STUBBLE remaining on field after harvest of grain sorghum seeded in 20" rows. Stubble not only is offering protection from wind erosion but was very effective in holding the snow on the field. Picture taken on Harvest Queen Mills farm 7 miles west of Plains.

Snow Benefits Farmers

The moisture received from the nine inch snow last week-end, will be of great benefit to farm and ranch lands in the Yoakum Soil Conservation District according to Wyatt Lipscomb, Work Unit Conservationist. The snow is of greater benefit than most snows received in this area since there was very little wind to drift the snow into piles.

Usually snow comes to this area along with blizzards and high winds which drift the snow into areas with protection and sweep bare areas clear. When this type snow comes over in the fields can be very valuable in holding the snow on the field where it can do the most good.

The moisture at this time should be very valuable to some fields which are sown to winter cover crops such as rye as the moisture will enable them to continue and make good growth during the spring.

We all hesitate to think about it but nevertheless the windy sandstorm season will be here soon. Some fields in the District are well protected with winter cover crops since the fall moisture this past year was just right for these crops and some are protected with crops of good heavy stubble. Some fields with stubble in narrow rows should be in good shape for the candy season.

The snow cover on the ground and the moisture in the surface of the soil and the alternate freezing and thawing of the surface of the soil tend to open up the surface soil so that it takes moisture readily but at the same time the loose surface may tend to blow when the winds come.

Fields with a good heavy stubble can probably be protected until well along in the spring if the stubble is allowed to stand. Stubble can be of no value for erosion control if it is plowed under, grazed off or otherwise destroyed. If some plowing is necessary to open up the soil, this tillage can be done with flat sweeps or other implements which will leave the stubble standing to protect the land.

Where stubble is thin some type of tillage will be necessary in order to roughen the soil surface to help slow down the speed of the wind along the surface. In some cases soils can be chiseled to roughen the surface and still

Clyde Trout To Seek Re-Election As Commissioner

Clyde Trout county commissioner of precinct 4, this week is announcing that he will seek a second term in office. His formal statement follows:
To the voters of Precinct 4, I take this opportunity to ask you to elect me to a second term as your commissioner.
I am very grateful to every one for the help and cooperation that you have given me.
It has been a pleasure to serve you the past three years. I am willing and ready to help you at all times. I believe you have always known how I stood on any issue that came up.
I feel I will be better qualified to serve you by the experience I have gained.
Yours for a fair and impartial administration.
Clyde Trout

leave the stubble on the surface. In many cases the land will need to be listed but in listing the stubble can be left on the surface to help control wind erosion.

Fields which are bare can be a very difficult problem. These fields may require several tillage operations to keep them from blowing. Each of these operations open up the soil so that moisture is lost and if additional moisture does not come during the spring months they may become too dry to plow and then nothing can be done to prevent blowing until more moisture is available.

The Yoakum Soil Conservation District has a set of large flat sweeps which can be used on a carrier or can be put on your tool bar. These sweeps can be used to plow under the stubble and leave it on the surface.

Anyone who would be interested in using these sweeps is welcome to us them. If you would be interested in using them contact your District Supervisor or someone at the Soil Conservation Service Office in Plains.

Poll Tax Receipt Key To Voting; Deadline Jan. 31st

January 31 is the deadline for Yoakum County voters to pay poll tax in preparation for a full year of government and possible county bond elections, according to Sheriff Robert Chambliss, who also serves as tax assessor collector.

In addition to the state elections Yoakum citizens will vote for several county officers and probably for at least one bond issue that appears at the present time to be in the offing. That is for a proposed hospital or clinic at Plains, a petition for which is currently being circulated.

The poll tax is the key to use of the ballot box and exclusive admission to precinct conventions, said Chambliss. "January 31 is also the final day for persons entitled to poll tax exemption certificates to get them," he said.

Less than 500 persons have paid their poll tax to date, noted the sheriff.

A total of six county offices will be filled in the November 4 general election. Positions to be contested include county clerk, county treasurer, county judge, commissioners of Precinct 2 and 4 and justice of the peace for precinct 2.

One more office incumbent revealed his intentions to seek re-election this year, B. J. Smith, who serves as justice of peace, announced this week that he intended to be a candidate for the post which he has held for the past several years.

In addition, Paul Loe of Tokio and Johnnie Fitzgerald of Plains are announcing this week their candidacies for commissioner of precinct 4.

Those who earlier had announced they would be candidates in this year's elections on a county level include John Derryberry, Jerry Paquin and Don Hancock, all for county judge; J. W. O. Alldredge, incumbent, county and district clerk; Mrs. Vicie Hinkle, county treasurer; and H. C. Cotton, commissioner.

Nine Inches of Snow Greeted with Mixed Feelings—Mostly Good—by Residents

A BLANKET OF SNOW covered the lawn of the court house Monday, as this picture was taken in the aftermath of a two-day snow storm which resulted in an estimated nine inches. Outside of difficulties in transportation, and shoveling of walks and driveways, the snow was causing much favorable comment. REVIEW Photo

Business Growth In County Shown In Current Report

"There are 49 more business concerns in Yoakum County today than there were 2 years ago," says Wayne A. Clark, manager of the Amarillo office of Dun & Bradstreet. Basing his facts upon the figures in the current January, 1958 Reference Book, Clark points out that in 1956, 132 businesses were listed by Dun & Bradstreet; today there are 181 enterprises.

The Reference Book incidentally, lists only manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and some service companies, such as laundries and gasoline service stations. It does not included some of the service and "professional" businesses such as barber and beauty shops, real estate and stock brokers. Thus the figure for businesses in Yoakum County would actually be higher than the 181 quoted above.

School Study Unit To Meet Monday For Organization

An organization meeting of the newly formed Yoakum County Hale-Aikin Committee, set-up to join other such groups in a state-wide study of the schools, has been called for Monday night, January 13, at 8 p.m. at the junior high cafeteria, in Denver City by Supt. J. W. Jones temporary chairman, said.

Jones said at this time the organization of the committee would be completed and a chairman named. Decision will also be made as to whether sub-committees will be appointed to work on various segments of the study, or whether the overall committee will work together as a group.

FORFEITED LAND SALE SCHEDULED FOR JANUARY 21

Even though $12.5 million in Veterans' Land Bonds were sold in December, the quickest way for exservicemen to participate in the Veterans' Land Program is to buy forfeited land. Land Commissioner Earl Rudder said today.

The next sale of forfeited land is scheduled for January 21.

Fifty-eight tracts in 21 Texas counties will be offered for sale then.

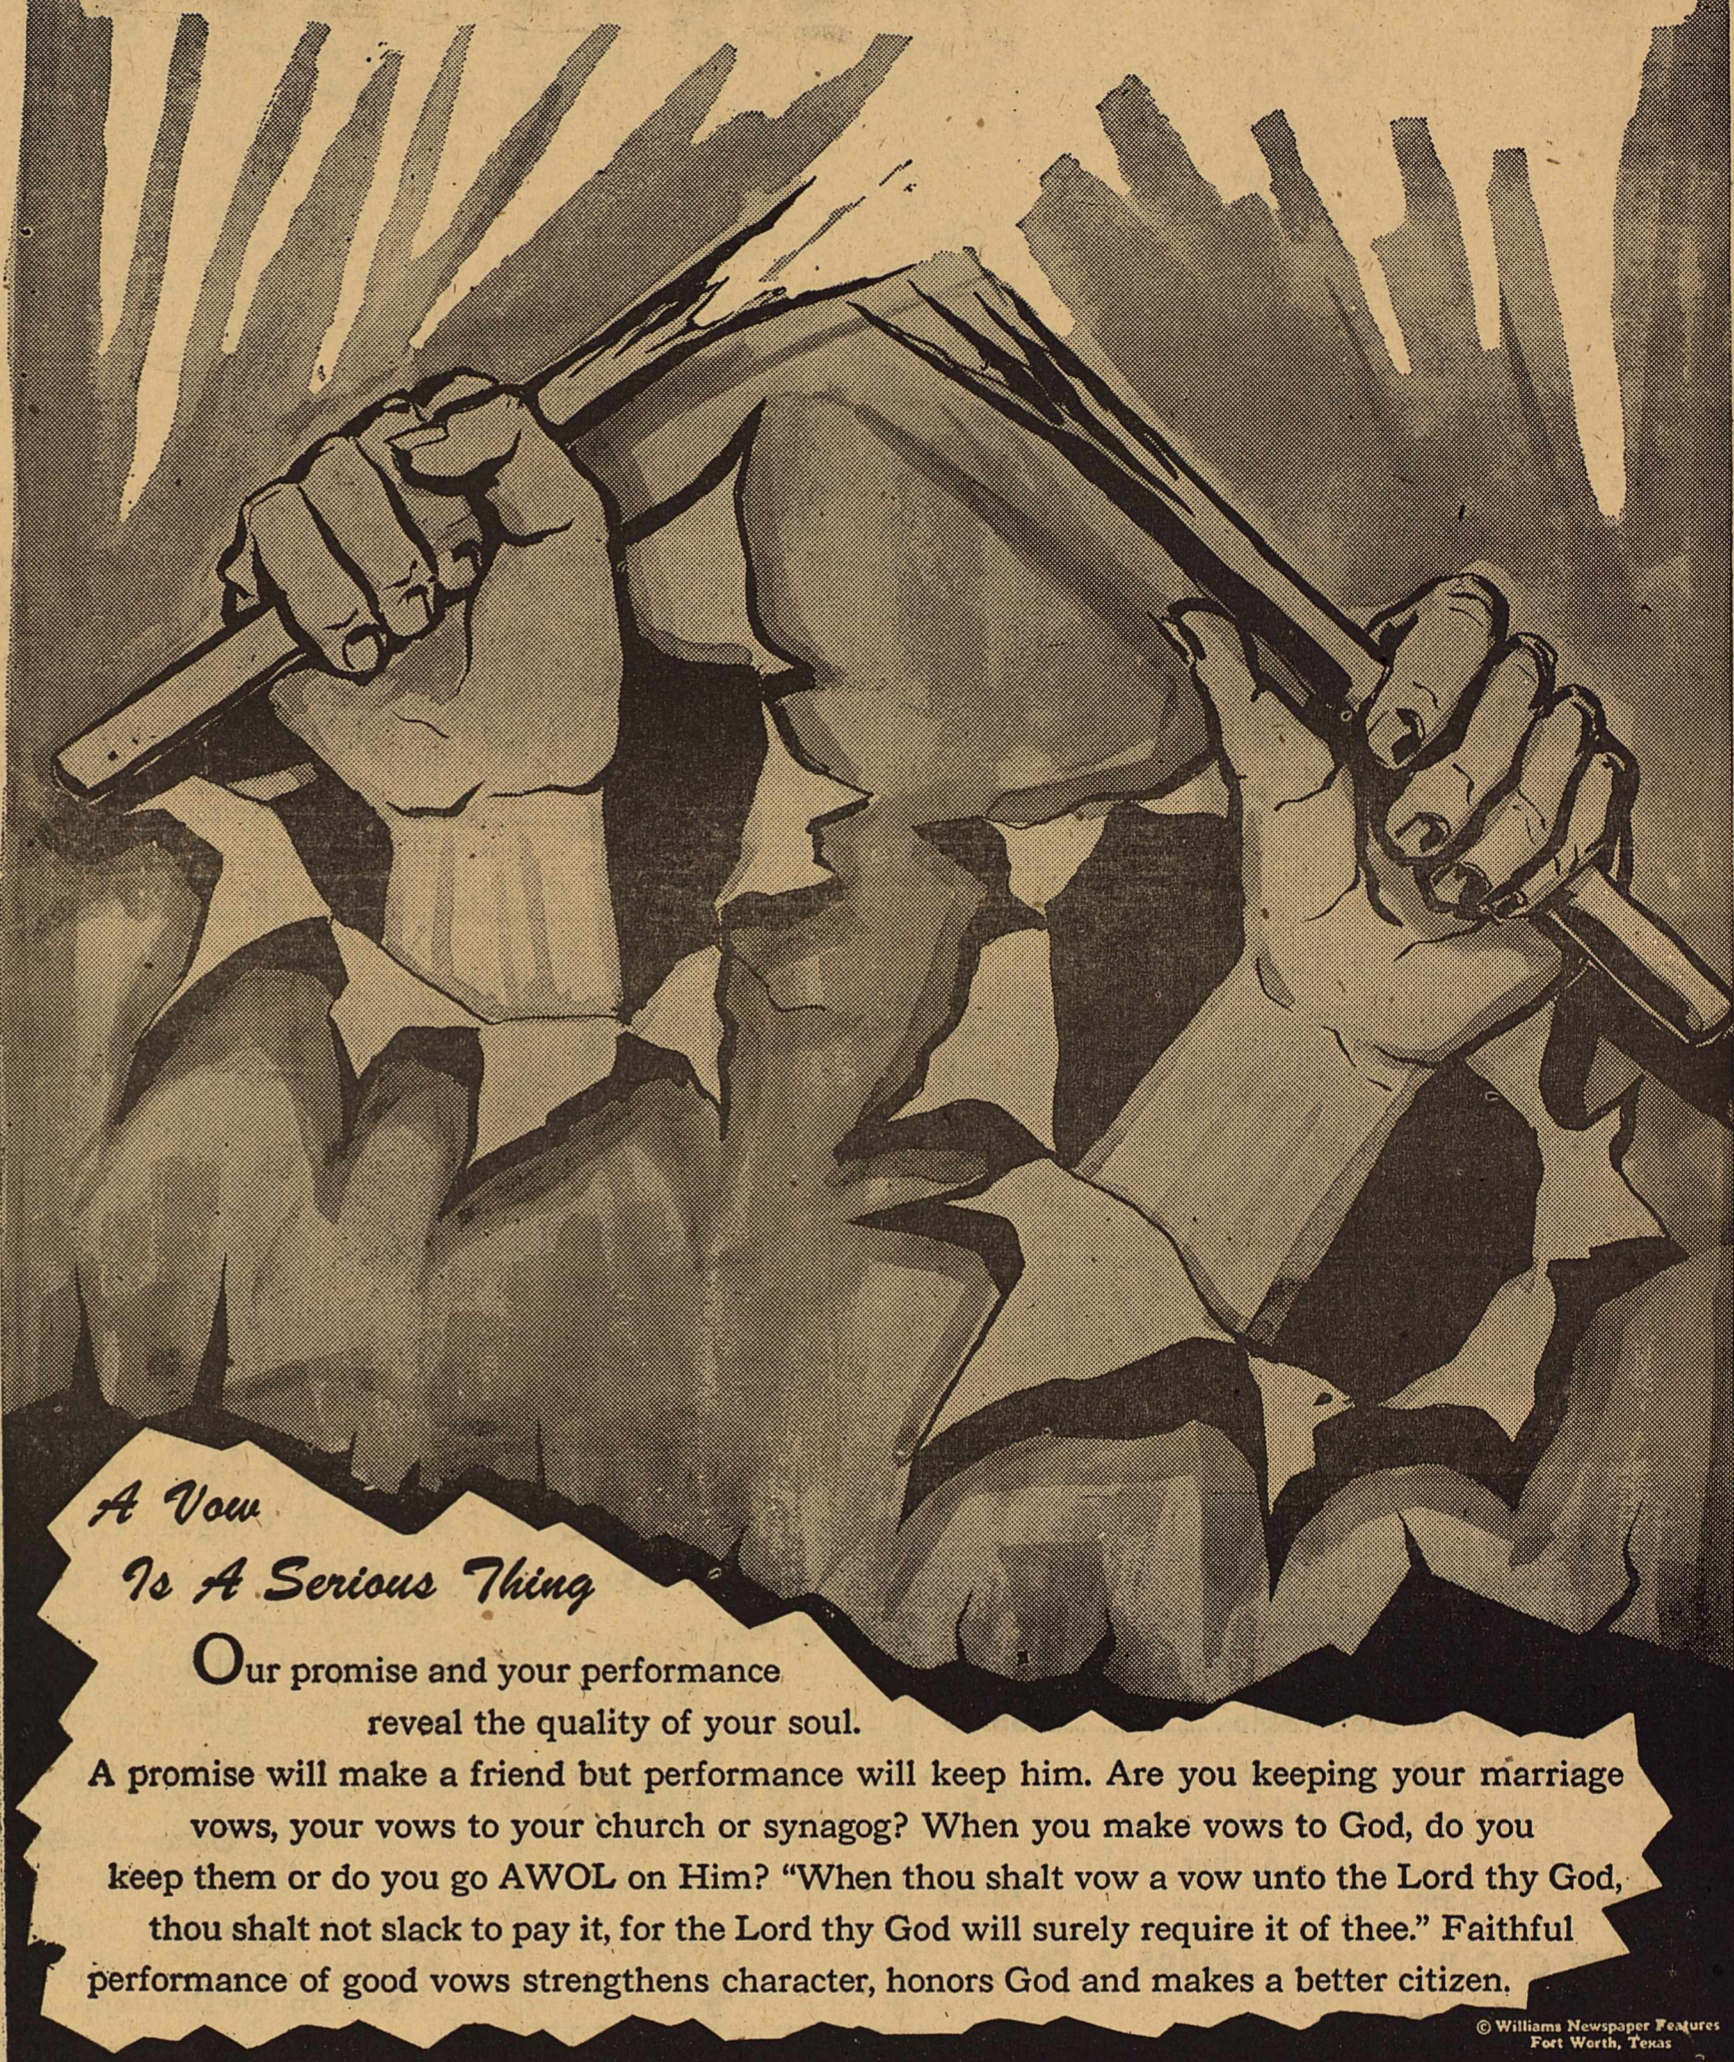

Commissioner Rudder asked veterans desiring information about the sale to contact him at the General Land Office in Austin.

BROKEN VOWS

*A Vow
Is A Serious Thing*

Our promise and your performance reveal the quality of your soul.

A promise will make a friend but performance will keep him. Are you keeping your marriage vows, your vows to your church or synagog? When you make vows to God, do you keep them or do you go AWOL on Him? "When thou shalt vow a vow unto the Lord thy God, thou shalt not slack to pay it, for the Lord thy God will surely require it of thee." Faithful performance of good vows strengthens character, honors God and makes a better citizen.

Homespun Hints By Myrna Marshall County H. D. Agent

The regularity of three-meals-a-day keeps the housewife in the kitchen many hours and during the Holidays when each housewife is especially busy she will want to keep in mind helpful kitchen arrangements and suggestions that will conserve her energy and time now and in the months following.

How should a kitchen be arranged to make cooking, serving, and dish washing easier?

The kitchen should have three main centers of activity—the mixing center, the cooking center and the cleaning and washing center. Storage for all the equipment should be provided near the place it is first used.

If the dining table is far from the stove and sink, a handy cart will save steps in bringing food and dishes to and away from the table.

The use of trays eliminates carrying several items in many trips across the kitchen.

Time can be saved by draining dishes rather than drying them by hand. One may wish to dry silver which water spots easily. The time saved can be used in more pleasant tasks.

To help prevent backache, try to do as many kitchen activities as possible sitting rather than standing.

Washing utensils and equipment as one cooks keeps the work space clear and uncluttered. Also, if a person is cooking several foods, measuring cups or bowls may be needed several times.

Another good tip for speed meal preparation is a well organized refrigerator. Do not postpone defrosting until the unit is iced several inches. Have each shelf used for certain foods to elimi-

TEXAS IN REVIEW TO SHOW ART OF REBUILDING GUNS

The art of rebuilding old firearms will be featured on Humble Oil & Refining Company's TV program. Texas in Review, the week of January 13. Locally the program is seen over KDUU-TV at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 14.

This interesting film on firearms shows how two Houston men clean the weapons and make new parts when necessary. And through the magic of the motion picture camera, a Colt Dragon assembles itself.

Another feature pictures the growing end harvesting of an important Texas crop, the avocado.

Other items include a trip down the 600-mile Colorado River from Dawson County to Matagorda Bay, a visit to Stephen F. Austin's only Texas home, and films of a Bible that is handed down by Governors of Texas.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

Texas is a community property state. Wives who are native Texans clearly understand that they only own half of the homestead. It comes as a distinct shock to some of our naturalized female Texans that she only gets half of what her husband made and even worse, her husband owns half of the salary she made all by herself. The income tax law clearly recognizes community property law and in Texas both the husband and wife are entitled to half on the tax return. If your wife worked and she files a separate tax return, she must show one-half of the community income of both the husband and wife. She also takes credit for paying one-half of the withheld tax.

1957 LIKELY TO BE CALLED 'YEAR OF TROUBLE' BY COTTON INDUSTRY

Although 1957 will be recalled happily by Texans as "The Year the drought was broken," it also will be remembered by everybody in the cotton industry as the "trouble year."

The trouble with cotton did not miss anybody. It ranged from the farmer to the processor and on up to the government says John C. White, Texas agriculture Commissioner.

The farmer probably suffered more and lost more than anybody. His troubles stated back in the spring at planting time, although he certainly didn't complain, because who could complain about rain at that time? But anyway, the rains came and washed out what had been planted or else delayed planting by precious weeks.

When the cotton finally got planted, the farmer thought he had it made. And it did look good for awhile, although it would have helped if some of that spring rain had waited until mid-summer to show up.

The rains did come back, though—at harvest time. And they still are ginning cotton in Texas as a result.

Texas farmers have lost millions of dollars from fallen, degraded or ruined cotton. And along with their losses have been equally serious losses throughout the cotton industry.

Cottonseed crushers, for instance, felt sharp losses when normally heavy receipts in the fall failed to show up. Ginners have had a long, drawn-out season with the many processing difficulties which come with a wet harvest.

The Texas Department of Agriculture's important pink bollworm control program took a backseat to economic necessity in the matter of delayed harvesting when cotton stalk plow-up rules were extended, re-extended and finally left open in many areas.

However, eventual plow-up of cotton stalks has been encouraging and it is hoped an effective kill of insect larvae can be accomplished even at this late date.

Perhaps the most encouraging outcome of this trouble year for cotton is that U. S. surpluses are expected to be shortened considerably, paving the way for a good market for Texas cotton to come back to in 1958.
