MOORE Or Less

by Johnnie Moore

erything costs more nowadays. You have to have your car washed to make it rain now. It used to be that you could bring up a good shower by just getting a shine.

It's still true that the early bird gets the worm, as far as work and accomplishing it is concerned. For some reason or other--as every business man knows--interruptions can kill much time during the normal working hours.

More than one successful executive knows that in the early morning hours, or even in the evening hours, one can work more or less undisturbed. The morning hours are even better than the evening hours, since the mind is clearer and both the body and mind are fresh. At night one sometimes must fight fatigue.

The farmer who rises at four o'clock in the morning knows that much can be done between then and eight or nine o'clock. Unfortunately, the hired man or woman who must work steady hours can't test this theory.

Finally, some of the prettiest sights ever to be seen will be viewed at sunrise -- in case you have forgotten. The earth is still and beautiful and it is a wonderful time for spiritual thought and contemplation, which few of us have enough time for in our rush for the dollar in this twentieth century.

I notice though that the AFL-CIO is fixing for a big push to get their members a mandatory 35-hour work week with double time for all hours over 35 instead of the now usual time and a half for over 40 hours.

It sure seems to me that this attitude of getting something for nothing is robbing a great many of the people of our country of some mighty basic values.

The big union wants its members to get more money for doing less work and thereby for producing less goods.

Many farmers organizations seem bent on getting more for their members for not planting

By far too much reliance is Sure it's harder to make it on your own than it is with an iron-clad guarantee from some big organization or government, but what about the satisfaction of being able to "Here is what I accomplished?"

I guess the thirty-five hour week will probably be pushed through, which will inevitably cause old John Q. Consumer to pay more for the goods he uses. but as far as I'm concerned. I'd be a lot better satisfied with a 35 hour day, especially on Wednesday, so I could get this blammed paper out on time.

Before long workers are going to have to start paying their employees overtime so they'll have enough hours in their coffee breaks.

Sells Half Interest In Printing Shop

It was announced this week that a one-half interest of the commercial printing facilities of the Plains Record had been sold.

Some confusion has resulted in the minds of several area citizens concerning the ownership of The Record itself.

Plains Record, a weekly per, is still owned in its entirety (along with a couple of finance companies and banks) by Johnnie Moore.

The commercial printing plant which prints such things as envelopes, books, letterheads, invoices, statements, etc. is now jointly owned by Johnnie Moore and Jack Palmer. The printing service is now known as "Plains Quality Printers." is now actively establishing a sales-delivery route in the five-county area around Plains and is doing some work also in the printing plant itself. Johnnie is devoting his time in the joint venture to make-up work, and printing. The number to call for any and all your printing needs is G 6-4116.

First Grade Registration Is Thursday

Parents of all children who will be first grade pupils this fall have been requested by elementary principal of Plains Schools, Roger Harvey, to register at the school cafeteria at 2 p. m. on August 23.

This early registration, according to Harvey, is being conducted to avoid the confusion which generally prevails on the first day of school.

Parents of first graders are requested to bring a valid birth certificate for pupils being enrolled.

Harvey also pointed out that it is not necessary for pupils to accompany their parents for this pre-registration, however, parents are asked to accompany first grade pupils on the first day of school August 30.

While the nation was admittedly underdeveloped, the people were not underprivileged. They had gained the unique advantage of individual liberty. By a written Constitution they had guaranteed to themselves the right to choose their ways of making a living. They could think, write, speak, worship and assemble as they pleased and spend their money, when they had any, as they wished. Also, unlike people in many underdeveloped countries of the mid - twentieth century, they were never underfed, Generally speaking, they were energetic, industrious, ambitious and possessed of considerable integrity. They worked hard, paid their just debts as they were able and felt their responsibilities as free citizens.

By enterprise and thrift they increased their capital and accumulated money to invest in industrial endeavors. Their rising prosperity attracted foreign capital with which they hastened their business expansion. Despite the costly setback of a horrible sectional war, they vigorously developed their natural resources and produced foods, fibers, raw materials and manufactures for export, and in turn became a great market for the rest of the formerly skeptical world.

From their underdeveloped beginnings these people became so rich, powerful and generous that they could send billions of dollars' worth of aid to other underdeveloped countries, Perhaps if these latter - day countries will adhere to the principles of individual liberty, responsibility and personalintegrity and will find out how their people may become well nourished and energetic, they in turn will enable historians in another century to write proudly of their accomplish-

Also, there is one major advantage in the Sabine as opposed to the Salk vaccine. That being that the Sabine vaccine is actually a live virus while the Salk injections were in the form of a dead virus. This means simply that the Salk serum, although it immunized the individual receiving it would still allow that person to be a carrier of polio with the possibility of giving the disease to someone who had not been vaccinated themselves.

In the case of the live-virus Sabine vaccine, it not only provides immunity for the individual taking it, but also does away with the possibility of that person being a carrier of the disease and possibly spreading it to someone who has not been

To Machine Harvesting Cotton

Last year 64 per cent of the Texas cotton crop was machine harvested -- 13 per cent by mechanical pickers and 51 per cent by strippers. The trend is upward for this type of harvesting, says Fred C. Elliott, cotton specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

An important consideration in the machine harvesting of cotton, he says, is the use of either defoliants or desiccants for preparing the cotton plants for the harvesting process.

in the afternoon or early in | the morning, says Elliott, Spray defoliants are available as chlorate and organic phosphorus materials. They may be used in the absence of moisture and at lower humidity levels. Thorough coverage of the plant is essential.

With ground sprayers, 10 to 20 gallons of water is recommended as the carrier for the material used, depending upon the type of sprayer and the extent of plant growth, explains the specialist, Applications of the defoliants should be staggered in order to stay just ahead of the harvesting op-ducing regrowth, points out Elliott. He emphasizes that only recommended defoliants should be used. When 60 per cent or more of the bolls are open most defoliants can be safely used, he says. Arsenic acid and pe chlorophenol are the materials commonly used for disiccanting purposes, that is preparing plants for stripper harvest. These materials can be used in water as recommended by the manufacturers. Desiccant applications should be made when more than 60 per cent of the bolls are open under dryland conditions and on irrigated cotton when more than 80 per cent of the bolls are open. No fiber damage should occur when recommendations are followed, Elliott says.

For detailed information, he suggests that growers from the local county get agent's office a copy of L-145, "Texas Cotton Defoliation Guide."

YARBOROUGH

Dear Fellow Texan: Before many years, the world will have instantaneous communications by TV, radio, phone and wireless telegraph, by use of signals from the earth relayed by satellites in space. Billions of your tax dollars were paid out for research which makes this possible. You paid for it and you, the people, deserve to own it.

Now, the Congress has to decide if the taxpayers will retain the ownership you now have, or if your investment in space will be handed over to a private, monopoly - dominated corporate setup. That's why I've worked with a group of senators to develop the facts on this space communications program by days of debate on the Senate floor. Those of us who took part in this effort to get at the truth, working against heavy odds, have been accused of

The main complaint seems to be that if we would just quit objecting to this biggest giveaway plan in American history. if we would step aside, the Senate could quickly pass its giveaway monopoly bill and wind up its other work. And we could all hurry home. Fellow Texan, I don't believe we were sent here to give up quickly, to get home quickly.

is also bad because it comes

too soon, before any system has been perfected. The space communications program is still only an experiment. It will take several years before any kind of complete world - wide space communications system will be developed. It is a golden promise for world peace and good will at time of maturity, and it is too great to toss away. Without the acorn, there can be no oak tree.

Fellow Texan, will we turn back to the practice of the Europe of 1600, and charter a new monopoly to exploit space, as Queen Elizabeth I chartered the London Company to exploit Virginia in 1507? Or will we profit by this past 3 1/2 centuries of learning and progress and keep the space ways clear of the cobwebs of monopoly -- keep them open to all in the true spirit of competitive free enterprise?

Will Congress charter one company to collect for all time from the people for space TV, radio, phone and telegraph use, for weather reports, and air and sea navigation? Or will calmer judgement prevailover the clamor of the hour?

Fellow Texan, we must not surrender the New Frontier to a corporate monopoly. We must protect our frontier in space with a flag of freedom. We must put the American flag on the satellite -- not a private monopoly flag.

Stage star Sally Ann Howes has been signed as one of the guest performers for "The Voice of Firestone" when that veneracle musical program is reactivated Sept. 30 on the ABC-TV network.

When America has a new system for instant world communication -- a power for good almost beyond belief -- I don't think that's the time for blind, reckless haste. On the contrary, it's a good time for that would allow the government to own and to lease to private companies the space on the space satellite on a fair competitive basis. The government would not be in the communications business, the government would not be in the telephone business, but would preserve the competition that a

I'm co - sponsor of a bill

The bill to turn it over to a corporate monopoly is a bad one, because a satellite communications system is worldwide and involves foreign policy decisions that can't be given away to a private corporation. Our foreign policy must be run for the benefit of all the American people -not for the profit of the corporation alone. The monopoly bill is bad because your dollars would be officially given to a few for their profit. It's bad because the government has no agency equipped to regulate a corporate monopoly program in space. The giveaway bill

Stocks And Bonds

When you buy a share of stock, you own an interest in every single thing a firm has; when you buy one of its bonds, you don't own any part of the company. The bond or debenture is merely a promise to pay.

Suppose out of 1,000 shares outstanding, you own one share. Then you have an undivided one-thousandth share in the company, not in any particular thing but in every piece.

When you buy a bond, you own no part of the company. The firm promises to pay the loan back when the bond matures.

As a rule, bondholders have little say directly about the firm or how it picks its officers and manages its business. Of course, lenders exercise indirect influence since they must have confidence in the firm and its management before they will part with their money.

Bondholders get their interest before any stockbroker gets his dividends; and should the firm go broke, they get paid out of its assets before

Preferred stock, as a rule, yields fixed dividends before the common stockholders get anything, but preferred stock dividends are payable only if declared by the corporation.

As a rule, common stockholders risk more and therefore stand to make greater profit ( or loss).

The legal invention of the entity called a corporation has made vast public investment in industry and commerce possible. By allowing anybody to buy in or to lend to the firm, a corporation has made large scale research, production, and marketing possible while each investor can study and decide where he wants to risk his capital.

H. B. Price plans to install some under-ground pipe to reorganize his irrigation system. He has been watering down the row. He also plans to plant some Bermuda grass for pasture and as a hedge against drought conditions. With a small acerage of irrigated pasture he will be able to rest each summer a large part of his native grass.

Cover crop time is here again rye, wheat, oats, barley sown now on fallow land or land with little or no cover from crop residue will be available. Millet is also another good cover that will not require moisture next winter and spring yet will give a good cover when it is needed.

Jar Victuals At Record Rate

MUNCIE, Ind. (UPI)-Modern housewives, with easy access to ready-to-cook foods, are doing more home canning than their great-trandmothers.

That statement comes from John Fisher, Muncie, vice president of Ball Erothers, a major manufacturer of canning jars. Fisher disputed the view that home-canning is a lost art.

"More women are preserving and canning now than were alive in the United States back in 1885," Fisher said. He based his statement on an estimate that about 13 million homemakers were included in the 1885 population of some 55 million persons.

"This year more than 22 million women will put up more than one billion jars of foodstuffs." Fisher said. "So you can see that home canning is not a lost art, as many folks seem to think.'

Fisher said information available to his firm indicates that home canning supplies sold annually in the United States amount to about $40 million and that 44.5 per cent of the housewives still do some home canning, freezing and preserv-

Eight New Schoolboy Rules Adopted

Dr. Rhea Williams, athletic director of the Texas Interscholastic League has revealed eight new rules in an appearance at the Texas High School Coaches Association clinic,

The first rule was that a medical certificate and permission of the parents or guardian is necessary before a boy can participate this year. He also discussed a rule that prohibits football or basketball players from participating in summer camps designed to train players in those sports. It does not apply to baseball. This rule is effective Sept., 1962.

Williams told newsmen of a new rule prohibiting interschool scrimmages in football and basketball after the first game of the season. He said this rule was aimed at the B-teams that called Thursday night games scrimmages in order to be eligible for the varsity Friday under the rule of one game a week in football.

No team can participate in more than one inter-school scrimmage per week prior to the first game of the season. Williams cited expenses as the reasons superintendents voted in the rule, effective this year.

An amendment to the TIL rules makes any team ineligible that has pre-season practices in junior high or elementary schools or that has spring training in junior high or elementary schools. Williams said the varsity would be pen-alized, since the TL has no way to penalize junior highs. He also told of a new music amateur rule that makes a person ineligible to compete in TIL music contests -- or athletic events -- if he or she accepts money for music lessons or for judging a music

A basketball ruling in effect this year prohibits practice before Oct. 1 and games before Oct. 15 in class B, and Nov. 1 and Nov. 15 for other classifications. This puts a limit on basketball as football, confining it to its own season.

Football mouth and teeth protectors were recommended for football teams in 1962, butit will become a requirement in 1963.

Williams said it will be part of the uniform next year and all players must have them unless a doctor gives them written permission not to wear them due to some trouble with the mouth.

A resolution passed by the Texas Medical Association asking the outlawing of head block will be recommended to all coaches. Williams said no penalty will be made, since it is hard to call such a block.
