ALLIES WANT BEEF CATTLE

Helena, Mont., Aug. 14.—An inquiry for one million beef cattle to be delivered at Liverpool was made known here today by C. O. Robinson of a large Chicago packing house. The order, if filled, means the payment of about $100,000,000 and will make deep inroads into the available cattle supply of the United States.

Crosbyton, Texas, Aug. 12.—John O. Baker, formerly of Lubbock, but now of Crosbyton, has announced his candidacy for the position of State Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic State primary next year. Although he was defeated in the race for the same office last year, he received approximately two hundred thousand votes.

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT TO BE RESTORED IN PENITENTIARY.

Austin, Aug. 16.—Recommendations looking to the restoration of corporal punishment at the State penitentiaries are practically certain to be made to the next session of the legislature by the special penitentiary committee appointed by the thirty-fourth legislature. The committee has completed its investigation and is now compiling its reports to the governor. This will be a move to restore the "bat" as a means of punishment and is believed to be a precursor of another violent penitentiary fight in the legislature. The investigation disclosed that no amount of persuasion will induce certain of the lazy, worthless prisoners to work. Even solitary confinement on bread and water has no terrors for them. It is also learned that at times the convicts openly rebelled because they knew that they could not be flogged into consent to work. It is the opinion of certain members of the special investigating committee that greater efficiency could be realized by a more rigorous discipline of convicts.

STORM THREATENS GALVESTON CAUSEWAY IS BADLY DAMAGED

PEOPLE FLEE TO SAFETY—CITY LOSES COMMUNICATION WITH THE WORLD.

WATER REPORTED IN DOWN TOWN STREETS STEAMSHIP IS BLOWN THROUGH CAUSEWAY

Grand Hotel Reported Burning—Thousands Leave Coast Resorts to Seek Safety In Houston—Wires Down.

Buildings along water front ruined; many boats wrecked; wireless from transport Buford gives news of destruction wrought by storm; wind subsiding.

Fort Sam Houston, Aug. 17.—Replying to your wire to General Funston following latest bulletin from transport Buford at Galveston 5:30 p. m.:

"Water in business section is about three feet deep. Considerable damage done. All business houses and residences on water front ruined. Grain elevators and docks wrecked. Barges and tugs sunk at docks. Large steamers broken loose from docks. Transport McClelland aground high and dry. Number of lives lost not known."

We have no communication with Galveston except through transport Buford, which is cut off from Galveston.

Hay, Chief of Staff.

The foregoing was in response to a message sent to General Funston by George B. Dealey, vice president and general manager of The News, asking on behalf of the thousands of people interested that the Galveston News be permitted to send one hundred words to the Dallas News by Government wireless and promising to give this hundred words to all news distributing associations. As the transport Buford is cut off from Galveston, this it seems was impossible.

The Government wireless station at Brownsville picked up a brief message from Galveston yesterday afternoon that the storm was subsiding.

The statement in the message from the transport Buford that the number of lives lost is unknown, leaves it open to speculation as to whether there were any lives lost.

There has been no wire communication with Galveston since Monday night at 8 o'clock, or with Houston since 1:45 Tuesday morning. Wires to Beaumont were down yesterday. It is expected communication will be re-established early today.

Says Houston damage may reach $5,000,000. Conductor of Santa Fe train reaching Temple reports great havoc.

Temple, Texas, Aug. 17.—From Conductor C. C. Hughes, who brought Santa Fe passenger train No. 6 into Temple from Houston tonight, was obtained the first information relative to the damage inflicted by the storm in Houston and surrounding sections.

According to his story, appalling damage was inflicted upon the Bayou City, those with whom he talked roughly estimated the totals at $5,000,000. The entire business district is a scene of wreckage, with glass fronts blown in, awnings and signs torn from their fastenings and spread over the streets.

Cornices on buildings loosened and dropping to the street below with crashing reverberations with each additional blast of wind.

Wind Blowing a Gale.

The wind was still blowing a gale when the train left the railway station. The residence district has suffered in proportion, and overturned houses, uprooted trees, prostrate telephone and light poles and wreckage of all kinds being scattered promiscuously around. Hardly a roof in the city escaped damage and hundreds were lifted bodily from buildings and carried by the wind considerable distances. It is reported that the electric light and gas plants are both out of commission and telephone service paralyzed.

The entire coast country is devastated, according to the story related by Conductor Hughes. From Houston, to Rosenberg there is not a telegraph pole up and water standing from two to four feet deep.

It will be several days before wire communication can be restored, and probably a longer time will elapse before the full extent of the damage is ascertained.

Unsafe to Walk in Streets.

A passenger on the train stated that it was unsafe to walk through the business streets of Houston last night and today, and that carloads of shattered plate glass littered the pavements everywhere, while buildings with gaping holes and leaning walls were visible on all sides.

The people of Houston up to 1 o'clock today had been unable to get in communication with Galveston since 8 o'clock last night, although every expedient that can be thought of has been devised.

News from Galveston reaches Washington. Wireless message via San Antonio says worst of storm has passed.

Washington, Aug. 17.—The first authentic word from Galveston to reach Washington today came in a message this afternoon to Gen. Tasker Bliss, chief of staff, from General Funston at San Antonio. General Funston reported he had just received a radio message from the transport Buford at Galveston, saying that the worst of the storm was over and that there has been no communication with Galveston since 8 o'clock last night, although every expedient that can be thought of has been devised.

"Buford radio reports this morning that the transport McClelland broke loose from her moorings and drifted half a mile. She is now anchored at the dock, badly damaged. The commercial radio stations are out of commission, the aerials all blown down. All houses on the seawall have been destroyed. Boats are on the main streets taking people from buildings. Five feet of water at the depot."

Port Arthur suffers big loss in storm.

Dallas, Aug. 18.—Several lives were lost at Port Arthur and nearby coasts. Property loss is estimated at $5,000,000. All buildings along the bay shore are virtually demolished according to messages received here.

Buildings on water front are ruined. Wireless reports many boats destroyed and others damaged.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 17.—The following wireless was received at the Fort Sam Houston wireless station from the army transport Buford in Galveston Harbor at 5:20 o'clock:

"Water in buildings about three feet. All buildings and structures of every nature along water front are ruined. Many boats have been greatly damaged and others destroyed. The army transport McClelland is high and dry half a mile inland. The number of lives lost is unknown. There has been great pecuniary damage."

The smessage indicates the water has receded two feet in three hours, as a message received at 2 o'clock stated that the water stood five feet high in many streets and buildings.

WATER DRAINING OFF.

Galveston, Texas, via Government Wireless, Fort Sam Houston and telephone to San Antonio, 10:10 a. m.—Galveston today had passed through one of the worst storms within the last fifteen years, and now is ready to repair the damage done by last night's hurricane.

Five feet of water stands in the city and is slowly draining off. Two fires started today and are yet to be placed under control. The transport McClelland late last night broke from its moorings and drifted half mile out to seaward. The commercial wireless station here and at Port Arthur are out of commission and the big aerial at Fort Crockett here is down.

Suffering is intense in Galveston.

Galveston, Aug. 18.—By wireless from U. S. transport Buford.—Considerable suffering exists in the city. The water system, lighting and ear systems are out of commission. There is no drinking water here. Three hundred feet of the causeway is destroyed. All officers, employees, enlisted men and their families at Fort Crockett are reported safe.

40 Dead at Texas City; 6 at La Porte; 8 at Morgan Point; 3 at Sylvan Beach; 3 at Seabrook.—$1,000,000 Damage at Houston—Militia May Be Called Out.

Galveston, 2:15 p. m.—There is considerable suffering in the city. The water, lighting, gas, and car systems are out of commission. No drinking water is to be had. Three hundred feet of causeway destroyed. All officers, classified employees, enlisted men and their families are at Fort Crockett safe.

Dallas, Aug. 18. (12.56).—Galveston and the coast country are prostrate after the hurricane which has caused millions of dollars property loss and unknown number of deaths. It is impossible in the light of existing circumstances to determine the number of those who have lost their lives in the storm.

Each bulletin from the storm center shows the gravity of the situation, and conditions at Galveston are believed to be getting continually worse today. Reports are meagre and exact details of the loss of property and life cannot be learned.

It is believed in Houston, whence the refugees are arriving today, that the Galveston property loss is greater than in 1900.

Eight bodies of women reported washed up at Texas City are believed to be from Galveston.

Thousands of dead animals were seen.

The drawbridge of the causeway is gone. The rest of the structure is intact so far as known. The loss of life and the crop damage along the coast are believed to be great.

Governor Ferguson leaves Austin tonight for Houston to take up relief work.

Dallas, Aug. 18.—Several lives have been lost at Port Arthur, the coast resort south of here, and the property loss is estimated at $500,000. The buildings along the bay shore have virtually all been demolished, according to a message received here today.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18.—The bodies of seven drowned persons have been recovered at Hitchcock, Texas, fourteen miles north of Galveston, according to dispatches today from W. E. Maxon, general superintendent of the Santa Fe to the general office here.

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 18.—2 p. m.—Eighteen soldiers are said to be dead in Texas City. Thirty to forty civilians are also dead there, according to reports. Six dead at LaPorte, eight at Morgan Point, three at Sylvan Beach, three at Seabrook are also reported. Eight of the dead soldiers were killed when the three-story brick Thompson building collapsed. The others were drowned. Military rule has been established at Texas City.

It is estimated that a fourth of the cotton area in the storm was destroyed, or fifteen to twenty-five per cent of the entire cotton crop of Texas.

Seabrook is claimed by the papers to be entirely annihilated. Two deaths by accident occurred at Houston. "Waves splashed over interurban car when leaving Galveston Monday," said a refugee. "Citizens of Galveston were more frightened than tourists. They crowded the depots and were practically panic stricken. It was reported Monday that water was running over the sea wall."

HIGH CLASS AMUSEMENTS

PROCLAMATION!

To The Woodmen Log Rolling Association of West Texas and the General Public

WE hope that your visit to our little city will be held with great pleasure and profit to yourselves—as great as the pleasure of our citizenship is to have so distinguished a body of ladies and gentlemen within our gates.

—At the same time we cordially invite you to visit our store and make yourselves at home there during your stay, and attend the big sale we purpose to put on for your special benefit. It is our purpose to close out in this sale our entire stock of summer goods of all kinds. Nothing will escape the knife of reduction. Your money will go two miles of value, getting where it before and elsewhere would get only one mile.

—All that we ask of you is to visit our place of business with an open mind and careful purse, inspect our stock, compare our values and prices. We do not fear the result. You will buy. Indicating the great reductions we shall make on this occasion, we note only a few below. Our entire stock will be correspondingly reduced.

—Business is good at this store all the time. The reason of this is no secret. We simply give Big Values for little money:

GEORGE FITCH, HUMORIST, SUCCEUMS TO OPERATION.

Creator of Siwash College Stories on Visit to Exposition Is Stricken

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 9.—George Fitch, creator of Siwash College, and one of the country's most famous humorists, died following an operation for appendicitis in Berkeley this evening.

Fitch was stricken on Friday while staying at the Shattuck hotel. He was removed to the Alta Bates sanitarium where Dr. David Haden performed an operation Sunday.

The news came as a great shock to George Ade and John T. McCutcheon, the cartoonist, who were close personal friends of "the sage of Peoria." The humorists had come West together to see the exposition.

Fitch sprang into fame a few years ago with his stories of Siwash College. Later he relinquished burlesque and wrote many remarkable pieces of humor, in which students were quick to discover something Lincolnque. Fitch had drawn from the very soil of his Illinois home some of the homely, kindly philosophy which had become to be considered typically American. He was thirty-eight years old.

Born in 1878, George Fitch graduated from Knox College, a quiet denominational institution, which later he burlesqued in "Siwash." His life was spent wholly in newspaper offices as reporter, editorial writer and editor. In 1912 he was elected to the lower house of the Illinois legislature. Recently he was elected president of the American Press Humorists.

AMERICA'S BIG CROP

Washington, Aug. 9.—Three billion bushels of corn, one and a half million bushels of oats and a billion bushels of wheat are in prospect for this year's American harvest. Record crops of rye, white and sweet potatoes, tobacco, rice and hay also are predicted for the prosperous farmers who have planted 310,546,000 acres, or 10,000,000 more than last year, to their principal products.

The wheat crop, the greatest ever grown in this country, will be worth more than $1,000,000,000, while the corn crop's value may reach more than 2,500,000,000.

VISITORS' DAY A SUCCESS. Large Crowds Visit U. S. Station Wednesday and Enjoy Excellent Program.

The first Annual Visitors' Day was observed at the U. S. Experiment Station Wednesday and a very pleasant occasion it proved to be for the large number who were present. The object of visitors' day was to give our citizens an opportunity to visit the station, see what is being done and to become more familiar with the experimental work being carried out. Those who avail themselves of the opportunity to walk out through the growing crops and note the many different varieties and different methods used, found much of interest. Though not attempting to maintain a demonstration farm, really fine crops are to be noted on most of the experimental plots, some 300 in number, as well as in some large tracts planted to feed crops at the station. The large barn had been provided with seats and a stage, where the crowd, assembled about 1:30 p. m. to enjoy the speeches and music arranged for the afternoon.

J. E. Mundell, superintendent of the station, was the first speaker, and he clearly outlined the work the station was engaged in. He pointed out that it was not placed here to compete with the farmer or to attempt to show him how to farm, but instead, was here to obtain the exact data relative to all crops now grown in a dry farming section and furnish such information to those who desired the same. The work must be carried out through a course of years before valuable information can be gained and as the years go by the value of the work being carried out here will be more fully appreciated. Mr. Mundell's talk was much appreciated and a better understanding of the object of the station was revealed.

Congressman W. R. Smith was given a rousing reception and in an interesting talk had many nice things to say of Big Springs and her people and was indeed proud of the fine experiment station established here. He told of the persistent efforts put forth to aid the agricultural development of West Texas and was instrumental in securing this station for West Texas. He further stated that he was now free to use his efforts to enlarging the station here to include livestock raising and feeding, and could be depended upon to work to this end. He also advised our people to profit by the experimental work being carried out; stating that he believed West Texas would yet become one of the finest and most dependable farming sections of our great country.—Big Springs Herald.

SWEETWATER WATER SHOW

Sweetwater, Texas, Aug. 17.—Although city and county officials have united with the water show committee in an endeavor to find a suitable whale for placing in Lake Trammell reservoir upon the occasion of the official opening of that body of water on September 7th and 8th, so far no whale has been found.

The state fish and oyster commission has been asked for the address of a whale owner, and has not supplied the desired information; the Buy-It-Made-in-Texas Association has no whales on hand, and now appeals are being made to individuals and organizations who may possibly have whales. For Sweetwater had rather secure the whale in Texas before going outside the state for the product. Substitutes will not do, for a whale is necessary to fit both the occasion and the huge 1,080,000,000 gallon reservoir that has just been completed here.

In addition to having the whale spout for visitors there is to be a free barbecue, which can care for 10,000 visitors at a time, a reunion of the old-time cowmen of the free grass era, and numerous other attractions of old-time and western nature, but these attractions are not being given the main attention right now. The main thing is to get the whale, for there could be no grander scene than a real, live whale spouting and playing about in the big artificial lake, according to the belief of the celebration committee. The matter of price is not going to stand in the way of this committee securing the whale, and all Texas owners of whales, whether they are Texas raised products or imported affairs, are urged to send in their bids at once.

You Need a Tonic

There are times in every woman's life when she needs a tonic to help her over the hard places. When that time comes to you, you know what tonic to take—Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is composed of purely vegetable ingredients, which act gently, yet surely, on the weakened womanly organs, and helps build them back to strength and health. It has benefited thousands and thousands of weak, ailing women in its past half century of wonderful success, and it will do the same for you.

You can't make a mistake in taking

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Miss Amelia Wilson, R. F. D. No. 4, Alma, Ark., says: "I think Cardui is the greatest medicine on earth, for women. Before I began to take Cardui, I was so weak and nervous, and had such awful dizzy spells and a poor appetite. Now I feel as well and as strong as I ever did, and can eat most anything." Begin taking Cardui today. Sold by all dealers.

CARRANZA SOLDIERS SAID TO BE CROSSING TEXAS BORDER Flag Bearing Inscription, "Army of Liberation for Mexicans in Texas" Captured—Citizens Armed

Brownsville, Aug. 11.—Practically every American citizen in the three southernmost counties of Texas, Cameron, Hidalgo and Starr, is resting under arms tonight in fear that the overwhelming Mexican population of this section may break out in a racial fight.

The Mexican disturbance spread rapidly westward today until rumors of trouble developed at Laredo, 200 miles up the border from here. The disturbance today is reported here to have been part of an attempt to turn part of Texas back to Mexican control—a wild scheme backed partly by ignorant Mexicans, helped by escaped convicts and fugitives from justice from the American side, assisted by a fairly large influx of irresponsible Mexicans from the other side, including some Mexican soldiers, and by some of the bitter disputes of border political conditions, which in some instances kept the American residents of this section from realizing how strong the undercurrent of Mexican feeling was growing.

Rangers in Hidalgo county, pursuing some of the gang which killed an American trooper near Mercedes last night, today captured a flag bearing the words in Spanish, "Army of Liberation for Mexicans in Texas."
Call for Death of All American Men
They also took a horse, some literature urging Mexicans to revolt and some telegrams, one dated Monterey. Army and federal investigations showed that the organizers of the trouble are working under the plan of San Diego, which calls for the death of every American male over sixteen years of age in communities along the Rio Grande and also along the border of New Mexico, Arizona and California. It has been reported to Major General Frederick Funston that more than 2,000 Mexicans are pledged to this organization already.

Federal authorities last winter nipped one attempt to put this revolution into effect when they arrested a Mexican on charges of sedition, discovering in his possession details of the plan, which were published at the time.

Authorities here tonight are watching the rivers below Brownsville about ten miles, at a point where it is reported that several Mexicans had gathered on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande waiting to cross the river under darkness. A Mexican rancher in Hidalgo county, about fifty miles up the river from Brownsville, this afternoon appealed for aid, asserting that eighty armed Mexicans were in hiding on his ranch. He said they threatened to kill him if he told of their presence. There were many reports here that officials on the Mexican side of the river, which is under Carranza control, are responsible for some of the trouble on the American side, either by laxness of discipline or by direct connivance. However, there is no direct evidence that any of the higher Mexican authorities are involved in these plots, which seemed rather the doings of individuals.

1,700 Mexicans Cross Border
Officials here have reports that 1,700 former Carranza soldiers have crossed the river along a zone 120 miles wide as the crow flies, from a point below Brownsville to Rio Grande City, up the river. There are said to have been at least thirty different crossings. Most of this river bank winds through brush and woods far from any roads, so that a small army of troops would have difficulty in guarding it from crossings.

The arrival of troops in force from Laredo appears to have caused the bandits today to shift rapidly westward into the less populous sections between here and Laredo. Telephone messages tonight from the portions of Cameron county north of here, where the main fighting has been going on for two weeks, indicated that the outlaws had either left or were in hiding and that a night at least, of armed peace was expected. About Mercedes, a few miles northwest of here, rangers and cavalrymen pressed the bandits so hard today that some of them fled across the river. Cavalrymen captured thirty-five horses from one band near Mercedes after a running chase in which so far as could be learned no one was wounded.

A Texas woman has been convicted and sentenced to death in Massachusetts on the charge of murdering her husband. Serves her right for not killing him in Texas, where she would have been acquitted on the conventional plea of insanity. Let the sob sisters mobilize to save the amiable dame from a monstrous conspiracy of New England "witch burners."—Austin American.

FAIR AND CLEAR—that's the way your skin will be, if you'll take Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Eruptions, blotches, pimples, and rashes are utterly banished by this wonderful skin medicine. It takes away, more thoroughly and certainly than anything else, the harmful poisons or impurities that cause them.
For every Skin, Scalp, and Scrofulous affection, no matter how it came, the "Discovery" cleanses, builds up, strengthens, and invigorates every part of the system. Eczema, Erysipelas, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Boils, Carbuncles, Enlarged Glands, and the worst Scrofulous Sores and Swellings are completely and permanently cured by it.
Mrs. W. L. Yerton, of 422 S. Tennessee Street, McKinney, Texas, says:
"I have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and found it a wonderful medicine. Was greatly benefited by its use. I think it is a fine blood tonic—good for children. Hope it will do for others what it has done for me."

A Bell Telephone Always a Friend in Need

In case of sickness or accident, the doctor can be summoned by telephone in less time than it takes to harness a horse. If he is some distance away, he can give instructions over the telephone that may save a life.

Throughout all its reachings and workings, the Mexican series of revolutions has thrown nothing to the top as shiny, egotistical and inefficient as that old hillypout, Carranza.

IF WE ONLY KNEW

Hardly a week passes that some of the papers of this section of the State do not carry an account of some desperado and taking his or her own life, while the large dailies contain notices of many suicides.

Of course, it is impossible for us to know what is going on in the minds of those around us; what burdens are bearing them down; what battles they are silently fighting.

This thought is stirred by the recent suicide of an old friend of this writer's in another State. He was a man of fine character, liberal education, of genial disposition and a successful business man.

We are to great extent our brother's keeper, and the obligation is upon us to know something of our neighbor's condition. There is one royal road by which we can reach the hearts of others.

Nothing in all this world costs so little as kindness, with pleasant words and greetings, and of nothing in this world are the majority of us so ignorant.

Not a groan, many people are really sad at heart. They are often that we can imagine, victims of conditions, temperament and environment that we know nothing about.

PASSING OF A LOWLY HEROINE.

There died last week at Denison, Texas, Mrs. Jane Frazier, in the 23rd year of her age and the 3rd year of continuous warfare, with her flag still flying and with courage undaunted.

The courage of the old woman first amazed, then interested and finally amused the railroad company, accepting her and her fort as one of the jokes of the corporation.

THE WORK OF MEXICO'S TREASURY

Porfirio Diaz is dead. Five years ago the life of the foreigner was absolutely that of the native reasonably safe in Mexico. The number of schools was increasing.

Today Mexico has no railroads, no mines, no army, no trade, no finances, no crops. Instead, it has fifty dictators without vision, without brains, without patriotism.

Porfirio Diaz died the poor and gave him security of life, at least. The very security created by the Diaz government encouraged the poor to ask for more.

That wealth is all gone, the land is still there, but not in the poor's hands. It is still a seed, but no one cares whether he lives or starves, and his daughter is fair prey of every wandering hand.

President Wilson's appeal to the patriotism of the leaders has brought no result. What is to be done? Armed intervention is a thankless task, nor is the result worth good American blood.

Open support, political, moral and financial of the best promising leader seems to be the best road to the goal of pacification.

But alas! There is no promising leader among all the "hot chiefs" that sap the unhappy country's blood.

After Teddy's Own Heart. Boston, Tyrrel, Aug. 20.—Joseph Campenreider, a farmer of Wagenmiller, enjoys the distinction of having two sons and fourteen grandsons at the front with the Austro-Hungarians.—News Dispatch.

In the above country a married couple who has only six to eight children, are regarded with contempt for their lack of fecundity, and are held to be practically childless.

HELP WELL PLACED.

When the war came on, last year, and the market for cotton practically closed, many of the parents of students attending the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, one of the greatest educational institutions in the South, were unable to pay for the board, clothes and medical fees of their sons.

Facing the alternative of closing the college doors to those deserving youths, the board of directors took the unenviable task of 150 boys aggregating $15,000. At present but $600 remains unpaid and all of that will likely be paid in September.

If this isn't simon-pure, blown-in-the-bug philanthropy, nothing is. Hats off to Texas and the men who started the ball rolling.—Woman's Weekly.

FOR "PINTER PUP AND SHOT GUN" ARTISTS.

For the possible benefit of those obsessed by the lust to slay and who generally forestall the date the statute fixes, by bagging just a few to get their hand and pup in trim, we subjoin the revised statute for such cases made and provided:

"From and after the passage of this act it shall be unlawful to kill doves in this State at any time except between each year, and September 1 of each year.

A DIVERSIFYING FARMER.

The Record intends no odious comparisons nor invidious distinctions in calling attention to the opportunities of living at home and boarding at the same place, in citing the example of M. W. The joint we are trying to impress in this Mr. Gross does not depend on his staple crops to provide the means of subsistence for himself and family.

FRANK TAKEN FROM PRISON BY 75 ARMED MEN.

Frank, Overcome Warden and Carry Him Away; Threat to Kill Over-landed by Fellow Prisoner.

Milledgeville, Ga., Aug. 16.—A not variously estimated at between twenty-five and seventy-five in numbers overpowered the warden, superintendent and guards at the Georgia state prison farm near here at 11 o'clock tonight and quickly got Les M. Frank and rushed him away in an automobile.

Five men went to the house of J. T. Smith, warden, covered him with pistols and stood guard over him. Other men went to the house of J. M. Burke, superintendent of the prison, and held him under cover of their guns.

The race is now on between the fool who swears he will not cut his hair until the European war ends and the still bigger fool who will not visit a barber till always Runnings Bryan is elected president.

The Palm Beach Club met in the court house yard last night and hung the weather man in effigy.—Abe Martin.

The Sweetwater Reporter sums up the pleasing prospects in Nolan county for abundant crops, with the headline statement that the "country looks like paradise."

The proposition of the big business interests to bring Billy Sunday to Dallas in the fall of 1910, and exploiting the show by a joint stock company of $100,000, is meeting with some old-time religion opposition from the Dallas Democrat, Times-Herald and other conservatives.

If out of the throes of the present European war there shall emerge an independent Poland and an autonomous government of the Jews in Palestine, the ends of justice, at least, will have been attained. So mote it be!

More than 16,000 acres of grass, twenty-five sections, was destroyed by prairie fires near Ozona, Crockett county, Saturday night. The town of Ozona, with approximately 2,000 inhabitants, was threatened with destruction. The change in the course of the wind is all that saved Ozona.

Calomel Dynamites

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea. If you feel bilious headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Crashes into sour Bile, Making You Sick and You Lose a Day's Work.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tonic you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless pleasant and safe to give to children they like it.

HORACE PORTEE'S IRISH STORY

In one of his famous after dinner speeches Horace Porter once told this story: After having wrestled with about thirty dishes at this dinner, and after all this, being called upon to speak, I feel a great sympathy with that woman in Ireland who had something of a field day on hand. She began by knocking down two somewhat unpopular agents of her absentee landlord, and was seen later in the day dancing a jig on the stomach of the prostrate form of the Presbyterian minister. One of her friends admitted her prowess in this direction, and invited her in and gave her a good stiff glass of whiskey. Her friend said: "Shall I pour some water in your whiskey?" and the woman replied, "For God's sake; haven't I had trouble enough already today?"—The Argonaut.

THE BRAKEMAN GOES TO CHURCH

(By Bob Burdette)

On the road once more, with Lebanon fading away in the distance, the fat passenger drumming idly on the window pane, the cross passenger sound asleep, and the tall thin passenger reading "General Grant's Trip Around the World," and wondering why Green's August Flower should be printed above the doors of "A Buddhist Temple at Benares." To me comes the brakeman, and seating himself on the arm of a seat, says:

"I went to church yesterday."

"Yes," I said, with that interested inflection that asks for more. "And what church did you attend?"

"Which do you guess?" he asked.

"Some union mission church," I hazarded.

"No," he said, "I don't like to run on these branch roads very much. I don't often go to church, and when I do I want to run on the main line, where your run is regular and you run on schedule and don't have to wait on connections. Good enough, but I don't like it."

"Episcopal?" I guessed.

"Limited express," he said, "all palace cars and $2 extra for a seat fast time and only stop at big stations. Nice line, but too expensive for a brakeman. All trains run in uniform, conductor's Western and punch silver-plated, and no train boys allowed. Then the passengers are allowed to talk back at the conductor and it makes them too free and easy. No, I couldn't stand the palace cars. Rich road though. Don't often hear of a receiver being appointed for that line. Some mighty nice people travel on it too."

"Broad gauge," I said.

"Universalist," I said.

"Broad gauge," said the brakeman, "does too much complimentary business. Everybody travels on a pass. Conductor doesn't get a fare once in fifty miles. Stops at flag station, and won't run into anything but a union depot. No smoking car on the train. Train orders are rather vague, though, and the trainmen don't get along well with passengers. No, I don't go to the Universalist, but I know some good men who run on that road."

"Presbyterian," I asked.

"Narrow gauge, eh?" said the brakeman. "Pretty track, straight as a rule; tunnel right through a mountain rather than go around it. Spirit-level grade; passengers have to show their tickets before they get on the train. Mighty strict road, but the cars are a little narrow; have to sit one in a seat, and no room in the aisle to dance. Then there are no stopover tickets allowed; got to go straight through to the station you are ticketed for, or you can't get on at all. When the car is full, no extra coaches, cars built at the shop to hold just so many, and nobody else allowed on. But you don't often hear of an accident on that road. It's run right up to the rules."

"Maybe you joined the Free-Thinkers," I said.

"Scrub road," said the brakeman.

"Dirt road bed and no ballast; no time card and no train dispatches. All trains run wild and every engineer makes his own time, just as he pleases. Too many sidetracks and every switch wide open all the time, with the switchman sound asleep and the target lamp dead out. Get on as you please and get off when you want to. Don't have to show your tickets and the conductor isn't expected to do anything but amuse the passengers. No sir; I was offered a pass but I don't like the line. I don't like to travel on a road that has no terminus. Do you know, sir, I asked a division superintendent where that road ran to, and he said he hoped to die if he knew. I asked him if the general superintendent could tell me, and he said he didn't believe they had a general superintendent, and if they had, he didn't know any more about the road than the passengers. I asked him whom he reported to, and he said 'nobody.' I asked a conductor who he got his orders from, and he said he didn't take orders from any living man or dead ghost. And when I asked the engineer who he got orders from, he said he'd like to see anybody give him orders, he'd run the train to suit himself, or he'd run it into the ditch. Now you see, sir, I'm a railroad man, and don't care to run on a road that has no time, makes no connections, runs nowhere and has no superintendent. It may be all right, but I've railroaded too long to undertake it."

"May-be you went to the Congregational church?"

"Popular Road,"

"Popular road," said the brakeman; "an old road, too—one of the very oldest in the country. Good road bed and comfortable cars. Well managed road, too; directors don't interfere with division superintendents and train orders. Road's mighty popular, but it's pretty independent, too. Yes, didn't one of the division superintendents down East discontinue one of the oldest stations on this line three years ago? But it's a mighty pleasant road to travel on. Always has such a pleasant class of passengers."

"Did you try the Methodist," I said.

"Now you're shouting!" he said, with some enthusiasm. "Nice road, eh? Fast time and plenty of passengers. Engines carry a power of steam and don't you forget it; steam gauge shows a hundred and enough all the time. Lively road; when the conductor shouts 'All aboard' you can hear him at the next station. Every train light shines like a headlight. Stopover checks are given on all through tickets; passengers can drop off the train just as they like, do the station two or three days, and hop on the next revival train that comes thundering along. Good, whole-souled, companionable conductors; ain't a road in the country where the passenger feels more at home; no passes; every passenger pays full traffic rates for his ticket. Wesleyan House air brakes on all trains, too. Pretty safe road, but I didn't ride over it yesterday."

"Perhaps you tried the Baptist?" I guessed once more.

"Ah, ha," said the brakeman, "she's a daisy, isn't she? River road, beautiful curves, sweep around anything to keep close to the river, but it's all steel rail and rock ballast single track all the way, and not a sidetrack from the round house to the terminus. Takes a heap of water to run it through; double tanks at every station, and there isn't an engine in the shops that pull a pound or run a mile with less than two gauges. But it runs through a lovely country; those river roads always do. River on one side and hills on the other and it's a steady clip up the grade all the way till the run ends where the fountain head of the river begins. Yes, sir; I'll take the river road every time for a lovely trip and sure connections and good time, and no prairie dust blowing in at the windows. And yesterday when the conductor came around for the tickets with a little basket punch I didn't ask him to pass me, but I paid my fare like a little man—25 cents for an hour's run and a little concert by the passengers thrown in. I tell you, pilgrim, you take the river road when you want—"

But just then the big whistle from the engine announced a station, and the brakeman hurried to the door, shouting:

"Monville! This train makes no stops between here and Indianapolis."

ATROCITIES IN THE SCHOLARS' WAR.

Among the atrocities charged to the German account during the present European war are the numerous executions of persons held as hostages for the good behavior of the communities from which these victims were taken, and, again, the wholesale killing of non-combatants in certain communities where sporadic "sniping" had occurred. Assuming that these cases of vicarious punishment have frequently happened, and assuming also, that the general public views such measures with righteous indignation, we can not help feeling that something of the same sort, with the roles reversed, has occurred in the treatment of so-called "enemy" members by the various scientific and technical societies.

An editorial in a recent number of The Engineer admits that it "has always been one of the boasts of science that it did not recognize the boundaries created by geographers or politicians, and that even differences of race and language did not imply a divergence of interests when the claims of science were at issue"—which wholesome sentiment is followed by one of a different sort: "It is a thousand pities that this great tradition has been broken, but it can be honestly said that it is not the fault of Great Britain or her allies. The truth is that the way in which Germany has chosen to wage war, culminating in the wholesale murders which accompanied the sinking of the Lusitania, has put her people outside the pale of civilization, and even sane-minded engineers and clear-thinking scientists have realized that it is no longer possible to allow the nationalities now at war with us to claim even the kinship implied by the membership of the same technical society." The same editorial urges all British scientific and technical societies to expel their members who are citizens of hostile countries, as indeed many of these societies have already done.

Is this reasonable? It is altogether possible that the persons who would be justly held responsible for the present war might be counted on your fingers—perhaps the fingers of one hand. We are not prepared to name them or to state their number more definitely, but certain it is that the average citizen of any one of the warring countries is, at this juncture, the victim of circumstances not of his making.

As to German scholars, we know that some of them have proclaimed intense partisan sentiments in regard to the struggle; but we feel sure there are many others who look upon it merely as an unspeakable nuisance, for which German politicians and militarists are at least as much to blame as anybody else. Surely in philosophical Germany there are still philosophers who look down from a serene height upon the squabbles of misguided humanity.

The great European war is, in fact, senseless and infamous. Would it not become of the learned societies in the belligerent countries to show their detestation of it by ignoring its existence just as far as possible?

The wholesale expulsion of "enemy" members by the British societies is, we believe, not only unjust and puerile but is also seriously inimical to the success of the task which will presently arise of renewing those cooperative relations among the various peoples of the earth upon which the progress of knowledge is so dependent.

We are glad to learn that a more temperate plan has been followed by the Astronomical Society of France, which of its one hundred and fifty-seven "enemy" members, has definitely expelled only one, who was a signatory to the address "To the Civilized World." The rest have been suspended, pending action in each case, on its own merits, to be taken after the close of the war.—Scientific American.

SMITH AT THE DALLAS FAIR

Last year the visitors to the State Fair of Texas were thrilled and delighted beyond expression by the work of the late Lincoln Beachy, and while his evolutions high in the air were of the most signal and unusual character they were almost tame alongside the stunts that Smith is doing. He does all that has ever been done by other men and then contributes a few extras by way of good measure.

Smith will be seen at his best at the State Fair of Texas this year. That portion of humanity that loves the sensational in show stunts—which takes in most of us—will certainly be able to get their fill for a time at least, of the unusual.

Smith's contract with the State Fair management calls for a long list of sensational performances that no other aviator before the public today dares even to attempt. For instance, he agrees to fly straight up to the height of 2,500 feet, looping the loop ten times in succession on the way up; he agrees to do what he calls the roll-over loop, finishing within 300 feet of the ground. In this act the machine is turned over sidewise, a sort of sideways somersault. He will do a verticle drop of anywhere from 1,000 to 3,000 feet; he will fly with the machine upside down, hands free of the steering wheel and arms outstretched; he is to fly at night, looping the loop not less than three times in succession with a fireworks display of fifty pieces attached to the aeroplane. Smith's aerial performances will be a big feature on opening day, afternoon and evening.

SIXTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS.

Professor Stilliter, psychologist, and Gordon Barclay, millionaire, plan to preach to the world the gospel of efficiency through a young and beautiful woman who shall believe that she is a heaven-sent messenger. They kidnap the orphaned little Amesbury girl, playmate of Tommy Steele, and conceal her in a cavern, in care of a woman, to be molded to their plan as she grows up. Fifteen years elapse. Tommy is adopted by Barclay, but loses his heirship and on a hunting trip discovers Celestia. Stilliter takes Celestia to New York. Tommy follows, she gets away from both of them, and her real work begins.

CHAPTER XVII.

"Don't be afraid," said Celestia calmly. "I won't hurt you."
And that was almost the last thing that Freddie's vaguely working mind expected her to say. "She," he thought, "ought to be afraid of me. I am a man; she is a girl. I have a club; she hasn't. I am to take her to Sweetzer, dead or alive. I can crack her head like an egg. So why does she tell me not to be afraid? Why does she say she won't hurt me? Maybe she's got a gun. Maybe she knows something."

All the while her magnificent, compassionate eyes held him spellbound. He heard something fall heavily to the floor. He looked to see what it was. It was his club. He tried to pick it up, but seemed to lack the necessary muscular control.

"What's your name?" asked Celestia.

"Freddie Douglas."

"Do you belong in this house?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Then we must be friends, because I belong here, too."

"You going to live with us?"

Celestia nodded.

"Honor bright," smiled Celestia.

"Honor bright!" asked Freddie suspiciously.

It was then no longer necessary for Freddie to take sudden action. If Celestia was going to live on in the same house it would be a simple matter at some more propitious moment (when she wasn't looking at a fellow, for instance) to turn her over to Sweetzer.

Nevertheless, it seemed to Freddie that the matter required thought, and he slunk off to think. It required time and luck. He had less good luck at thinking than at anything else.

His proposition was this: Sweetzer had paid a thousand dollars for Celestia and had lost her. He had said to Freddie in effect, "Get her back. There's money in it." How much money was there in it? Suppose there was so much, how could Freddie turn it into more? Probably Mrs. Baxter would also pay money to know what had become of Celestia. Freddie knew that his father needed more money to pay the rent, and the bright spots in his brain began to work.

First he went to Sweetzer.

"Well," said Sweetzer.

"I shouldn't wonder," said Freddie.

"If I was going to find her. I got a clue."

"Good."

"How much money is there in it?"

"A dollar."

Freddie simply smiled a sad little smile, turned on his heel and started to walk away.

"Hold on, Freddie; I was kiddin' you."

"You mustn't kid me. It drives me crazy. I shouldn't wonder if I could find her for—his lips trembled at their own audacity—"fifty."

Sweetzer's face did not even show surprise.

"You take me where she is," he said, "and I'll go the fifty."

A dull spot on Freddie's brain tried to make him say "All right, come along," but a bright spot suddenly intervened and made him say instead:

"All right, I find her sure."

Next Freddie went to Mrs. Baxter's home. A taxicab was drawn up at the curb and the front door was ajar. Freddie simply walked into the house. There were voices in the front parlor. Freddie simply stepped to the portieres, which served the front parlor as a door, and stood, listening.

"So help me God, I have told the truth!" Mrs. Baxter was saying, and Freddie judged she was crying.

"So help me Gawd—Mister—Mister—what did you say your name was?"

"Barclay."

"Mr. Barclay, I wouldn't worry if I was you. She came to no harm with me, and I'm as bad as they make 'em."

"Look here," said Tommy. "What would you do in my place?"

"I'd offer big money for news of her. Money acts quicker than lightning."

"Why," said Tommy, "I'd give a thousand dollars just to know that she was safe."

Freddie, the ferret, stepped into the room from between the portieres.

"She's safe!" he said, with fine dramatic instinct.

"Safe!" cried Tommy. "Where is she? You've seen her? Who is this young man?"

"He's called Freddie the Ferret," said Mrs. Baxter, "because he often finds things that other people can't

But" (she lowered her voice a little "he ain't to be always relied on; he's sort of half-witted.")

But Freddie's bright spots were all on the qui vive for once.

"She was safe when I last seen her," he said, "but I don't know where she is, and I'd have to hunt for her. Didn't you say you'd give something just to know she was safe?"

"I did," said Tommy, "but I don't know she's safe. You find her and take me to her and you shall have a thousand, and more, too."

"You'll get twenty-five from me," exclaimed Mrs. Baxter, "poor as I am."

A bright spot in Freddie's brain made the following calculation: "50 plus $1,000 plus $25 equals $1,075, and more, too." A dull spot was for saying:

"Come along, I know where she is."

But, as before, a bright spot intervened.

"Where can I find you quick?" said Freddie.

Tommy gave him his card.

"All right," said Freddie, "you'll hear from me soon," and he swung importantly out of the room.

He had a new proposition now. How to take Sweetzer, Mrs. Baxter and Mr. Barclay all to Celestia at the same time, so that he could get all the money. This new proposition required very patient thinking, and he walked on and on without considering in the least where he was going.

After a long time he sank down on a bench in Central park and took a nap. Sometimes he dreamed of solutions to difficult problems. But he didn't this time. He was waked by a hand on his shoulder.

"Why, Freddie, what are you doin' hereabouts?"

"Dunno," said Freddie. "What you doin', O'Gorman?"

"Me? I'm looking for a beautiful young lady in a white dress, with a band of jewels across her forehead."

Freddie laughed aloud.

"Another!" he exclaimed. "What do you get if you find her?"

"I get a good bit, Freddie, and anyone that finds her for me and tells me first gets half of it."

"I can find her," said Freddie.

"You've done queer things. Well, if you do, it's a go. You take me to her and we'll share and share alike."

Then Freddie went down to see if Celestia was still there. She was.

"Why, Celestia," he said, "I don't deny that you've some mysterious power over people, and that if you keep on as you are going you'll end up by making a great, loud noise in the world. But suppose you do get what you want? Suppose that even in time you do elect a congress, a senate and a president; suppose you do succeed in changing the whole country into a gigantic trust, what of it? Can't you see that you will be hurting the people instead of helping them? Can't you see that the men who run your great trust, my respected father among them, will become the greatest autocrats the world has ever known? Can't you see that you would simply be playing into the hands of capital?"

Celestia simply smiled on him and shook her head.

"I can convince anybody but you," she said. "I can't convince you, and I don't know why."

"That's too easy," said Tommy. "You don't convince anybody by logic or argument. They just naturally believe you. You've got some way of making them believe you. I think you're a sort of witch. I think you are way up in magic. You can't hypnotize that man that truly loves you any more than you could hypnotize the man you truly love. That's a well known law."

Tommy was half in earnest, half joking.

"I don't know what you are talking about," said Celestia, "and it doesn't matter. And now—"

"Please don't send me away," said Tommy. "It's the first time we've been alone in ages, and I've got millions of things to tell you and millions of other things to—well, to look at you."

"Tommy," said Celestia, "you talk more nonsense than anyone in the world. I don't believe you've any brains at all. But if you've really got a million things to say to me, you'll have to say them walking. I'm going to the shop where Nelly works to talk with the girls."

"Can't I wait till you come out and fetch you home?"

"No, no, no," said Celestia, "and it doesn't matter. And now—"

"Please don't send me away," said Tommy. "It's the first time we've been alone in ages, and I've got millions of things to tell you and millions of other things to—well, to look at you."

"Can't I wait till you come out and fetch you home?"

was with good people and wouldn't go with Tommy he was contented to let matters rest where they were.

Celestia's real work had begun. Often upon the lips of the elder Douglas, and always in his heart, was the belief that Celestia was divinely inspired and of divine origin.

Mrs. Douglas and Nelly also believed that Celestia had come from heaven. Her effect upon these simple-minded folk was extraordinary.

She looked no longer like a Greek goddess, but like a simple working girl. And yet she remained magically lovely to look at and commanding.

Stilliter, after ten minutes' talk with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas (during a short absence of Celestia), concluded that she could not be in better hands. Indeed, it had been in a similar family that he had intended to place her.

"She says," said Douglas, "that every man jack of us ought to have a real share in the country. That we must treat misery and poverty not as necessary evils, but as epidemics, and stamp 'em out. And I tell you the man who runs that platform will get a heap o' votes in this district. Nobody ever tries to argue with her. You just listen and believe."

Stilliter reported to Barclay and the other members of the triumvirate. And those who had begun to lose faith in Celestia once more became enthusiastic.

"Don't hurry her any," said Barclay. "Let her doctrines spread from the house she's living in, slowly and naturally, until she has a real following. Then when we do begin to advertise her it will be more effective and cheaper."

"I'm only afraid of one thing," said Stilliter. "She is interested in that boy of yours, Tommy, and when she is with him she seems to shake her mind almost free from the control that I had been establishing over it all these years. I thought that I had made her quite proof against falling in love and all physical temptation. But it seems not."

"Any young man," said Barclay, grimly, "who seems to be making trouble for us will have to be sent away somewhere and kept there."

But Celestia, having begun to make converts, was engrossed in the work and had no longer the leisure, or, indeed, the wish to waste her precious time in philandering with individuals.

When Tommy had finally traced her to the Douglasses he went often to see her, for it was hard for him to be away from her at all. But, as we Americans say, "she did not give him a good run for his money." She appeared calmly fond of him. But she was no longer a complete stranger to the world and its ways. She hardly ever "happened" to be alone when he came to see her, and she seemed always on the point of doing something or other in which he could not take part. He loved her more and more, but he did not flinch from telling her that he thought her schemes for the benefit of mankind were impracticable and foolish.

"Why, Celestia," he said, "I don't deny that you've some mysterious power over people, and that if you keep on as you are going you'll end up by making a great, loud noise in the world. But suppose you do get what you want? Suppose that even in time you do elect a congress, a senate and a president; suppose you do succeed in changing the whole country into a gigantic trust, what of it? LOCAL NOTES

Just phone us for any article in our line and see if we don't deliver it promptly. H. L. Hutchinson & Co.

Old Probs. made the bravest bluff last Thursday night witnessed in a long time. The combination of wind, lowering clouds, vivid lightning and guttural thunder, created a great scampering for the dry by everything that could move or be moved, that a wetting would hurt. But in spite of such bravado, the old fellow fell short with his sprinkler.

Better get your canning and sweet pickle peaches now from McMurry.

Again on Sunday afternoon this immediate section was visited by a gentle precipitation to the extent of more than one inch. Although the crops did not need the rain just at the time, they were greatly benefited thereby. Late garden stuff was given new growth and the community refreshed generally. For a while now, Mitchell county would more welcome the mutterings of Jupiter Tonans than the weepings of Pluvius. This reminds us to remark just here for fear we may have omitted to do so before, upon the greatness of Mitchell county and the prophetic functions of the Record.

Get your grapes for making jelly from McMurry, he sells them at five cents per pound.

The invallier advertised as lost in the Record contained one diamond and two pearls, instead of nine pearls as appeared in the ad.

Carbon, arsenic and "fly dope" for sale at W. L. Doss' Close prices on large quantities.

Married—Last Friday afternoon at the court house, by County Judge J. H. Bullock, Mr. Denice Miller and Miss Madie Thomas. Mr. Miller is a sterling young man of the Daniels community, while Miss Thomas was a resident at Westbrook. The Record congratulates this young couple and wishes them every success in life.

Prompt delivery, full measure and weight, and best service, at McMurry's Phone—they'll do the rest.

Mr. Bacaus, district manager of the Ford Auto Company at Dallas, is making a tour of investigation throughout his trade territory, and paid the Colorado agency a visit last Saturday. He expressed himself as delighted with crop prospects in this section of the State and felt assured that the Ford company would easily sell during the current year ending July 1916, the apportioned number of cars, which is 12,000 for the Dallas agency and 9,000 for the Houston agency. Local Agent, A. J. Herrington, has already signed a contract to dispose of 100 the current year.

Carbon, arsenic and "fly dope" for sale at W. L. Doss' Close prices on large quantities.

Mr. Priest, a prominent citizen of the sod county of Winkler, was the guest of his friend, J. F. McGill, last week. If having been a long while since Mr. Priest was in a strictly timbered country, the riot of vegetation in old Mitchell was to a degree confusing, he frequently mistaking our common weeds and garden truck for forests.

Tom Payne says you must pay cash for all work at his shoe shop. Everybody treated alike, all must pay cash.

J. P. Hunter, out on the Snyder route, now annihilates the distance between his place and town with a Ford.

"Let the mercury climb and the sun shine just as hot as it can, I'm not feeling the heat, as the Colorado Steam Laundry does all my washing and ironing."

The Charley Chaplin mustache now seems to be the vogue, taking the cue from the various ambitious hirsute labial appendages being cultivated by the swagger set about town.

Just think of owning a fine piano by making a small payment down and a small payment each month. H. L. Hutchinson & Co.

German scientists have discovered a method of making print paper without cellulose, which will cheapen the product and make that country independent of foreign countries for the article.

Every family should have music in the home, and if you'd like to have your money's worth, buy your piano from us. H. L. Hutchinson & Co.

Homer Simpson returned home from Georgetown last week, where he had attended Southwestern University the past three years. He has made a fine record in school and was business manager of the university publication the past session. He will return in the fall to get his A. B. degree next commencement.

While we are furnishing up our civic pride, do you not think, neighbors, that a bit of attention bestowed on the central school building and grounds would be appreciated by the public at large and the faculty and children of the school in particular? If not aware that the premises need both repair and adornment, pass up that way and observe how clearly the yard resembles a well-trodden rat runway. The grounds are bare even to slickness. Here is an orphan that sadly needs adoption.

The calm of preparation which precedes the gathering of the West Texas Log Rolling Association, produces a dearth of local news this week. There is little stirring in any of the various local activities.

A WORD FOR MOTHERS

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life.

If your work is tiring; if your nerves are excitable; if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions. It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.

Scott's is strengthening thousands of mothers—and will help you. No alcohol. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

ATTENTION, AUTO OWNERS.

One feature of the Woodmen Log Rolling Association, will be an auto parade at 9:45, Friday morning, August 20th, just before repairing to the cemetery for the unveiling ceremonies.

The visitors will assemble at the tabernacle at the above hour where autos will be provided for them. In order to fully accommodate all who may come, the owner of every private auto in town is requested to bring his own car and participate in the parade. This service is the only feature of the entertainment the local committee asks the people of Colorado to extend the visitors free. Can they count on your hospitality to this extent?

THE CLERK GAUANTEED IT

"A customer came into my store the other day and said to one of my clerks 'Have you anything that will cure diarrhoea?' and my clerk went and got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and said to him, 'If this does not cure you, I will not charge you a cent for it.' So he took it home and came back in a day or two and said he was cured." writes J. H. Berry & Co., Salt Creek, Va. Obtainable everywhere.

"DAD" MELVIN LEAVES TO INSTRUCT BAND

F. Melvin, who is known to his many friends as "Dad," leaves today, Friday, for Colorado City, Texas, where he is to instruct a band. "Dad" is a cornetist and a good one. He has been playing with Sam Ezell's military band and was on the trade excursion trip. While in San Angelo Dad lined up many friends who regret to know he is going away. —San Angelo Standard.

BRAKEMAN WAS CURED

F. A. Wootsey, Jacksonville, Texas, writes "I was down with kidney trouble and rheumatism; had a backache all the time and was tired of living. I took Foley's Kidney Pills and was thoroughly cured." Thousands have written similar letters. Foley's Kidney Pills are tonic in effect and act promptly. W. L. Doss.

DESPONDENCY DUE TO INDIGESTION

"About three months ago when I was suffering from indigestion which caused headache and dizzy spells and made me feel tired and despondent, I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets," writes Mrs. Geo. Hon. Macedon, N. Y. "This medicine proved to be the very thing I needed, as one day's treatment relieved me greatly. I used two bottles of Chamberlain's Tablets and they rid me of my trouble." Obtainable everywhere.

Irving Cummings in the "Flying A" Photoplay "THE DIAMOND FROM THE SKY"

Synopsis of Chapter 4.—"The Prodigal's Progress"—Dr. Lee dead, Esther is homeless. She sends a homing pigeon to Hagar, the Gypsy mother, who comes at once to take her to the Gypsy camp. On their way they come upon Arthur Stanley II lying cold and nearly dead, on the river's edge. Arthur is nursed back to life. Hagar discloses to him his real identity. Arthur vows to make himself worthy of Esther's love. He goes to Richmond, where, in need of funds, he pawns "The Diamond From the Sky." Meanwhile Blair Stanley has gone to Richmond. He and Arthur meet in the pawnshop, and are reunited. Blair invites Arthur to a grand society ball, where he meets Vivian Marston, a New York belle, and a friend of Blair's. On her neck is "The Diamond From the Sky" which she had borrowed from the pawn-broker. Hagar, in the guise of a fortune teller, is at the ball. Vivian has just seated herself for a moment's rest, when a brawny arm reaches in, clutches "The Diamond From the Sky," and disappears.

A ride this week over this bully country from Colorado to Roscoe, confirms us in the often expressed opinion that Mitchell county and West Texas generally will produce the greatest crops of all kinds planted, in its history. There will be no measly "bursting barns," but piled up barn yards, and then some. However, remember that scriptural farmer who purposed to tear down his old and build a yet bigger barn. And don't wax cheery about it nor assume any more credit than merely preparing the way and clearing the land for the providential increase.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free. C. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rives and little daughter, of Ada, Okla., spent a few days this week with their sister, Mrs. H. L. Hutcheson, en route to the Panama Exposition.

Mrs. C. W. Morgan, of De Leon, is a guest in the homes of W. R. and Ed B. Morgan.

MARKET YOUR FEED ON FOOT.

With another bumper feed crop on hand, besides a considerable portion of last year's crop unused, the people of Mitchell county will have an excellent opportunity to market it on foot at a greater profit than if sold in the raw state.

A move is now afoot to bring a car or more of thin shoats from Fort Worth or other market, to Mitchell county and sell them to the farmers who wish to market their feed crop in this shape. The chamber of commerce is taking hold of this matter and all who wish to look into its feasibility, should see Mr. T. H. Roe, secretary, soon as possible.

To Drive Out Malaria And Build Up The System
Take the Old Standard GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC. You know what you are taking, as the formula is printed on every label, showing it is Quinine and Iron in a tasteless form. The Quinine drives out malaria, the Iron builds up the system. 50 cents

Dallas: Practically every popular make of American car will be on exhibit at the State Fair of Texas this year. It will be the first showing of 1916 models in the United States. Like the show last year, it will be on a most lavish scale, occupying thousands of feet of floor space. All that is new in six, eight, and twin-six engines, stream line bodies, electric equipment and other appliances, which mark the many changes that are included in the new speed creations for next year, will be shown.

A REAL ASSIMILATION

A handful of Texas capitalists have raised $750,000 in good hard coin to colonize the lower Rio Grande country of Texas with Belgian war refugees.

That's harking to the knock of old war opportunity in a practical way. The immigrant swill be furnished homes, stock, seed, and even food, until the first crop is made. The Brownsville section of Texas is very rich and fertile and its semi-tropical climate admits of unusually early crops. The Belgians are said to be excellent farmers, patient, industrial and frugal.

The experiment will be watched with much interest in Texas and elsewhere, and we bet our last dollar it pans out all right, for the men identified with the Texas movement are not philanthropists, but hard-headed, far-seeing business men.—Woman's Weekly.

Rev. G. S. Stover, president of Clarendon College, has received a communication from some young man whose address is Colorado, making inquiry concerning the school but as there was no signature to the letter Mr. Stover doesn't know whom to address. Any assistance in locating the young man will be greatly appreciated. R. A. Clements, Pastor Methodist church.

BYRON BYRNE SELLS BRICK GARAGE.

Byron B. Byrne disposed of the brick garage this week to Earl Morrison, and will take a general agency for the Studebaker car and handle parts for all make of cars. His business location has not yet been determined.

In this connection, Mr. Byrne wishes to thank the public for the generous patronage accorded him, and solicits a continuance of the same in his new business.

We learn that Mr. Morrison will continue the sale of the Studebaker cars, as well as conducting the garage business.

FOSTERED BY MEXICAN OFFICIAL

San Antonio, Aug. 14.—After a conference held by General Frederick Funston, commanding the southern department, with a committee headed by Congressman John Garner, General Funston late today announced that he believed the committee had thoroughly established its contention that the disorder in the Rio Grande Valley had been fostered by constituted Mexican authorities. Affidavits were submitted to the war department that a date had actually been set by the Mexicans for the sacking of Brownsville.

A penny saved is a penny earned. Mrs. Housewife, but when you save that penny on your laundry and then spend enough pennies to make several dollars on a doctor's bill, you certainly have not saved your penny. Think of this the next time you decide to do the family washing, then let your better judgment persuade you that "safety first" is a good motto and send everything to the laundry.
