SENATE AGREES TO FREE WOOL; NO ROLL CALL ASKED.

The Entire Free List Is Approved Except Works of Art.

Washington, D. C. Aug. 25.—The Senate today agreed to free raw wool without roll call. Later in the work the Republicans will demand the roll on their wool substitutes.

The entire free list was approved except works of art.

So Many People Die of Blood Poison.

A little scratch on the hand, a splinter, or small abrasion of the skin is often fatal because the poisonous germs start the infection. That's where Hunt's Lightning Oil comes in handy as an application on the abrasion, kills all germs which may have lodged there, thereby preventing infection and death. It pays to keep this remedy in the home, especially where there are children. All drug stores in 25c and 50c bottles.

Ranch Brings $60,000.

H. H. Wilkinson has sold the Ft. Worth Monumental Works and a number of cottages and vacant lots to C. S. Knott & Son and has bought from C. S. Worth Monumental Works at its present site.

Mr. Wilkinson will return to the banking business and will be with the Continental Bank and Trust Co. with whom he was connected prior to his buying the Ft. Worth Monumental Works four year ago.—Ft. Worth Star Telegram.

COLORADO MAY WIN

Still Another Chance to Show Our White Alley.

Dr. Carrick Makes Inspection.

Dr. M. M. Carrick of Dallas medical director in charge of Holland's Magazine Cleanest Town Contest and Professor of Preventive Medicine in Baylor University College of Medicine didn't spend much time around the hotel or visiting friends, but started out to learn just what kind of a town Colorado was and of the improvements made in health conditions since his visit here last year.

He rode over our principal streets and by-ways; he looked round back yards; he sized up the vacant lot and homeplots, both front and back; he visited the public buildings and churches, grocery stores and meat markets and looked into other conditions as may directly affect the health and cleanliness of a town and then announced that he could not at this time give out the grading of our town. He stated that he reserved the right to return and make another inspection before he announces his final score.

Has Held Public Office.

Dr. Carrick has held a number of prominent public health positions and was one of the physicians in charge of the campaign against meningitis that brought Dallas and other Texas cities in the national spotlight some time ago.

The doctor spoke in complimentary terms of the excellent sanitary condition he found the Texas & Pacific Railway Station. He said that the greatest public health need of Colorado was a sanitary sewer system.

Public Sentiment Necessary.

In speaking of the necessity for public sentiment for the betterment of sanitary conditions he said:

"Bused with the exploitation of the wonderful natural resources of the country, the American people have not yet given due attention to sanitation. Under a republican form of government the will of the majority though frequently slow of expression is supreme, and progress in sanitation as in other fields is made just as fast as the masses of the people demand. Unless public sentiment is behind a sanitary campaign satisfactory results can not be obtained. Administrators of the law will hesitate about appropriating the public funds for sanitary improvements until they are assured that the majority of the people wish them to do so.

A Business Nation.

"The American people are preeminently a business people, and before a community can be stirred into intelligent action for market sanitary improvements it must be apparent in the majority of instances that without such improvements business interests are going to suffer. This is not the case because the average American citizen has no appreciation of the value of human health and human life, but it is because the masses of the people are not and as a rule do not become organized in a way to give concerted effort necessary to the success of a sanitary campaign until the business people through their organizations make sanitation a business issue and advance it in a business like way.

"A review of the sanitary and civic conditions in any section of the country in which any epidemic or contagious disease is prevalent will present many of the salient features of the great general problem of causation and prevention."

Dr. Carrick left Thursday morning for Big Springs, which town he will inspect Thursday and Friday.

PEOPLE BEING AROUSED AND MADE TO REALIZE THEIR DUTY.

Getting Right With God.

The Baptist revival at the tabernacle is now in full progress.

Rev. J. M. Dawson, the honored pastor of the first Baptist church at Temple is doing the preaching. He is being greeted at each service by hungry eagers, listening crowds. He held the attention from the first and preached from the 6th verse of 126 Psalm and urged the Christians that they go forth in earnest sowing precious seed for the Master and if they have fulfilled these commands the Bible for it that they shall reap an abundant harvest.

The consecrated pastor has done all in his power to make the meeting a success and the women are holding daily prayer meetings in different parts of town. In fact not only Christians are trying as the motto exhibited all over town exhorts to "Get right with God" but they seem to be praying that their friends may also. Mr. Cox, a brother of Mrs. Lee Jones and Mrs. Leslie Crowder, a student in Baylor is assisting in the singing and Miss Christine Coffee who is a young missionary to sail for China next month is assisting the young ladies in their work.

Mrs. J. M. Dawson a highly cultured christian lady is also doing efficient work as a personal worker and is making her influence felt for good in the meeting.

Shepherd School House.

Word comes from the Shepherd school house of a great revival under the simple plain preaching of Bro. W. M. Green one of the Missionaries of this association. Rev. Green was assisted by Rev. Birdsong of Abilene. It was a great meeting, large crowds attended and at one service over 50 made request for prayer. And at one service 11 were converted. The meeting is still going on. Last Sunday 11 were converted at the day meeting. This is perhaps the greatest revival in this county for years.

Westbrook Meeting.

At Westbrook Rev. Sherron of Big Springs has just closed a meeting and on Sunday evening last, baptised 20 new converts. Rev. Sherron is a forceful speaker but plain and simple and in rightly divining the word that fell on good grounds and brought forth fruit.

Meeting At Lorraine.

The Lorraine meeting closed last Sunday night with 23 additions to the church and on Sunday evening there was 17 converts buried in Baptism. Bro. G. C. Farris, pastor of that flock was ably assisted by Rev. J. N. Campbell of Colorado and the two together did some fine preaching and good personal work. These two men of God were assisted by J. A. Kinard of Big Springs, who led the singing and is a good personal worker. The meeting was held only 9 days but a world of good was accomplished and the seed sown here will ripen into a rich harvest in the days to come.

Report of The Methodist Meeting at Dunn.

We have the light of the Gospel and Jesus expects us to perfect the great work, which he began by teaching the Word to the unsaved in order that they may be cured of sin.

The Methodist people at Dunn have been keenly alive to their opportunities and obligations during the past ten days. Nor were we without a leader of rare ability. Rev. J. T. Bludworth of Ft. Worth, a true Gospel preacher, assumed this responsibility at the invitation of our faithful pastor, Bro. W. E. Caperton.

Someone has said:
"I do not want to live in the city where large bulidigs the blue sky screen,
But I do want to roam in the fields and meadows where the hand of God is seen"

Look where you may at Dunn and God's goodness, power, and wisdom are revealed. At the same time, however, it is in the midst of such surroundings that temptations assail us. And these must be overcome as an asset in the sum total of character and righteous living. A man can afford to go hungry, he can suffer deprivation, but he cannot, under any circumstances, afford to compromise his better nature to worldly things. He must so adjust himself as to be able to use the world to minister to, and not master his soul's welfare. The church felt the need of a fed life, although she did appear somewhat indifferent to the true situation of affairs. On the other hand we could not assume such an attitude very long after Bro. Bludworth began his series of strong, soul stirring sermons in which he fearlessly denounced sin and quickened every enterprise of the church. The power of God came down, men were convicted, converted, and established in their religious life large crowds attended the services and heard the sermons gladly and profitably. The church was graciously revived, her membership increased, and quite a number of reclamations made. I am sure that among other underlying principles that Rev. Bludworth impressed us with are: "God uses a man in proportion as he is given up to his service," and "the church of God should not be a tomb-stone factory".

We are grateful to Messrs. Walton and C. O. Ellis for conducting the choir services, which helped in a great measure to make the meeting the great success that it was.

We were also fortunate enough to have Bro. Smith of Lorraine with us and hear him deliver an able sermon. Rev. Griswold and Presiding Elder Sherman were in our midst one day making collections to relieve the financial situation of Stamford College, and received a contribution of some six hundred dollars.

In addition to the above mentioned visible results the Missionary Departments organized to do greater work and stand for God and His advancement to His cause and kingdom in this world.

The Young People's Missionary Band is well organized with a membership of forty, the Woman's Department is on a splendid working basis with an enrollment of over thirty, the Sunday School was increased with a force of twenty-eight new members.

The efficiency of these organizations is due in a large measure to the sincere christian love and untiring efforts of Mrs. Bludworth, one of the noble of earth, who was a constant source of inspiration to higher ideals and christian living. The influence of Bro. and Sister Bludworth increase as time goes on. These people stand for "The Kingdom of God, the first and most essential dogma of the Christian faith". Our people showed their appreciation of the services of these good people in a substantial way, giving them an offering of a little more than $70.00.

There is still a great work to be done and Jesus is more willing to give than we are to ask. We ourselves and all that is ours belongs to God why not give it to Him?
MAE DURHAM.

Sunday School Notes.

Dr. Coleman, Mr. Webb and Mr. Jackson with Mr. Thos. Currie of Austin visited the Union Sunday School last Sunday morning.

The School gave them a royal welcome and entered heartily in the graded work. Mr. Currie addressed the young men in a manner that should have inspired every young one to a higher living.

Every school in the county we believe, except one has been visited by the county officials of the Mitchell County Sunday School Association and good reports have come from a number of them. The officers have derived pleasure from these visits and feel that they have been strengthened in the work. The president sincerely hopes that every school in the county will be well represented at the rally to be held here the 28th of September and help to make it a glorious success.

The officers elected Sunday at Union were: Mr. J. M. Dorn, Supt. Miss Dora Stovall, Sec. Miss Dorn Supt. of Home department and Cradle Roll; with T. H. Halbert, Marvin Dorn, Miss Viola Stovall, Mr. Jim Dorn, Mrs. B. B. McGuire, R. D. Hart, Miss Beatrice Stovall and Mrs. J. M. Dorn as teachers. With this efficient corp of officers and teachers we bespeak for them a progressive successful school.

The Mexican Situation.

The trouble in Mexico has developed one fact of importance in the U. S. and that is that both the Federals and Constitutionallists are firm believers in Hunt's Lightning Oil, the great American remedy for neuralgia, rheumatism, cuts, burns and other aches and pains. No wonder, since it makes the pain go away almost at once. All druggists sell it in 25c and 50c bottles.

Phone McMurry for your groceries.

The Baptist Meeting.

The Baptist Meeting moved to the Tabernacle where the evening crowds are perhaps twice as many as the church could comfortably seat. Rev. Mr. Dawson came on Tuesday morning and is preaching twice daily, 10 a. m. and 8:15 p. m. to most attentive congregations. He and the pastor unite in saying that the Tabernacle is the best place they ever saw to hold a meeting and congratulate Colorado upon having such a building.

People from 10 miles around are in attendance already. Let all the city and country turnout to these meetings and share in the gracious blessings God is ready to pour out upon us.

The ladies conduct three prayer meetings daily at 5 p. m. The young ladies have a daily meeting at 7:15 p. m. at the church. The men have a daily prayer meeting at 7:15 p. m. at the Tabernacle.

There will be no Saturday evening meeting. But on Sunday afternoon at 4 p. m. there will be a great Men's Meeting at the Tabernacle.

Also on Sunday at 4 p. m. all the Ladies Prayer meetings will meet together at the Baptist church. Mrs. Dawson and Miss Coffee will both be there and the meeting will do all the women of our city good.

Friday at 5 p. m. at the Baptist church Mrs. Dawson will conduct a meeting for all the Sunday School pupils and the children of the city.

Subject for Thursday Evening: "Reaping the Terrible Whirlwind."

PLAINVIEW POINTS.

From week to week the scribe has forgotten to announce the returning of Bro. A. D. Leach as pastor for another year he was called by an unanimous vote three years ago, and has been retained unanimously every time since and we believe that if every one in the community was allowed to vote on the matter that he would be the unanimous choice, the only way for him to get away from a church is to resign for he has never been defeated.

Everybody is either picking or getting ready to pick cotton and we will soon begin to roll the fleecy staple to market.

Bro. Leach lost a Jersey heifer unbranded and was last seen in the Union community out in the lane.

Mr. Jeff Davis got 11:70 for his cotton last Saturday the bale weighed over 600 pounds he took 1600 of seed cotton to town that was a little better than a 1-3, which is good.

Miss Rhoads Leach of Snyder visited the Misses Leach last week and went back Monday.

Mr. Alberi Leach and wife were visiting with Mr. Leach and family last week.

Give Your Neighbor an Equal Chance

By HOLLAND.

IF you have been buying goods of a mail order house you doubtless think it has been to your advantage to do so. You have believed that you were saving money or were getting better goods. Let us see if this is true.

Have you tried to do business with your local merchant—your neighbor—on the terms that the mail order house exacts? No? Then suppose you try it.

Just go into the store, plank down your cash and tell what you want. You might even tell the merchant that you will wait a few days for the goods. See if your local merchant can't serve you better and as cheaply as the mail order house.

The local merchant usually extends credit for two, four or six months. The mail order house demands cash in advance. It uses your money as working capital. It loses nothing in interest, nothing in bed debts or on slow paying customers. Try this cash in advance plan on the local merchant—the man you know—and see if he can't make it to your advantage to

COLORADO TEAM CAPTURES THE PRIZE.

About a dozen members of the local Woodmen Camp went to the Haskell Log Rolling last week determined to capture the prize offered the best drilled team or know the reason why. And they did it with neatness and dispatch. The prize was $20 in the current coin of the realm, which aside from being a badge of glory, will do much to swell the treasury of the team and local lodge. The Record congratulates the Woodmen on their proficiency in the drill of the order and hopes this is but the beginning of a long list of prizes this team will capture.

Delegates from the local camp here were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Doss and Mrs. L. A. Costin, who went along with the team. The boys report a good time at Haskell. The next log rolling will be held at Abilene. Those in the team were: Tom Daughtry, Captain; Marian Daughtry, Clyde Adams, Chester Davis, Walker Franklin, Harlan Gardner, Will Schroeder, Monte Hastings, Walter Owens, Dick Loving, W. A. Spencer, M. G. Venice, E. W. Venice.

Mrs. Dulaney Entertains.

Last Friday afternoon Mrs. B. P. Dulaney invited a number of her girlhood friends, who still live in Colorado, to renew their youthful experiences by meeting in the way they used to do when girls. The guest of honor was Mrs. Gray of El Paso, who was at one time the merriest of the group. It was indeed delightful to gather at the hospitable home of Mrs. Dulaney for she not only knows how to give her friends a royal welcome but to be in their beautiful suburban home is a treat of itself. After the guests had arrived, looked at the flowers, chickens, children, and looked over her house, they settled themselves to sew and chat. It was the purpose to give a prize to the one hemming her napkin the quickest, but as tongues flew faster than needles, and some not commencing on time, they all drew for it and Mrs. N. J. Phenix is the happy owner of a beautiful embroidered pillow. The honoree was presented with a crocheted library table runner as a souvenir of the occasion.

The hostess served a delicious salad course with all its accompaniments, her ice cream and cake.

The ladies thoroughly enjoyed the occasion and voted Mrs. Dulaney a successful hostess in the same enthusiastic manner as when visiting in young ladyhood days.

Mrs. P. C. Coleman Entertains.

Last Friday, Mrs. P. C. Coleman entertained in her gracious manner for Miss Jeannett Roe the bride of the week, by having her church friends and a few others with a lawn party. The lawn was beautifully lighted and the hostess for two daughters and the young ladies of the church, proved charming hostesses in every sense of the word. All formality was laid aside and an evening of games and laughter was heartily enjoyed by all. Good old "yells" were given for the bride and groom so that could be heard blocks away. One of the most laughable games was "Being Inlisted in the Order of the Pickles," in which Mr. Reeves Coleman was chief High-muck-muck of the occasion. It was such a howling success that he is thinking of establishing a permanent order here.

Such evenings only tend to cement the bonds of friendship stronger, and lighten cares of the day and should be enjoyed often. The hostess and her charming assistants served ice cream and cake and the goodbyes were said. Thus ended a happy social affair given for a happy beloved bride.

The out of town guests were: Mrs. Will Burnett and daughter, Miss Annie Lou of Seminole.

BRIDGE.

Mrs. S. B. Bailey, entertained in her most hospitable manner. The Looney house party and Miss Gene Fish in honor of Mrs. J. B. Gray of El Paso with bridge last Friday night, a most pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Mr. Prude was the winner of the gentleman's prize and Miss M. Carter the ladies' in a cut with Mrs. Looney. The honoree was presented with a bronze bridge pad as a souvenir of the pleasant occasion.

Missionary Meeting.

The Missionary Society of the Methodist church held its business meeting at the church Monday afternoon with Mrs. J. G. Merritt presiding. An interesting business session was held and among the other things the ladies decided to have a succession of meetings in September and two in October. Mrs. Arnett is to be the first hostess.

Mrs. Hart was received as a new member.

After business this problem was discussed. "The Women of the South as Wage Earners."

A Parting Word.

Having accepted a position in the music department of the St. Catherine's Academy at Jackson, Nebraska, I take this method of saying good bye to many life-long friends and former patrons. The greater part of my life has been spent in Colorado and I regret to leave, but believing it to be to my best interests I have decided to go. I wish to thank most heartily all my former patrons, not only for their liberal patronage, but for the many kind words of encouragement they have given me in my years of teaching; and to all my pupils, I assure you that you will always have a place in my heart and memory. To the primary and intermediate grades, I commend Miss Lela Whaley, as a most competent teacher. She has been a pupil of mine and also of Mr. Dawes, and will follow my methods of teaching. She has had several years experience and is not only worthy, but competent, and I hope that my patrons in these grades will give her a trial. To the advanced grades, I commend Prof. Thos. Dawes as one of the best teachers for advanced pupils in this part of the country. In saying good bye to my friends and patrons of Colorado, I want to again assure you that I have appreciated your friendship, love and kindness, and there will always be a place in my heart for Colorado and her good people. With love and best wishes to all of you, I am, as ever,

Yours very truly,
MISS LUCILLE STONEROAD.

Mission Study Class.

Mrs. Richard Pearson was hostess for the Mission Study Class of the Baptist church last Thursday at her mother, Mrs. Geo. W. Smith's, Mrs. Gustine was leader for the afternoon. The subject was Africa with roll call on something of the work being done there.

The Bible questions were on Ezekiel after the lesson the remainder was spent in prayer for the meeting that was soon to begin and for the pastor now in meeting in Loraine.

The hostess assisted by her little daughter, Laura Louise served peach ice cream and cakes at the social hour. The next meeting is with Mrs. J. R. Shepherd with Mrs. E. Birdie as leader.

Home Party.

Mrs. Tom Stoneroad chaperoned a jolly home party down on the Rendonbrook ranch last week. They all went for a good time and had it.

While there they rode, swam, fished, danced and laughed with the accent of the laugh to their hearts content.

Misses Pauline Payne, Annie and Marguerite Beal and Nell Ruth Arnett, Messrs. John Arnett, Ralph Homan and Claud Mitchell were the happy party. On Sunday a party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Beal, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Beal, Mr. Tom Stoneroad and Mr. Coke Oxenbender of Stanton, noticed out and spent the day with them.

CURRIE-ROE WEDDING

A Beautiful Early Morning Church Wedding and Immaculate Departure.

Early Morning Church Wedding.

A beautiful but quiet church wedding occurred in our city Tuesday morning at eight o'clock when Miss Jeannett Roe and Thomas W. Currie were united in marriage by Rev. John McCall a life long friend of the groom at the Presbyterian church.

Before the ceremony, Miss Louisa Roe, a sister of the bride sang in a very sweet and impressive manner "I Cherish Thee" then little Mary Douthett of Sweetwater, and a favorite little friend of the bride played in her sweetest manner the wedding march as the bridal party entered. The bride looked her loveliest in a traveling suit of tan crepe minter with accessories to match and leaning on the arm of her noble father, Mr. T. H. Roe, carrying a lovely bouquet of Bride's roses.

Miss Mary, youngest sister of the bride entered on the arm of the usher, Mr. Reeves Coleman then the matron of honor, the newly married sister of the bride, Mrs. James Hardie on the arm of the other usher, Mr. James Hardie. Then came the maid of honor the groom's sister, Miss Currie of Lott. The matron of honor, maid of honor and brides maid were all in white and carried bouquets of pink asters. They were met at the altar by groom and best man, Mr. W. A. Smith of Austin and when they were formed in circle the scene was one of beauty and sacredness. The gentlemen were all attired in white flannels and looked the essence of noble Texas manhood.

Miss Roe has been reared in our little city and counts her friends by the score. She received her early education from her sainted mother, who was a woman of exceptional educational advantages; then attended Mary Nash College, then taking her degree in the State University. She not only taught in her home school but for the past two years she has been the principal of the public schools of Richmond, Texas, and was offered the place again but declined for higher honors. So Colorado is giving up another one of her jewels.

Mr. Currie is highly educated and a christian gentleman of the highest type and is at the head of the Y. M. C. A. at Austin. He has been offered the pastorate of fine churches, but feels that he can be of greater use to the young men of the State in the Y. M. C. A. So for the present he will be heart and soul in this work.

Mr. and Mrs. Currie left immediately after the ceremony for a short stay in the Ozark mountains and will be at home after September 15th in their home at Austin. The Record with a host of other friends wish for them a long life of prosperity and happiness.

The bride and groom with the maid of honor and best man and the Roe family were honored with a supper in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. M. Webb Tuesday evening. This closed the happy events given in honor of Miss Roe and many good wishes were expressed for her for a long life of happiness usefulness and prosperity.

FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But

One Helped Him to Recovery

Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advices from this place, Mrs. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headaches so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Woodford's Black-Draught, and quit taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it.

I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it. I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me! Theodor's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest. Get a package today. Only 1/4 quarter.

OPERA SEASON.

Oscar Majors, manager of the Opera house informs us that he has some very fine attractions booked this season and perhaps the very finest one to come is the very best. The Oscar Graham Co. will be here on Sept. 8th in his new play, "The Higher Law." Mr. Graham is the man who put on the Indian play here, "A Prince of His Race" also the "Stumbling Block" and has never failed to fill the house. From the Severyite, published at Severy in Kansas from its issue August 24, we clip the following: BETTER EVERY SEASON. Oscar Graham with his company made their fifth annual visit to Severy last night and with each season his plays grow better and our people are better pleased. Last night he gave "The Higher Law" his new play for the season. We believed his play "A Prince of His Race" to have been the best ever in the Severy opera house, but his new play is pronounced by nearly all present to be still better. Mr. Graham and his people are great favorites with the better class of Severy theater goers and with each visit here he gains a host of new friends. We will be here again the coming winter and will repeat his play "A Prince of His Race" and he is assured of a crowded house.

WHEN YOU GET ACQUAINTED WITH THIS "SIX" YOU WILL SURELY WANT ONE

Buy It Because It's a Studebaker

The design of a fine six-cylinder car, especially in the motor, calls for exceptional skill and wide experience. Efficiency at all speeds and the absence of vibration, which are the unique advantages of a worthy Six, can only be attained by the most scientific engineering. To attain perfect results we use experimental laboratories of large size and full equipment, where every idea that enters the Studebaker "SIX" has been proved correct beyond the possibility of error. We work by knowledge, not by theory. Every ton of steel we buy is first made according to Studebaker formulas and after rigorous testing to be sure it is up to standard. Throughout the manufacture, which has been a Studebaker tradition since its beginning, we have used the best materials and the best workmanship.

WHEN YOU GET ACQUAINTED WITH THIS "SIX" YOU WILL SURELY WANT ONE

As you sit behind the amazingly smooth and responsive motor, no one will need to tell you why you like it. You will know perfectly well. The instant and full answer to your call for increased speed or power, the sure and perfect response to your control, the quietness, the absence of vibration, the sheer thoroughbred ability of this "SIX" to do all the work without strain or perceptible effort—these things will prove a never-ending delight. It is as hard adequately to describe this "SIX" as it is always difficult to describe any new and more perfect instrument. But—The Studebaker "SIX" will win you, as sure as ever you sit behind the wheel.

The Studebaker "SIX" is a car of complete comfort and strikingly handsome appearance. From the beautifully balanced chassis to the deep upholstery, and complete equipment, the "SIX" shows careful attention to appearance and comfort. It is, of course, electrically lighted and started. The auxiliary seats, making ample room for six passengers, are exceptionally comfortable and yet may readily be folded to one side. The painting is lustrous, requires no special care, and is a real asset to the car's appearance.

COLORADO, TEXAS, AUGUST 29, 1913.

Dry and hot—not only in Mitchell county but all over the south.

Prepare to meet thy God—Hear Joe Dawson at the tabernacle.

It is easy to keep sweet and smile when everything goes right, but when all goes wrong, how about it?

Nearly every newspaper man in west Texas has taken a summer vacation except the Record force. We have not even been able to go to Lorraine.

It is to say the very best for it, a very discouraging and disappointing spectacle to sit helplessly by and see the flattering prospects for an unusually abundant crop, dry up and wither before one's eyes. Fields of cotton, which three weeks ago gave every promise of a half bale per acre, will now do well to yield a bale to four acres. This is the estimate of a very conservative cotton planter, and one of long experience. Many crops will not turn out this good a yield, and many farmers who were much encouraged but a short time ago over their crop prospects, now say they will be satisfied with what they made last year. But, disappointing as are the cotton prospects at this time, they are much better in Mitchell county, as a whole, than in any country from which we have heard in this part of the state. The one great feature of the present crop, is that more than enough feed has already been made to run the farmers of Mitchell county next year. This of itself, is no small consideration. The farmer may economize on many of his own and his family's needs, but his teams must be fed and kept up to their greatest efficiency. If the money spent last spring for feed stuff alone, can be saved next spring, it will represent many thousands of dollars.

There seems to have been going on for some time, a perfect saturnalia of graft and speculation in the various departments of Mississippi's machinery of government. The impressions made by the lessons of the past, seem to have been obliterated entirely. Sweeping charges that a general system of graft and embezzlement have been made, and investigations have been under way for nearly two months. Several very prominent officials connected with the state penal institution have been convicted already and several more are under indictment. Every department of state, with all the state institutions, as well as four or five circuit judges and a few district attorneys, will be thoroughly investigated before the legislature committee having the probe in hand, adjourns, when their findings will be laid before a grand jury. Mississippi had a severe lesson in this school years ago, when its most trusted and highly honored treasurer defaulted for more than $300,000 and received only five years of penal servitude—half of which was pardoned. But the state almost apologized for even this infraction and held him in as high esteem as ever. For several years after this, every state official walked as straight and circumspectly as if he had a razor for breakfast; but the salutary effects seem to have worn off the present incumbents.

The people around Hereford, Texas, who have put in irrigation wells and gone to much expense in preparing their land for this system of agriculture, are proceeding along safe and sound lines. They are advertising for the services of experienced irrigators farmers who know now irrigation should be done, when and where. A great part of the failures of irrigation have resulted from ignorance and inexperience with handling water. Irrigation of itself—water in abundance—is a mixed blessing. It can easily be overdone and just as great failure result as from a lack of moisture.

The Hereford people seem to realize this fact, and are not courting failure by putting their ignorance of principles of irrigation and their inexperience, against the forces of nature. Failure to realize the promises and expectations of irrigation in the Hereford country, would put a crimp in the advancement in the price of land and retard its development for several years. Hence, the irrigators are taking no chances, but want the try-out put in the hands of men who know what they are doing.

In the column next that containing an account of the downfall of Governor Sulzer of New York, we read last week, a notice of the threatened return from British Honduras of ex-treasurer, H. A. Park of Louisiana. It will be remembered he fled to Honduras as when he was beaten for state treasurer, from Paris, where he was at the time of the election. While state treasurer, he issued a large amount of bonds to pay the salaries of state officers, teachers, etc. These bonds were in small amounts, and as they were redeemed Burk would issue them again and sell them. He defaulted for nearly one million dollars. He founded the New Orleans Democrat and in 1881 bought out the New Orleans Times. Just before he fled, he fought a duel with Col. Parker, then editor of the New Orleans Picayune, organ for the opposition party to Burk. Parker had smelted "a mouse" in the "baby bond" issue and was making the road hot for Burk. The state authorities have always known where Burk is. He has grown very rich from concessions in Honduras and every few years announces that he is coming to Louisiana and stand trial. And every time he does this, there arises a howl of protest and opposition from his old political associates. The one clear and evident thing in it all is, that the authorities of Louisiana are willing for Col. Burk to remain and die in Spanish Honduras. He knows too much to risk a trial.

Crop Prospects.

One day last week a crowd of town farmers got in their big automobile and went out over the county on a crop prospecting tour under the name of crop prospectors. The crowd consisted of J. M. Mitchell, R. P. Price, Judge R. H. Looney and Mayor C. M. Adams. They drove nearly all over the county, everywhere except in the Seven Wells community, and talked to quite a number of farmers at their homes and in their fields; and their report is: The crop is very spotted, some fields are fairly good, some will make nothing, some will double last year. As a whole they placed the crop 10 per cent above last year's crop and the estimate now is that Mitchell county will get 12500 bales as against 10000 bales last year.

Every patriotic citizen of these United States should uphold the hands of president Wilson in trying by all honorable means to avoid war with Mexico. True, this country could win over Mexico easily and force any demand it might make; but would that be right? Aside from the thousands of lives such a war would cost; the millions of dollars wasted; there is a moral side to the question. That there is an original lobby to ferment the war scare in Washington, there can be no doubt—people who would profit immensely by a war are doing all they can to force a clash. We believe that as this government will not recognize the Huerta usurpation, recognition of Carranza and belligerent rights to the constitutionalists, would prove the quickest and easiest solution to this vexed question.

If you have not already done so, send your summer skirts and waists and let us show you how nicely we will do them for you. Colorado Steam Laundry.

THEY DESERVE A PROMINENT PLACE.

When the correct history of the passing of the great herds of the American bison shall be finally written and its place fixed in the legislature of our nation, many men will be posed as heroes and active factors in that great transaction, who had little to do with it, while others who bore an active part in its most strenuous aspects, will hardly rise to the surface of mere mention. But such has always been the case. Those who do the advertising get the credit, but those who have done the actual work on the fighting line, are heard of only by accident.

The stirring incident during the passing of the Indian and buffalo from West Texas and over the southern range of the herds of the latter, will not be completely written without the parts played by the Moor Brothers—one of whom is now living in Colorado and the other on his ranch in Scurry county. In a recent issue of the Farm & Ranch, is a most interesting article on this subject, in which mention is made of the activities of the Moors; but in so brief and cursory a manner that little idea is given of the extent of their enterprises. Hunting and killing the buffalo was only the more material side of their relations to the history of that time.

Mr. John W. Moor has frequently pointed to us errors and discrepancies in the published stories of men who claimed to have been active participants in the many exciting incidents of that period. We have often represented to Mr. Moor, the great value of his experiences and their importance to future history, and urged him to collaborate with his brother and prepare for publication, their observations of and experiences in that transitory period of the history of the settling of West Texas. Someone—many—will attempt to set these things down, and unless errors are corrected and inconsistencies harmonized, their accounts will be accepted as true history of that time. The Record sincerely hopes that Messrs. Moor will consent to give to the world the part they played in the passing of the great herds of American bison.

Clean up Campaign.

What does the "Clean-up Campaign" in Colorado mean?
It means better health in Colorado in every way.

The prize Holland's Magazine has offered for the cleanest town in Texas should inspire every mother and father in Colorado to exert themselves greatly and we believe if you knew what the prizes are you will each and every one get busy. The prizes are sanitary drinking fountains: one to be put on the grounds of each public school in the city. With these fountains the danger of contagious diseases, that are the terror of every mother and father heart is almost eliminated. But we can't get these prizes if you don't do your part. If you leave your premises in a bad condition thinking it don't matter, then some other town will get the fountains.

Our houses must be cleaned, trash must be burned, ashes must be hauled away weeds must be cut. You have already done this? Then keep your premises free from all these things for the contest has only just begun. Tell your neighbor about it, see who owns that vacant lot next to you and see if the owner won't have the trash piled up and burned or if you can't communicate with the owner, telephone the Mayor of the City. Any suggestion you may want to offer, anything you may want to write please send to Mayor Adams and it will be published in this paper, the editors, being always ready to help in anything that helps. Tear down that old house or fence that has been sagging so long and make kindling of it and let it do you some good. You are not improving the appearance of your home and lessening the danger of typhoid and other diseases, not only in having things clean but in getting these fountains for your children and their children and you are advertising your town as the "Cleanest Town in Texas." After your own premises are clean, visit your grocery store and see how things are there. Wake up to the fact that it is carelessness in handling the food supplies that is costing so many lives daily. Get up early some morning, Mrs. Housewife and instead of ordering your groceries over the telephone, go down town and look where the things come from you buy. See if the vegetables are screened; see if the pickle barrel is covered; see if the flour and bacon are covered or on the floor absorbing dust and dirt, being stepped on, or covered with all sorts and conditions of things, instead of on tables or shelves provided for the purpose and be sure to look closely and see how many of those who have these tables, keep the trash and filth from under them and look at the ice boxes where so many of the things you eat are kept, cast your eye over the shelves and see how trash that should be burned is conspicuous among the groceries you feed your husband and children every day. Look for the cob-webs and dust the groceryman would be horrified to see in your kitchen. Your merchant will be glad to have you look through his store and won't think you are "butting in" either.

War In Oklahoma.

We had some business correspondence with a gentleman in Oklahoma this week and he closes one of his letters to us this way.

This awful weather reminds me of the place that Sherman called war. Hot and dry and gloomy in Oklahoma

The Japanese government has notified the Mexican government that it would not receive Felix Diaz as a special envoy to express Mexico's thanks for participation in the Mexican centennial celebration. He would be received as a private individual only. When notified of this decision of the Japanese government, Diaz said he would go to Japan anyway.

Upon reading the report of a special legislative committee to investigate the charges against Governor Sulzer of New York, a resolution for impeachment was presented to the legislature. He is charged with having used campaign funds for speculative purposes, long and bitter fight is now on, but the friends of the governor are contesting every move and obstructing every parliamentary steps in the proceeding.

They All Want It.

MALARIAL DISEASES.

How to Avoid Them and the Serious Consequences of Neglect.

"Fix me up something to knock the malaria, doctor," remarked a sorrow-faced, sickly looking man, entering a prominent physician's office the other day.

The doctor stepped to his medicine case, took down a couple of bottles, mixed a preparation which he handed to the patient with the customary advice to "shake well and follow directions," and resumed his seat.
"Such cases are frequent," replied the doctor in answer to a question. "The warm days and damp, chilly nights are certain malaria breeders and are most serious in those who have neglected to keep their stomach, liver and bowels in good condition. Such persons are full of the impurities on which the malarial germ thrives, and it is from this class that typhoid fever, pneumonia, Bright's Disease, small pox and yellow fever claim most of their victims whenever these diseases are prevalent.
The proper way to guard against the malarial germ and the serious diseases which follow it is to get into good condition by taking a reliable remedy that will keep the bowels clear and the liver healthy, and to continue with it at frequent intervals during the sickly season.
A dose of Prickly Ash Bitters three or four times a week will do all of this, besides stimulating the digestion, improving the appetite and keeping the bodily energy at the highest pitch.
Prickly Ash Bitters is known everywhere as a system tonic and bowel regulator. It not only removes all traces of malarial poison from the system, but tones up the vital organs, gives new strength and vigor, makes the body strong and the brain active.
"Prickly Ash Bitters is the best all-around medicine for the family I ever used. During the last ten years I have always kept it in my house. Whenever any of my family show signs of malaria, kidney trouble, indigestion or constipation I few doses is all that is needed to make them well and hearty again.—W. H. McWILLIAMS, Pickering, La.

THE QUITTER.

The world won't care if you quit. And the world won't whine if you fail. The busy world won't notice it. No matter how loudly you wall, Nobody will worry that you have relinquished the fight and gone down. For it's only the things that you do that are worth while and get you renowned.

You needn't make good if you don't. Think the struggle to do so worth while. But weep over that the world won't. For the world will continue to smile. You can't harm the world by your pout. Or refusing to give it your best. There are too many good men about who are eager to face any test.

The quitters are quickly forgot; On them the world spends little time. And few ever care that you're not. The courage or patience to climb. So give up and quit in despair. And take your place back on the shelf. But don't think the world's going to care. You are injuring only yourself.

COLORADO MUST GET BUSY IF SHE WINS.

Importance of Co-Operation is Pointed Out by a Citizen Who Desires Success.

Editor Record:
In almost every issue of your paper I notice something being said about the contest Colorado has entered for being the cleanest town in the state. but I fear our citizens do not appreciate the great benefit to be derived from winning the race, or what it will take to succeed. A few enthusiastic ladies and a city health department, and a press thoroughly in sympathy with the movement can not carry it to a successful issue without a hearty co-operation of our entire citizenship. Every man, woman and child in Colorado should be entered. There are many things being overlooked, or many persons taking no interest in the matter. In the business as well as the residence part of town are many lots where rubbish has accumulated, where weeds are uncut, where old cans and bottles are lying partially concealed by weeds and grass, where mosquitoes will breed after our next rain, if we should be so fortunate as to have one before cold weather. Weeds and grass may not be filthy, but they cover up rubbish which will be found by the committee of inspectors.

But there is a higher motive that should prompt us; many lives may be saved, for a clean town means a healthy town. Colorado has the reputation of being a moral town, and as cleanliness is next to Godliness, let us work along both lines and make for Colorado a name to be proud of. If we win in this contest it will be a valuable advertisement, well worth the effort put forth. Hoping that Colorado will win in the contest, I am
Yours truly,

STATE OF TEXAS, COUNTY OF MITCHELL: Before me, the undersigned authority in and for the above named State and County, on this day personally appeared John S. Oglesby and Ernest Keathley, known to me, and being by me duly sworn, on oath depose and say that the foregoing and annexed report of an audit of the Finances of Mitchell County, Texas, shows our findings and financial condition of the County. JOHN S. OGLESBY, ERNEST KEATHLEY. Sworn to and subscribed before me this 19th day of July, A. D. 1913. EARL JACKSON, Clerk County Court, Mitchell County, Texas. By J. H. BULLOCK, Deputy.

EDITOR'S NOTE.—The above shortages in accounts were simply clerical errors, and have all been adjusted, with one exception. It will be seen by the above report that in 1908 the indebtedness of the county was $77,000. This report shows $72,000, but $30,000 of this amount was voted as road district bonds; which really makes a reduction in the county's outstanding indebtedness of $35,000.

The Husbands of Edith

CHAPTER V.
The Distant Cousins.

THE end of the week found Brock quite thoroughly domesticated to use an expression supplied by his new sister-in-law. True, he had gone through some trying ordeals and had lost but a little of his sense of locality, but he was rapidly recovering it as the pathway became easier and less obscure. At first he was irritatingly remiss in answering to the name of Medcroft; but, to justify the stupidity, it is only necessary to say that he had fallen into a condition which scarcely permitted him to know his own name, much less that of another. He was under the spell. Wherefore it did not matter at all what name he was called. He would have answered as readily to one as to the other.

He blandly ignored telegrams and letters addressed to Roxbury Medcroft, and once he sat like a lump, with every one staring at him, when the chairman of the architectural convention asked if Mr. Medcroft had anything to say on the subject under discussion. He was forced, in some confusion, to attribute his heedlessness to a lifelong defect in hearing. Thereafter it was his punishment to have his name and fragments of conversation buried about in tones so stentorian that he blushed for very shame. In the Bristol, in the Karntner-Ring, in the Lichtenstein gallery, in the gardens—no matter where he went—if he were to be accosted by any of the genial architects it was always a voice that attracted attention. He could have heard them if they had been a block away. It became a habit with him to instinctively lift his hand to his ear when one of them hove in sight, having seen him first.

"That's what I get for being a lar," he lamented dolefully. Constance had just whispered her condolences. "Do you think they'll consider it odd that you don't shout at me too?"

"You ought to explain that you can tell what I am saying by looking at my lips," she said. He was immediately relieved.

Considerable difficulty had to be overcome at the Bristol in the matter of rooms. Without going into details Brock resignedly took the only room left in the crowded hotel, a 6 by 10 cubby hole on the top floor overlooking the street. He had to go down one flight for his morning tub, and he never got it because he refused to stand in line and await his turn. Mrs. Medcroft had the choicest room in the hotel, looking down upon the beautiful Karntner-Ring. Constance proposed, in the goodness of her heart, to give up to Brock her own room, adjoining that of her sister, provided Edith would take her in to sleep with her. Edith was perfectly willing, but interposed the sage conclusion that gossiping-spirits might not appreciate a preference so unkind.

Roxbury Medcroft's sky parlor adjoined the elevator shaft. The head

"Monsieur is very fortunate in being so afflicted." of his bed was in close proximity to the upper mechanism of the lift, a thin wall intervening. A French architect, who had a room hard by, met Brock in the hall, hollow eyed and haggard, on the morning after their first night. He shouted injurious congratulations in Brock's ear, but as if Brock's ear had not been harassed a whole night long by clattering wheels and rattling cables.

its benedictions. Matters drifted along smoothly, even merrily, for several days. They were all young and full of the joy of living. They laughed in secret over the mishaps and perils. They whiffed and enjoyed the spice that filled the atmosphere in which they lived. They visited the gardens and the hofs, the chateau at Schonbrunn, the imperial stables, the gay "Voice in Vienna," they attended the opera and the concerts, ever in a most circumspet "trinity," as Brock had come to classify their parties. Like a dutiful husband, he always included his wife in the expeditions.

"You are not only a most exemplary wife, Mrs. Medcroft," he declared, "but an unusually agreeable chaperon. I don't know how Constance and I could get on without you."

But the day of severest trial was now at hand. The Rodney's were arriving on the fifth day from Berlin. Despite the fact that the Seattle "connections" had never seen the illustrious Medcroft, husband to their distant cousin, they still retained the disturbing fear that they would recognize—or, rather, fail to recognize him—from chance pictures that might have come to their notice. Besides, there was always the possibility that they had seen or even met Brock in New York. He indignantly admitted that he had met unfortunate thousands whom he had promptly forgotten, but who seldom failed to remember him. It is not surprising, then, that the Medcrofts, ex parte, were in a state of perturbation—a condition which did not relax in the least as the time drew near for the arrival of the 5 o'clock train from the north. Constance strove faithfully, even valiantly, to inject confidence into the souls of the prime conspirators.

"You have done so beautifully up to this time," she protested to the dolorous Brock, "why should you be afraid? I once read of an Indian chief whose name was Young-Man-A-Fraid-of-His-Wife. He was a very brave fellow in spite of all that. You are afraid of Edith, but can't you be like the Indian?"

"That's all very nice," mourned Brock. "But he could cover his confusion with war paint. Don't forget that, my dear. Think of the difference in our disguises—war paint in dabs versus spots and an eyeglass! Besides, he didn't have to talk with an Englishman and didn't have to explain a sky bedroom to strangers who happened along."

"That is a bit awkward," she confessed thoughtfully. "But can't you say that you have insomnia and can't sleep unless you are above the noise of the street?"

He looked at her with an expression that made a verbal reply to this suggestion altogether unnecessary. "Nurse says that Tompkins has forgotten her hair ribbon," she said brightly after a moment. "See how cleverly you have played the part."

Still he stared moodily, unconvinced at the roadway ahead. They were driving in the Haupt Allee. "I hope I haven't got Roxbury into trouble by that interview I gave out concerning the new method of fire-proofing woodwork in office buildings and hotels. It occurred to me afterward that he is violently opposed to the system I advocated. He'll have a right to say a devil of a thing expounding his change of front."

As a matter of fact, when Medcroft hiding in London, saw the reproduced interview in the Times, together with editorial comments upon the extraordinary attitude of a supposedly conservative Englishman of recognized ability, he was tried almost beyond endurance. For the next two or three days the newspapers printed caustic contributions from fellow architects and builders, in each of which the luckless Medcroft was taken to task for advocating an impractical and famous New York hobby in the way of construction, something that staid old London would not even tolerate or discuss. The social chroniclers of the Medcrofts in Vienna as dispatched by the correspondents offset this unhappy "bull" to some extent in so far as Medcroft's peace of mind was concerned, but nothing could have drawn attention to the fact that he was not in London at that particular time so decisively as the Vienna interview and its undefended front. Even his shrewdest enemy could not have suspected Medcroft of a patience which would permit him to sit quiet in London while the attacks were going on. His found some small solace in the reflection that he could make the end justify the means.

you. We have both placed the utmost confidence in you, Mr. Brock, and—" "Sh! Say, Roxbury, dear," interposed the practical Constance. "The walls may have ears, my dears."

Then Mrs. Medcroft plaintively implored his forgiveness and said that she was miserable and ashamed and very unappreciative. Brock, in deep humility, begged her pardon for his unnecessary harshness, and promised not to offend again.

"The first quarrel," cried Constance delightedly. "How nicely you've made it up. And you've been married less than a week!"

"Roxbury and I didn't have our first quarrel until we'd been married a year," said Edith reflectively.

"Oh, I say, Edith," exclaimed Brock with a dark frown. "I'd rather you wouldn't be forever extolling the good qualities of my predecessor. It's very bad taste. Very much like the pie's mother used to make."

"Silly!" cried Medcroft's wife, now in fine humor. "Besides, Rox is an Englishman. It would take him a year to produce a quarrel. The American husband is not so confounded slow. I won't live up to Roxbury in everything."

It was decided that Constance should greet the Rodney's upon their arrival. The Medcrofts were not to appear until dinner time. Afterward the entire party would attend the opera, which was then in the closing week. Brock with splendid prodigality had taken a box for the final performance of "Tristan and Isolde." It is not out of place to remark that Brock loathed the Wagnerian opera. He was of "The Mikado" cult. He took the seats with a definite purpose in mind to cast the burden of responsibility upon his wife, who would be forced to extend herself in the capacity of hostess, giving him the much needed opportunity to secure safe footing in the dark area of uncertainty. He believed himself capable of diverting the youthful Miss Rodney and his discreet sister-in-law, but he was consumed by an unholy dread of Rodney pere. Something told him that this shrewd American business man was not the kind who would have the wool pulled over his eyes by anyone. Brock felt that the support of Constance was of greater value than that of Edith at any stage or in any emergency.

Besides, he was now quite palpably in love with her. "I've got it bad," he reflected in sober consideration of his plight; "but," came the ironic justification. "I'm able to confine it to the immediate family. That's more than most husbands can say."

CHAPTER VI.
Freddie Ulstervelt.

THE Rodney's descended upon the Bristol at 5 o'clock, rushing down from the Nord-Bahnhof as if there was not a minute to spare. Constance pursued Katherine to her room, where they revelled in the delights of a reunion, gradually coming out of its throes as the hour for dressing approached.

"We dine early, dear," said Constance. "With supper after the opera. I must be off to dress."

"I am so eager to meet Mr. Medcroft, is he nice?"

"He's the dearest thing in the world," cried the other, her cheeks aglow.

"I'm so glad, on Edith's account. Most of these English matches turn out abominably," commented Miss Rodney, who was twenty, very pretty and very worldly. "Oh, did I tell you that Freddie Ulstervelt is with us?"

"No!"

"We came across him in Berlin, and dad asked him to join us if he had nothing better to do; so he said he would. He was with us in Dresden and Prague and—don't you think he's awfully jolly?"

"Ripping!" said Constance with deplorable fervor.

"How awfully English! He said he'd seen you in Paris this spring."

"Yes," said Miss Fowler, her cheeks going red suddenly. "I told him you'd asked me to be with you in June."

She could have cut out her tongue for saying this, but it was too late. Katherine laughed, a trifle hardly after a stiff moment; then a queer light flitted in to her eyes—the light of awakened opposition. Constance was saying to herself: "She's in love with Freddie. I might have known it." Back in her brain lay the memory of Freddie's violent protestations of love, uttered during those recent days in Paris. He had threatened to throw himself into the Seine; she remembered that quite well—and also the fact that he did nothing of the sort, but had a very jolly time at Maxim's and sent her flowers by way of repentance. Knowing Freddie so well, it would not have surprised her in the least to find that he had become engaged to Katherine. His heart was a very flexible organ.

"Oh," said Katherine. "I believe he did say that you had mentioned us."

Of herself she was asking, "I wonder if she is in love with him?"

And thus it transpired that Freddie Ulstervelt—addeparat, good looking, incessant Freddie, just out of college—was transformed into a bone of contention, whether he would or no.

He was of the kind, who love or make love to every new girl they meet, seriously enough at the time, but easily passed over if need be. Rebuffa may have puzzled him, but they left no jagged scars. He belonged to that class which upsets the tranquility of inexperienced maidens by whispering intensely, "How nice, it's grand!" And he means it at the moment.

sets had much to do with the conquest of Mrs. Rodney. She looked with favor upon the transitory Mr. Ulstervelt, and believed in her heart that he hid something to do with the location of the shining sun. But of this affair more anon, as the novelists say.

Brock was presented to the Rodney's just before the party went in to dinner. He managed his eyeglass and his drawl bravely and got on swimmingly with the Rodney's, until Constance appeared with Katherine and Freddie Ulstervelt. It was not until then that it occurred to Miss Fowler that Freddie, being from New York, was almost certain to know Brock either personally or by sight. She experienced a cold chill, the distinct approach of catastrophe. Brock had just been told that young Ulstervelt of New York was to be of the party. His blood ran cold. He had never seen the young man, but he knew his father well. He had even dined at the mansion in Madison avenue. There was every reason, however, to suspect that Freddie knew him by sight. Even as he was planning a mode of defense in case of recognition the young man was presented. Brock's drawl was something wonderful.

"I—aw—knew your family, I'm sure—aw, quite sure," he said. "I've—delightful city for some years. Strange we never met, 'pon my soul."

"Oh, New York's a pretty big place, Mr. Medcroft," said Freddie good naturedly. He was a slight young fellow with a fresh, inquisitive face. "It's nearby cafe they had a whiskey and soda apiece and, feeling comfortably re-armed, returned to the opera house arm in arm, long and short, thin and fat, modestly discoursing upon the intellectuality of Herr Wagner.

"Say, you're hot at all like an Englishman," exclaimed Mr. Rodney impulsively, even gratefully.

"Eh, what?" gasped Brock, replacing his eyeglass. "Oh, I say, now, 'pon my word, how, how?"

"You've got an American sense of humor, Medcroft—that's what you have. You recognize the joke that Wagner played on the world. Pardon me for saying it, sir, but I didn't think it was in an Englishman."

"How, how?" Rippling, by Jove! No, no! Not you. I mean the joke. But then, you see, it's been so long since Wagner played it that even an Englishman has had time to see the point. Besides, I've lived a bit of my life in America."

"That accounts for it," said the tactless but sincere Mr. Rodney. Brock glared so venomously at the intrusive Mr. Ulstervelt upon the occasion of his next visit to his own box that Mrs. Medcroft smiled softly to herself as she turned her face away. A few minutes later she seized the opportunity to whisper in his ear: "Her eyes were sparkling, and something in her manner bespoke of bated breath."

"You are in love with my sister," was what she said to him. He blushed convincingly.

"Nonsense!" he managed to reply, but without much persuasiveness.

"But you are. I'm not blind. Any one can see it. She sees it. Haven't you sense enough to hide it from her? How do you expect to win?"

"My dear Mrs.—my dear Edith, you amuse me. I'm confusion itself; but," he went on eagerly, illogically, "do you think I could win her?"

"That is not for one's wife to say," she said demurely.

"I'd be tremendously proud of you as a sister-in-law. And I'd be much obliged if you'd help me. But look at that confounded Ulstervelt! He's making love to her with the whole house looking on."

"I think it might be polite if you were to ask him out for a drink," she suggested.

"But I've had one, and I never take two."

"Model husband! Then take the girls into the foyer for a stroll and a chat after the act. Don't mind me, I'm your friend."

"Do you think I've got a chance with her?" he asked with a brave effort.

"You've had one with thrust upon you, why should you expect another without a struggle? I'm afraid you'll have to work for Constance."

"But I have you—I can count on your approval?" he whispered eagerly.

"Don't Roxbury! People will think you are making love to me," she protested, willfully ignoring his question.

He returned to the box after the second act and proposed a turn in the foyer. To his disgust, Ulstervelt appropriated Constance and left him to follow with Mrs. Rodney and Katherine. He almost hated Edith for the tantalizing smile she shot after him as he moved away, defeated.

If he was starting luridly at the irrepressible Freddie, he was not alone in his gloom. Katherine Rodney, green with jealousy, was sending spiteful glances after her dearest friend, while Mrs. Rodney was sniffing the air as if it were laden with frost.

"Don't you think Connie is a perfect dear? I'm so fond of her," said Miss Rodney, so sweetly that he should have detected the nether flow.

He started and pulled himself together. "Aw, yes—ripping!" He consciously adjusted his eyeglasses for a hasty glance about in search of the easily disturbed Mr. Rodney. Then, to Mrs. Rodney, his mind a blank after a passing glimpse of Constance and her escort: "Aw—er—a perfectly jolly opera, isn't it?"

Resolutions of Respect.

Wherein as God has seen fit to call from our midst our beloved friend Ada Williams, one of earth's fairest flowers, to be transplanted in the Garden of Love, there to bloom through the ages of eternity.

We the Teachers and members of the W. F. C. of Fairview Sunday School desire to express our sincerest sympathy to the heart broken family and relatives.

Our hearts too are made sad and desolate on account of the vacant seat that can never be filled. The kind word and sweet smile that she always greeted each and everyone with is only a sacred memory to us now drawing us nearer the Eternal City.

Hers was a life of only a few brief years yet they were so filled with goodness that her influence shall live on and on though she has risen to a higher life.

It does not matter so much how long we live as how well we live. And although we who are left to mourn her loss can not understand why one so young and tender whose life had only had its beginning should be cut down.

He who doeth all things well hath need of her and we bow our heads in submission. For He has told us how precious in his sight is the death of his saints.

And when God shall crown his angels in the world beyond this dome, she shall sit among the class mates who was Ada in our home.

BE A FRIEND.

Scratching for Pity.

We would have great sympathy for those who have to scratch continually if there wasn't a remedy for the trouble, but as Hunt's Cure is guaranteed to cure or money refunded, it would seem that those who scratch do so just for the fun of it. It's a special remedy for Itch, Rheumatism, Stetter, Ringworm, etc.

Frank Rarey received a contract this morning from the management of the Denison base ball club, and with it was a request to sign and return it promptly to the club. The price offered was a fairly good one but Frank is of the opinion that it is a little too early to be signing contracts, and the matter may hang fire for awhile.—Pecos Times.

Denison won the Texas-Oklahoma pennant this year and wants Rarey for next season. It is expected that Denison will be put in the Texas league next season to take the place of Austin. Rarey will be remembered as having come to Colorado to pitch a game for our local team, but in the first inning, his pitcher, Quattibaum and disabled him so that the game was called off. He will make good all right.

ACTS ON THE LIVER.

Dodson's Liver Tonic Livens Up the Liver—Is More Than a Mere Laxative.

Calomel was for years the only known medicine that would stimulate the liver. But calomel is often dangerous, and people are not to be blamed for being afraid of it.

Within the last few years many medicines have been put out to be used instead of calomel, but their effect is on the bowels—not on the liver. Floyd Beall drug store says that the only real liver medicine to actually take the place of calomel is Dodson's Liver Tonic, a mild, harmless, vegetable liquid that Floyd Beall recommended to take the place of calomel and which gives prompt relief in cases of constipation, biliousness and sluggish liver.

So confident is Floyd Beall that he give his personal guarantee with every 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic. You can be sure that you are getting Dodson's by asking at this store if they are giving you the medicine they personally guarantee to refund money on if unsatisfactory.

Notice to Light Consumers.

To You. For your patronage of the public cotton yard last season, I take this method to thank one and all. You signified your preference and I am glad to be honored with the office of public weigher. I am your servant without salary, and compensated only by your patronage. So, friend, consider this and stay with me. If any one thinks I am undeserving I don't want them to sacrifice their right to go where they please. There are to be more cotton yards, I understand, which I feel is an injustice to me, but if every street and alley in Colorado was transformed into cotton yards it would not keep me from being at my post, ready to serve the people without partiality or favoritism. I am better prepared to serve you this year than last. Mr. M. B. Roddy, who has had several years' experience in cotton handling, will be with me, and with his experience and new Robedux scales, I hope to make it to your interest as well as your duty to stay with me.

Yours to serve, W. F. CRAWFORD, Public Weigher.
