CHRISTIANITY EVER PAYS, REV. O'BRIEN OUTLINES IN OPENING REVIVAL SERMON

First Baptist Pastor Begins Campaign Sunday Morning At Church Building

"It Pays to be a Christian," was the sermon text announced by the Rev. Dick O'Brien, pastor of First Baptist church, as he launched into opening sermon of revival campaign Sunday morning. The revival is to continue two weeks and the pastor is doing the preaching. O'Brien, Thome, as in charge of the choir and Jimmie Logan directing the orchestra. Mrs. Cecile Meskimen is pianist.

The minister read the first eight verses of the first chapter of 1st Timothy as his scripture lesson. His text was taken from the last verse. He placed strong emphasis upon admonitions of Paul that the standards of social living be maintained aloof of worldly influences, accepting as a code of ethics the appeal of that great apostle that "Whatever we do, do in the name of the Lord."

The minister reviewed briefly some of the outstanding statesmen and reformers who have swayed men and nations down through the ages. These, he said, had been great because they entertained in their own lives the principles of living taught by the Carpenter of Galilee.

"Abraham Lincoln," said, "among the great statesmen known in American history because of his unshakable faith in God," he stated. President Woodrow Wilson, George Washington, with his historic knee bowed into the snow in worship," and Gandhi, "the grand old man of the East," were other characters referred to as exemplary Christians who attained wisdom and favor in the sight of both God and man because they were indwelt with the spirit of Christianity.

Services are being held twice daily. The morning service opens promptly at 10 o'clock and is over within an hour. The evening preaching service starts at 8:00, preceded by a thirty minute prayer service. In the latter order of worship the pastor has organized several groups.

"This is going to be a short show revival in so far as the preacher is concerned," Rev. O'Brien said Sunday morning as he shook his coat and took his place in the pulpit. "It is our desire that the men make themselves comfortable during these services, and I want you to leave your coats at home if such would be your pleasure."

IRATE BEES WERE NOT IN FAVOR OF HICKMAN RIDING IN THE PARADE

Police Chief Hickman failed to keep an important engagement Friday afternoon. Hickman was scheduled to ride ahead of the pageantry parade, astride a spirited white steed. It was but a few minutes until time for the parade to start from in front of the court house in Oak street and Chief Hickman rode into the alley back of his home to don his riding boots.

The horse was tethered and Mr. Hickman went inside. In a moment or two he came out, mounted and then the fun began. From an apartment in the yard of W. A. Crowder, next door, there came a swarm of bees. They attacked the horse and then the race was on.

Bucking and running the mount raced north through the residence district to near the high school building. Hickman managed to stay in the saddle until the horse was then too late for him to take his place at the head of the parade.

MRS. FERGUSON LEADS BY 2,398 FINAL TABULATION WEDNESDAY NIGHT SHOWS

Total of 951,102 Votes, Are Accounted For From 251 Counties Complete

Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson led Governor R. S. Sterling 2,398 votes for the Democratic nomination as chief executive of Texas in Saturday's run-off primary election, final tabulation of returns received by The Record Wednesday afternoon from the Texas Election Bureau at Dallas disclosed.

At that time a total of 951,102 votes from 254 counties of the State, 251 of which were complete, had been tabulated. It was estimated that approximately 150 votes remained to be accounted for. Mrs. Ferguson had received 476,750, and Sterling 474,352.

Following upon heels of that report Governor Sterling, from his office at Austin, issued the statement that he had obtained a "substantial majority of all the votes cast" in Saturday's election and that due proceedings contesting results as announced would be instituted.

"I will be declared the nominee for governor of Texas," the statement continued, "in accordance with the orderly process of our election laws. Thousands of illegal votes were cast," the governor further said and "gross errors occurred in the count."

Such procedure was not unexpected at Colorado. A few days ago Jas. E. Ferguson was quoted in press dispatches as having charged indignantly the same irregularities as are now supported by the governor. It was apparent that contest would follow, regardless of which candidate finally lost in Texas' most spectacular gubernatorial contest.

The Texas Election Bureau announced late Wednesday that no additional returns would be announced until Sunday morning. This total will be tabulated from returns furnished the bureau by county chairman and should be accepted as correct.

Condition of Mrs. Jas. T. Johnson, painfully injured at midnight Wednesday by a falling telephone cable, was satisfactory Thursday afternoon and no serious consequences were expected to develop from the mishap.

A few minutes before midnight fire broke out in a barn back of the Lorraine Maddin residence on Elm street. The Johnson residence is next door and Mrs. Johnson went in to the alley to assist her husband in removing the automobile from the garage, finding that building too might be destroyed. Telephone cable in the alley was burned into and as it fell to the ground struck Mrs. Johnson on the head, inflicting painful injury and rendering her unconscious for a time. She was given emergency treatment at the Root hospital and later returned to her home.

Scores of telephones were placed out of commission. Maddin stated Thursday morning that the barn, the second floor of which was occupied by negro tenants, was not protected with insurance.

Reception for Pioneers

The reception given by the daughters of pioneers to the visitors and those still in Colorado, who had lived here before 1900, was one of the successes of that most successful day—Friday, Colorado's second home coming.

This was held from 4 till 6 o'clock in the banquet room of the Colorado Hotel and was under the direction of Mrs. Jas. T. Johnson. The guests were met at the door by Mrs. Y. D. McMurtry and presented to a receiving line in which were the elderly ladies of the days before 1900. The reception committee met the guests and presented them to each other, often it was found that they were not strangers, but had known each other when they were younger.

Representatives from the Gary, Carter, Walfjen, Ruddick, Arnett, Beal, Robinson, Landers, Riordan, Earnest, Terrell, Miller, Coleman and Crowder families were found among the guests.

The program was given by the daughters of pioneers. Mrs. Merritt introduced these first: Mrs. Doris Mullen Martin, the grand daughter of Col. Mullen, one of the county's most accomplished musicians. She sang very beautifully a melody of old Southern airs. Mrs. Lettie Miller Rowland, the talented daughter of one of the county's oldest pioneers, whose sons and daughters have made ministers, school teachers and good citizens, gave an appropriate reading, telling of pioneer days. Mrs. Cecile Conaway Moskum, another daughter of a family who have given a number of brilliant teachers in the arts and literature, gave several piano selections which were very beautiful.

Mrs. J. B. Pritchett presided over the punch tables, where from two o'clock until five o'clock, the grand daughters of pioneer men and women were seated. These were Mrs. Beal Snyder, Mabel Earnest Cooper, Elizabeth Arnett of Lamesa, Rita Sue Miller and Bona Vista Walfjen.

About 500 hundred people called during the afternoon and all very much enjoyed this part of the occasion.

COLORADO HOLDS SECOND BIRTH IN SAND BELT AS SUNDAY MATCHES POSTED

Locals, However, Are Doped As Potential Winners In District Tourney

Linksmen representing the Colorado Country Club in Sand Belt Golf Associational tournament emerged victorious in another scheduled bout Sunday afternoon in the contest with the Midland team at Midland. The score was 27 to 17. Colorado, with two more scheduled games yet to play before concluding her card in the tournament, is doped to cop the district pennant. The locals now have total credits of 295 points.

Sweetwater, last week roosting on top the association's bill board with total of 275 points, Sunday afternoon was toppled from that place of honor and finally landed alongside Lamesa for a tie for third place. Each club is now credited with 285 points.

Big Spring spurred ahead in Sunday's playing to take up first place in the district with a total of 297 points after drubbing the Sweetwater linksmen 34 to 10. Defeat given the Nolan county club was one of the most decisive yet reported since playing was opened several weeks ago. Colorado is trailing Big Spring only two points.

Due to fact Colorado has two games yet to play, one against Snyder and the other against Lamesa, and Big Spring is scheduled to play only one more bout, the locals have every odd in their favor to win over the latter club. It is assured that a heavy lead will be run up in contest with the Snyder club and Colorado should take victory from Lamesa. Lamesa, however, is to be regarded as a strong opponent. In the game Sunday with Snyder, Lamesa won 31 to 13.

Lamesa, yet to be reckoned with as a runner-up for finals, is facing two hard scraps before coming to end of the tournament. Her club has yet to give an account of itself in contest with Midland and Colorado.

It is interesting to note that the four high teams, Big Spring, Colorado, Lamesa and Sweetwater, are running almost as close as did Ferguson and Sterling in the governor's race Saturday. Lamesa and Sweetwater, tied for third place, with 285 points each, are only 12 notches behind Big Spring and Colorado leads them by the close margin of only ten points.

President Richardson of the Colorado Country Club, stated Monday morning that he had nothing to take back, when reminded that the week before he had promised final victory for his club. "That Colorado would run up leads over both Snyder and Lamesa sufficient to offset any high scores made by competing teams is assured."

Palace Theatre Has Interesting Program Billed During Week

"Wayward" based upon Mateel Howe Farnham's novel "Wild Beauty" co-features Nancy Carroll, Richard Arlen and Pauline Frederick, three cinema stars of notable achievement and popularity. This picture is showing at the Palace Thursday and Friday, September 1 and 2.

"Wayward" presents the theme of a persecuting mother-in-law, the part portrayed by Pauline Frederick, who thinks her son's wife, Nancy Carroll, is quite unworthy of affection of her darling boy, Richard Arlen.

Watch lobby of the theatre for announcement of Saturday's picture.

For the Sunday matinee and Monday show the Palace presents Claudette Colbert, Clive Brook and a strong cast of characters in "The Man From Yesterday." It is a very sad story and for that reason may appeal to many. The story has been done again and again but it holds the interest throughout.

For the Tuesday and Wednesday bargain nights, the Palace presents "The Tenderfoot," with Joe E. Brown, Ginger Rogers, Lew Cody, and others equally as famous. Brown seems to be all over the picture, which is exactly as it should be.

Fox Films delivers an up to the minute comedy-drama in "Careless Lady" with Joan Bennett in the title role and John Boles opposite with support of a cast considered to have been selected by their requirements to fit the various characters. This picture will show at the Palace Thursday and Friday, September 8 and 9. Direction, cast, photography and settings all contributed towards making this a sparkling and witty bill of entertainment.

Good Will

first bride, came next in the order named. Following were several new motor cars entered by local distributors. Pioneer citizens, identified with the progress of this section for some fifty years or more came next, followed by the Conaway school bus. An antedated surrey, in which rode Mmes. Sam L. Majors, Ed Majors, J. Lee Jones, George Plaster, C. H. Earnest and J. E. Pond, attired in costumes that were in vogue fifty years ago, came next.

The next section of the parade served to bring a feeling of sadness, mingled with deep reverence to the large throngs of people that jammed either side of the street for several blocks. Several cow ponies, without riders and with stirrups upturned plodded their way along the pavement to silently memorialize the pioneers who had gone on to the last great round-up. The wild cheering that had become universal along the line of march was now hushed. It was noticed that scores of people uncovered their heads out of respect to the men and women who before their going had played an important part in the building of a great citizenship in West Texas.

A chuck wagon, covered wagon, depicting the days in which each was in common use, came next. Echoes of the great Western range again were heard as a company of cowboys, thirty-five in number, appeared in the line of march. As they rode their mounts in military formation it was interesting to note that among the number were grizzled pioneers who rode the open range fifty years ago, riding beside younger men, some of whom were yet in their early twenties.

The high school band, an ox team driven by R. J. Ratliff of Spade, an Indian drag, entered by Ralph Skinner and many other interesting features followed. Roy Hester, band director, was in charge of the parade and rode ahead of the marchers as the spectacle passed through the streets.

As that report was announced through the public address system, loaned The Record by L. J. Taylor, several hurrahs for Ma burst upon the night air. It was the first general demonstration given during the night. This was the last election news received Saturday night. It is needless to state that supporters of Mrs. Ferguson departed for their homes believing their candidate had won, and that the friends of Governor Sterling were somewhat downcast, accepting that early returns had come from the larger city boxes and as belated returns trickled in, giving results of the balloting in rural districts, Ferguson's lead would, no doubt, continue to increase.

But such was not so. Sunday morning Sterling was shown to overcome the lead of his opponent and was again ahead. He maintained a slight lead during the day and it was not until Sunday night that Mrs. Ferguson again passed her opponent in the neck and neck race for governor. Monday morning, with a total of 916,000 votes counted, Mrs. Ferguson was leading 493. Sterling again came ahead, however, and at 9 o'clock, was shown leading by 3,007 votes.

Tuesday morning found the people just as perplexed as ever. First report received gave Ferguson a lead of 404 votes. At 9 o'clock, when the Texas Election Bureau accounted for tabulation of 946,026 votes, Mrs. Ferguson's lead was cut to 373. The 11 o'clock report, however, accounting for only 1,637 additional votes, boosted lead of Mrs. Ferguson to 1,297. She received 1,265 to only 340 for Sterling out of that number.

That Ferguson had in all probability won the nomination became more apparent when another tabulation was received at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon. She had increased her led to 1,463. Another two hours passed, with voters eagerly watching the bulletin board and calling The Record office to make inquiry as to "What is the latest count?" "When are you going to get another report," and so on. At 3:30 Mrs. Ferguson's lead had increased to 1,743. Last report filed for the day, received shortly after 6 o'clock, boosted the Ferguson lead to 1,899.

After the parade a goat roping contest and ball game at West Side park was the attraction. Both were witnessed by several thousand people.

A fiddler's contest, athletic contest, street dance and other features following during the late afternoon and evening, concluded the program. The street dance, given in Walnut street in front of the Colorado Hotel, was attended by several hundred. Frank M. Smith directed this event. Local and visiting musicians furnished the dance music.

A public address system, installed by L. J. Taylor, was used throughout the day and evening.

MRS. PINK WADE HODGE TAKES MANAGEMENT OF THE COLORADO HOTEL

Management of the Colorado Hotel Thursday passed from M. H. Watson to Mrs. Pink Wade Hodge. The new management will operate the hotel for Oren M. Murray of Dallas, receiver for the North Texas Trust Company, owner of the property. Wade Scott, recently of Sulphur Springs, is the new assistant manager.

Mrs. Hodge comes to Colorado from Duncan, Oklahoma. She has had several experiences in operating hotels, both as owner and leasee. The retiring hotel manager has been operating the hotel for some time. Mr. Watson and family came to Colorado from Ballinger, where he had operated a hotel for several years. His brother, Maurice Watson, has been associated with him as assistant manager.

Mr. Watson has made no announcement as to what his plans for the future may be. During his identity with the business interests of Colorado he and Mrs. Watson have made many friends.

The new manager is the widow of the late Thos. E. Hodge, elected secretary of original West Texas A. & M. College committee at Sweetwater in 1916. Her husband was actively identified with Dr. P. C. Coleman of Colorado in early fight to obtain such an institution for West Texas.

Edwin Moesser, given major surgery several days ago at a local hospital, continues to improve and is expected to soon be back at his place in the postoffice.

GOVERNMENT
Political events and conditions at the present time suggests meditations as to the necessity for, and administration of government. When man's intelligence first had developed sufficiently to be a restraint from brutish instinct, when his first gleam of reason impressed upon him that physical might did not carry with it moral right, he began to evidence a mental status that placed him above the level of the beast. It was not a very far cry from this little elevation to that wherein he got his first glimpse of ethics. Soon he merged from the darkness of semi-brutishness into the open, where he could make his way a little more rapidly. The dawn was approaching. His pathway was partially illumined by the rising sun of intelligence. He began to realize that he was no longer to be governed by the law of the

He found he had reached a point where law and justice was about obsolete, where might must at all times be the aim of the individual. He found that if this very desirable object were to be obtained, it was necessary that basic principles be set forth and formulated into a system of rules for the government of all. It was a red letter day for man when he realized that he had a conscience. Recognition of the rights of others, and that it was his duty to see to it that these rights were respected, was another discovery which came about coincidentally with the discovery of his conscience. Indeed a new world opened up to him then—the world which man alone can comprehend. It was a world in which the virtues shone with such brilliance as to almost blind his then weak mental vision. He discovered that there was such a thing as duty, a sort of by-product, as it were, of the discovery of conscience, but nevertheless, a very important one. It often has caused him to look back to the days when he was not troubled with conscience, nor with any of its emanations—not even duty. It has been said that "self preservation is the first law of nature." It is not a law, but an instinctive impulse. As man progressed he found that it was the duty of all to see to it that the weak and the helpless should not suffer or be deprived of their rights simply because they were weak and helpless. Hence the law of government, enacted in the age of individual effort. The anarchist favors abolishment of government, without the restraining power of the will of the many as expressed by the law. He wants the individual to profit at the expense of society. The socialist wants society to profit at the expense of the individual. Democracy wants both society and the individual to profit through the cooperative efforts of all. Government is designed to take the place of clubs and stones, of brute strength and greed, of cunning ambush. These thoughts suggest at once the absolute obedience to law, making imperative that intelligence and patriotism, capacity and unquestioned integrity, shall enact a State or Nation's laws and occupy the offices created for their administration. Realization of this fact makes disgrating and nauseating the strident ballyhoo of ignorance and imbecility in their claimant and subtle efforts to gain offices for which they have neither qualification nor purpose, other than self-aggrandizement. A person who is ignorant, incompetent and selfish doesn't occupy an office, he simply infests it. Bribery with office always results in corruption in office. Many go to the polls to vote against something, rather than to vote for a principle, or to vote for somebody rather than against a vicious proposition. There is no perfect government. There never has been and never shall be. This for the reason that man, who makes the government and who is expected to support it, is himself imperfect. A thing imperfectly conceived, imperfectly constructed and imperfectly supported cannot be expected of itself to be perfect. Because it is not perfect, makes it impossible for it to be permanent. The great difficulty is that, although every principle that wisdom may suggest be incorporated in the Constitution, unless the laws based on it are wise and consistently obeyed, the governmental structure will topple sooner or later. The government which honors and employs the shallow and incapable, the unpatriotic and dishonest, must sooner or later reap the harvest that always springs from the seed sown. It is folly supreme to put a fool or a rascal where a wise and honest man should have charge. Authority and power placed in anyone's hands constitute the supreme tests to both his character and wisdom. In the matter of holding office, as in other activities of life, it often is that "fools rush in where angels fear to tread." And they are always ready to do this. Not only so, but they steal into places by employing "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain." There can be no greater betrayal of confidence than failure to take proper care of the people's business, whether through ignorance, stupidity or dishonesty. For an official to use the authority entrusted to his hands in a manner that harms instead of helps, to use it for any but the purpose for which it is intended, is a crime against the people. Governments decline and fall because of internal rather than external causes. No government can endure any longer than its laws are respected by the people. If the people do not get behind their officers the officers will be slow to get behind the law. Every citizen should have sufficient interest in his government and pride enough in his own intelligence to have at least a reasonable conception of the basic principles upon which his government is established. F. B. W.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 24TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT
The returns indicate that you have chosen me, by a substantial majority, to represent you in the State Senate—an honor, yes, but (more than that) a great responsibility, especially in such a time as this. It is my earnest hope that my endeavors will have a share in bringing about lower costs of government, abolition of needless departments and a return of prosperity through a realization of Thomas Jefferson's ideal, "Equal rights to all, special privileges to none." My constant purpose shall be to be the representative of every part of this district and of every person in it, and to achieve that which will bring the greatest good to the greatest number. I invite your advice, your suggestions and your counsel. Thanking you for your support, I am, Sincerely yours, WILBOURNE B. COLLIE. Calling Cards that are distinctive. THE HOPE OF A NATION LIES IN THE STRENGTH OF LABOR
The mills, the fields, the factories and the little shops along the highway are deserted for a day, while this great country pauses to give tribute to those who have worked there. It is a healthful sign, a constructive sign when a nation such as ours recognize the right of labor to such homage. For the laboring man is the strength of this land. Rank upon rank he stands, ready to accomplish. He is quiet, he is steadfast, he is sure—the real source of stamina and power. A country with such integrity to draw on must move forward.

A MAN COMES OUT
The days of Jesus' doubt are set down as forty in number. It is easy to imagine that lonely struggle. He had left a good trade among people who knew him and trusted him—and for what? To become a wandering preacher, talking to folks who never heard of him? And what was he to talk about? How, with his lack of experience, should he find words for his message? Where should he begin? Who would listen? If they listen? Hadn't he perhaps made a mistake?

Satan, says the narrative, tempted him, saying: "You are hungry; here are stones. Make them into bread."—The temptation of material success. It was entirely unnecessary for him to be hungry ever. He had a good trade; he knew well enough that his organizing ability was better than Joseph's. He could build up a far more successful business and acquire comfort and wealth. Why not? Satan comes in again, according to the narrative, taking him up into a high mountain and showing him the kingdoms of the world. "All these can be yours, if you will only compromise." He could go to Jerusalem and enter the priesthood; that was a sure road to distinction. He could do good in that way, and have the satisfaction of success as well. Or he might enter the public service, and seek political leadership. There was plenty of discontent to be capitalized, and he knew the farmer and the laborer; he was one of them; they would listen to him. For forty days and nights the incessant fight went on, but once settled, it was settled forever. In the calm of that wilderness there came the majestic conviction which is the very soul of leadership—the faith that his spirit was linked with the Eternal, that God had sent him into the world to do a work which no one else could do, which—if he neglected it—would never be done. Magnify this temptation scene as greatly as you will; say that God spoke more clearly to Jesus than to any who have ever lived. It is true. But to every man of vision the clear Voice speaks; there is no great leadership where there is not a mystic. Nothing splendid has ever been achieved except by those who dared believe that something inside themselves was superior to circumstances. To choose the sure thing is treason to the soul. If this was not the meaning of the forty days in the wilderness, if Jesus did not have a real temptation which might have ended in his going back to the bench at Nazareth, then the forty days' struggle has no real significance to us. But the temptation was real, and he conquered. The youth who had been a carpenter stayed in the wilderness, a man came out. Not the full-fledged master who, within the shadow of the cross could cry, "I have overcome the world." He had still much growth to make, much progress in vision and self-confidence. But the beginnings were there. Men who looked upon him from that hour felt the authority of one who has put his spiritual house in order, and knows clearly what he is about.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR
By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.
OUR QUEST OF TRUTH
How many times we have pounced upon supposed truths,—only to find out, after more exhaustive study and experiment—that we were wrong! For instance: I have preached for years that the pipe-smoker may bring himself a lip-cancer by long frequent massage with a pipe-stem. Now, a careful thinker observes that tobacco has little influence in causing cancer; in other words, any other sort of stick would cause cancer of the lip just as quickly, used in the same way. No, mama, I'm not trying to encourage the use of tobacco; I'm just telling Grand-dad not to chew any sort of stick as a habit. It is known that an exposed corset-stay may bring to light a cancer of the breast. No tobacco about that, but it is a villain, just the same. And, a fine medical writer tells us that blood-pressure is not permanently made worse by tea or coffee or even salt. That more folks die from lack of chlorides than from excess of them: that the INTELLIGENT use of these things never does harm. Another thing we learn: If indisposed, go at once to your good family physician; don't seek him as a last resort, but as a very first and best aid in trouble. It will pay you. We know now that meats are not "deadly poison" to the human organism. To be a "vegetarian" is to be a faddist—and, all faddists are skating on thin ice. Nevertheless, a finicky, evanescent public will do as it pleases, with my full consent. One of my own very satisfactory conclusions is, good common horse sense is a qualification to be proud of.

4-H CLUB NEWS
New Fair Building
The state fair of Oklahoma is now among the many which have provided an adequate building to house 4-H club exhibits. The new hall will be ready for this year's fair at Oklahoma City, starting September 24, according to Ralph T. Hemphill, manager of the fair. The new building is being erected at a cost of $50,000 and will be one of the finest structures of its kind in the country. It is of fire-proof construction throughout and will be used for no other purpose than headquarters for club folks. It replaces an old frame structure in which the first exhibits of 4-H products were made in the days when club work was just getting under way. The building is to be 56 feet wide and 262 feet long, two stories high and of brick and concrete. It will enable the several hundred boys and girls who annually have attended the fair in recent years to enter into competitive demonstrations. The new club building will be opened with elaborate dedication ceremonies just preceding the fair at which leading state officials and club leaders of the state will take part. B. A. Pratt, state leader of boys club work in the state, will be in charge of the activities of club members during the extension staff at Stillwater. Housing for the state fair school, started in 1916, will be provided by the new hall. Mr. Hemphill states that the annual schools held at the fair for club members since they were started 16,610 boys and girls have enrolled.

Trench Silos for Big West Texas Feed Crop

JUST WHAT ITS NAME IMPLIES, a trench silo is simply a trench dug into the ground into which chopped feed crops may be stored for feeding as succulent ensilage to dairy cows, beef cattle and work stock during periods of dry pastures or bad weather. Cheap, easily dug, easily filled, ensilage easily removed, the big disadvantage of a trench silo is excessive spoilage which may be avoided by properly filling and by providing drainage. More than 200 were dug in Texas in 1931 and county agent reports indicate a big increase for 1932, especially in West Texas.

MITCHELL COUNTY FARM NOTES

Watt Collier says, "Those terraces we ran off two years ago just 'made' that piece of land. Why, by keeping stalks, leaves, etc. from being washed away it has changed the color of the soil making it darker. I am planning to run some more lines on my other place this fall."

Although garden catalogues and government bulletins state that cauliflower requires a cool growing season, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Harrell have about 40 cauliflower plants that have grown steadily through the hot summer and are now heading out. They also have a nice patch of parsnips and pimientos. These are crops that are seldom grown in Mitchell county, but they seem to be well adapted here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hampeck write as follows regarding their old storage cured meat: "We will never kill the old way any more, or kill all our meat in the winter time. The A. & M. way can't be beat. We wish everybody knew how nice it is. The canned roasts are simply fine. Everyone that we know of has killed this way like the method and say they are going to kill and cut up hogs this way from now on. We can't speak too highly of it."

Dick Delaney writes: "No meat spoiled but the bacon and hams were too salty. The vinegar formula for removing was used with satisfactory results. It was used about ten days ago and to date none has reappeared."

Mr. Delaney was one of the first men to try the cold storage method of curing. Since then to prevent the meat becoming too salty the curing time has been shortened from 3 days per pound to 2 1/2 days per pound for hams and from 1 1/2 days per pound to 1 day per pound for bacon.

The W. S. Walker family is probably the only ones in the county having canned Irish potatoes. They canned the smaller (home-grown) potatoes, so that they can have "new potatoes" any time of the year.

G. D. Bynum says: "Several years ago, when I was butchering, I bought a 35 pound sow that was sold because she was eating chickens. I told the fellow a balanced ration would stop it, but he sold her to me anyway and I fed her meat scraps and cottonseed meal along with the grain. Several weeks later the man's wife came to see us and went out to see the sow, and there were chickens all over the pen and a few of them were perched on her back, but the sow didn't notice them."

Mr. Bynum is putting six three months old pigs on a self-feeder right away and is planning to have them big enough to kill by December.

"We folks down here are afraid to try to hold what water falls on the land, but up there at the Spur Station they are turning the pasture water into the fields and are getting by with it," declared one of the men who visited the Spur Experiment Station upon his return here Monday. "They are turning water from 1,200 acres into a 120 acre field protected by level terraces. The crops on this piece of land are as pretty as any I have seen, but the crops on land not so treated were not nearly so good."

Other interesting facts reported by the twelve men who made the trip are: 2 1/4 pounds per day gain on 65 two-year-old steers fed nothing but sudan grass pasture. They were unable to keep the grass down and it had to be mowed. Grain sorghums that were planted May 15th and later were twice as good as those planted earlier.

A cattle feeding test showed that good results were obtained in a lot of steers fed 4 pounds of cottonseed per day.

Variety tests of various grain sorghums and crosses of different grain sorghums also proved interesting, as did the crop spacing and dates of planting experiments.

In a test this winter trench silos and upright silos will be compared. Level terraces increased the yield over terraces having a fall.

The men who made the trip were: A. L. Young, W. T. Brooks, H. L. Harrell, J. T. Draper, Joe Tom Draper, E. S. Miles, C. H. Hudson, A. R. Northcutt, A. K. McCarley, J. I. Payne, Doyle Williams and W. S. Foster.

Immediate members of the family surviving include his wife and baby girl, his parents, two brothers, Leonard Henderson and Eual Henderson, all of Colorado and one sister, Mrs. D. Bynum of Westbrook.

Relatives of the family here for the rites were Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bauer, and Mmes. Albert Polacek and Agnes Pace of Fort Worth; Mrs. A. Polacek, Mrs. W. J. Sneed and family, Mrs. Lena Polacek, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Skalsky, Zudora Griffice, Dee Griffice and Mrs. George Cattle and daughter of Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Henderson of Brownwood; Mrs. B. E. Gibson of Fort Worth; Mrs. Mammie Arrp, Brownwood; Mrs. Leisa Wilson and son of Plainview.

Funeral bearers were Brooks Dorn, Oran Lipps, Harvey Nessmith, Alfred Cupp, Leonard Long and Tolbert Key.

REMINISCENCES OF THE RECENT PAST DEPICTED BY 'GOLD MEDAL BAND'

There were many outstanding features in Friday's Good Will celebration to refresh in memory of hundreds of visitors events of many years ago and mingling among those features was one outstanding attraction on the day's program that recalled in a vivid manner days of the more recent past.

And that one attraction was Colorado's Gold Medal Band, a musical organization that a few years ago won distinction as the outstanding musical organization in all of West Texas, receiving out of recognition of that attainment the title of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce official band.

This band lead the parade passing through streets of Colorado at 2:00 o'clock. Grady Newman, drum major back in those days when the band was known throughout the State, was back at his place with the baton. There was only one "missing link" to make this musical organization truly reminiscent of its heyday career in West Texas band circles. Its director, Sam Goldman, was not present.

And in making this reference to an organization that has ever been an asset to Colorado and Mitchell county, it would be unkind to overlook reference to those fellows from Loraine who were members of the Gold Medal Band then and are as loyal to their prided organization today as any member living in Colorado.

Governor Sterling Leads Mrs. Ferguson By Majority of 298 Votes In Mitchell

The Sterling forces Saturday held Mitchell county well within the governor's camp, polling a lead of 298 votes over Mrs. Ferguson out of a total of 2,060. Sterling carried Colorado, Westbrook, Loraine, Iatan and Hymen. Out of a total of 1,003 votes for governor at Colorado, Sterling received 345 to 358, a majority of 287.

Boxes carried Mrs. Ferguson included McKenzie with only one citizen elected to support the incumbent. The vote there was 11 to 1. In the July primary election Ferguson polled every one of the twelve votes registered at McKenzie. Burford gave the woman candidate a strong vote, Mrs. Ferguson polling 53 out of a total of 65. Other boxes carried by Ferguson were Spade, Cuthbert, Landers and Carr.

Judge J. E. Hickman of Eastland, candidate for associate justice of the Supreme court, polled the heaviest vote given any candidate in this county. He received 1,516 to only 593 votes for Judge William Pierce, his opponent. Pink Parrish of Lubbock, running for congressman-at-large, Place No. 1, came second in this distinction with a total of 1,248 votes.

Table showing complete returns by boxes in the county is published elsewhere in The Record today.

Standing of Teams

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Masons	9	6	600
Fire Boys	8	7	535
Methodists	7	8	465
Baptists	6	9	400

The Methodists may not have elected to make sure defeat of the Fire Boys in their battle with the Masons for pennant in second half of the city league series, but nevertheless defeat rendered the fire department Monday afternoon at hands of the church club sounded death knell to last hope the latter cherished to win the pennant. The score was 8 to 4.

Thursday afternoon of last week the Masons drubbed the Baptists in a game fought with errors and much of everything else that would be considered the opposite to playing ball. The score was only 25 to 13, with the Baptists receiving the losing side of the argument.

The Fire Boys, winners of pennant in first half of the series, and their fraternal opponents, the Masons, who Monday won similar trophy for the last half are now to engage each other for the league trophy. Play-off was scheduled to start Tuesday, but rain caused a postponement, and such was again the case on Wednesday. If the crowd is in condition by playing time today, (Thursday) first game will be played at 5:30 o'clock, according to Col Adams, commissioner of the league.

The city league opened Monday, May 16, and the first half was concluded July 4th. All four member teams have developed some good performers during the time. Interest has been maintained from the start by the public.

FOR SALE BY R. T. MANUEL

Mitchell county is located in about the center of an area that will make the heaviest cotton and feed crop in West Texas, if not in the entire State.

Inquiries have been received from East Texas, and also from parties living in the oil fields of Pecos and Reagan county, regarding the purchase of Mitchell county farms.

Believing the next year or two will witness the greatest demand for small farm homes the country has ever known we are considering subdividing a number of large farms and offering same for sale in the following described tracts:

145 acres, located half mile west of Morgan creek on south side of Bankhead highway, fronts highway one mile. All in cultivation, every acre is level cat claw land, with not a wash in the entire 145 acres. This fertile tract has always produced heavy crops and being on a paved highway between Colorado and Westbrook would make one of the finest and most convenient small farm homes in West Texas.

167 acres directly across highway from above tract. It has about 148 acres in cultivation; is well improved, has good house, barn, well, windmill, etc. About 10 acres of this place overflowed this year, but this was caused by the highway people not building a culvert of sufficient size to take care of the drainage from the north and west. When this is built and the county makes a drainage ditch on the road running south from the highway this water will cause no further trouble. This desirable, well located little farm, is very productive and is a wonderful buy for someone.

Two miles south and one mile west of Seven Wells—we have 320 acres of Jayhawk creek bottom land. The south 160 acres has 130 acres in high state of cultivation, is nearly level cat claw land, with an unusual deep soil, in fact, it is practically made land and will produce year after year and not wear out. Has good house, etc. This is a real cotton farm.

The north 160 acres has about 70 acres in cultivation with about 40 or 50 acres of fine tillable land in the pasture. We have late cotton on this place that will make close to a bale to the acre.

9 miles southeast of Colorado and 4 miles southwest of Loraine we have 320 acres known as the east half of the Helton section. This place has the reputation of being one of the finest cotton farms in Mitchell county. It is a heavy red sand with a clay foundation and will make a good crop every year. Will consider subdividing in two or three tracts.

Good terms on any of the above places.

Resume Of The Past Given By Speakers Who Welcome Pioneers To Celebration

An interesting resume of the past, back in those days when Colorado City was the mecca for cattle barons from the East and even Europe, was given Friday morning as local citizens delivered addresses welcoming pioneer Mitchell contains to the Good Will celebration.

Program opening the celebration was held at the Palace Theatre with Judge C. C. Thompson in charge. A musical program was rendered by the Chuck Wagon Serenaders and then the Rev. J. M. Shuford, aged minister, offered the invocation. Dr. C. L. Root sang two vocal numbers.

"When You and I Were Young, Maggie," and "The Sidewalks of New York."

Mrs. P. C. Coleman, speaking a message of welcome "from one old timer to another," recalled some interesting reminiscences of many years ago. She spoke of events here from forty to fifty years back.

"The first sidewalk that Colorado City ever boasted of was constructed of lumber and extended from the Burns store a few blocks into the residence district," she recalled. "I am often reminded of incidents of those days when I hear the report of a motor backfiring. There were no automobiles or trucks in those days and when I heard one of those familiar sounds, I usually would raise up in bed to listen for approach of some one running up that board walk to call the doctor. It was apparent that a shooting scrape had taken place downtown."

Greeting to the visitors were also brought in brief addresses by Joe Pond, president of the Lions Club, Mrs. Jim Ferguson, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club and Mayor Hutchinson.

"They tell me that I am to deliver the keys of the city to our visitors here today, but I cannot comply with that request, because there are no keys to deliver," the mayor declared. Hutchinson stated that he had lived in Colorado for many years and the city had ever kept its doors ajar to the visitor.

Harold Bennett gave a reading dedicated to the pioneer.

The response was made by J. P. Majors, mayor of Sweetwater and himself a resident of Colorado for many years. Majors came to this city soon after Colorado was founded and engaged in business. The J. P. Majors store, now managed by his sons, E. M. Majors and O. H. Majors, is still here.

Following address of Mr. Majors, brief talks were made by some of the visitors and introduction of all the special guests followed.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Charles E. Dunn

Evils of Intemperance Lesson for September 4 — Isaiah 5:11-16, 22, 23

Golden Text: Leviticus 10:9

Isaiah's sharp denunciation of drunkenness, hurled like a thunderbolt long ago is thoroughly timely. The liquor problem has never been solved. Intemperance is still a serious challenge to the stability of society, and its peril is peculiarly intense in our machine age.

Unfortunately the clearly established facts concerning the menace of alcohol are obscured by the fastidiousness of the present. Now we may cherish reasonable doubts as to the wisdom of the eighteenth amendment. But certain it is that the arguments against the liquor traffic are as strong now as ever.

Rigid tests have proven that alcohol is a food only in a very limited sense, that it is not a stimulant, but a narcotic such as ether and chloroform, and that it is a habit forming drug that lowers resistance to infection and physical injury, and may result in acute and chronic disease.

Dr. Haven Emerson, of Columbia University, sums up the case against it when he says, "Alcohol as commonly used by modern man here and abroad deteriorates the cells of the body; degrades the man; degenerates the race. To be sure, there are eminent authorities who hold that the moderate drinking of alcoholic beverages is harmless. Yet the Life Extension Institute's handbook, "How to Live," declares that "the judgment of the majority of scientific men is against even the moderate use of alcohol."

The liquor issue is now entering a new phase. We have oversteered the power of the law. While still employing the strong arm of legal coercion, our main reliance henceforth must be upon education and public opinion.
