Texas Marketing Problems Studied

Hundreds of Texas Farmers Give Statement of Their Actual Experience.

Descending from the general discussion of farm marketing problems, Prof. C. B. Austin, through the University of Texas Department of Extension, is making a special study of the marketing problem in Texas. He wants to get specific and detailed accounts of the exact situation which the average Texas farmer faces. During the past year, Prof. Austin has obtained many hundreds of letters from the general farmers of Texas, and in those letters they not only give their views of the marketing situation, but state in a detailed way exactly what they grow, how they have attempted to sell it, what prices they have obtained, and what difficulties they have had to surmount, or have failed to meet. A wealth of information of this nature, contains a minimum of theory and a maximum amount of information on the actual conditions in the marketing of farm produce.

It is hoped that this mass of information directly from the farmer will form the background for a proper legislative solution of marketing problems in Texas. In this way the farmer is given a chance to state his own case and his statements are put in a place where they will do him the most good.

STUDEBAKER FACTORY SEEN BY COLORADO MAN

Dr. Willis R. Smith, who has been in the North for several weeks, and spent some time in Detroit, returned home last week.

Among other wonderful things he saw while there was the big automobile factories, many of which are located in Detroit. Mr. Smith says that perhaps the largest and best equipped of them all is the Studebaker Corporation. A letter of introduction from Mr. Kelper, their local agent, passed him in, and he was put into the hands of a guide and conducted throughout this great and wonderful plant. He saw every part of the Studebaker car in the making from the smallest screw to the big six cylinder motors. They manufacture every part of these cars except tires, electric starters, radiators and lamps. He saw the great smelting furnaces, where the steel is first melted and then put through a number of processes, and then thoroughly tested, and ever piece must conform to a certain standard. He saw the gigantic trip hammers, weighing tons, beating out and shaping the crank shafts as accurately and carefully as a woman would shape a biscuit. Also the big stamping machines which with one powerful blow will shape a fender, or other steel parts in a second, from sheet steel. He was conducted through the painting rooms, where no less than 16 coats are put on, and the finishing polish is equal to any piano. The assembling room, where the cars are put together, are a sight to behold, says Dr. Smith. Hundreds of men, all in a rush, but everyone doing a certain thing and all working in unison and with absolute precision, and every few minutes a completed car is rolled out, ready for the testing field. Mr. Smith said it looked to him that there were enough cars in the shipping yards and testing fields to supply the state of Texas.

Dr. Smith is the owner of a Studebaker and was always well pleased with his car, but since he has seen how they are made he is better satisfied than ever—and does not see how any car could be better made.

The Studebaker people were certainly nice to him and gave a cordial invitation to come back, and told him to send any of his friends from Texas at any time and they would take as much pleasure in "showing them" as if there were from Missouri.

It is hoped that the Niagra Falls mediators will not have to submit their hotel bills to arbitration.

There might be more opened at Niagra if all hands would drink only grape juice.

THE SOURCE OF CHEAP MONEY

EDITOR'S NOTE:—This is the second of a series of Articles on AGRICULTURAL PROBLEMS prepared by Judge S. A. Lindsey, chairman of the Texas Farm Life Commission.

Suppose one wishes to borrow on land security, $10,000. It is not easy to find one person who has that sum to lend. When he does, he finds a man of affairs who will lend the money only on such rates as prevail in that community. It is easier to find twenty persons with $500 or a hundred with $100 each. In Eastern states and in European countries working people and persons of small means put by their savings in saving banks which pay 3 and 4 per cent on time deposits. The savings banks assemble many hundred millions of dollars. The deposits in the Postals Savings Bank of this nation already amount to $40,000,000 although they pay only 2 per cent interest. People of small means are the greatest source of cheap money. Their money builds sky-scrapers, factories, ships, railroads, telegraph, telephone systems and so on, which is assembled in this wise: The enterprise is incorporated and issues mortgage bonds. A million dollars may be put into bonds of $50 each, bearing 4 or 5 or 6 per cent interest. Concerns which make a business of selling such securities furnish the money desired and sell these bonds to investors in such securities among whom will be clerks, book-keepers, laborers, school-teachers, preachers, professional people, and all kinds of non-business persons. Thus is capital assembled which finances big enterprises. The rich do not, as some suppose, furnish cheap money; they borrow and use the money of non-business people.

Every one of Uncle Sam's industries except his greatest, agriculture, has worked out methods of getting to the source of cheap money, and he has decided to work out a system for that neglected industry. He sends his agents to all parts of the world. Some of these in the countries of Continental Europe have reported that the people there have systems of rural credits which manage to tap this great source of cheap money just as other industries do, and receive copious streams of finance which give new life and vigor to agriculture, causing the fields to bring forth five-fold. Desiring to see what light these systems might shed on our agricultural problems President Wilson sent a Commission last year throughout Europe to investigate the systems there. This commission saw that land mortgage securities when issued in small denominations so that people of small means could purchase them with their savings were the favorite of all securities. People everywhere love the soil; they dwell upon it, from it comes their food and raiment, and they have faith in it above all things else, even above the government itself. Hence they who went on this investigation found that land securities everywhere commanded cheaper money than the bonds of the governments, and these securities have stood the test of a hundred years.

The methods are so simple and the benefits so great and widespread that one seeing them wonders why we should not long ago have adopted some similar method suited to agricultural conditions here. This Commission has prepared a plan which is now before Congress and which I will explain in my next article.

THE TENANT FARMER'S PROBLEMS SOLVED.

Farms at 4 Per Cent

POST CITY, Texas, June.—It is the belief of many that Post City, Garza County, Texas, has found the remedy for the tenant farmer's problem. At any rate, there is a system of farm selling there that seems to meet the demand of the would-be home owner—and that's the main idea.

The land, which is owned by the estate of the late C. W. Post, manufacturer of breakfast foods and corner of the expression "There is a Reason", is divided into selling plots of eighty or a hundred and sixty acres.

To responsible men, these are sold on terms of $2 an acre down with the remainder payable at the yearly rate of $1.75 per acre.

Each farm has previously been fenced, and any desired improvements from the building of a home to the construction of a silo will be made to the property, the amount of which is figured in with the original bill. No matter the extent of the farm purchased nor the value of the improvements made, the farmer is required to pay but an annual interest of 4 per cent. This is the same figure that banks the country over pay for use of money. The comparison with this standard and the old one shows a radical difference.

Plant peas and beans on your stubble land and plant them now.

WE HAD A SAFE AND SANE FOURTH IN TEXAS.

FORT WORTH, Texas, June.—Reports received from practically every section in Texas, indicate that Texans spent an unusually safe and sane fourth. It is generally reported that injuries from fire works were fewer than ever before.

Sentiment, for some time, has been growing in favor of a safer and saner celebration of Independence Day and people everywhere are learning that noise and disaster is not patriotism. Statistics show that 32 people met violent death and 1,134 were injured in the United States celebrating July 4th in 1913.

FIRE PREVENTION

By S. W. English, State Fire Marshal

It has been declared that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. It is especially true that an ounce of fire prevention is worth ten pounds of fire fighting.

The man who is constantly on the alert to ward off fire has a faith that is far stronger than has the man who is careless with his property and depends upon the zeal of fire fighting companies and the number of pounds of water pressure maintained by the waterworks.

Keep your premises free from filth. Keep them free from trash. Keep them insured against destruction by your care, rather than to trust solely to your insurance policy and to the powers of firemen and their fire fighting machinery.

A pall of smoke ascending from your property a sit goes to feed the maw of the fire-god can have no silver lining. It is a black cloud and in nine cases out of ten leaves a black mark on your conscience.

Don't save all your energy to fight fires with; use some of it to prevent fires.

Forgetting politics for awhile the citizens of this country would do well to read the president's tribute to the flag and then sing that glorious Anthem "America."

AN OPEN LETTER

Ed. Record:—

The time has come when certain facts should be known. Many people seem to think that I am enthusiastic Farmer's Union man, that I am a leader in the organization, and I have been frequently asked if I am not going to vote for Ferguson for governor, and when I say "No", the next question is, "What about Lewis and Radford?"

In voicing my own sentiments, I voice the sentiments of every other Farmers' Union man in Mitchell county, which is about like this: "Brethren Lewis and Radford, no doubt feel like the same men and I look like them, but like the good billygoat that was put in the pen with the sorry ones, for a purpose, we say goodbye. You are in the wrong pen and without a following in the ranks of the Farmer's Union people."

Now while I have taken most of this gossip as a joke, I want nothing unjust laid at the door of our noble organization. It was my good pleasure this week to be in a very enthusiastic and harmonious meeting of the stockholders of the Farmers' Union warehouse in Colorado. We treated ourselves to a new suit of Farmers' Unionism, and have a right to believe we have a reasonable share of co-operation from the banks and business men of Colorado, but we urge a closer co-operation yet from the farming class of people. For the farmer's Union is without doubt, the salvation of the farmer and the salvation of the farmer means the salvation of every other enterprise known to man. I am not a leader, but am proud to claim to be a worker in our noble cause.

AN EDITORIAL REFORMATION

By Will M. Maupin

John J. Wrightem was the editor, publisher and proprietor of the Beaverville Weekly Messenger, subscription one dollar a year in advance. But there were few paid in advance subscribers, notwithstanding the notice so prominently displayed at the head of the editorial column.

Mr. Wrightem had been publishing the Messenger so long that the oldest inhabitant couldn't remember the year of the Messenger's first appearance under the Wrightem management. It was a pretty good weekly newspaper, too. Mr. Wrightem was an editor of the old school, likewise a very faithful adherent of his party, and always a booster for Beaverville and Podd county.

The Weekly Messenger ran strongly to personal mentions, and when Mr. Wrightem was feeling in fine fettle he could write up Mrs. Sookum's entertainment of the South Side church Kensington in a manner that would have brought encomiums from a New York hostess in the "Four Hundred" had a Gotham paper written her functions up in equally fine style. And when Mr. Wrightem turned loose to tell what a great statesman State Senator Bluffum was, or what an efficient official Sheriff Graball made, he put the kibosh on the high brow writers on the metropolitan press. There wasn't a man or woman in Beaverville who went to the county seat by train but what found mention of the fact in the next issue of the Messenger. For instance, if Major Rantor—he wasn't a major—went to the county seat the Messenger made note of the fact something after this wise:

"Our distinguished fellow townsman, Major Rantor, had business at the county seat last Thursday. He was called there as counsel in a most important legal proceeding. Major Rantor's fame as a lawyer has grown until it is no longer confined to the bounds of Podd county, but his services are in constant demand by the largest corporations and business concerns in the West. It is rumored that the Major's friends will insist upon his acceptance of the congressional nomination next fall."

If Major Rantor imagined that by some hook or crook Mr. Wrightem might overlook the semi-monthly trip to the county seat he would incidentally drop into the Messenger office and casually remark that he was compelled to run over to the county seat on important legal business next day.

Beaverville claimed to be something of a musical center, and whenever Miss Hammersmith, the local music teacher, gave a recital, she would visit the Messenger office and hand Mr. Wrightem a daintily written notice of the forthcoming event. Then Mr. Wrightem would sharpen up the stub of a lead pencil and grind out a column of advance notices, giving in full detail the program and dilating at length upon the artistic and pedagogical ability of Miss Hammersmith. Following the recital the Messenger would devote a couple of columns to the musical event and point with pride to Miss Hammersmith and her pupils as proof that Beaverville had every other city in the West backed off the board for musical ability.

As a plain matter of fact, Editor Wrightem made it a point to speak in the highest terms of everybody whose names got into the Messenger, and only in campaign times did he break over the rule—at which times he would occasionally speak in slighting terms of the candidates on the opposition ticket.

Everybody spoke well of Editor Wrightem, and Beaverville and western Podd county were proud of the Messenger. They had a right to be, for it was a newsy newspaper. But the fact that the editor was personally well liked and the Messenger a good newspaper didn't mean that Editor Wrightem was prosperous. Everybody took the Messenger, it is true, but the "one dollar a year in advance" was only a line that helped to fill space. Candor compels the statement that Editor Wrightem was not prosperous. He found it pretty hard sledding to pay his foreman, John Henry Scroggs—who was also the rest of the meibanical force—his weekly wages of $14 together with patent inside bills, rent, ink, etc., etc., and then some more etc. Despite his toiling about seventeen hours a day, he couldn't seem to get ahead a little bit. And yet, as before remarked, everybody took his paper, and he was well liked.

It there was anything that the Messenger's editor prided himself on it was on always coming out on Thursday noon. Precisely at 12 m. every Thursday Messenger subscribers could go to the Beaverville post office and get their Messenger still smelling of wet ink. The only exception was that whenever Christmas fell on Thursday the Messenger skipped an issue. Editor Wrightem once remarked apparently as a joke, that the only weeks he made any money was the weeks where in Christmas fell on publication day and permitted him to skip an issue. Christmas fell on Thursday of last year, and by all precedent the Messenger should have skipped. But it did not—and thereby hang this tale. In its issue of Thursday December 18, the middle of the Messenger's first page contained a five-inch, double-column notice, in heavy border, as follows:

Departing from its usual custom the Messenger will be issued next Thursday, Christmas day. The reason for this will be plain to all Messenger readers when they pursue the Christmas day issue.

When Foreman John Henry Scroggs took this notice off the hook he came near throwing a fit. He knew it meant work on Christmas day, and John Henry was averse to toil, especially when so performing he broke all precedent. Between ourselves, John Henry came near throwing up his job on account of this notice but after due consideration, and a hasty glance over the labor market, he decided to stick.

No sooner was the December 18th issue in the post office and the forms off and washed for John Henry to throw in, than Editor Wrightem cut a lot of copy paper, sharpened up three or four stubs of lead pencils, loaded his trusty pipe and seated himself at his desk. The desk was a pneumatic kitchen table, taken in exchange for advertising, and it was pretty badly scarred and discolored by paste and ink. But it was the desk, just the same.

Then, having made all preparations, Editor Wrightem started to work. It must have been a difficult and delicate task, for he made a dozen false starts, and as many sheets of copy paper were flung into the wastebasket—which was an empty nail keg. But finally he got started, and his pencil stub raced over the paper in a manner that made John Henry Scroggs perk up and mutter:

"The boss must be trying to get something out of his system." Hour after hour went by, and Editor Wrightem was still grinding away. It was not until long after John Henry had washed up and departed for supper that Editor Wrightem finished. He scratched the old "tit-tat-toe" design finally to indicate the end of the article, then assembled the sheets in order. Having done this he drew four lines through each page, assembled them once more, and then jabbed them on the copy hook, all ready for John Henry Scroggs' fingers to put into type the following day.

Next morning John Henry, having filled his case, took the editorial from the hook and started on it. Before he had set up a dozen lines he rubbed his eyes, descended from his stool and seated himself in the office chair to read it straight through. And as he read he grinned and chuckled and hugged himself with glee.

"Bully for the boss!" he said to himself. "He's wised up to the situation at last and started in to roasting a lot of the cheap skates in this bum burg."

John Henry, by the way, had worked for a couple of months in Nebraska City before locating in Beaverville, and he professed contempt for Beaverville and its inhabitant "cheap skates" and "jays."

John Henry Scroggs never "set up" an article with quite as much joy as this particular editorial. And he slapped the four leads in between each line of type with savage joy. He seemed to think that every time he slapped a lead he was hitting some Beaverville "cheap skate" a solarplexus blow.

Needless to remark that all Beaverville was on edge about the unusual issuance of the Messenger on Christmas day. Many were the conjectures as to the cause thereof but when questioned Editor Wrightem only smiled and shook his head, saying: "Wait and see!"

As for John Henry Scroggs, he wouldn't tell, but he gave out some dark hints about "handing a few packages to 'cheap skates' that only added to the conjecture and increased the wonder.

There was quite a bit of "plate" in the Christmas number, but the editorial page was devoted largely to the quadruple-leaded editorial, and the front page had a "box" calling attention to it. So great was the excitement that citizens insisted upon postmaster Simpkins breaking his rule and opening the post office at noon on Christmas day long enough to distribute the Messenger.

Christmas morning Editor Wrightem and John Henry Scroggs took the bundles of Messengers to the post office, and at 10:17 Editor Wrightem took the train for the county seat.

Promptly at 12 m. Postmaster Simpkins opened the front door of his office then skipping nimbly back of the cases proceeded to hand out Messengers to the long line of expectant subscribers.

At 12:10 the street in front of the Beaverville post office was crowded with people, each one with a Messenger in hand, and each one eagerly reading the heavily leaded editorial on page 4. And as it was read consternation spread like a prairie fire. Space forbids a reproduction of the editorial, and we must content ourselves with giving its salient features. It was headed "An Editorial Reformation," and it was replete with italics, black face and small caps. Here's the gist of it:

"This is Christmas day, the culminating period of the season of peace on earth, good will to men. And in the spirit of good will, The Messenger is going to speak plainly to the people of Beaverville and Podd county. We have conducted The Messenger for 17 years, trying every day to do our full duty to the community by boosting and promoting. But at last we have come to the conclusion that fine words butter no parsnips.

We have spoken only in flattering terms of everything and everybody, with the result we have $1,896 owing us on subscriptions and not a single pair of trousers without patch. On an average of every other week we have chronicled Major Rantor's visits to the county seat, speaking of him as a great legal light, when everybody knows he is an arrant pettifogger who never had a case worth while, and never won any of those he did have. Has Major Rantor reciprocated? Not he! On the contrary, he refused to carry a professional card in the Messenger, and when we rendered a bill last week for 8 years' subscription he refused to pay on the ground that he had never ordered the paper.

"Ever since Miss Hammersmith graduated from that boiler factory in Omaha and came here to teach (?) music (?) we have spoken of her as a great musical artist and written columns about her wondrous ability as an instructor of music. She has repaid our kindness by having all her job printing done at that blacksmith printery at the county seat. After this, when she murders Handel, and Chopin and Mozart, and all the other long-haired gents we are going to tell the facts about her.

"We have always supported our party ticket, and we have helped to elect every political candidate now holding office in Podd county today. But no more for us. We are going to tell the facts about that gang of political pirates at the county seat, and let the people know just how they are jobbed and robbed by their trusted employees. As a starter we are going to tell where about seven thousand dollars of the taxpayers' money went while the new courthouse was being erected.

"We have devoted columns to giving in detail the 'society events' of this town, and we have endeavored to write them up in artistic style. Hereafter, when Mrs. Sookum gives a function we are going to tell the facts about it, and instead of saying that she served this or that in real metropolitan style, we are going to tell the truth and say that she and her two daughters sat up nights framing plans to make a dollar's worth of dog meat look like a fifty dollar luncheon.

"We have boosted Congressman Makesquire night and day, but we notice that Simpkins, who worked against him as hard as the poor simp knew how, is still postmaster at Beaverville, despite the fact that our application for the position was filed six months ago, signed by the best people in this community. In future we are going to speak the truth about Makesquire and let the people know that he is so shallow that when you open his front door you will find yourself in his back yard."

And thus Editor Wrightem went down the line. He told the people that District Judge Swellup was a briffless barrister elevated to the bench because he trucked to the P. D. & X. railroad; that J. Franklyn Dotts, who yearned for a seat in Congress, was running on his family connections and expected to buy his way in, and a lot more things, all quite true.

Editor Wrightem did not return from the county seat until Friday evening, on the 7:22 train. He saw a light in the Messenger office as he hurried homeward, and of course he stepped in to see the cause of such an unusual happening. When he entered he saw John Henry Scroggs at the editorial desk, busy at counting a big stack of silver dollars and a very sizable roll of greenbacks.

"What's the matter?" asked Editor Wrightem, staring at the pile of real money.

And John Henry Scroggs, looking pale and worn, slumped down in the chair and remarked:

"Gee, boss, but I'm glad you got back. I ain't been in bed since you went away; just been working my fool head off taking in money."

"Tell m' about it," whispered Editor Wrightem, as she sank into the chair as it was vacated by John Henry and began jingling the silver.

"Say you hadn't been gone more'n a couple of hours before the cheap skates in this bum burg began swarming in here. The old stiff Rantor came in a contracted for a two-inch card for a year and paid for it in advance. Makesquire's right-hand man, old Fixem, dropped in and contributed a tenner, saying the congressman wanted you to send the Messenger to every precinct committeeman in the state. Old Judge Swellup came in and peddled up seven years back subscription and a couple of years in advance for himself and his brother-in-law down at the county seat. The chairman of the board of county commissioners was in here this morning and paid up a lot of back subscription and says he wants to see you tomorrow afternoon; says there's a hen or two on about the county printing. Miss Hammersmith just went out after leaving a 60-line notice about her next recital, and she paid ten cents a line for it in advance, besides ordering the paper sent to her father in Berryville and her sister at Smith Corners. And she says she wants a thousand neat little handbills advertising the recital and she'll be back in the morning to figure on some swell programs. There's a telegram I opened because I thought it was important and perhaps you'd want it right away. It's from Makesquire and he says he's going to bring your post-office application before the postmaster general the first of the week and hopes to push it to a successful conclusion. Say, boss; I'm going to turn in. I'm worn to a frazzle."

"Go ahead, John. I'll lock up," said the astonished Editor Wrightem.

When John Henry had departed Editor Wrightem counted up the money on the desk and found it amounted to $187.50. He chuckled it into his pockets, blew out the light and started for home. When he entered the gate he collided with a barrel, and lighting a match he discovered it o be full of Jonathan apples, and marked "Compliments of James B. Yearner, candidate for sheriff." On the front porch he found seven sacks of potatoes marked, "Merry Christmas, from William Q. Siviter, candidate for county attorney." There was no one in the front room to welcome him, but he heard voices in the kitchen and there he hurried. He opened the door and saw Mrs. Wrightem and the five little Wrightems gazing on a kitchen table piled high up with good things to eat, including turkey, celery, apples, canned tomatoes and corn, and other things.

"For goodness sake, what is this?" gasped the astonished editor.

"I don't know dear," said Mrs. Wrightem. "But these things have been coming ever since yesterday afternoon, and there's more in the cellar and a couple of tons of coal in the coal house. You'll find a stack of Christmas cards and greetings a foot high on the front room table. It seems that everybody has discovered that you are their best friend.

It was unusually late when Mr. and Mrs. Wrightem and the five little Wrightems retired for the night, and the editorial dreams were not of C. O. D. readyprint packages but of trips abroad and silk dresses and warm underclothes and other wonderful things.

And when he went to the post office next morning he received a letter from the chairman of the county commissioners stating that the bids for county printing had been reconsidered and awarded to him at full legal rates. And another from the sheriff enclosed copy for five sheriff notices at a dollar a square for the first insertion and 50 cents a square for each subsequent insertion. And for a week after there was a constant procession of men and women into the Messenger office and Editor Wrightem was kept busy writing subscription receipts. That isn't all either; John Henry Scroggs insisted that if he had to set up so many new quarter page ads for Beaverville merchants he'd just have to have some new type and slugs and borders—and Editor Wrightem sent him to Omaha and told him to get what he needed, paying spot cash and getting the discount.

And for a week after there was a constant procession of

The line, One dollar a year, payable in advance," has been changed a bit. It now reads, "One dollar and fifty cents a year, payable in advance," and it is set in bold face type. John Henry Scroggs has already marked out the floor space where the new linotype is going to be set up when it comes, and he can almost see it coming.

Truth compels us to remark that the news columns of the Messenger have improved wonderfully. Mrs. Sookum's society efforts seem more successful than ever, and the county officials seem to have become the most efficient in the country. And not being worried about fiancé, Editor Wrightem can grind out mighty fine editorials upholding the administration, and he knows that on March 15 he takes charge of the Beaverville post office.

As for John Henry Scroggs he declares that Beaverville is the best little old town of its size on the map, and its citizens a bit the best lot o' gaxabos that ever came down the pike.

We couldn't tell you, in a month of Sundays what Mrs. Wrightem and the five little Wrightems think about the changed order of things. But Mrs. Wrightem looks 15 years younger.

Editor Wrightem? O, he's gained 25 pounds in weight, and he threw the Beaverville tailor into fits the day before New Year by ordering two whole suits of clothes at once, paying half down in advance and the rest when the suits were delivered.

PLANT OR SOW PEAS OR SOY BEANS ON YOUR STUBBLE LAND

The small grain crop of the state is now being harvested. If the land is allowed to lie idle it will be very soon covered with weeds that will go to seed and greatly increase this nuisance next year. It has no crop on it with roots to protect and hold the soil together, and if the season is very wet, it will waste from washing and thus lose a large amount of its soluble plant food. If the ground is dry and hard, the rain that should sink in would run off and leave the ground in bad condition for fall plowing.

Practically all of these troubles have been avoided and the fertility of the land greatly increased by disking it thoroughly, if it is loose enough to prepare a good seed bed in this way, and if not, by plowing and harrowing it just as quickly as possible after the crop is removed, and drilling from a peck to a half bushel of peas or soy beans to the acre.

The peas will grow if the soil is properly prepared and make splendid pasture for cattle or hogs in the early fall, and hay if you care to cut it, and a very profitable crop to turn under as green manure to add to the humus pliability and fertility of the soil.

It has been estimated that where conditions are favorable and the soil has been thoroughly inoculated with bacteria from growing peas, beans, alfalfa, or some other leguminous crop, that the nitrogen brought into the land annually from this source could not be purchased for less than $20 to $30 per acre. As nitrogen is absolutely essential to plant growth and is one of the most expensive of the mineral foods, it should be clear to every one that it is infinitely more profitable to grow leguminous cover-crops than other crops of the same weight that return just as much humus to the soil but do not draw nitrogen from the atmosphere.

HELPFUL WORDS

From a Colorado Citizen

Is your back lame and painful? Does it ache especially after exertion?

Is there a soreness in the kidney region?

These symptoms suggest weak kidneys.

If so there is danger in delay. Weak kidneys get weaker.

Give your trouble prompt attention. Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Your neighbors use and recommend them.

Read this Colorado testimony.

W. W. Fuller,

G. W. Fuller, horseshoer, Colorado, Texas, says "Several years ago I was suffering intensely from pain in my back and sides, caused by weak kidneys and I had other troubles common to kidney sufferers. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I used two boxes and they cured me. It gives me great pleasure to endorse them."

OUR FRIEND, THE LIZARD.

The lizard is one of the best friends the gardener has. Both the horned and striped lizards live on insects. Last year, the writer had a bog of fine lettuce that was spoiled by aphides or plant lice. Several horned lizards were caught and put in among the lettuce, and in a few days only the lettuce and fat lizards were left, for the lice had been eaten by the lizards. There is nothing that a lizard likes better than plant lice.

The striped lizard will hunt for cutworms in the same manner that a dog will hunt rabbits. He will nose among the plants until he finds a hole in the ground which Mr. Cutworm dug and crawled into at sunrise; then with his little paws he makes the dirt fly until he reaches his prey, and with a quick dive he drags his worm from his lair and shakes him just like a dog would a rabbit. Then he carries the worm to the shade and eats him.

Some writers refer to the horned lizard as the horned toad or horned frog, but this is a misnomer, for he is no more a frog or toad than he is a jay bird. He is of a true saurian, or lizard family, and is harmless as he is useful. When he is hard pressed for food, he will go into a red ant's nest and there devour the big ants in great numbers; but, if he can get them, he prefers aphides to any other food. The boy who kills a lizard kills one of his best friends, and should be punished by not being allowed to touch a melon until he can distinguish his friends from his enemies.—Sterling City Record.

WHY WOMEN FADE.

This is for ladies only. Men should keep their eyes off it.

A million women today should be told what other millions have learned—that they need one element in their blood far more than men, and that lack of it is the reason they are apt to fade many years before they should.

The needed element is iron. Iron builds up the red corpuscles of the blood and sustains vitality and strength. Women need a constant supply of blood-making material, or their system breaks down under the constant drain. The very moment there is a lack of blood, or when the blood is impoverished, the signal appears upon the face in sallowness or palor, and the remedy is McCroskey's Tonic, for it contains iron.

Nothing else meets this particular condition as well. Use of it has made thousands of women look many years younger and made them even feel younger than they looked. It not only restores strength, energy and beauty, but it is a prompt and certain cure for all the ills peculiar to the sex. It cures because it removes the first cause. It supplies just what nature needs to bring health. It strengthens the debilitated organs and gives tone and elasticity to muscles and ligaments rounds out wasted tissue and renews the vigor of the nervous system, it helps quickly and just as surely and permanently. It has been used and praised by both old and young women, and mothers should see that their daughters coming into womanhood should take it. It will bring them through all right.

FREE BOOKS FOR STARVING MINDS.

(Dallas News)

A movement has been launched in Canada to furnish every person in the nation one book a week at an expense of two cents. The post office department is to be the universal librarian. Books are to be delivered by the postmasters and letter carriers. There are to be no reading rooms, nor great collections of books housed in expensive buildings. It will be a cheap self-sustaining system with such a complete plan of exchanges that any one can get any standard book anywhere without much delay. Such a system in the United States would give every family and every rural school as good library facilities as are now possessed by the people of the cities. It would open the literary, artistic and scientific treasures of the world to the people now starving for good reading.

The person who from childhood has been accustomed to go to the public library and to draw books free can have no conception of what it means to be craving for reading. This precisely is the condition, according to the United States Bureau of Education, of millions of children on the farms throughout the country.

No one who has not felt the great need and desire for books and been unable to have this desire satisfied knows anything about what might be called intellectual starvation. Of course it is to be expected that every family has some books, but it is impossible for the ordinary family to own library which contains anything like all the books on various topics that the men and women, boys and girls, on the farm and in town would like to have. Variety is needed in mental pabulum as well as in physical food, and if this proposed plan is adopted and proves effective it would probably be the best investment the government ever made for the people in general, and especially for those so situated in the country as not to be able to obtain all the books and other literature necessary to their proper intellectual development, and particularly where the individual is endeavoring to prepare himself for a special life work, the information which can only be gathered from books that are not within his reach under present conditions. The writer before mentioned says further:

The writer knows this to be true, for he himself has been one of those millions of look-hungry children. Such a system of postal circulating libraries could furnish phonograph records, lantern slides and moving picture films as well as books. Under the proper control it would be the greatest of all influences for studious habits, good taste, national efficiency and good citizenship. It is estimated that the system for Canada would cost a dollar per capita of the people. That would mean for the United States a quarter of the cost of Panama canal or about the expense of five battleships. And who is so bold to say that that canal or the battleships can give the people a tithe of the benefits which would flow from such postal circulating libraries?

FARMERS' CO-OPERATIVE DEMONSTRATION WORK.

Published by request of W. A. Dulin, County Demonstration Agent.

I desire to call your attention to the Farmers' Short Course, which will be held at the A. & M. College, at College Sta., July 20 to 25, and each of you will be authorized to attend. I want to impress upon each of you the advantages to be obtained by attending and bringing with you others to this great school of instructions.

It occurred to me that thousands of farmers and their families would like to attend this meeting, and I am sure that if they could realize how much benefit and the small cost as compared with the advantages to be gained they would attend.

The railroads have offered a low rate round trip price of 1 cent a mile each way. The cost of living and room at College is only $1.25 a day. College incidental fee only $2.50. So you see the cost should not exceed $10 or $12. Think of it, a short college course for so small a sum. To each farmer who attends and applies the information gained, it should be worth thousands of dollars to him individually, and a like amount to the community and state. The following subjects will be given thorough attention:

Soils—Soil Building—Conservation of Soils—Terracing a Hillside Farm to Prevent Washing—Understanding the needs of the Soil and Applying the Elements of Plant food in which the Soil is lacking.

A course to teachers in Agricultural Education—the great problems of the teachers in our rural schools. Hundreds of teachers should come and get this important course. They will have to have it, so they had just as well come and get it now.

A very thorough course in Dairy Husbandry will be important feature in these courses. The Care of Milk and Butter on the Farm—Live Stock Breeding—The Value of Ensilage in the Production of Dairy Products, etc. This most important course will be handled in a practical manner, giving demonstrations in filling silos and feeding the ensilage—milking the dairy cows with milking machines; a very successful operation.

Crop Rotation—Feed and Forage Crops—The Silo—Ensilage—Its Value—the Cose—and Profit, and why the Texas Farmer cannot afford to be without a Silo in the Future.

Poultry and Egg Production—Feeding for the Best Results. This important, growing industry will again be given special attention by Prof. J. E. Rice, the greatest poultry authority in the United States, and it should be worth to every one attending the cost of the entire course.

The instructions in Horticulture will be more thorough and as this important industry has been sadly neglected in Texas, it should be worth many times the cost and time of coming in order to understand this subject thoroughly. More fruit and less bacon for the Texas people. It promotes health and happiness—both needed in the average home.

A thorough course in Domestic Science—Good Cooking—Canning—Bread Making, and many other subjects are included in this important course. This should be interesting and profitable to ever man and woman who attends. Every mother and daughter should get this course. It will help to promote good living and contentment on the farm. Another important subject will be given in a popular lectures at night on Marketing Farm Crops.

DEMONSTRATIONS

On improved farm machinery, Canning, domestic science, treating hogs for cholera and many other subjects of vital importance.

This meeting is one of education pure and simple, is not confined to lectures alone, but to actual demonstrations, and I hope you will take great interest in placing this information before the people of your county and get as many farmers and their families to come with you as possible.

The character of education is of more importance to the work we are engaged in than any meeting that will be held in Texas this season, and I trust you will use your best efforts to impress all your progressive demonstrators, other farmers, their wives, daughters, and sons to come and get the benefits provided for them. It will mean a greater interest in farm life—more pleasure—more profit, and a greater rural citizenship if hundreds ATLANTIC CITY, N. Nathan as commissioner from Italy to the Panama-Pacific exposition, because it was held that he opposes Catholic teaching; rejoicing in the growth of the Catholic colleges for women and in the promotion of summer schools where nuns could prepare for teaching under Catholic auspices.

Congressman W. R. Smith has served the people of this district long and capably. He has proved time out of mind that he is the right man in the right place, and, of course, will be returned by a larger majority than ever. It is a foregone conclusion that El Paso and Culberson counties will go solidly for him.—Van Horn Advocate.

The assaults upon Congressman Smith by his quasi opponent, Blanton, concerning the former's attitude toward the pension graft, reminds us of the time Judge Gordon Russell defeated congressman Degraffenreid on the selfsame issue—only the results will be different. Judge Russell declared he would stand on the floor of Congress and protest against the pension graft till his tongue did the cleaving act and his gold right hand turned the paralysis stunt. He'd block the game all by his lonesome. He beat Degraffenreid on such meretricious issues as "what HE would do in congress," but then he did it there and started to pull off one of his stunts, the chairman of rules of the house gently took him by the hand and led him in front of the steam roller and afterward placed the pulp of what was left under the pile driver. When Judge Russell returned to his district he'd shy at the sound of the word "pension" like a gun shy dog at the report of a buffalo gun. We say—Blanton's pipe dreams about what he would do for pensions, reminds us of Judge Russell's ideas, only results will be different at the primaries.

A NEEDED SAFEGUARD

Whoever has gone up and down the graded hill one mile west of town, on the Westbrook and Big Springs road, whether in automobile, wagon, buggy, horseback or afoot, and has not been struck with the eminent fitness of the place for a serious or a fatal accident? The grade is so steep that it is only when a selling agent for a car is "demonstrating" to a prospective purchaser that he is able to negotiate the hill in the high. On all other occasions he hits it as low as he can. In wet weather the constituent soil is both slippery and treacherous. On the south side the greater part of the dangerous acclivity is protected by a sheer wall of rock, but on the north side there is nothing separating the narrow roadway from the chasm that abuts it.

It would require nothing but a trifling incident to prove a tragedy at this place. The skidding of a machine, the failure of a brake to hold, the scare of a team, a single horse or the awkward passing of two vehicles on this grade would without doubt result in serious injury to humanity, beasts, machine or vehicle. The Record has heard several persons, particularly ladies, express their fear of an accident at this place; and inasmuch as it would require but little time and labor to build a protecting wall a few feet high along the north side of the dangerous part of this grade, it seems to us that public safety demands the protection. The material lies close at hand for the building of the wall.

The Record hopes the honorable commissioners' court may view this menace to human life, limb and property from the same angle it does, and will at an early day repair what should have been done when the grade was built.

"MIGHTY GOOD LOOKING BUT HE CAN'T COME IN."

Judge Too Late Blanton tore off another yard or so of hysteria last week for the illumination of the voters of Mertzson and Iron county. In reporting his speech the Mertzson Star hands the Judge the following ambiguous encouragement.

"Judge Blanton impressed his hearers as being an honest speaker, whose sincerity regarding the subjects he discussed is beyond question and his belief in his ability to remedy these evils equally sincere. Here in Iron county, one of Congressman Smith's iron-bound strong holds, Judge Blanton won the quiet, undivided attention of his hearers, who were in accord with his sentiments on most subjects, but whether or not he won any votes, time and time alone will tell."

THERE'S A MORAL

A story came to us a few days ago from an outlying community, and we would give the name and address of the victim, only we believe he will never buy another gold brick of the same kind, and we publish this with the hope that the experience and warning may break his or biting at any other kind of sucker eggs.

The story goes that a pack peddler stopped at his home and displayed a lot of cheap and antiquated dress patterns, thread, pins, needles and dyes other wares that appeal to women folks. For the men of the establishment, the faker spread out a lot of shoddy razors. The man of the house bought a razor, the women folk, a few spools of thread and a dress pattern. All thought they had secured bargain razors one Sunday morning, their things do, wrethe cheated or not but when the man came to try out his "bargain razor one Sunday morning, he voted himself the Prince of Suckerdom and the High Priest of all Fooldom. It wouldn't do the work a little bit, and so he put on a trifle more steam. The blade buckled and grabbed out a chunk of his jaw that had been doing duty for forty years in the region of his Adam's apple. One particular spot on his mug will never again need shaving.

He was in last week to pay his subscription and related his sad and painful experience with fakers. He had in his pocket a complete shaving outfit bought that day from one of the local merchants, and averred that while his experience with the fake cost him 75 cents in money, it was worth hundreds of dollars to him in buying experience. He will buy hereafter everything he can from the local people. And it may be well to say in dismissing his case that his damaged jaw is getting well, but one spot will be guileless of any hirsute growth forever and one day.

RURAL ROUTE EXAMINATIONS

On July 25th there will be held at the post office here in Colorado an examination for rural route carriers for the two new routes to be established on August 1st. Postmaster John Persons has application blanks and will give any information desired.

Under the present regulations examinations are held for each county in which eligibles are needed instead of holding them as formerly to reach office. NO PERSON IS ELIGIBLE FOR THE PENDING EXAMINATION WHO IS NOT ACTUALLY DOMICILED WITHIN THE TERRITORY SUPPLIED BY A POST OFFICE IN THE COUNTY FOR WHICH THE EXAMINATION IS HELD. A person must be examined in the county in which the post office that supplies his home is situated. As a result of such examination he may become eligible to appointment as rural carrier at any post office in such county.

There is forwarded you herewith a copy of application blanks, envelopes, which should be distributed upon request to all applicants who reside within the territory supplied by a post office in your county. Each applicant should be informed that the application should be properly executed and filed with the Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., about ten days prior to the date of examination, otherwise it may be impracticable to examine him.

JUDGE SMITH IN KIMBLE COUNTY

Among other complimentary things said of Judge W. R. Smith and his recent visit to that county by the Kimble County Citizen we take the following excerpt:

"Hon. W. R. Smith, candidate for the 16th. Congressional district, spoke at the court house in Junction last Thursday night. There is no doubt that he is a man of deep thought and capable of big undertakings and such as there matters which come before Congressmen in dealing with out state and normal affairs. Mr. Smith is not of the blunder-bustering fire-eating, over enthusiastic sort, though he has plenty of earnest zeal. His personality and manner of speech if of a deliberate and decisive nature and commands respect and admiration."

We have given generous space this week to the story of "An Editorial Reformation. Be sure you read it, for it contains a moral and explains the cause of dry rot that seizes upon the business department of so many country newspapers. At the same time take the covert hint the story carries to many patrons of country newspaper offices.

A. H. Weston is again at his editorial desk of the Colorado Record. Mr. Weston is a versatile and virile writer and we shall again have the benefit of his wisdom and the enjoyment of his editorial productions every week.—Roscoe Times.

A MAN'S JOB FOR CONGRESSMAN.

Kansas City Times: Congress is getting out of the casual labor class. One of the industrial problems to be solved is how to give regular work to workers.

President Wilson seems to believe that a good place to begin as any is with the representatives in congress. Instead of casually working at a tariff bill and tinkering at odd jobs on post offices and pork barrels, a congressman is now enjoying a real man's work for eight hours a day, six days a week, fifty weeks a year.

Or, if he is not 'enjoying' it, he is trying mighty hard to look pleasant and make the folks back home think he is enjoying it.

ANOTHER GLORIOUS RAIN

It came just when the farmers were ready for it. Not that crops were suffering in any way, but with nearly every farmer up with his work, the weeds cut and everything clean and ready for the finishing touches to give assurance of the most bountiful crop of everything ever produced in west Texas. The rain came last Thursday afternoon and continued through the following night, thoroughly soaking the ground and covering the entire county.

A ride over the country last, Saturday more than confirmed our previous opinion of the condition of crops in Mitchell county. In no section of the state or any other state, for that matter, did we ever see conditions more promising at this stage of the crops. The last rain cinched the older feed crop and put the younger in such a vigorous and flourishing condition that nothing short of an unprecedented drought can ruin it. The cotton, though small for this date is merging into the blooming stage and promises well. There will be no inconsiderable amount of corn raised in this county, which together with the small grain crop already harvested, will be almost clear "pick-up" for the farmer. However, even with the present prospect and fruition, it might be just as well to keep in mind the experience of the farmer of the scriptures, who grew a trifle fore-handed with the giver with every good and perfect gift and gave more attention to the building of bigger barns than to a suitable expression of his gratitude. Don't get into your nogging that you've done it all. You tried just as faithfully to make a good crop every year the past five. For it is not by plowing, hoeing, nor even irrigation, but by "My Spirit", saith the Lord God.

Say Fellers; let's make Colorado a better town, good as it is now. "Pull together and take no denial for what we want" is the way to get it. A good plan to begin with and end with is to give all trade possible to the local merchants. Let's do a lot of swapping here among ourselves. Start this movement by reading carefully all the advertisements in the Record. It will save you money.

THERE'S A REASON.

The state of Kansas has decided to systematically inquire into the mail order business and undertake to turn the great stream of wealth that is constantly leaving the state back into the local channel. A committee has been formed in the Sunflower capital, and we shall anxiously await their findings. There is no reason but that the results will be startling, and there is a reason. It is not that better goods are purchased from abroad, so is not the case. Good goods cost pretty much the same the world over. The variation in cost of handling and transportation are insignificant when compared to the added advantage of being able to obtain the commodity at home. An investigation of this kind was once made in Hemphill county, and the information showed at that time that the mail order business was very heavy. This is a reading age. People have arrived at the conclusion that it is better economy to sit down and figure out what they want and then buy it than it is to "look around". Humanity is a creature of suggestion, and that is the present method of attracting trade.—Canadian Record.

Which means that people don't always know just what they want until their attention is attracted to certain articles by reading newspaper advertisements or trade catalogues. All the newspaper talk against mail order houses (and there has been a lot of it recently) isn't going to "turn the stream of wealth" back into the local channels unless the country merchant is willing to meet the mail order houses on their own ground and fight them with their own weapons. Nor will a commission, either self-constituted or appointed by the state, be able to do the trick. They may be able to find out where the trouble lies, but they will be powerless to apply the remedy. If the mail order houses had advertised in the desultory, inefficient way that most country merchants adopt they would never have become the menace to the country towns that they now are. If the merchants want to help the newspapers in their fight against the mail order business it will pay them to study the methods of their competitors. The advertising department of a mail order house is considered the most important part of the establishment, and its employees are paid the highest salaries. Every dollar that they pay out for advertising is expected to bring results, and the business is so systematized and so well looked after that it never fails to meet their expectations. They don't wait until an advertising agent comes around and then dash off a few lines and tell them to put that in some of the leading periodicals this month. Time and care are taken in the preparation of advertising copy, and contracts are made with a view to getting the most they can for their money. Several times in the course of our newspaper career we have received advertising propositions from Montgomery-Ward & Co. but in no case do we remember that they ever stated that they were just doing a little advertising to help the newspapers out. Do you suppose that the house of Sears & Roebuck would have developed

PATENTS D. SWIFT & CO. PATENT LAWYERS, 303 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

In a quarter of a century into the immense concern that it now is if they had confined their advertising to sending out a small circular about once a year telling the people that they had everything for sale but giving no descriptions, no prices and no illustrations? Advertising, to be effective, must attract attention, and it must tell a little more than people can read on your sign board. If the country merchant would give his advertising the careful study and close attention that its importance demands, he would have a good deal less cause to fear the encroachments of the mail order house.—Garford Herald.

$950 Overland $950

The Strict Maintenance of this Price is Your Guarantee of Security

THIS list price is established and maintained all over the country. It makes no difference whether you purchase your Overland in New York or New Mexico—THIS PRICE NEVER VARIES.

Recently, ten friends decided to each get an Overland. They went to an Overland dealer in a body—said they would take ten cars on the spot if he would give them 5 per cent off. He refused. They argued that his neighboring competitor had already offered them 10 per cent off of the car he represented. The Overland dealer then replied that if they would wait a few days longer the man next door would probably give them 20 per cent off! They did not wait a few days—but bought ten Overlands at the full list price.

Now—these men bought the Overlands, NOT because they knew so much about the car, but because they had COMPLETE confidence in the Overland dealer who had the one fixed price and ABSOLUTELY NO confidence in the competing dealer who had a variety of prices.

It does not take any great amount of intelligence to see through the weaknesses, drawbacks and insecurity of a cut-price car proposition. Either the car, or the factory behind it, or the dealer, OR ALL THREE CAN NOT BE RELIED UPON.

Remember—that in purchasing an Overland you get a great deal more than just the best car for the least money; you get SERVICE that is dependable, permanent and international.

That the public has firm faith in the Overland is amply evidenced by the following record breaking figures:

Up to date we have delivered over $42,000,000.00 worth of nineteen fourteen Overlands. Right now the public is investing over $250,000.00 a day in Overlands.

If we did not out-class (both in car value and service) those who are continually cutting their price how could we continue to get the greatest volume of business?

The Overland is a larger car; a more powerful car; a more comfortable car; a more complete car and a more thoroughly made car than any other for the price.

And it costs you 30 per cent less than any similar car.

Why don't you have an Overland demonstration?

I SHALL NOT PASS AGAIN THIS WAY.

(This poem was found in the desk of Mr. Daniel S. Ford, the proprietor and editor of "The Youth's Companion," after his death when his desk was cleared by loving hands. It explains much of Mr. Ford's wide and generous benefactions.)

The bread that giveth strength I want to give;
The water pure that bids the thirsty live;
I want to help the fainting day by day;
I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.
I want to give the oil of joy for tears,
The faith to conquer cruel doubts and fears,
Beauty for ashes may I give away;
I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.
I want to give good measure running o'er,
And into angry hearts I want to pour
The answer soft that turneth wrath away;
I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.
I want to give to others hope and faith;
I want to do all that the Master saith;
I want to live aright from day to day;
I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.

AUXILIARY

The Auxiliary of the C. W. B. M. met with Mrs. Ben Moran Monday afternoon with Mrs. W. W. Porter as leader. Subject "Our Indian Work in Northern Canada" with this scripture key, "Let Thy Mercy, O Lord, be upon us according as we hope in Thee." This was an especially good meeting in many ways. The reports were all good. There was a large attendance. All the members on the program came up with their parts and the paper by Mrs. Leslie Crowder, on "Among the Indians in Northern Canada" as also one on Customs and Superstitions of the Indians, by Mrs. S. L. Majors were splendid.

Little Mary Broadus gave in her sweet childish way a beautiful reading "Let Me Walk in the Fields."

Four new members were received. The Bible questions were on Isaiah.

The meeting which is to begin this week was planned and prayed for.

At the social hour Misses Emma Bell, and Bennie Morgan and Eva Smith served the ladies with a delicious chicken salad with its accompaniments followed by ice cream and two kinds of home made cake.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Little Miss Marion McSpadden celebrated her eleventh birthday Monday by having a crowd of little girl friends come play with her. A happy time was had in the swings, letting the "old cat die," playing games and listening to the player piano. Many gifts dear to the hearts of all children on their birthdays were left by her little friends.

The young hostess refreshed her friends with delicious ice cream and cake.

The Baptist Church of Mangum, Okla., showed their appreciation of Pastor Holmes Nichols by raising his salary $300, giving him the month of July for revival meetings, voting the month of August for his vacation on full salary. Brother Nichols will devote both July and August to revival work, his time all being booked to the first of September.—Baptist Standard.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY

The Young People's Missionary Society of the Methodist church met with Miss Gertrude Schroeder Tuesday.

Misses Carrie May Cooksey and Hazel Costin were received as new members. Besides the lesson on "Mexico to Today" the program in the Missionary Voice was carried out. Ice cream and cake were served at the social hour.

The next meeting will be with Miss Claudia Smith.

MEETING CLOSED.

The protracted meeting conducted by the pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. R. A. Clements, closed last Sunday night.

While the visible results were not as much as was hoped for, yet much good was accomplished. The pastor fearlessly preached the gospel and in no uncertain terms denounced all things that hindered the unsaved from being saved and increased the indifference and godliness of Christians.

The church was led to higher grounds and by the proper co-operation with this noble, untiring pastor, will be able to escape that state of indifference that existed before with so many.

JUNIOR B. Y. P. U.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Morgan entertained the Junior B. Y. P. U. on their lawn Tuesday evening. They all met at the church and were taken in carriages to the home. A very pleasant time was spent by these near young people, playing games and singing songs. They were chaperoned afterwards by Mr. and Mrs. Morgan to the confectionery, and treated to delicious ice cream.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

(J. N. Campbell, Pastor)
The church voted the pastor a month's vacation and he will be out of his pulpit for three Sundays. All of the regular services except the two preaching services on Sunday will continue as usual. Protracted meeting first two weeks of August at the tabernacle.

At the latter place he attended the clinics under Doctors Murphy and Ochner, the greatest surgeons in the world. He also took a post graduate course in children's diseases and attended the tuberculosis clinics, where the new serum for the treatment of this disease was fully demonstrated. While in Detroit, he attended the laboratory experiments with the serum for the treatment of cancer. He saw three bad cases completely cured with this serum which is not yet on the market.

It is sad that the sweetest side of any fruit or vegetable is the side which grows toward the sun. There is no doubt that the sun has a great deal to do with the beauty and flavor of the fruits which are the delight of man. In this casual observation, as in so many facts from nature, rests a beautiful spiritual lesson for us all. What the sun is to the natural world, that, and much more, is Christ to the world of spiritual things. As the sun influences the fruit and vegetables of the earth, giving them beauty and consciousness, so Christ sheds an influence over the lives of many and gives them beauty of character and purity of heart. And as the sweetest side of a fruit or vegetable is the side toward the sun, so the best side of man is the side toward Christ.—Exchange.

He would tell the driver that he feels the heat on a very warm day quite as much if he could read a thermometer.

He would say—"Give me a little water many times a day, when the heat is intense, but not much at a time, if I am warm; if you want me to keep well don't give me any grain when you bring me warm into the stable, just half a dozen swallows and some hay to eat until I am cool.

"Don't water me too soon after I have eaten my grain, wait an hour. Especially do I need watering between nine and ten o'clock at night. I am thirstier then than at almost any other time of day."

He would say—"When the sun is hot and I am working let me breathe once in a while in the shade of some house or tree; if you have to leave me on the street leave me in the shade if possible. Anything upon my head, between my ears, to keep off the sun, is bad for me if the air cannot circulate freely beneath it, unless it is a sponge kept cool and wet. If you treat me as you would yourself, and do not clip off my foretop, you need not have much fear of losing me by a sunstroke.

"If on extremely warm days I give evidence by panting and signs of exhaustion that I am being overcome with heat, unharness me, take me into the shade and apply cool water or even broken ice, wrapped up in a cloth or put in a bag, to my head, sponge out my mouth and go over my legs with a cool wet sponge."

He would talk of slippery streets, and the sensation of falling on cruel city cobblestones—the pressure of the load pushing him to the fall, the bruised knees and wrenched joints, and the feel of the driver's lash.

He would tell of the luxury of a fly net when at work and of a fly blanket when standing still in fly season, and of the boon to him of screens in the stable to keep out the insects that bite and sting.

He would plead for as cool and comfortable place as possible in which to rest at night after a day's work under the hot sun.

He would suggest that living through a warm night in a narrow stall neither properly cleaned nor bedded is suffering for him and poor economy for the owner.

He would say that turning the hose on him is altogether too risky a thing to do unless you are looking for a sick horse. Spraying the legs and feet when he is not too warm on a hot day, he would find agreeable.

He would say—"Please sponge out my eyes and nose and dock when I come in tired and dusty at night, and also sponge me with cool water under the collar and saddle of the harness."

THERE'S NO SENSE IN TAKING CALOMEL.

Dodson's Liver Tone will fix up your liver safely and won't "knock you out" a day. A man feels very little like working and a child don't want to go to school when bilious or constipated. If you try calomel to cure you, the chances are that you will be weakened by its after-effects that you will be laid up for two or three days more. So we say "Don't take Calomel!" You can get a perfect remedy to take the place of Calomel at Floyd Beall's that is guaranteed to relieve constipation and live up the liver just as quickly as Calomel, but without any of the bad after-effects of Calomel. The name of this medicine is Dodson's Liver Tone. It is a pleasant tasting vegetable tonic that mildly stimulates the liver and causes it to work just right without any danger of salivation. If it doesn't fully satisfy you, you may have your money back from the store where you bought Dodson's.

WEST TEXAS PIONEER GONE

We take the following notice from the columns of the Post City Post relative to the death of Mr. Sam C. Wilkes, who formerly lived in Colorado and had many friends here who will mourn her passing:

"On Tuesday, June 30, Mrs. Sam C. Wilkes, Sr., died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Dubose. Mrs. Wilkes' death and due to a complication of diseases aggravated by weakness and old age. Her passing away removes another one of the pioneers of Western Texas and her place can never be filled. She was a faithful and loving wife and mother and a true friend to all. Her death has brought grief to many hearts in this part of the country but words cannot express the feelings of those who knew her. She leaves two sons, W. A. Wilkes and Sam C. Wilkes, and a daughter, Mrs. W. J. DuBose. She was buried in the Post City Cemetery Wednesday evening."

THE BEST SIDE

It is sad that the sweetest side of any fruit or vegetable is the side which grows toward the sun. There is no doubt that the sun has a great deal to do with the beauty and flavor of the fruits which are the delight of man. In this casual observation, as in so many facts from nature, rests a beautiful spiritual lesson for us all. What the sun is to the natural world, that, and much more, is Christ to the world of spiritual things. As the sun influences the fruit and vegetables of the earth, giving them beauty and consciousness, so Christ sheds an influence over the lives of many and gives them beauty of character and purity of heart. And as the sweetest side of a fruit or vegetable is the side toward the sun, so the best side of man is the side toward Christ.—Exchange.

J. A. Kirkpatrick made a business trip to Abilene and Dallas this week.

New Hand Carved Rose Beads; all colors at Major's Jewellery Store.

The industrious citizens of the town are now reveling in an abundance of garden truck. We witnessed one lady this week gather a wash tub full of corn, the finest ripe tomatoes, three varieties of squash, cucumbers (for the cow,) beans okra galore, onions large as a cup and "sparrowgrass." She didn't even then exhaust the variety of her garden, but a neighbor came in and she stopped to talk "things" over with her.

Upon dismissal of the summer school, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hart will go to Cloudercroft for the remainder of the heated term.

Tom Stonerod, wife and baby, Mrs. D. N. Arnett and daughter, Miss Nellie Ruth Arnett and Miss Lena McNairy arrived on Tuesday morning's northbound passenger and are visiting relatives and friends here and will also spend a few days on the Arnett ranch southwest of Lubbock.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Plenty of Pure Hog Lard at Beal's market.

Mayor C. M. Adams returned last week from an extended visit in Alabama. He reports a delightful trip, though the weather was more noticeably hot there than in West Texas. He brings the assurance that the best crops he saw while gone are in West Texas, and particularly in Mitchell county.

Bring me your chickens and eggs.—Woolen Jeffress, at Moor's liver stable.

Phone Watt Collier for your baggage hauling.

Cliff Ethridge left this week for a vacation at his old home at Taylor, Alabama. It has always been hard for us to imagine one from the good old state of Alabama, without hailing from either "Talla-digger" or "Talla-poosy" but Cliff long ago established a credible alibi to this suspicion. The Record hopes he will enjoy his vacation to the full.

Come in and see or phone 35 and ask what we have. Beal's Market.

Rev. M. Phelan and family of Chillicothe, Texas, returned home last week after a week's visit with relatives and friends in Colorado.

HAPPY MOTHERHOOD

The happiness of motherhood is often checked because the mother's strength is not equal to her cares, while her unselfish devotion neglects her own health. It is a duty of husband or friend to see that she gets the pure medicinal nourishment in Scott's Emulsion, which is not a drug or stimulant but nature's concentrated oil-food tonic to enrich and enliven the blood, strengthen the nerves and aid the appetite. Physicians everywhere prescribe Scott's Emulsion for overworked, nervous, tired women; it builds up and holds up their strength. Get Scott's at your nearest drug store.

C. W. Hagler, another top farmer of the Buford ballwick, brought to this office samples of maize planted on March 18th, but was frozen to the ground during the cold snap in April. It came out four and five stalks to the hill and redeemed itself as a feed prospect by giving promise of making 50 bushels to the acre. This estimate of its yield was made by Mr. W. A. Dulin, county farm demonstrator.

Our base ball team is the best in West Texas. Our laundry is the best in the state.—Give us a trial.—Colorado Steam Laundry.

Austin A. Altzier, recently of the gents' clothing department of Moning's, Fort Worth, is a new man with the Patterson Dry Goods Company, taking the place of Mr. Bibby, who returned East. Mr. Altzier seems a very pleasant young man and comes to us with recommendations of the highest order.—Midland Reporter.

Rose Beads in real hand carved to match any color dress.—Majors the Jeweler.

Sam Curry one of the factum factorum of the Buford community and sometimes farmer, was in last week with samples of corn that would make that of the Brazos bottoms feel like nubbins of popcorn by comparison. He claims two full ears to the stalk and estimates the yield at the rate of 40 bushels per acre. Now, that estimating at the rate of—"and the further fact that he did not state the number of acres he had like the samples shown leads us to suspect that Sam was out for a little advertising. However as he is a deputy sheriff, with all the appurtenances and accoutrements pertaining thereto, if he claims to have 360 acres of this kind of corn—why it goes, of course.

You can enter Hart's Business School at any time. There are now forty attending.

Mrs. Van King and the littlest Kings, Misses Maud and Fannie Farmer motored to Roscoe Tuesday. Mrs. King and the children will visit a few weeks with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Nick Anthony.

Douglas has a multitude of friends in and around Colorado, who are always glad to see him, and who congratulate him on his advancement in the business world.

The Record has an ad this week of Uvalde honey; the best honey in Texas. Turn and read it.

W. A. Oliver, living on the A. J. Hagler place north of town, brought to this office the past week three white Bermuda onions which weighed six pounds. This is a strong statement but we have the taste and scent to prove it.

Miss Jeanett Earnest is on the sick list this week.

Mrs. John R. Daniel honored Congressman W. R. Smith of Colorado City, with a six o'clock dinner Tuesday evening at her home on Locust street.—Merkel Cor. to Fort Worth Record.

We regret to chronicle the illness of Grandma Catherine Cooksey, who has been confined to her bed the past ten days. She has borne the distinction of being an octogenarian the past three years, and has supported the burden of years with unusual vigor, cheerfulness and industry. The entire community joins the Record in wishing her a speedy restoration to her wonted good health and many years of earthly sojourn with us.

Mrs. Beard of Lorraine, a girlhood friend and associate of Mrs. F. B. Whipkey, spent the day Wednesday with the latter. They had not seen each other for more than twenty years, but when the edge of friendship's renewal was worn off, they took up the conversation just here they broke off nearly a quarter of a century ago. As a rule, ladies are good conversers.

Now is the time to arrange for the planting of shade trees about your home. Do this for the comfort of wife and children, if not for your own. Or better still, give your wife a chance to do it.

Buford—Miss Millie Bodine, Miss Malle Bodine, W. H. Bodine, Mr. Bedford, C. Rose, H. C. Hines.

Westbrook—Rev. Carmack, John Thompson, C. E. Butler, J. C. Bullock.

The Record hopes that a full delegation will stand for this county, as these annual meetings can be made of great benefit to every farmer who will attend and keep his eyes and ears open. Farming is fast developing into a learned profession, and the man who expects to prosecute it for a living, must keep abreast of the times. The old order of the "moon" and hard work has passed away and a more scientific and certain regime obtains.

No longer does the up to date farmer expect to get the same results by always taking from and never adding to the soil. He keeps it supplied with humus and bacteria, has his soil analyzed from time to time, and keeps it from getting "sick", like a good doctor cares for a human body.

SURPRISING CURE OF STOMACH TROUBLE

When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. Geo. G. Stengle, Plainfield, N. J. writes, "For over a month past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's Advertising Booklets came to me, after reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything that I want." For Sale by W. L. Doss.
