

STATE, COUNTY PUSH PROJECTED PAVED THOROUGHFARE

ACTUAL CONSTRUCTION ON HIGHWAY 101 BE STARTED WHEN ROUTE IS OBTAINED

Blue Prints Colorado North To County Line Accepted By State Commission

Actual construction work on Highway No. 101 awaits only the securing of right-of-way for the route from Colorado north to the Scurry-Mitchell county line and subsequent awarding of grade and drainage structure contracts, W. F. French of Abilene, district superintendent for the State highway commission, announced while in Colorado Wednesday.

Field notes on the route, as recently approved at Austin, specify for the highway to lead east of north from terminus of Hickory street, intersecting the old road about 1,000 yards this side of Buford. From Buford the survey leads direct toward Dunn. The first project, including section of the road in Mitchell county, will be 8.9 miles in length.

County Judge A. F. King stated Wednesday that commissioner's court would rush work of obtaining the required 100-foot right-of-way from the city limits to the county line. The county agreed to furnish right-of-way on condition the State built the road.

There is not a single turn from north city limits until the survey converges with old road near Buford. The same is true between Buford and Dunn. After the first section is under contract second and last portion of the road, leading from the county line to intersection with Highway No. 7 at Snyder will be started.

Texas' Most Promising Hunting Grounds To Be Reached In Few Hours From Here

Bale Of Cotton Is Ignited As Farmer Drives Thru Street

A spectacle that brought a deal of chagrin to J. E. Stewart, farmer of a few miles east, and more than passive interest to sidewalk spectators, was enacted at East Second and Elm streets Tuesday. As Stewart was driving into town with a bale of seed cotton the commodity suddenly burst into flames.

For a moment or two it looked as if the cotton along with the farmer's wagon would be destroyed. The blazing cotton was soon placed under control by the fire department, with little damage, however.

Stewart assigns origin of the fire to some boys who elected to climb atop his wagon for a ride. They were smoking, so the story goes.

The cotton was hauled back home and Stewart plans making another try at having the bale ginned, after the water-soaked load has had time to dry out.

returning Tuesday morning to resume court. Tuesday, designated as appearance day, was given over largely to setting trial dates for causes pending on the docket.

The following gentlemen, most of whom are Mitchell county farmers, were empaneled on the grand jury: T. J. Biden, T. R. Bennett, F. L. Andrews, H. S. Bond, C. N. Adams, L. A. Strain, H. F. Foster, T. W. Daughtrey, W. E. Domeson, Joe W. Smoot, Roy Dazier and J. E. Hale. Smoot, vice president of the City National Bank, Colorado, was named foreman of the deliberative body.

The court made but few specific references to law violations in delivering his charge to the twelve men. He outlined briefly the general code of Texas statutes having to do with crime and gave as his orders that all reported violations of law be investigated without fear or malice and that bills of indictment be returned when it was established that evidence believed sufficient to warrant convictions was found.

The Big Bend country of Texas, recognized generally as a hunters' paradise, promises this year to offer unusual attractions for hunters. Many of the large ranches in the Big Bend and the Davis Mountains have been closed to hunters for a number of years until this season and there is now an abundant supply of game.

R. C. Van Zandt, who has recently taken over the hunting and dude ranch activities of the 606 ranch of H. L. Kokernot & Son, between Alpine and Fort Davis, and will open up this 200,000-acre ranch to hunting this season, estimates there are fully 10,000 deer on this property, as well as 1,000 black bear and many panthers and lobo wolves. Mr. Van Zandt has been engaged for some time in hunting and trapping in the Davis Mountains and the Big Bend and is familiar with that entire country.

Vacationists in the Davis Mountains during the summer months report seeing many herds of deer. It is no uncommon sight to see from one to a dozen antlered bucks grazing on a mountain side in the early morning or late afternoon.

Bear also are plentiful in the canyons of the Davis Mountains and the Big Bend. Several bear have been killed this summer and it is no trick at all to see them about the watering places.

Panthers have become so numerous in some parts of the Davis Mountains section that stockmen are having difficulty in protecting their stock from invasions. Panthers feast on young calves and goats.

The Davis Mountain country, with its mountain ranges and deep canyons, offers some of the most attractive hunting ground in the State. Musquiz Canyon, Black Canyon, Dutch Canyon and hundreds of unnamed caves, canyons, mountain valleys and peaks afford wooded retreat and rock hiding places for game of all kinds. Abundant rainfall during the late summer and early fall has brought luxuriant growth of grass in the valleys and on the mountain slopes. Ranchmen say the range is better this year than for a number of years—some say for thirty years or longer. Range stock of all kinds are fat, and the wild game is no exception.

Numerous hunting lodges are being prepared and made ready for the influx of hunters expected with the opening of the deer season on Nov. 16. Owing to the topography of the country—high mountain peaks with rocky slopes and wooded valleys—hunting is done almost altogether on horseback. These hunting lodges will be prepared to furnish merely lodging or lodging with board for hunters who come singly or in parties. Also good mounts with saddles, bridles and other necessary equipment will be provided at customary rates.

Aside from hunting there is much of interest for visitors to the Davis Mountains and the Big Bend. This section of Texas is the beauty spot of the State, rivaling Colorado and the Rockies for scenery. The historic fort, established at Fort Davis as one of the line of frontier posts in the fight against the Indians, stands today with its crumbling ruins of adobe barracks and corals and stables as a spot of unusual historic interest. Near Fort Davis too, is Mount Locke on the summit of which is to be built the great observatory established by the University of Texas and operated jointly by the Universities of Texas and Chicago. This observatory, to be one of the largest in the world, has been made possible through a bequest to the University of Texas by the late W. J. McDonald of Paris.

Many good roads and scenic drives thread their way through the Davis Mountains and into the Big Bend region, making every part easily accessible. Improved highways also lead into the Davis Mountains and the Big Bend country from all parts of the State. The Bankhead Highway—known as State Highway No. 1 or as Federal Highway No. 80—crosses the State from east to west. Leaving this highway at Pecos, the Davis Mountain-bound traveler will find an improved road leading southward through Balmorhea and into the Davis Mountains by way of Lympha Canyon to Fort Davis. Another route leaves the Bankhead Highway at Monahans, an improved highway leading southward to Fort Stockton and thence to Alpine. Still another route is Federal Highway No. 67 leading southwestward from Dallas through San Angelo and along the Orient branch of the Santa Fe to Alpine. Also there is a good highway leading westward from San Antonio through Del Rio to Alpine, and likewise good highways leading from El Paso and the west into this section.

percent, and "average weekly sales of our most actively-pushed brands of cigars increased 61 percent."
"The housewives of the country are the purchasing agents who spend 85 percent of the family income," said General Johnson in a public statement. "They realize that 'Now is the time to buy', not only to save money, which is vitally important, but also they have decided that every dollar spent now is helping to keep the wage worker and her family on a pay roll." This sentiment has been reported from women in all walks of life, through the far-flung women's organization of NRA, and indicates that, as never before, women are giving deep thought to the psychology of buying home supplies before retail prices get back to normal.
"Hundreds of thousands, even millions, long idle, are back at work", continued the statement of General Johnson. Many millions of dollars have been added to pay rolls. These pay rolls cannot be maintained and new jobs for millions more cannot be made unless every consumer does his or her best now. Industry is bringing into the market improved, practical products held back for these better times. Prices are going up, they must and will, and buying now is an investment, the safest investment it is possible for any one to find."

September Closed Better Than Opening
Dun & Bradstreet Trade Review States

The Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., weekly trade review said Friday that September was closing better than it opened under accelerated industrial recovery and more vigorous consumer buying.

"The desire to build inventories in advance of rising markets," asserted the review, "virtually has come to an end, giving a steadier tone to buying movements and a firmer base on which to plan future operations."

"The comparatively large number of banks which still are closed or operating under restrictions continue a perpetual handicap of no mean proportions in many districts while plans for expansion are being held in abeyance by the higher collateral requirements for loans, pending clarification of the entire banking situation.

"Volume of chain specialty stores was about the same as for the week preceding, but sales of chain grocers were lower. While some of the department stores noted the usual let-down of the fall season in the sales totals of some items, the extent of the decline was less marked than at this time a year ago."

Surveys Supply Ample Proof That Now Is The Time To Buy, Washington Says

Reports submitted by numerous widely scattered newspapers, and all of the national advertising agencies, abundantly confirm data accumulated by State and local advisory boards of NRA as to the potentialities of the "Now is the time to buy" campaign now in progress. This view is reflected to an astonishing degree by a flood of letters and telegrams from merchants and manufacturers to NRA headquarters at Washington.

Thousands of local and national advertisers in all staple lines are assuring National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson of their determination to cooperate by offering the people "good goods, fairly priced," in response to his suggestion.

These communications reveal new and improved products to be offered to the public, and all pledge the maintenance of fair prices. The president of a great retail drug organization wrote: "We are carrying out at once your suggestion to submit up-to-date, reasonably priced merchandise and have increased our advertising expenditure over anything we have spent in three years."

The treasurer of one of the largest textile concerns said: "In September we increased production 25 percent and pay rolls 84 percent. For the past 2 months production increased with us 54 1/2 percent and pay rolls 112 percent. We are assuredly on the upturn, and with fair treatment the people will buy."

In a detailed report, one of the largest cigar manufacturers announced that from August 1 to October 1 their employees increased 31 percent, pay rolls increased 53

Attempted Assassination Of Roosevelt 21 Years Ago Created Local Sensation

Attempt upon the life of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt in Milwaukee twenty one years ago created a national sensation, according to glaring headlines in the Record for Friday, November 18, 1912. The presidential candidate was wounded by one John Schrenk while walking from his hotel to address a mass meeting in Milwaukee.

The Record was also concerned over continued depredations of American citizens by Mexican bandits. John T. Cameron, El Paso rancher, had recently been released after payment of $2,500 ransom to a gang of desperadoes across the Rio Grande.

Marriage of Dr. William Wallace Campbell and Miss Lillian Bailey

Lilies, solemnized at All Saints Episcopal church, Wednesday evening of that week was described at one of the prettiest weddings ever solemnized in Colorado.

A new grocery store was opened in town during that week. The business was launched by Jas. B. Hall.

H. F. Wheeler, manager of the Farmers Gin Company had a harrowing experience on the Friday afternoon before when his head was caught in bale press at the gin. Workmen were attracted by his cries for help and released him from the press before serious injury resulted.

Passing of a popular social center in Colorado was noted in that issue of The Record. Second floor of the stockmen's club building was being remodeled into office quarters. Here through a number of years the elite of both city and countryside had gathered in gala affairs.

Belief that Bob Beauchamp, Texas & Pacific employee, had appendicitis, was expressed in the paper that week. He had been taken to the railway hospital in Marshall for observation and probable surgery.

Large metal water tank, recently placed atop one of the brick buildings at the oil mill, crashed through the building after having been pumped full of water. Considerable damage resulted and several mill employees were said to have had a narrow escape from injury.

Mrs. Roy Lane made a business trip to Colorado Wednesday afternoon.

CHURCH OF CHRIST
Last Sunday was a fine day with us. The largest attendance for Bible school that we have ever had. Two good crowds for the preaching services. We can make this next one just a little better. The sermon subjects will be: "Representing or Misrepresenting the Scriptures" and for the evening-gospel service, "Importance of Studying and Knowing God's Holy Word."

We welcome your presence to be with us and enjoy the Lord's day. The Lord's day belongs to Him and He has told us how to use it to glorify and magnify His Holy Name and when we use it for our own selfish use we rob God. The Lord's day is not a "week-end" but the "week-begins" and if you don't start the week off right, how can you expect God to bless you through the week. Go to church next Sunday.

We had another good day last Sunday, with an increased attendance in the Sunday school and two inspiring sermons addressed by the pastor. Several visitors were noted at the 11 o'clock and evening services. This we appreciated very much. Worship with us when your own pastor is out of the city.

Diphtheria Responsible For 812 Children Dying In Texas In 1932, Dr. Crymes Says

The State of Texas lost 812 of its children last year from just one preventable cause. The disease responsible for this loss was diphtheria. Dr. J. Melvin Crymes, County Health Officer, in commenting on this loss said, "Diphtheria could be practically eliminated if parents would take their children to their family physician and have them immunized as soon after they reach six months of age as possible."

Parents would not allow their children to walk in front of a moving train or expose them to any such danger, so why will they allow them to run the danger of contracting diphtheria. This immunization should be done as soon as possible as the winter months are the ones in which the most deaths occur and it takes some time for immunity to develop.

The money derived by the American Legion from this sponsorship is used to pay taxes and other expense of the Legion. So when you come to Tidwell's Shows you help a local organization.

Remember Tidwell's Shows are here only one week, October 23, and they come only once a year. Come out and enjoy yourself. Bring the kids and whole family. Nice rides! Good shows and clean amusement for all.

Twelve Boys Leave For Forest Camps From This County

Twelve Mitchell county boys, selected here Tuesday night for enlistment in government reforestation camps, were taken to Big Spring Wednesday morning for final examinations. From there they will be transferred to recruiting station for assignment to the camp in which they will work.

Colorado furnished five of the youths, Loraine three and Hyman and Westbrook two each. The Colorado recruits included Carroll P. Smith, J. W. Goodrich, Edgar Hazlewood, C. H. White and Bill Ewatt. The three from Loraine were F. M. Hubbard, Edgar Patterson and Bob Fatheree. Earl Jackson and Edward Duke, were from Hyman, and M. H. Hutchins and J. E. Conaway from Westbrook.

The youths were taken to Big Spring under direction of J. H. Greene, chamber of commerce secretary. Approximately forty applications for the work were on file at the chamber of commerce, from which the twelve were selected.

Importance Of Selecting Proper Foods Stressed By Surgeon In Radio Address

In another of his series of radio addresses from Studio YLQ, Dr. C. L. Root Sunday-afternoon spoke from the subject, "What the People Should Know About Food." Full text of the address follows:

Practically every automobile owner knows that for the most satisfactory service and lasting good to be gotten from his car, proper gasoline, proper lube, proper cup-grease, proper tire pressure, and sufficient water in the radiator and batteries must be maintained, and in order to do this a diligent watch with intelligent care must be given the car at all times.

Practically every 8 year old boy knows that the burning of gas, ignited by an electric spark, is what gives the car the power to run; that the lubricating oil is for oiling the pistons and bearings; that the cup-grease is for lubricating the different gears; that the water in the radiator is for keeping the motor cool; that the air in the casing tubes is for cushioning the weight of the car in air going on which it is borne over the streets and roads. Yet it is astounding how few adults, even in the circles of the supposedly educated, know practically anything about the food requirements of the human body—the purpose and results of the different classes of foods—the amount required of each class, etc. To begin with let us have a clean cut definition of food. Food is defined as whatever is taken into the system to supply nourishment, maintain the temperature of the body, furnish energy and provide material for growth. If the body is to be maintained—constantly repaired and built up by food stuff—then it stands to reason that before such food stuff can be intelligently selected for the body's repair a knowledge of different elements of the body must necessarily be at hand. Such knowledge is as old as chemistry. The body contains about 20 of the chemical elements, the most important being carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen, sodium, potassium, calcium, magnesium, chlorine, phosphorus and iron. Varied combinations of these elements form the bones, muscles, nerves, brain, blood, skin, in fact, all the different tissues making up the body. Just as long as these different tissues of the body are activated by that indescribable, undefinable, mysterious vital force called "life" oxidation and other chemical changes are constantly going on in the body by which every tissue is burned out or consumed, slowly but gradually, and eliminated as effluvia matter. The purpose of food to supply all these different tissues with repair material identical in structure with their own. Therefore proper food must contain those same chemical elements of which the body tissues are composed, viz: carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen, sodium, potassium, calcium, etc.

It seems that the All-Wise Creator in His infinite wisdom placed in nature's storehouse a bountiful supply of different foods peculiarly fitted for the body's need and repair. These foods are classed according to the preponderance of certain elements in their substance: 1st. The protein—meaning of first importance—contains nitrogen compounds. Lean meat, cheese, milk, eggs, nuts, peas and beans and etc. belong to this class. This is the only class capable of repairing tissue waste or building up new tissue. Cell Protoplasm contains nitrogen and no food that is minus nitrogen is capable of repairing or building up body cells. Class No. 2, the Carbohydrates contain a preponderance of carbohydrates, that is carbon, hydrogen and oxygen, but no nitrogen. They cannot build up tissue waste because they have no nitrogen. When oxidized in the tissues they furnish heat and energy for running the body machinery. Fruits, such as apples, oranges, and grapes, and vegetables such as wheat flour, potatoes, carrots, and beets belong to this class. Class No. 3, The Fats. These embrace those foods containing much fat. Lard, butter, olive oil, fat meat, egg yolk, nuts, some classes of fish such as shad, salmon and eels are fair representatives of this class. They furnish fuel to be oxidized in the tissues and give off heat and energy. Class No. 4. This takes in the inorganic substances of the body, such as calcium, sodium chloride, iodine, carbonates, phosphates, sulphur and iron. The bones are composed principally of calcium salts. The lack of a sufficient amount of calcium in the bones of a child together with the lack of proper sunlight and a certain vitamin, causes rickets. This disease is very frequent in the slums of cities where tall buildings preclude sunshine and where, account of poverty, an insufficient amount of milk is used. Sodium chloride (common table salt) is another important mineral of the body. Its office is to maintain proper density of the body fluids and cells. It is split up in the stomach to form hydrochloric acid—one of the stomach's digestants. A sufficient amount of this salt is supplied by nature as well as in the culinary preparation of our foods. It is of interest that carnivorous or flesh eating animals obtain an ample supply of this salt in the flesh and blood of the animals they eat, while the herbivorous or plant eating animals do not receive an adequate supply from the vegetables they eat and in consequence have such craving for salt that they will travel for hundreds of miles to a "salt lick" or a salt spring, as hunters of wild game appreciate. Iodine is another of the mineral elements needed in our food, but in very small quantity—yet indispensable. Its deficiency produces goiter. In the foods and water of a country there is usually ample supply of this element for the body's need, yet there are territories so lacking in iodine that an enormous percentage of the population suffer of goiter. The region of the great lakes, of Puget Sound and Switzerland are notable for such iodine deficiency and the prevalence of much goiter.

The phosphates also belong to this class. The phosphates, especially of sodium and potassium, are used by the kidneys to maintain the proper degree of alkalinity of the body. These salts play an important role in preventing that condition called acidosis. The alkaline phosphates are present in abundance in fruits and vegetables. The acid phosphates are found principally in red meats. These phosphates—both alkaline and acid—are known as the ash of oxidation. The carbonates—chiefly of sodium, potassium and magnesium—are concerned with the elimination of carbonic acid from the body. This they do by uniting with it in the tissues and by way of the blood stream they carry it to the lungs where it is released to be exhaled as carbon dioxide and water.

Sulphur too is found in the hair and nails of the body. We get our needed amount of this from the yolk of eggs, onions and from the cabbage family of vegetables. Iron is a very important element of the body. It is found in the hemoglobin of the blood and gives the red color to this liquid. The hemoglobin absorbs oxygen from the air in the lungs and this is carried by the blood stream to the tissues of the body where it is needed for oxidation. A sufficient amount of iron is usually taken in with such foods as red meats, the yolk of eggs, the green leafy vegetables—cabbage, asparagus and carrots—and with such fruits as grapes, raisins and apples.

The vitamins are substances of unknown composition which exist in minute quantities in the natural foods and are necessary to normal nutrition and growth. Their deficiency in diet is responsible for such diseases as xerophthalmia or dry eye, beri beri and sterility. I shall dismiss the subject of vitamins by saying that five different classes have been studied—perhaps there are others to be discovered. With reasonable quantities of fruits, vegetables and milk in your daily diet let the intake of vitamins be the least of your worries. Now let us summarize the requirements of a normal diet. It should contain an adequate amount of bulky residue containing foods to insure natural movement of the bowels.

We are living in an age of progress, and invention, in an age of speculation and constipation. The old fashion garden, the roast ear corner, and the pea patch that I was used to when I was a boy down in the forks of Bear creek in Williamson county I see nothing like in this country. And "the old rusty mill is still, Maggie," where I took a bushel of corn every Saturday afternoon, muleback, to have it ground into meal of the week's bread supply. Escuits every Sunday morning, and when the preacher came, was the flour bread limit in those good old days. The trend these days is to live upon fine white patent flour, meats, eggs, milk, sugars and fats and to use an inadequate amount of bulky, residue containing foods, such as fruits, vegetables, etc. The West Texas people know enough about the care of stock to know that when stock of any kind are fed concentrated food they must have also a supply of bulky, residue containing food if they do well. The same thing, obtains in the requirements of a normal diet for the human. So many, many people these days are consulting the doctor about laxatives, cathartics and purgatives that it seems to him that civilization and constipation is one and inseparable now and forever.

It has been my belief and teaching for years that practically every case of constipation—the old aged excepted—can be and should be cured by proper regulation of diet and habits and the first prime factor in such regulation is to begin with the use of bulky, residue containing foods and lots of water. Aperients, laxatives, cathartics and purgatives occasionally have their need and then when taken serve a useful purpose. The same is true of strychning, morphine, arsenic and carbolic acid. People abuse themselves more by taking laxatives, cathartics, etc., than by taking any other class of drugs. There are 15% of people who are of the impression that the bowels are very similar, in a way, to a shotgun using black powder charges or to the boiler flues over at the refinery, that after a few days use they need a good "clean out." That isn't true at all, but nevertheless they take a big dose of some kind of "clean out" dope and sure enough a clean out they get. Following this clean-out for two or three days the mucus membrane of the bowels is left inflamed, red and swollen, the peristaltic action of the muscles of the bowel is left sluggish or inactive. The bowel soon recovers, partly, from its needless injury. But again and again throughout the year this needless self punishment of adding insult to injury is repeated until finally sure enough constipation is established.

Another requirement of a normal diet is that it be a balanced diet. That is it should contain a correct proportionate part of each of the different classes of foods—a proper amount of protein food for tissue repair, a proper amount of the carbohydrates to furnish heat and energy, a proper amount of the fats to furnish fuel for the upkeep of the body temperature, a proper supply of the inorganic substances, vitamins and water and etc.

So convinced am I that an insufficient amount of protein in the diet is the cause of pellagra that I seldom prescribe any medicine at all in these cases, if seen early, but put them on an abundant diet rich in protein, such as beef steak, cheese, milk, frijole beans, etc., and practically every one gets well.

When we take food into our stomachs it is digested, absorbed and carried to the tissues by the blood stream and offered to the body cells by the medium of the lymph. In the tissues it is oxidized—that is burned. The same sum total of heat develops when a piece of iron rusts completely away in five years as when it is consumed in an atmosphere of oxygen in five minutes. So when protein food is consumed in our bodies by oxidation, heat is evolved and the end results of the oxidation is carbon dioxide, water and urea, leaving an ash just as anything else leaves an ash when burned outside the body. The carbon dioxide is poison, but is eliminated by the lungs. The urea is poisonous but is eliminated by the kidneys. The ash left is chiefly acid sodium phosphate which serves the purpose of keeping the body juices alkaline in reaction. If the tissues of the body become acid to the slightest degree death occurs, and serious illness results long before the alkalinity of the body is reduced to a neutral point. So if by improper food the body becomes less alkaline than it should be an illness called acidosis supervenes, the more common symptoms of which are lassitude, loss of appetite, headache, sleeplessness, muscle pain, sour stomach, sour disposition and not at all infrequent nausea and vomiting.

This condition is caused by taking too much food of the acid ash or too little food of the alkaline ash. It is strange, but true, that a big percent of these cases have an imprecise notion, an intuition, a craving or something else that leads them to take big doses of baking soda, and in a short time they get relief. They believe they have stomach trouble. The treatment is good, but the diagnosis is wrong. Perhaps they have no stomach trouble at all. The mere fact that baking soda brings relief is prima facie evidence that the system is suffering a lack of alkali. They need to eat a better balanced diet—more alkaline ash food, such as beets, cabbage, carrots, lettuce, apples, lemons, oranges.

One of the most important constituents of the body is water. It is present in every tissue in the body and constitutes more than two-thirds of the body weight. It is taken in with all the ordinary foods and drinks—3.2 not excepted. It is the universal solvent, constitutes the bulk of all the fluids and is the vehicle for all exchanges going on in the body. It is constantly being discharged by the lungs and skin, and at intervals by the kidneys and bowels. It is obvious that its frequent intake is necessary in order to maintain its proper balance. No doubt many people drink too sparingly of water. Sufficient water is needed in the body as a solvent for food, as a sewage fluid and as a factor in the regulation of body temperature.

If there is any question as to whether you are drinking too much water, drink more water. It will do you no harm. The water balance must be maintained. Never before as during the last quarter of a century has so much been written and said on the importance of the use of a balanced diet, and during this period the average life span has been lengthened—usually estimated from five to ten years. It is a known fact, strange but true, that Chinese children raised in America make much larger and taller men and women than those raised in their native land. This difference is ascribed to their being reared on a

DON D'GARMO BITES HELD AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH WEDNESDAY AT 4:30 P. M.

11-Year Old Son Of Mr. And Mrs. Hall DeGarmo Dies Tuesday Morning

Rites for Don Bruce DeGarmo, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hall DeGarmo, were conducted from First Presbyterian church Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock with the pastor, Rev. W. M. Elliott, assisted by Rev. L. A. Webb of First Methodist church, officiating. Burial was in a local cemetery.

The child died Tuesday night at 9:30 o'clock following a throat ailment and complications. He was a member of the fifth grade in Hutchinson school and his classmates attended the funeral services in a body.

In addition to his parents, the child is survived by two younger brothers, John, 9, and Marion, aged eleven months, and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce DeGarmo of Colorado and Mrs. Reeder of New Mexico, grand parents. The latter was unable to attend the services.

Pall bearers were E. W. Dorn, J. A. Pickens, L. I. Jarratt and Bill Martin.

Flower bearers were Otholene Pope, Dorothy Parquhar, Alice Womack, Lillie Busby, Opa! Smith, Karnes King and Muriel King.

Funeral arrangements were under direction of Kiker & Son.

better balanced ration in America than in China. It is also claimed by the best of authority that the average height of American women of today is three inches more than it was 50 years ago—due to a better balanced diet.

When we recall back in primeval times—the days before white flour, predigested cereals, canned ground meats, etc.—the average life of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob was 168 years, and that Methuselah lived to be 969 years old, it makes us wonder whether an unbalanced diet has played a major role down through these centuries in lessening life's little span. It might have been had Abraham lived out of a paper sack and tin cans he would have died of appendicitis before he was 21. Had Methuselah stuffed three times daily on hamburgers, Swiss cheese, potted ham and soda crackers Bright's disease and high blood pressure might have ended his career, before he was 40.

Now after all I've said—believe it or not—in order to prove that a well selected, balanced diet makes a nice wholesome, enjoyable dinner, I challenge any one or everyone of my listeners to just name the day, the hour and the place for you and me to meet at some good restaurant where we may have dinner together. I will select the menu and you pay the bill. Isn't that fair enough? The menu will read something like this:

Fruits—orange, bananas, grapes; Big juicy Porterhouse steak—broiled; Mashed potatoes; String beans, Spinach, beets, lettuce; Whole wheat bread; Butter; Coffee or tea with cream and sugar; Water. For dessert, sherbet.

In that steak we get the protein or nitrogen substance for repairing the tissue waste and building up new muscle—giving new life to the entire system. In the vegetables and fruits we get the carbohydrate substances for furnishing body energy. In the steak and in the butter we get beef fat and butter fat for oxidation fuel to supply body heat. In the tea or coffee we get cream and sugar, nothing else for good. In the beef steak, bread and butter we get a very concentrated diet. In the vegetables and fruits we get a very bulky, residue containing diet. In the red meat and bread we get an acid ash content, which is balanced by the alkali ash content of the vegetables and fruits. In the steak, also in some of the fruits and vegetables—especially spinach—we get sufficient iron for our blood. In this dinner there is a balanced protein, carbohydrate and fat; a balanced alkali ash and acid ash; a balanced concentrated food and bulky residue containing food; an adequate supply of all needed inorganic elements and vitamins.

Take to it, but have discretion. Let your horse sense tell you when you've eaten enough. Remember, Oiler said, "The platter kills more than the bowl." I thank you.

"Don't Bet On Love"
Thursday and Friday
"Don't Bet On Love" showing at the Palace Theatre Thursday and Friday is mainly a character study, yet it rings in a clever, romantic story, has more than its share of comedy, numbers several exciting moments and carries a punch of human interest that should be appreciated by all except those few who expect a super-special in every picture. With Lew Ayres and Ginger Rogers in the leads, it is well acted, never assumes pretentiousness and stays right in character all the way through. Altogether it is exceptionally entertaining. Lew Ayres and Ginger Rogers are supported by a cast headed by Charles Grapewin, Tom Duggan, Shirley Gray, and Myrna Kennedy.

"Crashing Broadway"
Saturday
"Crashing Broadway" is a fast moving Rex Bell western with a definite plot that has a lot of rhyme and reason to it and it does not indulge too much in the well-known heroics of a great majority of the "horse operas." How Bell with the aid of a traveling show brings the villain to justice should prove exciting fare for western fans. There is plenty of action, comedy, and fast riding, with love interest supplied by Doris Hill.

"College Humor"
Sunday and Monday
"College Humor" showing at the Palace Theatre Sunday and Monday, represents something different in college pictures. Its a comedy of youth—of college capers, fraternity frivolities and campus cavortings with plenty of tuneful and rhythmic music. You must hear Bing Crosby, the crooning prof, sing the hits "Learn to Croon" and "Old Ox Road." In addition, there are plenty of thrills offered to the football fans, since much of the action revolves around several football games. The famous Howard Jones, football coach at U. S. C., makes his appearance in pictures for the first time as football coach at Midwest University. Burns and Allen, that funny pair appearing in "International House," repeat again in this picture. All in all, it is grand entertainment—a picture you can't afford to miss. The imposing cast includes such favorites as Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Jack Oakie, Geo. Burns, Gracie Allen, Mary Carlisle, and Eddie Nugent.

"The Girl in 419"
Tuesday and Wednesday
"The Girl in 419" is a melodramatic romance, starring James Dunn and Gloria Stuart. All of the action takes place in a large metropolitan hospital. The story revolves around a beautiful, unidentified girl brought into the hospital unconscious—a victim of gangster vengeance. She is connected in some mysterious manner with the murder of one of the city's notorious characters. There are many exciting situations and thrills enough for anyone. This picture should prove especially attractive for those who prefer the mystery type pictures—and don't forget—this is bargain night.

"The Warrior's Husband"
Thursday and Friday

"The Warrior's Husband" is a really new and different entertainment. It is certainly amusing—a story of a race of fighting, ruling women, where men are the weakling stay-at-homes. It is good for a continuous laugh from start to finish.

Wants adds pay results.

MUSTANGS ROUTED FOR SHUT-OUT IN TILT WITH AMARILLO'S SANDSTORM

Unable to cope with an attack that crumpled their front in every sector, the touted Sweetwater Mustangs Saturday fell victim to a crushing shut-out at hands of the Amarillo Golden Sandstorm. The North Pan Handle gridsters ran up a score of 41 points to nothing by the Ponies.

Last year Sweetwater and Amarillo met to determine bi-district championship pennant, with the Sandies easily winning. The game was staged at Amarillo before a large crowd of fans.

The Wolves are scheduled to meet Sweetwater at Sweetwater on Friday, November 18. In annual conference tilt with the Mustangs last year, the Cantrellmen were the under dogs from the opening kick-off until close of the game.

Perhaps the most interesting and hardest fought game of baseball played in Colorado this season, will be staged next Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock on the West Side (old ball grounds), between the Business Women's Club and the Fidelis Circle of the Baptist church. They have had several practice tryouts, and the best timber of each side has been selected.

Baseball fans of the city will certainly enjoy this game. No one knows just what type of uniform will be worn. There will probably be a wide variety, but all will, no doubt, be worth seeing. A small admission fee will be charged. Children 10 cents and adults 20 cents.

Texas Ranges In Good Condition, Says Report Issued By Dept. of Agriculture

The United States department of agriculture in its October report, issued at Austin Friday, reported livestock ranges in Texas at 80 per cent normal. This condition was compared with 91 per cent at the same time one year ago and 83.2 per cent the ten year average.

"Rains during August and early September have improved range conditions in most areas and on October 1 prospects for range feed are better than they were a month ago," stated the report.

"Range conditions improved 3 points during September and is now rated as 80 per cent of normal compared with 91 per cent a year ago and 83.2 per cent the ten year average. During the past ten years ranges have averaged an improvement of 4 points during September.

"Although cattle have been affected adversely by poor ranges, they have held up well considering the drought conditions that have prevailed, and stock, generally, improved during September. In the coastal breeding area and in South Texas cattle are in good shape, many being in shape for market. However, the fall improvement to market, generally will be late. Feeding operations will be far below those of last year. The condition of cattle is rated at 81 per cent of normal compared with 88 per cent a year ago and 85.3 per cent the ten year average.

"The Edwards plateau region is badly in need of moisture. Sheep range condition declined 2 points during the month and is now rated at 69 per cent of normal compared with 96 last year and 85.0 the ten year average. Prospects are for poor winter grazing and there promises to be a shortage of feed in the sheep area before spring.

"Sheep conditions declined 1 point during September and on October 1 is rated at 76 per cent of normal compared with 88 last October and 87.5 the ten year average. Shearing is underway and it is anticipated that a larger than usual number of sheep will be shorn this fall."

29TH YEAR—NUMBER 3

WOLVES TAKE VICTORY IN INITIAL CONFERENCE TILT

BADGERS UNABLE TO COPE WITH CANTRILLMEN AFTER DEFENSIVE ATTACK OPENS

Locals, However, Nose Out Opponents By Marginal Lead Of One Point

The Colorado Wolves met and defeated the McCamey Badgers Saturday on a field that was wet and slick, by a score of 7-6. Throughout the first half the Wolves seemed to be wondering what it was all about, but in the last half came back strong to clearly outplay the Badgers.

Colorado kicked off to McCamey and in successive first downs the Badgers carried the ball back to the Colorado five yard strip where the Wolf defense stiffened and held for downs, the ball going over to the Wolves after Reed, McCamey quarterback passed over the goal line on the fourth down. The Wolves kicked out and the Badgers started another long march down the field to the goal line again. Practically the entire first quarter was played in Wolf territory.

Early in the second quarter with the ball on the twenty yard line Stagner got away behind perfect interference to carry the ball to the thirty yard line before he was forced out of bounds by the Badger secondary. Immediately after Morrison passed over the center of the line to Stagner, who crossed the goal line standing up with no one anywhere near him. Red Church was called back from his position at tackle to make the try for the extra point after touchdown. The passback from center was perfect and Church kicked the ball squarely between the goal posts, for what proved to be the winning point of the game.

On the kick-off after touchdown McCamey was halted only momentarily and on line plunges and end runs soon carried the ball over for a touchdown soon after the second quarter was over. Reed missed the try for point after touchdown and the scoring for the day was over.

Coach Cantrill seemed to instill his boys with plenty of fight during the half for they came back strong in the third quarter to carry the ball to the Badgers five yard line where it was lost on a fumble. Reed kicked out and the Wolves started right back to the goal line, where they were held for downs. Again the Badgers kicked out and the march to the goal was again started.

The Wolves got many bad breaks in the game, but perhaps the worst one was when Morrison kicked out from behind his own goal line in the fourth quarter, and the ball hit on the thirty yard line and rolled to the McCamey forty-five yard line, and the McCamey safety after being hit hard by a Wolf, fumbled, the fumble being recovered by a Colorado man.

CORPS OF APPRAISERS HERE MONDAY, TUESDAY

A corps of twelve men, appraisers for the Federal Land Bank at Houston, were operating in Mitchell county Monday and Tuesday to facilitate completion of final inspection of farms on which loan applications had been filed. The men left for Big Spring Wednesday morning. They are working under direction of Frank Lochridge of Breckenridge, district appraiser.

Old City National Building, Formerly Scene Of Much Activity, Stands Vacant

The old City National Bank building, at corner West Second and Walnut street, for many years the pride of Colorado as one of the largest and most modern structures in this part of the State, stands today with only 1 tenant. The few offices being maintained on second floor of the building have been vacated, due to announcement from the owners that the heating plant would not be operated during the coming winter months. Offices of Western Union remain on ground floor.

Erected several years ago as home of the City National Bank, the building was for years home of one of the largest banks in this section. The entire top floor was occupied to capacity by tenants and it was not uncommon for several prospective tenants to have rental applications on file.

With consolidation of the City and Colorado National Banks last year, the latter moved from its old home into the larger and more modern building, erected a few years before by the Colorado National. The piercer absorbed the Colorado National Bank leaving the one financial institution in operation.

Thos. R. Smith, who for a number of years has maintained law offices in the old City National building, last week moved into new quarters in the new City National Bank building. Dr. M. B. Nall, dental surgeon located in the old building several years, is moving into new offices in the 200 block on Walnut street, and W. H. Garrett, attorney, is leaving his former office for new quarters in the Bodzin building on West Second.

The building is still among the best in Colorado and the offices being vacated were desirable in every respect. Only reason given for the general exodus is assigned to announcement by C. H. Lasky, president of the City National Bank, owner of the property, that the heating plant would not be operated during the cold months soon to ensue.

MIDLAND, NEXT OPPONENT FOR THE WOLVES, NOSES OUT BIG LAKE GRIDSTERS

Cantrillmen Scheduled For Another Practice Game Friday Afternoon

In event the Cantrillmen annex another victory this afternoon they will be called upon to put up a stubborn fight, comparisons having to do with prowess of the Colorado and Midland elevens indicate. At any rate the tilt, to be staged at Midland, promises to be a tussle with victory flitting with almost anybody.

While the Wolves managed to get away with the marginal lead of one point to claim victory in first conference game at McCamey Saturday afternoon, the Midlanders were staging a similar stunt in battle with the Big Lake eleven. Score in the latter was 14-13, with one of the most formidable Class B clubs in Southwest Texas opposing the Bull Dogs.

Big Jim Cantrill realizes that his men are facing a crucial fight in the game with Midland. Last year the locals were victorious by the margin of three touchdowns. Whether victory goes to Colorado or Midland, fans are assured a well balanced fight with the opposing elevens equalled in many departments.

Several Colorado fans plan witnessing the game. The distance to Midland is slightly over one-half of that from here to McCamey.

SEVERAL BUILDINGS IN CITY ERECTED BY HIM

J. M. Morgan of Big Spring, building contractor erecting both bank buildings, the Earnest-Thomas building, municipal building and other structures in Colorado, paid the city a visit Friday. He spent several hours here on business and greeting friends.

License to wed was issued H. N. Koen and Miss Vernon Feaster, both of Colorado, at Sweetwater Tuesday.

'SLEEPING SICKNESS' HAS DEVELOPED IN LIVESTOCK HERE, DR. COOPER STATES

Disease Reported In Many Parts of Texas; Farmer Stricken at Amarillo

Encephalitis or "sleeping sickness" among livestock, that during the past few weeks has developed in many sections of Texas, has made its way into Mitchell county, according to report given The Record recently by Dr. W. M. Cooper, local D.V.S. The animal was destroyed, according to Cooper. Presence of the disease was also reported near Big Spring.

It was disclosed at Amarillo Friday that one dath from anthrax, a disease prevalent among livestock in the Panhandle, occurred there during the week, and that a Briscoe farmer, suffering from the disease, was under care in an Amarillo hospital.

B. E. Lowrey, 55, of the Wayside community near Amarillo succumbed after contracting the disease while treating cattle. S. R. Turner, of Silverton, is the second victim, now receiving treatment there. He was reported improving, following the administration of a serum rushed from Detroit.

Livestock throughout the Panhandle-South Plains area have been hit by anthrax and encephalitis, or "sleeping sickness." State veterinarians say both have caused a good many deaths, although figures were not available here. State livestock commission veterinarians are fighting the diseases on the South Plains. Antitoxins are being administered successfully. Both diseases will be checked by cold weather.

ZOLLIE STEAKLEY HINTS RACE FOR PROSECUTOR

Zollie Steakley, Sweetwater attorney, frequently mentioned as a probable candidate for 32nd district attorney, dropped hint during an address at the Lions Club here Friday that such was his plans. Referring to Dell Barber as a probable aspirant, Steakley announced that he would appreciate cooperation of the club membership in eliminating the Colorado man from the contest.

THE MACON SEEN OVER CITY EARLY SATURDAY

The 'Macon, huge naval dirigible, passed over Colorado at 12:45 Saturday morning enroute from its home hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., to the Pacific Coast. The craft is a sister ship of the Akron, seen over Colorado several months ago, not long before it went down into the Atlantic during a storm.

SEVENTH GRADE STUDENTS TO COMPETE FOR ANNUAL AMERICAN LEGION TROPHY

Contest Sponsored By Oran C. Hooker Post Outlined In Chapel Addresses

Fourth annual American Legion award contest in which trophies are to be awarded the boy and girl of seventh grade making highest percentages in five distinct classifications of school and citizenship factors, was opened Monday morning during chapel program at junior high school.

Members of the sixth grade, who next year are to be invited to enter competition for the awards, were present at the program along with members of the seventh grade. Addresses were delivered by Hays Holman, principal of the school; J. T. Howell, commander of Oran C. Hooker Post, American Legion, and W. S. Cooper.

There is no greater honor to which any boy or girl may strive than to successfully meet conditions under which the awards are to be made. Howell stated, after having outlined conditions of the contest. Students are to be graded on their records in honor, courage, scholarship, leadership and service, each counting twenty points in a possible rating of one hundred percent.

Even though the coveted trophy may not be won, there is much to be gained by every seventh grade student entering into the contest and availing himself of the opportunity thus afforded to cultivate high ideals of citizenship and Americanism, the speakers outlined.

Howell announced that within the near future he hoped to announce display of a scroll of honor on which names of the three boys and girls already having won the medals would be written, along with winners each successive year as the Legion continued this feature of initiative in encouraging good citizenship among the youth of Colorado.

FIRE LOSSES LOWER IN TEXAS DUE TO STATE'S FIGHT ON ARSON, CLAIM

Fire losses in Texas have gone to considerably lower figures during the past year, due largely to aggressive prosecution of arson indictments, according to Raymond S. Mauk, State fire insurance commissioner, in communication received this week by The Record.

There were a total of eighteen verdicts of guilty returned in Texas courts during the year against persons under arson indictments, Mauk declared. He estimated average annual losses had seen a reduction of from 30 to 40 per cent.

The commissioner cautioned against fire hazards often caused when stoves are put up

Wolves Win—

But the ball was called back to the thirty yard line where the officials ruled that the ball hit out of bounds and bounded back into the playing field.

The outstanding player in the line for either team was Captain Church of the Wolves. He was through the opposing line time after time to throw the McCamey ball carriers for losses, and really stacked the plays up when they came through the line. Stagner was the outstanding backfield man of the day, he made the much bragged on Bud Reed look like an amateur. The stands were constantly reminding the Badgers to watch Stagner. If there had been a dry field instead of the mud that was present Stagner would really have given the McCamey fans something to worry about. McCright, new at the end position is learning fast, and is capable of making a real defensive end, and has possibilities of making a good offensive end. The Wolves travel to Midland this week-end to play the Midlanders in the last non-conference game away from home. Midland was in class A last year, but withdrew to play class B this year. The Wolves handed them a 26-0 beating last year and are expected to give them a hard fight again this year. The game is to be called Friday afternoon, at three o'clock at Lackey Stadium. A large following of local fans is expected to make the trip to Midland.

STAND BY THE CHURCH

The years of depression have hit the church with telling effect, leaving her ministers sorely crippled as to the material things of life. Perhaps Colorado has been an exception to the general rule, but reports from the country as a whole strongly indicate that acute need is being experienced in many fields of religious activity. This is true in several counties of the North Texas Panhandle, due to a series of crop failures.

In reflecting on this situation, The Dallas Morning News for Sunday says:

Despite sporadic—and not always verified—reports that financial difficulties have caused many people to turn to religion and to attend church more regularly, the effect of the depression years upon the financial condition of American churches has been devastating. The larger denominational bodies have deficits running into the millions, hundreds of small churches have locked their doors, and many churches probably would lose their property except for the lenience of creditors or the fact that the creditors could not dispose of such property if they took it over by foreclosure.

Ministers over the country have suffered severely. Most have taken salary cuts of 5 to 50 per cent, and the income of some in the smaller communities is little above the rate for charity relief. Indeed, many have been told that all they could expect until better times would be the use of the parsonage, along with an occasional special collection and the donation of food by farmer members. Other pastors suffer from salary arrears. One denomination recently announced that in a certain State its churches owed their ministers more than they had paid them in 1932 and admitted that "this debt will never be paid."

Such conditions have provided new ammunition for those who for years have contended that we have too many churches and that in many communities the duplication of churches weakens the effectiveness of them all. The present financial plight of the churches also lends argument to those who would restrict the activity of the churches more closely to religious functions. Some of the skyscraper churches of the large cities are facing bankruptcy, and the bonds of million-dollar churches with swimming pools and other recreational facilities have become unmarketable.

With the return of better times the plight of the churches will be less severe. A heavy burden of debt, however, will be carried over in many cases, and there will still be occasion for considering the problem of church consolidation and that of determining upon a more satisfactory definition of church functions.

desire attained a fairy dell appeared, carpeted with refreshing coolness, with towering shelving as background and murmuring stream at ones feet. Here a delicious feast was spread, interrupted only by the shadow of bird wings, as a whippoorwill started in the quiet bower, flew dreamily by. A call insistent clear and then a tree-top view of phoebe, the builder of the mysterious nest.

Strange, interesting adventures marked the homeward path bringing to a perfect end a day in the woods.

Blest be our woods of hemlock, maple, pine

Balsam and birch dear Lord our woods and thine

Blest be their bubbling springs, their rippled lakes,

Their ponds and every laughing brook that makes

Rainbows and foam and crystal homes for trout

Blest be the trails that wander in and out

Among gray boulders drowned in soft green seas

Of velvet moss, Oh, blest be all of these.

Blest be the woods and they that dwell therein

The scolding squirrel and his gentler kin

The friendly chipmunk and the timid hare

Blest be the graceful mink, the shambling bear

The beaver on his dam and the drumming grouse

The hawk that loves the sky, the white-foot mouse

The antlered buck that paces proud and tall

With doe and dappled fawn, blest be they all.

Lord, bless the woods for perfect loveliness

For balm that heals the soul in care and stress

Keep them forever fragrant, cool and sweet

From thunderbolt and flame, from gale and sleet

From avalanche, from torrent, drouth and blight

From all that is unclean, from ruthlessness

That gives to desolation valley gleer

And mountainside, God, bless our woods! Amen.

Rev. Holmes Nichols, former Baptist pastor here sends in on this subject of The Woods, the following:

"I want to get out yonder, Where, in Nature's own retreat, The richest gems of heaven

Decked the Daisies at my feet; Where busy bees and singing birds Their richest treasures bring.

And lay them at the Master's feet While joyfully they sing; O, for the West, where peace and rest

Go jogging side by side; 'Tis but a pace to the better place By the Scriptures glorified.

Holmes Nichols.

Some wise (?) guy over at Stamford connected in some way with the W.T.C.C. sends in this to this column:

"The land of the boundless Plain Where the Prairie Dog kneels on the back of his heels

And fervently prays for rain.

The land of the sand-storm and sand Where the hot wind blows just after it snows.

And the horse is too small for his brand."

The land that's a stranger to water Where the wind is so strong, it shoves the freight trains along

And a man can spit a mile and a quarter—providing he spits with the wind."

We'll conclude with

A cotton-tail drank some 3.2 beer

And in a fight bit off the bulldog's ear

A woodpecker drank some number 3

And pecked all the bark off the hickory tree

A bullfrog also sopped up some 3.2

And in place of jumping, he nearly flew

A mouse he drank some for fun

And said I'm a cat licking son-of-a-gun.

LA TERTULIA
La Tertulia met at the usual class period, Oct. 16. The meeting was presided over by the president. Roll was called by the secretary.

and answered by a Spanish proverb. The drama, "La Lavandera de Napolean," was read by the class in English. Two reports were given.
"Spanish Women" was given by Vayr. He Erwin and "Spanish Ideals of Today" was given by Blanche Mackey. Both reports were rendered well.

"THE VOCATION I LIKE BEST"
The following paragraph was written by Ewing Lee, a pupil in eighth grade English.
"I am studying to be a mechanical engineer. This type of engineering deals with machinery of various kinds. To be a mechanical engineer I must know an enormous amount of mathematics in all forms. I like this vocation for the simple reason that it deals largely with machinery, chemistry and physics. Contrary to the general opinion, this type of engineering does not deal with automatic engineering. Mechanical engineering deals largely with various metals and their strength, tenacity, weight and color, and with chemicals and their actions on various metals. Mechanical engineering requires an extensive education, but if it is learned well it pays as well as any vocation there is today."

JOKES
Margie Taylor: "What's a stuffed olive."
Juanita Long: "A pickle with a tail light."
"Dear teacher," wrote the indignant mother, "You must not whack Mumpsy. He is a delicate child and isn't used to it. We never hit him at home except in self defense."
Bootblack: "Shine your shoes, mister?"
Red Church: "No."
B. B.: "Shine 'em so you can see your face in 'em."
R. C.: "No."
B. B.: "Coward."

Ed Morrison seated in a street car opposite Doris O'Brien, rather annoyed by his constant attentions in the way of a smile, a nod of the head, and "Hi! Hi!"
Losing patience she at length questioned him with:
D. O.: "Are you married?"
E. M.: "I am that."
D. O.: "Do you know what I would do if you were my husband?"
E. M.: "No!" he admitted, "what would you do?"
D. O.: "I'd give you a dose of poison."
E. M.: "Would you?" he continued "and do you know what I would do if you were my wife?"
D. O.: "No" she replied. But she was totally unprepared for the answer.
E. M.: "I would take it."

"OUR AUTHORS"
The life and work of John Galsworthy were more than that of any other writer of our generation, balanced, sane and rich. A man of head and heart, he was a lyric worshipper of beauty, a dispassionate but tender interpreter of the human soul; and an ironic critic of society, capable of an indignation that moved men to act.
Galsworthy did not begin his career as a writer until he was twenty-eight. He hated the law for which he had been destined and in 1893 he deserted, to travel around the world. Aboard the sailing vessel Torrens he met First-Officer Joseph Conrad, and the two became lasting friends over the manuscript of "Almayer's Folly." In London again, the future Mrs. Galsworthy, spurred Galsworthy himself to write.
"If one has been brought up at an English public school and University, is addicted to sport and travel, has a small independent income, and is a briefless barrister, one will not take literature seriously, but one might like to please her of whom one is fond." I began. In two years I wrote nine tales. They had every fault. These stories, published as "From the Four Winds" under the name of John Sinjohn, he later withdrew from circulation, along with his first novel, "Jocelyn." "Villa Ruben" in 1900 and "The Island Pharisee" in 1901 first promised the future Galsworthy.
Only six years later appeared both "The Man of Property"—his greatest novel—and his first and important play, "The Silver Box." From then on the story of his career is one of constant if uneven development, of amazing fecundity, of some reachings its peak in 1922 with the publication of "The Forsyte Saga," probably the most widely read classic of modern times, and in the same year, of his famous play, "Loyalties."
In the meantime "Justice," poignant and accusing, had done much to change prison conditions in England; his passionate novel, "The Dark Flower," had offended the prudish; "Beyond" and "Five Tales" had emerged from the turmoil of the war. Increasing fame did nothing to disturb his harmoniousness and depth. His latest novel, "Flowering Wilderness," appeared a few weeks before his death on February 1st of this year.

The lyric "Indian Summer of a Forsyte," from "Five Tales," according to Leon Shalit, "would alone assure his immortality."

The "A" class in English are just about to finish the very interesting story of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" which they have been studying for the last three weeks.
The "B" class in English has been studying from the first of school about the different kind of sentences.
Both English classes have been given a list of books from which they may read and get points on their grade. They have to have at least ten points before the midterm.
The Algebra class has taken up degrees. They are studying the complement, the acute, the obtuse and the right angle.

HOME ECONOMICS NEWS
Following up the work on personal hygiene and grooming the home economic classes have been studying rules for the development of personality and have a rating scale by which each girl may check herself and find out if she is strong or weak in some particular personality trait. Each one has found that there is a great deal of room for improvement and is working on her weak traits.
For the past week the first year clothing class has been studying seams. A demonstration on the different kinds of seams was given and then each girl attempted to make a plain seam for a selyedge-edge, a blanket stitched, and piked. A bound seam, silk seam, overcast, number of girls have been practicing on seams at home in the afternoons and have found the work to be much easier after practice.
The different household duties are performed by members of the class. The duties shift each week giving each practical management of the different phases of home work.
A number of the second year girls have chosen interesting and practical problems for home projects. Arabella Sorrells is refinishing a living room; Melba Slaton is planning her fall wardrobe and making her clothes; Erna Lou Merrill is refinishing the floors of her home. Eleanor Hagler is taking charge of the entire household for three weeks while her mother is away; Dorothy Daughtrey is planning and making draperies for her home; and Katherine Sue Motley is working to reduce the amount spent on food each month. These are a few of the interesting projects chosen by members of this class.
As a class project the second year girls are to make infants garments for the needy. The material is being furnished by one of the ladies Sunday School classes of the city.
The third year class has completed the study of the Unit on Family and Community Relationships. During earlier times the women were not allowed any privileges—the men had complete control over everything. Gradually the status of woman has changed until she may hold positions now that were formerly open to men only. Each girl is glad that she is living now.

Nagging Pains are Warning Signals
TEMPORARY pain relief remedies may save you much suffering at the moment, but putting a mask over a warning signal does not clear up the condition it was telling you to avoid.
When periodic pains, due to a weak, run-down condition, distress you, treatment for the cause of the trouble should be started without delay. Take Careful to build up against the nagging symptoms of ordinary womanly ailments. So many women praise CAREFUL, it must be good to have the widespread use that it has today. Sold at drug stores. Put Your Liver To Work--Make This Test

You can't feel well and strong unless your liver furnishes your stomach and bowels plenty of fresh bile every day. Without bile food doesn't digest properly—it just ferments and decays—constipation, gas, sour stomach, headaches and nervousness follow.
Don't be misled. Calomel, salts, oils, mineral waters, laxative pills, etc. have no effect whatever on the liver. There are only two generally recognized substances which actually cause a sluggish liver to increase its production of bile, Sargol Soft Mass Pills contain both of them.
Unless you have tried Sargol Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of their effect—you feel stronger, healthier, happier—life and color return to faded eyes and cheeks—appetite and digestion improve rapidly.
