Stockmen's Meeting.

The stockmen of Mitchell county held a meeting at the court house at Colorado Saturday, October 9th, at 2:30 p. m. Dr. Coleman stated that the object of the meeting was to make permanent the organization of some weeks ago, relating to the interests of the cattle industry of Mitchell County.

After fully discussing the present conditions of the industry in the county, the following organization was agreed upon:

1. Resolved that the name of this organization be "Mitchell County Cattle Raisers' Protective Association."
2. That its purpose is to encourage and urge the necessity of tick eradication.
3. Its officers shall consist of a President, Secretary and Treasurer.
4. Each member shall pay an admission fee of $2.50.
5. One-half a cent per head shall be levied on all cattle owned by the members of this association, to defray expenses of the association; said levy to be made as needed.
6. The association will meet at the call of the President.
7. The following constitutes the roster of active members to date: S. M. Ross, D. N. Arnett, Jno. W. Lovelady, W. E. Warren, F. E. McKenzie, H. C. Beal, J. D. Wulfjen, U. D. Wulfjen, D. H. Snyder, Jr., Ben Plaster, Scott W. Greene, T. A. Morrison, Will Morrison, Earl Morrison, Brooks Bell, Chas. Mann, Nat L. Smith, P. C. Coleman, A. E. Stewart, Hall Jarman, Joe Stokes, Landers Bros., Ed Dupree.
8. F. E. McKenzie was elected President and Brooks Bell Secretary-Treasurer.

The President appointed Dr. P. C. Coleman and Brooks Bell a committee to meet Dr. Steddam, who is to be here on October 20th, and requested them to see Hon. W. R. Smith, Ed J. Hamner and Judge R. H. Looney, and ask them to assist the committee in entertaining Dr. Steddam, on that occasion.

The President asked for a donation to pay some incidental expenses the association had incurred. The response was quick and liberal. Whereupon the association adjourned to meet at the call of the President.

MY FATHER'S SON.

"My Father's Son" is one of the plays which will be produced by the Albert Taylor Company during their engagement at the Opera House which begins on Friday October 15th. It is one of these quiet, heart interest comedies which depends less on thrilling climaxes for success than on a delineation of character types such as we meet in daily life.

Before the story opens the hero has unwittingly compromised a young girl on board a ship, although he has never seen her. How that is possible the story fully accounts for. To make amends he signs a contract of marriage with her which is binding under the Spanish law, but he signs the name of a friend. Years afterwards he falls in love with a beautiful girl he meets in London, and his father hearing of his marriage, but knowing none of the particulars, sends him, in disgrace, to his Bombay house. There he makes good by discovering that the agent is dishonest and exposing him. The girl he loves also goes to India with her uncle, but his matrimonial tangle with his unknown wife keeps him silent. In the end the girl proves to be the unknown wife, but not until complications have arisen which produce as funny a succession of amusing situations as ever a playwright devised. The play is finely written and is in the same class with "A Poor Relation," "Peaceful Valley" and "A Gilded Fool."

Quiet Home Wedding.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Avery last Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the marriage ceremony was celebrated by Rev. J. R. Henson, between Mr. Earl Jackson and Miss Maude Avery, in the presence of about forty friends of the families.

In the cozy parlor a grotto of pure white, arched with a bow of evergreen had been arranged in one corner of the room. Pendant from the center of the arch, an electric light shed a dazzling white over the contracting couple, as they arranged themselves therein facing the company, the while Mr. Allen Payne played a wedding march. The bridal couple were preceded by Mr. Claude Jackson (cousin of the groom) with Miss Jessie Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Obie Avery, who supported the officiating clergyman on either side.

Amid a solemn hush the beautiful marriage ritual of the Methodist church was recited by Rev. J. R. Henson, at the conclusion of which he pronounced them husband and wife until "death did them part."

This young couple begins their dual life under the most promising auspices. The groom is the present chief deputy sheriff of Mitchell county, capable, popular, and of upright christian character. Every man he knows is his friend. The bride is a flower of

NEW FARMING

Half-Million Fertile Acres Added to Texas Agriculture

By November 1st, 1909, the Valley Railroad (Burlington) the best farm developing region (America) will complete and commence passenger service on its line, Stamford to Spur, the terminal town in Dickens county, Texas.

This town is in the center of a tract of 673 square miles of the smoothest, most fertile virgin farm lands of Texas—farms in which are offered to homeseekers at prices from $12.00 to $17.50 per acre, on easy terms—one-fifth down, balance in six annual payments. Wonderfully adapted to cotton—no boll weevil ever known—corn, alfalfa, grain, fruits, vegetables, and all the products of the farm known to this latitude. It is the coming hog country, nowhere can they be matured more cheaply, and cholera is absolutely unknown in this belt; quick run to Fort Worth market.

Delightful climate—altitude 2000 to 2500 feet—not on the plains. Some of the lands are covered with mesquite trees—others are open or mixed. Deep rich soil with great variety of character—chiefly sandy loam and chocolate loam with clay subsoil. Water generally shallow. Will be sold in quarter-sections or upwards direct to

This decision was reached after a visit to the lands by Judge Ed. R. Kone, Commissioner of Agriculture, and Dr. H. H. Harrington, Director of Experiment Stations, who recognized their unusual farming value.

A Success—Yes.

Credit to whom credit is due. When the present "The Price is the Thing" sale was announced by Hubbard, many looked at it askance, and with a dubious a-hem or two. How can a sale be a success without the quid pro quo to buy, they naturally asked. But success in business depends not so much upon times, seasons, crop failures, and what the other feller would do, as knowing just when to get into the game—this is known as "business acumen," an asset more valuable than money-in-hand or any other quality, except credit. Well, Prophets of Evil to the contrary notwithstanding, the sale has so far surpassed even the expectations of the Hubbard force itself, that it has won the dignity and importance of "A Pronounced Success." Hubbard's is not alone a permanent institution in Mitchell county, but a decided factor in its commercial circles. Beginning modestly, dealing squarely, and above all, but keeping Spartan faith with every word of its advertisements, it has established a business which has behind it a better safeguard against "Hard Times" than a bank account—the implicit confidence of the people. For this sale Hubbard's deserves credit and the generous response its advertising has commanded.

Sunday School Rally Day.

Next Sunday October 17th is the Great Day for all the Sunday Schools in Texas. Every town and City from Dallas to the smallest Hamlet are making strong efforts to get every body into the Sunday Schools on next Sunday. We want 2000 present. Will YOU come? Annual Report of the Baptist Church.

The Baptist church of this city made a creditable showing in its annual report to the Sweetwater Baptist Association last week. The church received fifty-two members during the year, thirty by letter and twenty-two by baptism, and now has a membership of two hundred and sixty, against one hundred and fifty-six at the beginning of Rev. Nichols' work as pastor. In other words, after a careful revision of the church roll, removal of several members, and by death, the church has made a net gain of one hundred and four members under the ministry of Rev. Nichols, which began nearly five years ago.

The contributions of the church, including $1,200 contributed by the Ladies Aid Society, and a small amount by the Sunday school, is as follows: To missions, education, and orphanage work, $784.80; home expenses $2,328.58, making a total of $3,113.38 contributed by the church during the year for all purposes.

The Sunday school also had a great report in point of enrollment and attendance, the record standing as follows: Enrollment, not counting the "cradle roll" 258, and an average attendance for the year of 201.

There is perfect harmony in the church, and the pulpit and the pew are planning for even greater things in the days to come for advancement of the church.

Effect of Polar Glitespair of Ahweiah,
and Is Impossible" -o-

[The Cook expedition, Gloucester, Mass., and Dr. Cook's party were put ashore at Greenland, with ample stores and the winter made preparations for a polar dash. On Feb. 19, 1888, the expedition started for the pole with eleven men, 100 dogs and eleven heavily loaded sleds. Going a little north of west, the party on March 1 reached the northern end of Heiberg island. Here the expedition divided, six men returning. The real race to the pole began. On March 15 twenty-six miles were made and the next day twenty-one. Then two more of the men returned, leaving only two young Eskimos to accompany Dr. Cook, with two loaded sledges and twenty-six dogs. On March 20 sixteen miles were covered, twenty-nine miles on the 21st, twenty-two the following day and afterward for several days an average of seventeen or eighteen. Near the northern edge of Grant Land a great open lead was encountered, which was crossed with some peril on the young ice. Some days later after a severe storm the ice split open under the igloo, and Dr. Cook in his sleeping bag sank into the crevice, being dragged to safety by the young Eskimos. The advance was halted by storms, in one of which the dogs were buried and in another the men themselves. To the west a new land, named Bradley Land by Cook, was sighted, extending from 83 degrees 20 minutes to 85 degrees 31 minutes and close to the one hundred and second meridian. Dr. Cook's own account of his dash from Bradley Land to the pole is given below.]

OVER the newly discovered coast lines was written Bradley Land, in honor of John R. Bradley, the benefactor of the expedition. As we passed north of this land there was nothing substantial upon which to fix the eye. There was at no time a perfectly clear horizon, but the weather was good enough to permit frequent nautical observations. Thus day after day the marches were forced, the incidents and the positions were recorded, but the adventures were promptly forgotten in the mental bleache of the next day's effort. The night of April 7 was made notable by the swing of the sun at midnight. For a number of nights it made grim faces at us in its setting. A teasing mist, drawn as a curtain over the northern sea at midnight, had given curious advantages for celestial staging; setting into this haze, we were unable to determine sharply the advent of the midnight sun. Now the great bulk was drawn out egg shaped, with horizontal lines drawn through it. Again it was pressed into a basin with flaming fires, burning behind a curtain of frosts; blue at other times, it appeared like a huge vase, and it required very little imagination to see purple and violet flowers. The change was often like magic, but the last display was invariably a face-distorted faces of men or animals were made to suit our fancy. We had therefore followed the sun's northward advance—from its first peep at midday above the south ice of the polar gateway to its sweep of the northern ice at midnight. From the end of the polar night late in February to the first of the double days and midnight suns we had forced a trail through darkness, blood hardening temperature and over leg breaking irregularities of an unknown world of ice to an area 200 miles from the pole. Now we had the sun unmistakably at midnight, and its new glory was quite an incentive to our life of shivers. Observations on April 8 placed camp at latitude 86 degrees 36 minutes, longitude 94 degrees 2 minutes. In spite of what seemed like long marches we had advanced only 100 miles in nine days. Much of our hard work was lost in circuitous twists around troublesome pressure lines and high, irregular fields of very old ice. The drift ice was throwing us to the east with sufficient force to give us some anxiety, but with eyes closed to danger and hardships the double days of fatigue and glitter quickly followed one another. The temperature, ranging between 36 and 40 degrees below zero F., kept persistently near the freezing point of mercury, and, though the perpetual sun gave light and color to the cheerless wastes, we were not impressed with any appreciable sense of warmth.

the sunbeams seemed to make of the air pierce with a more stinging. There was a weird play of optics, strikingly most impressive at this time—clouds of steam rose from the frozen seas. In marching over the golden glitter snow scalds the face, while the nose is bleached with frost. In camp a grip of the knife left painful burns from cold metal. To the frozen finger the water was hot. With wine spirits the fire was lighted, while all delighted the stomach. In dreams heaven was hot, the other place was cold. All nature was false. We seemed to be hearing the chilled flame of a new hades. In our hard life there was nothing genuinely warm. The congenial appearances were all deception, but death offered only cold comfort. There was no advantage in suicide.

We should have enjoyed this curious experience, but with endless bodily discomforts, combined in aching muscles and an overbearing languor, there could be no real joys from the glories of nature. The pleasure was reserved for a later retrospect. We now changed our working hours from day to night, beginning usually at 10 and ending at 7. The big marches and prolonged hours of travel with which fortune favored us earlier were no longer possible. Weather conditions were more important in determining the day's run than the hands of the chronometers. When the storms threatened, the start was delayed, and in strong blows the march was shortened, but in one way or another we usually found a few hours in each turn of the dial during which a march could be forced between winds. It mattered little whether we traveled night or day—all hours and all days were alike to us—for we had no accustomed time of rest, no Sundays, no holidays, no landmarks or mileposts to pass. To advance and expend the energy accumulated during one sleep at the cost of our pound of pemmican was the one sole aim in life.

The observations of April 11 gave latitude 87 degrees 20 minutes, longitude 95 minutes 19 seconds. The pack disturbance of Bradley Land was less and less noted in the northward movement. The fields became heavier, larger and less crevassed. We had now passed the highest reaches of all our predecessors and had gained the inspiration of the farthest north for ourselves. The time was at hand, however, to consider seriously the necessity of an early return. Nearly half of the food allowance had been used. In the long marches supplies had been more liberally used than anticipated, and now our dog teams were much reduced in numbers. A hard necessity had forced the cruel law of the survival of the fittest, for the less useful dogs were fed to the steady working survivors. Owing to the food limits and the advancing season we could not prudently continue the outward march a fortnight longer. We had dragged ourselves 300 miles over the polar sea in twenty-four days. Including delays and detours, this gave an average of nearly thirteen miles daily on an air line in our course. There remained an unknown line of 100 miles before our ambitions could be satisfied. The same average advance which we had made on the pack would take us to the pole in thirteen days. There were food and fuel enough to risk this adventure.

In the diary of the succeeding days' doings, there appear numerous tabulations of work and observations. In the new cracks the thickness of the ice was measured. The water was examined for life. Atmospheric, surface water and ice temperatures were taken, the barometer was noted, the cloud formations, weather conditions and ice drifts were tabulated.

I watched daily for possible signs of dangerous failure in strength, for serious disability, now meant a fatal termination. A disabled man could neither continue nor return, but every examination gave another reason to push human endurance to the limit of the strain of every fiber and cell. The hard work which followed, under an occasional burst of burning sunbeams, brought intense thirst. Forcing the habit of the camel, we managed to take enough water before starting to keep sufficient liquid in the veins for the day's march, but it was difficult to await the melting of the ice at changing time. In two sittings—evening and morning—each took an average of three quarts of water daily. This included the tea and also the luxury of an occasional soup. There was water about everywhere in heaps, but it was in crystals, and before the thirst could be quenched several ounces of precious fuel, which had been carried thousands of miles, must be used. And still this water, so expensive and so necessary to us, ultimately became the greatest bane to comfort. It seeped through the pores of the skin, saturated the boots, forced a band of ice under the knee and a belt of frost about the waist, while the face was nearly always incased in a mask of icicles from the breath—a necessary part of our hard lot in life, and we learned to take the torture philosophically.

From the eighty-seventh to the eighty-eighth parallel we passed for two days over old ice without pressure lines or hummocks. There was no discernible line of demarcation for the fields, and it was quite impossible to determine if we were on land or sea ice. The barometer indicated no elevation, but the ice had the hard, waving surface of glacial ice, with only superficial crevasses. The water obtained from this was not salty, but all on the upper surface of the ice of the polar sea makes similar water. The nautical observations did not seem to indicate a drift, but nevertheless the combined tabulations do not warrant the positive assertion of either land or sea for this area.

The ice gave a cheering prospect. A plain of purple and blue ran in easy undulations to the limits of vision.

without the usual barriers of uplifted blocks. Over it a direct air line course was possible. Progress, however, was quite as difficult as over the irregular pack. The snow was crusted with large crystals. An increased friction reduced the speed, while the surface, too hard for snowshoes, was also too weak to give a secure footing. The loneliness, the monotony, the hardship of steady, unrelieved travel were now keenly felt.

It is not often that man's horsepower is put to the test as ours was. We were compelled to develop a working energy to the limit of animal capacity. Day after day we had pushed along at the same steady pace over plains of frost and through a mental desert.

As the eye opened at the end of an icy slumber the fire was lighted little by little, the stomach was filled with liquids and solids, mostly cold—enough to last for the day, for there could be no halt or waste of fuel for midday feeding. We next got into harness and paced off the day's pull under the lash of duty. We worked until standing became impossible—longer in light winds, shorter in strong winds, but always until the feet became numb and heavy. Then came the arduous task of building a snow house. In this the eyes, no longer able to wink, closed, but soon the empty stomach complained, and it was filled up again—not with things that pleased the palate, only hard fuel to feed the inner fires, while the ear sought the soft side of ice to dissipate fatigue; no pleasure in mental recreation, nothing to arouse the soul from its icy inclosure. To eat, to sleep, to press one foot ahead of the other, was our steady vocation, like the horse to the cart, but we had not his advantage of an agreeable climate and a comfortable stable at night.

Words and pictures cannot adequately describe the maddening influence of the sameness of polar glitter, combined with bitter winds, extreme cold and an overworked body. To me there was always the inspiration of anticipation of the outcome of ultimate success, but for my young savage companions it was a torment almost beyond endurance. Their weariness was made evident by a lax use of the whip and an indifferent urging of the dogs. They were, however, brave and faithful to the bitter end, seldom allowing selfish ambitions or uncontrollable passions seriously to interfere with the main effort of the expedition.

On the morning of April 13 a strain of agitating torment reached a breaking point. For days there had been a steady cutting wind from the west, which drove despite to its lowest reaches. No torment could be worse than that never ceasing rush of icy air. Ahweiah bent over his sled and refused to move. His dogs turned and looked inquiringly. I walked over and stood by his side. Erukshuk came near and stood motionless, staring blankly at the southern skies. Large tears fell from Ahweiah's eyes and pled a little frost of sadness in the blue of his own shadow for several minutes. Not a word was uttered, but I knew that each felt that the time had come to free the fetters of human passions. Slowly Ahweiah said, "Une slug pa—oo-ab-tonie fo-dorin" ("It is well to die—beyond is impossible").

WOMEN AT STATE FAIR.

Wonderful Art Exhibit and Superb Textile Display.

RARE AZTEC POTTERY.

Archeological Finds in Mexico Will Be Exhibited at Coming Exposition, Which Opens October 16.

Experience has demonstrated to the officials of the State Fair of Texas, the twenty-fourth annual meeting of which will be held at Dallas October 16-21, that the women of the Southwest enjoy practically every department. The women like the horse and cattle shows, the races, the dog and poultry shows, and then the exhibitions of fruits and flowers, the honey displays and dairy products, with demonstrations in butter making, always hold the interest of the women patrons of the fair. But that department of the fair which is considered their especial sphere is where the handicraft of the women of the South is displayed, the loan art division and the culinary department.

Perhaps no department of the fair last year occasioned such universal praise as the loan art exhibit. This magnificent collection was exhibited in art hall, an apartment especially built for the purpose and situated directly in the center of the textile building. Visitors from the North and East, who had visited the art galleries and studios of New York, Philadelphia and even London and Paris, declared this to be the finest collection ever exhibited in one hall. A great many Texans availed themselves of a rare opportunity of purchasing works of art, usually unobtainable except in New York. This year the collection will be even greater and will contain the works of John Sloan, R. J. Onderdonk, Gilbert Stuart, A. T. Van Lear, Charles Peter Bock, Carlton T. Chapman, Charles C. Curran and others.

Outside the loan collection hall, but in the same building, arrangements have been made for exhibitions by art schools. The textile building is again going to overflow with displays of needlework, hand-made lace, embroideries, photography, arts and crafts, oil paintings and water colors, hand-painted china and ceramics. As premiums totalling $1250 are awarded in this department, exhibitors who have carried off ribbons and cash prizes year after year need to look to their laurels at the coming fair, for fresh competitors from many new sources will be in the field.

That which will be an interesting feature of the textile division is a general display of manual art, an exhibit open to the school children of the state. This is a new department and one that will result in great benefit to the children of every town in Texas. Prizes ranging from $3 to 75 cents will be awarded for domestic art and domestic science work, metal work, carved woodwork, pencil drawing, and other work taught in the manual training schools. In the arts and crafts, another new feature, prizes will be awarded for the best specimens of burned or stained leather, metal lamp or candle shades, metal book ends, etc. There will be displays of old ladies' work, lace work, knitting and crochet work, plain and fancy sewing and decorative art.

One of the features of the fair will be a rare exhibit of Aztec pottery, carvings, miniature gods, etc., loaned to the geological department by the Mexican government. An interesting detail of this exhibit is that these figures are all females, and in addition represent the various races of mankind—negroes, Chinese, Indians, etc. How these Aztecs and the people that lived before them knew of Negro, Chinese and other races, is left to the archeologists to solve. In the culinary department all those rare delicacies of the table, in which the women of the South lead the world, will be displayed and there promises to be an interesting rivalry among the housewives of the state. The offerings are exceedingly generous and are classified in the three following divisions: Breads, cakes, etc., preserves, jellies, pickles, canned goods, etc., and fancy prepared fruits.

In the anthropological exhibit there will be a panorama of Texas from the days of the early Spanish conquerors until now. The story will be told in antique furniture, weapons, wearing apparel, etc. Then the coming of the American colonist with his crude but substantial furniture, and then the manner in which the rich planters lived "befo' de wab." An interesting collection, dating back to the days of the mission fathers, promises to add much interest to this exhibit.

A gigantic enterprise is the only manner in which to describe the extent and magnitude of the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the State Fair of Texas, which begins at Dallas Saturday, October 16, and continues sixteen days. A mammoth vehicle and implement exhibit, covering twelve acres in extent; three thousand head of cattle, horses, swine, sheep, jacks, jennets and mules; three thousand birds in the poultry department; two acres of farm and mill displays; two hundred amusement enterprises; one thousand race horses; a great building overflowing with articles of handicraft of the women of the South, but gives an idea of what the fair this year will be. Improvements totalling in cost $160,000, of which sum $100,000 is being expended for a coliseum, and $60,000 awards and premiums, necessitate financing of the very best. And all this in the fact of adverse legislation, which good or bad, withdraws many thousands of dollars from the annual receipts of the fair.

Texas are fortunate in having a great State Fair at which to illustrate each year the marvelous development of the state, which opens October 16 and continues sixteen days, every industry will be represented in a manner eclipsing all previous efforts.

The musical comedy which held the opera house boards Monday and Tuesday nights, was much above the average of its kind. There were good singing, dancing, fair acting, and-and good looking girls who were not smothered in furs. All and in all, it was just the kind of show that best entertains the average man—and his escort.

Spinning the spider web has been a popular amusement with one of the past week. A spool of thread concealed in the pocket or hand, is played out as they walk along the street. A drummer here last week had a spool of thread in his pocket with the loose end run up his coat sleeve and out at the collar, exposing a loose short length. A friend seeing it would attempt to pick it off without saying anything about it. After pulling out about ten feet, he would generally "smell a mouse."

The Record office finished this week the delinquent tax list of Nolan county. If this job had been set by hand, there would not have been enough "sorts in every country printing office in West Texas to set the list. It required nearly 1000 pounds of metal to set the list on the linotype—50 "gal-lies" of 8-point slugs. This work has been done at odd and over-time, when the machine was not working on news and other job copy.

Mrs. Kay, the trained nurse who has been attending several patients that have undergone operations, returned Saturday to Abilene. She expressed herself as very nice. In love with Colorado and its people. Said she has been in all the towns on the P. & O. professionally, but in none of them had she found the spirit of Mrs. Ellip and neighbors so marked between both the doctors and the people. She expressed a wish to locate with us, and would certainly be an addition and an ornament to our society, being a club woman, an earnest christian and an exceptionally fine nurse, having had charge of a training school for young women before her marriage. We hope that she will decide to move to Colorado.

COLORADO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, OCT. 15, 1904

Soon will the festive hunterman And liver spotted pup; Beat up the prairies, scous the hills; And shoot the country up.

The Dallas News "Snap Shot" Man declares "it better to marry than freeze. Which one has he done, we wonder.

The farmers of Missouri are shooting balloons as they sail over on the assumption that they are "some queer sort of varmint."

When the first woman's club was organized, only ugly women were eligible to membership. Why, sure, this has all been changed. What yer talkings about, man?

The reason why cheap hides do not make cheap shoes, is thus explained by the leather trust: The population of the country increases faster the production of hides." And thus the mystery is explained.

A once buxom school teacher of Pittsburg, deposes in court that by reason of being jilted, she lost 25 pounds in flesh, sees the recalcitrant lover for $25,000 spot cash valuing her flesh at $1,000 the pound avairdu-poise.

The guarantee of our great charter of the unbridable rights of life, liberty and running for office, runs no chance of rusting for lack of exercise. Fro mthe days of the impulsive, chesty, yet patriotic Curtius, good men, bad and indifferent have been found ready to cast themselves into the breach, politically speaking, to save their country and draw a salary.

The Battalion, published by the Students' Association of the A. & M. College, came to us this week. It is bright, neat and reflects not only successful business management but that high "esprit de corps" which should distinguish all military schools. One of the first teachers this writer ever had afterwards became one of the strongest members of the A. & M. faculty. It was Thomas S. Gathright. One of our old schoolmates is a professor since 1877—Louis McInnis.

The spirit of old Sam Bass goes marching on—in Texas as well as elsewhere. Cracksmen blew the safe of the First National bank at Lewisville, Texas Saturday night and escaped with $6,500, but overlooked $9,000 in another compartment of the safe. Another gang of alleged safe blowers were caught at Fort Worth Monday. This gang recently escaped from the jail at Hamilton, and is known to have robbed many banks during the past year, their last operations being at Clifton, Hamilton county, where they robbed the state bank of $10,000.

The entertainment of Lieutenant Governor Manship of Mississippi, last Saturday night at the opera house, was by common consent the most enjoyable of its class, ever secured for the people of Colorado. He had a good and appreciative audience. His entertainment depicted the character of the old antebellum negro, the scattering types of which today, when they meet a man or woman, take off their hats, "drap a curchey" and say "Mornin' Marster—Mistiss." His portrayal of this fast disappearing type, was superb; showing not only uncommon powers as an actor, but an acquaintance with the real negro that only a lifetime association can ingrain into one's mind and manners. If ever Governor Manship comes this way again, let him know that the gates of no city will swing wider open for his reception than those of Colorado. He came, he spoke, and "tuck us—foot and dragon."

When it comes to pulling off the genuine article of fair-state or country, what's the matter with the great commonwealth of Texas—Ha-a-gh?

The West Weekly News is our most recent state exchanges. It is edited by Hon. H. B. Terrell, an avowed Bailey man, and candidate for re-election to the next legislature. It is bright, newsy, and wears the look of material prosperity upon its face. There's room at the top, and may the best one win.

Think on the road bond question suggested last week. The more we talk with the people, the stronger grows the conviction that the citizens of this precinct would vote such an issue. The need of improved roads will remain until the present deplorable condition is mended, but it seems to the Record that now is the most opportune and necessary time for such a public work to be inaugurated. A $50,000 bond issue, with funds immediately available would be worth almost as much to this precinct as a fair cotton crop. The work of making the roads would give employment to many men and teams for the winter. Consider this matter, neighbors, and discuss it.

The Record is in receipt this week of a copy of the first newspaper at which this writer shot his first immature idea, in his green and salad days. It is the Oxford, Mississippi, Eagle. That time in memory "stands apart, like Adam's recollection of his fall." At that time he had never seen the sun set behind the bleak clouds of despair, nor crossed the trail of "broken life." The time yet lingers as a mirage of an oasis beyond the shifting, burning desert sands. Every word was read, re-read and devoured. Every type was scanned, as he searched for the face of a friend of "auld lang syne." The eagle in the headline tho battered and unpreened like himself shines to his eyes like a beacon light in the window "at home." He knows not who sent it, but it came as a breath from Arcady and he hereby express our gratitude to the unidentified friend. May God bless you. Your thoughtfulness has given fresh courage and strength in an unequal strife, and inspired an almost forgotten hope. The Eagle is more than welcome here.

Editor Terrell of the West Times presents the fact that none of the flyers and "limiteds" of the Katy road, stop at that town, but hurl the dust from their grinding wheels as they whizz past, in commentary of the town's insignificance. He has a grievance agin it.

The Record is this week in receipt of a proposition from an advertising agency of Chicago, to place a contract for Sears, Roebuck & Co's advertising, by the inch and page. Although the enormous business of this house has been built by advertising, any merchant of Colorado can do the same thing in proportion to the size of the towns and capital invested, yet we are compelled to turn down the proposition on the broad principle of fealty to home institutions.

We print today a condensed story of the conquest of the Pole by Dr. Cook. Although it is nothing to compare with the extended story, it is of absorbing interest for young and old as well. Read it.

One of the most reprehensible practices among so-called christians is the unbrotherly criticisms often indulged in toward an absent brother. It ought to go without saying that every man is doing the best he can; and if he happens to fall, it is the part of Christian charity to help him to a better life, and it certainly does not help him to vilify him behind his back. Moreover, it is cowardly to do so. We call a man an assassin who stabs another in the back with a knife, and who is it who would not prefer to have his back hurt rather than his reputation? Envy is the acknowledgment of conscious inferiority, and slander is the weapon of a sneak. Let brave men face each other, and let brethren dwell together in unity.—Texas Christian Advocate.

"THERE'S A REASON."

There is a bit of humor as well as a note of irony in the most cordial and pressing invitations extended the country press to attend the Taft-Diaz meeting at El Paso, with the delicate intimation that the whole blowout will be a "blooming mess" except each country editor is on hand in his best bib and tucker. There is a sort of we're depending on you" flavor in the invitation.

Col. A. R. McCollum of the Waco Tribune touches the most sensitive spot in considering his apologies for the inevitable "mess."

A good friend who lives in El Paso has written to the editor of the Tribune, "Come over here in October when President Taft and Diaz are here. It will be a big time and I'll see that you are introduced to both of the distinguished visitors. Come and see how El Paso is growing. It'll be a hog-killing time."

This friend is sincere and big-hearted, but he was ever a creature of impulse, prone to leap before looking.

To get to see Taft and Diaz, yea, to get an introduction is a temptation. But we fear that the number of Texas editors who will get to go to El Paso in October will be limited. Reading our friendly enthusiastic bid we are better able to sympathize with the poor Republican darkies of Texas who were elected in 1904 only to find that Col. Cecil Lyon had called the convention for El Paso—instead of some point in Central Texas, where it had always met.

As one irate colored delegate, who lives in Waco and often confides his troubles to a white Democratic friend told the writer: "It's done to beat de nigger. De Lilly Whites don't want us to meet with em. Show me er nigger about here or any where that can raise the money to make dat trip. Ob courts we ain't gwine to go." And they didn't except the baker's dozen who were wanted and had Republican white friends willing and able to "produce" the expense item.

Now, our El Paso friend isn't insincere and there's no malice preposse in his proposal. Not a bit. He's just impulsive. It's a long way to the Pass of the North. We have written him a grateful letter and made up our mind not to hope to meet Taft at El Paso—and as said we better appreciate the just protest of the colored brothers who didn't go to El Paso in 1904.

What of the Night?

There is no question but that the democratic party has reached a crisis that calls for the wisest and soundest statesmanship by its leaders. Internal dissention, unless speedily healed, will begin its inevitable work of disintegration. Victory for the party in its present disorganized condition, is utterly impossible. If the party ever hopes to gain a victory, it must possess that cohesive force that presents a solid disaffected front to the opposition. Unless this is done, the party will fall to pieces and be absorbed by warring factions that represent nothing but potent obstruction.

Despite his defeats, and positions taken outside the strict limits of his party's platform, Mr. Bryan is today, the greatest living exponent of undefiled democracy, and can presage the result of conditions, as well as any political seer. He boldly declares that victory in 1912 is hopeless with the present disorganized party. If the issue for which he contends can not win, no other need be considered.

Instead of trying to heal the breach, there are prominent men in the party, defending their inconsistent course of supporting measures fatal to the very genius of democracy. Not only so, but many influential democratic papers are endorsing them. It has been the taunt of the republican party that the democratic party has stood for nothing but obstruction, and that when controlling both the Chief executive and one branch of congress, the party was made impotent by internecine warfare and factional jealousy. There was never a time in the party's history when clean, patriotic leaders were so few or so much needed. With the untimely death of Governor Johnson, Mr. Bryan the Prophet of popular democracy is the most available leader.

A Democrat, elected to office by democrats, on a democratic platform, who supports republican policies as stoutly and continuously as the most stalwart republican, is a discredited interpreter of democratic principles. It were better to go down in defeat with such a leader as William Jennings Bryan again and again and keep uncompromised the principles of popular democracy, than to gain a so-called victory under the leadership of political bushwhackers and swashbucklers.

Polar bears will hereafter be used by artie explorers instead of dogs. Good; but who's going to train them bar?

We heard a cotton buyer ask one of our ginners yesterday how business was, and what do you think that ginner said to him? He said with a rebuke in his voice: "Don't speak anything but good of the 'dead.'" Now, what do you think of that as an early fall joke?

The weather for the past week has been ideal. The mornings bracing and cool—just short of actual frost, and crisp as one of the new bank notes we heard a fellow say (?) he saw one day this week in the bank. Talk about the sunset, macaroni, garlic, and moonlight of Italy—sheer! they ain't a patchin' to the meteorological banquet that west Texas can spread any old day in the fall, winter, summer and spring—when the wind ain't blowing from Amarillo way. Its great; come out and see, feel and taste it.

Its always just that way. When one has lost all capacity of enjoyment or the ability and opportunity to indulge it, the gates of the Elysian fields swing wide open and beckoning hands invite him. After the railroad pass was abrogated by a free-riding legislature, there was simply a glut of free doin's everywhere, just beyond the reach of good walking. And now, with the biggest fairs, presidents, banquets, horse racing, and vaudeville shows going on at both ends of the great T. & P. railroad, the overtime newspaper man, finds himself handicapped and hogtied amid the necessities of coming cold weather, shortness of crops and church subscriptions unpaid.

When but a small boy, we had a neighbor who was in the habit of teasing the boys. One day he came along near us and in a kind way said, calling us by name: "Let me see your forefinger." Unsuspectingly we held up the finger, and before we realized what he wanted, he was poking the tobacco down in his lighted pipe with our finger. But come to think of it, the world is full of such doings all the time. How many people are there in any community who are constantly using their neighbors' hands for doing their dirty work. It is astonishing how many people there are who are willing to be used as "cat's paws" for pulling chestnuts out of the fire for others. Are you a "cat's paw"? If so, better quit the cat, whether it be an individual, a corporation, or a political party.—Word and Works.

Making Good.

It does not matter so much what claims a man may make about his ability to do a certain work if he only makes good on the job. The fellow who promises little and does much is the one to tie on to in the long run. Disappointment in one's fellows is discouraging in the extreme. Do not promise to deliver the goods unless you have the groceries on hand. Wind jamming will not clothe the naked nor feed the hungry. Make good on the job. That is the main thing. Deliver the goods and keep it up. There is but one time to get busy and that is all the time. Every day has its tasks and if you, shirk one it will not be long until you will shirk all. Be a worker in the battle. Don't be a drone and live off the labors of others. Add to the sum a little each day. Make good on the job.

Newspaper Farmers' Friend.

In an audience composed mostly of the members of the Farmers' union recently one of the speakers expressed the mutual friendship between the farm and newspaper in the following: "As a rule the farmer has no firmer friend than the country press. The home paper is distinctly the farmer's own paper, supported directly and indirectly by farmers who compose the backbone of the subscription list of the printer, and largely for what the enterprising merchant advertises. Now, brother, let us not forget our friends. Let us see that our subscription is paid a year in advance; we can do it.

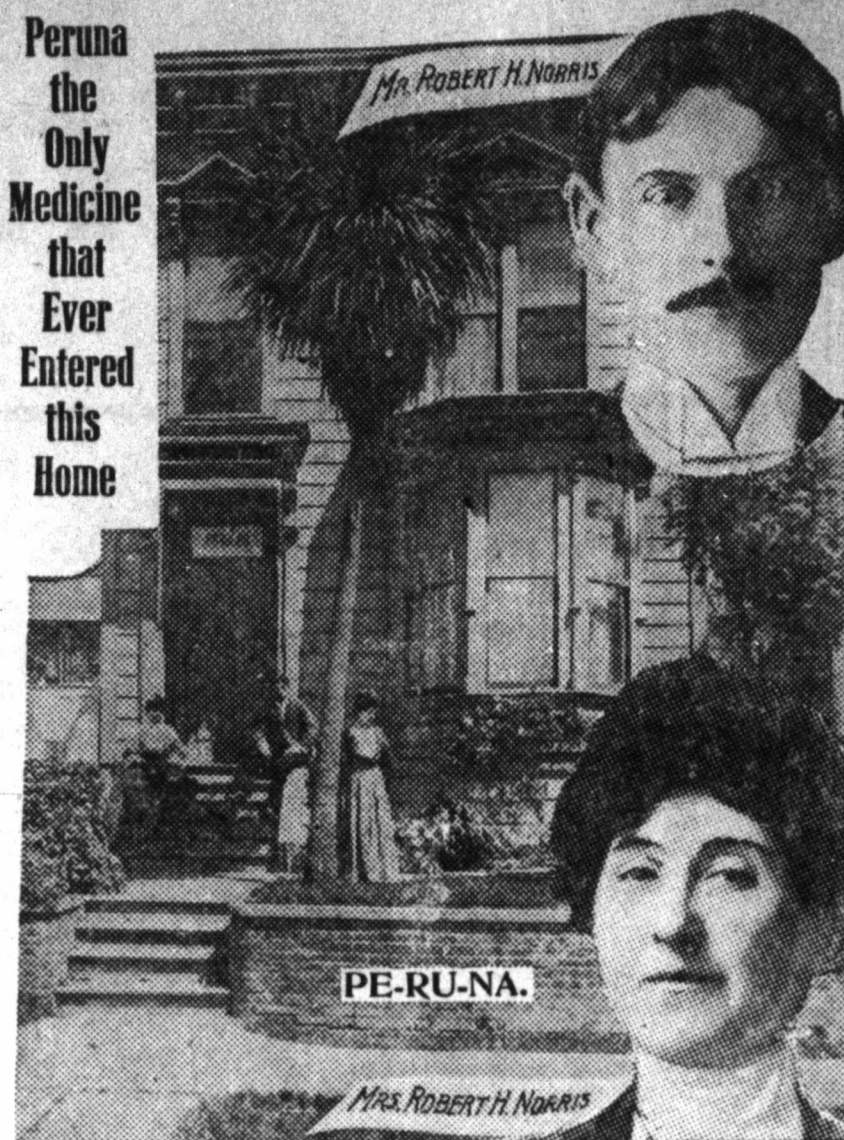

The man of the paper that fights our battles shall have my support. Another thing, the merchants advertising are the ones who make it possible for us to get a good local paper. The man or local firm who is too peevish to advertise and help support the local press has no right to the farmer's patronage.

"I promised, hereafter, to go to the live advertiser and the man who does his share in supporting the local press thus contributing to my support, rather than a man who proposes to take all and give nothing back. If farmers as a class would support their friends, the other fellow would soon go out of business.—Florence (Ala.) Times.

"I suffered with kidney and bladder trouble, but two months' treatment with Peruna made me a well and strong man. "My wife felt weak and was easily tired and was also troubled with various pains, but since she took Peruna she is well and strong. Commander Peary emulates the characteristics of all who have had a training in the navy. With much talk of "conduct unbecoming a gentleman and a soldier" they are the first to break down this fallacy and crowd rudeness into the last notch. Having been fed, pampered and educated by an indulgent government their ideas of broadness are so contracted that they become possessed of the idea that the civilian that remains home and "pays the freight" has no rights when it comes at cross-purposes with any undertaking which others might be engaged in. 2000 people read your ad in the Record every week.

THE CONQUEST OF THE POLE

By Dr. FREDERICK A. COOK

Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Company, Registered in Canada in Accordance With Copyright Act. Copyright in Mexico Under Laws of the Republic of Mexico. All Rights Reserved

THE observations of April 14 gave latitude 88 degrees 21 minutes, longitude 95 degrees 52 minutes. We were but 100 miles from the pole, but there was nothing to relieve the mental strain of the icy despair. The wind came with the same satanic cut from the west. There had been little drift, but the ice before us displayed signs of recent activity. It was more irregular, with an open crack here and there, but the sleds glided with less friction, and the dreary dogs maintained a better speed under rising tails.

With teeth set and newly sharpened resolutions, we set out for that last 100 miles. Some dogs had gone into the stomachs of their hungry companions, but there still remained a sufficient pull of well tried brute force for each sled, and, though their noisy vigor had been lost in the long drag, they still broke the frigid silence with an occasional outburst. A little fresh enthusiasm from the drivers was quickly followed by canine activity.

We were in good trim to cover distance economically. The sledges were light; our bodies were thin. All the muscles had shriveled, but the dogs retained much of their strength. Thus stripped for the last lap, one horizon after another was lifted.

In the forced effort which followed we were frequently overheated. The temperature was steady at 44 degrees below zero F., but perspiration came with ease and a certain amount of pleasure. Later, however, there followed a train of suffering for many days. The delight of the birdskin shirt was changed for the chill of the wet blanket.

Fortunately, at this time the sun was warm enough to dry the furs in about three days if lashed to the sunny side of the sled. In these last days we felt more keenly the pangs of perspiration than in all our earlier adventures.

The amber colored goggles were persistently used, and they afforded a protection to the eyes which was quite a revelation, but in spite of every precaution our distorted, frozen, burned and withered faces lined a map of the hardships en route.

We were curious looking savages. The perpetual glitter induced a squint which distorted the face in a remarkable manner. The strong light reflected from the crystal surface threw the muscles about the eye into a state of chronic contraction. The pupil was reduced to a mere pinhole.

There was no end of trouble at hand in endeavoring to keep the windows of the soul open, and all of the effect was run together in a set expression of hardship and wrinkles which should be called the boreal squint.

This boreal squint is a part of the russet bronze physiognomy which falls to the lot of every arctic explorer. The early winds, with a piercing temperature, start a flush of scarlet, while frequent frostitbes leave figures in black. Later the burning sun browns the skin; subsequently strong winds sop the moisture, harden the skin and leave open fissures.

The hard work and reduced nourishment contract the muscles, dispel the fat and leave the skin to shrivel up in folds. The imprint of the goggles, the set expression of hard lines and the mental blank of the environment have removed all spiritual animation. We have the color and the lines of old russet apples and would easily pass for prehistoric progenitors of man.

In the enforced effort to spread out the stiffened legs over the last reaches there was no longer sufficient energy at camping times to erect a snow shelter. The silk tent was pressed into use. Though the temperature was very low when the sun was high, its congenial rays pierced the silk fabric and rested softly on our brows closed in heavy slumber. In strong winds it was still necessary to erect a shattering wall to shield the tent.

Signs of land were still seen every day, but they were deceptive optical illusions and a mere verdict of fancy.

Final Dash For the Pole.

The "Big Nail" Reached at Last and "Old Glory" Unfurled—Endless Fields of Purple Snows—No North, No East, No West

It seemed that something must happen, some line must cross our horizon, to mark the important area into which we were pressing.

When the sun was low the eye ran over moving plains in brilliant waves of color to dancing horizons. The mirages turned things topsy turvy. Inverted lands and queer objects ever rose and fell in shrouds of mystery, but all of this was due to the atmospheric magic of the midnight sun.

With a lucky series of daily astronomical observations our position was now accurately fixed for each stage of progress. As we neared the pole the imagination quickened, and a restless, almost hysterical excitement came over us. The boys fancied they saw beaver and seals, and I had a new land under observation frequently, but with a change in the direction of light or an altered trend in our temperament the horizon cleared and we became eager only to push farther into the mystery.

From the eighty-eighth to the eighty-ninth the ice was in very large fields and the surface was less irregular, but in other respects it was about the same as below the eighty-seventh. We noticed here also an extension of the range of vision. We seemed to see longer distances and the ice along the horizon had a less angular outline.

The color of the sky and the ice also changed to deeper purple blues. We had no way of checking these impressions by other observations. The eagerness to find something unusual may have fired the imagination, but since the earth is flattened at the pole perhaps a widened horizon should be detected.

At 8 o'clock on the morning of April 19 we camped on a picturesque old field with convenient hummocks, to which we could easily rise for the frequent outlook which we now maintained. The tent was pitched. The dogs were silenced by blocks of pemmican. In our new enthusiasm was aroused by a liberal pot of pea soup and a few chips of frozen meat, and then we bathed in life giving sunbeams, screened from the piercing air by silk strands. It was a beautiful day, and had our sense of appreciation not been blunted by accumulated fatigue we would have greatly enjoyed the play of light and color in the ever changing scene of sparkle.

The Eskimos were soon lost in a profound sleep, the only comfort in their hard lives, but I remained awake, as had been my habit on succeeding days, to get nautical observations. The longitude calculations lined us at 94 degrees 3 minutes. At noon the sun's altitude was carefully set on the sextant, and the latitude quickly reduced gave 89 degrees 31 minutes—twenty-nine miles from the pole.

My heart jumped for joy, and the unconscious commotion which I was creating awakened Etukishuk. I told him that in two average marches we would reach the "big ship" (the big nail).

Ahwelah was awakened with a kick, and together they went out to a hummock and through glasses sought for a mark to locate so important a place as the terrestrial axis. If but one sleep beyond it must be seen.

I tried to explain that the pole was not visible to the eye; that its position was located only by a repeated use of the various instruments. This entirely satisfied their curiosity, and they burst out in hurrahs of joy. For two hours they chanted and danced the passions of wild life.

It was the first real sign of pleasure or rational emotion which they had shown for several weeks. For some time I had entertained the fear that we no longer possessed the strength to return to land, but the unbridled flow of vigor dispelled that idea.

More sleep was quite impossible. We brewed an extra pot of tea, prepared a favorite broth of pemmican, dug up a surprise of fancy biscuits and filled up on good things to the limit of the allowance for our final feast days. The dogs, which had joined the chorus of gladness, were given an extra lump of pemmican. A few hours more were agreeably spent in the tent, and then we started with a new spirit for the uttermost north.

We were excited to a fever heat. The feet were light on this run. Even the dogs caught the infectious enthusiasm and rushed along at a pace which made it difficult for me to keep a sufficient advance to set a good course. The horizon was still searched for something to mark the approaching boreal center, but nothing unusual was seen. It was the same expanse of moving seas of ice on which we had lived for 500 miles.

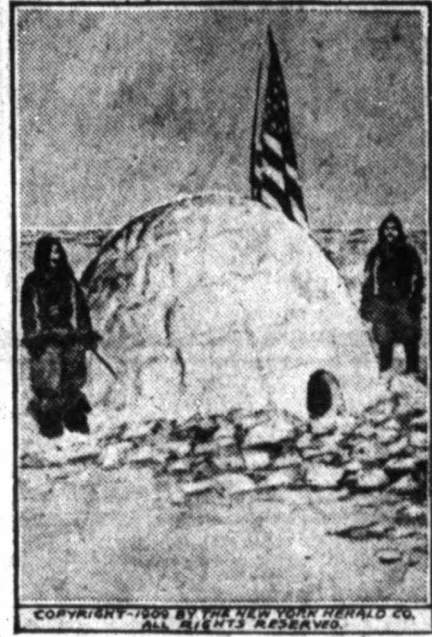

But, looking through gladdened eyes, the scene assumed a new glory. There were plains of gold fenced in purple walls, with gilded crests. It was one of the few days on the stormy pack when all nature smiled with cheering lights.

yards ahead of the sleds I could not resist the temptation to turn frequently to see the movement of the dog train with its new fire. In this direction the color scheme was reversed. The icy walls were in gold and burning colors, while the plains represented every shade of purple and blue.

Through this sea of color the dogs came with a spirited tread, noses down, tails up and shoulders braced to the straps like chariot horses. The young Eskimos, chanting songs of love, came with easy step. The long whip was swung with a brisk crack, and all over there rose a cloud of frosted breath.

Camp was pitched early in the morning of April 20. The sun was north-east; the pack glowed in tones of blue; the normal westerly air of shivers brushed our frosty faces. The surprising burst of enthusiasm had been nursed to its limit, and under it a long march was made over average ice with the usual result of overbearing fatigue. Too tired and sleepy to wait for a cup of tea, melted snows were poured down, and the pemmican was pounded with the ax to ease the task of the jaws. The eyes closed before the meal was finished, and the world was lost to us for eight hours. The observation gave latitude 89 degrees 46.5 minutes, longitude 94 degrees 52 minutes.

With the boys singing and the dogs howling we started off after midnight on April 21. The dogs looked large and noble as they came along that day, while Etukishuk and Ahwelah, though thin and ragged, had dignity as heroes of the greatest human battle which had ever been fought with remarkable success.

We were all lifted to the paradise of winners as we stepped over the snows of a destiny for which we had risked life and willingly suffered the tortures of an icy hell.

The ice under us seemed almost sacred. When the pedometer registered fourteen and a half miles we camped and calmly went to sleep, feeling that we were turning on the earth's axis.

The observations, however, gave 89 degrees 59 minutes 45 seconds. We therefore had the pole, or the exact spot where it should be, within sight.

We advanced the fifteen seconds, made supplementary observations, pitched the tent, built a snow igloo and prepared to make ourselves comfortable for a stay long enough for two rounds of observations.

Our position was thus doubly assured, and a necessary day of rest was gained. Etukishuk and Ahwelah enjoyed the day in quiet repose, but I slept very little. My goal was reached; the ambition of my life had been fulfilled. How could I sleep away such overwhelming moments of elation?

At last we had reached the boreal center. The dream of nations had been realized. The race of centuries was ours. The flag was pinned to the coveted pole. The year was 1908, the day April 21.

The sun indicated local noon, but time was a negative problem, for here all meridians meet. With a step it was possible to go from one part of the globe to the opposite side—from the hour of midnight to that of midday. Here there are but one day and one night in each year. The latitude was 90 degrees, the temperature—38.7, the atmospheric pressure 29.83, North, east and west had vanished. It was south in every direction, but the compass, pointing to the magnetic pole, was as useful as ever.

Though overjoyed with the success of the conquest our spirits began to change on the next day after all the observations had been taken and the local conditions were studied. A sense of intense loneliness came with a careful scrutiny of the horizon. What a cheerless spot to have aroused the ambition of man for so many ages! Endless fields of purple snows! No life, no land, no spot, to relieve the monotony of frost! We were the only pulsating creatures in a dead world of ice.

On April 22, 1908, Dr. Cook began the long return march. With fair weather, good ice and the inspiration of the home run long distances were at first quickly covered.

With a good deal of anxiety Cook watched the daily reduction of the food supply. It now became evident that the crucial stage of the campaign was to be transferred from the taking of the pole to a final battle for life against famine and frost. Early in July farther southward progress became impossible, and in quest of food he crossed the Fifth of Devon into Jones sound. On Feb. 18, 1909, the start was made for Annotok. With a newly prepared equipment the Greenland shores were reached on April 15. Here Dr. Cook was greeted by Harry Whitney and anxious Eskimo friends. To facilitate an early return he moved southward to the Danish settlement and reached Upernivik on May 24, 1909. The Danish ship Hans Egede took him from Upernivik to Denmark.

"Way Down South in the Land of Cotton"

If you could see cotton growing in the field in all its purity—could see the processes by which the cotton seed oil is extracted and refined—could know the ingenuity involved in rendering the oil odorless and neutral in taste—could be made to realize that from Cottonfield to Kitchen human hands never touch the oil from which Cottolene is made—you would appreciate why Cottolene is so much purer and more healthful than lard ever could be.

Cottolene is a cleanly, wholesome product—just as pure as olive oil—and makes food palatable, digestible and healthful. Lard-cooked food is bound to cause indigestion sooner or later, unless you have the stomach of an ostrich. For all shortening and frying purposes, Cottolene is without an equal.

MAKES WORK EASIER.

Colorado People Are Pleased to Learn How It Is Done.

It's pretty hard to attend to duties with a constantly aching back; with annoying urinary disorders. "Doan's Kidney Pills" make work easier.

They cure backache. They cure kidney ills. L. Powell of Big Springs, Texas, says: "I did not have any serious kidney trouble but suffered severely from a lameness across my loins. Although I was not obliged to lay off from work, I was at times in no fit condition to be about. The kidney secretions were very irregular in passage and there was a scalding sensation when voided. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, these troubles have entirely disappeared and I believe this remedy to be a splendid one for kidney difficulties."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Descendant of Robert Fulton.

From the Wilkesbarre, (Pa.) Daily Record, we excerpt the following notice of prominent Colorado citizens, which we are sure, will be read with much interest and pleasure by their friends at home:

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ernest, who were special guests at the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York are visiting relatives in this city on their way to their home in Texas. Mr. Ernest traces his ancestry to Robert Fulton. His wife is a native of this city but moved away about thirty years ago. She is a cousin of the Craig family on South Main street and the Kelly family on William street.

Posted.—My pastures and farm lands, south of Colorado, are posted according to law, and all parties found hunting, fishing, hauling wood or otherwise trespassing will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

A. A. BAILEY.

To the Dallas News staff poet: Don't! Cut out anything but the daily poem. We haven't missed a single one since they began. Without this daily excursion into the field of poesy, a bright particular spot in the incessant grind would be missed and mourned. Through the flowers that bloom beside the path are both modest and humble, they yet exhale a fragrance that stirs the memory of boyhood joys and innocent associations. Cut out the Bryan and Bailey guff; cut out the Cook-Pearry row; chop out the base ball jargon and the Sunday supplement; but foreman, spare that "poem."

Because a young lady teacher is no longer provided for each Chinaman in the mission schools of Pittsburg, Pa., the Celestials have all deserted the church and religion.

We can not see how else Governor Campbell's refusal to attend the Telford meeting at El Paso, can be taken from an act of premeditation; disinterested. But the governor's ears tingle for such prophecies.

Castro? Why what ball team did he play in?

Coal Fumes Are Tubercular Cure.

In the little village of Coperas Cove, Coryell county, there resides a Methodist preacher, whose name is L. G. Grimes. He has been a minister of the Gospel for many years and, unlike the prophet of old, he is honored home and enjoys the full confidence of his home people. He is living with his second wife, the first one having died of consumption, that "white plague," that has carried away so many of our people. Shortly after the death of his dear companion, he was stricken with the deadly malady. He was at the time immigration agent for one of the great railroads entering Texas, and his business called him to the gulf states. The disease developed so rapidly that he was forced to give up his situation, and after several physicians had given up the case as hopeless he returned home to die and made every arrangement to that end. He had frequent hemorrhages from the lungs, and the only exercise he took was a short horseback ride occasionally. One day he rode over to the blacksmith shop to have his horse shod and while the smith was doing this he got on the forge to warm, and accidentally inhaled some of the fumes which seemed to give instant relief and he inhaled it for some time. He returned home, feeling better than he had felt for months, and determined to continue the experiment. Rev. Mr. Grimes says that he never had another hemorrhage that six treatments cured him, and that he has never had a symptom of consumption since. He had a lady friend who was in the last stage of consumption. She had given up all hope and was confined to her bed, from which she could never arise. As she could not sit her husband had a little furnace made and with pipes conveyed the fumes of stone coal into her lungs.

Her physician forbade the treatment, but the husband refused to desist and in a few weeks the lady was able to leave her bed and has never had another symptom of the disease.

Mr. Grimes has told many of this simple remedy and he does not know of a case that was not cured. He has decided that this information is too valuable to be confined to a few, and ought to be published to the world. He knows no better medium than the papers and he hopes that every paper will print it.

Just a few years ago it was widely published that Beaumont oil was a sure cure for consumption, but after a fair test it was abandoned as worthless.

Mr. Grimes' theory is that the oil taken into the stomach has to be taken up by the blood vessels and thence carried to the lungs and that it loses the power to destroy the germs, while the fumes and gasses inhaled at once reach the seat of trouble. Mr. Grimes hopes that you will give this a prominent place in your paper, so that all the world can try the simple and inexpensive remedy. His mission on earth is to do all the good he can for suffering humanity, and while it is not necessary, he says he will answer all letters of inquiry containing a stamp for reply. N. H. RATHER, Coperas Cove, Texas.

What "Marion Harland" Thinks of COTTOLENE. New York, December 15th, 1909. The N. K. Fairbank Company, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sirs: Many years ago I discontinued the use of lard in my kitchen and substituted for it—as an experiment—COTTOLENE, then comparative-ly a new product. Since my first trial of it, I can truly say that it has given complete satisfaction; whether it is used alone, as "shortening," or in combination with butter in pastry, biscuits, etc., or in frying, it has never disappointed me. I honestly believe it to be the very best thing of its kind ever offered to the American housekeeper, and I am glad of the opportunity to make my conviction public. Yours truly, "Marion Harland."

The gospel of Broom corn and factories that the Record has preached in and out of season, together with the soaring prices now obtaining for the brush, seems likely to bear fruit. Mr. J. L. Any land that will produce good maize or sorghum crops, will grow broom corn equally as well. Half a ton per acre at the prevailing price, will discount any crop that is now grown in this county, work and expense considered. On with the good work!

Resolutions Adopted By Mitchell County Union at Herbert, Texas, Oct. 1, 1909.

To the Mitchell County F. E. & C. U. of A.—Greeting:
Whereas, the State Union is hampered and hindered in its work for a lack of funds, and realizing that without a fund to work with the state officials are unable to render the assistance to the farmers who need the most help in handling the distressed cotton.

Therefore, be it resolved, that every member of the union in the state of Texas, be required to pay the sum of $12.00 per annum into the local treasury, the same to be forwarded to the State Secretary-Treasurer for the period of five years beginning with the year 1910. Yearly payments to be as follows: $2.50 August 1st; $4.75 September 1st; $4.75 October 1st; and balance December 1st each year.

The fund thus provided to be placed under the control of the State Executive Committee, they to give a good and sufficient bond to secure the Union against loss.

This fund to be used as follows:
1. To buy distressed cotton.
2. To erect Union gins where needed.
3. To establish a Union bank, or banks.
4. To erect cotton oil mills or such other factories as the Union shall deem necessary.

Certificates of stock shall be issued to every member paying into this fund, showing the amount paid in so that if at any time a dividend should accumulate it shall be paid to the members in proportion to the amount of stock paid in.

Further, that the State Union be asked to so amend the constitution as to make the payment of the aforesaid funds obligatory on all male members the same as dues.

Further, all persons becoming members after January 1st, 1910, be required to pay the same as those who are already members.

Top Price for Broom Corn.
Lawton, Okla., Sept. 28.—The price of broom corn reached high water mark today when $172.50 per ton was paid on the streets of this city. The season opened at $100 and this was considered a remarkable price, but surprises have continued to come until now the market values exceed by more than double the highest price paid last season on the crop. Last year the highest price paid on the local market was $67.50 per ton.

STATE EXPERIMENTAL FARM STATION AT SPUR

Recognizing the great possibilities and wonderful future of Spur Farm Lands, the State has decided to place an Experimental Farm Station at Spur. This will be a great benefit to settlers in that region—showing them by actual demonstrations on the lands what crops can be most profitably raised; best methods of cultivation, and assisting in all the problems of the farm. This decision was reached after a visit to the lands by Judge Ed. R. Kone, Commissioner of Agriculture, and Dr. H. H. Harrington, Director of Experimental Stations, who recognized their unusual farming value.

Wichita Valley Railroad (BURLINGTON SYSTEM). will begin daily passenger service from Stamford (Jones Co.) to terminal town, SPUR, Dickens Co. Texas, on November 1st, 1909

The New Railroad Will Penetrate the Heart of SPUR FARM LANDS

To the first comers (ready to develop), we are willing to sell one-half our holdings of 673 square miles on easy terms and reasonable prices. We reserve the other half for the big increase sure to come with development. We stand shoulder to shoulder with the homeseeker.

Cotton (no boll weevil), corn, alfalfa, all feed stuffs, grain, fruits, melons, vegetables. Great hog country—no cholera ever known. The hog farmer is king, and nowhere can hogs be matured so cheaply. Quick run to Fort Worth market. Delightful, healthful climate—altitude 2,000 to 2,500 feet.

The great extent and variety of land insure the homeseeker such range of selection that the man early on the ground can find exactly what he wants.

Water generally shallow: part covered with mesquite trees; part open.

The town of SPUR will be the terminus. It is in Dickens County; beautiful location, surrounded in all directions by miles upon miles of fertile farming country and destined to be a city.

GIRARD is also a town in SPUR FARM LANDS, in Kent County, fourteen miles below SPUR, in the center of fine farming district. It will be a good trading town. Lots go on sale in both towns Nov. 1st, 1909.

D. 1910, the same being the 3rd day of January A. D. 1910, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 18th day of September A. D. 1909, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 1214, wherein Paul S. Fremau is Plaintiff and S. P. Jackson, Frank Huett and R. K. Huett are Defendants; the nature of plaintiff's demand being as follows:

To foreclose a Vendor's Lien to enforce the collection of six certain promissory notes aggregating the sum of $900, also the interest, principal, attorney's fees and damages, plaintiff alleging that on the 3rd day of January will amount to the sum of $1,500. Plaintiff alleges that by purchase he became the owner and holder on February 25, 1908, of said six certain promissory notes, described as follows, to-wit: Note No. 1 for the sum of $100; Note No. 2 for the sum of $100; Note No. 3 for $175; Note No. 4 for $175; Note No. 5 for $175; Note No. 6 for $175, said notes executed and delivered by R. K. Huett to S. P. Jackson at Lorraine, Texas, on the 14, day of November, 1907 and payable to the order of S. P. Jackson at Lorraine, Texas, on or before the 15th day of November, 1908, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912 and 1913 respectively, each bearing interest from date at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, interest payable annually as it accrues and providing for interest at the rate of 10 per cent after maturity and also for an additional 10 per cent as attorney's fees if placed in the hands of an attorney for collection or if collected by suit; each of said notes provides that in case of default in the payment of same or any installment of interest thereon when due shall at the election of the holder thereof, mature all of said notes. Plaintiff alleges that said notes are secured by a vendor's lien on a certain tract of land described in the deed of same date executed by S. P. Jackson, to said R. K. Huett. Plaintiff further alleges that Note No. 1, is long past due and unpaid, and though defendants have been often requested to pay same, they have refused so to do, and still fail and refuses to pay same, and as in said note provided he elects to mature all of said notes. Plaintiff alleges that defendant Frank Huett is setting up some kind of claim to said land the exact nature of which Plaintiff does not know. Premises considered Plaintiff prays that each of said defendants be cited to appear and answer this petition and that on final hearing hereof, he have judgment for the principal, interest, attorney's fees, cost of suit, with 10 per cent on the judgment until paid, and for a foreclosure of the Vendor's Lien on the land in said deed and notes described, which is 130 acres lying in Van Zandt County Texas, out of the J. Jofes and J. Stephenson Surveys described by metes and bounds in said deed above referred to and in plaintiff's original petition filed herein.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court, on the first day of the next term thereof, this Writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

D. 1909, the same being the 29th day of November, A. D. 1909, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 8th day of October, A. D. 1909, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court, No. 2248, wherein H. Wright is Plaintiff and R. F. Bassinger, G. L. Bassinger and C. C. Wyatt are Defendants; the nature of plaintiff's demand being as follows: Action on a promissory note for $75.00, dated Colorado, Texas, February 13, 1909, due October 1, payable to the order of Chas. C. Wyatt, at Colorado, Mitchell County, Texas, with interest from date at the rate of ten per cent per annum, and containing stipulation for 10 per cent attorney's fees in case same be placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, and secured by a chattel mortgage lien on one Commonwealth Buggy and single harness sold by said Wyatt to said R. F. and G. L. Bassinger that day, said note being endorsed C. C. Wyatt, and having been transferred to plaintiff before maturity for a valuable consideration. Plaintiff avers that he has been compelled to place said note in the hands of an attorney for collection and to institute this suit and has incurred a liability to pay the reasonable value of said attorney's services which he avers to be far in excess of ten per cent, on the amount due. Plaintiff prays for the issuance of an attachment against the property of the said C. C. Wyatt for the reason that he is not a resident of this state and against the other defendants for the reason that they have secreted themselves so that the ordinary process of law can not be served upon them. Plaintiff prays for judgment for the amount of principal, interest and attorney's fees due on said note against the defendants Bassinger with a foreclosure of the chattel mortgage lien on said harness and buggy and the preservation of the attachment lien on the property of said Wyatt, and for general and special relief, both legal and equitable.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court, on the first day of the next term thereof, this Writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

D. 1910, the same being the 3rd day of January A. D. 1910, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 15th day of September A. D. 1909, in a suit numbered on the dockets of said Court, No. 1213, wherein C. M. Adams is Plaintiff and J. W. Durham and Mary Durham are Defendants; the nature of plaintiff's demand being as follows: Plaintiff sues the defendants in trespass to try title for the recovery of the title and for removal of cloud from title, the property involved being lots numbered three and four (3 and 4) in Block 18, City of Colorado in Mitchell County, Texas, alleging title in fee-simple in himself, the said plaintiff. Plaintiff further sets up that on the 26th day of September 1903, these defendants conveyed said property unto J. J. Brunley, Plaintiff's vendor, for a consideration in part, two promissory notes of $250 each and payable January 1st, 1905 and January 1st 1906, secured by a vendor's lien on said property.

That said notes have long since been paid, but there has never been executed any written release or discharge of the lien as against said lots, which fact operates as a cloud upon plaintiff's title.

Plaintiff's title is of common source with that of these defendants if said defendants have any claim, which plaintiff denies.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court, on the first day of the next term hereof, this Writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

STATE FAIR WATER.

Management Has Wells Flowing Six Hundred Thousand Gallons Daily.

Dallas, Texas, (special): With the completion of its own water system, the management of the State Fair of Texas completes the final arrangements for the twenty-fourth annual meeting, which begins in this city Saturday, October 16, and continue sixteen days. Six wells have been drilled, and each well furnishes a flow of 100,000 gallons every twenty four hours. An immense tank with a capacity of fifty-five feet, is the reservoir. Five automatic pumps are used in keeping it filled. Whenever the supply in the tank becomes low, the pumps start to work automatically and the tank is filled. The water is secured from a gravel stratum 65 feet below the surface of the earth. This height gives a powerful pressure in all portions of the park. The water thus secured is of the very purest of quality, clear as a crystal, cool and gratifying to the taste. President E. J. Kiest said:

"We have installed our own water works in order that we may be entirely independent of the city water supply.

The flow is entirely sufficient for all the needs of the fair. Numerous drinking fountains will be found for the comfort and convenience of visitors.

Twenty-fourth annual meeting of the State Fair of Texas will open Saturday October 16, and continue sixteen days. Our exhibitions and attractions will be the finest in history. I believe that we are on the eve of the most successful meeting in the history of the association.

Former El Dorado Resident Dead.

Grandma Graves was born February 11, 1819, in Yazoo county, Miss., and passed away September 5, 1909, in the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. G. Smith, in Alvin, Texas.

At an early age in life she was married and moved to the then small village of Eldorado, Ark., by wagon. She made her home there for over 50 years.

In her, Eldorado loses one of her oldest pioneer settlers; one who cherished the name of her children's birthplace; one whose spirit of good will and charity with all who came in contact with her life. Even the tired soldiers were glad to rest by her fire-side and enjoy her hospitality. For the past twelve years Grandma has been totally blind and a great sufferer from other afflictions.

She joined the church when she was 13 years old and when the end came it was "Well done thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of everlasting life."

I forgot to say that Grandma Graves represented a line of five generations—a condition not often existing.

CONTRIBUTOR.

(The writer remembers well this grand old lady and can testify that her's was a life of good deeds and purity such as only the pure in heart—the truly consecrated Christian—can live.—Eldorado (Ark.) Times.

David Garrick.

Albert Taylor the eminent comedian will be seen at the opera house on Saturday October 16th in the splendid old English Comedy "David Garrick." Mr. Taylor this season, has it is said, the strongest supporting company he has ever had.

The play "David Garrick" is founded on a somewhat apocryphal episode in the life of that great actor. Ada Ingot, whose father, a merchant, wishes her to marry Chivy, a typical hard drinking, fox hunting squire, was infatuated with Garrick. Garrick promised her father to cure her by proving his own unworthiness. Attending a party at her home he simulates drunkenness and behaves like a riotous, gambling, quarrelsome young blood. Later the girl learns by chance from Chivy that Garrick was only acting a part and that he is about to fight a duel on her behalf. Rushing to his apartments to prevent the duel she encounters her father who is so struck with Garrick's nobility of soul that he dismisses Chivy and entreats Garrick to sue for his daughter's hand in marriage. Thus Garrick redeems his promise that he will so act as to cause her to marry the man of her choice.

The role of Garrick gives Mr. Taylor splendid opportunities to display his ability as a romantic actor, and the range of delineation from the decent Garrick to the drunken bragadoocio gives ample scope to his versatility.

Peanut Culture.

We take the following piece from the Shreveport, Times which shows something relative to the culture and value of peanuts in this section. Mr. Beattie is in the employment of the government and his report and estimate can be relied on. From these figures, it does seem that our farmers would attach more importance to the peanut as a staple crop. The piece is as follows:

In the opinion of Assistant Horticulturist W. R. Beattie of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., who has just completed an investigation of the local crops, there is no better soil for peanut cultivation in the United States than in the Red River Valley contiguous to Shreveport. Under Mr. Beattie's advice several hundred acres were planted last spring, but only 200 have been harvested, owing to the fact that many planters gave most of their attention to cotton and neglected the nuts, permitting weeds to take possession. Every bushel of the peanuts grown will be used in a local oil mill for experimentation to see if the product can be profitably manufactured into peanut oil and cake. All of the peanuts that the planters in this section will raise, Mr. Beattie states, can be sold, as the country's demand is 20,000,000 bushels, and not over 11,000,000 bushels are cultivated annually. He reports that since he came here to assist the planters in harvesting the crop capitalists have consulted him and promised to establish a shelling plant if the farmers will raise as many as 3,000 acres of the nuts. On Dr. Ben Gray's plantation, in Bossier Parish, twenty acres were cultivated, and each will make at least 60 bushels. The price is 75 cents per bushel. By proper methods 100 bushels to the acre on this soil, Mr. Beattie says, can be grown.

BURNS & BELL.

COOK COMING TO TEXAS.

Artic Explorer Includes Fort Worth in Itinerary.

Dr. Federick A. Cook, discoverer of the North pole, will visit Fort Worth on his lecture trip, which will rival that now being made by President Taft. He said that his present tour will end October 14, and that he will go then to New York for a rest of three days.

October 17, he will set out for Montreal, Canada, accompanied by his wife, his secretary, Walter Lonsdale, a business representative and one stenographer. He will spend ten days in Canada, going from there to Portland, Oregon, and thence down the Pacific slope as far as Los Angeles. His trip from there will be to the Texas cities of Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Waco.

No More Credit.

To certain parties we have extended the privilege of 30-day accounts during the summer. On the 1st of October our books will be closed and every one must pay the cash for what is gotten from us. We do this simply because we are not able to carry such a burden. Those whose accounts are still unsettled, will please pay up at once. Maxfield & McKinney, October 1st, 1909.

SPECIAL PRESIDENTIAL SADDLE.

Ranch People Want President to Be Comfortable While He is Riding.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 10.—Charles P. Taft and family, who will entertain President Taft while the latter is at the Taft Texas ranch, will arrive in San Antonio next Saturday. They will probably remain here during the events connected with the President's visit and will accompany him to the ranch.

Joseph H. Green states that a special saddle, Texas made is being manufactured for President Taft so he will have a comfortable saddle in which to ride about the ranch. He will also have a number of the best Texas horses at his command.
