this can be done, there will be little trouble in securing the delivery. But if not, and the expense appears too great for the city to undertake it—why the whole project must fall through.

Aside from securing convenience of free delivery, the building of the necessary sidewalks would be a direct enhancement of the property of the builder. Even after doing our best, we still fail to get the free delivery, the additional walks will be worth all they cost. It is not a "paying for something and getting nothing" proposition, but simply trying to get the individual citizen to improve his own property that his neighbors and town generally may reap a benefit.

A committee was appointed at this meeting who will canvass the matter with the property owners and report back to a similar called mass meeting. It is not that this system of free delivery will be worth so much to the town in itself, but that it may lead to something still better. If the town will meet the conditions for the establishment of this system, it will be in better shape to ask for something better—say a separate postoffice building for the town.

TO THE PEOPLE.

This is to notify you again that meat is cash. We have told you before that we don't mind making a ticket for a day or two if you happen to drop in without the money, but those of you who are letting your ticket run up to three, four or five dollars please cut it out and pay the cash. Remember we sell coupon books at a discount. You may not believe it but its a fact and you can find out by inquiring that we are selling you meat cheaper than it is sold in adjoining towns, but to do so we must have the cash.

We thank you for your trade and will do our best to furnish you with first class meat at as reasonable price as possible.

BEAL'S MARKET.

LIQUOR-DICE-FIGHT-BAIL.

Quite a little interest was created on the street Monday morning by a report to the effect that Hutch Porter of Lorraine, was robbed and his throat cut the evening before. Details were lacking, so, the general impression produced by this report was that he had been robbed by some bold highwayman and relieved of his money, and in the resultant fight, had been cut. Sheriff Coughran went down Monday morning to investigate matters. It appears that a party of three, in company with John Barleycorn, were having a quiet little game of "Come-seven-come-eleven-U-g-g-h" out in a pasture south of town. There was a loss of $10, a quick temper, a fight and knife play; Porter being the victim of the blade in the hands of Zorn. The parties were arrested and arraigned before Square Watlington's court. After the evidence was in, Zorn was placed under $1,000 bond, while the others were acquitted. Zorn was brought to Colorado and on Wednesday morning released on bond in the above sum. Although Mr. Porter is quite seriously cut about the throat and mouth, his wounds are not necessarily fatal.

ROAD WORKING NOTICE.

On account of bad weather we were unable to give proper observance to good roads days named by the Governor, the 5th and 6th days of this month.

At the request of a number of citizens I now designate Thursday and Friday of next week (20th, and 21st) as Good Roads days, at which time the people are requested to turn out en masse for road work.

Those in easy reach of Colorado are requested to assemble at or in front of Kelper & Herrington garages early in the morning of these days where conveyance will be furnished to transport them to the places of work. Bring tools and lunch for dinner.

At other places in the county, citizens are requested to effect organizations for road work in their respective localities, on the days named.

At Colorado, a fund has been raised to pay for road hands who do not feel able to donate their labor, and quite a number of such hands will be required.

PUMPING SYSTEM INSTALLED.

The Pump and Engine on the Tilley Farm Are Tried Out And Prove Very Successful.

When water to the amount of 750 gallons the minute, began to shoot out of the six-inch pipe and gaspreading over his young alfalfa, last Saturday morning, Mr. L. R. Tilley's face expanded into a smile of such latitudinous and broodingnagian proportions, that for a moment his ears were completely eclipsed from a front view elevation.

And small wonder it was so. Ratliff & Wheeler had just completed the installation of a 750 gallon irrigation pump and 15 h-p kerosene engine on the river bank and trailed about 200 yards of six-inch pipe up the hill to an elevation of 40 feet above the pump. Many had predicted failure to lift the water that high with such a pump, hence it was with no small degree of satisfaction and spirit of "I told you so" that Messrs Ratliff & Wyatt as well as Mr. Tilley saw the water gush out to the full capacity of the pipe with a swishing and singing noise, indicating that there was plenty reserve power behind, and that neither pump nor engine was doing its best.

A few weeks ago, Mr. Tilley owned about 23 acres of good, level agricultural land, near town, worth, at general valuation, $50 per acre. Today, that same land is easily worth $150 to $200 per acre. He has not yet located and built his canals and laterals, for which there is no great hurry. He has nine acres of alfalfa, some just up and some up about one inch. The water will be delivered to this for a time. The pipe line delivers the water nearly in the center of this level tract, and after irrigating this tract, it will be carried to the upper side of another tract and delivered to the crop on it, the water remaining, if any, draining back down the hill into the river.

There is no kind of doubt as to the successful operation of the pump and engine. Both will do their work to perfection. The pump has a capacity to serve 40 acres of land, and it only requires an intelligent application of the water and a careful handling of the machinery, to make this proposition a success in every feature. A crop put into the ground will be as certain as any law of nature, barring man's blunders. The Record predicts success for Mr. Tilley in his irrigation proposition, and hopes that others may be convinced of the success of this system of irrigation and do likewise.

THE STOCKMEN'S CLUB.

For some time the town has felt the need of some place where strangers and visitors, who come on business and have but a short time to stay, could be taken, and where they could meet anyone they wished to see. A headquarters for visitors was what the town did not have. To supply this need, the "Stockmen's Club" was organized recently with a membership of 25. The corner room of the old livery barn at Front and Walnut sts. has been secured and comfortably fitted up and equipped for business. Stationery has been provided, so that anyone may go there to write or read. The constitution of the club declares that its objects are "the development and promotion of the stock industry of Mitchell county, the education, refinement and general betterment of her people."

Practically all the members are stock raisers having no fixed place of business here in town, yet having a good deal of business to attend to. The club room provides such with headquarters and every convenience and comfort. The members will look after visiting stockmen and offer them the conveniences of the club while here. There is nothing of a convivial nature about the club, but everything will be conducted with the utmost decorum and business system. J. C. Prude is the president and Brooks Bell, secretary-treasurer. The club is open all business hours and visitors will be welcome.

County Votes Against Pool Hall.

On last Saturday occurred the election ordered some weeks ago by the commissioners' court, to determine whether pool halls should be licensed in Mitchell county. A petition bearing the requisite number of names of qualified voters of the county, having been duly presented to that body at a previous meeting.

An Interesting and Valuable Article.

The Record begins publication this week of an intensely interesting and scientific article by a West Texas man and citizen of Abilene, Thos. Fletcher Scott. It is called the "Polar Basin Theory" of the structure and building of the earth. Every reader of this paper has noticed the presence of shells and other evidences of marine life, on high hills and mountains, and wondered how they came in such unnatural locations. Rocks, bearing evidence of volcanic action and with marks of the arctic region on them, are to be found in warm countries; while the makings of tropical regions are found on rocks in the arctic circle. All these things are plainly and reasonably accounted for in Prof. Scott's theory. The continual changes going forward in the body of the earth; change of climate; sinking of land in one part and formation of new islands and bodies of land in other portions, are explained by this theory.

The article was published in pamphlet form by the Record office, and we were so impressed with the reasoning employed and entertained by the useful information it contained, that while the article was in type, we secured the consent of Prof. Scott to publish it serially. The article will be copyrighted, and any publication of it will be an infringement without the author's consent. We hope our subscribers will generally read this article, as it is very informing, and will afford a light by which to explain many curiosities in nature, with which we are daily familiar, and which we have accepted as among the mysteries of nature, past finding out.

A Little Progress and More Time.

At a mass meeting last Saturday afternoon of those who feel an interest in securing free mail delivery under the village experimental system, held in the lobby of the Looney building, nothing was determined beyond greater activity in trying to get those who have not good sidewalks on the blocks selected for the route of delivery, to put them in at their own expense. MAKES COLORADO INVESTMENTS

Mr. J. L. Killian has been going east and returning after a few days, for some months; but every time we ask him where he has been, he has given us to understand there was nothing doing. It was so last week. He made a trip and tried to make us believe he had started for New York city, but on reaching Hove de Graa, just this side of Baltimore, lost his pipe out the window and had to return home with his business unfinished. To be sure, we felt very sorry for him, for we knew the strength of attachment between himself and that pipe, and verily believe it will come marching in home some fine morning, of its own strength.

However, believing just enough of that Baltimore yarn to smell a mouse, we went to headquarters, where, if there was anything doing, or had been done, it would disclose itself. And this is what we found going on: Mr. Killian had sold his farm and appurtenances, six miles north of town, to Mr. J. P. Hunter, of Collin county, the consideration being $19,200, taking over a farm in Collin county of equal value.

We further learned that Mr. Hunter had purchased the Fred Lasky place, which adjoins the Killian place, for the consideration of $16,750 cash. It further appeared that Mr. Hunter had purchased a home in Colorado, paying for it $750.

The Record regrets to have Mr. Killian leave Mitchell county, if it is his purpose to go. He owned one of the most attractive and eligible country homes in the county, which we are glad to see, falls into competent hands with Mr. Hunter. We welcome the latter to the citizenship of Colorado and trust his stay among us may be attended with prosperity and contentment.

Any kind of a car can pull in sand after hard rains or damp cool weather. It is in July and August, when the sand is dried out, chopped up and fluid as water and the weather blazing hot, when sand pulling arguments are in order. In winter sand is little more difficult to pull than hardpan. In order however, to quiet misrepresentation, the Studebaker car stands ready at any and all times, to meet any car in hill or sand pulling contests. None are barred, but will meet all comers.

the approaching election, and on the day of voting, there were many who had wholly forgotten about it. The bulk of the sentiment against the pool hall here in Colorado, which was the only public one in the county, came from the rural communities, which, where they voted at all, gave heavy majorities against it. In the town of Colorado itself, there seemed to be but little opposition to the hall. The one here has been run in a most orderly manner, and was free from the objectionable features so universally associated with pool halls, and the Record had never heard one word of complaint against it only on the most general principles that it diverted money that might go to better purposes. The vote in Colorado was in favor of continuing the license.

At the Loraine box 73 votes were cast in all, 70 of which were against license. At Cuthbert the majority was proportionately as heavy; 23 votes were cast with 20 against license. The vote at other places where any election was held, was light. The net result of the election was a majority of 32 against the halls.

There seems to be an idea that this law will be tested, as we learn, it contains no provision for refunding the unexpired pro rata of the license paid. However this may be, we do not know. Mr. Robinson will likely make arrangements to close out his business within the limit fixed by law. He does not desire to conduct a business where the voters say they prefer he would not.

County Versus City Suckers.

It is true that country people now and then buy gold brick at bargain prices, cash checks for newly made friends; buy finger rings to cure diseases and keep off haunts, and perform various other sucker like stunts, over and over again. But according to population there is not one sucker in the country to ten in the big cities. These city breed of suckers don't balk at anything. The city of Chicago was stirred recently as never before by the report that a "devil child" had been born to an Italian woman, with horn, tail and power to talk, and that it had been taken to Hull House because its parents were afraid to keep it. Miss Addams the head of Hull House said that more than 10,000 people had flocked there for a look at this monstrosity, and that no amount of denial would convince these people that the story was purely a myth. Nor was this multitude of people composed of the ignorant foreigners and natives, but people of average intelligence and some education. The average of people living in rural districts is far above that of the native city dwellers, in natural intelligence, reading and common sense. Such a fake as the "devil child" story would not have caught a dozen country rubes.

D. D. D. Opens New Era in Cure of Skin Disease

Professor Budlong's case of eczema was known to almost every hospital and physician of reputation throughout the state of Connecticut. His letter is another interesting demonstration of what is being accomplished by the famous specific D. D. D. Prescription. "It may be of interest to you to know that your life-giving preparation, D. D. D. Prescription has been of incalculable value to me. I was covered with eczema from head to foot when I began using your remedies. I could get no relief, although I tried a thousand means. I applied but two bottles of the Prescription; a cure was effected in a very short time, in less than one month."

THE GENTRY SHOW.

Well, it has come and went—the circus. It is one among the few—very few shows or circuses that leaves no sense of disappointment when one comes out the tent. You have seen just as nearly as it is possible to make act and pictures agree, the features the show advertised. Of course, there are some so particular and exacting in their taste and desire to get their full money's worth, that if the bill board heralded a pea green man on the back of snuff-colored horse, jumping over fifteen elephants, such a fluke as a sky blue woman on a cherry colored horse leaping over sixteen rhamphorhynch with a double summersault, would never do them. The show would be punk-bum-rotten, and ought have been run out of town.

The high reputation of this show had preceded it, and when the grand parade came into Second street, both sides were lined with eager spectators, practically every one of them with money to see the show once—possibly twice, if it was good. There has been larger crowds here on circus day, but a large per cent of the former crowds was brought to town by other business. The crowd Monday came for no other purpose than to see the show with parade thrown in. None of the business people could go in the afternoon, but they were all there for the night performance.

He must needs be a carper indeed, who finds aught in the Gentry show but clean, wholesome and educational entertainment. Though not numerous, the animals were all magnificent specimens of their kind; while the sagacity of many of them combined with their skillful training, was a delight to a child's heart. He will never forget the Gentry circus. There was not a single dull feature in the entire performance, and every one who attended hoped the Gentry show will keep Colorado on its permanent route.

"Pape's Diapepsin" Ends Indigestion, Gas, Dyspepsia and Stomach Misery in Five Minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

The city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.

THE PRICE SHE PAID

The town of Colorado is fortunate in having managers of its opera house who try their best to safeguard their patrons; who are careful of the quality of the entertainment they ask their friends to patronize. This is not the case in the management of many places of amusement. Managers of these latter argue that the character of the play makes little difference, just so it will draw a good house one time, and as a consequence such towns are often overrun with questionable and at times, disgraceful entertainments.

Majors Brothers have been very careful in the selection of the entertainments they have brought to Colorado. They satisfy themselves before making a contract, that not only the play is clean, moral and strong, but the personnel of the company also is above reproach. They had rather give their patrons only a few attractions of a high order, than flood them with such attractions as they can not bring here a second time.

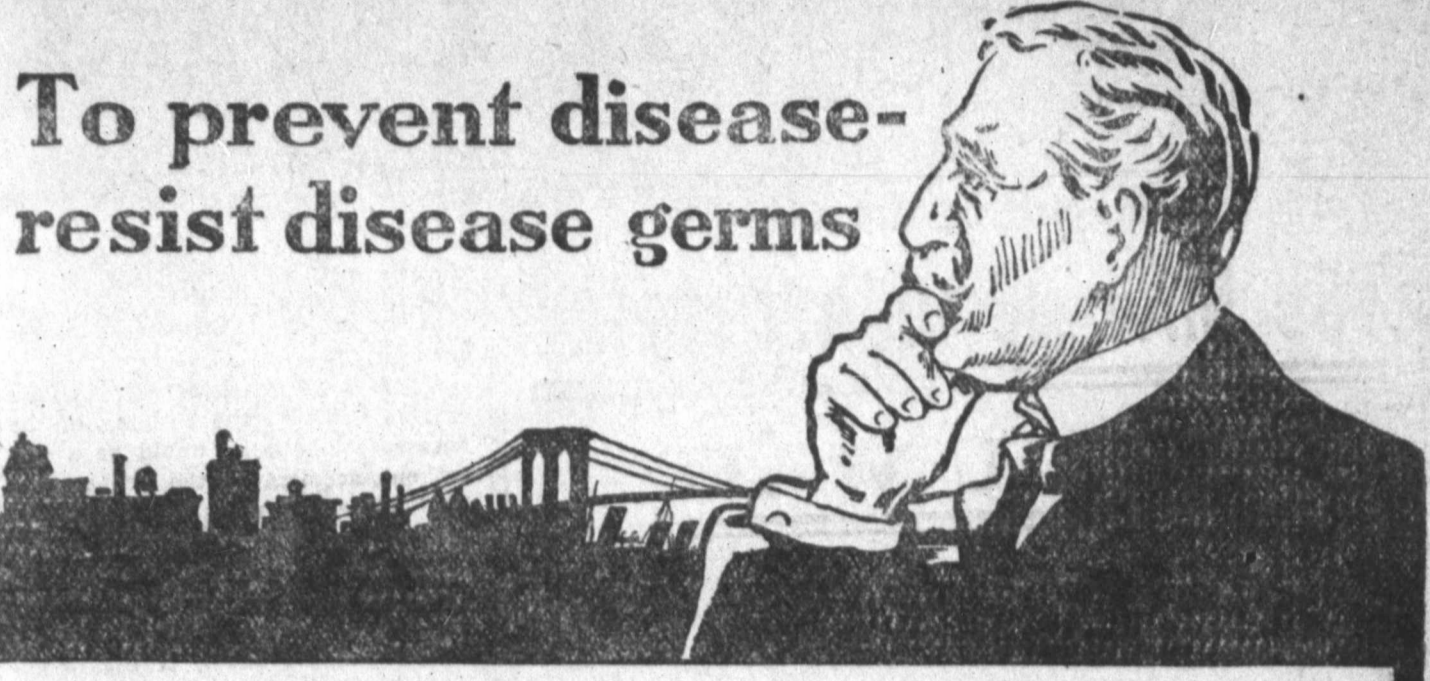

In keeping with this policy, they promised the playgoers of Colorado something out of the ordinary in "The Price She Paid," which held the boards here last Friday night. Nor were those who attended in any way disappointed. We have heard more favorable criticism on this performance than on any seen here in years. The play is unusually strong in its own right, while the company presenting it made a splendid interpretation. The full house expressed its hearty appreciation of the dramatic situations in no uncertain applause. It was moral and educational in its influence and the opera house management is to be congratulated on its enterprise and judgment.

SHOW DAY.

Monday was show day and as the school dismissed for the occasion of course it took quite a number of grown folks to look after the children. It is strange how young children begin to notice the circus and cry to go. One two months old baby had to be taken Monday and we heard the proud young father say "He was taking it all in. It took both the father and mother to see that he saw it all but we imagine the youngster will have to take it in again next year. And lots of the rest of us, too, for it is nice to see the intelligent looking dogs and beautiful ponies act to say nothing of the hearty laughs had by seeing the trick mule and clowns.

To prevent disease— resist disease germs

SMALLPOX is prevented by vaccination — the injection of vaccine. DIPHTHERIA is prevented by the injection of anti-toxin. These enable the body to produce substances which prevent the growth of smallpox and diphtheria germs in the blood. There are many other diseases, nearly, if not quite as dangerous, and far more common — typhoid fever, the grippe, bronchitis, pneumonia, catarrh, rheumatism, and a score of others — that can be prevented less painfully and more easily by making the body strong to resist germ infection.

Rexall TRADE MARK

Olive Oil Emulsion (With Hypophosphites)

Cold weather, over-work, excesses of any kind, are liable to bring about just the conditions under which those latent disease germs will get the upper hand, and put you on your back "down sick." You who are run-down, tired-out, nervous — You who, though not sick enough to give up, still don't feel good — You who are apparently well, and want to stay well — Take home a bottle of Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion today, and use it as a means to get well and keep well. Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion is a real nerve-food tonic. In this it is different from most other so-called "tonics" which either have no food value and do nothing more than temporarily stimulate you, leaving you in a worse condition than before or, having food value, still

MAY BUILD OWN HOME.

The first Tuesday night, November 6th, was the regular meeting night for the W. O. W. lodge. There were some forty members present and when about through with the regular business, about eighteen members of the Woodmen Circle knocked for admittance, and as we always are, we were glad to admit them. They came to ask us to join them in purchasing a suitable lot upon which to erect us a permanent home. After some spirited talks on the subject, the Consul Commander was instructed to appoint a committee of three to act with a like committee from the Circle along the line suggested. We will make the appointment soon. The three dozen Douglas office chairs ordered by the Circle have been installed in the W. O. W. hall and we are anxious to have all new and old chairs full on our next regular meeting night, November 20th. Do not overlook the fact that Monday night, December 1st, is the time to elect officers in the Circle for the new year and that Thursday night, December 4th, is the night to elect officers in the W. O. W. lodge. Whether you attend other meetings during the year or not, you should at least attend on election nights and exercise your privilege in saying who is to look after your part of the business for the next year. We have one new application for November 20th and the way is open for many more.

FAREWELL SERVICES.

Last Sunday marked the closing services of Rev. W. E. Lyon as pastor of the Methodist church here. At the morning hour four were received into the membership of the church and with those it makes a total of 163 that have been received into its folds under his four years pastorate here. At the evening hour all the other pastors called in their appointments and went with their people to show honor to this retiring pastor. The services were informal and concluded by the different pastors, Rev. Lyon talking on "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." He spoke of the pleasant relations with the other churches since unity that had existed in his own denomination and admonished them to continue to walk in the pleasant paths of peace. He then gave a summary under his leadership which indeed should be gratifying to all. In a final way as a spiritual way the church has progressed. The financial report is over four hundred dollars have been expended for various purposes.

In parting with this pastor and his estimable family the entire community does so with sadness for themselves but with the hope that an appreciative church may receive them with open arms and follow their guiding hands. We say their, for Mrs. Lyon is a leader of the highest type and is capable of filling any sphere. She has been the means of organizing and leading both the children and young people here in all their departments of work and will be sadly missed by them. The Record joins their many friends in wishing that they can say of their new home "The lines are fallen into me in pleasant places."

COLORADO, TEXAS NOVEMBER 14, 1913.

Did you get a supply in the "last chance" shipment? Its a long and expensive trip to the nearest wet spot.

Meade Barr seems to be one of that class of liars so notorious and predestined, that if he were indicted for lying and plead guilty a jury would turn him loose. He is about the weakest and sorriest specimen of degenerate and pervert that ever broke into the spotlight of notoriety.

Its indeed an ill wind that does nobody good. While the price of beef and pork is soaring toward celestial constellations and people are grumbling and wondering whatever in the world will they do, the fellow who has no teeth and who has been compelled to adhere to a vegetable and farina diet, sits calmly by and looks with unconcern upon the 75 cent steak his neighbor orders with a sigh.

The impression seems pretty general that the games of ball put on by the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox in return for good money are below the average of games played by country towns. The "rarified atmosphere" of the southwest is urged as being against the players; they can't gauge the distance of the ball in the air or control a pitched ball. They are simply playing this part of the country for suckers.

Joe Pickle, who established the Roscoe Times in 1906 and conducted it until recently, has bought one-third interest in the Snyder Signal, and that paper now flies at its masthead "Hardy, Pickle and Hardy." The Record is glad that Pickle has decided not to leave West Texas, where he fits like a round peg in a round hole, but has formed connection where he will still do good work for this section Hardy, Pickle and Hardy make a strong team, and we look for the Signal to do still better work for its town and county.

Amidst the lavish display of floral tributes sent by friends, associates and relatives to the funeral of the late Edward Morris, the Chicago Millionaire packer—some of the offerings costing hundreds, even thousands of dollars, two modest white roses bearing a single line, were given the place of honor and appreciated most by Mr. Morris' family. The card attached bore the following tribute to the dead millionaire: "I thought more of Mr. Morris than any man in the world.—A Poor Man." This tribute to the rich employer from his poor employe, contains the germ of the principle that must finally solve the harmonious adjustment between capital and labor.

Whenever the St. James block is rebuilt and the Texas & Pacific road puts a neat little park between its passenger station and the express office; whenever, we say, these improvements are made, the old town will take on newness of life and energy. The Record will never lose hope that these things will be done. They are so manifestly needed that the law of eternal fitness will compel their building. A bumper crop next year would greatly hasten their materialization.

Above all things, this country does not want a foreign war, but this last—very last—positively very last declaration of this country's attitude toward Mexico and other nations, is getting to be really Africa and child-like. We cannot believe otherwise than nearly all of this rubbish, day after day about President Wilson's "attitude" and "policy" toward this and that, comes from the space writers at Washington. There's nothing in what they write except the vaguest generalities. Everything they send out is pitched in the realm of possibility. In the same column will appear the statement that "under no circumstances will President Wilson lift the embargo on arms," with another statement that "President Wilson is seriously considering the plan of raising the embargo on arms." The same kind of war dope is dished up daily in Mexico to fill the papers and make them sell. The result is, the people at large are becoming disgusted with such horseplay. It is to be hoped President Wilson has a clearer vision of things than is imputed to him in the columns of rot sent out every day over the country.

The country school teachers give the highest returns to the nation for the wealth placed at their disposal of all her public servants.

Laws can not make a man good at heart, but law can remove the evil influences and temptations and minimize the chances of his going wrong. Were it not for the law, human life could not be protected or property rights secured. Laws nor jails can make a man temperate, but laws can remove the temptations so far from him that it will not be a continual menace to his appetite.

Collier's Weekly says: "The twenty-five truck loads of floral offerings, valued at more than $100,000, which were sent to the Adolphus Busch funeral, is one cause of the increase of the Socialist vote in this country." On the other hand, at the funeral of the millionaire Chicago packer, Morris, two modest white roses, the offering of a "Poor Man", were appreciated above all the costly offerings, by the family of the dead man.

Blood has ever been thicker than water and more abiding than ambition. Although the old lion, Porfirio Diaz has declared he would never return to Mexico except in case of invasion by a foreign foe, it is our opinion if Huerta persists in seeking the life of his nephew, Felix Diaz, the elder Diaz will return to Mexico and stir up such a revolution that will make all gone before look like a holiday picnic. The ties of blood are stronger than patriotism in Mexico.

After vainly spending large amounts of money and having officers killed in an attempt to break up the "moon-shining" business in a certain section of the south, the job was abandoned as a hopeless one. A few years afterward, a number of good roads were built this district of illicit stills, and the moonshiners left it like rats deserting a foundering ship. Bad roads— isolation—difficult travel, is the very citadel of illicit whiskey making. Good roads bring publicity, easy and quick communication, which the business will not stand.

In view of the statement that there is no probability beef or pork will ever be any cheaper than they are today, it does look like raising fish for home use and for market would be a paying industry. There are many farms so situated that nice fish ponds could be made with but little work and expense, and the government will gladly supply all the young fry needed. There is scarcely a time when nice fresh fish will not sell readily in any market, and if the home market become glutted, it is an easy matter to ship the fish to larger towns. The people of west Texas depend almost wholly on the sea coast for their fish, when just as good or better, could be raised here with very little investment. Fish grow rapidly, cost but little to keep and are better food than beef or pork, any day. In Western Kansas, where irrigation is done by the pumping system, many farmers have large fish ponds supplied with pumped water, and raise fish in large quantities for market and home consumption, while the federal fish commission takes all they wish to sell of the small fry.

The prosperity of no country is any greater than the condition of its public roads.

A kind word or pleasant look costs so little and is so potent in its effects, that it seems a crime to withhold it. Many a discouraged man and woman has been checked just on the brink of destruction, just before they took the fatal plunge—by a word of sympathy or a handshake of encouragement. This writer once knew a man who had the reputation of being a chronic fault finder and knocker. His repellent aspect and short words kept people aloof from him, and he grew more resentful toward his fellows as the days went by. We met him one Sunday afternoon taking a walk. We spoke with a nod in passing, but something accused us of speaking to him just as he had spoken to us, and we turned and apologized for so curt a salutation holding out our hand in token of our friendly feeling. Almost at the touch, the man's mask fell from him and he turned aside his head to hide his tears. "My friend," he said, "this is just the very thing my heart has been hungering for since I've been in the town. It seemed the people did not like me, and I began to dislike them. I had just about decided to give up the fight and go to the devil at once; nobody cared for me; no one had ever tried to encourage me in the fight I have been making, and I felt that I was alone. I see now, the fault has been as much mine as others; I appeared repellent to them and they appeared the same to me. A friendly slap on the back, a hearty handshake or pleasant 'good morning' would have broken the crust of distrust and sourness, and my heart would have gone out to every man I met." From that time forward this man was changed in his attitude to his fellows and himself. He braced up; squared his shoulders, and in the friendly encouragement of his fellows, soon became one of the most influential men for good in all that community. The word, or smile or slap on the back, may be just the little spark of sympathy that touches off a barrel of powder. Many have gone to the devil for lack of one word of sympathy at the critical time. If we can not know when this critical time occurs, the only safe rule is to make a habit of giving the word and smile and handshake to every human being every time we meet them.

Less than 7000 families in Mexico own all the arable land in that republic. If the land distribution in Mexico were proportionately the same as in the United States, one million Mexican families would be owners of homes and farms. In the state of Morelos, where the rebel, Zapata is operating, twelve men own nine-tenths of the farming property. In Chihuahua, the Terrazas family hold 20,000,000 acres, which is practically all the tillable land in that state. Yucatan is owned by thirty men, kings of the sisal hemp industry. In Quintana Roo, which is twice the size of the state of Mississippi, eight companies divide the land between themselves. In the United States and European countries, the farmer is a humble and private citizen; in Mexico the farmer is king of Millionaires. The typical farm of Mexico is not 80, 160, 320 or 640 acres, but more frequently more than 1,000,000. The Madero family hold in the state of Coahuila alone, several million acres of the very finest farming land, much of it irrigated land for raising cotton.

WHEN ITS DRY IN KANSAS.

The recent drouth in Kansas was hard on the mushroom newspapers that sprang up in every community. After trying every economy possible, had the reputation of being able to eat and eat but one short order meal per day, the editor of the "Rainbow" makes the following remarks and turned his face eastward:

"We wouldn't believe a raincloud under oath. Cattle have been living on evaporated grass for six weeks. It has been the hardest year on chinch bugs since Noah pulled in the gang plank. Birds of the air have nests and foxes have holes, but bug juice has failed. Alfalfa, which heretofore had hte reputation of being able to grow to water, has gone and come back with a bucket of dust. Alfalfa's fungus is hanging out and she is alfalfaing about two bushels per acre. Kaffir corn is spitting cotton. Apples are making a hard fight, but the hot winds have given "Malden Blushes" the skin and complexion of a buckskin glove. Advance fall styles recommend eating apples this winter with a meat grinder. The guy who put the pump in pumpkins is not able to furnish the water, and this luscious vegetable will have to be treated like an ordinary navy bean and soaked overnight before using. Rivers have gone dry and creeks and tanks have gone to dust; everything else has gone to—"

Norway has adopted a new language. For 400 years the people have spoken the Danish language, but from now on will use a language invented by a Norwegian philologist, Ivar Jansen, and will be known as Landsmaal. Next thing the English will take to speaking English.

STANDS FIRM

PRESIDENT WILSON'S CABINET STANDS WITH HIM IN MEXICAN POLICY.

GENERAL HUERTA MUST GO

United States Will Not Take One Backward Step Regarding Constitutional Government in Mexico.

DRASTIC ACTION OPENLY FAVORED
Would Convince General Huerta United States Is in Earnest in Its Demands

Washington, Nov. 12.—President Wilson's cabinet stands firmly behind him in his efforts to force the retirement of Provisional President Huerta as a necessary step to the pacification of Mexico. For more than two hours the cabinet discussed today every phase of the Mexican situation. The consensus of opinion was that the United States should not take a single backward step in its program to restore constitutional government in Mexico.

Would Convince Huerta.
It became known tonight that all the secretaries favored steps which would convince Huerta that the United States was in earnest in its demands. Some of the cabinet members recognized in the lifting of the embargo on arms a practical and perhaps early solution of the difficulty but there was no final decision on the point. There is a hope on the part of the president and Secretary Bryan that a measure so radical as permitting exports of arms may not be required to solve the problem.

Influences at Work.
Influences are at work which, in the opinion of many officials, may force the early collapse of the Huerta regime. There is a closer understanding and more frequent communication between the state department here and foreign governments generally than has been in evidence at any time since the Mexican problem became so widely international. Through ambassadors abroad and through the diplomatic corps in Washington, Secretary Bryan is giving such detailed information of the American policy as to leave no doubt of what the United States wishes accomplished.

Foreign Support Unasked.
As far as known there has been no direct requests for foreign support. What the United States is seeking is an acquiescence in its policy by the powers, such an approval to carry with it discouragement of financial aid to the Huerta regime through foreign channels. A few weeks of financial isolation, it is believed by high officials here, will force the retirement of Huerta.

Another Statement Coming.
That President Wilson might possibly issue a statement in a day or two making a comprehensive explanation of the purposes of the United States was indicated by some of the diplomats. The President, it is said has not finally determined whether he shall make another pronouncement but it has been suggested to him that such a declaration might place on record before the world the reasons why the elections of president, vice president and members of congress in Mexico could not be recognized by the United States. It is reported that in this connection, too, the president may announce the repudiation in advance of any acts of the new congress which General Huerta has said would be convened on November 20.

With Senate Committee.
President Wilson was in communication again today through Senator Bacon with members of the senate committee, Republican and Democrats president feels that members of the alike, are supporting the policy of the executive and he is giving serious consideration to their views as to the removal of the embargo on arms.

It was reported today that Sir Edward Tyrell, private secretary to the British foreign minister, Sir Edward Grey, had obtained Secretary Bryan's views on the situation and had transferred them in a long report to London. The British ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, is still confined to his bed.

Denies Nogales Report.
Senor De La Vega, Cuban charge here, issued a statement denying for his government a recent report from Nogales, Sonora, that two Cuban warships had been offered to the Mexican Constitutionalists at a conference between General Carranza and a Cuban commission headed by Pablo Menocal, brother of the president of Cuba. Senor Menocal, the statement said, went to Sonora on an exclusively commercial trip.

PERSPECTIVE IS NEEDED.

We can never get a correct and proportionate view of anything when close up against it. It requires perspective to give correct ideas and estimates. A dollar bill held too close to the eyes will obscure all else. This is true in our estimate of business and industrial conditions. We who live in a town and seldom go beyond its corporate limits become so familiar with and close to, everybody and everything in it, that we are not capable of judging men and conditions correctly. Everything grows stale and flat; we imagine the town and people in it, have become set—reached the end of possible development and are going backward. We have nothing to compare them with, no measure for their rate of movement or standard by which to judge their development. But if we go away to other towns and examine people and conditions then, we come to have some sort of idea of a standard; of what a good town and progressive people should be. We get a perspective and can stand our town and people up by the side of it and see just how far short or long they measure with it. We will also learn that there is at last, little difference between towns of the same class. The people of Colorado who knock the town most, and are always citing some other town as a model for what a town should be, are usually of that class who rarely leave town. They may know all the bad points about Colorado, but they only know the good features of the towns they boast. Ask a stick-at-home knocker who lives in the boasted town about his home town, and he'll tell the same tale about it that the Colorado stick-at-home citizen tells about his town. They hold the town too close to their eyes to see anything else but its undesirable features.

Colorado has held its own the past few years with any town of its class in West Texas. The big booms we hear of in other towns near by, won't stand investigation. We dare say there is as much construction and improvement going forward today in Colorado as in any of its business competitors. Colorado has not gone in much for booming things since the town has gotten its second wind, and is now on a firm agricultural foundation. Take the stories you hear of other places doing so much, with a grain of salt. Try to find the good features; about your own home and make the most of them. Take the bad features from your eyes and get a perspective; then you'll see things in their correct proportion and relation.

We call attention to the article on the Texas Liquor Law, in this issue, which will become of force on the 19th instant. A great many have very vague ideas as to the precise meaning of this law, which this article will clear up and make plain. The vital point of the law is that it will be unlawful to receive a shipment of liquor by any person living in dry territory, no matter where it is shipped from; the fine being not less than $25 nor more than $250, with a jail term of 20 to 60 days. It will be unlawful to handle it.

Then refreshments were served and all departed after wishing the charming hostess goodnight.

A VALUABLE SUGGESTION.

Important to Everyone. It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood. During the winter months especially, when we live an indoor life, the kidneys should receive some assistance when needed, as we take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than Nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, annoying bladder troubles, smarting or burning brick-dust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, may be weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble. Many physicians claim that an herbal medicine containing no minerals or opiates has the most healing influence. An ideal herbal compound that has had most remarkable success as a kidney and bladder remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcels Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention the Colorado Weekly Record.

PLAINVIEW POINTS.

Bro. A. D. Leach preached last Sunday two fine sermons and had large audiences both morning and night. Sunday school was held in the morning on account of it being preaching day. There was a good crowd at the singing at Mr. G. B. Copeland's last Sunday evening. We have been forgetting the news of several weeks ago that Mr. Harvey Leach has got a new buggy and that he is sure proud of it. Mr. Roden Pickens has been sick for some time and is able to be about again we are glad to say, we have missed him sorely at Sunday school lately. The boys met last Friday night and organized a literary society, with Ollie Copeland, chairman, pro tem., and elected the following officers: Bruce Aycock, pres.; Walter Bearden, vice-president; Andrew Kelly secretary; Mark Bynum, sergeant at arms; Harvey Leach, critic. The following committees was appointed by the chairman: On program—Miss Rosa Leach, Miss Addie Johnson, Cloy Costin, Olen Howell, Harvey Leach. On constitution and by laws—Miss Ora Smith, Miss Auda Posey, Guy Hart, Shankell Costin, Walter Franklin. Much enthusiasm was manifested and the members are looking forward to many occasions of entertainment and pleasure.

PRINCE CHARMING.

A TRIED AND PROVED GUARANTEE

Man Bought a Bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic, Then Took It Back and Asked for His Money and Got It. A man recently tried out the guarantee which Floyd Beall gives with every bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic. He bought a bottle and then went back to the drug store and said the medicine hadn't helped him. This druggist just reached into his cash register and took out a half dollar, the price of the bottle of Liver Tonic, and handed it back to the gentleman. But he didn't take the money. He owned up that he was just trying the guarantee and, as a matter of fact, he had found Dodson's Liver Tonic the best remedy for constipation and biliousness he had ever tried. "Why," he said, "my wife wouldn't be without a bottle in the house for anything. It's the best thing in the world for the whole family, and the medicine that I prefer to take or to give to my children for a lazy liver." Floyd Beall sells Dodson's Liver Tonic and guarantees it to start the liver without violence. It is taking the place of calomel everywhere. If you buy a bottle and don't find this pleasant-tasting vegetable liquid the best thing to start a lazy liver, he will hand your money back with a smile.

WILL SUBMIT GOOD ROAD BILL.

Senator Bankhead Frames Measures Asking for $25,000,000 Appropriation by Congress. St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 12.—Senator Bankhead of Alabama, president of the United States Good Roads Association, today submitted to the National convention a bill providing for a Federal appropriation of $25,000,000 for good road work. Senator Bankhead expects to introduce it at the next session of Congress. The bill provides that the $25,000,000 shall be divided among various States in proportion as they contribute to road work. Gov. Major of Missouri was appointed chairman of a committee to call on the Governors of all States to set aside certain days in each year as good roads days. Fifty business men from Tulsa arrived today to work for that city as the 1914 meeting place.

Railroads The Country's Friends.

The Record, under its present management, has always been a friend of the Texas & Pacific Railway. As in every other public service, things often times go wrong and individuals as well as communities, are frequently disappointed; its traffic often gets balled up and its schedules are woefully demoralized; but we realize the company is doing the best it can to serve the people, and allowances are always made. We can well afford to put up with small inconveniences when we consider that for many years nearly one-quarter of the area of Texas depended on the Texas & Pacific to feed, clothe and develop it. The road took the stuff to market and brought back supplies on which the people depended for their very sustenance. The road has always been ahead of the country in development, and aside from supplying the immediate material needs of the country, the Texas & Pacific road has been the chief factor in settling and developing West Texas. That all this was in the interest of the road itself, is wholly beside the fact, that without the road there had not been much west Texas. It was the artery that fed the life blood to the country for many years. It is the largest, promptest and most cheerful taxpayer in the country. No matter how many other roads may gridiron this part of the state; how fine and up to now their equipment; how fast their schedules and urbane their employees, there is yet a loyalty due the "Old Reliable" for pushing into this wild and woolly country, and developing it before getting returns. And the road appreciates its friends and every friendly comment made upon it. In a personal letter recently received from the General Superintendent of the road, he said: "The railroads of today need friends as never before. I note with a great deal of delight your editorial comment regarding the Texas & Pacific railway. I wish to thank you in behalf of the road. Its success of operation and town and community building, has come steadily, and is of the lasting kind." Railroads have been regarded as legitimate spoils by the horde of damage suit lawyers and their willing tools, and the docket of the courts is rarely free of suits for some alleged damage. It seems to be the rule to "soak the railroads," but we have noticed that when approached in a spirit of fairness and justice, the railroads have been more than willing to do the right thing in every instance.

MANY NEW CLASSES.

Grass and Feeder Cattle and Jerseys Will Have Inning at Fort Worth Show From November 22 to 29.

Every livestock producer in Texas will find something to interest him at the National Feeders and Breeders Show, which will be held in Fort Worth November 22 to 29. Beginning on a comparatively small scale some eighteen years ago, the show has grown rapidly until today it is representative of every class and type of livestock that is produced in Texas. More improvements have been made within the past year than ever before in its history. Many classes in all divisions have been added. Prominent among the new classes are those for grass and feeder cattle. In previous years, the National Feeders and Breeders Show has specialized on fat cattle—the marketable kind—but it has been brought to the realization that the other classes had a right to substantial recognition. During the past two years, Fort Worth has leaped into prominence as the second greatest feeder market in the world. These added classes are expected to bring a host of new exhibitors and feeder buyers from all over the Southwest—in fact, the entire country—are being apprised of the exhibit and are expected to flock to Fort Worth by the hundreds during the show. Realizing the growing importance of the Jersey industry in the Southwest—particularly in Texas—the management of the show has created classes for this kind of cattle this fall for the first time. Already, a number of entries have been received and it is expected that the exhibit will be the finest in the Jersey line ever witnessed in Texas. The last year prize-winning herd, which has swept like wildfire through the shows of the North, will exhibit at Fort Worth alone of the big Texas shows this fall. More than $17,000 in prizes will be awarded at the great livestock exposition this fall, to say nothing of a prize list of more than $8,000, which will be offered in the night Horse Show. This is the largest premium list yet issued and the exhibitors throughout the State are showing their appreciation by sending in their entries earlier than ever before. Despite the fact that the change of date from spring to fall will interfere at first with the bull sales of the producer, the step has met with almost unqualified approval.

PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION OF PRACTICAL IRRIGATION

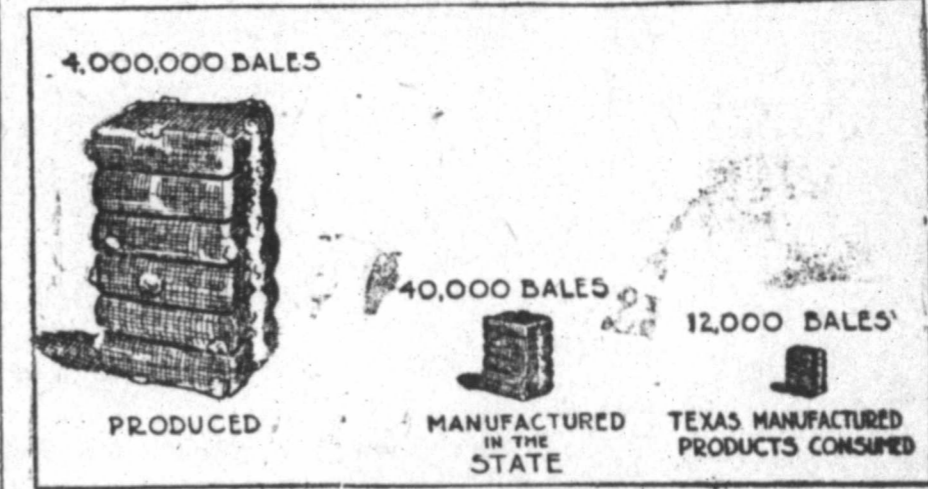

THE public is invited to witness a public demonstration of pump irrigation on the place of L. R. Tilley, half mile south of Colorado, next SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15, AT 2 P. M.

Ratliff & Wyatt have just installed a 15-horsepower oil engine and centrifugal pump, delivering 750 gallons of water from the river per minute with a lift of 40 feet. All those contemplating putting in a pumping irrigation plant should investigate this one. It answers every question and settles every doubt as to whether they can have one just like it.

The pump will start at 2 o'clock sharp next Saturday evening, and we wish everyone who can, would be present.

MRS. C. E. WILLIAMS IS CALLED TO HER REWARD

The death of Mrs. Maggie May Williams, wife of Chas. E. Williams, brought sorrow to the hearts of many friends and acquaintances of long standing. Death occurred Tuesday, November 4, 1913, at the family residence in Coleman, following an extended illness of tuberculosis. Funeral services were conducted on Wednesday following, Rev. W. H. Howard of the Methodist church administering the funeral rites. Mrs. Williams was a devoted wife, a kind mother and consecrated Christian. Besides the bereaved husband, mother, sisters and brothers, one child survives her. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jackson, pioneer citizens of Coleman, who enjoyed a wide acquaintance during the frontier days of this section of Texas. Mrs. Jackson, the mother, whose home is in Colorado City, had been with her daughter in Coleman during the past several months of her fatal illness. Born November 29, 1875, she died in the last month of her thirty-eighth year.

who can be the landowner or tenant.

The owner is often engaged in other business and he rents to a tenant, usually called shiftless. Let us deal for the moment with the shiftless class and see what inducement there is for a man with capital to supplement the owner's resources in the land, to increase the value of the property. Shiftless No. 2 succeeds shiftless No. 1, at least, we will call him No. 1 though there have been as many shiftlesses previously as enter into the lineage of a pedigreed bull pup. The place is in the condition of cumulative retrogression of generations of shiftless and I, being shiftless, do the best I can for myself. Let us consider what happens when an energetic renter with $5,000 or $10,000 capital comes along, and what does the landlord usually offer him? First, a one year lease, because he may want to sell the farm; and the energetic renter presses on, because he knows he can't begin to get results in one year, or two or three, but must have a long term lease that shall give him the benefit of one or two rotations of crops, and he passes on till at least this requirement is met, or to some other business, especially if he cannot find a location in some other than a shiftless neighborhood, whose school and social advantages have been neglected. There is another class of renter who has brawn and brains, the very thing the landlord has not opportunity to apply to the land. Yet he will get the offer of a one year lease and a division of the crop on the message system, at the threshing machine or sheller, which has been the curse of every country that ever adopted it. The landlord knows, if he is fit to own land, that the crops should be fed on the place and that his interest is in the land and its fertility, yet he will want a man who raises seventy-five bushels of corn to the acre instead of fifty by manuring, good cultivation and clover, to pay him the same proportion of seventy-five as of fifty bushels, which he has been to the expense of gathering. A tenant with brains knows that a farmer should work twelve months in the year, not six, and that he should do likewise, but if the landlord markets his corn he will probably do the same unless he has a lease, and even then in some cases because he knows the land will not hold its fertility if the crop is sold off every two or three years in the landlord's share. There is enough inducement for the tenant to sell at present prices anyway, and it is famous for the landlord to increase them. Shiftless landlord's are the direct cause of shiftless tenants and produce them in increasing ratio year by year.

It Always Helps

says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill.

Headache, backache, side ache, nervousness, tired, worn-out feelings, etc., are sure signs of womanly trouble. Signs that you need Cardui, the woman's tonic. You cannot make a mistake in trying Cardui for your trouble. It has been helping weak, ailing women for more than fifty years.

Get a Bottle Today!

Light in Texas.

Even Texas is becoming weary of railroad baiting. The largest State in the Union appears to realize that it is not likely to get the fifteen thousand miles or more of new road needed for the development of its resources by continuing its policy of hostility to investors. The commercial boards of several towns and cities are passing resolutions condemning the course to the Attorney General of Texas in suing the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad for $15,000,000 in penalties and for the forfeiture of its charter. The latest protest comes from the Chamber of Commerce of Denison; it is represented that the suit "is ill-timed and is in direct conflict with the expressed will and desire of two Legislatures," and is calculated "to keep capital out of Texas." That would not enhance the prosperity of the State.

Not long ago the oil companies of Texas were fined several hundred thousands of dollars. The willingness of the oil men to plead guilty and escape further annoyance was explained a few days later when the prices of oil and gasoline were marked up. The fines thus were paid by the consumers, who had nothing to do with the litigation. But in the case of the railroads it is not so easy to put the burden of a policy of confiscation upon shippers. The roads in existence must be operated under conditions imposed by the State, whether or not their owners are allowed to make anything. But people with money can not be forced to build new roads. It is remarkable that a State which is only partly developed should be so long in comprehending this simple proposition.—Providence (R. I.) Journal.

A HAPPY CHILD IN JUST A FEW HOURS

When Cross, Constipated or if Feverish Give "California Syrup of Figs" Then Don't Worry.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed. Liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it cannot cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomachache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Mr. C. W. Post, head of the great Postum Company of Battle Creek, Mich., addressed the advertisers of America recently, and following is an extract from his address, which has a lesson for many a "ne'er do well":

One day in a cutlery factory in Sheffield, England, wife and I were watching a smith forge a blade; the little piece of steel heated to a bright cherry red was shaped under the hammer, then heated again in the fire and hammered until it was dull gray then heated and hammered again and again until wife remarked that it seemed useless after it was first formed to heat and hammer it over and over; it didn't change its shape anyhow; and she wondered how the little blade could stand the hundreds of savage blows. The smith knew that if the blade was sent out to service after being perfectly formed without the long hammering, the edge would turn, and it would be thrown into the discard with other failures. Every blow of the hammer put something into the little blade which could not be seen, but was there, and when the test of hard service came the edge stood true and would neither turn nor crumble. So that powerful Hand which forges human blades, strikes many a blow in the process and evidently "There's a Reason."

Tackle the work just in front of you. Strive in an honest way to do the best you can, and if, having done your best, there seems to appear the hand of some Overruling Power which hammers you, take it like a good piece of steel and come right off the anvil with a better temper and a keener edge. Keep honest, patient and willing to have the missing ingredient pounded into you, and my word for it, the day will come when you will have a reverent respect for a Mighty Hand that is beneficent and kind after all.

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETS"

Sits, Calomel and Pyllys acts on Liver And Bowels Like Pepper acts in Nostrils—Danger!

Get a 10-cent box now. Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One night as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

LADIES AID.

The Baptist Aid Society had a business meeting at the church last Thursday, with a full attendance. Two new members were heartily received in the membership. After the regular business a box was packed for the Buckner Orphans' Home at Dallas which amounted to one hundred and thirty dollars. There were all kinds of clothing in it, nice new warm hand made quilts to cover the little ones with and there was clothing for big boys and little boys and all kind of things for the girls too. The ladies take great pleasure in fixing the boxes for the Home, in fact they feel like the Spring or Fall sewing is not complete till they have sent a box to the Orphans.

A crusade of education which aims "that common colds may become uncommon within the next generation" has been begun by prominent New York physicians. Here is a list of the "don'ts" which the doctors say will prevent the annual visitation of the cold:

"Don't sit in a draughty car." "Don't sleep in hot rooms." "Don't avoid the fresh air." "Don't stuff yourself at meal time. Over eating reduces your resistance." To which we would add—when you take a cold get rid of it as quickly as possible. To accomplish that you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy most excellent. Sold by W. L. Doss.

Why the Wagner Starter Is on the Studebaker Car

The electric starter came on the market and, at once, stamped as obsolete many of the best cars. "My kingdom for a starter" was the attitude of automobile manufacturer. Instantly there was opened to builders of motors a new field, rich and alluring. Many rushed in.

The Wagner Electric Manufacturing Company did not.

They realized that new things reach perfection only through evolution.

Wagner, Quality was the mark set for the Wagner Starter, and Wagner, Quality does not fall short of perfection. So the marketing of the Wagner Starter was held back and the evolution was pushed on in the Wagner shops—not on the public highways.

Automobile manufacturers, knowing the Wagner standing in the electrical world, urged us to equip their cars.

"In time we will," was our reply, "but not until the starter has developed perfection and we can put it out as truly representative of Wagner, Quality."

DEVELOPED IN LOW TEMPERATURES

Realizing that the severest test of a starter comes in cold weather, we perfected the Wagner Starter in low temperatures. In Winter it was tested under the most trying conditions. In Summer the tests were conducted in cold storage.

After three years of painstaking study and development, Wagner, Quality was attained and the Wagner Company was ready to offer its starter service to automobile makers.

A starter was built especially for the Studebaker Car. The Studebaker Corporation tested it in a most grueling way—and it never failed.

The ability of the generator to keep the battery charged, while running at slow speed, and with frequent stops, and yet not overcharge it, when running at high speed, is the supreme test of a starter.

A Studebaker car, equipped with the Wagner Starter, was run continuously for 8 hours—stopping and starting the engine every two blocks, without the semblance of hesitation on the part of the starter.

The car was then taken to the factory and, while standing and not generating current, the engine was stopped and started 800 times, without a failure, and then run on the battery a full minute and a half, before the charge was exhausted.

These tests proved Wagner, Quality—and that is the starter you will get on a Studebaker car this year.

The Studebaker Corporation got what they wanted—a starter perfectly suited to the car. And we got what we wanted—what is probably the largest starter contract on the market.

Our factory is working at full capacity, to fill this contract and two others. Next year our capacity will be increased and other good cars will be exclusively equipped with Wagner Starters.

The Wagner Starter is designed especially for the car it equips. It cannot be put on any car, but must be built into the car, as a part of it.

If you want Wagner, Quality in a starter, you can get it only by owning a car made by a manufacturer who had the foresight to equip it with a Wagner Starter.

The object of this advertisement is not to sell you a Wagner Starter. It is to inform those who do not know the significance of the term Wagner, Quality in the electrical world, what it means to own a car that is equipped with a Wagner Starter.

If you are not posted on electrical reputations, ask your electric light man about the Wagner Company. He will tell you that they are electrical engineering specialists of the highest rank.

The Wagner Company does not attempt to manufacture everything electrical. They specialize on devices that require the highest electrical skill. These they develop to a state of perfection. The Wagner Company stands.

SUPREME AS MANUFACTURERS OF THE SINGLE PHASE MOTOR.

Among their many achievements they have developed and perfected:

A highly successful single-phase converter for charging electric automobiles.

A thoroughly efficient rectifier for charging small lighting and ignition batteries.

A practical adjustable speed, single-phase, alternating current motor.

A perfect unity power factor, single-phase motor.

To the initiated these achievements are sufficient guarantee of success for the Wagner Starter.

FOOLING THE NEWSPAPER.

It's not an easy matter to "run a blazer" over a country newspaper, even though it has but a dozen circulation. Whatever it prints, somebody will read it and tell it to everyone who does not read the paper. There once lived a very pompous circulating preacher in the village where this writer lived (and we never had a clear idea of what the word "pomposity" meant till we met this fellow) who thought it smart and cunning to fool the newspaper when he went anywhere. We met him at the depot one morning and seeing him equipped for travelling asked his destination and length of stay. He looked us over with a hard-boiled eye and a smirk and said: "I'm going to San Francisco and may be gone all summer. Now you've got a news item." We knew positively, he was going only to the next station, and that he also was to begin a camp meeting in the adjoining county the next week. But we were not supposed to know these things. We had asked him a straight honest question and had every right to take his answer with equal honesty. So, the next day the little paper announced that "Rev. Melchizedek Howler left on the west-bound train yesterday morning for San Francisco, where, it was possible, he might remain all summer. The paper had its largest circulation in the community where he was to begin the camp meeting next week, and when these people, say nothing of his wife, read that little item, they got busy. No one knew anything about it. They came to our office, but all we could say was, we had asked him his destination and he had told us. Next day His Reverence blew in himself, swelled up bigger than a bladder. "Why in the name of common sense, etc, did you publish that lie about me in your contemptible little sheet?" We reminded him that if any lie had been told, he must have told it. We had asked him an honest question and it lay entirely with him to give a straight or a crooked answer, and he had chosen to give us an untruth. We told him, if for any reason he wished nothing said of his trip, the way would have been to request it, not try to bluff, as the paper had every advantage of us when he tried deception. This bluffing of sucking that particular part of eggs.

HOMESTEAD LAW A MENACE TO SMALL FARMERS.

(Frank Putnam in St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)
Addressing the house a few years ago Speaker Champ Clark praised the Texas as homestead law. Under this law, he said, no Texan can mortgage his home. He wished Missouri and all other states had a law like it, to protect wives and children from being made homeless by debt.
The truth is, the Texas homestead law has done more than all other factors combined to make the farm families of Texas homeless, and landless. And the federal census report on Texas farms, 1910, shows that more than 49 per cent of all such families are today landless tenants or renters, moving from place to place, year after year; single cropping the land to corn or cotton, robbing the soil of its fertility, living in shacks often without even the crudest sanitary conveniences; depriving their children of permanent home or schooling, and creating a fixed class distinction, and a class hatred, as between town-dwelling farm landlords and tenants, which promises soon to become the chief political and economic issue in Texas.
The Texas homestead law, briefly has produced exactly the opposite result from that which it was expected to get. Today it stands as apparently impassable barrier across the path of the men who are trying to introduce into Texas the benefits of co-operative banking and credit associations, designed, following the German model, to get cheap money for farmers.
It is a barrier, because it forbids the small farmer to mortgage his farm for funds with which to improve or enlarge it, or even to save it in a year of crop failure. As a rule, the small farmer in Texas has little or no property, over and above his homestead with its appurtenant tools and execution-proof livestock, on which he might borrow money. Therefore he can't borrow, no matter how serious his need, unless he is one of the relatively few who have established exceptionally good personal credit. Even then he is compelled by his local banker to pay a rate for money which the average city business man would deem extortionate.
When a year or two of crop failure comes--and such years come at irregular intervals in all new farming counties, where most people start with scant capital and few people know how to get best results from soil and climate--the small farmer has neither cash nor credit to tide him over. He has only one asset on which he can realize, or provide his family and his team with food--his farm. For that he must accept what he can get--or starve with empty bins. His wife's consent to sell the homestead is enforced by their mutual need to live, on any terms. If he could mortgage it, they might pull through with a good year or two ahead, and save their home. But the homestead law forbids placing a mortgage on the home. That law, in effect, treats the small home owner as an incompetent as one who cannot be trusted to manage his property with the same freedom, in emergencies, that is the privilege of citizens of other states. It is a perfect illustration of what happens when professional political reformers, filled with a fine rage to act as guardians of their equal fellow citizens, succeed only in trying their intended beneficiaries--hands behind their backs.

The forced sale of Texas farm homesteads, as above indicated, has taken place in tens of thousands of instances during the past three decades. Land speculators--either prosperous merchants or bankers in nearby county towns, or companies organized for that purpose--stand ready to relieve the farmer's need by taking his homestead off his hands at a title of its real value.
The small farmer in Missouri, Iowa or Illinois, his land being paid for, can mortgage it to get money with which to buy teams, tools seed, fertilizer; to build fences or clear timber--in a word, for anything that will make his homestead more productive. The weakness of the system is that having mortgaged his homestead to get money for one of these useful purposes, he is quite free to spend the money for a piano or an automobile or a gold brick or a short flush in a poker game, red liquor or anything else he sees fit to buy. There is no power, of law or public opinion, to control his use of the money borrowed. If he spends it foolishly, he loses his homestead when the mortgage falls due.
The peculiar merit of the German system, which public men of Texas and other states are now trying to introduce into this country under state laws, and which President Wilson has promised shall have the Washington government's attention during the next regular session of congress, is that the credit associations which loan money for farm improvements are composed of and deal with none but members of small groups of neighboring farmers. Each knows all about the affairs of all the others. And they make sure (since the credit of all, including their homesteads, is pledged jointly to get the cash so loaned), that it shall be applied to exactly that use for which the borrower gets it.

If a Texas small farmer wishes to buy improved farm machinery, or clear and fence a new field, or otherwise, increase the earning power of his property, by investment of new capital, he cannot, like the farmer of Missouri, or Iowa, or Illinois, mortgage his farm to get the money. Unless his personal credit is gut-edged he cannot get it at all. This phase of the Texas homestead law has inflicted heavy hardships on tens of thousands of families that have settled in Texas during the past ten years, with just enough cash to buy small farms, but not enough to improve and equip them. To many of these settlers, the knowledge that they could not "raise money on their land" has come as a bitter disappointment. They had figured on doing this, just as they might have done in the states from which they came.
Most Texas politicians are as yet afraid even to suggest a fault in the homestead law. It is one of the "sacred cows" of the big state. Yet these politicians, or the older ones among them, have seen this law chiefly instrumental in dispossessing an army of farm families, and have seen it of use chiefly to those backward citizens who take refuge behind their exemptions to avoid paying their fair share of special taxes for good roads and other social betterments.

THE HISTORY OF THE EARTH

As It Was Recorded on the Rocks by the Physical Forces of the Universe.

By Thomas Fletcher Scott.

Copyright Applied For

PREFACE.

It has been a perplexing question for Geologists and Modern Scientists how to account for the flood marks on our highest mountains, the ice marks in the warm belt, the heat marks in the cold region, and the many evidences given by the rocks, without supposing that the world has undergone many changes of temperature, or without supposing the world has undergone many violent upheavals that caused its surface to sink and rise—turning continents into seas and seas into continents. Therefore all these theories are based upon suppositions and not on the existing facts.

It is my intention to account for all these things by the natural laws and existing conditions,—the forces that are operating today. It is my intention to prove that the two poles are great basins into which the water has and will recede when it leaves our islands in the sea towering mountains and our ocean shallows great continents. It all rests on the fact that there are two great basins, therefore I call it the Polar Basin Theory.

In postulating my theory I will condense the evidences into the very brief form, and in doing this I realize that I lay myself liable to criticism. But to save expense and time and to avoid the tediousness of dwelling on a dull and tiresome subject, I have determined to present these facts as briefly as it is possible to do so. Therefore I ask your careful consideration of my claims

THOMAS FLETCHER SCOTT.

BEFORE we can understand the evidences, as they were recorded by the physical forces in nature, we must first refresh our memory by briefly reviewing some of the most important facts that are deducible from the latest philosophies. We must first understand the nature of the evidences that are recorded in the rocks: We must also understand the causes and the physical forces that left these marks upon the rocks. We must locate the ancient ice sheets that once lay in the temperate zones and must recognize the fact that there is also evidence of a heat, or warm period, recorded in the rocks of the polar regions.

We should also have an adequate conception of the various formation of the earth, its exact shape, its natural curvature, and the natural laws that govern it today. Hence it is necessary for us to review some of the essential facts before we proceed with the Polar Basin Theory. When we think of the world with its sweeping oceans, its great continents, rolling plains and lofty mountains, we are inclined to regard them as fixed and as unchangeable as the universe itself. But when we realize that the deep ocean basins, the great continents, the lofty mountains with their majestic peaks, the gentle streams and the leaping cataracts are all the results of the physical forces that are operating today, then we begin to enquire and search for the causation. If we have an adequate conception of the physical causes, then we will know that they are not fixtures but are gradually undergoing a change. We know that our mountains and towering peaks are gradually yielding to the ceaseless ravages of time and tempest and that the stealthy torrents carry its detritus back to the seas and we realize that in the course of ceaseless time the last particle of what was once our beautiful mountains will slip beneath the ocean's waves to be used in building other mountains and peaks. No reasonable person will deny that this must be the ultimate end of our hills and mountains, if this relentless waste by time and tempest continues. If the map of the world is eternally fixed, some day, in the distant future all the hills and plains would be carried by gravity (using water as its vehicle) back to the sea level and will fill up the deep sea bottoms and spread the ocean's water over the land and not a particle of land will raise its head above the storm waves. But just in proportion to the waste of the land we see that the islands and sea-shallows are growing, so the land's loss is the sea's gain, and we know that the islands that now stand two to three miles high in the deep sea bottom, with their wave-washed summits just above the water, must some day be left by the ocean's water and will then be towering mountains with their summits high above clouds. We know that this must occur or the world will some day be mountainless. We also know that the seas are gradually filling up. The many shells of its little creatures, the protozoa, the Radiata, the Mollusk and various creatures that flourish in the warm shallows of the tropical seas build up the islands and fill up the sea bottom. We also realize that the detritus from the land and the fossiliferous matter from the sea shallows will some day fill up the seas and drive the water up over the land, if this process does not cease or the growing seas are not turned into the wasting land and the wasting land turned into growing seas.

We are led to inquire how all of this could be brought about without disturbing the earth's surface or without an uprising of the sea bottom and a sinking of the land. There is but one reasonable way to account for it and that is by the Polar Basin Theory. Confronted with these significant facts, we should search the rock for evidences to see if our land was once a sea bottom and the sea bottom was once land. If we dig into the earth's surface we will find that the firm rocks beneath us contain the fossiliferous matter of the creatures that could only have grown and flourished in the warm shallows of the leurentian seas. If we climb to the summits of our highest mountains we will find in the rocks above the clouds, the fossils of these little sea creatures. We will find that the fossiliferous rocks themselves are composed of the wave-ground shells of the seas. We also find upon the rocks high above the clouds the marks that were left by the tireless beat of the ocean waves. These facts alone should convince the most skeptical that the land was once the sea bottom, its lofty mountains were once islands, and its high plateaus were once ocean shallows. We can readily agree to these facts but we might differ as to why the old sea bottoms are now lands and the old lands are now sea bottoms,—all agree to these facts, but we differ as to the causes that brought about this change. Some think that it was done by great pressure from beneath, raising the sea bottoms and causing the land to sink. But that is not true for any pressure from within which would have raised the Himalaya mountains high above the clouds would have burst the world into atoms. So we cannot believe that they were raised by the blind Samson of some imprisoned force which so wrecked and strained this old world that her deep sea bottoms were raised high into the Heavens and her towering mountains sank beneath the ocean waves. I cannot believe this for the evidence of the rocks does not justify such a belief. The most popular belief is that our mountains and sea basins were made by what is known as the wrinkling period of the earth. It is claimed that the world was once in a liquid or gas state and that it dried and shrivelled like a lemon peeling. The sinks constitute the ocean basin and the rises are the hills and mountains. As stated this wrinkling theory is the popular theory but its strongest points fail to cohere. So I do not believe one word of the wrinkling theory because it is based on an imagined condition and not on the facts and conditions as they exist today.

I believe all these changes can be accounted for by the Polar Basin Theory through the same laws and the same conditions that exist today. But before going further with this investigation, for fear some might think that I am misrepresenting the fact, I will quote from some of the best authority in the United States. I refer to Tarr & McMurray's Geography which is the adopted text book taught in the schools of Texas and other states. These learned gentlemen say that the Appalachian mountains are much older than the Western mountains. They are also authority for the statement that the irregular coast line of Europe, like that of North America, is due to the sinking of the land. Is it not more reasonable to say that the sea water is rising in this part of the world instead of saying that the land is sinking? These learned scholars also say that the Gulf of Mexico is rising and will some day be dry land and the many islands in it will be mountains. I agree that the Gulf of Mexico will some day be dry and her lofty islands will then be high mountains, but I demur at the statement that the Gulf bottom is rising, for if that is true and it does not stop that foolishness, some day the Mississippi river will be forced to run up stream—and we have never seen anything like that. I cannot believe that the Gulf bottom is rising from any internal pressure. I believe that the detritus carried into it by its rivers and the fecundity of its shell creatures are responsible for its gradually filling up, and the water in pushing from its basin toward the North is gradually submerging the northern coast and makes it appear that the northern coast is sinking. These learned gentlemen also say, "We have learned that during the cold period the climate here was very warm and damp so that there were many forms of life. Ages after a great change came about which has had a vast influence in determining the character of the surface of the continents and the life that now exists here. For some unknown reason the temperature changed so that all of the northern part of the continent became covered with a sheet of ice more than a mile thick."

I do not believe the wrinkling theory of the earth's surface neither do I believe the glacier period theory, and I will give you my reason for disbelieving them. We find in Tarr & McMurray's Geography a statement that the world was once a hot ball of gas and as it hardened and dried on the outside it wrinkled like an apple that had dried, and its wrinkles made the hills and mountains and the sinks made the sea basin. In the same book they tell us the Appalachian mountains are much older than the Cordilleras. The same book tells us that there are young mountains and old mountains, young islands and old islands, young valleys and old valleys, mountains forming today and mountains wasting away, sea bottoms slowly turning to dry land and dry land slowly going or sinking beneath the ocean waves. So I do not believe one word of the wrinkling period theory, unless they mean by the wrinkling of the earth, the ceaseless growth of the world and we could not place that way back in some remote age. I do not believe one word of the glacier period theory, because it rests upon supposed conditions and not on the actual conditions that are existing today. I also deny their statement that the northern part of the United States is sinking and that the southern coast is rising.

They say the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico is rising and it will some day be dry land. Of course if the Gulf bottom is rising the bottom of the Caribbean Sea is also rising, for we know that the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico are all the same body of water or the same sea and the same conditions exist in one that exist in the other. If one is rising the other is rising. Then if that is a fact, some day the Panama Canal will be left 10,000 feet above the water level on the East side and it will look very funny unless the Pacific Ocean is also rising where the Canal enters it. Of course if it is rising and the Northern coast is sinking, Colon will some day be as high above sea level as Leadville, Colorado, and New York will some day be as deep beneath the ocean's surface as is the wrecked Titanic. We cannot escape from these conclusions if this sinking business does not stop. So it must be plain to the average thinker that this theory is not true. Don't understand me to deny the facts that are offered to prove these claims—the claim that some part of our coast is sinking and some part of it is rising. I know that the evidences that are offered to prove the sinking and rising theory of the earth's surface are true. I agree to the evidences that are offered to support their claims, but I deny their theory. I claim that it is the sea level that is rising in the northern part of the earth and the sea level that is sinking in the warm belt that makes it appear that the land is rising and sinking in these parts. What causes the rising and sinking of the sea level I will thoroughly explain in the Polar Basin Theory later on.

The great ice sheet that once lay over the New England States has confused and befuddled the scholars of the past, and cannot be accounted for by any of the accepted theories of the present or past. Tarr & McMurray say after describing the warm age, or the age in which the coal was formed, "We have learned that during the coal age the climate here was very warm and damp so that there were many forms of life. Ages after a great change came about which had a vast influence in determining the character of the surface of the continents and the life that now exists here." "For some unknown reason the temperature changed so that all of the northern part of the continent became covered with a sheet of ice or a glacier, which moved slowly towards the South over the land, destroying all life and working great change in the surface." You notice that they say for some unknown reason the temperature changed. They admit that they do not know or do not even guess why the temperature changed, a fact that can be reasonably explained by the Polar Basin Theory.

Gus O'Keefe of Fort Worth was a business visitor to Colorado this week. He has enjoyed shaking hands and the reminiscences of old days with his friends. Everybody in this immediate part of Texas knew Gus O'Keefe twenty years ago. His home was the present Watson place, on the northeast edge of town, while his pasture stretched thence so far to the north that everything looking like land and cattle seen between Colorado and Snyder, was imputed to him. Some years ago he bought a small tract of land which lay wholly within his pasture just to get possession and close the outlet. He paid something like $2.50 per acre, just as a bonus to get the nestle out. For this reckless, unpardonable extravagance, his friends began to suspect that he was losing his money making grip on his business. That same piece of land sold seven or eight years ago for $22.50 per acre. Mr. O'Keefe and family moved to Fort Worth some years ago, and has disposed of practically all his landed interests in this county. Though Mr. O'Keefe has endured more bodily suffering than usually falls to the lot of a dozen men—his life being suspended by a hair during very serious operations, he has never lost his spirit of optimism and cheerfulness. No man stood higher in West Texas nor had more true friends than Gus O'Keefe, who wish for him many years of prosperity, happiness and perfect health.

OMEGA WATCH CONTESTANTS

We announce Saturday night at 8:30 the winner of the beautiful Bracelet Watch.

J. P. MAJORS.

Merely a Coincidence.

On last Saturday morning the "last chance" train came in bringing a varied assortment of bug juice, spirits of disturbance, quintessence of trouble, tarantula juice, snake pizen, etc. all classified and known under the more comprehensive name of "old booze." The time limit for shipments into dry territory from any quarter, is drawing rapidly to a close, and in order not to be caught short, those who expect to go fishing next summer or are liable to have illness in their own family or their neighbors, are fortifying themselves against any contingency of a drought.

The liquor—or what looked to be liquor—was there in plentitude, and as corroboration of this assumption, there arrived on the same train, a big box of genuine snakes. We don't know whether the snakes came from the same house the whiskey did, or not, and had been sent along in the way of a premium on the guarantee to make one see things.

A Night of Terror. Few nights are more terrible than that of a mother looking on her child choking and gasping for breath during an attack of croup, and nothing in the house to relieve it. Many mothers have passed nights of terror in this situation. A little forethought will enable you to avoid all this. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain cure for croup and has never been known to fail. Keep it at hand. For sale by W. L. Doss.

I WANT TO SELL.

You Fruit Shade and Nut Trees. Grapes, Berries, Roses and Shrubbery. Agent for Cosmopolitan and Hearst's Magazines.—J. T. HARNESSE. 11.

Presbyterian Church Calls Pastor.

The First Presbyterian church at this place has called Rev. Guy B. Duff of Roswell, New Mexico as pastor, and he will begin his work here on the fourth Sunday in this month. This church has not had a pastor since Rev. W. M. Elliott left, nearly two years ago, yet it has kept together remarkably well, all the services save regular preaching being carried on uninterrupted. No church of its numerical strength in the denomination, and very few, if any in other connections, surpasses this little congregation in responding to all the enterprises fostered by the general church. The Record congratulates the church on securing Mr. Duff as its pastor, of whose work in our neighboring state, we have heard the most favorable reports, and welcomes him to the citizenship of our city. We trust that the relation about to be established between pastor and people, may prove a long, successful and happy one.

Work is still progressing, though at a leisurely pace, on the Mills well, near the railroad tank. The drill bit is now down something like 140 feet, and there is an abundance of water, but the right kind of stratum has not been struck yet. When this is done, there will be no doubt as to the volume of water available. They are using a 14-inch bit, which will make a well of unusual size, and which will easily furnish more than sufficient water to irrigate 100 acres of farming land. The Record is anxious for this proposition to prove a great success, as it believes the success of this well will mark the beginning of great activity in installing plants of this system.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A QUIET HOME MARRIAGE.

Even the close personal friends of Mr. Coleman Smith and Miss Cecil Nunn, were surprised late Wednesday afternoon, on learning that license had been issued for the consummation of their hopes and joys. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. V. V. Shropshire, by Rev. J. N. Campbell, in the presence of only a few of the relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties.

Both these young people were born and reared in Colorado, and are representatives of two of the best and oldest families in the county. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nunn, and a splendid character, highly endowed with every talent and possessing every accomplishment that go to establish and maintain a happy home. She will prove a veritable helpmate to the man of her choice.

Mr. Smith is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Smith, for years one of the most active and prominent cattlemen of this section. He is energetic, honest in all his attitudes and will do his part to make bright and prosperous their future home. The Record offers congratulations, and voicing the consensus of their host of friends, in wishing for them a long, a happy and a prosperous life.

THE "WYOMING GIRL" RETURNS.

How many of you remember Miss Alberta Claire, the "Girl From Wyoming," who rode through Colorado on her buckskin pony, "Bud", and was at the St. James hotel the night of the big fire just across the street? She was on a 10,000 mile trip, from Wyoming to Buffalo, New York, and had a limited time to make it. She made the trip all right, and spent some time sightseeing in New York and other eastern cities, and is now on her return trip west. She will be in Colorado today (Friday), and unless another fire scares her away, will spend more time with us than she did before. In a letter to the editor, she admits that New York City is a great place; that its police force is the finest ever, but says she would not exchange the plains, deserts and mountains of the west for anything she has seen. She has her dog, "Mickie" this time; when here before, she shipped the dog ahead on account of sore feet contracted in the alkali desert. She writes from Abilene that she will arrive here today.
