SEVEN WELLS IDEAL SITE LOCATION OF STATE PARK

Seven Wells, picturesque playground seven miles south of Colorado, is an ideal location for one of the State parks, to be created in Texas under authority of an act of the 38th Legislature. The Colorado Chamber of Commerce has been in communication with Mrs. Phebe K. Warner of Cynaud, secretary of the State Parks Board and she advises that the board would visit this city for an inspection of a proposed park here, on condition the citizenship desired to co-operate with the State in locating a park near Colorado.

The State Parks Board, accompanied by Governor Neff, and members of the State Highway Commission, are to leave San Antonio July 9th for a tour of inspection of proposed park sites along the Glacier to Gulf and Bankhead Highways.

The conditions to be met in meeting requirements of the board in locating a State Park, in case a proposed site near Colorado should be accepted, are for some individual or group to secure the land and deed it back to the State. The State then assumes the responsibility of caring for the park and helping with its development.

The proffered 250,000-acre site in the Davis Mountains will be visited by the board on this trip, with the view to having the Federal government take it over for a national park. The Davis Mountain site is claimed to be one of the real beauty spots in American and the State will seek to have the property taken over and maintained by the Federal government along lines similar to Yellowstone National Park.

The misery and depression caused by a bilious and constipated condition of the system can be quickly removed by using Herbine. It purifies strength and invigorates. Price 60c. Sold by all druggists. 6-30.

AIRPLANE AS AID TO CUPID

By MYRA A. WINGATE

"D. HOLT to see Miss Carlyle," said the young man as the maid opened the door.

"Sure, sir, she's gone. Went away on the train this mornin'."

The doctor winced under the blow, discovering that the healthy young personality harbored strange and unsuspected emotions.

The mistress of the house could give but little additional information. One of the young ladies was going East and asked Miss Carlyle to go with her. Miss Carlyle thought it safer for a convalescent than travelling alone.

Standing on the curb, the doctor scanned a time-table.

"No chance of overtaking the express. Couldn't go anyway, with a lecture to deliver at 2 o'clock 50 miles away. I'll take every chance, though."

He drove to the telegraph office and sent a message to be delivered on the train to Miss Carlyle.

"Will Miss Carlyle communicate with Doctor Holt? Urgent."

He jammed down savagely on the accelerator as he drove away. An unwary pedestrian cleared his radiator by one skip and turned to shout resentfully:

"Why don't you travel by airship?" Inspiration No. 21 He swung into the stream of cars proceeding toward the county fair grounds, dodging heedlessly in and out among them.

"I say, old chap," burred the maniac, "were you ever in love?"

"Many a time," grinned the aviator. "Take it easy, boy. The second attack is milder."

"There's but one and she left on a train East," yelled Holt.

"You are crazy!" ejaculated the airman, "and I ought to give you in charge. Why didn't you ask her before she went? How come?"

"Can you overtake that train?" asked Doctor Holt.

"You bet you!" was the succinct reply.

"Then let's go," said the doctor. "I'll pay the price."

"I have to make an exhibition flight at 2 p. m." warned the airman.

"And I have to speak at a meeting 50 miles west at the same hour," returned the doctor grimly.

"Jumping Jehosaphat! but this is going to be one bird of a trip." Map spread out before him, the aviator talked rapidly. "I know this country. Here's the express. In an hour and a half we land at this junction. You ride on the train for half an hour. I'll hop off and land at this station ahead of you. You leave the train there. With good luck we head back before 12. That will give us about three hours to come back 140 miles, carry you 50 miles further and bring me back here. Are you game?"

"All right," said the doctor, "let's go."

The express stopped at the junction water tank and the chair car door flew open to admit a pale-faced young giant who swung an aviator's leather helmet in one hand. He strode down the aisle glancing from right to left until he came upon the girl he sought.

"Doctor Holt!" she exclaimed, rising in alarm. "Is anything the matter?"

The color rushed to his face.

"May I sit down, Miss Carlyle?" he asked. "I've come a hundred odd miles by airplane to see you for half an hour, and now I'm here I'm just a stuttering idiot."

"Sit here. Miss Freeman has gone into the other car. And please stutter some more," laughed the girl, "for I love to hear it."

"I—I'd like to stutter for you all my life. I mean I'd like to be where you could always hear me stutter. Oh, hang it! I don't know how to propose. Told you I was an idiot, but yours to command if you'll take me. Didn't know until last night that—well, I care a lot."

The words were incoherent, but his eyes pleaded for him.

"Not too fast, Doctor Holt," warned the girl gravely. "Though I'm willing to admit that I could 'care a lot,' also."

After which the moments went upon wings. Sense and memory returning temporarily, the doctor asked:

"Did you get the telegram addressed 'Miss Carlyle'?"

"What telegram?" questioned the girl, puzzled.

A lady who was passing, stepped back to say:

"Pardon me, but I could not help hearing. My name is Carlyle, also, and I have received a mystifying telegram. Perhaps it is yours."

Doctor Holt stayed her hand as she fumbled in her bag.

"Miss Carlyle, can you believe me when I tell you that the telegram is no longer necessary?"

Glancing at their radiant faces, she answered, smilingly, "Easily."

"Then keep it, please," he urged. "May you never be ill, but if you are, just follow directions."

The lady laughed outright.

"This certainly smacks of mystery, sir," she answered. "However, I will shield you. Congratulations to both."

"Some speed, boy, some speed," declared the aviator as his passenger alighted with 30 minutes to spare. With the rapidly diminishing hum of the motor in his ears, the doctor changed collars and brushed his hair. Not one of the audience that he faced some moments later could have guessed that he had once that day been "a stuttering idiot."

CLORINDA FINDS HER OWN KIND
By DORA DEEN

WHEN the home was sold, and Clorinda left alone in the world, with little money after debts were paid, she wondered what she might do to earn her living. This thought in mind, she wrote a commendable application for the place of English teacher in Traylor hall.

Clorinda tried to find contentment in pursuance of her duty among the young women who learned from her. Often when the maidens of Traylor hall were safe in their dormitories for the night Clorinda would walk the gardens alone or sit at the grand piano, playing soft music which might not disturb. And the secret fact that she frequently was possessed of a wild desire to give vent to her pent-up emotions in a dance across the lawn in the moonlight, or to allow her fingers to trace over the piano keys in a merry-mad melody, caused poor Clorinda vague fear for the state of her mind.

Then, Peggy Price came to school. There was no doubt of Miss Peggy's eligibility; her father's name was well known in the world of finance. Still the unmoved Misses Traylor saw to it that the happy young girl from the great city was allowed no deviation from rigid rule. To Clorinda, in her heart loneliness, the merry little creature came as a warming gleam of sunlight in a darkened place. The two became at once close friends and companions, Clorinda forgetting in the growing happy intimacy that a Traylor teacher may not companion with her pupils.

The Misses Traylor for a while held their peace while Peggy brought laughter provoking epistles from friends at home to read to the sympathetic Clorinda. She would bring her mending to do where Clorinda sat at the piano, in a spare hour. "And the two frequently might be seen walking arm in arm through the gardens. The shocking sound of the English teacher's soft laughter mingled with the joyous scream of Peggy's at last brought the sisters to action.

The remiss instructor was made aware of her sins of commission and duly rebuked with the understanding that such unequal friendship must be discontinued. "If you must have an intimate," remarked Miss Sophia Traylor, "why do you not choose a woman of suitable age? Miss Causley, I am certain, would be helpful to you, as such an associate."

Miss Causley! Unconsciously, Clorinda winced. Miss Causley's chief topic of conversation was bound to be the discouraging failures of those under her charge—uncharitable criticism of those above her in school rule. While the sunny Peggy—Clorinda's blue eyes filled with tears, Peggy had been happy with her; she had even thought that her own friendship might be helpful to the motherless girl. Unsuitable? It was Peggy's indignant exclamation which recalled Clorinda.

"I heard what Miss Traylor said," asserted Peggy, "and if anyone could be more unsuitable for your friendly consideration than the pompous Causley, or the smug Traylor, I'd like to know it."

"Peggy," sighed Clorinda, "the manner in which you refer to your superiors proves that I have neglected my duty."

"Piffle!" snapped Peggy cheerfully. "You know Cloe, that yourself and your influence have alone made this place bearable, or improving to me. Without you—I go."

"Cloe!" Miss Sophia repeated the name in horror. "Is it so that you have been allowed to address an instructor in my school?"

Peggy nodded; her tone was grave. She had not heard the familiar name since she left home. "I hoped it might make it less desolate to hear it here."

That evening, seated in her small room in the school, Clorinda received notice of her dismissal. She was charged with not practicing proper discipline. Sadly she gathered together her belongings. Where would she go now she wondered. Where seek or learn new employment?

Peggy Price dashed into the room. Peggy's eyes were shining bright as usual; her smile had its accustomed good cheer. "I've quit," she said briefly. "Asked for a vacation, and then took it without waiting for an answer. And if they don't like it, I'm not coming back. But here is my surprise. I am taking you home with me for a visit also, without awaiting your consent. And, Cloe darling, I'm going to make a golden coach for you, out of your pumpkin shell. Do you think I mean to be separated so easily?"

So Clorinda went to the beautiful big city home in its beautiful city park and her soft laughter mingled unimpaired with Peggy's spontaneous mirth.

And not long after the Misses Traylor were astonished to read in the city paper the following announcement: "The marriage of Miss Clorinda Dawn to Mr. Porter Price was solemnized last evening at the Price family home, on River drive. Miss Peggy Price was the only attendant!" "She will be very rich," said Miss Sophia. "She will be happy," said the sister, "for Porter Price is known to be an admirable man." And at this moment a radiant Peggy was saying to her new stepmother: "Cloe, I've got you forever; what happy times we will have."

Newspaper Man Visits With West Friends.

From West Weekly News: Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Whipkey and son, Robert West, and Mr. Jones, arrived here Tuesday afternoon from their home at Colorado, Texas, making the trip in their car. They were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Willie and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. West and Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Aderhold and family while here, and went from here to Houston, Galveston and other points on a vacation trip.

These good people have been away from West for something like 19 years, but have many friends in West who have remained here all the while and who are glad to see them again. Whipkey Brothers operated the West Times here for a number of years, selling the property in 1905 or 1906, and which property finally fell into the stock company that the late H. B. Terrell managed, and the Times and the News were consolidated in 1913. When the Whipkey's left here they went to Colorado and settled, entering the newspaper and commercial printing business. That section of the state was at that time wholly undeveloped and they naturally had a hard pull of it for a time. But they are real newspaper men and printers and year by year they built their business until now they have a large printing and publishing plant, and are doing well. Their friends here will be glad to know these facts, for they are fine citizens and are worth while to the town in which they reside. The News acknowledges a social visit from Mr. Whipkey and was glad to meet him.

MITCHELL COUNTY IN LINE FOR TEXTILE INDUSTRIES

In speaking of the attractiveness of such an industry for Mitchell county, the Farmers Gin Company was cited by an interested citizen as to the real merits of the people providing the facilities for preparing their raw materials for market.

An expression from a number of local business men indicate that Colorado will be ready to co-operate fully with the interests of the county as a whole in promoting a mill here. A mill of 10,000 spindles, to manufacture duck and coarse cotton yarns could be erected at a cost of approximately $600,000, and under provisions of a special act of the legislature affecting this type of industry, only ten per cent of the capitalization would have to be paid in at the time of incorporation. All other corporations are required to pay in fifty per cent of the capitalization before incorporating under the laws of Texas.

Legion Auxiliary Meeting.

The American Legion Auxiliary meeting was held Saturday at the Hut. Bulletins on Membership and Americanization were read and the Auxiliary was glad to note that they were near the top on membership. The president had the charter framed and presented it to the body. It was decided to have a food sale at the Alcove for the next four weeks beginning Saturday. Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Spalding will have charge this week. Mrs. Farris and Mrs. Roy Dozier, the second; Mrs. Dobbs, the third; Mrs. Merritt, the fourth. Miss Mabel Smith was appointed Americanization chairman. It was decided to have a citizenship program the Fourth of July on the court house lawn. Mrs. A. L. Whipkey, chairman. The Auxiliary plans to send a number of its members to Brownwood in August to the State convention.

Road Work.

Our commissioner, W. D. McAdams now has the tractor road grader out here in the Silver and Landers communities, and believe me, he's sure doing some fine road work. He's making us a pike. Dalton is a fine old boy and has already done more real road construction work for the people out here than has been done in the past ten years and is still going. Hurrah and three cheers for Mr. McAdams.

HYMAN NEWS NOTES.

The community of Hyman met at the Hyman school house last Saturday night for the regular meeting of the Literary society. A good program was rendered to a crowded house. A candidate for county judge and two of the candidates for county superintendent made interesting talks. The Hyman Journal by Mrs. Reynolds was one of the most enjoyable features of the evening.

One of the saddest events which has occurred in the new Hyman settlement was the untimely death of little John Vowell, aged 10, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Vowell. His illness was only of a three days duration and his sudden death was a shock to the community. "Johnnie" as he was called by his family, was a fine lovable child, a favorite among his 12 brothers and sisters. He was a member of the Sunday school and will be sadly missed. Though young, he was a manly

HOT WEATHER.

Yes, it's hot. Warm weather was a little backward in coming but when it did come it made up for lost time. The mercury was still climbing when last heard from, it all depends on where you are and who you are and what kind of thermometer you have when it comes to telling how hot it is in the shade these days. The thermometer has been up to 114 and down to 102. The hottest day last year was on the 27th of June when it registered 102.

COLORADO MAN DELIVERS BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS

Rev. M. C. Bishop, pastor of the First Baptist church at Colorado, delivered the baccalaureate address to the graduating class of the Lorraine high school at Lorraine Sunday night. The Lorraine school closed for the year last week.

Rev. Mr. Bishop reports four additions to the local Baptist church Sunday and seven additions the Sunday previous.

RURAL CLUB WORK PRAISED AT PIONEER CLUB MEETING

The importance of federated woman's club work and of those under auspices of the Extension Department, A. & M. College for boys and girls was stressed in addresses delivered at a celebration at Valley View school house Friday night, given under auspices of the Pioneer Club, oldest rural federated woman's club in Mitchell County.

The occasion was a box supper arranged by ladies of the club for raising funds to complete payment on their attractive club house, recently erected and was attended by a large number of citizens of that community, together with several candidates from Colorado and Lorraine. The boxes which were auctioned by County Judge J. C. Hall netted $90.75.

The meeting was called to order by S. H. Hart, who introduced W. S. Cooper of Colorado as chairman of the meeting. In a brief preliminary address, Cooper outlined some of the mutual advantages of an organization similar to the Pioneer Club and was profuse in his praise of the progressive work being done by ladies of that community through their organization.

"The Pioneer Club was the first rural club to be perfected by women in Mitchell County and was also the first member of the Mitchell County Federation of Clubs to erect its own club house," he said. "This is an enviable distinction of which every citizen of this county may well be proud. The building of rural club houses by an organization of this kind established a precedent in this section of the State and occasioned considerable comment in some of our larger newspapers and periodicals."

Cooper outlined some of the programs inaugurated by the Colorado Chamber of Commerce in furthering the interests of the several rural communities of the county, citing co-operation given the county and home demonstration agents as one of the most important. "As a token of the esteem of the Colorado Chamber of Commerce for the splendid work you ladies are doing, the organization desires to present your club with an annual membership in the organization, to be placed upon the block and sold here tonight, the proceeds to go into this fund you are raising for your club house," he stated. The membership was sold to R. D. Leffever for $6.00.

An annual subscription to The Record was also donated the club by the Whipkey Printing Company and when placed on the block was bought by U. D. Wulfjen at a bid of $3.50. This also went into the club fund and Mr. Wulfjen gave the paper to the club. Mrs. S. D. Dunahoo, president, and Mrs. H. L. Harrell, secretary, were profuse in expressing their appreciation of the co-operation accorded the club by the Chamber of Commerce and The Record.

Before auctioning the boxes, the opportunity was given visiting candidates to make a brief announcement of their candidacies. Those to take advantage of this opportunity of meeting the people of that community were A. J. Coe, U. D. Wulfjen, Charlie Thompson and Perry T. Brown, candidates for county judge; J. Lee Jones and W. S. Stoneham,

NEW CONTRACTING FIRM.

Strong and Nolen is the new contracting firm to locate with us and their work already done speaks for itself as to their ability to do any and all kinds of work. These are the people who are just finishing up the fine brick bungalow for D. L. Buchanan and here you will find just as good work as can be done anywhere from the concrete foundation, brick walls and plastering to the roof. Messrs Strong and Nolen built the Max Berman residence, Mrs. Smartt residence and the A. J. Herrington Ford garage front and they make stucco work, plastering and all kinds of concrete work their hobby. These people thoroughly understand their business and have come among us as citizens asking a share of the construction business on a basis of a square deal and let live prices. In talking to Mr. Strong this week he said you might say that no job is too small or large for us, that we build automobile runs, flower bed curbing, concrete floors for garages, side walks and all kinds of cementing, plastering, stucco and home building, and are ready at all times to submit estimates on your work.

LEGAL EXCUSE

We are late with the paper again this week, but we believe we have a legitimate excuse this time. A nine pound boy made his appearance in the family at 8:30 Wednesday evening and the consequent excitement has been rather hard on the editor. In fact he is not yet fully recovered. However we will try and reach you on time next week.—Lorraine Leader. Such a trying ordeal is certainly a legal excuse for being late with the current number of The Leader. Fact of the business, Editor Williams did well to get the sheet out at all. The Record extends congratulations.

The picture show which operated here in time past, was moved to Westbrook recently. Fishermen Return.

J. A. Sadler and Charlie Farris, the fishermen have returned from a week's stay on the Llano River and failed to bring back any evidence of a catch. When asked about their success Mr. Sadler said turn to Luke 5:4-8 and read Peter's story there and said it would apply in this case. Jesus Christ knew exactly what He was doing, for it was no accident that He chose fishermen as His friends and followers. The Record has never yet seen a real fisherman, who was at heart a mean, wicked man. They lie occasionally (like Peter did in Mark 14:66-72) take a drink on a real cold morning and swear like a bootblack when no other course seems to be available, but they are true to their friends, and genuine loyalty covers a lot of folly.

SUNDAY WITH THE METHODIST

Sunday school 9:45 a. m. Be on time and we will make it short and good.

Preaching at 11 a. m. and 8:15 p. m.

Now we are in the warm season of the year but we are going to try to hold up the attendance. We want to begin our Sunday School right on time and get through by 10:45 and begin our morning service at 10:50 and close at 11:30 if possible. The same in the evening. We will go through the services in 45 minutes if you will help us to begin on time. Some folks like short sermons and I am preparing to give them to you. I had rather talk ten minutes and you awake than to talk thirty minutes and you asleep. If the grasshoppers will go elsewhere, if the hot winds will lay, if we get our July showers we are going to have our Sunday school annex. Everybody sees the need of it and almost every one says we must have it. By the time school opens in the fall we want to be in it. No car is too good for your wife and children, is it. No road too good for them to drive over, is it? No public school building too good for them, is it? No court house too good for the home of our county officials and the temple of justice in which to try the delinquents, is it? The one place where we get our best and earliest impressions, the one place where we get our highest ideals, the one place where we form our best associations should be as good as any of these. Should it not? There is an old saying by one of the old writers, "Life is what you make it." That is perhaps very true. Here is another, "The church of tomorrow will be what we of today make it. And moreover, Our chief work today is making the church of tomorrow. Too many would be Christians want to make a show. The biggest show we can make will be that which shows after we are gone. Get it? Come next Sunday to all the services and you will be a better man and a better woman all next week. Every body wanted.

J. F. LAWLIS, Pastor.

HYMAN, THE GROWING PART OF MITCHELL COUNTY

The writer had scarcely heard of the community of Hyman until last Friday evening, but was very much impressed with the fine spirit of co-operation and enthusiasm manifested by its citizens in all community interests. The occasion which brought them together at that particular time was one of their regular semi-monthly meetings of the literary society. The meeting place was at the school house which is there as it should be in many more rural districts, the community center. All ages from small children to white-haired mothers took part in a lively program which was well rendered and enjoyed by a house full of people. The visitors noted were a young lady teacher and her father from Lubbock, Mrs. Hammonds and children from the Payne community, Mr. Perry T. Brown of Westbrook, S. C. Harris and wife of Loraine, Hal Bennett and wife of two miles north of Loraine.

The people who live there are owners of farms which have been cut out of the H. S. ranch. The whole community has grown up like an oil town or a mushroom, so to speak, almost in a night. An important date with them is August 4, 1923, at which time the last of the required number of voters became eligible to vote bonds for the erection of a school house. Thirteen votes were cast in the election which was held under a brush arbor and celebrated by a big barbecue and a number of visitors in attendance. The building which is modern in every respect and also nicely equipped, was completed at a cost of $2,600 and one teacher was hired to teach the thirteen children of scholastic age during the last term. The scholastics including few transfers, number 80 at the present time. Two teachers will be hired for another year. A gasoline filling station has been put in near the school house, a store and post office with Mrs. Harry Hyman as postmistress are planned for the near future.

Their record along religious lines is equally unusual. Last year under the brush arbor a Sunday school was started with very few members. The enrolled is now 113 with about 80 in regular attendance. They have two regular preaching days, the 1st and 2nd Sundays. Four protracted meetings are billed for this summer. Taking the community as whole or individually, I should say it has the finest bunch of folks I have had the pleasure of seeing in some time. They are all wide-awake, full of pep and much given to hospitality. We were glad to find some old friends and schoolmates of our childhood days out there.

Anyone who wants to be royally entertained, laugh a lot and see the living example of a growing community just go to Hyman in the extreme southwestern part of Mitchell county.

CHICAGO'S HIGHBROW MURDER

Throughout the country the general reaction to the sequel of the Franks kidnapping and murder apparently is one of bewilderment that two youths, brilliant mentally, surrounded from birth with the best that wealth affords, should so deliberately carry out such a brutal crime.

Not only Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of Robert Franks, will be on trial in the Chicago courts, but our American system of justice will be on trial in the opinion of the Cincinnati Times-Star, which feels that "unless the experiences of the past have enlightened Chicago courts, we shall have Leopold and Loeb retiring to the cloistered life of some luxurious sanitarium, there to await the abatement of public opinion when they may emerge at the instance of the same lawyers and physicians."

The Indianapolis News insists "the millions that these college graduates will inherit are not on trial," and, "the State of Illinois has an opportunity here to show what simple justice means," furthermore, "the presentation of the evidence to a competent jury and the return of a verdict should not take long and it need not be attended by any of the frills that have been suggested as a part of the case." The Newark News suggests "the entire absence of the usual moral inhibitions against crime, which conceivably could grow out of the entire rejection of responsibility to any power beyond man, alone might explain the cold brutality, the calculating callousness, of this murder," but, "law can not palliate guilt on such a basis without throwing down the safeguards of civilization."

The Pittsburgh Gazette-Times agrees "unnecessary delay will be contrary to the interest of public justice." While it is hard "to order capital penalties against those who may be proven mentally irresponsible," the Grand Rapids Herald argues "it is a travesty on preventive penology to contemplate the possibility that such intellectual depravity as this case heartlessly involves can find a legal immunity to the law's maximum retribution," and, "we shall find all of our theories put to severe test if the Chicago defense proceeds as indicated." In no case, the Sioux City Journal declares, "should the two Chicago murderers be allowed to escape punishment for their fiendish crime," for, "this is one time when justice should be blind indeed to the position, the slayers occupied and to the resources at their command."

"How to handle this bolshevistic decadence," the Detroit Free Press contends, "is still an unsolved puzzle, but there is no doubt about what must be done when such products of it as Leopold and Loeb appear—they must be expeditiously and completely eliminated as factors in society." What is essential, according to the Baltimore Sun, "is that no mawkish sentimentalism, no psychological excuses should be permitted to protect these criminals from the speediest and fullest punishment." If they manage to get to a comfortable insane asylum "instead of receiving their just deserts," the Lynchburg Advance is convinced, "it will but tempt serve to add to the conviction which many hold that there is a grievous fault somewhere in our legal system which too often permits the guilty to escape." The Lincoln State Journal asks "what is there in the modern life of such young men that turns in so tragic a direction in search of adventure?" The Manchester Union answers, "somewhere something was wrong in the training of these youths because as post-graduate university students they can hardly be looked upon as lacking brains or failing to realize the consequences of their acts," however, the real cause "may be found in the conditions under which the two managed to arrive at so tragic a misinterpretation of the whole scheme of life."

"Their education may have been rich in an accumulation of facts of the book, but assuredly it was deficient on the moral side," in the opinion of the Buffalo News, which believes "the enduring things of education, which embrace a knowledge of right living, one ought to get at home," for "there are responsibilities which parents can not delegate to the school men." The Milwaukee Journal claims further that the present-day novels which "preach discontent with the clean and well tried things of life, stage and film plays that depict the smartness and attractiveness of criminality are poison to the mind of youth," and it asks, "isn't it about time we began to act?" The Springfield Republican feels "the lesson that education, in the sense of brilliant achievement in the requirements of a scholastic curriculum, is very far from being the all-sufficient instrument of a healthy civilization is obviously presented."

IN THE OFFING.

The future continues to hold glittering possibilities for the citizenship of Mitchell County, if they continue to profit by the varied opportunities coming their way for developing the rural and commercial interests as a whole as they have in the past. The oil outlook was never more attractive in the history of the field than it is today. New wells being completed and adding their production to the ever increasing output and with a number of new tests either drilling or being started is indeed to be accepted as the cause for optimism. The West Texas Refining Company plant, the first to be built in the county, is starting operations and as this number of The Record comes from the press, "West Texas Gasoline," "one hundred per cent" Mitchell county product, is being taken from the plant by the consumer.

The agricultural end of the county's stock in trade, which is the most important of all, too, continues to look ahead and the year 1924 now promises to witness the making of a new record for production of the many staple crops throughout the county. Rural citizens, through cooperation of the Extension Department, A. & M. College, are fast taking up positions in the diversified column and where only cotton and feed and forage crops were grown a few years ago, standard bred poultry, registered pigs, registered dairy cows and baby beaves, and choice garden and fruit products are finding equal prominence. One of the most valued assets possible for the citizenship of the county to obtain, in furthering the interests of the varied resources of the county, is catalogued in the Mitchell County Fair Association. There is, perhaps, no other agency which would contribute more toward blending the people together in one united drive to make the best of every resource. The fair each fall is the summary, attractively illuminated, showing the best we have done, in home, farm, county and every phase from the busy marts of commerce. Success of the fair depends, of course, upon the support, both moral and financial, given it by the people. The Mitchell County Fair Association is appealing to the entire citizenship of this county to co-operate with them in building one of the best educational and inspirational institutions in this state. The successful and growing county fair is certainly such an institution.

LINGERIE STYLES REMAIN FILMY AND GAY IN COLOR

A STROLL through the pretty little shops that deal in lingerie, or through the departments devoted to it in the big stores, will lead one to divide it into two main classes—sheer and more sheer. What with georgette, chiffon and batiste or dimity taking up more than their share of the space devoted to displays, one might conclude that the chief end of underthings is to be dainty and colorful. In fact these two items are as important as any others in making undergarments that are salable.

This being the case we find garments of crepe de chine, radium silk, crepe-back satin and other filmy but not transparent silks in lovely colors like those of the thinner materials. Pink, flesh, shrimp, orchid and turquoise are favorites and white will always have a following. There are also more daring colors, and even black in the company of intrepid shades like orange, flame, green or yellow. Of course a little of this erratic departure in colors goes a long way and most women are not interested in it at all. Styles have not changed—the straightline gown and chemise or "Teddy" still guarantees no interference with the waistline or the lines of outer garments. The trimmings are the same as those of yesteryear also—barrow laces, stitchey, medallions and fine embroideries. One may select a tailored style in which hemstitching, fagoting and bandings contribute the decorations, or adopt the more frilly, lace-trimmed style, but in this case much restraint is evident in the new lingerie. The nightdresses of crepe de chine pictured strikes a happy medium. It is prettily decorated with insertions and frills of val lace. Narrow ribbons in rosettes, loops and ends or made up into flowers, are mounted on tiny safety pins to be bestowed upon one garment or another as their wearer chooses.

The sheer materials used are very durable and many women are buying them and making their own underthings. JULIA BOTTOMLEY. (© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

BOY SCOUTS

In sentencing four young murderers in an atrocious bank robbery in Brooklyn, the Judge said that he could not let the occasion pass without making comment on the social implications of the shocking event. He rightly diagnosed the case as symptomatic of the breakdown of moral training, coupled with the wrong kind of "hero worship." Those young men (scarcely past boyhood) had made heroes of the neighborhood toughs and so had progressed from bad to worse and to the shadow of the electric chair.

The lack of moral or religious training is a problem which the individual must solve in his own home. But the fostering of the right kind of ideals for boys is one to which every man can contribute. Happily there is a wonderful organized and effective agency for this—the Boy Scouts.

Those who are in it know how the Boy Scout movement promotes manliness, clean living, harmless fun, personal efficiency, and the highest type of American standards. Today the Boy Scout movement is in need of your help. It needs money, but that isn't all. It needs men. It needs men of all ages. Men who will give up a small portion of their time to the most constructive and patriotic popular movement of any age.

Aside from the pleasure which comes to men who do good work, association with the Boy Scouts promises a deep seated benefit to any man who personally joins this movement. As he helps to make better and happier boys, so he will become a better and happier man. His life will be richer, fuller, and more purposeful. The boys will teach him more, unconsciously perhaps, than he can teach them.

Out of it he will get a vision of co-operation, self-discipline, decency, and true manliness. And he will come to know that, despite the calamity howlers, this America of ours is sound at heart as long as we can breed manly self respecting boys.

The little outdoor work he will do will give him zest, health, and relaxation. But over and above all this is the fact that he will be doing great work for the present and the future in making the country a fitter place to rear children.

It is true, too, that any neighborhood that possesses a successful Boy Scout troop is a better and more livable neighborhood.

Funny Things at Waco

Some funny things occurred at that Waco convention. It was dominated by the Ku Klux Klan. Whether the Klansmen were in the majority or not we do not know, but they were organized and they held the balance of power. W. A. Hanger of Fort Worth one of the leaders of the anti-prohibition forces in Texas as long as there was a saloon anywhere to fight for, was the recognized leader of the Klan forces. He held the lines and cracked the whip and his trained ponies pranced around the ring and jumped thru the hoops at his will. Marshall Hicks of San Antonio—wet old Santone—who was also an enemy to prohibition when prohibitionists were making a fight for a dry Texas, was the chairman of the convention and was selected to head the delegation to New York. Zeke Marvin of Dallas Grand Dragon or some such hideous animal of the Realm of Texas, sat on the platform and watched Hanger run the show. John Mathis of Houston, the man who fought prohibition in the legislature and out of the legislature to the last ditch was made one of the delegates-at-large. The only congressman, we believe, who was placed on the delegation was John N. Garner, one of the few Texas congressmen who opposed prohibition and woman suffrage. U. S. Senator Earle B. Mayfield was placed on the delegation while Senator Morris Sheppard was left at home. The name of Harper N. Kirby of Austin was submitted to the convention as a delegate but he was elected to stay at home—Kirby who spent big money to put Texas in the dry column and who was one of the leaders of the dry forces. Yet the convention instructed for a bone-dry candidate for president. Funny things happened at Waco.—Tahoka News.

TWENTY MINUTES TO LEAVE

A young man who gave his name as Sherrod, together with a young lady who said her name was Beulah, were arrested by Police Chief Johnson on the Roscoe road two miles west of Sweetwater and were brought before Judge Yantis in corporation court Tuesday afternoon. Sherrod stated that he had met the girl at the T. & P. station and that he was walking to Lamesa and she to Colorado so they started out together.

The judge gave the young man 20 minutes to get out of town and the boy left immediately for Abilene. The girl will stay here until tonight when she will be sent on to Baird where she stated her home was. Sweetwater Reporter.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AMARILLO, Texas, June 18.—Delegates to the Texas Press Association began pouring in here today from North East, Central, South and West Texas. Many of the newspaper men arrived here Wednesday night on a special train out of Fort Worth.

The convention was officially opened in Amarillo's new Municipal auditorium with one of the largest attendances yet recorded at a meeting of the Texas Press Association.

The entertainment program includes a barbecue in Palo Duro Canyon, visit to West Texas Normal College at Canyon and a visit to the gas fields.

The newspaper men were startled at some of the things they learned about West Texas. The world's greatest gas field is at Amarillo. Palo Duro Canyon is considered as scenic as many of the famous canyons of Colorado. The temperature here seldom gets above 90 degrees.

The name of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, wife of the former governor James E. Ferguson, has been certified as a candidate for governor by the State Democratic executive committee. It is the first time in history that the gubernatorial candidacy of a woman was certified in Texas. Mrs. Jim will withdraw if the court rules that Mr. Ferguson's name may be printed on the ballots.

"Just bad spots" is the way the grasshopper situation is now sized up. Unless a strenuous fight is put up to eliminate these pests where they are now to be found, they will continue to spread to other sections of our county. A hard fight should be waged to prevent their damaging crops.

HARRY K. THAW LIVES RETIRED LIFE ON FARM

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 18.—Legally freed of the stigma of an insane slayer by the courts, Harry K. Thaw, now is living the life of a retired gentleman on his mother's big estate at Beechwood Boulevard.

All of Thaw's personal wealth, estimated at close to three quarters of a million, was returned to him the other day, but if he follows his present plans—or rather his mother's—he will spend little of it.

Thaw is a great motorist and may be seen driving every day along the more unfrequented roads. He is accompanied by a male companion, a private detective hired by his mother to keep him out of further trouble.

Although very quiet and reserved, Thaw is in the best of health and occasionally slips into a "movie" not far from the Thaw home.

Mrs. Thaw has a big summer home in the mountains near Cresson, Pa., and she plans to take Harry and the rest of the household there about the middle of July. Later they are to return to Pittsburgh.

When the slayer of Stamford White was declared sane by a Philadelphia court several weeks ago, he promised his mother faithfully that he would remain by her side as long as she lived. He is said to have told her he never wanted to go anywhere without her.

This, Mrs. Thaw tells friends, is a great comfort in her old age. She always thought Harry was a "good boy"—only that too much money in his youth had spoiled him.

Poison Mash For Grasshoppers

(By R. R. Reppert, Entomologist) While the poison mash advised for grasshoppers is obtaining generally good results (we have several complaints that it was ineffective. In every one of these instances we have found that directions in mixing and applying in some respect or other had not been carefully carried out. In one case the farmer had allowed the druggist to convince him that calcium arsenate would do as a poison instead of the white arsenic. Be sure that what you get is "white arsenic" or Paris Green.

In another instance the bran mash had been put in piles over a small part of the field. The poison mash we have advised has been used for many years in many states and under all conditions and secures the best results when sown thinly and evenly over the entire infested area. Don't think that you have unusual conditions that require a departure from our recommendations.

In another instance water taken from a barrel formerly containing creosote stock dip was used to mix the mash. The odor of creosote in this water was so pronounced as to repel the grasshoppers. Lemons are used to attract the insects to the bait, and the use of such water serves to neutralize this attraction.

Other mistakes are doubtless being made on various farms. The above instances will give point to our statement, expressed in our former letter, "to mix and apply the bran mash effectively as directed, leaving out no part." We may add "and putting nothing else in."

Another thing to be said in connection with this formula is that results, as indicated by dead grasshoppers, should not be expected too soon. Very few grasshoppers die from the effects of the poison the first twenty-four hours, and it will not be until the second day that a great many dead grasshoppers are found. They will continue to die from the effects of poisoning for a week or more.

Towns
Much community effort is almost entirely lost for the same reason that individual effort fails. Chambers of Commerce, in small towns, especially, drift into a state of general Nothingness, when the members begin to get careless about attending meetings. Clubs, like the Rotary, the Kiwanis and the Lions find that they cannot do anything worth while unless they meet regularly, and so they meet at lunch or dinner, and fine their members or drop them for non-attendance. They strive about as hard to maintain a high attendance record as for anything else, for they know that poor attendance means poor interest. They keep their members constantly on the job or put them out of the organizations. Town building and community development can not be done by "fits and jerks."—Haskell Free-Press.

But it is better to have "fits and jerks" in town building than not build at all. If the "fits and jerks" last long enough, then you build a town. All towns are seeking to become a city, and all cities are seeking to be larger cities. No town wants to stand still unless it be one which has decided on the line of least resistance and to give up the struggle and not try to grow any more. Sometimes, one wants to go to a town like that, where all the hustle and struggle to beat the other fellow has ceased and there is complacency and resignation to fate. One would only want to go to a town like that, but stay a short time.—Abilene Reporter.

FARM FEATURES FOR FARM FOLK

July 28 to August 2, is the date set for the 1924 Farmer's Short Course at Texas A. & M. College. The business of the Texas A. & M. College is to build up Texas. The college is doing this in three ways. First, by educating a generation of better trained citizens to work for Texas institutions; and third, by building up Texas soil, saving her resources and multiplying their power and value.

Every year the Texas A. & M. College tries to do one more thing thru the Farmers' Short Course to build up all the people. The Boys' Agricultural Clubs, the Girls' Home Making Clubs, the Woman's Home Demonstration Clubs, the County Home Demonstration Clubs, the County Farm Agent's work, are out-growths of our own Agricultural and Mechanical College. To SERVE the people who make its service possible is the motive of our Texas A. & M. College. And when its mission and its services are better understood Texas will be a better state.

Two years ago the College invited the agricultural writers of Texas to attend the Farmers' Short Course for the purpose of studying the relation of the Texas press to the FARM PEOPLE of the State. Last year the A. & M. College invited the Rural Ministers of Texas to attend the Farmers' Short Course to study the relation of the Rural Church to the life and happiness of the farm people. A meeting of two weeks was devoted to the study of the spiritual side of farm life and the best methods of service for the rural minister to the State of Texas.

As a result of that two weeks school in the interests of the rural church the A. & M. College is this year making a survey of the rural church in Texas. Going to find out what ails the rural church and then doctor it in the most intelligent and Christ-like way. Is that not a Christian service to the State? How many of us know about it?

There is another thing going on in Texas this year. It is the School Survey. How many of the people are keeping up with that? How can we country folks keep up with all the big things that are going on in Texas? There is only ONE way to reach all the people with all the GOOD THINGS and that is through the PRESS ARE WE DOING IT? That is the question the Agricultural Writers want to settle this year at their annual meeting during the Short Course.

What is the Texas Press doing for the farm folk? Is the Texas press doing as much for the farmer and all his interests as the farmer and his family are doing for the Texas press. Is it giving as much time and thought and space to the rural community and its interests as it is to the city community and its interests? Is the agricultural side of the life of our state receiving from the State press its share of recognition and publicity as compared to the service it renders the State?

Ruth and Bessie Nell Johnson accompanied Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Johnson of Valley View home Sunday afternoon returning with them Monday night for the graduation exercises.

POULTRY

INCUBATING TURKEY EGGS IS HARD TASK

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) There are certain factors in the incubation of turkey eggs which are very important, and which mean a great deal in determining the number of fully matured pullets and cockerels raised in the following year. In a large measure the criterion of success in turkey raising is the number of fully matured turkeys raised in proportion to the total number of eggs set. Therefore the eggs as laid must be given the very best attention. High fertility is desirable, and incubation should be carried out in such a way that as many of the eggs as possible will hatch. Naturally, the vigor of the breeding stock and the manner in which it has been managed will determine in large degree the quality of the hatching eggs.

The eggs should be collected regularly every day and kept in a room at a temperature of from 50 degrees to 60 degrees F. They should be turned every day, but should be handled carefully and should not be kept for over two weeks.

The period of incubation of turkey eggs is 28 days, and the method of incubation is much the same as with chicken eggs. Turkey eggs can be incubated under chicken hens, turkey hens, or in incubators. If chicken hens are used to incubate turkey eggs, care must be taken not to give the hen too many eggs, as from 9 to 12 are quite sufficient, depending upon the size of the hen, as well as the size of the eggs. Nesting arrangements as well as other matters are practically the same as in incubating chicken eggs. The sitting hen should be fed daily and given a chance to exercise.

When the turkey hen is allowed to sit on her own eggs, conditions are much the same as with the chicken hen. Turkey hens will cover from 15 to 20 eggs. Nests are most conveniently arranged on the ground or in boxes or barrels and should be covered so that the turkey hen will not be disturbed. At the same time she should be taken off daily and allowed to exercise and should be given plenty of water to drink, and clean, wholesome feed, such as a mixture of wheat and oats.

When the turkey hen becomes broody she should be allowed to sit on the nest for two or three days before being intrusted with the eggs. When she has remained on the nest for two or three days she should then be given her eggs and attended to as suggested. If a number of hens are sitting at the same time, care should be taken to see that they get back to the nests properly and that no nest is left uncovered.

Both chicken and turkey hens, while sitting on turkey eggs, should be dusted with sodium fluoride, using a small pinch under each wing, around the thigh joint, over the back, under the body and around the vent. In this way the hen is rid of lice and the poult at hatching time are not liable to be infested with the parasites.

Use of Moldy Straw for Litter Quite Injurious

Serious loss of poultry is often due to the use of moldy straw for scratching litter. In such cases, according to D. C. Kennard, specialist in poultry at the Ohio experiment station, the birds affected breathe with difficulty and often wheeze or gasp for air. The symptoms are similar to a cold in the windpipe or bronchitis. The respiratory system of a chicken is so complicated that an excessive amount of dust of any kind is injurious and especially is this true of the dust from moldy straw.

Recent reports of heavy losses of pullets from this cause have been made. A heavy loss of birds may result in a few hours, it seems, and one bale of moldy or musty straw used for scratching birds may mean a serious loss of birds.

Better Roosters Needed in Many Poultry Flocks

We have heard much of better beef sires and better dairy sires. A good rooster is just as important to the poultry flock. To prevent inbreeding it is necessary to get new blood at least every two years. Buy a new cockerel and buy a good one. Be sure he comes from healthy stock which has been bred for egg production. Be sure he has vigor, a wide back, deep abdomen, long body, full breast and proper development. Don't buy a cull or mongrel at any price. Then mate him up to a dozen of your very best hens; late moulters with lots of room in the rear and soft, flexible bodies. The result should be better pullets.—O. G. Krum, Poultry Specialist, Colorado Agricultural College.

Fan Out Poultry House

It is a good plan to visit the hen houses after the chickens are gone to roost, and see what the air smells like. Perhaps it will need to be "fanned out" as they used to fan a change of air into the house in the bygone days when windows were nailed down for the winter. Then the fresh-air devotees would open an outside door and vigorously fan it back and forth until the stale air was fanned out. Overcrowding, lice, mites and bad air are the pests of chickens.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION IN SCHOOLS SOUGHT BY KING

"To educate the head, the hand and the heart should be the aim of every present day school," E. Frank King superintendent of the Colorado schools, writes in a communication to the Colorado Chamber of Commerce, urging co-operation of the organization in sponsoring the placing of course of vocational education in the Colorado schools. The superintendent suggests that three departments be added. Domestic arts and science for girls and manual training for boys.

"Our schools are not meeting the demands of the public in that they are not offering these courses," he continues. "Schools in towns not nearly so large as Colorado are offering these courses, and some of them have been for years, and they are able to hold through the high school course many boys and girls whom otherwise would never have gone much beyond the grammar school. Colorado cannot afford to let its schools lag."

Cost of adding the course would approximate $5,000 annually, in addition to the initial expense of equipping class rooms and work shops for the same, according to an estimate of the school board. King states that the State Department of Education would bear half the expense of the additional teachers salaries to be required.

Both the school board and the Chamber of Commerce are very much interested in the proposed course and have given the suggestion of the superintendent full endorsement. However, because of a lack of available funds, it will be impossible to add the course this year.

The school board is confronted with the necessity of adding additional teachers to the faculty this year and will also be required under law to make extensive improvements to the negro school, making the proposed new department impossible to finance at least before another year.

TRIBUTE TO MISS ELIZABETH VIRGINIA JOHNSON

In the death of "Aunt Betty" Johnson the Daughters and Children of the Confederacy have lost an honorary member, who was indebted to the manor born, a true daughter of the Old South. A true gentleman, and always an unconstructed rebel. One who could always smile and say "They will be done."

Elizabeth Virginia Mullen was born Nov. 28, 1838 near Camden, Miss. She was the twin sister of Thos. Q. Mullen, who died six years ago. It was for Colonel Mullen the Children of the Confederacy was named and "Aunt Betty" was their honored honorary member. Like other girls of the Old South she grew up in comfort and pleasure intensely loyal to her home, her church and her country. At eight years of age she became a Christian and united with the Baptist church and throughout her life her support and devotion was given to it. She saw the war clouds rise and sweep over Dixie. She saw her beloved twin brother march away to join the Confederate army. She knew the desolation, privations and heart aches of the four years struggle, and yet she was able to welcome the return of her brother but with the loss of a limb. Together with others she carried on during the terrible days of the reconstruction, living to see her loved Southland again prosperous and taking its place again in these United States.

The years that followed brought their joys and sorrows; their fulfillments and disappointments until finally as a widow she came many years ago to live with her brother, the last of her own people. Then it was the U. D. S.'s came to know and love her for her beautiful qualities of mind and heart, appreciative of every thought for her comfort, a mine of information on topics dear to the Daughters. She inspired them to greater efforts for the thinning ranks of the Gray and for other Daughters left to fight life's battles alone. For four and a half years she has been an invalid, tenderly cared for by her niece, Mrs. Robert Terrell. Her going home June 10th was a blessed release from pain, to a reunion with loved ones gone before.—Robert E. Lee Chapter U. D. C., Thos Q. Mullen Children of Con.

Mrs. Creth of Big Spring is here with her mother, Mrs. Berry, caring for her daughter, Mildred, who was operated upon last week at the Root sanitarium.

Potatoes Taste Sweet

The reason for potatoes becoming sweet and disagreeable to the taste is that they have been stored at too low a temperature. Below 40 degrees the starch in the potato is converted into sugar, according to John Bushnell, of the Ohio experiment station. When

Rev. W. A. Foster of Abilene preached at the regular hour Sunday morning at the close of the sermon which was soul stirring and much enjoyed by all present, he formally accepted the call as pastor which the church had given him at the last conference. His urgent plea to the church was that they spend time in prayer to God for guidance and direction. Present plans indicate that he will preach again the fifth Sunday at the regular hours instead of on the first Sunday in July. There were two additions to the church Sunday. Several more have voluntarily promised to come next time. We heartily welcome all Christians of the Baptist belief who live in our midst to come and join us in helping to further the Master's work. Rev. A. C. Miller, a former pastor now of Oklahoma preached Friday night and also conducted the service at the Baptizing Sunday afternoon. Rev. Foster baptized ten, seven for the Loraine church and three for Bethel. The B. Y. P. U. met at the church for their regular program and went in a body to the baptizing honoring some of their members who were candidates for baptism. Services were dismissed Sunday night to allow all to hear the baccalaureate sermon preached by Rev. M. C. Bishop of Colorado, at the Methodist church. The W. M. S. was honored by having a talk by the pastor and one by Mrs. Alta Kimball Hefner about her and husband's work in Fort Worth.

Methodist Church Notes.

Under the supervision of our efficient S. S. superintendent we are marching onward and upward. We had 196 in attendance last Sunday. That enthusiasm of teacher has kindled enthusiasm of their pupils was fully demonstrated by the fact that many complained of not having enough time for the lesson. We are sorely in need of more class rooms, let us think seriously of this great need. That the purpose of our S. S.

may be made more effectual. We were glad to have the many visitors last Sunday especially were we glad to listen to the inspiring talk by Grandpa Edwards. At the evening hour, Rev. Bishop of Colorado, who had been selected by the senior class of the high school to deliver the baccalaureate sermon used for his theme "The Planned Life." S. S. will meet Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. League at 7:30. There will be no services at the regular preaching hours, but pastor will occupy the pulpit on the 5th Sunday. We extend a hearty welcome to all to come and worship with us.—Reporter.

HOSPITAL ENGINEER AND WIFE GIVE FACTS

Among the many remarkable experiences being told daily about the sensational new medicine Karnak is that of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Brown, well-known residents of 2514 Kennedy Ave., Parsons, Kansas.

"I had reached the point," says Mr. Brown, who is engineer at the M. K. & T. hospital, "where I thought my case was hopeless. My stomach and nerves were all to pieces and my blood so weak I would wake up in the night with my arms so numb I would have to get up and rub them. I had tried so many medicines without result I thought I would never see another well day, but when I got hold of Karnak it worked like magic. I eat anything, sleep fine, have gained weight and am so much stronger my work seems easy. In fact, I don't feel like I ever had a sick day in my life."

Mrs. Brown relates her experience as follows: "My digestion had utterly failed and my nerves were so frayed I could scarcely sleep day or night. Every bite I ate caused pain and distress for hours. Karnak helped me from the start just like it did Mr. Brown and now I am in such splendid health I feel like a new person. We think it our duty to tell others what Karnak will do."

Mr. and Mrs. Brown have hundreds of friends who will rejoice with them in their remarkable recovery. Karnak sold in Colorado by JNO. L. DOSS.
