PUBLIC SCHOOL OPENS.

"This education forms the common mind: Just as the twig is bent, the tree's inclined."

Over seven years ago when we were contemplating to live in Colorado and having the ambition to have a family of children educated in the public school and wondering in our mind whether the schools were up to the standard that schools should be in a town of this size our minds were set at rest by reading in a letter from the noble man who was at the head of affairs at that time something like this, "Colorado's pride is her school" and then we were willing to set our faces with a number to somewhat increase the school. Westward and have ever since tried to enter into that spirit of pride.

The school was fine then and has ever been progressive since until now under the wise management and leadership of our present efficient Superintendent, Prof. W. W. Hart it stands in the first class of affiliated schools, so classed by the State University. So Colorado can justly be proud of her schools and we bespeak for the same true, loyal cooperation from the patrons this term as in the past and thus working shoulder to shoulder our boys and girls will be equipped with a public school education that as parents we may feel they are ready to enter any College we may see fit to send them. The program that was given Monday morning came up to the standard if indeed it did not surpass all other openings.

The auditorium was well filled with happy, bright faced children and fond ambitious parents who gave strict attention to the speakers. Dr. N. J. Phenix in his own pleasant style announced the names of those on the program.

With Miss Lela Whipkey, who was a former student and holds the school dear to her heart at the piano, the whole audience sang with enthusiasm "America". Then Dr. Phenix told in a brief interesting way some "Little things that contribute to the keeping of health," which if followed will do much for health and happiness. Rev. J. N. Campbell spoke in his pleasant, enthusiastic style on "Duty of pupils to their teacher" and if the advice is followed we are sure of a successful term of school.

Rev. W. E. Lyons addressed himself principally in his talk to the high school pupils when he spoke on "Problems of life of which pupils should be mindful" and that had much food for thought in it when he urged great mental and physical strength go hand in hand.

Mr. M. K. Jackson spoke very fluently and timely on "Attitude of the parent toward the school" which was emphasized more fully by Rev. P. C. Craig. This closed an interesting and instructive program. Different pupils were assigned their rooms and the teachers took charge.

Among the teachers were some new ones which we welcome and extend the glad hand to those who returned. Miss Hutton was here last year and was much loved by both patrons and children.

Miss Ellis comes for her sixth year here and no teacher ever had the love and respect of more pupils and parents than she. Her interest meant much more than the six hours in the school room. So again we say we are justly proud of our school. The teachers of the different grades are: W. W. Hart, Supt.; Miss Nannie Ellis, Principal; Miss Hallie Aldrick, Latin and German; 7th grade, Miss May Ely; 6th grade, Miss Eliza Leathers; 5th grade, Miss Exie Campbell; 4th grade, Miss Lucile Russell; 3rd grade, Miss Vera Thomas; 1 and 2nd grades, Miss Sallie Hutton.

J. B. Saunders teacher of colored school. The Record congratulates the school Board in securing such an efficient corps of teachers and if it can be of any service why command us at any time.

Diarrhoea Quickly Cured.

"I was taken with Diarrhoea and Mr. Yorks, the merchant here, persuaded me to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. After taking one dose of it I was cured. It also cured others that I gave it to," writes M. E. Gebhart, Oriskany, Pa. That is not at all unusual. An ordinary attack of diarrhoea can almost invariably be cured by one or two doses of this remedy. For sale by all dealers.

NOT SO BAD.

13.25 for cotton makes the industry look attractive. This price compared with the price in 1845 when middling cotton reached 5 cents and again during Cleveland's administration, when cotton went nearly as low, makes the farmer wonder how it could have been raised at that price. There was nothing in it, but the price of nearly everything the farmer had to buy, was also low. On the other hand, in 1865 cotton sold for as high as $1.75 per pound and many men who were alleged purchasing agents for the Confederate government, found themselves at the cessation of hostilities with several thousand bales of Confederate government cotton in their possession. To whom did it belong? It certainly did not belong to the men who held it, but for fear the Yankees might take it or burn it, these men sold the cotton at the above named price, and put the money in their pockets to keep for its real owners. When, as sometimes happened, the federal soldiers did burn any of this Confederate cotton, the men who held it put in big claims before congress for "personal property destroyed by the federal army," claiming at the same time to have been loyal union men. That's just how many of the "codfish" aristocracy, who flourished shortly after the war, got their start and established their dynasty.

PLEASURES OF THE FALL SEASON

At this season of the year in the older states east, the woods hold a lure that is well nigh irresistible. Aside from the beauty of the trees themselves, whose foliage has begun to take on the myriad colors of chemical change, from the scarlet shumack and maple to the russet red of the oak and orange hue of the quicker growths, there are many kinds of nuts and late fruits that will repay the time and trouble of hunting. The lordly chestnut, so guarded and protected by its defensive burr; the homely hickory nut and more aristocratic brother, the "scaloyhark," say nothing of the walnut, the beach and hazelnut, are gathered and stored against the coming of long and cold winter nights, when the family circle around the open and generous fire place, pass the hours in sweet communion and honest converse. The corn popper is brought out; a few sweet potatoes are covered in the hot ashes; the nuts are cracked on the bottom of an inverted flat-iron with hammer and when the potatoes are roasted till the peel separates and the sweet cooked juice runs out and anoints the whole; when enough corn has been popped to tire the jaws before enough can be eaten, and the nuts disposed on plates with horse-shoe nails for picks, then begins a feast of which the city bred can not even dream, nor the uninitiated imagine.

In the pineywoods sections the fireplaces of the country homes are of such cavernous proportions, that nearly a half cord of wood could be put on at one time. There is usually a big backlog of gum or hickory, which burning down leaves a bed of glowing red-hot coals that is ideal for roasting anything and popping corn. An ample supply of fat pine or as it is locally known—lightwood (always pronounced "liteard") handy, and when the eating begins, a big pine knot now and again, is thrown on the fire for illumination. Sometimes, the thrifty housewife, the big girls of the home with an idea of beaux, or sometimes the "Old Man" of the house himself, will have provided a keg of "simon beer or genuine old cider, which, with the old fashioned gingerbread out into slabs and thick as one's hand, lends a zest to the enjoyment of the evening. Thus, with the world shut out and the best and highest in every nature responding spontaneously to the challenge of all the rest; amid the play of fancy and flash of wit; the true self of each is brought out before the artificial conventions that society would impose.

Extol your 42, bridge, euchre or what not games to pass a winter evening; they compare with such entertainments as the above, as a tallow dip compares with the sun. The man or woman who can not look back on such experiences as these in the old home, has lost from memory's casket one of its purest jewels.

MISSION CLASS.

The Mission Study Class of the Baptist Church met with Mrs. J. R. Shepherd last Thursday with a large attendance. Mrs. Meeks was the leader, Mission schools being the subject. A number of interesting articles and talks were given on the different schools with good reports from all counties. The Bible questions were on Daniel.

After the program a business session was held and the following ladies were appointed delegates to the Association which meets in Sweetwater soon. Mesdames S. Gustine, J. E. Hooper, R. M. Webb and A. L. Whipkey with Mesdames Campbell, G. D. Adams, J. L. Shepherd and Smoot as alternates. They decided to pack a box for the Orphans Home in the early part of November.

The social hour was very much enjoyed. The hostess assisted by Misses Minnie Lawless and Bonnie Byles served ice cream and cake. Mrs. J. M. Green and Mrs. Max Thomas were guests and Mrs. Bowen entered the class as a new member. The next meeting is with Mrs. C. A. Pierce with Mrs. J. L. Shepherd leader.

Intermediate League.

The Intermediate League for the past few weeks have been having a contest as to who could make the highest score in attendance at Sunday school, prayer meeting and etc and the losing side was to entertain the winners. Last Friday evening they did so by giving a "Tacky" party at the Herrington residence. They came in costumes of all kinds and dates and some were quite laughable indeed. Alice Majors was voted best of the girls and was given some stick candy. Harry Ratliff freecived a rattler for his artistic skill.

After many games which this crowd know how to play, lemonade and cake were served as refreshments.

Methodist school last Sunday and a large number signed the pledge.

Over one hundred signed the Temperance pledge at the Baptist school last Sunday.

Sunday is promotion day at the Baptist school.

Caught Bad Cold.

"Last winter my son caught a very bad cold and the way he coughed was something dreadful," writes Mrs. Sarah E. Duncan, of Tipton, Iowa. "We thought sure he was going into consumption. We bought just one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that one bottle stopped his cough and cured his cold completely." For sale by all dealers.

Mrs. Lee Jones Entertains.

Last week Mrs. Lee Jones entertained the kid crowd in honor of Misses Winnie Vaughan and Bessie Stoneham on her lawn. A joyous good time was had by all. Watermelons were served in abundance and enjoyed as much as the games. The youngsters have added Mrs. Jones to the list of those who show them a good time.

Y. W. A.

The Y. W. A. of the Baptist Church held an interesting meeting Monday afternoon with Mrs. Meeks, who is one of the efficient and willing leaders of this noble band of young ladies. After an interesting business meeting in which they laid plans for their future course of study a social hour was enjoyed.

The hostess assisted by Miss Mary George Figh served a salad course followed by peanut fudge of Miss Figh own making and which the girls enjoyed very much.

Mrs. Dulaney Entertains.

Last Friday evening a crowd of the young young folks were entertained by Mrs. B. F. Dulaney and her daughter, Miss Lula May in their hospitable home in the suburbs. They were chaperoned by the Misses Whipkey and Miss Campbell and the boys and girls vote them charming chaperones. Vance Phenix took the party over in his father's handsome new car. There were three cars full and running over but that made no difference to Vance he was equal to the occasion. By the time all had arrived they were ready for the games and amusements the hostess had prepared and thoroughly enjoyed them all.

After the "web" had been unraveled and the reward found at the end—and beginning—and other things equally as interesting enjoyed the party was also ready for the delicious cake and ice cream that was served so generously to all. The evening passed all too quickly but each one had a good time and hope it may be repeated often.

There are other things besides kissing that go by favors. We have never been able to understand why Colorado and Mitchell county could not obtain the same degree of free publicity in the big state daily papers that near and competing towns and sections get. We have understood that there had been no charges for the liberal space frequently given to improvements made in other West Texas towns; pictures of their prominent men and buildings, etc. We know that much stuff has been sent a big daily paper from this place, which gives that paper about 100 regular subscribers to its daily edition and several hundred to its weekly; but very rarely any of it is published. The town feels that it is being discriminated against and this feeling has been brought to the attention of the big daily time and again.

Special Notice to the Public.

EUGENE HAUSCHILD.

The New York World agrees to pay Secretary W. J. Bryan the sum of $8,000 per year during the remainder of his tenure of office, if he will remain at Washington and give his entire time to the duties of his office. Mr. Bryan claims that his salary of $12,000 as secretary of State is $8,600 less than his annual family expenses in Washington, and makes the argument that it is nobody's business if he supplements his salary by a juggling on the same stage with Altona Yedlers, expert jugglers, knife-throwers, and other attractions. In this Mr. Bryan is mistaken; it is somebody's business and that somebody is the collective citizenship of the United States. The people have been exceedingly generous with Mr. Bryan. He has amassed an independent fortune through their generosity. He has been honored with the next highest office in this government, to which certain traditional obligations attach. Upon him, as much as upon the president, depends the standing of this country in the eyes of the other nations. When the salary of the office was much less than it now is many of the best men of the nation filled the office without any kick as to salary. They regarded it as a duty growing out of a public trust. But Mr. Bryan is unwilling to draw upon his hoarded roll to meet his expenses. He shows more concern for money than for the conduct of his high office. He has cheapened the office brought the diplomacy of this country into contempt, even with third and fourth rate countries.

IF CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH AND SICK

Look Mother! If Tongue is Coated, Cleanse Little Bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative" and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

We have refrained from mentioning the Thaw-Jerome mess and only refer to it now to say that Jerome is showing himself little better than a malicious crook. Though we believe Thaw to be an irresponsible under excitement, he's a better man than Jerome, who is now trying to persecute Thaw purely through malice. In order to block Jerome's game the majority of the people seem to be with Thaw in his present troubles.

This circulation row among newspapers is like a religious argument. It never proves anything; no one is ever convinced, and the money always goes back to the original owners. Its simply a publicity stunt. A paper that is sure of its circulation never worries about the yawnings of its competitor. A paper with a character never has to resort to such cheap bids for notoriety. The public decides for itself aside from all the claims papers may make or figures they may publish.

IF HEADACHY, DIZZY, BILIOUS, "CASCARETS"

Your Liver is Full of Bile; Bowels Clogged, Stomach Sour, Tongue Coated, Breath Bad.

Get a 10-cent box now. You're bilious. You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean, stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

COLORADO, TEXAS SEPTEMBER 26, 1915.

Silos with capacity to feed all the stock in Mitchell County would be equivalent to good grass and forage the year round.

We do not think there would be very much surprise throughout the nation, if Mr. W. J. Bryan should resign from the cabinet in order to be able to make a living.

After more than six months of so-called investigation by a military court convened for that purpose, its decision was made public last week, which was to the effect that the deaths of President Madero and Vice-President Saurez were not brought about by a punishable crime. That is the way they whitewash simple and pure assassination in Mexico.

As between Felix Diaz and old Huerta as president of Mexico, the Washington government could not stick a pin. With Huerta's help Diaz can likely be elected president, but recognition of him would be as contrary to the announced attitude of this country to that as recognition of Huerta. Diaz and Huerta were co-assassins and usurpers.
Nor would Diaz election tend to pacify the Constitutionalists. He's one of the same old stripe.

Irrigation, the silo and Jersey cow will do more to redeem this country from the strangle hold of the one-crop system, than all other things combined. A few acres well irrigated, a silo well filled, and a few Jersey cows well tended, will demand an added industry that would pay, from the start. Colorado was about ten years ago notorious with its creamery. It logically should have been founded on the success of the dairy business. We can only learn by living.

In every calamity there is always some element of good, which can be discerned by comparing ourselves with others. In north Louisiana last week, while six per cent of the cotton crop was open in the fields, a five days equinoctial rain storm beat all the cotton to the ground, where it lay sprouting before it could be gathered.
The cotton in the field also began to sprout from the excessive and protracted wet weather. How many Mitchell county farmers have indulged a thankful thought about the perfect conditions which have prevailed so far, for gathering the cotton crop. We wonder, how many.

The people of Taylor county are moving in the matter of irrigation in a business-like way. Realizing that dependence upon the natural rainfall is very uncertain, and that irrigation is the only method of eliminating chance from agriculture, many of the farmers are having their places surveyed and available reservoir sites located. The work is under the direction of Mr. Mark E. Ryndale, the recently appointed irrigation expert, and Fred Wood, secretary of the Central West Texas Irrigation Association. They visited several farms and indicated the most effective and available location for reservoirs. Two farmers will irrigate 240 acres. Most of the irrigation will be done by defecting water from creeks and draws when full of water, or by throwing up diversion dikes that will direct surface water over the crops. This is a most encouraging sign and shows the people are alive to the importance and urgency of some system of irrigation.

A RIGHTEOUS MOVEMENT AND TIMELY.

The ice has been broken by the citizens of a Texas county, and a heavy graft, as well as electioneering scheme been attacked from the front. Every thinking man has realized that the millions of dollars worse than wasted every year in appropriations to make such alleged rivers as the Trinity and Brazos navigable, could be applied to better and more useful purpose. Many members of congress have kept their seats by keeping the navigation graft to the fore, knowing at the same time that they were parties to as shameless a graft as ever afflicted our government.

The citizens of Bowie county, Texas have taken the initiative in a movement to have all this wasted money applied to the highways of the country, and will petition their representatives in both houses to use their influence to this end. Another waste they want stopped is the building of $150,000 postoffice buildings in 2,500 population towns, which has been a very popular method with congressmen in making themselves solid with their constituents in the favored locality. The member of congress who succeeds in getting frequent dips in the "pork barrel" for the benefit of his district, in the shape of appropriations for building a postoffice building or throwing it into some impossible creek, is regarded as the most useful and influential one. The "pork barrel" is a kind of reward for party loyalty or reciprocal services rendered.
It will require a hard and long fight to break up this system, and about the only way it can ever be done is by the creation of such strong public sentiment against the waste, that congressmen will fear defeat if they oppose the movement. If, instead of squan-dering this money on useless and impossible projects, it were used in building highways or installing irrigation plants in sections where needed, great benefit would result to the people, the country would be permanently improved, and congressmen would suffer nothing in their stunts of getting federal aid for their districts; besides, the money would be put to some practical and permanent use. There are a few congressmen from Texas who are warming their seats solely by working the "navigation" graft. The Record heartily endorses the move of the Bowie county people, and believes, if the matter were brought to the attention of the people of Texas, they would (with the exception of those localities which have been enjoying the fruits of such appropriations) heartily endorse the proposed reform. Spend the money on our public highways instead of throwing it into creeks and bayous.

In 1909 a much more prolonged and severe drought prevailed throughout Texas than during the present year.
There was no rain until the day after the great Galveston storm, September 8th. On the 9th heavy rains fell all over the state, causing warping results.
The cotton stalks, which were apparently dried up, started, and bearing but few puny bolls, revived, and a very late, but fairly good crop was raised. The pasture lands responded and the stockmen raised plenty feed for their cattle. What happened in September 1909 on account of the rains may happen in the year 1915.

Ben Morgan's is "Smoker's Headquarters." He keeps the box.

With the curtailed cotton crop bringing the farmers nearly as much at the present price, as it likely would have brought if it had not been cut short.
With more than sufficient feed already made to run them next year, say nothing of the forage crop that can yet be saved, and the good grass; the condition of Mitchell County, on the whole, is much better than at the beginning of the present year. The great importance of living at home here, becomes very apparent. It matters not that the farmer has left over and above his debts and expenses, a little money; it goes largely and regularly to the grocery stores for table expenses. If every farmer in Mitchell county had a few hogs; a few more chickens; a small garden, orchard, and a good cow; the bulk of the family's table expenses could be saved, besides having a little to sell to their less fortunate neighbors of the town. There are many farmers in East Texas owning from ten to twenty acres of land, who live comfortably summer and winter; always have something to sell, and who sit down every day to better table fare than the wealthiest man in Mitchell county can buy for his table.
They raise things that save money and bear a big profit; they do not need much money, as they produce everything for which the Mitchell county farmer has to pay his hard-earned money.

Mr. Ferguson, who is looking for the National Automobile Association is in West Texas this week and was expected in Cisco Tuesday. It has been our understanding that the most southern practical route would be selected for this national highway, and the people of San Angelo and Fort Stockton are hopeful it will come their way.
However, there are many things to be considered in locating such a highway, and we believe every promising route will be carefully considered before final location. As between the route through Scurry county and that through Tom Green and Pecos, the one through Mitchell county offers more existing advantages and facilities than either of the other two. If Roswell is to be on this national highway, we believe Mitchell county stands a good chance of being duly considered. The location is by no means finally determined yet.

There are several locations near Colorado, where water could be impounded with no great expense, that would carry more than a thousand acres of crop over critical periods of drouth, when water means success and the lack of it spells failure. There are few farms but have draws or other depressions on them that could be utilized for this purpose, at no prohibi-tively cost. The saving of a single crop would likely pay for the necessary work of building the dam. The farmers of Western Kansas long since learned the value of water at critical times, and provided storage reservoirs to save the food waters. Western Kansas today depends wholly on irrigation, and has become the most certain section of the state for all kinds of crop production. West Texas will come to the same thing within a few more years.

WILL KEEP AT IT.

Every time any serious operation is performed in this community, the Record proposes to fly another distress signal for a hospital. This institution is becoming more needed every month, and it is a sad commentary upon the progressiveness of the town and county to have cases going continually to some other town better equipped for caring for patients after they are operated upon. A stock company with capital of no more than ten or twelve thousand dollars could easily negotiate the proposition, and the need being once supplied, it would soon be paring expenses and then earning a dividend.

Did you ever notice how hard times bring out every particle of littleness in the human character? Most anyone can under prosperous conditions keep down the streak of yellow deep down at the bottom. But let conditions become hard, when the primal instincts assert themselves in the struggle for survival and the very backbone of the character comes to the top.

Mitchell county badly needs out thousand or more small farmers; men, who will make on twenty to forty acres of land, by intense cultivation and irrigation, with less work, more than is now produced on five times that amount of land.

The citizens of Abilene and Taylor county have secured the services of the federal irrigation expert to examine the irrigation possibilities of that county and make estimates on the probable cost of the most available systems. The people of Colorado and Mitchell county could do no more beneficial work for the future agricultural interests of this county than do what Abilene is doing. Many years ago there was a survey made of a site for a dam on the Colorado river above Cuthbert. In fact, a great deal of work was done in surveying levels and locating canals. The project was pronounced exceedingly feasible, but nothing came of the move. The same physical conditions exist in the same place today as did then, and the same or even greater feasibility obtains as to the proposition now, as then. Since that time great advancement has been made, not only in the science of irrigation, but in the construction of irrigation systems. Money is more easily obtained to put through such enterprises, because the value and certainty of good returns have been fully demonstrated all around us. It is easier to promote a feasible irrigation project today than to raise money for a railroad. The former benefits the subscriber directly, while the latter helps him but indirectly. The success of agriculture—the certainty of crop returns in West Texas will depend upon irrigation in the future. To which of two farmers think you, would a merchant be more likely to furnish supplies on time—one depending on 200 acres of land dry farmed or one relying on 50 acres under a good and ample system of irrigation? It will not be many years till the question of supplies will depend on the certainty of a crop, just as in many of the older states, the question of furnishing a farmer or tenant depends on the matter of fertilizer. The farmer who does not use fertilizers, finds his chances of credit very much restricted.

THE KIND THAT STAND HITCHED

If you should ever get the feeling that you are something out of the common run of clay; of just a trifle better moral balance; a little more sensitive in discharging all your obligations, and a whole lot higher up religiously; it might be well to stand yourself up beside the standard and measure God himself has set, and apply the acid test to your pretensions and assumptions. The gist of all that's in a man, not common to all animal creation, is set forth in the 15 Psalm. If you have never had the plumb line laid to you, get your wife to read aloud to you, this short but pregnant psalm. It crystallizes in few words, the entire code of man's moral conduct, and is well calculated to set the wind out of the straggle man's self righteousness. Hear what it says:

1. "Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle; who shall dwell in thy holy hill?"
2. He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart.
3. He that backbiteth not with his tongue, nor doeth evil to his neighbor, nor taketh up a reproach against his neighbor.
4. In whose eyes a vile person is contemned; but he honoreth them that fear the Lord; HE THAT SWEARETH TO HIS OWN HURT AND CHANGETH NOT.
5. He that putteth not out his money to usury, nor taketh reward against the innocent. He that doeth these things shall never be moved."

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr.
Hughes Would Die, But
One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—It is interesting advices from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die.
I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good.
I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Theodor's Black-Draught, and quit taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it.

I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it.
I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me." Theodor's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest.

MAXWELL MODELS

MAXWELL cars will dominate the trade for 1914 in the three big classes which command the greater popularity, because each model is a better car---better material, better workmanship and better finish---for the same or less money.

1914

There's no slur implied in the name Maxwell. Though you buy the lowest priced Maxwell, nobody accuses you of having bought a "cheap" car.

When you're asked what make of car you drive and you reply, "Mine is a Maxwell," nobody asks whether it is a 50, a 35 or a 25. In either case honors are even. Either is best---each in its own class represents the best value on earth for the money.

MAXWELL "50-6"—$1975

If you want the handsomest thing on wheels" regardless of price, you'll select the Maxwell "50-6." The Maxwell "50-6" is a silent, sweet running, self-starting, 7-passenger touring car, luxuriously fitted and furnished—a car whose price you could not tell by looking at it. It possesses all those qualities that, combined, make the "Six" superior in a big car, and without all of which a "Six" may be no better and perhaps not as good as a well-made, carefully adjusted "Four." Let us take you for a ride in this powerful, roomy car. You can select your own roads, and the rougher they are the better we can demonstrate to you the wonderful riding qualities of the Maxwell "50."

The sweetest running thing on wheels. Six-cylinder motor, bloc-cast, 50 horse power 130 inch wheel base; electric starter and lights; Bruce Ott body; 5-7 passengers; disappearing seats; 36x4 1/2 inch tires all around. MAXWELL "35-4"—$1225

You will not fully appreciate the Maxwell "35" until you have investigated carefully competing cars ranging in price from $1500 downward. We much prefer that you should look at such cars before seeing the Maxwell "35," making note of all features you like in them, and then come and look over this splendid car. You will find every desirable feature in this car, and several you will not find embodied in any other car at any price. In a word, plenty of power, plenty of passenger capacity, a motor of sweetness and silence and transmission and axle equally sweet in operation, and with every last detail of equipment, at a price that cannot be equalled anywhere in a car of the same quality.

Powerful, silent, sweet running; bloc-cast 4-cylinder motor; 111 inch wheel base; 33x4 inch tires all around. Left hand drive, center control. Electric starter and lights. Three-quarter elliptic springs. Bruce Ott body, ventilating windshield and fully equipped, including Jiffy curtains.

And at a price no other maker has ever before been able to produce such a car—$750 plus the freight. The result of more concentrated experience, engineering and metallurgical knowledge, manufacturing skill and financial resources than any other, this car justifies our efforts and fulfills our fondest hopes. It was designed to meet the ideas and the needs of tens of thousands of discriminating buyers—not beginners but experienced motorists—who must consult the purse and yet who detest and decline to wear a uniform and are willing to pay a little more for a car that is a lot better. Whether you intend to invest one or more thousands or only a few hundred dollars in a motor car, you'll not have to look further than the Maxwell line to fill your requirements.

This year's sensation. Four-cylinder, bloc-cast, 25 horse power motor, magneto; weight, 1600 pounds; 103 inch wheel base; 30x3 1/2 inch tires all around; three-speed selective transmission; full five-passenger body; complete equipment, including tire holders, windshield, top and Jiffy curtains.

QUALITY IS ECONOMY

One Thing We Dare Not Fall To Do.

Says President Wilson in "The New Freedom:"

"America is great in proportion as she can make sure of having great men in the next generation."

So it might be said of the South, that she is strong and wise today just in proportion as she is making sure that the next generation will be strong and wise—just in proportion as she is training and instructing her children to do good work, to think soundly, and to lead upright and useful lives.

The older men and women of today—all who have reached middle age—knew a South with the wounds and sorrows of conflict on her face, with the desolation of defeat all about her, and with the burden of poverty and ignorance upon her shoulders. Yet this South, with undaunted spirit set about the repairing of her broken fortunes and the building of a new and a finer civilization. The fruits of her labors we of the younger generation have enjoyed. It was our privilege to begin life's work in a land of hopeful endeavor and of almost unbounded opportunities.

Back there in the dark days, amid the ashes and the ruins of defeat, our fathers wrought well. We are never tired of boasting of their courage and their achievements, and we do well to be proud of them. It is for us to say, not by words but by deeds, whether the next generation will have equal reason to be proud of us.

Unless we see to it that this next generation of Southern men and women, the boys and girls of the South today, are given an equal chance in life with the next generation of men and women in any other section, we shall not deserve such praise as we give our fathers.

There is some reason for the South of today having more illiteracy and poorer schools than other more fortunate sections; but there is no excuse for us if we permit this state of things to continue. What is yet to be done—and it is much, more indeed than most of us dream—is much less than what has been accomplished, when we come to compare the South that rebuilt her fortunes from the wreckage of war and Reconstruction with the South of today.

To give every child in all this South land the opportunity to secure a good education—an education that will not only teach him to read and write, but to think for himself, to care for his health, to love his country, and to do some useful work—and then to make sure that this opportunity is not taken away from him by anyone; this is the great task imposed by the spirit of civilization upon us. It is a task too, which we dare not fail to perform. No excuse for failure can be worthy of real men. If we would say that we are too poor, we need only remember how rich we are compared with the men and women whose toil and sacrifice made the wealth of today possible. If we would say that we have other things to attend to, we need but remember that there is no other thing as important as this, that nothing else we can do can atone for neglect of our children. We must remember, too, that we fail to do our duty by the children unless we give them an equal chance with all other children, and that if we leave them in mill and street and field when they ought to be in school, we are cheating them of their birthright.

We desire for the South of tomorrow that she be prosperous, that she be aspiring and progressive, that she hold her ancient place in the councils of the Nation. If her children are left ignorant, it is inevitable that she be poor; if they are not inspired to hope and dream, it is inevitable that she be dull and sordid-minded; if they are not trained to think wisely and act bravely, it is inevitable that wiser men from elsewhere rule over her.

The South of today is great just as she offers the opportunity of greatness to her children. If they are not given as good education as the children of other States, they are largely deprived of this opportunity. We dare not thus deprive them; we dare not fail to do all in our power to give them a fair chance in life.

The Husbands of Edith

CHAPTER XI. Other Relations.

IT is but natural to presume after the foregoing that the affairs of the Medcrofts were under close and careful scrutiny from that confidential hour. The Odell-Carneys were conspicuously nice and agreeable to the Medcrofts and Miss Fowler. It may be said indeed that Mr. Odell-Carney went considerably out of his way to be agreeable to Mrs. Medcroft—so much so, in fact, that she made it a point to have some one else with her whenever she seemed likely to be left alone with him. The Rodneys struggled bravely and no doubt conscientiously to emulate the example set by the Odell-Carneys, but it was hardly to be expected that they could see new things through old world eyes. They grew very stiff and ceremonious—that is, the Rodney ladies did. It was their prerogative, of course. Were they not cousins of the Medcrofts?

Four or five days of uneasy pretense passed with a swiftness that irritated certain members of the party and a slowness that distressed the others. Days never were so short as those which the now recklessly infatuated Brock was spending. He was valiantly earning his way into the heart of Constance, a process that tried his patience exceedingly, for she was blithely unimpressible if one were to judge by the calmness with which she fended off the inevitable though tardy assault. She kept him at arm's length. Appearances demanded a discreetness no matter how she may secretly have felt toward the good looking husband of her sister. To say that she was enjoying herself would be putting it much too tame. She was reveling in the fun of the thing. It mattered little to her that people, her own cousins in particular, were looking upon her with cold and critical eyes. She knew down in her heart that she could throw a bomb among them at any time by the mere utterance of a single word. It mattered as little that Edith was beginning to chafe miserably under the strain of waiting and deception. The novelty had worn off for the wife of Roxbury. She was despairingly in love, and she was pining for the day to come when she could laugh again with real instead of simulated joyousness.

"Connie, dear," she would lament a dozen times a day, "it's growing unbearable. Oh, how I wish the three weeks were ended. Then I could have my Roxbury, and you could have my other Roxbury, and everybody wouldn't be pitying me and cavilling at you because I'm unhappily married."

"Why do you say I could have your other Roxbury?" demanded her sister on one occasion. "You forget father expects me to marry the viscount. I—"

"You are so tiresome, Connie. Don't worry me with your love affairs—I don't want to hear them. There's Mr. Brock waiting for you in the garden."

"I know it, my dear. He's been waiting for an hour. I think it is good for him to wait," said the other, with airy confidence. "What does Rox say in his letter this morning?"

"He says it will all be over in a day or two. Dear me, how I wish it were over now! I can't endure Cousin Mary's snipishness much longer, and as for Katherine! My dear, I hate that girl!"

"She's been very nice lately, Edith—ever since Freddie dropped me so completely. By the way, Burton was telling me today that Odell-Carney had been asking her some very curious and staggering questions about Tootles and your most private affairs."

"I know, my dear," groaned Edith. "He very politely remarked to me last night that Tootles made him think very strangely of a friend of his in London. He wouldn't mention the fellow's name. He only smiled and said, 'Nevah mind, my dear, he's a c'nfend-ed handsome dog. I daresay he meant that as a compliment for Tootles. She is pretty, don't you think so, dear?'"

"She's just like you, Edith," said Constance, who understood things quite clearly.

"Then, in heaven's name, Connie, why are they staring at her so impolitely—all of them?"

"It's because she is so pretty. Goodness, Edith, don't let very little things worry you. You'll have wrinkles and gray hairs soon enough."

"It's all very nice for you to talk," grumbled Edith. "I'm going mad with loneliness. You have a lover near you all the time—he's mad about you. What have I? I'm utterly alone. No one loves me—no, not a soul!"

"You won't let them love you, Edith," said Constance jauntily. "They all want to love you, all of them."

"I hate men," announced Mrs. Medcroft retrospectively.

Developments of a most refractory character swooped down upon them at the very end of the sojourn in Innsbruck. Every one had begun to rejoice that the fortnight was almost over and that they could go their different ways without having anything really regrettable to carry away with them. The Rodneys were going to Paris, the Medcrofts to London, the Odell-Carneys (after finding out where the others were bent to Osajend, Freddie Ulstervelt suddenly announced his determination to remain at the Tirol for a week or two longer. That very day he had been introduced to a Mlle. Le Brun, a fascinating young Parisian stopping at the Tirol with her mother.

All might have ended well had it not been for the unfortunate circumstance of Odell-Carney's making a purchase of the London Standard instead of the Times, as was his custom. His lamentations over this piece of stupidity were cut short by the discovery of an astonishing article upon the editorial page of the paper—an article which created within him a sense of grave perplexity. He read the headlines thrice and glanced through the text twice, neither time with any very definite idea of what he was reading. His fingers shook as he held the sheet nearer the window for a final effort to untangle the incredible thing that lay before him in simple, unimpeachable black and white.

"Fon me word," he kept repeating to himself feebly. Then he got up and went off in extreme haste to find his wife.

"My dear," he said to her in the carriage-way. "I must speak with you alone." She was just starting off for a drive with Mrs. Rodney.

"Bad news, Carney?" she demanded, struck by his expression. She was following him toward a remote corner of the approach. He did not reply until they were seated much nearer to each other than was their wont.

"Read that," he said, slipping the Standard into her hands. "Wot do you think of it?"

"My dear Carney, I don't know. Would you mind telling me what I am to read?"

"The Medcroft thing. Right there."

She read the article, her husband watching her face the while. Surprise, incredulity, dismay, succeeded each other in rapid changes. She was reading in sheer amazement of the doings of Roxbury Medcroft in connection with the county council's subcommittee—in London! The story went on to relate how Medcroft, implacable leader of the opposition to the "grafters," suddenly had appeared before the committee with the most astounding figures and facts to support his charges of rottenness on the part of the "clique"; his unexpected descent upon the scene had thrown the opposing leaders into a panic; every one had been led to believe that he was sojourning in the east. As a matter of fact, it was soon revealed, he had been in London secretly working on the problem for nearly three weeks, keeping discreetly under cover in order that his influence might not be thwarted. His array of facts, his bitter arraignment of the men who were trying to force the building bill through the council, staggered the whole city of London. At that writing it looked as though the bill would be overthrown, its promoters had been so completely put to rout. The committee would be compelled to take cognizance of the startling exposure. The people would demand a full thrashing out of the obnoxious deal. Roxbury Medcroft's name was on every one's lip. The Standard had profited by securing a great "beat."

The Odell-Carneys looked at each other in wonder and perplexity. "What does it mean?" asked the lady, her eyes narrowing.

"Look here, Agatha, this paper's at least two days old. Now, how the devil can Medcroft be in London and Innsbruck at the same time. He was here day before yesterday, wasn't he? I'm so c'nfended unobserving!"

"Yes, yes, he was here. And this paper?"—She paused irresolutely.

"Says he was there. 'Fon my word, it's most uncanny. There's some mystery here."

"I've got it, Carney! This is not Roxbury Medcroft."

"Good Gawd!"

"This explains everything. Heavens, Carney! This fellow is—is her lover! She's running about the country with him. She's—"

"Her lover? 'Gad, my dear, he may have been so at one time, but he's the other one's lover now, take my word for it. I say, 'pon my soul, this is a charming game your friends the Rodneys have let us into. They—"

"My friends! Yours, you mean?" she retorted.

"Oh, come now! But let it go at that. They know, of course that this fellow isn't her husband, and yet, by gad, Agatha, they've gone about deliberately palming him off on us as the real article. They are actually sanctioning the whole!"

"Stop a moment, Carney," interrupted his wife. "The London chap may be the fraud. Let us go slow, my dear."

"Slow? How the devil can we go slow in such fast company? No! This fellow is the fraud. And they knew it too. They all know it. They—"

"Rubbish! You forget that the whole Rodney tribe is up in arms because Medcroft is making love to his wife's sister. They're not assuming anything there, let me tell you. And he's not Edith's lover. If he's not her husband, he's playing a part that she understands and approves. And this—this, my dear Carney, may account for the imaginary orphanage of Tootles. Dear me, it's quite a tangle."

"I shall telegraph my solicitors at once for definite news. They'll know whether the real Medcroft is in London, and then—well, by Jove, Agatha, I can't tell just wot steps I'll take in regard to these Rodneys."

He went into a long tirade against the unfortunate Seattleites, as he called them. "Understand me, Agatha, I don't blame Mrs. Medcroft. If she's having an affair with this chap and can pull the wool!"

"But she isn't having an affair with this chap," cried Mrs. Odell-Carney, her patience exhausted. "She's having an affair with a chap in London, the one who writes 'Good gracious! Of course! Why, what fools we are. The real Medcroft is in London, and it is he who is writing the letters. How stupid of me!'"

"Aha!" exclaimed he triumphantly. "Of course, she's getting letters from her husband. Why not? That's to be expected. But, by the everlasting shag-pat, do you suppose that her husband knows she's off here with another fellow who masquerades as her husband? No!" He almost shouted it. "I've never heard of anything so brazen. 'Gad, what nerve these Americans have! Just to think of it!'"

"I don't believe she is anything of the sort," declared his wife. "She's as good as gold. You can't fool me, Carney. I know women."

"Deuce take it, Agatha, so do I. And wot's more, I know men."

"They're a poor lot, the kind you know. This pseudo Medcroft is not your kind, he's a very clever chap and a gentleman."

"Now, look here, Agatha, don't imagine that I'm going to be such a cad as to turn against 'em in their hour of trial. Not I. I'm more their friend than ever. I'll help 'em to get away from here, and I'll bulldoze these Rodneys into holding their peace forever after. It's the Rodney duplicity that I can't stand."

"Shall we stay here, or shall we find an excuse to leave?" she asked pointedly.

"We'll stay long enough for me to tell the Rodneys yot I think of 'em. I'll have an answer to my dispatch by night. Then I should advise you to have a talk with Mrs. Medcroft. You've invited her to the house, you know. Tell her there can't be two Medcrofts. See wot I mean? We'll see 'em through this, but—well, you understand."

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL is one of the greatest factors in our country. When reinforced by good, wholesome, reliable newspapers. It gives the American child a practical education. Without the aid of newspapers the public school can not give a boy or girl that degree of general intelligence that you wish your children to have. You can now get the Colorado Record and the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News for one year three papers a week for $1.75. We accept and receipt for subscriptions at this office. We do the ordering and take the risk.

"Do You Choose Your Children?"

Under this heading, one of the leading periodicals published in the United States, sets forth the findings of several prominent scientists who have been making investigations along the line of eugenics. These eminent men found that there are more than four million (4,000,000) children in this country alone that are deficient mentally and physically. Thirty per cent of the children in some of the public schools are below the normal standards of mental development. There are 200,000 individuals in the United States that rank as imbeciles. And (the article adds) "with the rarest exceptions the cause of imbecility is heredity—and heredity alone." Scientists on both sides of the Atlantic are gravely admitting that within three centuries at the present rate of the increase of insanity, the world would be one vast insane asylum.

It was found that by proper mating blemishes and diseases would work out in three or four generations, while by improper mating, and continued violation of the laws of morality, the conditions would be accentuated in the succeeding generations. Every man and woman should give serious heed to the discoveries of these renowned scientists, as heavy responsibilities respecting the coming generation are resting upon them, and their own future happiness as well as that of their offspring is involved.

How remarkably these latest conclusions prove the inspiration of the ancient Hebrew Scriptures and vindicate the wisdom of the prophets and the servants of the Lord! Moses, in that wonderful code of laws given to the Israelites, declared that the "sins of the fathers would be visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generation."—Exodus 20:5.

The Prophet Ezekiel, speaking as the mouthpiece of the Lord says: "The fathers have eaten sour grapes (have sinned), and the children's teeth are set on edge (have suffered the consequences)." Ezekiel 18:2. But the Prophet Jeremiah adds: "In those days they shall say no more. The fathers have eaten a sour grape and the children's teeth are set on edge, but every one shall die for his own iniquity: every man that eateth the sour grape, his teeth shall be set on edge." The prophet then proceeds to explain that in the new dispensation when the New Covenant is in force and when the law of heredity is no longer in operation, the Lord will write His perfect law (impress the principles of justice and love) upon every human heart.—Jeremiah 31: 33-34.

In the meantime, all should strive to conform their lives to the laws of morality as expressed in the divine Scriptures that their days may be long in the land and filled with blessings and true happiness, and that their children may be born with a heritage of health and strength—a sound mind in a sound body. None should ever lose sight of this tremendously important fact that the laws governing the moral realm are as absolutely rigid and inflexible as those governing the material universe. Every deviation from these laws must bring the inevitable consequences. Cause and effect are indissolubly related.

Advertisers Ask Only A Fair Trial

By HOLLAND.

ADVERTISERS do not attempt to make you agree to buy their goods for the rest of your life. They only want you to give their wares a trial, to subject them to actual test by actual use, and then be guided by experience.

Could anything prove more clearly that the advertiser has supreme confidence in his product, that he is absolutely certain that it will please you, that it will be all he says it is?

It would indeed be foolish to spend money to induce you to buy an article that would prove unsatisfactory and would result in your telling friends and neighbors of your experience. Advertisers spend millions making their trademarks known, and in order to make their trademarks valuable they must stand for a certain standard of worth. Having made their trademarks known, manufacturers exert every effort to keep the goods up to the expected high grade.

YOU CAN'T GO WRONG IN FOLLOWING ADVERTISEMENTS.

Band Music of the Best to Feature Coliseum Programs.

THAVIU WILL DIRECT

Famous Ballet in "Dances of All Nations—Very Best Acts in World of Vaudeville Secured."

Dallas, Texas.—The State Fair of Texas is bending every effort toward making the Coliseum programs at the coming exposition, Saturday, October 18, to Sunday, November 2, of unusual interest. Already a ballet of America's best dancers has been secured. Under the leadership of a premier dancer who comes direct to America from Austria-Hungary, the ballet will be seen by Fair goers in the dances of all Nations.

Bandmaster Thaviu and his famous organization of musicians and instrumental soloists are well known to patrons of the State Fair and are exceptionally popular with those who love the best in band music. In a letter to the management Mr. Thaviu says: "Have already started arranging my programs for the Fair without an equal. As much attention will be given to popular airs as to classical music, and we will have a band that will please each and every visitor. My list of instrumental soloists is not as yet completed, but will include the very best in the musical world. Have practically completed arrangements for securing vocal soloists of National reputation, whose singing will be one of the big features of the Fair."

Among the vaudeville acts of merit that will feature the Coliseum bill are: The Tetsuware Japanese Troupe, the Six Castriilians, Santucci, The Three Dutsons consist of three people and two horses in "stunts" that will appeal. The Tetsuware Troupe is billed as the very best Japanese act in America, not only in their ability, as performers but in their stage settings and costumes. The Castriilians contribute the very best acrobatic work on the vaudeville stage and their performance each day will be marked by marvelous feats. Santucci is an accordion player and his instrument is so constructed that he can play the most intricate of classic music as well as popular and ragtime airs.

Dallas, Texas: Cotton will again be king in the agricultural department of the State Fair of Texas at Dallas this fall. The twenty-eighth annual meeting will be held Saturday, October 18, to Sunday, November 2. Competition for the premiums offered by the management will be exceedingly keen as good crops this year assure a much larger number of individual exhibitors. Premiums offered this year by the management total $250. Awards will be made for the best samples of seed cotton, best fifty bolls, best three stalks grown in 1913, best two pounds of lint cotton direct from gin, best bale of short staple best bale of long staple. There will be a large display of cottonseed products, including cake, meal, hulls and bread and cakes made from cotton seed meal.

Six Cylinders. Six Passengers. Electric Starter. Electric Lights. $1500

"Look Around to Your Heart's Content—You'll Surely Come Back"

Your Studebaker dealer is not only willing, but glad, to have you "look around," after you have seen the Studebaker "SIX." He means what he says. He feels perfectly safe. There is nothing in the market that can win you away. It is not easy for him, or for us, to tell the simple truth about the car without seeming to indulge in braggadocio. Because the simple truth is bound to sound disparaging to competing cars.

The Question of Price. Let's assume that you do "look around." The first thing you discover is that the Studebaker "SIX" is in a price division all by itself. You've got to begin several hundred dollars higher up in your hunt for a car comparable with it. Check one for the Studebaker.

The Question of Size. You are astonished to discover that the lesser price of the Studebaker is not explained by a lesser size. The Studebaker "SIX" is a normal six—which means a six of the most generous proportions. A seven-passenger six, in other words, (if used to its uttermost) with perfect freedom of movement front and back. So you lose nothing here in the low er price—and gain nothing in the which you will compare it is an assembled six. Check two for the Studebaker. We mean by this, Sixes which are no larger, no more beautiful, but which sell for considerably more. This almost ends the hunt right here, doesn't it? Add fifty points to the other three we've checked for the Studebaker.

The Question of Fitness. Studebaker will build more Sixes than anyone else in the world this season. Almost as many as all the other makers combined. That accounts largely for the price. It accounts also for that accuracy without which a Six is a dangerous experiment. It accounts for mechanical niceties and full jeweled workmanship which will amaze you at the Studebaker figure.

The Question of Beauty. There are those who contend that the Studebaker is the handsomest Six on the market. Never mind that—it is a distinguished-looking Six at any rate. There are none more beautiful—none more graceful. So you won't be won away on that score. Check three for the Studebaker.

The Question of Workmanship. Bear in mind that you are supposed to be hunting for something that will justify you in not buying a Studebaker. And immediately you encounter an insurmountable objection to buying any other car. The Studebaker "SIX" is a manufactured Six. Practically every other Six with

Buy It Because It's a Studebaker

"SIX" We say to you what your dealer will say to you—"Look 'round to your heart's content, you're bound to come back." You'll buy this Six because it's a Studebaker "SIX." You'll buy it because its superiority will be forced upon you by comparison. $1550

Fresh vegetables always on hand at McMurry's.

From what the Record has seen of the cotton in this immediate community, it is of the opinion that there will be picking to be done for some time yet. Of course, the bulk of the crop has already opened, or will be open in a few days, yet there are many crops that have not done all they will do as a result of the last rains. The Record expects to see some cotton picking going forward well toward Christmas.

We are glad to chronicle the convalescence of Mr. Noonan Rogers, who was operated on some three weeks since, and whose condition grew very serious soon afterward. At this writing he is much improved and bids fair to make an uninterrupted recovery.

McMurry wants your produce—pays top prices.

Others besides the kids, must have staid up all of last Friday night to see the Ringling circus trains flit past.

There was a good crowd in town Saturday. Trading was reported good by the merchants, while the gins were swamped with cotton, much of which had to wait over till Monday morning to be ginned, though the gins kept grinding till midnight. On Friday night one of the gins ran until 4 o'clock next morning.

25 cents in the Record classified ads will turn the trick.

There were not so many attended the circus at Abilene Saturday as have usually gone down to see the big shows. We shall wait with patience and with no fear of disappointment, the next coming of Mollie Bailey and her never-changing aggregation. Were it not for Mollie Bailey half the children of Texas would be ignorant of the pleasures of circus.

Chamberlain's Tablets are for sale by all dealers.

Phone McMurry for fresh vegetables.

The crowd in town last Saturday was one of the best natured we have ever seen gathered in Colorado. Everybody had some money; spent a little and took more home with them. We believe it would have been impossible to have started a fuss Saturday about religion, politics or Joe Bailey.

Fresh vegetables at all times at McMurry's.

Don't expect the teachers to do the work that must be done at home, in the privacy of the home, and by the home alone. The teachers can direct, develop and train your children in mental discipline, but nothing can supply that moral basis which the parents alone can give. Give your children character and the teachers will give them cultivation.

The mill of the Continental Cotton Oil Company at this place has been thoroughly overhauled and put in perfect condition for the season's run. Enough seed has been assembled in their warehouses here to enable the mill to run without interruption, and the high new smokestack began to belch forth its sable incense, the giant engine to revolve and the machinery to hum its tune of industry, this week. It will run without intermission until the season's work is completed, sometime in the spring. The pay roll this oil mill and the cotton compress maintain during the fall and winter, very materially helps out in the volume of business in the town. Laborers get fairly good wages for the hard work, most all of which is spent with the local merchants.

USE OF CALOMEL PRACTICALLY STOPPED

For Bilious Attacks, Constipation and All Liver Troubles: Dangerous Calomel Gives Way to Dodson's Liver Tone.

Every druggist in the state has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is often dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," says Floyd Beall.

Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by Floyd Beall who sells it. A large bottle costs 50 cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of sluggishness, you have only to ask for your money back. It will be promptly returned.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant tasting purely vegetable remedy—harmless to both children and adults. A bottle in the house may save you a day's work or keep your children from missing school. Keep your liver working and your liver will not keep you from working.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

What might have proven a serious if not fatal accident was narrowly escaped last Sunday afternoon by Mrs. R. J. Johnson and daughter of Loraine, about one mile west of town. It appears they were coming this way in a single buggy, when they meet an automobile going at rapid speed. The horse became panicky, and instead of stopping, the occupants of the machine kept right on. The horse got unmanageable and running into a ditch threw Mrs. Johnson and daughter out onto the ground. Instead of manifesting any concern for them, the auto party kept merrily on their way. A party in an auto from town soon went that way and found Mrs. Johnson and daughter where they had been thrown out, and took them home.

WHAT'S THE REASON.

Many Colorado People in Poor Health Without Knowing The Cause

There are scores of people who drag out a miserable existence without realizing the cause of their suffering. Day after day they are racked with headache and headache; suffer from nervousness, dizziness, weakness, languor and depression. Perhaps the kidneys have fallen behind in their work of filtering the blood and that may be the root of the trouble. Look to your kidneys—assist them in their work—give them the help they need. You can use no more highly recommended remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills.

Below is grateful testimony from a sufferer in this locality. E. F. Davis, Snyder, Texas, says: "Several years ago, I had pains across the small of my back and in my sides. As Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended, I got a supply and used them. Two boxes were all that was needed to bring a cure. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from weak kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The Cuthbert gin, owned by Womack & Saddler, was shut down several days the past week, owing to a breakdown of the engine. New parts were hurried from Dallas and Abilene and by Wednesday, they had hoped to have everything in running order. They estimate they will lose the ginning of about 100 bales of cotton by the breakdown.

MEN and Women—Learn a lucrative profession. Get into the public eye. Cost but little. The art of scientific massage as we teach it embraces the essential movements of osteopathy, chiropractic, mechano therapy and other forms of drugless healing. The method that is destined to supersede all other forms of treatment of the sick. Students who have taken our course which only costs them a small amount, are now earning sums far in excess of men in other occupations who paid thousands of dollars for their professional education. We employ and find suitable locations for our graduates. Students are not required to know chemistry, Latin and other things of that nature. Our class opens Oct. 6. Can only take a limited number. Stomach complications, however, intervened and for several days her condition was critical, and attended with great suffering. Each session was filled with good things and all felt it was good to be there.
