plight of the people it confined. It was a depressing, prison-like, mile-long fence that paralleled Lamar, one of Austin's busiest boulevards.

Now, each spring, Austinites make a point of driving out Lamar to see the mass of climbing red roses covering the fence. Today this long stretch of roses is a symbol of the change that has come to state hospitals during the past 10 years as a result of volun'teer services. University engineering students donated and planted the rose bushes. Thousands of people over the state have landscaped the grounds, redecorating the dining halls and reception rooms, built swimming pools, given parties, conducted classes, wrapped gifts and in hundreds of other ways brought beauty and warmth to

In its fall report, the State Hospital Volunteer Service Counshows that volunteers gave 163,904 hours of time to state institutions during the past year. Figured at only $1 per hour and adding in contributions of food. clothing, prizes, furniture, etc., volunteers enriched life in state institutions by more than $538,-996 during the year. This does not count considerable sums collected for all-faith chapels at several schools and hospitals. Last year, 36,000 citizens wen into 18 different state hospitals and schools to do volunteer work. Impact of these volunteers is two-fold, says Miss Helen Colburn, coordinator of volunteer services for the State Hospital Board. First, they help to create a pleasant environment which gives patients a better chance to respond to medical treatment.

Second, the volunteers learn the problems of the hospitals and schools and are an effective force in educating the community as to needs and goals.

"State money can't be spentfor pictures or parties or swimming pools," said Miss Colburn. "It has to go for beds and food. But these other things are important. Patients respond to environment, and they respond to people. And they know the difference between people who are paid and people who come to help them out of sheer kindness."

Right now the volunteers are getting ready for their biggest undertaking of each year-Christmas. It means securing, wrapping and tagging about 26,000 gifts to keep up a three-year re cord of having a gift for each patient in the state system. It means decorations, trees, parties and caroling. In some cases it means setting up shops where patients can get gifts to send to their families-often more ardently desired by the patient than a gift for himself.

RATE DECISION POSTPON-ED-State Board of Insurance voted 2-to-1 not to adopt a recommended 13.3 per cent rate increase in certain types of auto insurance.

Board members R. W. Strain and Ned Price said they wanted to study the new safe driving plan more before approving any rate changes. They have been at odds with Board Chairman Penn J. Jackson who has recently advocated abolishment of mandatory merit rating. To scrap merit rating, said Dr. Strain, would penalize the 70 per cent of drivers who earn a discount for good driving records.

Board also refused by a 2-1 vote to allow insurance companies to disregard penalties against drivers involved n accidents presumably not their fault. This must be decided by a court, said Strain and Price.

Very few drivers seem to mind paying higher accident insurance rates because they are involved in accidents. But many do resent the assessment of a based on traffic tickets issued. Especially tickets they feel were not warranted.

Still others contend that they are insuring their cars against accidents and not insuring themselves against traffic fines. Therefore if they are paying a premium for fines they should be reimbursed for those fines.

The study reveals that a larger proportion of families in the county are in the "have more" income groups and a smaller percentage are in the "have less" category than in most parts of the United States.

Report also shows that a relatively even distribution of income exists in addition to the high general average.

Approximately 74.9 per cent Yoakum County households had spendable incomes last year, after taxes, of $4,000 or more. This compares favorably with the scale of earnings in the rest of the U.S. where only 61.6 per cent of all households were in this category.

It was also considerably higher than in the West South Central States where only 49 per cent had earnings in the over-$4,000 bracket.

Such a situation makes for the better state of affairs for the businessman, the report states. It means that more of the local families have available the extra spending money for better food and clothing, second cars, for washing machines and luxuries in general.

Overall spending of a large segment of a population enjoying middle-income earnings or better, as is the case locally, produces a greater volume of business than does a high-low income combination, economists have found.

Also disclosed in the Yoakum County income breakdown is the fact that 15 per cent of the households were in the $7-$10,-000 bracket last year. They accounted for 19.9 per cent of all local earnings.

County families in the $2,500 to $4,000 groups comprised 15 per cent of the households and Texas is getting set for a bumper crop of college graduates in the sixties.

Commission on Higher Education reports the highest ever enrollment — 90,035 students in the 18 fully supported state coleges and universities.

This is up 5,391 from last fall and a 60 per cent increase over 10 years ago. Biggest enrollments (n state schools) are at the University of Texas, Texas Tech. North Texas State. lington State and Texas A&M, in that order.

Biggest gains this year were UT and Arlington State.

ROAD LAG AVERTED Release of additional federal funds will largely prevent an expected winter slowdown of highway work in Texas, State Hghway Engineer D. C. Greer announced.

Only the November bid letting will be affected said Greer.

This month the Highway Department tabuated low bids totalng $19,030,137 for highway work. Next month the contracts are expected to total only about $12,000,000, but by December the total should be increased again to about $17,000,000 or $18,000,-

Yoakum County soil survey now completed

Field work for the Yoakum Soil Conservation survey has been completed, according to an announcement in the monthly District newsletter issued this week. Survey was begun four years ago this month.

Since beginning of the survey a detailed soils map has been made on every acre of the district. This survey was made under a National Classification standard. Soils are classified according to natural characteristics, including depth, texture, permeabiity, amount of tree lime, kind of parent material and slope of

There are seven Great Soil Groups, 17 soil series, 32 soil types and 50 mapping units in the district. Soils range from very shalow to deep, from fine textured to coarse textured and a complete variety of depths, textures and permeabilities.

Survey was made by thoroughly going over the land, either walking or in a pickup truck. Holes were dug with a tile spade or an hydraulic soil sampler mounted on a truck. From 20 to 100 holes were dug on every section. While digging holes and observing landscape, characteristics of the soils were recorded on an aerial photograph. Photograph then became a permanent record of the

A detailed soil survey report for the district will be written. This report will contain information of various aspects of soil management such as irrigation, wind erosion control, range management and many other agricultural practices, along with a chapter on climate as it affects agriculture and a table of yield estimates under various levels of management for each soil type.

Report will be published in book form and will include a soils map of the District and will be available to anyone desiring soils in-
