. Application forms are available from Peace Corps in Washington, D. C. 20525.

Fifteen thousand volunteers are currently serving in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Pacific Islands, working with the people of those nations in self-help projects ranging from food production to health to education. More volunteers are needed for programs which will begin training soon.

While you're saving money for college, make sure there's a college to save money for.

There are all kinds of ways to save money for a college education.

A good savings account.

Life insurance.

Or U.S. Savings Bonds.

You see, U.S. Savings Bonds will not only save you money, but they'll insure your country's future at the same time.

It's one way of making sure there's a college whenever you're ready to send somebody to college.

But back to the money part.

Let's say you buy your one-year-old son a $25.00 Bond every month. When he's 18 and ready for college, he'll have $5,506.00.

A $50.00 Bond every month would give him $11,012.00 when he's ready to enroll.

And the beauty is, you never have to worry about this investment.

You simply sign up through a Payroll Savings Plan where you work and then sit back and let the money pile up.

Savings Bonds now pay a new higher rate—4 1/2%—when held to maturity of 7 years.

And if they're lost, stolen, or destroyed, the Treasury Department will replace them free.

Also, with each Series E Bond you buy, you're entitled to buy the same or lower denomination Freedom Share.

Which pays 5% when held to maturity of 4 1/2 years and is redeemable after one year.

Any way you look at it, buying U.S. Savings Bonds makes sense.

They not only get the kids ready for college.

They keep the colleges ready for the kids.

You get a little over $4 for every $5 you invest.

Order In Medicines Is Order Of The Day

Is there confusion in your medicine cabinet? Are there old and leftover medicines tucked away in the pantry, stashed in the glove compartment of your car, forgotten on a shelf in the laundry room, on top of a bureau or in a drawer of the night table?

You can bring order out of confusion by a thorough cleanup at least twice a year, says the Council on Family Health. The Council is a non-profit organization sponsored as a public service by leading members of the drug industry.

First, collect all of your medicines in one place. Be methodical. Check each package, bottle, jar, vial, box or tube.

Discard all prescription medicines left over from previous illnesses, no matter how much is in the containers, unless your doctor has advised keeping them. Medicines should be discarded down the drain.

Discard medicine that you know to be old, that has changed color, separated or otherwise changed composition. Some medicines change with age, becoming either stronger or weaker, or deteriorating in a way that makes the medicine ineffective or even dangerous.

Dispose of any medicines with labels missing or labels so damaged they cannot be clearly read.

After you have flushed away unwanted medicines, wash out the empty containers before discarding them.

Then keep medicines in proper order in your medicine cabinet. Place medicines for internal use on one shelf, those for external use on another shelf and toiletries on lower shelves apart from medicines. Do not store medicines in the grocery pantry or any other place where they may be confused with foods, or where they may be found by little children.

A message to those Americans who don't happen to think the land of milk and honey is going all sour.

Our country is in a strange mood these days.

Uncertainty surrounds us.

So what can you do about it?

Well, first of all, maybe you should take a long, hard look at this country of ours. Maybe we should look at our healthy side as well as our ills.

And maybe, just maybe, you'll find we're not all that bad.

Sure we have our problems. And they're not going to go away if you just stand along the sidelines as a spectator.

But they might start to go away if you seriously want to do something for your country.

A U.S. Savings Bond is one way. Let's say you fork over $18.75 of your hard-earned cash. Through a Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or at your bank. That will give you a Bond that's worth $25.00 in just 7 years. If you did that every month you'd stash away quite a nest egg for yourself.

And so would your country. Your country would be economically stronger to find remedies for some of the headaches we have. While it's preserving something called freedom.

Something that's hard to appreciate. Until you lose it.

Savings Bonds now have a new high interest rate of 4 1/2%. And buying them gives you the privilege of also buying the even higher interest 5% Freedom Shares in combination.

However you look at it, it simply makes a lot of sense to invest in your country. After all, it's the only country you've got.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Defending Your "Castle"

More than three centuries ago, England's Lord Coke proclaimed that "a man's house is his castle." It still is. Generally speaking, you have a right to repel an unlawful intruder, using as much force as is necessary—including even deadly force. For example:

A home owner, hearing someone pry open his kitchen door in the middle of the night, grabbed a gun and went to investigate. Entering the dark kitchen, he demanded that the intruder identify himself. When the man instead began to move forward menacingly, the home owner fired a fatal shot.

Although brought to trial later on a homicide charge, he was found not guilty. The court said that, considering the threatening circumstances, he was within his legal rights in defending the sanctity of his "castle."

The doctrine is not meant to protect your home merely as a pile of bricks and mortar, but rather as a personal haven of safety for you and your family. Therefore, it applies just as much to premises you rent as to premises you own.

Furthermore, you may act not only against an intruder but also against a visitor who refuses to leave when you tell him to.

On the other hand, you must not in any event use more force than is reasonably necessary under the circumstances. Take this case:

A man talking politics with a visiting neighbor became incensed and asked him to leave. The neighbor arose to go. But he did not move fast enough for his erstwhile host, who speeded him along with a vicious kick. Result: the home owner was held liable for assault and battery. The court said the kick was simply not justified by the circumstances.

Nor may you arbitrarily widen your legitimate circle of defense. In another case a girl's protective father saw, approaching the house, a youth whom he had ordered to stay away. The father opened his front door, stepped outside, and shot the caller in the arm.

Here too the home owner was ordered to pay damages. "A man's house is his castle," said the court, "but he has no right to go (outside) and attempt to kill a man who has done no act indicating the intention of making forcible entry."

Sunday morning Bill and Doris Shield, our nephew and wife from Bonham, came by from a trip and spent most of the day. We all attended church with Ethel and Forest and Alice at West Amarillo Christian Church. Ethel is still active for her age and full of life as usual. She had a nice turkey dinner with all the trimmings and a pretty birthday cake Alice and Forest had made by a bakery. She received a number of gifts, in all 30 birthday cards, several from Trickham friends and kin. We all made her happy. We returned home Monday evening.

How to send messages in cipher and code

If you and your friends wish to share a secret, you can write it in code, and no one else will be able to read it. Codes are one way of writing in secret. Ciphers are another. In a code each word is written as a secret code word or code number. In a cipher each letter is changed. Secret writing that uses codes and ciphers is called cryptography.

Ciphers are divided into two types: transposition and substitution. In transposition ciphers the letters of the message are jumbled. To construct a simple transposition cipher, write the "clear," or original, message in horizontal lines containing an equal number of letters in each line. The message MEET ME AT FOUR TOMORROW might look like this:

MEET

Decide on some route to follow, such as up and down the columns, and copy the letters in that order. If you start at the upper left-hand corner and go down the first column and up the next, the message will read MMFTR ROOEE EAUMO WORTT. The person receiving the jumbled message must know or must figure out what route was followed. Then he can reconstruct the message.

In a substitution cipher the letters of the message do not change their order. Instead, other letters are substituted for the message letters. Every R in the message might be replaced by a T, every P by a B, and so on. To put a message into a simple substitution cipher, write out the alphabet in any order you wish. Substitute the letter in the bottom line for the letter in the top line whenever it appears in the message. If the person receiving the secret message does not know the key—which letter was substituted for which—he may still be able to decipher the message. He will try different letters of the alphabet, beginning with the ones most often used. In English the letter E is used most often, so E would be tried in place of the letter that appears most frequently in the cipher. The letter T is the next most used, so it would be tried for the next most frequent letter in the cipher, and so forth. Here is a simple cryptogram, or secret message, based on a substitution cipher:

XOPPS OBE YTLE MQOSLE
CB YCT QXC EOSM

And here is the solution: Wally and Fred stayed on for two days.

Codes are worked word by word instead of letter by letter. Because it would be very difficult to learn a code by heart, a code book must be used. Secret codes that are spoken rather than written are called jargon codes. In jargon codes important words are replaced by other words that seem to make sense when put together in a sentence. For instance, a list of code words may show that the jargon word LIBRARY stands for JACK'S HOUSE, MEET stands for GO, and ALWAYS stands for NOT. The sentence WE ALWAYS MEET AT THE LIBRARY would be decoded as DO NOT GO TO JACK'S HOUSE. Secret languages like pig Latin are a form of jargon code. They follow one simple rule. In pig Latin the rule is to move the first letter of each word to the end of the word and add the letters AY. DOG becomes OGDAY. CATCHER becomes ATCHERCAY.

Implied Consent Law Gives Officers A Much Needed Weapon

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today that the State's new implied consent law which becomes effective September 1, 1969, gives law enforcement a much needed weapon to combat drunk drivers.

"Depending on area, drinking drivers figure in 40 to 50 percent of the fatal rural traffic accidents in Texas," Speir said. "This is especially significant when you consider that traffic mishaps claimed 3,481 lives in the state last year."

Under terms of this law, a motorist is "deemed to have given consent" to a breath test if arrested for any alleged offense arising out of his actual operation or physical control of a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

If the suspect refuses the breath test, the officer certifies this fact in an affidavit, together with his probable cause for stopping the person, to the Department of Public Safety. This affidavit, when it reaches the DPS, forms the basis for a petition filed by the Department in the corporation or justice court of the county of residence of the person refusing the test to determine if the officer had probable cause for thinking the person was driving while intoxicated.

Should the judge find the officer had probable cause to arrest the person for driving while intoxicated, the Department of Public Safety, acting on the court's finding and the officer's sworn statement that the subject refused the test, suspends the subject's driver license for the period set by the judge. The suspension, which may run for as much as one year, is subject to appeal to a higher court.

The implied consent law allows the person detained the right to have a test of his blood alcohol taken by his own physician, qualified technician, chemist or registered professional nurse, if taken within two hours after his arrest.

The law also places the responsibility with the Texas Department of Public Safety to certify breath testing equipment and persons authorized to administer breath tests.

Consistent with its policy of assisting local authorities whenever possible, the DPS will offer at least three schools to train city and county officers in operation of the Breathalyzer. These schools, which will be conducted at the Law Enforcement Academy in Austin, will be limited in enrollment to key personnel from localities which now possess, or plan to obtain, breath testing instruments.

Currently, the DPS is utilizing breath testing equipment in a voluntary program. The Breathalyzer instruments are located at central points in some 90 counties and are operated by DPS officers who have completed an intensive training course. The instruments are checked and serviced weekly by qualified DPS Chemists.

"With the advent of the new law, we hope to obtain at least one breath testing instrument for each county, and plan to train additional personnel in their operation," Speir noted.

GRAIN SORGHUM PRODUCERS CERTIFIED—Grain sorghum producers in a twenty-nine county area of the Texas Panhandle and High Plains will vote this fall on whether to assess themselves for crop promotion and research. Accent On Health

When the month of August rolls around, thousands of Texas mothers suddenly realize that only a few weeks remain until school begins.

Parents with youngsters beginning school for the first time this September look forward to school with a little more excitement, and many mothers whose first-born are going off to school may be a bit bewildered by it all.

In addition to the million-and-one chores that must be performed in getting the youngster ready for school—new shoes, clothes, health examination—most school districts require proof of age for beginning students. A certified copy of a birth certificate is usually requested, reports the Texas State Department of Health.

This fall there will be 256,000 new first graders in the schools throughout Texas, with the total public school enrollment expected to reach 2,703,000. Continued growth of the school population is expected for the next two to three years, according to the Texas Education Agency.

Anticipating the rush of birth requests, the Records and Statistics Section of the Texas State Department of Health has prepared for it. Requests already are pouring in.

It takes a sizeable staff just to open the thousands of letters received daily, let alone search out a requested certificate, remove it from the thick volume, make a certified copy, mail it out and then return the original certificate to its proper place.

Years of experience have eliminated nearly every bottleneck. The operation is smooth and fast. Usually the copy is mailed within a day or two after the request is received.

One bottleneck still remaining, however, is the individual who makes the last-minute request. Parents are requested to stop now and write for a certified copy of the birth certificate, or contact either the city registrar where the child was born or the county of birth.

If you write the Texas State Department of Health, Bureau of Vital Statistics, 410 East Fifth, St., Austin, Texas, be sure to: include the child's name, place of birth, date of birth, and the parents' name (including the mother's maiden name.) The State Health Department fee for a certified copy of the birth certificate is $1.50.

Miss Susan Mueller of Fort Worth spent several days here with the Tom Kingsbery family. She returned to Fort Worth Tuesday.
