There is no valid reason, asserts a bulletin of the Texas Commercial Secretaries' Association, why there should be a pound of meat shipped into Texas, and the continued prosperity of agriculture demands that we raise more live stock and especially hogs, of which we are sadly deficient. In fact we should become heavy exporters of all kinds of meats. The geographical location of our packing houses gives them command of the trade of the Southern Hemisphere, and the opening of the Panama Canal will bring the Orient without trade territory, yet the Texas packing houses are able to supply only 2 per cent of the cured meats and lard shipped into Southern United States, which transportation advantages, due to location, entitle them to furnish.

books have been received. For shame, men! Do let the women have a chance at the stories once in a while. That is the trouble, the books are so interesting that the men hardly turn them loose for dinner, and the good women can get but little opportunity to read them.
This is examination week in the school, and we feel pleased with the way most of our pupils are doing their work. We think we have an excellent rural school at Buford. We work under the usual difficulties, short term, irregular attendance, and poor accommodations for our children, but under such circumstances some of our best lessons are being learned. We must not fail to have that new house next year.

Ask Your Doctor About That

RICH—RICHER—RICHEST.

Taken individually—considered separately from any set or combination, the members of the Astor family, the Gould family, Jas. J. Hill, Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Russell Sage, the Armours, and hundreds of others who could be named, are regarded as exceedingly rich people; rich anywhere, running with any set. One of the Astors owns more real estate than the combined assessed valuation of twenty-five or more West Texas counties. Transplanted to Mitchell county, any one of the above mentioned people would loom so far above any combination of rich West Texans that the distance would be almost incalculable. These people are rich enough to have anything purchasable, they might desire.

But listless! These rich people just named are as much below the superlative rich people of America, as a country editor, doctor or lawyer or what-not, is below the Goulds, Astors, Hills, et al. A thrifty country doctor, lawyer or merchant may accumulate in a life time as much as fifty, a hundred or even three hundred thousand dollars. He is regarded locally as a rich man; but compared with the richest Texas bankers, with ten hundred thousand dollars, he is a poor individual. Just a few hundred thousand difference. But the difference between Gould, with a hundred million, Astor, with a hundred million, Jim Hill, with as much, and several others who count their wealth in millions, and John Rockefeller, with one thousand million, is many hundred million times greater. Such sums mean nothing to the human mind beyond a mere sound. We can see and estimate the bulk of a few thousand dollars or any other thing; we can keep in mind how large a pile one thousand silver dollars make and compare the bulk of other amounts with it. But what mind can grasp one million thousand. By what process of mental imagery can the mind distinguish between one million and two million, say nothing of the higher multiples? It is as much beyond the human imagination as any conception of space or infinity. It is merely a difference of sound—data for calculations.

Compared with nine or ten other rich men of America, Jim Hill, Vincent Astor, George Gould, the Vanderbilts, et al., are poor men; poorer by comparison than the country editor and parson with the single millions. Careful estimates made of the wealth of nine of the richest men of this country, show that it will total more than three billion dollars, which means no more to the ordinary mind than a sound. Their individual fortunes are:

John D. Rockefeller	$1,000,000,000
Andrew Carnegie	500,000,000
E. P. Morgan	300,000,000
William Rockefeller	250,000,000
George F. Baker	250,000,000
Jas. B. Duke	200,000,000
Jes. Stillman	200,000,000
Henry C. Frick	150,000,000
Wm. K. Vanderbilt	150,000,000

What possibly, in the way of service, could these people have given to the world to have earned such vast sums of money. They have not given a quid pro quo for one dollar in a thousand. Measured by what they have given, imputing to them the highest skill and ability in their vocations, these fortunes are impossible. They have gotten something for nothing. Many a country doctor has come more for his kind, his country and society than all these millionaires combined, and died not leaving sufficient to pay his debts. We have as little conscious spirit of communism in our heart as anyone, but the laws or system that makes America a Foreign Mission Field.

"In nineteen states of our Union a majority of the citizens are foreign-born or immediate descendants of foreign-born. Only five of the thirty-eight cities of our country with populations of one hundred thousand and over have a majority native white Americans. New York, Chicago and Milwaukee are practically foreign cities on American soil. Only one-fifth of the inhabitants of New York city are native born or native born parents. There are sixty-six languages spoken in New York city. New York is the largest Irish city in the world. It is one largest Hebrew city, having fifteen times the Jew population of Jerusalem, there being only two nations beside ours that have a Hebrew population equal to it. It has more Germans than any German city except Berlin, and more Italians than any city of Italy, excepting Naples and Rome. There are thirty languages spoken in a single county of Colorado (Las Animas.) Denver, Colo., has two more nationalities in her population than New York city. There are three-quarters of a million foreigners in Texas, and one-quarter of a million Creoles in Louisiana. More than half the population of Tampa, Fla., are Cubans and Italians. The Chinese and Japanese and Koreans are on our Pacific Coast in great numbers. There are large sections of many of our largest cities in which the English language is scarcely ever heard. Vast sections of Texas have passed into the hands of the Germans and Bohemians, and are as solidly foreign as the fatherlands. There are countries in Texas in which the records are kept in foreign languages. We can no longer, very properly and accurately, call ourselves the Anglo-Saxon county or speak of ourselves as an English-speaking people. The American citizen is a cosmopolitan character, representing every nationality that dwells on the face of the earth. Then we have the American Indians, three hundred thousand of them, and ten millions of the negro race in our midst."

SUNDAY RELIGION.

(From Sweetwater Church Bulletin.)

Too many people wear their religion like they do their best suit of clothes. Just on Sunday. If we would see people only on Sunday, how much better and higher opinion we would have of them. But their week day lives lowers our estimation and breeds within us a suspicion that maybe they have two souls—one for Sunday and one for the week.

Too many people hang their piety, consecration, devotion, honesty, veracity up behind the church door as they come out, and put them on next Sunday morning as they enter, just as they would so many robes. They hear so much about the "white robes of righteousness" in heaven, that they get the idea that it can be worn at will, or left off at their pleasure.

True religion is like pure gold—just as good every day as on Sunday. It is not removable. It is an inward grace that shows itself, not in outward appearances but in outward actions. It is evidenced not by what we say, but by what we do; not by our long, sanctified expressions, but by good deeds; not in long-winded prayers and orthodox preaching, but in administering to the necessity of others; not in a selfish ego, but in self-forgetfulness and thoughtfulness for others.

That kind of religion is like the "smile that won't come off." It stays with a man like "poor relatives," and shows itself every day in the week. You can not more hide it that a Jew can hide the sign of his nationality, or a negro the color of his skin.

God pity the man who has "Sunday religion." He will sure die during the week and the devil will get him. "Be ye doers of the Word and not hearers only."
