The broom corn industry is going to boom this fall, and the crops in this vicinity have never been better than they are this year. Mr. Vaughn, from the Strip ranch, was in town Tuesday, looking for help to harvest his crop. He stated that his broom corn has so far exceeded his expectations that he was forced to add some fifteen or twenty hands to his large force of farm help in order to gather the crop. Rah for the broom corn!—Hale Center Live Wire.

Houston, Texas, has a population of 78,800 according to figures enumerated for the thirteenth census made public today by Director Durand of the census bureau. This is an increase of 34,167 or 76.6 per cent over the population in 1900 which was 44,633.

In an altercation between Clayton Black and A. J. Echols at Coahoma, Monday afternoon, the latter was shot both with pistol and shot gun, sustaining serious wounds. At this writing he was reported as doing unexpectedly well and hopes are entertained for his recovery. The inciting cause of the altercation, we did not learn.

The campaign expenses of Hon. Cone Johnson were 40 per cent less than any of the other three candidates. His expense account as filed, was $6,221.70 while the others ran from $10,000 to $15,000. Can it be said that this difference represents the economy of a dry platform?

Although an admonition to "cut the weeds in the streets" may sound a bit far fetched and inopportune, it is nevertheless in order in many streets of the town. We heard a citizen say this week that he was afraid for his children to go out into the street near his home for fear they would be lost in the weeds. How can these things be and us praying for rain?

Strangers passing Colorado on the night trains would suppose it was a city of not less than ten or fifteen thousand souls, 75 per cent of them being boys and girls, judging from the crowds which meet the trains. They strictly obey the injunction to welcome the coming and speed the parting stranger. And generally, the Record is there too.

The first bale of cotton has begun its steady march toward the Oklahoma state line.

How is this for a South Texas Ad.

A Swede talking of his family said "My brother in Dakota raises wheat he raises a whole lot of wheat; my brother in Iowa raises corn, he raises a whole lot of corn; and my brother in North Texas raises h—l, he raises a whole lot of h—l." Now if his brother had only gone to South Texas he would not have raised any h—l but would have raised onions and other garden stuff through the winter months, while his brothers in Dakota, Iowa and North Texas were frozen up and then in good old summer time, for all the world could have made his usual cotton corn and forage crops on the same land from which he had gathered his fall and winter crops of produce.

THE TEXAS LEGISLATURE.

Gossip from Austin and Various Sections of the State.

The dogs of war have been loosed at Austin and the factions are tearing at each other with naked ferocity. Texas makes a magnificent battle ground for politicians. We have over a million acres of idle farm land which can be used for maneuvering purposes; our manufacturing plants are not sufficiently numerous to interfere with the combatants; very few mines obstruct the progress of war parties and armies can march for 150 miles in some parts of the state without having to cross a railroad, but those who are engaged in pursuit of office must have war, and as the tax payer foots the bill, he is entitled to applaud or condemn, according to the dictates of his own conscience.

This week will find most of the solons attending the state democratic convention at Galveston. It is rumored that an effort will be made, through the medium of a platform demand, to ditch the Democratic Donkey to a plow, but the animal is so accustomed to being ridden by politicians that those who are skeptical express a doubt as to his being able to adapt itself to a useful occupation. But everyone knows the donkey as a surefooted beast and when once it gets in the right path, it will make two blades of grass grow where one grew before.

The Senate showed a disposition to eat out of the Governor's hand by declining to confirm the appointment of W. E. Hawkins as Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, but that August body suddenly turned their heels on the Governor in refusing to confirm the appointment of C. H. Jenkins as Associate Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals and also the appointment of Jno. A. Mobley as Assistant Attorney General, calling the attention of the Governor to a provision of the Constitution which prohibits members of the Legislature from accepting other positions of emolument from the State and these gentlemen being members of the Thirty-first Legislature were, therefore, ineligible to the appointments. We have been so busy passing laws that we have not had time to read the Constitution and the unearthing of this musty document in the Senate has caused some uneasiness among the law givers and professional office holders.

The Governor has so far submitted seven messages which contain eighteen subjects for legislation and the list is growing like Jonah's gourd. The messages cover a wide range of subjects from regulating a railroad to a negro insane asylum, and there is said to be more to follow. The Legislature, called in special session to repeal the Fire Rating Insurance Law, has been in session three weeks and the bill repealing this law has not yet come out of the committee room.

A hard fought battle is being waged over the liquor regulation bills and the prohibitionists have been running the steam roller over the anti's at will in the House, but the anti's have been welding the big instrument in the Senate and no prohibition legislation has been passed and none will likely be unless the Senate anti's break. The State Democratic Convention will make a gap of a few days in the work of the Legislators, as most of the members will attend the Convention, but it is yet possible to clear the docket as it now stands by August 19th, although it is freely predicted that there will be another call session.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

At a regular meeting of the City Council of the City of Colorado, Texas, Tuesday night, August 9, 1910, there were present, C. M. Adams, Mayor; Aldermen C. H. Earnest, J. W. Bird, S. Cowan, and H. F. Wheeler.

A letter from J. M. Radford relative to the use of the alley, was read and passed until later.

The committee appointed to locate a place for the scales petitioned for by O. M. Mitchell, asked further time, which was granted.

It appearing that C. W. Simpson has the alley in block 11 fenced, the Secretary was instructed to get him to sign an agreement of tenancy by consent of the city.

J. I. Payne having moved out of the city, J. A. Buchanan was appointed to serve on the equalization board in his stead.

C. H. Earnest and J. W. Bird were appointed to inspect a safe for sale by B. L. Cooper, and if found satisfactory and suited to the needs and uses of the city, to allow him $15 for it, and to allow C. E. Franklin $5 to put it in the office of Secretary Keathley.

Dr. N. J. Phenix having declined the office of city health officer, S. Cowan and H. F. Wheeler were appointed to confer with some other physician relative to accepting the appointment.

Marshal Key was requested to see to the painting and housing of the old fire outfit.

The following accounts were presented, allowed and ordered paid:

J. B. Pond	2.00
T. J. Payne	2.00
H. Wright	2.00
J. R. Graves	2.00
W. H. Smith	2.00
Whipkey Printing Co.	30.47
W. M. Cooper	2.00
J. H. Cooper	5.00
J. S. Vaughan	11.20
W. L. Doss	1.75

The sum of $3.75 was refunded to C. E. Sloan, erroneously collected for privilege of peddling vegetables with one horse.

E. KEATHLEY, Secretary.

As an evidence of what a little irrigation will do, the truck garden of J. G. Doby over in South Colorado, is a shining example. During the present drought, he has had an abundance of garden truck for sale, though not enough to supply the local demand. Just now his cantaloupes are coming upon the market and they are perfect specimens of their kind, as a number brought to this office bear toothsome testimony.

If there has been one conjecture about that marble slab deposited in front of the court house, there have been as many as there has been people who have seen it or heard of it. This in connection with the corps of surveyors here this week, has kept curiosity on tiptoe and furnished a cud of gossip which has been re-vivified and masticated as many times as there are hours in the day and part of the night. We'll tell you, if you'll promise and cross your heart not to tell a single soul we tell you. The federal government is making another survey of the country to establish altitudes, meridians and isothermic lines. The letters U. S. M. B. stand for United States Meteorological Bureau. There, now, be sure you don't repeat the secret.

The school board met this week and considered the modified plans of the new high school building. The plans are now in the hands of contractors, and their judgement as to whether the building can be erected with the funds available or not, is awaited by the board.

A Bargain for Printers.

Owing to the installation of our linotype we have about 400 pounds of Century expanded 10-point type and 300 pounds of 8-point, which has been used only two years. This type is good as new and will be sold at a bargain with the cases. Prefer to sell all to one party, but will sell in smaller lots.—Address the Record.

Mrs. Watson, mother of Mrs. J. L. Richardson, left for a visit with friends of Midland last Friday morning.

Mrs. T. J. Ratliff and sons are again at home after three weeks spent in Roswell, N. M. with the family of M. C. Ratliff. She tells us the boys were delighted with their visit and N. W. Mexico ranch life, but she did not fit it so pleasing as she was sick half the time while there. Mr. Ratliff is in the irrigated district, and I has a good section of land, and a pretty new cottage home, yet they long for Colorado friends. It is wonderful how once having lived in Colorado, one feels drawn back after leaving. Mr. and Mrs. Ratliff lived among us many years, and the children have grown up among us. We hope all things will induce them to again call their lot with us although they do not hint they could be persuaded to such a thing.

Mrs. Hollins and Mrs. Moran.

People in all parts of the country are coming to know of one grand remedy for stomach, liver and bowel troubles, including the worst cases of indigestion and constipation. Mrs. E. Rollins of Dewey, Ill., writes: "I have used your Syrup Pepsin, the great laxative compound. It is absolutely guaranteed to do what is claimed for it, and if you want to try it, please send your address for a free sample bottle to Syrup Pepsin Co., 119 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill. It is sold by all druggists at 50c and 75c a bottle."

Our young friend Orion McKeel will soon leave to begin his law practice on the road as a "knight of the grip and nerve." He will represent the Novelty Company of San Antonio, which has as territory, the south western part of the coast coast country. Orion is not only a good moral young man, but an eminently deserving one, his friends are all of Colorado, will watch his progress with much interest and the best of wishes for his success.

For Sale or Exchange.

We have for sale, cheap, one rubber tire trap. This is a nice vehicle for town use, and worth the money.

We have left, four complete wagons, one wagon bed, and one hack, all new, which we will sell or exchange at figures to suit the times. If you are needing anything of this kind, we would like to show you this stuff.

Also three milk cows, each of which are now giving milk, each cow has a calf, from one to two months old, also one dry cow, all for sale at a very reasonable price.

HASTINGS & MORRISON.

W. T. McAfee and family left this week for Tahoka, Lynn county, where they will make their future home. The Record in common with all the people of Colorado, regret to see this excellent family leave, and wish for them every prosperity and happiness in their new home.

SOCIETY ITEMS

PERSONAL MENTION AND OTHER LOCALS

Mrs. M. K. Jackson, who ever proves an adept at the fine art of entertaining, received about fifty of her friends on last Wednesday morning. The party was given complimentary to Mrs. Chatfield and Miss Price, mother and friend of Mrs. Jackson, who are guests in her home. The visitors for the morning were cordially received and presented to the guests of honor, then conducted to the dining room where, from beneath an improvised grape arbor, Missos Etta Doss and Exa McLure dispensed delicious fruit ice. This exhilarating beverage was also served all during the morning hours, while dull care was diverted by sixteen spirited games of forty-two. At the noon hour the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Jas. Shepherd and Miss Claudie Rogers, served the guests to a most appetizing luncheon of pressed chicken, bread and butter sandwiches, cheese straws, jelly, pickles and tea.

Miss Exa McLure entertained her "theatrical company" one evening last week. While they were having fun in plenty the fire bell pealed forth loud and clear, and being filled either with curiosity or jealousy to serve their fellow man in matters great or small they obeyed the summons to find they were not needed. They returned to Miss McLure's with appetites invigorated by their recent sprint, and were given to eat, the best fruit cream and cake imaginable.

Collier enjoyed his Thursday afternoon o'clock. About twenty friends were in their played games. Misses Eva Davis and Misses, games so full before they were the mothers present and were "breaking jail" childhood. The fitted up with in the national. At seven each Carnival and g. We are indeed sorry that Miss Jo Dry does not improve as rapidly as her friends wish. The death of her beloved father was a blow from which in her weak state, it is hard for her to recover. She, and her noble, faithful sister are fondly remembered by their many friends who yet hope for complete recovery, and pray that the good God who tempers the wind to his shorn lambs may comfort them.

It will be interesting to the friends of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Steele to learn that a letter from Mrs. Steele contains the encouraging news that Mr. Steele after four months' fight with inflammatory rheumatism and typhoid fever, is now able to be out of bed, and that he continues to improve slowly. They are at Rowlett, Texas.

Mr. C. L. McDonald left Wednesday for Stamford where he will have a position in Stamford college as instructor in mathematics. He will also have charge of the young men's dormitory. His duties at that place will be easier to fill, and the salary more remunerative than were here. We are glad to note the upward step, for Mr. McDonald is a thoroughly capable and dependable man. He and his excellent family had hosts of friends here who grieve to give them up. Mrs. McDonald and the little misses have been visiting relatives in Dublin since July sixth. They will join Mr. McDonald in Stamford about Sept. 1st.

Mrs. S. Shaw and children are still rustling on Rendrebrook ranch. Mrs. Shaw says they are having such a good time and that the children are growing "fat and a little fatter" "neath the cooling foliage of Rendrebrook trees.

The Hesperian club has purchased for the public school, Mr. McDonald's library of reference books. The books are well selected and all practically new, while some have never been used at all. The value approximates $125. However, through the goodness of Mr. McDonald and his interest in the school, they were purchased at a liberal reduction. A few days ago we had occasion to drive by the pretty suburban home of Mr. and Mrs. Con Harness. It seemed so quiet and secluded, and there was such a cool breeze fanning the vineclad porch that we felt like "spending awhile." It looks just the place to enjoy life. Mrs. Harness' little trip west, during which time she was under the care of Drs. Smith and Homan, together with her pleasant home surroundings, is building her up rapidly. She has gained fourteen pounds in weight during the past six weeks. She has Mrs. Simpson of Abilene as a visitor for a few weeks.

The Cemetery Association wishes to call attention to the fact that owing to the decrease in membership, the funds with which to keep up the work necessary, are growing shorter every week. Many of those who were the most liberal with their donations to this most worthy cause have moved away, while others for some reason have withdrawn. Nothing so quickly and glaringly shows a lack of town pride as a badly kept cemetery. To neglect our dead is unpardonable. It is a wrong against all pure sentiment, whether we have loved ones in this particular spot or not, we have or will have loved ones in just such a spot somewhere and we, too, will one day lie just as low, so this is a grand opportunity to track the golden rule and help these good women who are making an effort to preserve and beautify our silent city. The Association will meet with its present president, Mrs. M. Carter, on the 31st of this month to elect new officers and it is hoped that time new members will be enrolled and a better financial condition reported. If you are interested, and we hope you are, please give your name and contribution to either of the following members: East Colorado, Mrs. Harry Landers; South Colorado, Mrs. Allen Payne; Central Colorado, Mrs. John Vaughan; West Colorado, Mrs. C. C. Blandford; North Colorado, Mrs. Shropshire or Mrs. Gustine. Mrs. Donaldson is collector for the business section.

Mrs. P. C. Coleman gave a six o'clock dinner complimentary to Miss Thomason of Georgia, who is a guest in the hospitable Coleman home. Four courses were served. After dinner the hours were made merry out on the lawn with music, readings and brilliant repartee. Those present were Misses Thompson, Adams, Louisa and Mary Roe, Chaplain, Exa McLure and Coleman; Messrs Thomas R. Smith and Reeves Coleman.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society will hold an open meeting August 25th at the home of Mrs. Q. D. Hall. An instructive program upon our work will be given and it is hoped every lady of the church will be present. This is to be our pledge day for this year, the conference deciding to ask for a pledge from each home mission woman instead of the $100 per member which has been collected heretofore. Our work is growing so fast, our schools, city missionaries and deaconesses all need our help, so we are asked to give according to the need of our great work here at home. A million immigrants make a million opportunities each year, and to meet these we must have money.

MRS. J. G. MERRITT, Press Rep.

MARRIED AT VINCENT.
Dickens-Shafer.

On last Wednesday afternoon, August 3, 1910, many of the invited friends of the contracting parties gathered at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dickens to witness the marriage of Mr. Will Dickens and Miss Mittie Shafer.

At the proper time the hostess appeared at the door and invited the throng that were chatting pleasantly together in the yard, into the parlor, and immediately the parlor, porch and all standing room were occupied. Promptly at 6:30 Mr. Terrel Shafer, as best man, and Miss Brook entered the parlor and took their position at the north end of the room, followed by the groom with the bride leaning on his arm, and took their position, when Rev. W. C. Hart, of the Methodist church, proceeded with the beautiful and solemn ceremony.

The bride was beautiful and lovely, with all the sweetness of girlhood. The groom was formerly of Atchison, Kansas, but has been in our midst about two years. And we think he has adopted the right motto, "stay with the country when it is dry and it will stay with you when it is wet." This he is practicing by building a beautiful and substantial home.

After the ceremony came the throng of congratulators, with good wishes, long and prosperous life, with nothing to mar the beauty and happiness of their wedded life.

Then came another invitation from the host, and the large dining room was filled with young people, who surrounded the heavy laden table with the delicious refreshments. After the merry crowd had enjoyed the repast to their full satisfaction, they gave room for others, and this was repeated until all had enjoyed the repast.

Wednesday afternoon, August 3rd, 1910, will long be remembered in the Vincent community.

The writer left at an early hour, but we are informed that the fantastic tip of the toe was engaged in to a late hour.—A Guest.

SINGING CONVENTION.

The County Singing Convention met with the Cuthbert class August 7th. The first on program was opening song led by Mr. G. W. Goodwin, followed by prayer by the president, Mr. Helm. Among the leaders present were Messrs Foster, Rodgers, Goodwin, Womack, Burrus, Helm, Kirkpatrick, Bqhannan, Womack, Griffin and Holly.

For the coming year, the convention adopted "Signal Triumph" for the song text book. The convention also voted to divide the county into two districts, the river being the dividing line. This was done because it seemed impossible for any community to care for the convention in way of seating capacity, and then the distance makes it very inconvenient for some to attend. The districts are to convene as often as they deem proper and both are to meet together once a year. The first yearly meeting to be at Colorado the first Sunday in May 1911. Each district will have a call meeting and organize at some convenient time.

We feel quite sure by dividing the county, strength and interest will be added to the convention. While we have accomplished great good in the past, we hope to do more in the future and reach every school district in the county. Remember the adopted book, "Signal Triumph" by "Trio Music Company."

Cuthbert royally entertained the convention and all report an enjoyable time. J. C. HELM.

Misses Lena Key, Annie Beal, Shell Merrell, Loula Merrell, Willie Caldwell and Ethel Greenwood, completed the course in short hand and typewriting at the Roberts Business College last Friday, but will spend the current month in doing extra work, as planned by their instructress, Miss Ora Long. It is due much to the superior instruction of Miss Long as well as to the assiduity and aptitude of the young ladies that this course was finished in so short a time. Mr. Foster Everett of Blackwell was enrolled this week in the bookkeeping department.

Miss Julia McLure has resigned her position as teacher in the school at this place to accept a higher position in the public schools of Amarillo. Miss Julia has taught here for several years and with her proficiency as teacher and her lovable personality has won her way to the hearts of every mother and mother's child under her direction. Her leaving us will cause many regrets for in school and church work, she has become a necessary adjunct. While she felt it best for her to go, she did not leave us without regrets for she loves Colorado and the Colorado people, who wish her the success and pleasure she so richly deserves.

Mrs. Coleman, Misses Thompson and Van Tui and Mr. Reaves Coleman went down to Lorraine Monday evening to attend the recital and come home with the other young folks.

WITH THE CHERRYCOW OUTFIT

BY DANE COOLIDGE

SEVENTY years ago the biggest cattle ranch in the world was the XIX of Texas, but now the wire trust and the masters have got in their work and the Panhandle presents a peaceful pastoral scene—haystacks, clothes lines, and all that. The open range has been fenced and divided up into homesteads and the glory of the good old days gone forever. It is five hundred dollars to carry a gun in Texas now, and a state prison offense to play poker. They say the officers in the railroad towns make good pickings by arresting Pullman tourists for playing solitaire and five hundred—it helps to correct that idea, unfortunately too prevalent, that Texas is still "bad." You won't find any Texans in Texas now, so the Cherrycow boys tell me—they're all out West, punching cows. But search the great West over from Montana to the Mexican line, and you will never find an outfit of Tehannos to beat the Three C's of Arizona.

Practically the only open range left in the United States at this date is on the Indian reservations, and the Chiricahua Cattle Company runs its steers on the San Carlos, where the Apache Indians are supposed to be confined. As a matter of fact the Apaches stay around the Agencies most of the time, except in the spring and fall when they wander out over the rocky hills and mesas to gather acorns and mesquite and brew up a little "tulapai." The tulapai leaves them pleasantly intoxicated without ruining their dispositions like whiskey, and if they happen to get a little fresh beef on the trip the expedition is a complete success.

The White Mountain or San Carlos Indian Reserve is approximately eighty miles square, giving it an area of over six thousand square miles, besides several hundred more of straight-up and straight-down. It is a fine large country for three thousand Indians to run over, but on account of their unfortunate disposition the Apaches have never been allowed to run to any great extent, and since in the early days it was necessary to feed not only the Indians but a large number of soldiers as well, the Government soon began to hire out the idle range to the beef contractors.

The soldiers are gone from San Carlos money paid in by the Double Circles, the Wine-Glass and the Hat outfits is turned back to the Indian Department for the benefit of the Apaches. To the Indians, who know nothing of departmental red tape, it seems "good" simply to kill a two-year-old whenever they get meat-hungry and this form of direct tax, while it is frowned upon by the authorities, probably makes a slight difference in the size of the Three C beef shipments. But every range has its drawbacks and to balance the losses from Indians and loafer wolves there is the great compensation—doubly dear in these later days—that all sheepmen and "nesters" are barred. The Government will not accept bids to graze sheep on what is now a cattle range and no white men other than cowboys are allowed to live out on the Reserve. The result is a land without roads, houses or settlers, a land where the virgin mesas are covered with cattle as far as the eye can see, and only the big round-up outfit with its pack train and trailing remuda breaks in upon the primal solitude of the wilderness.

What Texas was forty years ago San Carlos is to-day. The Cherrycow outfit even goes them one better, for in the Panhandle they had a chuck-wagon to follow the round up, but the man who cooks for the Cherry outfit can figure on packing everything he has, from a sixteen inch Dutch oven to a sour-dough keg, on mules. The men that ride for the Cherry outfit have to lash their beds onto pack animals every time they break camp, and even the wagon boss, whose title brings up the memory of Texas, where they had roads, has to carry his tent and folding cot around on a horse. Still further to take your mind back into the old days, there is not a man in the CCC outfit, from the range boss at San Carlos down to the cook's flunky dragging up wood, that does not speak the soft dialect of Texas, drop all his r's and they call the afternoon "this evening." It is a real old Texas outfit, probably the last in the United States, and they are doing business in the real Texas way. Last spring when they were making the reservation count, the boys brought four thousand head of cattle together in one forenoon, and for an ordinary branding they will throw two thousand head onto the cutting grounds, change mounts and cut out all the cows and calves being on cigarettes and Western hospitality until spring comes with its big round-ups and puts them out of their misery.

When I set out from San Carlos in search of the elusive Cherry outfit the poppies and Indian paint brushes were flowering along the sandy Gila, but the trail led me in the shadow of pines and giant cedars before I came up with them, five days later, just as they were trying to swim five hundred head of cattle across Black river. If you wish to carry away a poetic, literary impression of cowboys, do not approach them when they are crossing cattle, especially across Black river. It is a broad and turbulent stream, deep and swift and cold, with high banks in most places and quicksands wherever the supply of rock gives out. The pageant of the crossing began with a flow of language such as has not crept into print since Shakespeare's last folio. After a long and dusty drive the cattle were crazy to drink and the cowboys were holding them back until Old Dad could make up his mind to try the crossing. Dad was the wagon boss, a tall, lanky man with a head as shiny as a billiard-ball and features entirely obscured by hair. Contrary to the judgment and inclination of his hungry hands he had decided to cross the cattle before dinner, hoping that they would take the water better while they were thirsty, and as he racked up and down on his rough-trotting horse waving his hat and giving orders for the drive the boys vented upon the dodging steers the curses which they meant for him. At last when everyone was in a lather of exasperation Old Dad rose up in his stirrups and shouted:

"Let 'em go!"

Instantly the men in front gave way and the cattle in the lead trotted down to the water with their tongues out, but, though the cow boys in the rear whoped and swung their ropes, the great mass of tired animals that lay behind, instead of rushing forward according to program and shoving the leaders into the river, barely got off a walk. Then it was that Dad, seeing his well-laid plans go awry, began to change his mind and shout contradictory orders.

"Turn 'em back!" he whooped, riding down to the point. "No let 'em go!" he roared, waving his hands to the dragsmen, and while he raged up and down the line commanding and countering the disgruntled cowboys pushed the great herd steadily forward and shoved them into the river. At the shore the leaders lowered their heads to drink; others crowded in and pushed them on; they edged out further and further, still drinking, until suddenly they slumped off into deep water and began to swim. Now was the time to send them across, and a man or two rode into the water in order to play out the hand; but the leaders, seeing no good place to land on the further shore, refused to start and, drifting down with the current, landed again on the same side. After a futile effort to drive them in again, the boss seeing that he was too short handed to make a wholesale drive, finally gave orders to let the cattle drink and called on the cook for dinner. There was a short wait while the cowboys fortified themselves with bread and beef and coffee and then, after changing mounts, they went at it by days work, cutting out about fifty head at a time and jumping them over a low bluff into the river after which, by throwing rocks and using some more of the language that made Shakespeare famous, they finally managed to steer them across and hold them up in the willows. By sundown the last animal was across and, weary, wet and bedraggled, the cowboys rode back through the dusk and gathered about the fire for supper.

They were a hard looking outfit in their ragged overalls and jumpers, and a month's growth of beard all around did not add to the tout ensemble. They were dog tired, too, but as the first cup of coffee took the edge off their grinch their unrestrained Texas humor began to assert itself. Old Dad had worked harder than any of them, but his plans had gone wrong and the memory of his contradictory orders offered a fitting theme for revenge.

"Let 'em go!" observed an iron-faced individual, solemnly spearing a hunk of beef from the oven.

"Turn 'em back!" shrilled another, coming in on the play with spritely wit, and a rumble of sardonic laughter passed around the circle of punchers seated in the outer darkness. Old Dad sat by the fire, sipping his coffee and peering dourly out from under his hat, but no one was worrying about him.

"Sho, sho, boys," pleaded another voice, boldly mimicking the exaggerated anxiety of the boss, "don't yell so loud—it only skeers 'em! Oh Lawdy, Lawdy, I'm so Wor'jed!" And then the whole outfit laughed until you could hear them a mile.

They are a hard bunch to handle, these Texas cowboys, and when there is heavy work on foot and the boss is short-handed he expects to take a lot. There is none of the English deference in a cow-camp, at best, nor none of your eastern "Yes, sir, Mr. Brown," either.

"Alright" or "uh-huh," was the best Old Dad ever got when he gave an order, and, if they were compelled to refer to him as the boss, the outfit was careful to say "The Straw," although Dad had been in command for nine years and could fire any of them. It is a part of the wild and boisterous independence of the West, this studied disregard for authority, and while the cowboy will do a tremendous amount of work in the line of duty his untamed spirit will not permit him to "supe" for anybody. The only Mister in the Cherrycow outfit was an old white-haired man, a little broken by the hardships of their month's rough work, but still silent and uncomplaining. No matter what the occasion there was never a cowboy too busy to put the handle on Mr. King's name, and when he had anything to say they shut up and listened to him; but the rest of the time there was a rapid fire of frontier witticisms that was calculated to penetrate the thickest hide and leave drummers' tales badly faded. "Unrestrained of speech," they were, even as the Greek heroes whom Homer followed through

"Hey, Dad," he shouted, waving his arms and pointing. "there's your new cook over there, laying under a tree. Sam, you blank-blanked lazy haound, come over here and cook up some supper!"

"You go to hell, you umpty-umph!" retorted Sam, in the same friendly spirit. "Cook your own supper!" And strange as it may seem, they did.

But the next morning when Sam did take hold the bread was lighter, the beef tenderer, the coffee stronger. They were on short rations after their long drive, but everybody was happy in anticipation of the good eating to come and, catching the Christmas spirit, the wagon boss told Sam he could order up anything he wanted as soon as we got down to the horse-camp at Blue river. Immediately the boys' imaginations began to run riot and for the next three days they could talk of nothing but "puds," stewed fruit, mush, and milk from the little tin cow. But at some previous time in his career some miscreant had evidently spoken disparagingly of his cooking and Sam did not warm to their praise. From long catering to fire and water, and until the last cow is corralled and he falls to the estate of a hired man the hard-riding cowboy is going to be unrestrained. For cow-punching is not a job to bring out the minor Christian virtues—it calls rather for those warlike and Spartan qualities which, though they rise from man's baser nature, nevertheless make a steer throw a crook into his tail and fly.

But though they made bold to josh the boss and on all occasions showed a tendency to "run off at the head" there was one man in camp whom the Cherrycow punchers left strictly alone. That was the cook. For the six weeks previous to their arrival at Black River Crossing the outfit had been living on a monotonous ration of beef, bread and coffee, cooked under protest by a cow-hand named Charley, while the range boss was scouring the country for another round-up cook. Three times had Charley quit and gone back to his riding and though the wagon boss had raised him to sixty dollars a month Charles was still on a strike when the sure-enough cook arrived. Sam had been a round-up cook off and on for twenty years, but when he started out into the wilderness to hunt for that will-o'-the-wisp outfit he was no better than a tenderfoot and, after a series of misadventures, our ways crossed and we rode into Black river together. A four-bit meal at the ferryman's cabin had removed from Sam all concern for the hungry outfit across the river and he was sitting in the shade watching them sweat when suddenly one of the cowboys let out the long yell.

the fickle appetite his face had settled into cynic lines and when any man spoke well of the food he glanced at him with an embittered smile. He never said much and the few stories he did tell were obviously intended to convey a moral. They were about men who had "kicked on his grub" and invariably ended with these words:

"And I said to the blanketty-blank, 'well, if you don't like it you know what you can do, don't you!' And he shut up blank-blanked quick!"

It was a happy day indeed for the care-worn Cherrycow punchers when five days later, in the midst of a general horse-shoeing and "uncocking" of bronks at the horse-camp, the long pack-train came stringing in from San Carlos, laden with supplies for the cook. There were new ovens and a proper pot hook, made by the Carlos black-smith, a little keg for sour dough and then, oh joy, two cases of condensed milk and a mule load of cream of wheat. To make the gala day complete the boys killed a fresh beef and with the suet Sam made up a great "pud" in his new oven. It was a wonderful pudding, full of raisins and flavored with vinegar and spices; everybody came back twice for more; and as the last man lay back and sighed the embittered look left Sam's face and he smiled, sweetly. There was good eating after that, but the first man that kicks on Sam's grub gets run out of camp, you can bank on that.

los now and many of the Indians have cattle of their own, but the custom established twenty-five years ago, when J. V. Vickers brought up the first CCC cattle from his ranch in the Chiricahua mountains and turned them out along the Gila, has been continued to the present day. For every cow-brute over a year old that is taken in the spring round-up, the Chiricahua Cattle Company pays the United States one dollar, and this yearly toll, together with the

In the dead of winter when the upper rang is covered with snow and the lower mesas would bog a saddle-blanket there is of course a kind of lull in the work; the best men go on station or break horses in the valley and the poorest ride the chuck-line, traveling from ranch to ranch and liv-

COLORADO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, AUGUST 12, 1910

Playing marbles for keeps holds the side walk on the west side of the Colorado Drug Company these hot days. A crowd of boys, ranging in age from ten to fifteen years spend the shady hours of the mornings at this near gambling pastime. From marbles to what it takes to buy marbles, is a gradation, sure as it is small, and once the gambling habit, or the desire to get something for nothing, becomes fixed, the same methods and advantages will be unconsciously carried into the most legitimate business, and gambling chances taken on the most ordinary business transactions.

Canada, which is compelled to shelter its stock for nine months in the year and put enough feed under shelter to last all the time, exports 220,000,000 pounds of butter and cheese annually, while Texas with all of its facilities of climate and feed, is obliged to bring in dairy products to supply the home demand.—Beaumont Enterprise.

Twenty-one Mormon emissaries were recently expelled from Germany, by orders of the government, which holds that they were teaching doctrines "subversive of morality." It is a tribute to the good sense of the German empire that it will not tolerate teachings clearly contrary to the moral law, and which destroy the sanctity of the home, as do the Mormon teachings regarding polygamy.

Giving is always a grace; it is not innate, but cultivated. It is not natural, but rather contrary to nature, since the great bulk of the human kind are egoists. In many cases the apparent grace is seriously marred by ostentatiousness, which robs it of its chief glory. The man who emblazons his name on every donation, whether of a college, a fund or his time and talents, practices philanthropy simply from the viewpoint of refined egoism. Beneficence is a virtue and grace, only when it "vaunteth not itself and is not puffed up."

The example set by Mitchell County in dividing itself into independent districts, and the voting of $20,000 in bonds for the construction and maintenance of good roads by the Colorado district, has stimulated unusual interest in the good roads question in many other counties in West Texas. Taylor county is now agitating the matter of issuing half a million road bonds for the improvement of its public highways.

The Rio Grande has gone dry, the Pecos has evaporated and the rains awaiteth not—pass the sponge.—West Texas (Barstow) Journal.

It takes more than the continuous drought to phase the business acumen of the editor of the Rock Island (Texas New Mexico) Tribune, or dim his hope of the ultimate triumph of that blessed section. Hear him: "Just a mere passing notice of such important deposits of alum and meerschaum and the presence of the cliff dwellings, all in one neighborhood, is enough to give the ambitious a stroke of paralysis. The people must be afflicted with the bookworm not to recognize the importance of such as commercial helps to affluence. Perhaps the times are not opportune and things are held in abeyance till they are fully ripe for plucking."

Wireless telegraphy is proving of great service to the fishing industry of Europe. One of the first advantages is that captains of ships can apprise each other the distance and direction of the catches, and send such intelligence back to port.

What election, fellow citizens, shall put our poll tax receipts to work, next? We've got 'em, and why not use 'em? How about trying a plebiscite on a good old rain? All those opposed, will please send a dollar to this office.

It's so if you saw it in the Record

The statement that Joe Thompson, had recently died at the decent age of 83, makes no startling impression on the mind. But in conjunction with the fact, is added the further facts that he is the man who is responsible for a style for the ladies, which if possible was far more disfiguring than the present way of "doing their hair." Thompson was responsible for the old ten foot in diameter hoopskirts and concomitant "balmoral", which was afflicting the nation about the same time as did the civil war. The tilting hoopskirt was bad enough, in all conscience, but over it was worn the balmoral, a heavy woolen skirt that would make some of the socks worn by the sporty set of to day, look like a funeral cortege, and always much in evidence. Thrilling indeed, are the stories told of the fashionable dames who took their walks abroad in these tilting things, of the scenes on horseback, at church, theater, dances and so forth. A poor imagination even, can fill in the details. Modesty demands a period here; but about the time Johnny was buckling on his sword to go to the front, fair Julia was not feeling real well of sufficiently patriotic, until she buckled on her hoop balmoral; and the presumption is fair that when, after bidding her a fond and tearful farewell, he watched her from the box car door as his train pulled out, it was not of her dearly beloved face that he caught the last glimpse. "Sic transit gloria mundi."

It seems that the blind senator of Oklahoma is made of the same sort of mud as the rest of his colleagues. His kicking the lid off that den of snakes in Oklahoma seems to be more of an advertising scheme for the Honorable senator than anything else. Why did he drag into the mire the name of Vice-President Sherman, if he knew he would have to side step and retract his implication? It was a cheap and meretricious bid for a "holier than thou" pedestal. But his hard to make a "silk purse of a sow's ear," even with a senatorial toga.

Market quotation.—Radium continues steady at $13,000,000 the ounce, with small chance of the supply exceeding the present demand. The great radium institute recently established at London, only needs five grams, to begin business, but the known supply in the world can not offer that amount. The Record will, however, continue to take a limited amount on back subscription.

Walter, the nineteen year old son of Governor elect Colquitt, died Monday, the 8th, in consequence of which neither Gov. Campbell nor the father attended the state convention. As a mark of respect and sympathy, Governor Campbell ordered all the state departments closed and both branches of the legislature adjourned until Tuesday.

A crowd of surveyors working near the T. & P. right of way Wednesday morning, excited the curiosity of the natives. Report had it that some kind of engineering improvement was under way, ranging all the way from a railroad to Sterling City, Robert Lee or any other old place to a corner dam in the raging Colorado river. The Record is not in position yet to divulge, without violation of important plans, the why and wherefore of the presence of the engineering department of a certain great system of—

In talking to a gentleman this week who had been pretty much all over the country during the past few days, he expressed the opinion that the crops were in better condition than they were conceded to be. Without another drop of rain he thinks there will be more than 2000 bales of cotton made in the county, while a good rain within the next ten days will improve conditions at least fifty per cent. As to the feed crop, he says enough will be made with which to take stock through the winter and make the next crop.

CHEER UP, THE WORST IS PAST.

"Out West" is a relative term. People east of the Mississippi river refer to Louisiana and east Texas as being "out west;" the sand lappers and malarial addicts of the latter section, sneer at the central belt of Texas as "the arid west," while the discontented and drifting boomer calls every county between him and the setting sun, "the drou-ty west." And so it runs. In the face of the gibes and knocking of the rest of creation, we of this land of perennial and blistering sunshine; of iridescent crops and elastic hopes, find much room for commiseration as well as contempt for the section of country on our left hand side. We may not have such crops as will burst the barns and overflow the horselets, but we've seen much worse and come out smiling and full of hope and good health. While we are enjoying fair crops—in spots and good rains in between, just think what is now coming to the people who left this Elysium for the ignis fatras of the "farmer's lands of New Mexico," where folks have to prime their mouths this hot weather to cuss the conditions. Consider the simple days of 1886-7, when nothing came out of the ground but a little sorghum and stove wood; when we subsisted handsomely by selling the sorghum and eating the stove wood; compare that time with our plethoric condition today. What would you, man, the earth?

Read this picture of the condition of our friends further on, taken from the columns of a paper supposed to speak of things only as they are:

"In this part of New Mexico from Tacumeari north, west and south, the country is bare of vegetation, seen from the car windows, as a floor, and it looks as if a goat would starve to death. Hundreds of people who have been homesteading in that section of the territory are returning to Texas. Last night the car in which the Hendrix party rode was full of disappointed homesteaders returning to Texas. One family who had left a fine farm in Central Texas three years ago in order to get some "free land" were returning to the old home, worn out with trying to make both ends meet, disappointed, but hopeful from the fact that they were returning "Home." Hundreds of families are leaving New Mexico in wagons, "busted" and homesick.—N. M. Car. to Quannah Observer.

We have been asked by a subscriber, how the money to pay the federal pensions is raised. He has been under the impression that it came into the treasury by direct taxation. The money to pay pensions comes, as all other money that goes to pay the expenses of the federal government, from two sources, mainly: the duties on imports, revenues from tobacco, whiskey, malt and fermented liquors, oleomargarine, penalties, and a few miscellaneous sources. Last year the total internal revenue collection amounted to $246,109,554, the customs duties amounted to $200,977,438, and from miscellaneous sources $56,131,085—making a total of $603,217,677. All this money is paid into the treasury of the federal government, out of which the pension money as well as the money for all other expenses of the government is paid, by congressional appropriation. Unless one uses whiskey, tobacco, oleomargarine, beer, or uses the "imported" article, he pays very little of the pension money.

We took a peep at the new ice plant and creamery this week, and were surprised to find things all ready and waiting for the arrival of the machinery. The boilers are in position, the concrete floors in all the rooms laid and everything is in ship shape. The engine room is finished in varnished pine, and makes an neat and comfortable appearance as a family sitting room. The entire plant is a model of compactness and convenience. The machinery is dug this week, and when it arrives, will be immediately installed and the process of making ice begun at once, which event will not be longer than September 1st. Much credit is due Jesse Barker, the engineer in charge, for the entire efficiency of his work. He has proven himself master of his business.

The Scientific American raises the question why we permit annually the exportation of more than a million tons of our best phosphate rock, for which we receive the small sum of $5,000,000. This carries away from the United States an amount of the only element of plant food we should ever need to buy, that, if retained, will be worth one thousand million dollars in the production of food for future generations.

Anticipating the coming of the Orient road, a $15,000 stone depot is being erected at Fort Stockton, which town the Pioneer declares, is experiencing a phenomenal but permanent sound boom.

A New Back for an Old One—How It Can Be Done in Colorado.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the heels are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Colorado residents would do well to profit by the following example:

S. P. Dailey, Big Springs, Texas, says: "About two years ago the contents of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me of a severe case of rheumatism. Last winter when I began to suffer from attacks of backache and a dull soreness across my kidneys, I at once thought of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a supply. After using them a short time, the pain in my back disappeared and it has not returned since. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to several of my neighbors and shall continue to do so."

The Coming of Spring

means the arrival of Spring-lamb in all its delicious and appetizing lusciousness, and at no other place can it be had in greater perfection than at Colorado Cold Storage's meat market. For we give our patrons the benefit of the real, genuine thing. Spring lamb that means Spring lamb and not a poor imitation. A. S. LOVELADY.

LORAINE LETTER

The Recital given by Miss Exa McLure Monday night under the auspices of the Womans Missionary Society, was thoroughly enjoyed by an appreciated audience, and was pronounced a decided success. The entire program was well rendered the audience giving rapt attention. The only fault we had to find with the program was that it was too short.

A most pleasing personality combined with Christian culture and womanly grace have won for Miss McLure many friends. The Womans Missionary Society extend their thanks to Miss McLure and to those who assisted her, for this evening of pleasure and profit. We hope to have Miss McLure appear with us again some time in the future.

E. M. Kelly went to Comanche Wednesday to see after his extensive interests in that section. Mr. Kelly moved here something over a year ago on account of Asthma trouble and has received a great relief from this distressing malady.

Mrs. J. J. Pierce of Hamilton is visiting her brother Sidney and Wiley Altman.

George Greer, brother of Mrs. Paul Freeman, who has been on the visit to his sister or several weeks, has returned to his home at Paris, Tenn.

News reached here Monday that Dr. Chambers and wife who went back to Tyler several weeks ago, are rejoicing over a visit from the Stork, who left with them a dear little girl to gladden their hearts and make life brighter and better. The doctor will be back in a few days.

Miss Bettie Erwin who has been visiting her sister at Mexia, has returned home, accompanied by her sister and brother-in-law, Rev. Hargard, who is a U. S. A. Presbyterian. He preached a very edifying sermon at the Baptist church last Sunday night.

The Baptist revival which lasted about eighteen days, closed Sunday morning resulting in forty-one additions to the church, twenty-six receiving the ordinance of baptism. Great interest was manifested during the entire meeting and we trust that much and lasting good has been accomplished. Bro. May went immediately to Hermleigh and is now engaged in a meeting there.

The Methodist revival meeting will begin Friday, the 12th, conducted by Rev. Hotchkiss. We are hoping for great results from this meeting also.

Mrs. King and sister, Trixie and Loraine Dees, came in Sunday night after quite an extended visit to eastern points. Mrs. Dees and Miss Daisy will return in a few days from Midlothian.

Mrs. Looby and children are back from New Boston where they have been visiting relatives for several weeks. Mrs. Looby's mother, Mrs. Wallington, returned home with her.

TEXAS TAX VALUES SHOW BIG INCREASE, TOTALING NOW $2,269,695,554.

Austin, Texas, July 27.—From the figures now available the comptroller's department today prepared an estimate of the total taxable values of Texas. The aggregate figures for all Texas property is $2,269,695,554, which sum of $2,791,228 increase over last year. It will be recalled that recently in determining the state tax rate the tax board used as a basic figure $2,250,000,000 which is $19,695,554 less than the actual figures arrived at by the comptroller's department. The figures are extremely significant when it is born in mind that last year was not a prosperous one with the farmer. It is estimated that a good crop year would have increased the state tax values more than $100,000,000.

Not until the comptroller's department receives the county assessors' report will it be possible to analyze the total given above.

Now all You Little Boys

An act of kindness which was rendered to an aged stranger six years ago, brought to J. Y. Allen, a young man of Homer, La., a reward of $10,000.

While traveling in Texas, Allen met an elderly man, in looking out for whose baggage Allen proffered his services. On parting company with Allen, the old man took his name and address, with the declaration "You may some day be rewarded for your kindness to a stranger."

Allen yesterday was notified by law- yers of his former traveling companion's death, and that the latter has bequeathed $10,000 to him as "the young man who assisted a aged man while traveling several years ago."

TRUSTEE'S SALE.

Whereas, on the 20th day of January 1909, J. R. Graves and his wife, Mrs. John Graves, made, executed and delivered their certain deed of trust of that date conveying unto J. W. Barfield as trustee all that certain lot numbered Eleven (11), in Block numbered thirty-six (36) of the Town of Colorado in Mitchell County, Texas, to secure the payment of a note therein described in the sum of $1000, of even date, with said deed of trust, due and payable to the order of F. H. Barfield, two years after date, with interest from date at ten per cent per annum, the interest payable semi-annually, said note providing that a default in the payment of semi-annual interest would, at the option of the said F. H. Barfield, mature the principal of said obligation, and, whereas, default has been made in the payment of semi-annual interest, and the said F. H. Barfield, the owner of said note, has declared the whole of said note as matured, and has appointed C. H. Earnest of Mitchell County, Texas, as substitute trustee, in accordance with the terms of said deed of trust, the said J. W. Barfield having declined to act as such trustee

Now, therefore, under the terms of said deed of trust, notice is hereby given that I will proceed to sell said property at public auction, to the highest and best bidder for cash, at or in front of the court house door of Mitchell County, Texas, on the First Tuesday in September, the same being the 6th day of September, 1910, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m.

C. H. EARNEST, Substitute Trustee.

TOBE CRAWFORD BURNED OUT

About 5 o'clock Monday morning the population of Hamlin from one side of town to the other was aroused from their peaceful slumbers by an alarm of fire in the business center of the city. It was soon learned that the Star Hotel, a two story frame structure and by far the finest structure in Hamlin when it was built, was on fire, and while the boys responded promptly, got the water to playing in short order and worked like beavers, it was of no use so far as the hotel was concerned.

The flames had originated from a lamp that had been left burning in the parlor, and had gained such a headway that it was impossible to check the flames or save anything of importance from the building.

The inmates of the house escaped as best they could one man coming down an awning post, while Mr. Mynett, representative of the Waples-Plattler Grocery company leaped from a second story window with but slight injuries.

As stated above, the fire boys worked faithfully and through their efforts and Hamlin's magnificent water supply, many thousands of dollars worth of adjoining property was saved. The loss on the building and furnishings, owned by H. B. Foreman, was about $3,600, with $2,000 insurance. Tobe Crawford, proprietor of the hotel, lost practically everything, amounting to probably $2000. He carried $1000 insurance. Guests at the hotel lost some of their effects but the Herald has been unable to learn the extent of any loss.

CURRENT COMMENT FROM THE U. S. CAPITAL.

Veterans of the great war of 1861-65 who have been honored with public offices are growing fewer, just as the ranks of their comrades in the private walks of life are sadly diminishing. The number of veterans of that war in Congress is less than at any time since the year following the cessation of hostilities.

At the beginning of the present congress, serving on the Union and Confederate sides were the following: Senate: Union—Nelson of Minnesota; Elkins and Scott of West Virginia; Bulkeley, of Connecticut; Burrows of Michigan; Du Pont of Delaware; Warner of Missouri, and Warren of Wyoming, a total of 8. Confederate—Bacon, of Georgia; Bankhead, of Alabama; Daniel of Virginia, Johnson of Alabama; McEnery, of Louisiana; McLaurin, of Mississippi; Martin of Virginia; Money, of Mississippi, and Taliferro, of Florida, a total of 9. House of Representatives: Union—Alexander, of New York; Barclay, Bingham, and Graham, of Pennsylvania; Bradley of New York; Caldwell, of Kansas; Capon, of Rhode Island; Gardner, of New Jersey; Hollingsworth, Keffler, and Sherwood, of Ohio; Howell, of New Jersey; Hull, of Iowa; Morban, of Missouri, and Wiley of New Jersey, a total of 15. Confederate—Espinal of Louisiana; Gordon of Tennessee; Jones and Lamb of Virginia; Livingston, of Georgia; Richardson, of Alabama; Speight, of Mississippi; Talbot, of Maryland, and Taylor of Alabama, a total of 9.

This gives a total of forty veterans of the war in the Senate and House at the beginning of the present Congress. Their number has been reduced by three through the death of these notable Confederate veterans, Senators Daniel, McEnery and McLaurin. It will be seen from these figures that but 7 per cent of the membership of the Sixty-first congress were veterans of the Civil war. Nearly half the membership of Congress twenty years ago were Union and Confederate veterans. In the congress at that time—the Fifty first—there were 27 Confederate veterans in the senate and 9 Union veterans, while in the House there were 70 Confederate veterans and 42 Union veterans. Considerably over half the members from the Southern states were Confederate veterans. Nearly half, or 44 per cent, of the membership of the Fifty-first Congress were veterans of the war.

The next Congress will see a still further decrease of the number of war veterans in Congress. Senator Money, and Taliaferro, retiring, will reduce the number of Confederate veterans, and the defeat of Representatives Hull, of Iowa, and Calderhead, of Kansas, will cut down the representation of Union veterans in Congress.

One death and five retirements of prominent members will make a serious inroad upon the membership of the Finance Committee of the Senate after the fourth of March. The chairmen of the Committee, Senator Aldrich, and Senators Hale and Flint, republicans, will retire at the close of their terms next March, as will Senators Money and Taliaferro. The retirement of Aldrich will leave Senator Burrows, of Michigan, the senior republican member of the committee, with Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania next. As Senator Burrows has not for some time been in robust health, there has been much talk that the honor will go to Penrose. The death of Senator Daniel, the senior democrat on the Committee, and the retirement of Senators Money and Taliaferro will leave the minority seniority to Senator Bailey. The remaining members of the committee, with the six named eliminated, are: Burrows, Penrose, Cullom, Lodge, McCumber and Smoot, republicans, and Bailey and Simmons, the only democrats.

The National Monetary Commission, created for the express purpose of attempting a remedy of the fiscal system of the United States, confessedly defective, will also be visited with notable changes on account of the retirement of some of these Senators. Three of the Senators who will not be members of the Sixty-second Congress are members of the Monetary Commission, as was Senator Daniel deceased. It is probable that Senator Aldrich, upon his retirement from the Senate, will consent to retain his membership on the commission. That body has one former Senator, Mr. Teller, of Colorado, one former Representative, Mr. Bonyng, of Colorado, who are members.

J. Z. Martin, of Robert Lee is manufacturing brooms of bear grass, a native product of the West, which has proven in every way as useful and attractive looking as those of broom corn. This stiff bladed grass grows indigiously over the west and has been considered of no use. Mr. Martin has invented a machine for slitting the blades into narrow strips, after which they are cured and made into brooms the usual way with the same machinery. These brooms will outlast two broomcorn brooms, will sweep cleaner and with less labor.

Beginning July 31st, a change was made in the schedule of the two morning trains, Nos. 4 and 5. The westbound now arrives at 8:10 and the eastbound at 9:29. No change was made in the night trains, Nos. 2 and 6; they pass here at 9:05.

Another epoch making event transpired in Colorado this week. Whether in cold blood diversion, on business bent or on some subtle mission of amorous intent, he deposes not; but the fact that Dr. Maurice Terrell made a trip to Snyder Monday and has been as dumb as an oyster since, is presumptive evidence that something is about to happen.

A Clean Salve.

Is desirable. Dr. Bell's Antiseptic Salve is a creamy white ointment and is guaranteed for all skin diseases, such as eczema, salt rheum, chaps, etc. 25c.

Jake Maurer, having finished the furnishing up of his caravansary and refectory, has hied away to the haunts of the festive mosquito and cat fish, where he will endeavor to kill a week's time with an axe and fishing rod. His place of business has been given a coat of fresh paint, inside and out, of the most lurid hue.

We Guarantee Every Box

of Dr. Bell's Antiseptic Salve to do what we claim. Try it for ulcers, boils, runny sores, tetter, ringworm, eczema, salt rheum, fever sores, cuts, bruises, pimples, black heads, chaps, felons, burns or any skin disease. 25c a box.

The recently appointed jury commissioners for Mitchell county, are T. H. Roe, Colorado; S. E. Brown, Loraine; Jake Chesney, Westbrook.

FOR SALE—My home in North Colorado, price $1,500, in one or four payments to suit purchasers. Apply to J. W. Bird (or Bird & Sims).

W. S. STONEHAM.

W. R. Mitchell of Abilene visited his parents last week.

A six inch rise in the river last week, gave evidence to a fairly good rain to the north of us.

A rain, estimated all the way from two to five (?) inches fell last Thursday forenoon from Dunn, to within eight miles of Colorado, doing considerable good to the section covered. But Oh for a regular campmeeting and Fourth of July gully washer just at this juncture.

A Bargain for Printers.

Owing to the installation of our Linotype we have about 400 pounds of Century expanded 10-point type and 300 pounds of 8-point, which has been used only two years. This type is good as new and will be sold at a bargain with the cases. Prefer to sell all to one party, but will sell in smaller lots.—Address the Record.

Merkel is revelling in the luxury of a new system of water works.

Out door sleeping has become quite a fad during the torrid spell. Several of our citizens have erected sleeping towers in their yards with netting to head off the festive mosquito, and snooze at their own sweet will. The only fly in the ointment of their enjoyment is they have to rise betimes, enjoyment is they have to rise betimes, take up their beds and hike.

Internally

EXTERNALLY—Cures soreb rears, corns, bunions, toothache, neuralgia, and all pains. Sold everywhere. It is antiseptic.

If novelty is attractive, then by the same token the sign on the garage on Front street, is the most attractive one in the city. "GOROBS" may be the French for the critter, or it may be Sankrit, yet it serves the useful purpose of inciting impetinent questions. When asked whose was the hand that made it Mr. Herrington denied any knowledge of the act, but thought maby Harry Collins might have done it at night, while Harry suspects Frank Miller as the artist, and Frank almost knows the responsibility lays between Aubry Herrington, Fred Harris and Carl Phenix. And the question still remains—who spelled that sign?

FOR SALE—Saturday Evening Post best weekly magazine in the world. See Stansil Whipkey or this office.

D. C. Doss of Colorado, was in the city yesterday, coming for his son who has been visiting in the home of C. W. Wulfjen for a month. He has recently made an extensive tour of the northwestern states, and reports the country general dry.—Midland Reporter.

Small favors are thankfully received and big ones in proportion. The showers of last week, though not distributed as we possibly might have ordered, benefited just as good people as we. Queries of a dozen farmers as to the benefit of the rain of last Thursday, elicited the information that those who received any rainfall at all, believed it enough to keep things going for a week or two, now barring the hot winds, which prevailed a few days last week.

Phone us or tell us the local news.

Frank Lupton returned Saturday night from Burnham, where he has been giving that prosperous burg a coat of paint and a general furnishing.

Dysentery is a dangerous disease, but can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been successfully used in nine epidemics of dysentery. It has never been known to fail. It is equally valuable for children and adults, and when reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take. Sold by all druggists.

Tommie Hughes returned Sunday from a two week's visit with his sister Mrs. Dick Aarnott, at Burnham. Just for the physical exercise while resting he took a hand in rustling cattle.

Ladies' Home Journal and Saturday Evening Post sold by Stansil Whipkey or at the Record office.

Reports from different parts of the country are to the effect that the local showers of last week have done much good. Wherever they have fallen they have been sufficient to cause the moisture to meet.

Chief Pritchett and Dancom Broadus have bought the City Cafe, and are now serving the thirsty public with all manner of cold and enticing drinks.

Work in Oil Field

The drill is going down in the new oil well. The workmen have been hindered some what this week for the want of pipe, but this will not be apt to occur again, and we expect to soon report good progress in the work. They have a good machine, well rigged and in a little while we hope to be able to tell the world that we have brought in a gusher.—Western Light.

Mrs. R. F. Terry is again at home after a few weeks spent on a pleasant visit to relatives. She was accompanied home by her son and daughter from Weatherford.

When the digestion is all right, the action of the bowels regular, there is a natural craving and relish for food. When this is lacking you may know that you need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They strengthen the digestive organs, improve the appetite and regulate the bowels. Sold by all druggists.

MANUEL, The Home Tailor.

Little Miss Francis Mitchell entertained a number of her friends on Monday afternoon from five to seven o'clock. The day was her fifth birth-anniversary, so each small visitor presented her a pretty toy. It is hard to tell which gave this wee dainty lady the greatest pleasure, her five five years, her party or her presents. The little folks were refreshed with delicious ice cream in pretty pink cones.

Be sure and take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with you when starting on your trip this summer. It cannot be obtained on board the trains or steamers. Changes of water and climate often cause attacks of diarrhoea, and it is best to be prepared. Sold by all druggists.

There will be a game of base ball this (Friday) afternoon at 4 o'clock, between the local aggregation and the ambitious crowd from the classic village of Coahoma. Go out and root for the local bunch; they'll need all the help and encouragement they can get.

We Do Not Recommend

Southerland's Eagle Eye Salve for anything but the eyes. It is a speedy and harmless cure for granulated lids, scrofulous sore eyes, styes, weak eyes and dimness of vision. Sold everywhere. 25 c.

Van King, after a visit with his family, returned to the city of Burnham, the future great. He reports great activity and good grass in that favored section.

Miss Ethel Stokes is visiting in Snyder and other places.

If you are a reader of the Saturday Evening Post, see Stansil Whipkey, who will deliver it at your house or office every week.

Crosbyton-Crossplains Railroad.

Will operate its first train into Crosbyton December 1, 1910 which will be the first regular train ever operated into Crosby County, Texas.

On August 15, 1910, the C. B. Live-stock Company will place its agricultural lands on the market, and the Crosbyton-Southplains Townsite Co. will offer its town lots in Crosbyton for sale. A vast body of the best agricultural lands in the Panhandle and the choicest lots in Crosbyton will thus be open to purchasers.

Terms and prices reasonable and will be quoted on any tract or lot on application, either in person or correspondence. Address all correspondence to C. B. Live Stock Company, Crosbyton, Texas.

It's so, if you saw it in the Record

Attention is called to the call in another column, by Dr. I. E. Smith of Big Springs, for a meeting of the poultry raisers of West Texas at his office in Big Springs, Saturday, August 13th, for the purpose of organizing a West Texas Poultry Raisers Association. This seems to us a move in the right direction. There is no section needing a successful poultry industry more than this, and no where is there greater necessity for co-operation. It is the life of the industry everywhere. We trust Colorado will send its quota to this meeting.

On last Friday Mrs. H. F. Wheeler chaperoned a crowd of girls to Seven Wells in honor of Miss Fanny Swan of Merkel, who is her guest. The girls took plenty of good things to eat and a merry time was spent. The crowd consisted of Misses Swan, Smith, Coleman, Terry Blandford, Pritchett Earnest, Farmer, Whipkey and Mrs. Wheeler.

Southerland's Eagle Eye Salve.

Is a creamy snow white ointment put up in airtight screw top tubes. Will cure any case of sore eyes and will not injure eyes of a babe. Sold everywhere, 25c.
