WORLD PRODUCTION OF 28,000,000 BALES IS THE 1931 YIELD ESTIMATE

The world commercial cotton crop for 1931-1932 was forecast Saturday at 28,000,000 bales, an all-time record, by Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the bureau of business research at the University of Texas. Dr. Cox's estimate is based on a unit-bale of 487 pounds net weight. The 1929-1930 crop, which is now the world production record, was about 27,800,000 bales. Present economic conditions point to a minimum average reduction of between 7 and 8 per cent and maximum of 10 per cent, Dr. Cox estimated. The total supply of cotton in the United States January 1 was 17,000,000 bales, or 3,122,000 bales more than the previous January 1 record, which occurred in 1926. "The calculations of a price based on supply and demand is extremely difficult," Dr. Cox pointed out. The New Orleans spot price would vary from 5.50 to 6.50. Cotton consumption in the United States for December amounted to 115,000 bales, or about 14,000 bales less than in November and about 2,000 bales more than in December a year ago, Dr. Cox reported. "Consumption in the United States as a whole since August 1 was 2,196,000 bales," Dr. Cox said. "This is 194,000 bales more than the consumption for the same period last year."

ED DUPREE SUCCUMBS AFTER LONG ILLNESS

(From the Sulphur Springs Daily Tribune) Ed Dupree died Thursday afternoon at his home in Mt. Vernon, after a lingering illness of many months, following declining health for the past two years.

Mr. Dupree was a well known citizen and business man of both East Texas and West Texas, having been born in Franklin county, where he lived till about thirty years ago, when he moved to Colorado City, where he continued to live till a few months ago, when he moved back to Mount Vernon, with hope of regaining his health.

Mr. Dupree was a member of one of the pioneer and leading families of East Texas, being the son of the late Thomas D. Dupree, whose several sons have been prominent cattle men and whose interests have carried them into most parts of Texas and Oklahoma during the last half century.

There are very few cattle men in Texas and few cattle dealers in Ft. Worth who are not familiar with the name Dupree, and who do not know and who have not had business dealing with some member of the Dupree family in the days gone by.

Not only is the name Dupree familiar from the Texarkana line to El Paso, north and south of that line over Texas, but it stands without a blemish or dark spot to mar its record. The word of a Dupree lives in all the walks of life and no member of the family has been known to betray a friend or be a party to an unwholesome act.

This has more especially been true of Ed Dupree, whose entire life was devoted to the cattle business until his health began to fail him. He was a keen business man, always optimistic, charitable to his friends in any faults, in mistakes and loyal and liberal in his contributions to every worthy cause.

Mr. Dupree began his business career early in life, and during a long period of nearly fifty years he made thousands of dollars and in his liberality shared it with those about him. When the end came he had exhausted most of his savings, but in so doing, many will remember him as his life comes to its end and his activities on earth cease.

Mr. Dupree was sixty-three years old at the time of his death. He is survived by his wife, two brothers, J. M. Dupree and Will Dupree of Mount Vernon, and two sisters, Mrs. F. S. Holder of Brashear and Mrs. F. S. Bagwell of Sulphur Springs. He was also a brother of the late C. C. Dupree, sheriff of Franklin county for twenty years before he became president of the E. & M. National bank, which position he held till the time of his death.

Another brother, L. C. Dupree, was sheriff of Camp county for many years before moving to San Angelo, where he became a well known cattle man. Mr. R. B. Long of Commerce, whose husband was president of the Farmers and Merchants bank of that city many years, was also his sister.

Funeral services are announced for this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Mount Vernon, with burial to follow in the cemetery at that place.

PERSISTENT HUSBAND SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—John A. and Mrs. Helen Applegate were divorced last September. Recently John met his former wife and asked her to drive with him to Riverton. There, she says, he forced her with a gun to remarry him, holding the pistol against her side during the entire ceremony. Then he took her home and kept her a prisoner until she escaped out of a window. She is now seeking annulment of her second marriage.

FIRST BAPTIST NOTES

We had a good day Sunday, 539 in Sunday school and two fine crowds for the preaching services, with 91 in the Training service that night. Three came into the church, two by letter and one upon profession of faith in Christ as his personal Saviour.

We have had the joy of winning two fine boys in this family and now comes the father.

There are many happy things about our services every Sunday. Nor the least of which is the fine company of men in attendance. Its always enlightening to a preacher to have a great crowd to preach to and it is doubly so when a great part of the congregation is made up of men. Many of our friends come from outlying communities. Farmers, ranchmen, working men and women. You are assuredly welcome in any and all of our services.

Next Sunday morning we observe the Lord's Supper. Evening service will be special for Boy Scouts, and other boys, with other churches coming and meeting with us.

Last Wednesday night we had 123 in prayer meeting. We hope for 150 next Wednesday night. Come to the First Baptist—it is a friendly church. OREN C. REID, Pastor.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Church school at 9:45. Worship and sermon at 11 a. m. There will be a service for the boys of the city at 7:30 p. m. at the Baptist church. Bro. Reid will preach the sermon. The Boy Scouts will begin the celebration of the 22nd anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. The Boy Scouts will go in a body. We hope all the boys of the city will be there.

There will not be any preaching service in our church at this hour. We urge all our people to go to this service at the Baptist church.

Intermediate Christian Endeavor at 6 p. m. Junior Christian Endeavor at 5 p. m. Visitors to any of these services are given a warm welcome. W. M. ELLIOTT, Pastor

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday was another good day for the people of this church. Sunday morning, following a good Sunday school period, Brother Elliott came with his members to visit with us. He preached an interesting and inspirational sermon. There were several visitors from the Christian and other churches.

Sunday evening we heard another sermon by the Presbyterian pastor, when our people returned the visit and attended services there. Such fellowship can only result in good to us all.

Don't forget to lend every cooperation to our young people. Thru merit they continue to hold leadership pennant for the Sweetwater district.

MY SUMMER VACATION

By SOUVAL BRITTON (Pupil in The Lone Star School)

The most enjoyable vacation that I ever spent was in this summer of 1920. My parents, brothers, sisters and I went to Georgia. On the morning of July 14 we arose early and were soon on our way. We spent the first night at Wills Point, Texas, about 10 miles on the other side of Dallas. We got lost going through Fort Worth and Dallas but finally succeeded in getting through. We drove until night, then we went to a place to camp. None of us liked this place for one had to sleep in the car or on the grass where the chickens were as thick as hair on a dog's back. My brother Hoyt fussed around trying to get paid to drive on to a better place to camp, so finally we went on to Wills Point for the rest of the night.

We got up early the next morning and got an early start. After about two days of driving we had covered a lot of ground. On our way we enjoyed ourselves very much. We saw things that we never expected to see this side of Jericho, and more big trees than one could imagine.

When we got to the Mississippi River we drove the car on a ferry and was soon going across the river. The ferry could carry about 35 or 40 cars at a time. The bottom part of the ferry was where the cars stayed, and the top part was where the passengers stayed. It took about 30 minutes to cross. We got off the ferry at Vicksburg, Mississippi. Here we saw statues of General Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson, and others who fought in the Civil War.

We finally reached Georgia. We got to my Uncle Willie's at Columbus about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. They had lots of ripe tomatoes, and I sure got a bit of them while I was there. We tried to visit all of the relatives while we were there. I surely did have a swell time going in swimming. I saw several picture shows while there. One of them was "The Clad Iron Doll" another was "The Flying Marine." They sure were good shows. I also saw a good ball game between Columbus and Montgomery.

We stayed about three weeks and started home, but before we got home we had our share of flats, and also five or ten detours to make—there was one that was over 50 miles long.

We got home on Monday, you know, always blue Monday, just in time to start heading maize.

MEN'S S. S. CLASS

We had 23 members present Sunday for Sunday School which was a very good attendance considering the weather. We are still earnestly urging all of the men who do not belong to some other Sunday School to come out and spend an hour with us. It will be an hour well spent. Some of the members do not come as regular as the should. Let's all try and make the attendance 100 percent.

Baptist Notes

We had several visitors with us Sunday morning, among that number was Rev. G. C. Farris of Colorado, who preached for us at the 11 o'clock hour. Bro. Farris made Loraine his home for a period of years. He was one of the first men that made it possible for Loraine to have a Baptist church building, and was pastor of this church for four or five years. So, he is no stranger among us, and he always receives a hearty welcome when he comes our way.

Boy Scouts Celebrate

The Boy Scouts of America will celebrate the 22nd anniversary of its founding during the week of February 7th to 13th. A special feature of the week will be a sermon for the Scouts at the Baptist church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Arrangements have been made for the boys to be seated in a group at the church. Rev. A. C. Hardin, pastor of the church, will deliver the special sermon to the boys. He has chosen as his subject "Be Prepared." At this time no other arrangements have been made for the other days of the week to be observed locally, but it is hoped that something will be worked out for the boys.

A. & M. Expert Here

A demonstration in pruning peach trees and grape vines will be given at the R. E. Bennett farm at Loraine Friday, February 5th at 9:30 a. m. by J. F. Rosborough, horticulturist of A. & M. College. Instructions on how to make and set out grape cuttings will also be given. Friday afternoon a bath-tile sub-irrigation system will be installed at the Joe R. Sheppard farm 2 miles north of Colorado. This system of irrigation has a number of advantages over surface watering and costs approximately 1 cent a foot.

Loraine Bank Deposits Show Gain

It was revealed in the regular monthly meeting of the directors of the First State Bank, held Tuesday afternoon, that deposits in the bank have gained more than $10,000 during the past 30 days of business. "This shows to us," said Judge J. C. Hall, "that the people are regaining confidence. This is the time of the year, too, when a bank is supposed to be paying out money instead of taking it in," continued Mr. Hall.

Busy Bee Quilting Club

Twenty-two ladies, active members of the Busy Bee Quilting Club were present at an all-day session held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Swafford, Thursday, January 28th. One "Friendship" quilt was quilted. It was at this home a year ago the club held its first meeting and was organized with a few members of neighbors and friends of from 10 to 25 years association. The membership has grown steadily, spreading whole-hearted cheer and happiness on the way. A record count totaled 54 quilts made by the ladies during the year, a large percentage of the number being given at home and in the county in charity. This was declared the very best meeting day yet, and one of the very best and finest dinners served. Next meeting will be with Mrs. W. C. Brown Thursday afternoon.

Public Shows Interest In 1932 Automobile Shows

NEW YORK, JAN. 21—The general interest shown by the public in the 1932 Automobile Shows indicates a better feeling on the part of the public, in the opinion of C. W. Churchill, vice president in charge of sales of the Buick Motor Co. A feature of Automobile Show Week in New York was the announcement of the prize winners in Buick's $50,000 contest, and the subsequent presentation of prizes. Dr. Edward N. Walker, of Akron, Ohio, winner of the first prize, and Mrs. C. A. Beatty, of Windsor, Ill, winner of the second prize of $10,000, were the guests of the Buick Motor company at the show. Both Dr. Walker and Mrs. Beatty were presented with their checks in the Buick booth at the special General Motors exhibit in the magnificent New Waldorf Astoria Hotel. Two other winners were also present, John B. Schaefer, of Buffalo, New York, and Miss Ruth Aaron, sixteen year old school girl of Brooklyn, New York, winners of fourth and fifth prizes, $1,500 each. Dr. Walker, who is a well known physician in Akron, said he would use his prize to provide him with a "Nest Egg" when he retires from practice. Mrs. Beatty, whose husband is a civil engineer employed until six months ago in an Illinois construction project, will set aside a part of her prize as an educational fund for her six year old son. Miss Aaron expects to apply her prize toward a college education when she graduates from high school.

STORY ON SOUTHLAND GREYHOUND ACTIVITIES

Maintaining practically the same amount of passenger traffic during 1931 as in the prior year, the Southland and Greyhound Lines, spanning Texas with a network of 1,870 miles optimistically lays plans for an increase in traffic during the coming year, according to Paul W. Tibbets, president and general manager. In the past year Southland hauled over 180,000 passengers.

During 1931, Mr. Tibbets, reports, that Southland in improving their service throughout Texas, spent approximately $100,000 on the purchase of new buses. In addition, a payroll of approximately $50,000 a month and taxes to the amount of $84,000, or about $1,000 per bus, were paid during the year.

The company today is operating 35 buses over 1,870 miles of lines, and pays the State approximately $45,000 per mile per year. As it costs $415.00 per mile for the regular maintenance of highways, according to latest figures released by the State Highway Department, it is seen that Southland Greyhound Lines is paying enough taxes to provide for a little over one-fourth of the cost of maintaining the public highways over which it operates. Gasoline taxes alone paid by Southland Greyhound Lines during the year total approximately $57,000 while railroad commission tax, including seat tax and permits, amounted to $3,700 or approximately $44.00 per bus.

License plates involved an expenditure of $24,000. These figures do not include thousands of dollars paid for property taxes on stations and shops throughout the 1,870 mile network, the Southland Greyhound being responsible for the construction of more than $500,000 worth of new terminals during 1931 in Waco, Laredo, Corpus Christi, Lake Charles, Houston, Fort Worth and San Antonio, and for new improvements, adding thousands more, on stations in practically every city served in the Texas-wide system.

The modern motor bus turns the modern highway into an artery of commerce to the fullest extent. Millions of people help pay for and maintain public roads but who do not own automobiles, and the motor coach gives them their opportunity to enjoy and to capitalize, from a business standpoint, the great highways for which they are paying.

The Southland's plans for 1932 include the increasing of service for all Texas through constant improvement of present equipment and addition of new buses, enlarged station facilities, lower fares, more excursion rates, continued safety methods and the further general adaptation of itself to the transportation needs of the huge area which it serves. The average motor coach is admittedly seven times as safe as the average automobile, according to the American Automobile Association, and the Southland has even a finer record than this because of unusual safety precautions and the high type of drivers employed.

In doing their part as builders of Texas, the Greyhounds establish the modern highways as arteries of commerce, pleasure and general utility through positive, sure and efficient service, and then go a step further and more than pay their part building the avenues of travel. Further highway improvements are made possible as a result of the large tax sums paid by the motor buses.

An interesting comparison is seen in the average privately owned motor car which pays approximately $22.60, or only a small portion of the amount paid by the motor bus. Bus transportation has evolved into a necessity within a shorter space of time than any of the other services that are classed as utilities.

From the occasional schedule of a small car, into the stage line of more or less fixed schedules with open equipment, and then into the comfortable service of the modern motor coach and a great industry, is the rapid seven year climb of the bus industry in Texas.

The Southland Greyhound evolved from a short 300 mile line to a state wide peak service system in a short four year period, and Mr. Tibbets points, in his optimistic statement for 1932, that the Southland has been investing millions of dollars in the ground work of an industry which is being built and developed on farms, communities and cities.

RAMBLINGS

Yes sir, I notice where a prominent judge in West Texas says that a husband should be mated in his own house or else know the reason why. Well, if you happen to ask this columnist, most husbands do know the reason why. Of course, the average husband has some say around home, as we all know. The wife may have full command of the children, the dog, the cat, the servants, and the canary, but, as a rule, hubby can say pretty much what he pleases to the gold-fish. But the average wife has no crotch in living with Mr. average husband. Every worthwhile wife loves home and likes to have new things in the home, still there are a world of homes that have not had a new thing in them for a number of years, except babies. Then think of all the supposed-to-be jokes and wise-cracks the wife has to stand for from friend husband. Believe me brother, if your wife laughs at your jokes, you either have some high-powered jokes or else a mighty silly wife. About the worst thing though is for married couples to fight in public, because that is what they have a home for.

But speaking of the old-fashioned family and home, I see where the census bureau at Washington has published a bulletin proving that woman's place is no longer in the home. Well, a big part of the men who have homes need not send for the bulletin, for a lot of people never think of the importance or need of a home until all the joints and speak-easies have been closed for the night. No one has to be told that "Home Sweet Home" was written before the days of the auto, the delicatessen and movies. Some old crab-apple of a writer says the women used to be used to be. The intramural spread of virtue is accelerated by the fact that when virtue lives next door to vice, old ducks like to patronize the vicious. Why did he not mention the fact that green peaches, watermelons and the "ole swimmin' hole" have lost their appeal too. This writer is going to keep on refusing to believe that the modern woman or girl is not as bad as she is painted. In fact, the present day woman is the most "colorful" in history (thanks to lip-stick and rouge). Men like these are loud and long in their criticism of the styles of women's clothes, or lack of clothes, especially their hats. We find no objections or criticisms to the ladies new hats at all, except that it is hard to believe they are either new or hats. There is one big point in favor of the new fangled hats. All you have to do to rig up one of them, is to get hold of an old derby some place, and then get a couple of rooster feathers to go with it and you have the improved Eugenia hat.

The little daughter asked her mother to tell her a fairy story. The mother said, "Just wait until about 2 a. m., your father will come home and tell us both one."

A writer has said that "Man does not understand women, which is his tragedy." Yes, and women do not understand man, which is also his tragedy.

Too many of us try to console our wives by telling them to hope for something better, when what they want is to wear something better. It is like the case where a little girl came home from Sunday school with a chocolate bar and her mother asked where she got it and she replied: "I bought it with the nickel you gave me, because the preacher met me at the door and got me in free." But after all is said and done, we must admit that these youngsters we are criticizing and complaining about so much is about the same at heart and by nature that parents were at the same age. We will always have folks who will have a lot to think about and nothing to think with. And we will always have a good many "self-made" men who should not have been made at all.

There was an old man from Beverly, He tried to cultivate deviltry; His wife went away For a very long stay, So he went in for reverly.

Read these interesting, if not astonishing, headlines: "General Decline in Prices"—"Stocks Continue Downward Plunge"—"Wall Street Believes Financial Chaos Near"—"Whole World Fast Turning to Socialism"—"Stocks Tumble Like Nine Pins in Bear Raid." Now, doesn't all the above sound real natural? Sounds like the bread-lines we have been reading for the past year, but they are not. These are headlines that came out in 1907, when Teddy Roosevelt was president. Those were dark and troublesome days, and there were lots of joy-killers and crepe-hangers then, just like there is today, who were predicting the country was gone to the devil and was in a rut it never would get out of. But we did come back bigger and better than ever before, just like we will this time. These days are fine for quitters and belly-ackers to strut their stuff. But the fellow with grit, vision and spirit is coming back. Let us remember a star don't take out and quit shining every time we have two or three cloudy nights.

Jo Sheppard says red beans have acquired the flavor of grape fruit, and bird seen mixed with his corn meal, makes better corn-bread and that feathers from the old red rooster's tail make good plumes for the wife's improved Princess Eugenia.

Pat Horton, up at Plainview, says sionwe will all be poets before the depression is over. This may be true as we've always heard that poverty and poetry were twins.

Clint Mann says we used to long for the good old days, when we were poor and now that these days are back again, we are not satisfied.

Attorney Sandusky says if you are worse off financially than you were a year ago, it is a sign you should go ahead and enjoy life without waiting to become wealthy.

Wisecracks not in the Ford joke book or oil may be refined, but the road hog is not.

The modern motor car is safer if the alcohol is in the radiator instead of in the driver. A sure thing a Quaker should not be at the wheel when the spirits fove him.

Several weeks ago Gov. Sterling designated it as soil and water week and observance seemed to have been general throughout the state as we had plenty of water, but Tom Goss says so far as he can tell the soil is about the same.

THE FINANCIAL GENIUS OF THE REVOLUTION

George Washington would probably rebuke the country if it celebrated the 200th anniversary of his birth without at least some mention of the man who financed the Revolution and upon whom Washington at times, leaned hardest of all: This man was Robert Morris, who was born on January 31, 1734.

At the age of fourteen, we are informed by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, Morris emigrated from Liverpool, his birthplace, to join his father, who had settled at Oxford, Maryland, where the elder Morris acted as American agent for a large firm of Liverpool tobacco merchants. The father was killed in an accident when young Morris was seventeen, but before the elder's death, Robert had found a job in the counting room of a mercantile house in Philadelphia. There his business ability soon showed itself to such advantage that he became a member of the firm. From then on he steadily added to his fortune until he became one of the richest men of his time in America.

But money was not the sole object of young Morris. He early joined the movement against England, and was among the first to resist the Stamp Act. Also, he was a signer of the first non-importation agreement and later was made warden of the port of Philadelphia.

When the revolution opened, Morris was forty-one years old, in the prime of his mental and physical vigor, and he threw himself into every important enterprise except the military. In 1775 and 1776 he was vice president of the Pennsylvania Committee of Safety. From 1775 to 1778 he was a member of the Continental Congress, and so was a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

1778 he retired from Congress, only to devote his tireless energies to the Pennsylvania Legislature, of which he was a member. But his greatest, his outstanding and most gratefully received, public service was his financing of the War of Independence. The embattled States turned to this financial genius to manage their fiscal affairs; but even more they relied on his bursting and open purse for the sinews of war.

General Washington's agonies of mind over the problems of financing his army lasted throughout the Revolutionary War. At the best they were always a worry, and at times the worry became acute distress. One of these financial crisis came when he found it absolutely imperative to strike for victory at Trenton, to revive public spirit which was then at a low ebb.

In order to keep his unpaid men with him for the attack, the General was forced to take the extreme risk of promising them a bounty of ten dollars per man. He then addressed to his friend, Robert Morris, a plea for $50,000, with which to make his promise good. The next day he received the money. Morris had stripped himself of his own ready funds and had borrowed the remainder from wealthy Quaker friends in Philadelphia. Receipt of this money in the nick of time furnished one of the occasions when the supposedly frigid Washington was shaken with emotion.

It was of such stuff that the winners of the Revolution were formed, and Robert Morris was among the best of them. Not to think of him in this bicentennial year would be an affront to Washington himself. When the Federal government came into being in 1789, Morris most likely could have had the Secretaryship of the Treasury. Instead he urged the appointment of Alexander Hamilton. Throughout the Revolution, and before, he had served in various key capacities in the Continental Congress. In 1781 the Congress chose him to be its Superintendent of Finance, a post that might be regarded as the precursor of that of Secretary of the Treasury. Robert Morris became one of the first United States Senators from Pennsylvania.

As the country settled down to peace and progress, Morris went in for land speculation, and at one time or another owned wholly, or in part, the entire western half of New York state, 2,000,000 acres in Georgia, and nearly 1,000,000 acres in Pennsylvania, Virginia and South Carolina. He helped in the development of the new national capital in the District of Columbia.

But his speculations brought him disaster, and for three years the financial savior of America was confined in a debtor's prison. On his release he was obliged to live on the bounty of his family and his friends, and five years afterward, in 1806, he died, a broken man. He was buried in Christ Church Yard in Philadelphia, without honors, and never since been accorded the honor due him.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, ONE OF AMERICA'S GREATEST SONS

On January 17th occurs the 222th anniversary of a great American who should not be forgotten amid the nation's tribute to George Washington this year; for this noted American was not only a glory to our history but without him Washington might not have been able to achieve our independence.

This great American was Benjamin Franklin, who became, next to George Washington, the best known American of the 18th Century. Wherever enlightened men gathered during Franklin's lifetime, they accounted him foremost in philosophy, politics, and diplomacy, and to this day his name is secure in history as that of a pioneer in science.

Franklin was one of the most versatile men of our history. His clear thinking and good common sense won him fame everywhere. As for winning personality, it proved a tremendous asset to the American cause. The final victories of Washington on the battlefield would never have been possible but for Franklin's skill in the field of diplomacy and his ultimate winning of the French nation to America's side.

Benjamin Franklin was born in Boston, on January 17, 1706, the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission reminds us. His father wanted him to learn the trade of candle-making, an occupation that he disliked so much that he threatened to revolt. To forestall his running away to sea, the boy Franklin was apprenticed to his half-brother, James, a printer; and here Franklin's rapid self-education got its start. In his brother's shop he met intelligent people, he eagerly read the best books, and he soon tried his hand at writing for his brother's newspaper, called the "first sensational sheet in America."

Quarreling with his brother, Franklin set out for Philadelphia at the age of 17, to make his own way. There he soon caught attention of Governor Keith at whose suggestion he went to London. There, in spite of many hardships, he soon obtained employment and his agreeable personality brought him many influential friends. One of them, a Quaker merchant named Denham, offered Franklin a job in a store that he planned to open in Philadelphia. Within a short time Denham died and Franklin again was without a job; but his next step was important.

With Hugh Meredith he established a printing shop in Philadelphia and in ten years he had made it the most important business of its kind in the country. Next he bought the Pennsylvania Gazette, which soon gained a circulation of 10,000 and became one of the outstanding papers of the time. In this paper he began those pithy maxims to be gathered under the title of "Poor Richard's Almanac," which lives today in lasting fame.

Meanwhile Franklin's interest and activities had broadened in every direction. He founded the American Philosophical Society, organized the first fire company in Philadelphia, and became the city's postmaster and clerk of the Pennsylvania Assembly. His interest in science also developed, and he invented a stove and began those experiments in electricity which have made his name a household word in the scientific world.

Every schoolboy knows the story of Franklin's suspicion that the lightningbolt was simply a larger specimen of the spark he drew from a Leyden jar. He proved the likeness with his historic experiment of the kite and the key during a thunder-storm. The invention of the lightning-rod soon followed.

Franklin's diplomatic feats make too long a list for a newspaper column, but it was he who first sought to bind the Colonies together in Union. He performed many saving services for the Colonies before the Revolution, and during that struggle his influence in France provided the factor that turned the Revolution to victory for America.

Even at 81, Franklin's deeds for his country were not yet ended, for in 1787 he performed the culminating service of his long and great career with the fitting act of becoming a member of the Convention that wrote the Constitution.

Throughout his life he was a devoted admirer of George Washington, and the friendship of these two men is one of the fairest pages in early American History. On his death, on April 17, 1790, Franklin willed his cane to Washington, with the famous words: "My fine crab-tree walking stick, with a gold head curiously wrought in the form of a cap of liberty, I give to my friend and the friend of mankind, General Washington. If it were a sceptre, he has merited it and would become it."

Thugs Operate At Big Spring; Cash, Jewelry In Loot

BIG SPRING, TEX.—Two unmasked gunmen, described as "plenty tough" by their victims, held up the East Side Camp and filling station operated by John Perry at 606 East Third street at 9:35 p. m. Thursday, robbed the two men who were in the place when they entered and held two others who happened by during the hold-up. Perry had just left the station when the robbers entered.

T. A. Stephens, who is an employe of the place, was robbed of a watch valued at $60, a chain worth $20, and several dollars in cash.

Willie Jones, a mattress maker, who entered during the robbery and was "lined up" with Stephens and Tom Dowd, day attendant at the station, was robbed of $20 in cash. Jones' trousers pockets were searched first. Only a few cents were taken. One of the yeggs turned back to him, however, and on finding more money in a purse in another pocket, struck Jones from behind with his revolver.

Mr. Boggs, night manager of the Tex hotel, was the other man who happened in during the stick-up. Not knowing of the robbery he addressed his friends in the station with a cheery "what's going on here, boys." He was lined up with the others.

In addition to the loot taken off Jones and Stephens $10 was taken from the cash drawer of the station and pocket change taken from Dowd and Boggs. The victims gave officers a clear description of the men, one of whom was tall, the other of medium height.

EVERY HOME SHOULD HAVE

I am forty-one years of age and have had asthma for twenty-five years. Since beginning to take Crazy Crystals I have been entirely free from asthma attacks. I discovered that this trouble was caused by colitis. I also had a bladder trouble for the past year or so and this condition has been corrected to my complete satisfaction. My whole family is taking Crazy Crystals and I cannot pay too much for them. Crazy Crystals are more than you claim for them and I believe that every one in ill health should at least try them regardless of what their trouble is.

Is Your Gasoline Tax Money BUILDING GOOD ROADS OR ENRICHING RACKETEERS? You pay a tax on every gallon of gasoline you buy. Your state levies this tax to pay for building good roads. But your state is not getting all the money paid as a gasoline tax. RACKETEERS ARE TAKING AN ALARMING AMOUNT OF IT! They are selling bootlegged gasoline on which they pay the state no tax—but they make motorists pay all or a part of the tax. The racketeer keeps this tax money himself! You get your tax back in the form of good roads when the state collects the tax. You get nothing when racketeers get your money. And remember—if your state got all the money paid as tax, it could well afford to lower its gasoline tax! If you want your money to go into road building instead of into the racketeers' pockets, make sure the gasoline you buy is not bootlegged. Buy gasoline made by a reliable, law-abiding company and sold under a dependable, well-known brand name, and be certain that your tax money goes to your state and not to the racketeers. ### Bran Muffins for Health

By Jane Rogers

EVERYONE likes bran muffins. To the housewife who has tried to make tasty, fluffy bran muffins, the recipe given here will be of unusual interest. Followed carefully, complete success is assured.

And while suggesting this recipe, all those who enjoy bran muffins will be interested also in learning certain facts, recently proven by scientific investigation, which show that this toothsome food at the same time supplies several elements of vital importance to any healthful diet.

Bran has been recognized for a long time as one of the most important sources of cellulose or bulk, the food which keeps some body in good working order. Its soft fibers gently exercise the intestinal muscles.

Just recently, however, much more has been learned of the reasons for bran's unusual value in the diet. It has been shown that, in addition to the protein and minerals in bran, there also are definite quantities of the important vitamin "B", which improves the muscular tone. And the high content of iron in bran, it has been proven, is readily assimilated by the blood because of the further presence of copper and other minerals.

But, to get back to this guaranteed recipe:

All-Bran Muffins
 1/2 cup of all-bran, 1/2 cup of sugar, 1/2 cup of oil, 1/2 cup of flour, 1/2 teaspoon of soda, 3/4 teaspoon of salt, and 1 teaspoon of baking powder. To the creamed mixture add one cup of all-bran, then one cup of sour milk, alternately with the sifted dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffin tins, and bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) for twenty minutes. Yield: 12 muffins. If sweet milk is used instead of sour milk, omit the 1/2 teaspoon of soda and use three teaspoons of baking powder. Raisins or dates may be added to the muffins if desired.

TO IMPROVE HIGHWAYS

The State evidently intends to make of the Davis Mountain region a tourist magnet.

Not only is work progressing on the 75-mile scenic drive through the mountains but also a contract was let last week for bridging the innumerable crossings of Limpia Creek along the Pecos-Alpine road.

Thus already two important steps for the improvement of highways in the mountains have been taken. And with the scenic points made accessible the tourists will naturally find their way.—Pecos Enterprise.

INCREASED NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING PROGRAM USED FOR STAR TIRE

An increased newspaper advertising program for 1932 is announced by the Hicks Rubber Company, through its local associate Star tire merchant, R. B. Lovejoy, at the Hicks Rubber Company Colorado store.

About 20 per cent more newspaper space than in 1931 will be used according to a letter received by Mr. Lovejoy from Richard C. Bush, advertising manager of the Hicks Rubber Company.

"The newspaper is probably the best medium for the kind of advertising it takes to snap out of the conditions that prevailed in 1931," the letter stated. "The advertiser with a real message can get it over now by newspaper advertising—more effectively than in several years.

"The public is tired of bunk. There has been so much bunk that the facts now stand out in bold relief. Any concern, large or small, that is operating on a sound basis and offering sound values, has a newspaper advertising message that is interesting to newspaper readers.

"Our own investigation convinces us that newspaper ads are getting a closer reading than ever before. The public is eager to read about values—sound values. There is no greater indication than this that we are definitely on the upgrade."

WASHINGTON, THE DUTIFUL
George Washington, the leader, statesman, hero, and patriot, has been placed upon a pedestal as the most highly regarded of all modern leaders and rulers.

Washington had no rivals that tried to minimize his achievements. Those who admire him do not disparage other general or statesmen with whom he was associated.

He was endowed with natural strength of mind and body, and at an early age he showed his rare capacity for undertakings that require courage and prudence.

Washington was devoid of selfish ambitions, and he had a sense of public duty that compelled him to give up private life for that of service to mankind.

Thus, George Washington, the courageous, dutiful Christian, broadminded patriot, shall live forever in the hearts of every true American.

ASSEMBLY NEWS

On Wednesday morning, January 27, Rev. Alex B. Hanson brought a very interesting message to the student body and faculty on the characteristics of Washington as a boy.

In his message, Rev. Hanson compared America of today with the nation at the birth of Washington two hundred years ago.

Another comparison dealt with the difference in spiritual tendencies with the youth of today and the youth in Washington's time.

Then, the Bible was the main literature studied by young and old, but today it is not a familiar subject with the majority.

If Washington were to return this year, concluded Rev. Hanson, he would be pleased with the national progress, but disappointed in the lack of spiritual growth.

The students who will make up these teams have not been selected yet. They are to be determined after a series of speed tests now being held. The Commercial department is hoping to make a good showing there.

A NATION'S THANKS
So great is love was Washington that his soul remained, they said, in the heart of a country who knew the worth.

And greatness of him who had led His country from chains unto victory and now was dead.

They laid him to rest in the loving arms Of the place which he held most dear.

And paused to hear the ashes stir O'er a grave which we all revere While proclaiming the love of a nation, This bicentennial year.

—PRINCESS MARTIN
Character and Climate
Racial character depends largely on climate. Where the climate is stimulating it is easy for people to be industrious.

They are more likely to be inventive, to make improvements, and to carry out reforms. They do not necessarily have more ideas but they have the energy to put the ideas in action, says Prof. C. V. P. Young of Cornell university.

Habits of life and occupations, and even social practices and philosophies of life, are largely determined by climate and geographical conditions. In the Far North a nomadic life is necessary, because hunting and fishing grounds must be changed. Family ties are not likely to bind strongly.

Families are small and in the precarious subsistence there is little pity for those who cannot support themselves. In the tropics life is too easy and the scantiest labor yields abundantly.

Town Claims Many Records
There is a little town in South Africa which claims to lack creation. Name most any record you like, and this little place will go one better.

Volkstut they call it in South Africa, and it certainly does live up to that reputation. Sunflowers—they grow from 28 inches across in Volkstut. Snakes, pumpkins, fish, pigs' litters and everything, right down to the daily milk output of the average cow—all these things mean records for Volkstut. It is doubtful, however, if all or any of the claims would stand investigation, but they certainly do keep Volkstut on the map, which is apt to surprise anybody who has seen the place.—Washington Star.

Surviving are his four sons, Clyde Hines of Colonia Chichupa, Chah, Old Mexico, who was unable to be here at the time of his death; Witt, Burton and Herman Hines, of Westbrook, and ten grandchildren. He is also survived by three brothers, Sam Hines of Midland, Bass Hines of Henrietta; and Robert Hines of Avoca, Texas, two of whom were present at the funeral.

His remains were laid to rest in the W. O. W. cemetery at Westbrook. Honorary pallbearers were: J. E. Lasseter, J. T. Adam, J. M. Dorn and T. Y. Pool. Active pallbearers: S. J. Watson, H. L. May, W. T. Brooks, J. T. McCasland, J. E. Skelton, J. M. Harper, A. L. Young and Sam Bullock.

A. & M. Expert to be Here
J. F. Rosborough, orchard and garden specialist of A. & M. College, will give a demonstration in pruning grapes and peach trees at the W. A. Oliver farm, 1 mile north of Westbrook, Saturday morning at 9:30. He will also show how to make and set out grape cuttings.

Friday morning he will be at the R. E. Bennett farm at Loraine and Friday afternoon he will install a lath tile system of irrigation at the Joe Shepperd farm north of Colorado. This system is much better than surface irrigation and costs approximately 1 cent a foot.

Saturday afternoon, Mr. Rosborough will answer questions on gardening and orcharding at the court house.

Fourth and Fifth Grade Honor Roll
Following are names of pupils who made mid-term honor roll in the Fourth and fifth grades: 4th grade (A) Jean Lewis, Iris Costin; (B) Pamela Clifton, 5th grade (A) Leroy Clifton, Elizabeth Young, Ava Hines, Virginia Harris and Flo-nelle Davis; (B) Lena Lee Bird.

Shower for Mrs. Turpin
Friday afternoon, Mrs. Van Boston and Miss Margaret Lasseter, assisted by Mrs. Leon Girard, entertained with a shower at the home of Mrs. Boston, honoring Mrs. W. D. Turpin.

After the guests arrived and registered in the bride's book, they were asked to write three advices for the bride, which were collected and read aloud by the honoree. Other amusements were taking the name "Evelyn Turpin" and constructing sentences, and writing their favorite receipt in the bride's book—Tally cards, representing rose leaves were passed to the guests as they followed the bride into the dining room, where a large red rose, in the center of the table, was shedding its petals.

Each petal had a number on it, which corresponded with numbers on the tally cards, as the honoree plucked the petals, guests with the corresponding number read verses which directed her to the hidden treasure.

The colors of maroon and white were carried out, the honoree wearing a becoming frock of maroon. Refreshments of pie ala mode and coffee were served.

A. B. Hines Succumbs

Mr. Hines' health had been failing for several years and he was confined to his bed two months before his condition became critical.

Aloizo Burton Hines was born in Columbia, Mo., November 27th, 1852 and died January 28, 1932. He was married to Miss Etta Terrell of Hillsboro, Texas in 1887. To this union nine children were born. Five children and his faithful companion preceded him to the other world.

One infant was laid to rest at Cleburne, Texas, four children and the mother at Westbrook, Texas.

Mr. Hines came to Mitchell county in 1891 and engaged in farming and stock raising. He was converted when a young man and joined the Missionary Baptist church and has been an active member since.

He was kind and benevolent, a devoted father and husband, always ready to assist those in need. Indeed, a good friend has gone from our midst.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. D. Leach, assisted by Harvey, Friday afternoon at the Baptist church.

Surviving are his four sons, Clyde Hines of Colonia Chichupa, Chah, Old Mexico, who was unable to be here at the time of his death; Witt, Burton and Herman Hines, of Westbrook, and ten grandchildren. He is also survived by three brothers, Sam Hines of Midland, Bass Hines of Henrietta; and Robert Hines of Avoca, Texas, two of whom were present at the funeral.

His remains were laid to rest in the W. O. W. cemetery at Westbrook. Honorary pallbearers were: J. E. Lasseter, J. T. Adam, J. M. Dorn and T. Y. Pool. Active pallbearers: S. J. Watson, H. L. May, W. T. Brooks, J. T. McCasland, J. E. Skelton, J. M. Harper, A. L. Young and Sam Bullock.

Commercial Possibilities of Marketing 'Bear Grass' Stressed Here in 1911

The Record for January 27, 1911, had discovered a new commercial industry for West Texas. The lovely "bear grass," an untamable growth that covered pasture lands of this section in profusion, was soon to become a universal demand by certain Eastern manufacturers.

The Record based its optimistic story on future possibilities of commercializing this plant, in statement credited to a Midland county ranchman. He had recently returned from St. Louis where he closed contract to deliver fifty cars of the yucca to an industrialist. The shipments were to be gathered at points along the Texas & Pacific in West Texas.

"Mr. Horton stated to us that he expects to fill the contract as soon as possible, so anyone may commence gathering the bear grass as soon as they like and be perfectly sure of a ready market," the article outlined. "The grass must be gathered and dried and baled," to quote further from The Record of that date. "After being dried, freed of roots and other refuse it can be compressed into 100-pound bales." Statement was made in the article that it was not known to what use the St. Louis purchasers expected to put the grass.

Colorado was due to lose another merchant and civic leader. The Record that week announced, Allen Payne, identified with the city's commercial life for several years, had announced conclusion of plans for moving his store to Sweetwater.

J. P. Majors, another of the pioneer and leading business men of town, had announced that he would open a branch store at Sweetwater within the next few days. He had no intention of discontinuing his Colorado store.

J. L. Bowen, formerly of Colorado, had been installed as cashier of the First State Bank at Westbrook, succeeding A. A. Dorn, who resigned to return to the farm. B. A. Donaldson, assistant cashier of the Westbrook bank, was retiring with Mr. Dorn.

Outstanding in the social realm for the week was marriage of Douglas Burns and Miss Alphine Fox. The wedding was solemnized Tuesday evening of that week at the home of the bride's parents in East Colorado.

Miss Minnie Thornberry, who had been reared in Colorado, was married that week to C. T. Haltom, at Fort Stockton. Haltom was at that time county attorney at Fort Stockton.

From the local notes the following interesting news is reprinted from The Record of that date.

"Ed Dupree of Fort Worth spent Wednesday in Colorado.

"Early in February C. M. Adams and his daughter, Miss Bird, are to leave on an extended visit to New York City. Mr. Adams will go to market and Miss Adams to enter the Boston Conservatory of Music.

"Joe Key has accepted a position on the El Paso police force and has been out there for sometime. He will move his family to El Paso in the Spring.

"Mrs. J. G. Merritt and Mrs. Allen Payne have returned home from Stamford and report a most pleasant time attending annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society.

"George Oederbolz, who for several years has held the position as head salesman at Burns & Bell, has resigned to enter another line of business.

"D. L. Buchanan has opened a new stock of fresh groceries in building adjoining the Burns & Bell dry goods store.

"Mrs. V. D. Payne of Loraine is visiting Mrs. Max Thomas and Mrs. R. H. Looney.

Midland are visiting Mrs. Curry's mother, Mrs. D. N. Arnett.

"Misses Mary Coe and Orphelia Arnett are spending the week at the ranch.

"Everybody is now receiving their usual annual portion of Washington, D. C. garden seed, usually such seed is of stuff that will not grow in this country and the most of which is never planted.

"W. R. Morgan, the handsome pharmaceutical expert at the Colorado Drug store, happened to a painful accident this week by spilling some strong medicine in one of his eyes.

"Dr. A. H. Weston left last Saturday night on an extended trip to the East. He will visit Memphis, his former home at Oxford, Miss., and other places.

"Materials for erection of a new steel bridge across the Colorado river are being unloaded here. The structure will connect South Colorado with other portions of the town.

"Rumor has it that Colorado is soon to have a fine new hotel of concrete construction.

"Jim and Luther Watson are now comfortably located on their 400-acre farm near Dexter, New Mexico. They are experimenting with irrigation.

"H. C. Caldwell and children left last week for Springdale, Ark., where they expect to spend the summer. They own a desirable apple orchard near Springdale.

"H. E. Harris received a telegram today announcing that his brother, Mack Wolf, had been run down and killed by a train near Austin. Wolf was conductor of the train.

MITCHELL COUNTY FARM NOTES

C. L. Goode, who lives about five miles east of Colorado, has some interesting figures regarding cotton production on his farm the past year. He keeps accurate records of the price, grade and staple, weights and turnout of each bale. (He makes regular reports to the Federal Department of Agriculture at Washington). Of his 13 bales this year, all but a remnant stapled 15-16ths and all but two bales graded strict middling. He planted 16 of the 50 acres with pedigreed first year seed and the remainder with seed he had used one year. The turnout was quite a bit better on the first year seed according to the figures, but Mr. Goode stated that they were not accurate, due to the fact that he had 11 acres of replanted late cotton in the 34 acres of second year seed. Mr. Goode ran terrace lines on all his cultivated land last week.

Two years ago, J. J. Moore of Westbrook, had a large ditch in the middle of his field that he couldn't cross. That year he terraced his farm and today teams can easily cross the upper portion, where the ground is not seepy. There is an 18 foot well in the lower part of the field that never would "hold up" but, now since he terraced, the water stands within six feet of the top. Mr. Moore ran terrace lines on 40 more acres last week.

R. D. Lefevre ran off terrace lines on 300 acres of the Seymour farm at Valley View. About 80 acres of it was on pasture land.

G. W. Madison ran lines last year and will run additional lines next Monday.

A. A. Daniels of Carr and Fred Harpell of Loraine, report that the hens culled from their flocks did not lay an egg in the three days they were kept penned up.

H. H. VanZandt Asks Re-Election as Co. Commissioner

H. H. VanZandt, county commissioner representing Precinct 3, came in Wednesday and authorized the announcement that he would be a candidate to succeed himself in office, his candidacy being offered subject to action of the Democratic primary in July.

Mr. VanZandt says that he has no special issues to introduce for discussion at this time and was seeking endorsement of the voters solely on his merits and his record in handling of the county affairs for the past two years. Mr. VanZandt stated that anyone not familiar with his record as county commissioner was invited to investigate the same.

RAW PRODUCE LUNCHES MOXEE CITY, Wash.—Pupils at the public school in this farming community may trade raw produce for hot lunches. "Town kids" pay 20 cents a week, which pays for cooking what the "country kids" bring in.

CHICKEN IN COD KEARNEY, Neb.—Jay Brink, received a letter from a friend at Cape Cod, Mass., telling him of the discovery of a chicken in the stomach of a big codfish. The chicken bore a leg-band "Nebraska Farms, Inc."

NEW GAS MASK BERLIN—Germany, pioneer developer of gas masks, has now produced a full-view mask, in which the wearer can see on all sides. Previous masks limited the wearer's view to a narrow area seen through goggles. The new mask is made of a transparent material, which takes the place of rubber and fabric in the old mask.

EAR AND EYE AIDS WASHINGTON—Through radio beacon signals, sent out in the form of dots and dashes along the correct course of an airway, a pilot has been able in the past to keep on the course by listening through headphones. A recent radio development also enables him to see if he is on the right track in the dark. It is a vibrating reed, radio actuated, which vibrates evenly when the pilot is right and unequally when he is off the course.

CARPENTERS PENCILS—Record office

A. R. Northcutt To Make Race For Co. Commissioner

Candidacy of Robert Northcutt for county commissioner from Precinct No. 3 is being received with interest among voters, not alone in his home community, but in other parts of the count, as well. Mr. Northcutt announced this week as an aspirant for the office.

Northcutt is one of the best known livestock farmers in Mitchell county. He has been a resident citizen of Spade for many years and has ever received recognition as being one of the count's most progressive citizens.

Northcutt is not the candidate of any clique or clan. To the contrary, he is running independently as a Democrat, on the pledge, that if elected, the best interests of every constituent alike shall receive his careful attention.

He is offering his candidacy subject to the action of the Democratic primary, July 23.

Voices of Radio Crooners Echo Around "Old Ironsides" Decks

This air cell radio receiver aboard "Old Ironsides" constitutes the only modern touch given to the historic old frigate when she was reconditioned recently.

The staunch hearted sailor lads who manned the U. S. frigate Constitution in many a hard fought battle would hear strange things, were their ghosts to stalk her ancient wooden decks today.

Where once was heard only the loud guttural commands of battle-scarred sailors, there comes wafting across the deck soft feminine voices boop-boop-a-dooping the latest Broadway hits, and the high pitched sound of a crooner in a super-sentimental love song.

Yes, the boom-boom of Old Ironsides' one pounders, were they to be fired today, would resound to the tune of "Lover Come Back to Me" or "Life is Just a Bowl of Cherries."

From Old Ironsides, despite her years, has gone modern and boasts a radio which is as modern as that enjoyed by the most exacting city dweller in his Park Avenue apartment. Modern radio reception and service at sea, and on land in homes not served by power lines, has been made possible through the development of a new type "air cell" battery which literally breathes the life-giving oxygen from the air to maintain constant voltage over a long life. It will power a seven-tube air cell receiver for more than a thousand hours of service, after which it is replaced with a new battery.

The new type air cell receivers are believed to be the final solution to the problem of satisfactory radio reception on farms and on ships where electric power is not available.

LOOK OUT, IT'S HOT: That top bar, over which Mrs. Ruby Hughes is shown jumping her horse, is flaming. It was just one of the stunts at a Florida charity rodeo. Wonder what the horse thought of the idea?

PIERRE BERARD, like other famous French chefs, is noted for his fluffly and delectable souffles. He admits, however, that it takes an American precision ingredient called minute tapoca to get 'em that way.

ON A PEDESTAL: And is there a vote to say that Carole Lombard, Paramount movie star doesn't deserve to be?

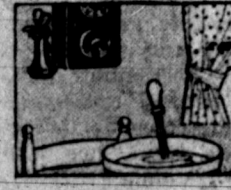

THOMPKINS CORNERS MOVIES: Post office and all, the home of Fred Tucks, the famous radio program created by George Frank Brown has been transplanted to the Columbia Broadcasting System. In this picture, Brown, as Mayor Matt Thompkins, is shown holding the hand of his faithful wife, Martha, who in real life is Virginia Farmer. The program, which has drawn nearly a million fan letters, is now sponsored by Log Cabin Syrup.

Dairy Production Always Boosted When Proven Sire Placed at Head of Herd

While there is no 100 per cent dependable guide for predicting the future worthiness of a herd sire, past performance is the most accurate guide, according to Earl Weaver, head of the Oklahoma A. & M. College dairy department.

The man buying a dairy herd sire who can secure one already proved capable of getting daughters that will outproduce their dams has a valuable investment.

Only about one-third of the sires in use have produced daughters superior to the mothers of those daughters, while another third have produced daughters actually producing less milk than their dams, a recent study shows. The rest come in between, neither raising nor lowering the average production of the herd.

"It must be remembered," Weaver says, "that a bull cannot become a 'proved sire' until some of his daughters—there should be at least five—are old enough to have completed yearly records. By this time the bull will be at least five years old."

Despite the acknowledged value of a proved sire, most of the herd sires selected are young ones that have not yet proved their worth. "There are several reasons for this," the A. & M. dairyman comments, "Good proved bulls are scarce. Often before a bull is proved he is dead. So far as I can learn there are only two living proved bulls in Oklahoma today. There are twenty-eight bulls in Oklahoma designated as 'partly proved.' This means they have some daughters that have made records which can be compared to their dams, but do not yet have as many as five such daughters.

Because of their scarcity and great value, proved bulls are often costly. However, many dairymen have old sires of especial merit that cannot be used for further service in their own herds and many such bulls are sacrificed for slaughter at cheap beef prices.

"Again proved bulls are sometimes not purchased because they are old. A buyer hesitates to invest money in a bull that may be serviceable for only a short time. In such case, a seller should guarantee at least one or two years of service for the bull with a refund of the purchase price in case of failure.

"Another fact that deters buyers in the purchase of a proved bull is that this older bull may be vicious. Dairy bulls often become cross and dangerous. As a matter of fact, any dairy bull should be handled cautiously. He may become vicious at some unexpected moment and cause damage. The dairy bulls thought to be 'quiet' cause most trouble. A vicious bull is watched; he seldom does any harm.

"Every dairy farm should have a 'safety' bull pen which confines the sire and protects human life. This is an excellent precaution; whether the bull is supposed to be dangerous or quiet. With such facilities, a dairyman need not fear in the purchase of an older bull.

"Often a good bull is sold for beef because he is vicious. Then in due time his daughters complete records and prove him valuable. But such proof is of little benefit if the bull is dead. Facilities for handling this bull could have saved him for future use either in the original herd or in some other farm where a good sire could be of inestimable value.

"The last reason we shall mention why proved sires are not used more extensively is the innate desire on part of most men to own something 'new' rather than 'used.' Too many dairymen refuse to use a sire that a neighbor has previously used. They prefer a new one and will go great distances, often into a different state, to get a young bull. This is unfortunate. Such a dairyman would better sacrifice his pride in the interest of better judgment.

REINCARNATION INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—The police emergency squad was called to an alley on a report that a dead man was found. When they got there the "dead" man was gone. They learned later that Herbert Willis, an undertaker, had driven his hearse behind his office to remove a body from it. The "dead" man was right in the path of the hearse. He awoke to find the black car near him, screamed, stumbled to his feet and fled.

EAR AND EYE AIDS WASHINGTON—Through radio beacon signals, sent out in the form of dots and dashes along the correct course of an airway, a pilot has been able in the past to keep on the course by listening through headphones. A recent radio development also enables him to see if he is on the right track in the dark. It is a vibrating reed, radio actuated, which vibrates evenly when the pilot is right and unequally when he is off the course.
