1970 Census Expected To Show A Population Of 19,000 For County

Every ten years the government finds it neccessary to count its population so that it may better serve the people. This year, the first of the decade, on April 1, Americans will once more be asked to count themselves and their families and inform the government. Also on the census are questions about how Americans live, their health, finances, and occupations.

Every question asked in the 1970 census has a national purpose," says Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans. "Government programs for welfare, education, housing, veterans, senior citizens, minorities, and many others, depend on accurate counts of our people and how they live. Schools, businesses, our state, cities, and citizen groups all use Census figures to plan their work and to measure our country's problems and progress."

President Richard Nixon states, "A good society, like a good individual, must begin by knowing itself," The census helps Americans to know themselves.

Each census becomes more complicated at the nation, and Eastland County, continues to grow and progress. The first census was taken in 1790 for the United States, but, according to the 1970-1971 Tesas Almanac, the first census in Eastland County was not taken until 1860 when 99 persons were counted.

The population of Eastland County decreased in the next ten years, perhaps a result of the Civil War, and in 1870 there were only 88 persons in Eastland County. By 1880 the population had grown to what then was considered a Eastland County continued to grow and reached its peak in 1920 when 58,500 persons were counted. This was during the days of the oil boom. But by 1930 the number had fallen to 34,156, a drop of over 24,000. The decline has continued and in 1960 was down to 19,526, lowest since 1900. The estimated population in 1969 was 18,266. show a figure close to this.

Present records, in the 1970-1971 Texas Almanac, show Cisco as being the largest town in Eastland County with 120 businesses and 4,950 citizens. Eastland has 105 businesses and a population of 4,500. Ranger has a population of 3,840 and 85 businesses. Other towns, their businesses and population are as follows: Rising Star 39 businesses and 886 population; Carbon, four businesses and 286 population; Gorman, 36 businesses and 900 population; Kokomo, no businesses, and 25 population; and Scranton, no businesses and 37 population.

The information gathered aids the government in knowing the consumer items in demand, the jobs and vocations of the people, how to create better employment opportunities, the average income, the living standard, what legistlation is needed and how to better provide for the people. In general it relates the mood and living conditions of the people.

they are safe and beneficial.

The one thing that usually causes tragic results with chemicals is human error.

I am sure most of you have heard of the mercury poisoning of three members of the Huckleby family near Alamogordo, New Mexico. They ate pork from hogs that had been fed grain treated with a mercury base fungicide.

Almost all seed that are to be planted are treated with fungicide to prevent seedling diseases. This includes peanut, grain, corn, and even vegetables seed. The fungicide protects the seed and young plants from soil borne diseases, Hardy Browder, a 4-H member at Gorman proved the value of planting seed that are treated with fungicide. In his demonstration peanuts that had been treated with a fungicide made 537 pounds more per acre than those that were not treated. So you see the fungicide is very necessary for seed that are planted.

Under no circumstances should fungicide treated grain be fed to meat or dairy animals. Not only is there the possibility of killing the animals, but also the fungicide material can be deposited in the tissue of the animal, and if the meat is consumed, poisoning will result as it did in New Mexico.

I urge all livestock producers, feed dealers and seed dealers to make sure that grain is not treated with fungicide unless it is going to be used for planting only, since consumption of meat or milk from, animals fed treated grains can cause poisoning in humans.

The Eastland Co. peanut committee composed of D. B. Warren and Durwood Burgess of Gorman, Edwin Scheafer of Cisco, D. D. Jackson of Nimrod and Lee Starr of Cisco met Jan. 26 to plan educational activities to help the peanut growers.

Among the activities planned is an irrigation short course in Rising Star, Feb. 17 and 18, and a peanut production short course in Gorman March 11 and 12. They also helped develop peanut production guidelines to be mailed to every peanut grower in Eastland County.

Pecan Budding School is Set For April 17th

The date for the 17th annual Eastland County Pecan Budding and Grafting School will be April 17. The date was set and other decisions made at the mid-winter meeting of the Eastland County Pecan Growers Assn. in Cisco Feb.

Anton White of Cisco was re-elected president of the association for 1970. Other officers elected during the meeting were Dale Carlile of Cisco, vice-president; DeMarquis Gordon of Eastland, secretary; Ben McKinnis of Eastland, treasurer; C. T. Barton of Pioneer, director; and W. C. (Check) Smith of Gorman, director.

The members voted to have the pecan spring field day on May 23 in Rising Star. The budding and grafting school will be held at Cisco Jr. College for the 17th consecutive year. This event is usually attended by pecan growers throughout Central and West Texas. It is recognized as the largest school of its kind in Texas. Each year between 100 and 150 people attend from about twenty-five counties and a few from other states reports county agent DeMarquis Gordon.

Tops in Conservation

Harrison Is Named Top Conservationist

The Upper Leon Soil and Water Conservation District has named Ed Harrison as the Outstanding Conservation Farmer and Rancher of the dis-Conservation trict and have also nominated him for state honors.

He will compete in the Texas Conservation Awards Program to be held in Fort Worth on May 2. 1970.

Mr. "Ed" 50. and his wife, Marilyn, live in an attractive home on their ranch located 6 miles northeast of Gorman, where they moved in 1950 after "Ed" decided to quit as a pilit for the Pan-American Air lines where he had worked for seven years.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison are proud of their two children, son, Joe, a professor at John Tarleton State College at Stephenville and. daughter, Linda Brombelow, who lives with her husband in Eastland. Pride and joy of the Harrison family is the two-year-old grand-daughter, Sherry Lynn

This farming and ranching unit under the management and operation of Mr. Harrison is now considered among the best in this area. Ed developed a Conservation Plan with the Upper Leon Soil and Water Conservation District soon after he moved to this place. He has made continous improvement each year. In February of 1964 he was one of the first to take advantage of the Great Plains Conservation Program activated in Eastland County. Ed developed a GPCP Contract, with the assistance of SCS personnel, that has enabled him to make many of his "conservation dreams" come true.

Each farming or ranching enterprise must stand on its own-he keeps a most detailed and efficient set of records as a basis of his operations. He knows for example how each individual registered Hereford cow performs, cost per acre of uroducing a peanut crop, oat crop or forage sorghums. As a result of these records he has established approximately 300 acres of overflow cropland along the Leon River to Coastal bermudagrass. He feels that oat of forage sorghum production on these areas year after year will not pay their way. He is quick to point out the advantages of Coastal bermuda such as (1) less soil loss due to overflow. (2) excellent summer grazing which enables him to give his 2,998 acres of rangeland a complete growing season deferment each year and (3) labor, equipment and operations costs are reduced to a minimum. He has an exceptional knowledge of grasses, how they grow and their successful management. He maintains a registered cow herd of Hereford of 131 head and runs 150 goats to help keep his brush sprouts under control. This comparatively light rate of stocking along with the use of Coastal bermuda assures continued range improvement. Most range land pastures are in good condition with limited areas of excellent condition.

Ed also has a peanut allotment of 188 acres on this place. His yields have been well above the local county average. Strip cropping, returning of all peanut residue to the land and a cover crop of rye following harvest are essentials of his converation cropping system. He is quick to follow any improved method such as fertilizer, insect and disease control, improved planting, harvesting and drying equipment. He is considering the construction of a large lake for the purpose of irrigating peanuts in the future.

Pecan production from native trees along the Leon River bottomland is also a profitable enterprise on this unit. He practices brush control, timely thinning, disease and insect control.

The conservation and financial success of this operation unit speaks for itself - an outstanding example of what love for the land plus managerial ability can accomplish.

He serves his neighbors and friends as a district director of the upper Leon Soil and Water Conservation District. His love for the land and its needs for conservation is exceeded only by his concern for his family, fellow man and community., He has served ably on numerous committees, such as Livestock Associations, FFA and 4-H Club activities, County Program Building committee. School Board and numerous other. His many friends, both rural and urban, cherish his friendship and seek his sound council
