DEATH.

Last week we mentioned the illness of Mr. G. F. C. Moore at Andalusia, Alabama, uncle of Mrs. McCall and J. O. McClellan and other relatives here. This week we clip from the Andalusia Star the following:

"G. F. C. Moore, one of Covington county's most beloved pioneers died Saturday morning near Andalusia, after a lingering illness. Deceased was in his seventieth year. He served in the Confederate army throughout the war. He served Covington county as a commissioner. He served Andalusia Masonic lodge as its presiding officer. His word was as good as his bond. He was a Christian in its truest sense. He was our friend, brave, kind, generous and true. For many years deceased had been a member of Andalusia Masonic lodge and at the funeral service members of that order were present from all parts of the county. The funeral was held at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and it was one of the largest if not the largest funerals ever conducted here. Rev. J. J. Taggood officiated Andalusia Masonic Lodge performed the burial rites at the grave. Deceased leaves eight children, four men and four women, viz: Mrs. Jack Lundy, Mrs. Paul Wilson, Miss Isabel Moore, Miss Ara Moore, Alonzo Moore, Oliver Moore.

All of the children live near Andalusia.

CALL FOR PROHIBITION CONVENTION.

Houston, Texas—Thomas H. Ball, chairman, today issued the following call for a statewide, non partisan prohibition convention to be held in Fort Worth, December the eighth at 10 a. m.

To the Prohibitionists of Texas:

During the coming year the Texas legislature will submit to the voters of Texas, a constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor within our state.

A nonpartisan, militant and thorough organization of the friends of the amendment, who are opposed to the domination of the state and local affairs of the liquor interests is necessary to bring success to our cause.

We, therefore, call a convention of Statewide prohibitionists, regardless of political affiliations, who stand for the suppression of the liquor business and the open saloon in Texas to meet in the city of Fort Worth, on Thursday, December 8, 1910 at 10 a. m. to perfect an organization to conduct a campaign for the adoption of the amendment.

Prohibitionists in every county in the state are urged to hold mass meetings and as large delegations as possible to the convention.

Thomas H. Ball, chairman, Houston; B. H. Carroll, Fort Worth; William Poindexter, Cleburne, Cone Johnson, Tyler; J. M. Terrell, senator of First District; E. B. Mayfield, Senator Twenty-seventh District; B. B. Sturgeon, Senator Third District; John L. Ratliff, Senator Second District; John Marshall, Speaker House of Representatives; O. S. Lattimore, Senator elect, Ft. Worth; George P. Rankin, Dallas; S. P. Brooks, Waco; and 125 others over the State.

THE WRECK.

Tuesday's east bound train was delayed some eight hours, caused by a wreck just this side of Monahan. Ten cars of cattle were overturned and killed, one car containing a horse and four cars of merchandise. One man stealing a ride was killed, also an emigrant by the name of Geers was badly injured.

The wreck delayed No. 4 on which was an opera troupe going to play Weatherford.

Altogether it was a serious wreck.

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES.

The Ladies' Service. Sunday as a close to their week of prayer service, the ladies of the Methodist church invited the Baptist congregation, who were also without a minister, to meet with them and held a very interesting missionary service both morning and evening.

Mrs. Jackson presided at the organ and some appropriate songs were given by the choir. Mrs. Shaw had the service in charge. Mrs. Davis called the scripture readings, which were given by different ladies in the audience.

Mrs. Merritt read a paper on "Why I am Interested in Missions," which was much complimented. Mrs. Lyons had a big dollar cut out of cardboard, with a small space cut out to show the small amount we give to Foreign Missions.

Mrs. Shaw drew the picture of the man who doesn't believe in "furren" missions. This greatly amused the little folks. Mrs. Gustine read a fine paper on the work of Missions in the Baptist church.

Mrs. Annis read a beautiful little poem of Father Ryan's which Mrs. Shaw illustrated. Mrs. Jackson read lines to a water fowl which was also illustrated.

Mrs. Lowe sang most sweetly, "Will There be Any Stars in My Crown" and Mrs. Shaw's pictures for this were the best of all. Each visitor was given a pretty artificial rosebud presented for the occasion by a friend of Mrs. Shaw.

At the evening meeting the house was filled. The choir was much helped by having Messrs. Ed. and Charlie Jones, Mr. Annis and Mr. Payne of the orchestra to play. A splendid paper on "Our Possibility in view of the Early Christians" by Mrs. Simmons. Questions on tithing were asked by Mrs. Lyon and answered by the audience.

Mrs. Shaw made a number of drawings of the old man and his wife, the Japanese Sea and boats and a beautiful one of Home, Sweet Home which the orchestra played very prettily.

DR. GREGORY'S LECTURE Thursday evening the Tabernacle was filled with an interested audience to hear Dr. L. C. Gregory, superintendent of the Terrell Insane Asylum.

Dr. Gregory was secured by the Hesperian club to lecture on the causes of insanity and the effects of cigarettes. This organization was ably assisted by the Brotherhood, the other clubs and the Aid Societies. Dr. Gregory spoke to the school children at 4 o'clock and in the evening after being introduced by Judge Crockett, he gave a splendid address.

If the Doctor ever runs for Governor on the prohibition platform, he will surely win if he gets to talk to all the voters.

Among the other good things he said: "The said that we need the revenue, the brewers pay five million dollars into the treasury, write the men who drink, pay the brewers fifty-seven million dollars." "Some people believe that whiskey is good as a medicine. It is the duties of the doctors of this country to tear down this delusion."

"When our family physicians gird on their armor and begin teaching the people, then will something be understood about the effects of alcohol and narcotics. The counties who prohibit these things are the counties who have insane." "He said that there were 60,000 babies buried each year, more people are admitted to the insane asylum than ever before. In 1860, there were 50 insane people in Texas and in 1910 there were 250,000. This he attributed to the violation of the laws of nature, heredity, alcoholism and narcotics. He said that there was more opium used here than in China. Alcoholism is responsible for 60 per cent of the insanity of Texas, heredity for 25 per cent. The man or woman who stands up in the morning light of the twentieth century and denies the force of heredity is either a fool or is ignorant. He drew a pretty illustration from the mother of Sampson who was commanded by God to drink no strong drink that she might bear the strongest man of any age and at the conclusion of his lecture, he paid high tribute to the mother of Napoleon, Miss Willard and others whose lives had been greatly colored by the prenatal influence of their mothers.

His lecture was an eye-opener along many lines and will no doubt have great weight with some, at least of the boys who heard him.

Dr. Gregory lectured Friday in Sweetwater to the Club ladies and the school children.

One good resulting from his visit was the placing of the little De Moss child in his institution. Some interested ladies visited him and requested that if possible the child be admitted. "I'll take him," he answered, "no use trying to say no to three ladies," he afterward told some of the doctors. The child was taken Saturday night and will now be where he can receive the proper treatment.

The Hesperian Club desires to extend their thanks to the following organizations for the amounts donated by them to bring Dr. Gregory to our city:

- Standard Club, $3.00. Hay Vie Club, $2.25. Baptist Aid, $2.00. Christian Aid, $2.00. Episcopal Guild, $2.00. Adult Class, Methodist, $2.00. Brotherhood, $10.00.

We feel that this was given in the best possible cause and that the seeds of truth sown by Dr. Gregory in the minds of our children will bring forth fruit in mature years.

Mrs. Simeon Shaw received first prize for her paintings at the Dallas Fair. This is indeed an honor, both for Mrs. Shaw and for our town. She is an artist that any place might be proud of. Her paintings are works of art and not only does she paint pictures in oil and water color, but there is nothing on any material that her delicate fingers cannot fashion. She has done some silk quilts and kimonos that are marvelous creations of art and beauty. In quest books, laundry list, books for clippings and everything in this line, her artistic individuality fashions articles both useful and pretty. Do we really appreciate the genius at home or do we think more of that which is brought on.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Looney had the Guild tea, the first of the season. The ladies of the Episcopalian church gathered early with their work and spent the time most industriously. Later other guests came in and a delightful social session with an appetizing luncheon was enjoyed. To show their appreciation, each guest left an offering for the Guild.

The Choral Club is working hard now on an entertainment to be given during the holidays. The complete success of their cantata last winter has not been forgotten and any entertainment they may give will be enjoyed.

Miss Beas McMurray was hostess to the Young Ladies' "42" Club Thursday and a pleasant meeting was enjoyed by the young ladies.

That evening the young people gathered at Mrs. Jim Smith's in honor of Aubrey Kindred. It was just the old time crowd and oh, the fun they did have. Candy was made and all kinds of stunts were brought out especially for the occasion. As usual it was early morning before good nights were said.

Mitchell County, and The Record is its Prophet!"

COLORADO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18.

THE GREAT ASSET IS ROOSEVELT.

MR. O'TOOLE SAYS

As we have lived in Greek legend, a Phrygian upon whom was conferred the power to turn everything he touched into gold. In the short time before he died he was able to free himself from this golden fetter. Midas gained a great fortune for wealth, but brewed a multitude of evils for others and much misery for himself. But that's the old story.

There as in the American political campaign of Anno Domini 1910, one Theodore Roosevelt, who possessed as results show, an alarmingly potent touch. Everything political he touched turned to ashes in his desiring hand; every horse he backed in the go-as-you-please race was scratched at the post.

In New York, he took the State by the scruff of the neck, and swore by the nine gods and various others that he'd shape its political face to suit himself, or he'd beat it to a frazzle. The result was the overthrow of his candidate by the better part of 100,000 plurality, where Hughes had won before and doubtless could have won again.

He meddled in Connecticut, and the citizens of that state elected the man Roosevelt insulted, alone out of a State Democratic ticket by 70,000 votes.

He tried to knife Harmon of Ohio and the State's answer is an increased majority for its able democratic governor.

He thrust his potent hand into Massachusetts, and despite the Democratic Dissonance in that State on which the Republicans depended for victory, the State gives the independent democrat, Foss, the gubernatorial ermine.

He went into Indiana to secure the re-election of his friend Beveridge, and this brought about the defeat of one of the ablest and cleanest young statesmen ever in the national senate.

He appeared in safely Republican New Hampshire, and reduced the usual majority of that rock-ribbed state for the republicans.

Many other things he touched, and brought disorder or defeat. Truly the greatest asset of the Democratic party today, is Theodore Roosevelt, and may he never grow less offensive.

Women are naturally very ingenious, for when they find they cannot keep a secret they pass it on to their neighbor for safe keeping.

If anyone doubts the wonderful, almost magic power of this Western country to "come back" let him or her take a stroll of a few miles out into the surrounding country. For months the vegetation had been slowly burning up in the rays of the consuming sun; both human and animal kind were crying water! The blight of the drouth lay over the face of nature, like a pall over a bier, while the faces and spirits of the people but reflected the flagging hope and dawning despair that seemed to seize upon us all. The general verdict and solemn, was that West Texas had about reached the "Bad."

Today, scarcely three weeks since one sufficient rain, a rain which not alone stimulated every cell of plant life to its highest office of appropriation, but over fed it—the face of the earth is green with a carpet of gladness, and even the descending sap in the trees, tries to arrest its hibernation and take part in the recrudescence of Nature. The weeds have sprung into newness of life and vigor of growth and instead of being only noisome pests wave their cheerful testimony in the glad chorus of acclaim: "West Texas can Always Come Back."

And now "ye timid and fearful souls fresh courage take; the clouds we so much dread, are big with mercy and will break in blessings on our heads."

The settlement and development of West Texas will be repetition of that of Kansas. The settling and development of that state was a succession of movings back and forth. With every dry year, the timid and weak drifted back to the "old home"; but having gotten the spirit of that section in their minds, returned with the first evidences of prosperity. Thus the migrating tide ebbed and flowed, but the Westward waves were always the higher; until now, Kansas is one of the thickest settled, fullest developed and most dependable states west of the Mississippi river.

So it will be with Texas—West Texas. The great law of compensation must be maintained and the pendulum swings as far to the right as to the left. We take no stock in the old saying that "one extreme follows another, but that West Texas will have another run of years such as the country enjoyed from 1904 to 1908 and which reached flood tide in 1906. A season of excessive moisture would be as much of a calamity as that of a drouth. In the comprehensive plan of evolution, in which man's intelligence and labor is an important element, conservation is the basis of success.

Yes, sir, West Texas is coming back! And in the classic idiom of the immortal Mississippi bard: "She has ariv."

And now let us do our part. Nature has several times during the past twenty-five years rebuked our cowardice and encouraged our strength. She has proved to the observing mind and faithful heart that these recurring seasons of drouth were not calamities, but the recuperating periods of her strength; that she might bless us the more abundantly when she returned with the "Horn of Plenty." Let us exorcise the evil spirit of Fear and distrust, thrust out the gaunt Spectre from our feasts and cut down the Sword of Damocles from above our heads. Taught to expect these seasons of leanness, were it not the part of wisdom to anticipate them? If we were blessed with bountiful harvests every year, the very munificence of the blessings would become veritable Juggernaut to our prosperity, which would soon cease to have value, and we would degenerate into apathetic, ambitionless and surfeited animals, content to run in aimless and appetitic droves.

Which suggests another thought—the exquisite blessedness of poverty! Its only drawback is that it is a trifle unhandy in cold weather. The rich enjoy a blessing but once, the moment of possession. The poor enjoy it a thousand times in anticipation. The rotten rich have only to desire a possession, scratch that modern Alladin's lamp—the check book—and behold it lies within their hands. The rich die and are buried, but the poor, we have always with us, and that's something to speak of.

But, as I have said before—just watch West Texas come back.

—Peter O'Toole.

LET'S LIVE—NOT EXIST.

Take life like a man. Take it for the earnest, vital and essential thing it is. Take it as though you were born to perform a merry task in it. As though the world had awaited your coming. Take it as though it was a grand opportunity to achieve, to carry forward great schemes, to hold and cheer a discouraged, weak and broken hearted brother. Let your daily prayer be:

"If I have faltered more or less in my great task of happiness; If I have moved among my race And shown no glorious morning face; If beams from happy human eyes Have moved me not; If morning skies, Books, and my food and summer rain Knocked on my sullen heart in vain— Lord, Thy most pointed pleasures take And stab my spirit broad awake; Or Lord, If too obdurate I, Choose Thou, before that spirit die, A piercing pain, a killing sin, And to my dead heart run them in."

Some doubt is still expressed as to whether Col. Roosevelt is out after votes or subscribers.

Mr. Hearst has invited the Colonel to walk right in and help himself to the Independence league. This leaves nothing now to be desired.

SPECIAL RAMBLER MAGAZINE

Rambler dealers representing every section of the country and all counted among the leaders in their representative fields, have co-operated with the Thomas B. Jeffrey Company in the production of a remarkable number of the Rambler Magazine which tells an intensely interesting story of the success of the Big Rambler organizations, how the producing and selling ends are managed, why Rambler dealers have succeeded and including the complete announcement of the Rambler for 1911.

This number is of standard magazine size and is replete with attractive illustrations of dealers headquarters in all the principle cities, factory departments, showing the extent and equipment of the Rambler plant and a narrative of the growth of the Rambler organization, showing how, with nearly forty years of manufacturing experience behind it and guided by stable policy—it has become one of the greatest manufacturing and selling organizations in the world.

A copy of this issue will be sent free to any one who makes request of the Thomas B. Jeffrey Company, Kenosha, Wisconsin.

We are here to stay and every dollar made will be spent with home people.

Thanking the people of Colorado for the generous patronage accorded the business in the past, we solicit its continuance, promising, if possible, better service than ever before.

COUNTRY LIFE

As the roads are improved the rural districts will become more attractive, the farmers will continue to farm and to do so more intelligently, the congested population of the cities will begin to flow from their alleys to the healthy atmosphere of the farm and become producers instead of idle consumers and our country will march forward to greater industrial attainments and a higher and nobler civilization.—Logan Waller Page, of the United States Department of Agriculture in a letter to the National Grange.

As long as men have the intelligence which moves them to come in out of the wet, so long will they seek the places where they think they will be the happiest. The same impulse which draws a sensible animal, human or otherwise from the hot sun to the shade of a tree, will prevail over any "back-to-the-soil" movement, which does not make the soil attractive.

The country where there are good roads and good schools is not "depopulated." From the country which has not these advantages people move to the city to "educate their children" and to have the gregarious pleasures which rural solitudes deny them.

"Aint this place the highest to no whar, ye ever got to?" asked a farmers wife of the South, speaking to Mr. Albert Bushnell Hart. And thus she voiced that protest against isolation which all humanity feels.

It is a certain thing that tenement conditions in great cities are worse than country conditions of almost any sort. But what does that amount to if the people affected do not think so or do not find it out in time?

Partly, the soil will get more producers when it is easier for people to get possession of it and to make a living when they get there. But more largely "Country life in America" will have more country lovers, when country children and country folk in general get more good roads and good schools and more of the joy of living.—Kansas City Star.

FROM UNION.

Everything is quiet in this section but not dry by any means, for we had another trash mover Monday night, which has checked cotton picking for a period (well we don't know how long.) Still the interest goes on at the banks. Oh, well they have to be supported.

No sickness in our community. Mr. J. M. Dorn and wife took a flying trip to Loraine last Saturday to see the children.

Mrs. E. M. McCreless is also off on a visit to her children this week.

A good many of our farmers are buying corn, and hauling it home is a part of our business now days.

Rumor says that Brother Shaw and Brother Ledger have been returned to their past fields of labor. Come on Brethren, we will do our best for you and expect the same of you.

FARMER

Sunday was Mrs. T. W. Stoneroad's birthday and her sister, Nell Ruth Arnett prepared a turkey dinner for her. Mr. Floyd Beall of Sweetwater was the only guest outside the two families. The same day Mrs. Arbuthnot served an immense turkey in honor of Mr. Arbuthnot's home coming. The Carter children were guests at this feast.

THE PHILOSOPHER AND THE FROG

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Dr. Safford, for many years professor of chemistry in the Medical College of the University of Nashville, used to tell his students a fable—the moral of which was "prove it." Certain wise men were gathered together to ascertain the explanation of a statement that when two glasses of water of equal weight are balanced on the beams of a balance scale and a frog is then put in one of the vessels the balance remains the same, thus attempting to prove the assertion that a frog has no weight when immersed in water. Each wise man had his own explanation, and there was much heated argument and discussion. At length one of the wise men said: "But is your statement true? Let's prove it." Of course when it came to proving it, they couldn't.

So when you hear people say that Coca-Cola is injurious, just ask them to prove it. They can't. Nobody can, because it is not injurious. But on the other hand it can be proven that it is not injurious by chemical analysis. Or if you are not a chemist yourself, why not accept the verdict of every competent chemist who ever analyzed it? Eminent College and University Chemists, Commercial Chemists, Government, State and City Chemists—all have analyzed Coca-Cola and not one has ever been able to find anything injurious in it. The very next time you hear anyone say that Coca-Cola contains deleterious ingredients tell him to write the Coca-Cola Co., Atlanta, Ga., for a free copy of their booklet, "The Truth About Coca-Cola." In the meantime write for a copy for yourself—you will find it very interesting.

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"My daughter, Octava, would have been in her grave today, had it not been for that fine medicine, Cardui," writes Mrs. Laura Lawrence, of Drennon Springs, Ky.

"Nothing I tried helped my daughter, until she had taken Cardui. I had sent for the doctor, when I thought of your medicine and got a $1 bottle. When she had taken four doses she became all right. I often recommend Cardui to my friends."

Your druggist sells Cardui with full instructions for use on the bottle.

Celebration

On a beautiful Sunday when those honored Mrs. T. J. Mullins and her family were invited to the celebration of Mrs. Mullins' 60th birthday and 44th anniversary. Preceding the dinner was a shower, a birthday dinner prepared and sent in by Mrs. Mullins. Mrs. Mullins was taken to the drive by Miss Roe, and Mrs. Mullins, whose thought brought all to her. Mrs. Mullins' nice things, rushed in and with the help of Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Munn and Vivian Shropshire, Mrs. McEnaney, the Misses Dry and Mrs. Robert Terrell, who is already for an emergency—soon had the dinner ready to be served, the house in readiness for the afternoon's guests and the surprise.

When Mrs. Mullins returned and found her birthday and anniversary dinner ready, she was left with the impression that this was all, so when the guests began arriving soon after three she was treated to another surprise. After a number had gathered, Col. Mullin and Mrs. Mullin were told to go to the dining room. Direct behind them marched the grandmothers present, a beautiful and goodly crowd. The young women for once followed instead of leading.

When all were seated, Mrs. Coleman said, "When it was whispered a few days ago, among those fortunate enough to be counted among the friends of Mrs. T. G. Mullin that there was going to be a surprise party to do honor to the occasion of her birthday and wedding anniversary, 'Would we come?' The hearty and spontaneous 'I'll be there' is fulfilled by all who could possibly get here. Fourteen years ago today, some who are now present, with a host of others were here by her invitation. That day is marked by a white stone in our memories, as the most magnificent social affair before or since in the history of Colorado. We who were here can recall the smiling composure, with which she received and chatted with her hundred or more guests, who called to honor the occasion. Nor can we forget the surprise when we were ushered into the flower bedecked dining room, shall I say refreshments? That word is well enough when applied to the little handouts that we are accustomed to regale our friends with, a teaspoonful of salad on an infinitesimal lettuce leaf, with a shining little olive and a poor little cracker beside it, but when we reached the dining room on this occasion, we beheld the fulfillment of a dream of the hospitality of the old South, to which she had always been accustomed. Think of an elegantly prepared, bountiful, but dainty, beautifully served dinner of four courses, served every hour to twenty guests at a time from two to seven o'clock. I had the honor on that occasion of being a member of the house party and my pleasant duty was to usher each relay of guests to the dining room, and in order not to be partial dined with each party of ladies I carried out. Ladies I can testify that I still live, I think I can safely say that there is not another woman of my acquaintance, who can set forth five beautifully appointed dinners of four courses to 100 or more guests in one afternoon. If any of you differ from me just try it.

But this is not the principal thing which Mrs. Mullins is best known to us. The thoughtful kindness of her great heart, the reaching out of her dear hands to those who need help, the ready response to all calls for work for others, for her unselfishness at all times, for the tender care of the great number of little children, too numerous for us to remember and I doubt if she could recall it herself, who from time to time has been left in her motherly care, some for a few days, some for weeks and some for years. They have received from her hands all the loving attention their daily needs required. Their bodies were kept sweet and clean, as temples for their white souls. They were led in the paths of righteousness, they were taught the sweet courtesy that makes the machinery of every day life run smoothly. It has not been uncommon to find her at the machine making neat little garments, teaching a speech to a child on her right hand, a song to one on her left, sometimes stopping long enough to cheerfully administer a judicious spanking to some refractory youngster on that portion of the anatomy appropriate for that ceremony, for she always exacted implicit obedience. All of these attentions have built monuments of love for her in the hearts of these scores of little ones which will be as enduring as life and doubtless ni years to come, they will tell their children of the Fairy Godmother—a good substantial one—who waved a golden wand over them every morning which made their days long days of delight. They surely will rise up and call her "blessed."

Now this knowledge of the great mother heart of Mrs. Mullin is not confined to Colorado.

At a federation of Women's Clubs, I once heard a member, in speaking of some woman's excuse for not being able to get out and do some work for others, refer to a remarkable woman in Colorado, whose willing hands do the duties that lie near, and whose wide experience has resulted in more good to the people of Colorado, than any enterprise fostered by the business men's league. This member spoke of the mother who was called off on duty or pleasure, being unable to go by the kindness of this wonderful woman whose experienced hands and willing heart took their children into her home cared for them and made them happy until the mothers' return. And then the trouble began. The children never wanted to go home. I have never told Mrs. Mullins of her good works being mentioned in the Federation before. I have been here with the intention to tell her, but she never let me get in a word edgewise. Now I have the floor, it is my time to speak and I want her to know the recognition her loving, faithful deeds have among appreciative, thoughtful women, who prize the good that others do, above rubies.

We are here today to bring good wishes on these important anniversaries, but more to thank her for what she has been to us, as a ministering angel. For the help along domestic lines, in our sick rooms, for ready sympathy in all our joys, and comforts in our sorrows. May the bread she has cast upon the waters, return to her ten fold, is the wish of her many friends."

Mrs. Mullins, who is much enfeebled from her recent illness was strong enough to rise and gracefully thank her friends for their kindness in remembering her. Mrs. Thomas presented the gifts, with which the dining table was heaped. It is a well known fact that there is nothing dainty or pretty in wearing apparel that Mrs. Mullin cannot make, so the gifts were of cut glass, china, books, some pretty collars, handkerchiefs, fruit baskets and baskets of grapes, apples, oranges and bananas, grape juice, jellies, preserves, canned goods of every description. There were flowers, beautiful roses and chrysanthemums. The house was filled with them.

When all had been admired and Col. Mullin congratulated on his part of the celebration, Miss Dry read a beautiful toast:

"Sixty-nine years ago today the gates of heaven were left just ajar, and a wee baby girl with sunny hair and eyes of heaven's own blue slipped right thru. Showers of blessings, the angels bestowed upon her head as she departed and this halo of greatness of heavenly goods has waxed and grown with each succeeding year—lighting the pathway of all it might reach, uplifting many a weary hand and helping the tottering of many a wayward feet. Ever first in adversity, first in distress, first in sickness, first in her Master's service and always about his business. The banner of Excelsior in every worthy deed and cause, modestly and unconsciously bearing, has enthroned her on an ideal pedestal in the hearts of all, whom it has been their good fortune to know her. Was it strange with all this and many other queenly graces, that her soul and face that she captured the king of her heart's affections? and just 44 years ago today that happy consummation was recorded in the golden letters at God's throne, an ideal one that it does one's heart good to look upon. This crowning event as well as the birth of this sunny haired, now kissed with silver, baby girl, has brought us here today."

Another sweet thought was expressed by Miss Roe, who said: "Here's to the woman who has a smile for every joy, a tear for every sorrow, a consolation for every grief, an excuse for every fault, a prayer for every misfortune, and an encouragement for every hope."—Here's to Mrs. Mullin.

When this was finished there were tears in many eyes, but the sadness was dispelled when the ladies of the houseparty began serving. The plates were heaped with salmon and fruit salad and crackers and pickles and a cup of the most delicious hot coffee with sugar and whipped cream. The honored guests in the dining room were served first, then the guests in the other portions of the house.

About this time, Mrs. Simeon Shaw opened up a beautiful birthday book with covers of white satin, beautifully painted in violets. In this each guest wrote her name.

Mrs. Terrell played while the grandchildren, Doris Mullin, Paul and Roberta Terrell sang: "The faded Gray Bonnet" as the anniversary song.

So delightful was the occasion and so sweet the converse with old friends

You insure your Life - Why not insure your Health by using Cottolene?

It isn't the quantity of food you eat, but that portion of it that digests that brings health and strength.

Lard-soaked food never has been, never can be digestible and nourishing, because of the hog fat it contains.

Cottolene is far more healthful than lard because Cottolene is a vegetable product, makes food rich without being greasy, and can easily be digested by the stomach of a child.

They say the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. People who have used and are using Cottolene for all shortening and frying purposes say that the way to health is through the use of Cottolene.

Cottolene shortens your food; lengthens your life.

They are the best remedy I have ever used, during the fifteen years that my kidneys were disordered. I was greatly annoyed by the kidney secretions. My back ached constantly and if I sat for any length of time, I had difficulty in getting up. I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills and since using them I have felt better in every way. His Quarters Furnished Up.

It is astonishing what a spick and span appearance, a little paper and paint can give to a house, room or office. They make as great transformation as the rouge, Pazzoni powder and puff work, in the complexion of Milady. In this connection that offices of Hon. L. W. Sandusky are a case prominently in point. Already large, airy, convenient and well appointed, they have just passed under the hands and skill of the interior decorator, and now have such a comfortable, inviting and persuasive look, that every passerby is constrained to become a client, notwithstanding the proverbial legend that is supposed to adorn the doorfront of every successful disciple of Blackstone and Coke on Littleton, "Suum Queque." Mr. Sandusky has built up an enviable as well as lucrative practice in Colorado and adjoining towns, and is yet comparatively a young man. He possesses that Trinity of elements which constitute the making of a lawyer—Honesty, Industry and ability.

November will be unusual this year for the reason that there will be no full moon. This is because there will be a total eclipse of the moon on the night of the 16th, when it would otherwise be full.

Then let us all embrace the chance and be as merry as we may, for whether we desire or dance, the fiddler is for all to pay. Oh woe is us that could enjoy the autumn time for aye and aye and what with growing soul employ its witchery from day to day. The phosphorescence in the sky, the quail's soft piping on the hill, the blackbirds ever bobbing by, and the wind softsighing where it will.
