MOORE or Less

by Johnnie Moore

One reflection on the integration problems that we are now facing in our country.

It has come to light that actually, in view of the fact that orders have gone out for nothing but negroes to be hired for some government jobs, in some sections of our country, actually we are practicing racial discrimination in reverse.

In my own mind, one very important factor has been very sadly neglected in the whole matter of rights and discrimination against rights.

Our Federal Constitution does guarantee each and every citizen of this country, in every area of life, equality of opportunity.

However, equality of opportunity doesn't any longer seem to be the aim or goal of the NAACP and the other pressure groups operating.

The goal has kind of been changed now, it seems, to gaining social equality instead of equality of opportunity, and this I would say is not guaranteed or is a guarantee implied by our constitution or by any stretch of the imagination. This is something the individual must earn on his own merits, not because of his skin color, or his national origin.

Social equality, is an intangible, and cannot be bestowed on anyone by any act of law or force. It must be earned. There is no other way to come by it, honestly.

We invite your attention to an article entitled "Curb U. S. Sovereignty?" on page #2 of this week's issue. It's well worth your time.

Plains Wins BR Tourney

The Plains Cowboys won the Babe Ruth League tournament held in Denver City last week without losing a single game in the double-elimination tournament, while the other four teams, three from Denver City and one from Seagraves, each lost two each.

The Cowboys cinched the title when they defeated the Denver City Transporters on last Friday evening 7-6 behind the pitching of Calvin and Jimmy Smith.

Mr. O. D. Smith of Plains was the lucky winner of the transistor radio given away that evening. Four Cowboys were named Tri-City All-Stars. They are J. E. Todd, Alvie Faulkenbery, Calvin and Jimmy Smith. They each made the traveling squad and will be playing in the All-Star tournament in Levelland this week.

COURT MINUTES

Mostly routine business was handled by Yoakum County Commissioners in their regular meeting last Monday. Bills were approved as presented by the auditor and ordered paid.

Approval was also given to the quarterly report of the County Treasurer, which is enclosed in this issue and which showed that the hospital account was overdrawn in the amount of $4,736.67 and it was decided to transfer $10,000.00 from the general fund to the hospital fund.

FARMERS UNION HITS BRACERO LACK

In correspondence to the National Farmers Union's Washington legislative office, and to Senator Ralph Yarborough, Texas Farmers Union is urging support of a one year extension of PL 78 providing for the importation of Mexican nationals for farm employment.

Texas Farmers Union views this program as being necessary to prevent severe hardship resulting from labor shortages in many areas of Texas where domestic labor is not available. Realizing that the "bracero program" is only a temporary solution to emergency conditions, Texas Farmers Union urges that each individual producer take part in an accelerated and continuing project to completely mechanize cotton and those crops presently requiring hand laborers.

Peddler Restriction No Action Yet On Ordinance

City Secretary, Bob Long, reported earlier this week that definite progress has been made toward the passage of the proposed peddler ordinance for Plains.

WRECKS MAR WEEK HERE

Yoakum County Deputy, Olan Heath, stated that it seemed he had just made the remark that perhaps car accidents were going to slow down in the county as we had gotten through the Fourth without so much as a fender bender in the county.

Then on Monday the epidemic hit.

On Monday afternoon the Foye Flood family had just left their home to go to Odessa when, one block north of their house at the intersection which is located two blocks south of main street, their car was hit broadside by a car driven by Mrs. Amelia R. Ruiz, which was traveling west.

Mrs. Ruiz of route 1, Plains was alone in her car, but the entire Flood family was in their car, Mr. and Mrs. Flood and their four children.

No serious injuries were sustained by any of the parties but the Flood car was badly damaged.

Then Monday evening a grinding crash between a pickup driven by T. A. Elmore and a car driven by Plains real estate man, Paul Williams.

The crash occurred at the intersection of farm roads 1780 and 2196. Officers investigating the wreck, highway patrolman Fred Lenz of Brownfield and Deputy Heath, stated the Williams car, traveling north on F-M 1780, struck the Elmore pickup, moving east on F-M 2196, broadside.

Heath went on to say that the Williams car skidded about 50 feet before impact and then knocked Elmore pickup 60 feet and turned it completely over leaving it back up on its wheels after the crash.

Also in the Elmore pickup were his son, Ricky and Duran Martinez, Tokio.

T. A. Elmore and Ricky are reported to be improving in Seagraves Hospital. Martinez was released from South Plains Hospital in Levelland yesterday, where Williams is still listed in serious condition.

He stated that the ordinance in its present form is being given a final legal check by Plains attorney, Don Hancock.

Long went further to say that feeling in the council is definitely in favor of passage of the measure.

Action is expected on the ordinance within the next few weeks, which would assess a city tax on retail vendors operating in Plains. The amount is expected to be $25 per month and retail vendors are defined as being those who sale items that are consumed or used by those who buy them rather than for the purpose of resale.

Further action will be reported in the record as it is forthcoming.

Rodeo Plans Shaping Up

Floats make a parade, and the parade committee, Bob Long and Johnnie Fitzgerald, are urging clubs, organizations, businesses, and individuals of the Plains area to make an all-out effort this year to make this parade, for the 10th Annual Yoakum County Rodeo and Old Settlers Reunion, the best yet.

Cash prizes will be awarded to first, second and third place winners in the parade.

Entry of a float in the parade should be made known as soon as possible to one of the two parade committee men.

The parade is slated to go on the road at 5 p. m. on the 25th, Thursday.

It was also announced this week that the derby hats, priced at $2 each, which also gives the purchaser two free chances on the saddle to be given away wnd two votes for the queen candidate of their choice, went on sale.

WARNING ABOUT JULY 20 ECLIPSE

On April 8, 1959, 170 Australians -- principally school children -- suffered permanent retinal damage and partial loss of central vision in watching an eclipse of the sun.

Similar eye damage may be anticipated over most of North America on July 20, the date of our next solar eclipse, total from Alaska to Maine. A partial eclipse will be visible over most of the continent.

There is a real risk of eye damage in viewing an eclipse according to the members of the South Plains Optometric Society. Makeshift methods include dark photographic negatives, glass that has been smoked over a candle, or a card with a pinhole opening. None of these devices is completely safe. Looking directly into the sun, even for a few seconds, involves the possibility of permanent retinal damage. Unfortunately, sun glasses are no answer to the problem.

A piece of photo film, overexposed on its entire surface and developed, provides adequate protection.

A safe alternative is a pinhole camera. Punch a clean hole in one end of a shoe box with a pin or needle. In a darkened room, aim the pinhole directly at the sun. On the inside surface of the other end of the box, you can see a clearly defined solar image.

In a completely darkened room, a larger image can be viewed at a greater distance. A pinhole works like a lens of universal focus but the greater the distance, the less the illumination. The size of the disc will be 1/100th of the projection distance.

A solar eclipse has a deservedly popular appeal. It should be an opportunity for us to extend our knowledge of the universe, but not an occasion for damaging our precious vision.

CEMETERY ASS'N CALLS MEETING

It was announced this week that the semi-annual meeting of the Yoakum County Cemetery Association will be held on Thursday, July 18, at 8 p. m. in the Commissioners Court Room. All interested persons are urged to be present.

Grass Planting Is Booming

Grass planting and new conservation plans are the main work going on now. Some of those that have planted grass recently are Bill Gray, Robert Heath, James Wauson, Paul Cobb, Rollin McCord, Leo Holmes, Dick Hamm, Lomas Freeman, Darwin Hobbs and R. W. Kelly.

R. W. is getting a lot of grazing out of the field of bermuda he planted last year. Wilbur Hayse is also getting a lot of grazing from his bermuda. He used barnyard and regular fertilizer, rut and plenty of water to get maximum growth and production.

Speaking of growth and production, it takes grass years to grow. When we take more than 50% of the surface we reduce the size of the factory and cut down on the production of more grass. When grass is grazed too close, less than 3" or 4", cattle are grazing 25% food and 75% water so they must eat a lot to make a living.

Approval from the State Office to work on the A. I. Pace place in New Mexico just across the state line was received this week. We will be working with Mr. Pace and Charles Roseberry on grass planting soon.

Two plans were completed and mailed to the area office typing last week. They were Paul K. and Earl Kiser and Virgil Phipps. Virgil plans to plant 35 acres of bermuda this year and 160 acres of switch and one half of a mile of under ground pipe next year.

The last date for planting bermuda is August 15, but we recommend it be planted before that day if possible.

the Texas Tech campus, among other points of interest during the short visit. Verner will then return to Sweden. Like many visitors from other countries coming to the United States for the first time, Verner had a unique observation: "The blueberries here are so much bigger than the ones in Sweden." The Malmstems have been making the rounds in Plains, getting acquainted.

All Stars Named Cubs Cop Local Title

Plains Little League play wound up last week with the Cubs on top of the totem pole. Final standings in the four-team league are as follows: Cubs won ten and lost four; Yanks won eight and one-half and lost five and one-half; Indians won six and lost eight; and the Giants won three and one-half and lost ten and one-half.

All - Stars were named as follows:

Teenie Lowe, Billy Kennedy, Gary Liles, Jackie McDonald, Cliff Ives, Mike Nugent, Fred Tucker, Morris J. Rushing, Vernon Stach, Jimmie Taylor, Snapper Lynn, Mike Wilkens, Bobby Hanes, and Dave Cunningham.

Alternates picked are Mike Harbour, Bit Robertson, Jerry Heald, Eddie Hickman, Wayne Harris, and Wayne Wasson.

The Plains All-Stars play their first game at 3 p. m. on Thursday, July 18 in the tournament in Levelland.

Plains is to face Brownfield in that game and if they win will face the winner of the Denver City - Whiteface tilt, in the semi-finals.

Other teams in the tournament being played on July 18, 19, 20, are Morton, Levelland, Seagraves, and Ropesville.

GOLF ELIM WINNERS TO FACE PROS

Interest is mounting rapidly in the elimination tournament at the Gaines County Golf Club, July 15th, the event that will select two area golfers to Jim Terry, Club pro. The elimination tourney is open to area professionals and amateurs. Entry fee is $5.00. The two low scorers, whether pros or amateurs, will play with the two guest golfers on Monday, July 22nd at the Gaines County Club, located midway between Seagraves and Seminole. If the winners of the elimination tourney are pros, they will receive $100 or more each, in addition to the opportunity to play with Snead and Player. If the winners are amateurs, they will receive handsome trophies commemorating the occasion. Those interested in the tournament should contact Terry at the club. The mailing address is Route 2, Seminole, Texas.

Richard Blackmore, ticket sales chairman, has stated that advance sales of exhibition tickets are going briskly, since advance tickets are a dollar less than the $6.00 gate ticket price. Advance tickets may be purchased by mail by sending check or money order to the Gaines County Golf Club, Route 2, Seminole, Texas.

The two famous pros will arrive at the golf club at mid morning on July 22nd and will begin the 18 hole exhibition at noon. A clinic featuring Player and Snead will begin at 11 A. M. that day.

Brothers Re-United

Quoting from the Lubbock Avalanche Journal, "There was a definite feeling of expectancy in the air when flight 248 touched down at Municipal Airport at 3:07 p. m. Tuesday, and it was all coming from Mr. and Mrs. Gus Malmsten of Plains.

"The reason for all the excitement was simple. Flight 248 was carrying Malmsten's brother whom he had not seen in 27 years and whom his wife, Blanch, had never seen.

"Malmsten explained that he had not seen his brother, Verner, since leaving Sweden in 1930 to settle in the United States. Verner remained in Sweden where he is a professor at a teacher's school in Jonkoping.

"Malmsten, who works for an abstract company in Plains, said he and his brother had corresponded through the years

"Verner is in the United States to see his brother and to visit his two daughters who reside in Washington. One of his daughters, Mrs. Gunilla Alford, accompanied him to the South Plains.

"Verner, who does not speak English, teaches literature and history.

"At the time he took his teaching degree, he was the youngest teacher in Sweden," the Americanized Malmsten said with traces of his Swedish accent showing. Malmsten explained that in Sweden at that time, a teacher had to be 21 before he could take a teaching position. Verner was 19.

In addition to teaching, Verner now lectures about four times a week and teaches speaking classes.

"He's so lazy," he wants me to translate everything for him," his daughter said.

From... Parson Jones

Dear Mr. Publisher: This is Parson Jones again just itching to do a little talking. Most of it's due to the fact that my wife didn't give me a chance to talk this week. I just got through reading the paper and it got me to thinking. (That's the advantage a newspaper has over television. TV puts me to sleep.)

Mr. Publisher, the thing that got me to thinking was a couple articles about going to the moon. Now it might sound a little odd - a preacher talking about such a thing, but I figure it's right up my line. Folks are always asking me whether I think the good Lord expects man to travel to another planet. I tell 'em I appreciate the compliment, but God hasn't let me in on that, one way or the other. It does look kinda wasteful, though, to have all them planets out there just to look at. Seems to me they oughta be useful for something 'er other.

There are a couple advantages going to another planet. For one thing it might slow down wars a little bit. All the land has been took up here on earth, so everybody's wanting to fight to get what the other feller's got. If there was some free land to go around, it might stop all this fighting at least for a spell. But, if other people live on these planets, we're in for a real mess. We'll either have to push 'em out like we did the Indians or else they might boil us and eat us for supper.

Then, too, there's the advantage of getting rid of people we don't have much use for. If you don't like a feller, just buy him a ticket and send him to the moon and you won't have to fret with him anymore. (Everybody's been worrying about Russia beating us to the moon. I hope they do. Then I hope they'll take the whole bunch, lock, stock and barrel and let the moon people worry about Communism.)

Sir, there's another advantage in going to the moon that a lot of folks might like. A feller can get away from someone he doesn't like. If he can't stand his wife anymore, he can take a trip to the moon and start all over. Maybe some of the folks who 'can't seem to get along on this planet, he'll mess up another one if he gets the chance.

Like I said, Mr. Publisher, I've given this thing alot of thought and a few drawbacks come to my mind. If we go and find people up there, they might be superior and make slaves out of us. (I can just

Curbs U. S. sovereignty

Congressmen have been receiving tons of mail from constituents concerned by the possibility of a transfer of U. S. power to the United Nations under a disarmament agreement.

Rep. Elford Cederberg, Michigan Republican, has been among those on Capitol Hill trying to give voters a responsible answer to the legitimate question of whether the U.N. is, in fact, a threat to U.S. sovereignty.

He asked a man who should know: Adlai Stevenson, our ambassador to the U.N. Stevenson's answer, released June 8, is found on page 971 of the 1963 State Department Hearings before the House Appropriations Subcommittee chaired by Rep. John J. Rooney, New York Democrat. For the benefit of millions of Americans who would be informed molders of public opinion, here is the Cederberg - Stevenson dialogue:

"Mr. Cederberg: There is a tendency, I am sure you realize, of thinking on the part of people that possibly the United States might place its own interests subordinate to those of the United Nations or that we might give up some of our sovereignty through the United Nations. Is this possible?"

"Ambassador Stevens: 'I do not want to prolong this discussion, and it gets very intricate on the subject of sovereignty, but we yield some sovereignty every time we enter into a treaty. So I do not think I could say, in answer to your question, that the United Nations does not and will not reflect some surrender of sovereignty. It does in the nature of things!'

"So here you have it! Inevitably, 'in the nature of things' the U.N. curbs U.S. sovereignty.

On page 968 of these same hearings Stevenson admits that the U.N. is not an organization which operates on principle. Its philosophy is that might makes right - a reactionary reversion to the law of the jungle. The question of principle at the U.N. was raised by Rep. Glenard P. Lipscomb, California Republican. He questioned Stevenson regarding a project which the U.N. Special Fund allocated to Cuba. Lipscomb had

GINS APPLY FOR MIKE

More than half of the gins in this territory have applied for the U. S. Department of Agriculture's new micronaire cotton testing service.

This was announced today by W. K. Palmer, Officer in Charge, Lubbock Cotton Classing Office.

In past years, these 218 gins have ginned about 49 percent of the cotton produced in this area, according to Mr. Palmer.

"This means that most farmers in this territory will have made application for the 'mike' test - to use in selling their cotton for the best possible price."

Several gins in each cotton producing county in this area have made application for the "mike" testing.

Cost of the "mike" test is 8¢ per sample. Ginners will be billed for this service. They may include it with the cost of ginning, as a separate fee or as an additional customer service.

MISS BAILEY HONOR ROLL

Jo Ann Bailey of Tokio qualified for a place on the Honor Roll at Hardin-Simmons University during the 1963 spring semester.

Miss Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bailey, Route 1, Tokio, received her Bachelor of Music degree in Music Education at the close of the semester in May.

She is a graduate of Plains High School.

Students who make a grade point average of 3.58 and who take at least 12 semester hours of work qualify for the honor roll at Hardin-Simmons.

BLOWIN' OUT THE CORNERS

Grandchildren pass through the grandest stages. For instance, there are times when they think that the grandparents can do just about anything. Not long ago our own was aggravated by a sudden burst of high wind. Turning to his grandmother he shouted: "Turn off the wind, Mam-Ma."

If any of our readers do not have any grandchildren of their own and will send a stamped self-addressed envelope we will tell you a lot more cute things about mine.

This column reaches out over a wide area now and for this we are so very thankful. An average of about eight papers carry it regularly. If your hometown paper is one of the above please drop the editor a card or letter telling him whether you enjoy reading it or not.

Several years ago now we helped start a Round Robin Letter Club. The letters going in a circle from one to the other as accompanying the letters. The group has grown to 17 which is almost too many for one club. Most of the 17 are shut-ins and really enjoy getting this handful of letters every once in a while. Many read all of the 17 letters over and over.

If you are a shut-in and a bit lonely; if you would love to not only write but receive some cheerful encouraging letters please do the following things: Send me one page up to typing size paper, giving your name, address, birthday, age, hobbies, handicap or sickness, and any other interesting thing about yourself. Write on both sides of paper if you wish. If we hear from 10 or more we will start another Round Robin Letter Club and will also send each one a membership card.

Unless congress acts in a hurry it appears that the words "One Nation Under God" will be stricken from our pledge of allegiance. If this should be allowed to happen we could expect a ruling soon on our right to observe Christmas and Thanksgiving. It looks for all the world to us that the highest court in our lands seemed determined to make us a godless nation. Think it over.

J. C. Penney once said: "If you would be happy, choose the right way rather than the wrong way." After making this wise expression he stuck by the "cash over the counter" way of doing business until just over a year ago. We wonder sometimes which is the easy wrong way.

A nickel goes a long ways these days. You can carry one for weeks without finding anything it will buy. Can't find a cigar, or even make a telephone call. It is not the same with pennies - anyway, not since we have the state sales tax.

One fellow was asked: "Do you know what 9 out of 10 Cadillac driver say?" The answer was: "Dem white folks shore do build good automobiles."

Bout' the only good thing about the installment is that we don't get 100% mad on the same first of the month.

Someone has said if we can't push we should pull, if we can't pull then we should get out of the way.

The expression Sound As A Dollar has already lost a big percent of its sound.

This is a better paper when your news is in it.

Millions of Americans for Goldwater

Will you join our Savings-Contribution Plan - Save for your future and the future of America?

This is a plan to send Senator Barry Goldwater into the 1964 Nomination Convention for President of the United States with an overwhelming campaign fund at his disposal, making it clear to every delegate that the conservative grassroots mean business.

- HERE'S HOW IT WORKS: You simply deposit your contributions in your bank or savings and loan association.
- ★ If Goldwater is nominated, his 1964 National Campaign Headquarters gets the money.
 - ★ If Goldwater is not nominated, you keep the money. YOU CAN'T LOSE!

IF YOU BELIEVE the American people should have a clear-cut choice between a Conservative and a Liberal candidate, join with the grassroots movement and start your Savings-Contribution Account TODAY! MAKE THIS YOUR PERSONAL CAMPAIGN!

THE PLAN IS SIMPLE - Here's What To Do:

- ★ Go to your banker or to any Federal or State Savings & Loan Association.
- ★ Deposit the amount you wish to give to the campaign fund of the Honorable Barry Goldwater of Arizona. (Perhaps you will be able to add to this weekly or monthly).
- ★ Have a receipt made out in triplicate (use forms on this page, if you care to) making it clear that the deposit will be held in the depository of your choice until after the 1964 Presidential National Convention, at which time it will be transferred to Trustee for Millions of Americans for Goldwater, ONLY if Senator Barry Goldwater receives and accepts the 1964 nomination for the Presidency of the United States of America.
- ★ Authorize your bank or savings institution to mail a copy of the receipt to: Millions of Americans for Goldwater, P. O. Box 5745, Amarillo, Texas, 79107

MILLIONS

ONLY ONE OF TWO THINGS CAN HAPPEN:

1. If Barry Goldwater is nominated and accepts the nomination to the 1964 Presidency, your deposit, plus any interest which may accrue thereon, shall be transferred upon the 31st day of July, 1964, to the Trustee for Millions of Americans for Goldwater. These funds will immediately be deposited to the 1964 National Headquarters as designated by the Honorable Barry Goldwater.
2. If Senator Barry Goldwater does not receive and accept the nomination to the 1964 Presidency, your deposits, plus any interest which may accrue thereon, shall remain on deposit subject to your call.

If every person who wants Goldwater elected will give all that he or she can, we will surely be blessed in this undertaking and save this wonderful country of ours for ourselves and our posterity.

If Senator Goldwater receives the nomination, he will win the Presidency! Americans are ashamed of the soft and negative approach by the present administration toward world Communism. We are tired of financing our enemies. We want a balanced budget and sound fiscal policies. Mostly, we are tired of being left out of OUR government - we want to run our own affairs in the American way.

WON'T YOU JOIN WITH US TODAY?

If your bank or savings institution cannot participate, contact this office for a participating institution in your locality.

"Fixation" On Castro Ignores Bible Warning

By Sen. George S. McGovern (D. S.D.)

Rarely in American history has so much futile and irresponsible discussion been devoted to a single issue as the present Cuban question. Partly because of this, we now have a dangerous fixation on Castro that is not worthy of this great Nation.

While hunger, disease and injustice—the traditional handmaidens of revolution—stalk Latin America, we hear nothing in this country but the clamor and controversy over Castro and his future. We have ignored the biblical warning against straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel. If Khrushchev's purpose was to create a gnat to divert the attention of the United States from the real dangers and challenges of Latin America, he must feel handsomely rewarded.

As President Kennedy has wisely said, "The big dangers to Latin America—are the very difficult, and in some cases, desperate conditions in the countries themselves—unrelated to Cuba." Neither Castro nor Khrushchev, not even communism, created the social ills that beset our neighbors to the South. The real bombshells of Latin America are fused to the following conditions:

- (1) 2 per cent of the people own more than half the wealth,
- (2) 80 per cent of the people dwell in miserable shacks amidst hopeless poverty,
- (3) illiteracy is the lot of well over half the population,
- (4) more than 50 per cent of the people suffer from hunger and disease and most of them will never in their lifetime see a doctor, nurse, dentist, or pharmacist,
- (5) most governments are weakened by unjust tax structures, excessive military budgets designed to keep the people under control, and
- (6) a growth in population that is several times faster than the rate of increase in supplies of food and services.

What, then, is our problem—Castro or the frightful conditions on which he thrives? The question answers itself. Every government in the hemisphere is taking a new and searching look at the desperate needs of its masses of citizens. This Administration, through the Alliance for Progress, is cooperating with self-help efforts to

The Farm Economic Outlook

The price-cost squeeze on farmers may tighten some during 1963 due to larger supplies and lower average prices of farm products along with higher production costs, says John McHaney, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The larger output expected in 1963 will raise the gross farm income but this increase will be offset by higher prices paid by farmers, he elaborates. Economic activity of the nation as a whole increased during the early part of 1963 and will probably continue to advance the rest of the year though at a slower rate.

Exports of farm products in the calendar year 1963 will probably total about the same as the record shipments in 1961 and 1962, says McHaney. Food fats and oils and dairy product exports will probably increase while wheat and cotton levels will remain near the 1962 figure. Poultry and feed grain exports are expected to be lower than in 1962, the economist adds.

Looking at prospects for the rest of the year, fed cattle prices are expected to improve somewhat due to a seasonal decline in fed beef production. Hog prices may be somewhat lower during the fall and early winter of 1963 than for the same period last year. This will be true if the March-May farrowings were the expected four percent higher than a year earlier.

Farm milk sales for 1963 are expected to be only one percent higher than last year and the national average support price, effective April 1, 1963, will be three cents more per hundred, says McHaney. There will be little change in the number of layers on farms during the remainder of the year, but because of a higher rate of lay, egg numbers will be up.

The 1963 turkey crop is likely to be the same as last year's though it will have stiffer competition from broilers and red meat in the next six months than during the same span in 1962.

raise standards of living through the painstaking, often frustrating, method of democratic reform and constructive economic development.

At stake is the future of the whole Western hemisphere. Will change come through peaceful democratic change, or by a violent Communist-led upheaval? I suggest that too many have been willing to shed the blood of young Americans in a Cuban invasion, and not enough have paid attention to the great problems confronting the Alliance.

I applaud President Kennedy's policy of wisdom and restraint toward Cuba. He has been firm and courageous in resisting the clamor of the warhawks.

Last October he rejected the counsels of those who called for a naval blockade before we knew the nature of the Russian arm shipments. The President also rebuffed those who favored an immediate air strike against Cuba. By waiting until he had positive proof of the Soviet-Cuban offensive missile threat, the President won unanimous support for his action from our Western allies and the countries of Latin America. He forced Khrushchev to back down, but he did it without war. He has since resisted those who have shouted for blood and battle and blockades.

I earnestly hope that we will not dissipate our energies in a senseless fixation on Castro. Our mission is to point the way to a better life for the hemisphere and, indeed, for all mankind.

"All day long I have stretched forth my hands unto a disobedient and gainsaying people."—Isaiah 65:2

Do we in these modern times also turn away? Do we content ourselves with the fact that each Sunday we make our weekly visit and thus fulfill our obligation?

Do our friends and neighbors consider us Christians just because they see us in church once a week? Can we really convince ourselves that this is enough?

Christianity and belief in God is rightfully a part of our lives every step of the way. If we welcome God in our hearts each Sunday, it just isn't possible for us to turn away the other six days of the week.

There is time to remember the goodness of God and to appreciate the blessings of Christianity in every day of our lives, wherever we may be, whatever we may be doing.

We will find this time with the realization that the thing to do when we do not have time to visit God's house is to ask God to come to us.

interruption, the mail has gone through. The postal motto which affirms that the mail must go through in spite of all difficulties, has been verified on the western plains, in tangled swamps, and across deep and swift streams, the mail has gone through. Later came the rushing train, speeding through night, and the trucks on great highways, and the air mail special being winged through the blue, and all the while the mail has gone through, and now the letter you send and pay the proper postage on will go through, or you will know the reason why not. Let us somehow find the moral equivalent to carrying the mail through in all the activities we undertake in God's name, for "The longer on this earth we stay And weigh the varied qualities of men, The more we feel the high stern-featured beauty, Of plain devotedness to duty."

Capt Light In Alaska

Vacationing Capt. & Mrs. Willford D. Light Jr. have arrived in this northland city nicknamed "the Switzerland of Alaska."

Called "Val-DEEZ" by Alaskans, the town is bordered on three sides by white-capped peaks of the Chugach Mountain Range and on the fourth side by the waters of Prince William Sound. The setting is breath-taking, report Capt. and Mrs. Light--and the fishing is fabulous, both for freshwater trout and salt-water salmon.

The vacationers advise that one of the most fascinating attractions is nearby Worthington Glacier. A road leads right up to within "chipping" distance of the ice face.

Another mammoth ice river, the mighty Columbia Glacier, also provides a major attraction. This one is available via scheduled daily boat trips.

The city is accessible from other major Alaska points both by paved highway and by air. The Lights will travel from Valdez on to other points in Alaska.

The hardest part about parking a Corvair is finding a nickel

That may be a slight overstatement, but such jauntiness comes easily when you're a Corvair owner.

And you can usually back it up—as easily as you can back up a Corvair. You'll find yourself doing that occasionally, if only to adjust the brakes—they're self-adjusting. That's all there is to it, and that's a good example of how delightfully easy Corvair is to own, drive and maintain.

But since we began by talking about driving, let's stick with that awhile. A large factor in the fun of driving a Corvair is the location of its engine in the rear. Why the rear? It gives Corvair extra traction on any road surface. It provides a nearly flat floor for more useable interior space. Best of all, it produces steering so light, so responsive, you wonder why no other American-made car thought of it.

Corvair's engine is also air cooled, we might add, which means there's no antifreeze or water for you to add. Ever.

All that pleasure from something so practical almost makes you think Corvair is unique among American cars. Which isn't surprising, because it is!

Inside Insurance in Texas

(Editor's note: Insurance is now the second largest industry in Texas, second only to petroleum. This informative series of articles is written especially for The Plains Record by the author of the book, The Story of Insurance in Texas.)

By HUGH WILLIAMSON

The Texas Insurance Commission, after all these years, has an insurance man — not only as a member, but as chairman.

In the past, members of the commission — who have served with distinction — were lawyers, judges, educators, and a banker.

Governor Connally's choice for the commission was a really outstanding insurance man, William Hunter McLean of Fort Worth.

One of McLean's primary interests right now is to choose a man with broad experience in the insurance field to replace Comm. Wm. A. Harrison who has resigned, effective Sept. 1. McLean said the Insurance Board "will take its time" in finding a successor.

He has devoted his entire business career to insurance. Beginning his six-year term on February 1 of this year, he brought into the office vast knowledge that derives from his long experience.

A native of Fort Worth (October 1, 1909), he comes from a distinguished Texas family.

His grandfather, William Pinckney McLean Sr. was a member of the Texas Constitutional Convention and a member of the first Railroad Commission of Texas. He is the son of Dr. John H. McLean, a physician and surgeon.

Hunter McLean was educated in Texas schools and Virginia Military Institute.

His first employment was in the agency field at Fort Worth — at age 18.

He was deputy life insurance commissioner of Texas from 1933 to 1943, serving as senior examiner and in other capacities.

He served in the Marines in World War II. Thereafter, he and his father founded the American Standard Life Insurance Company, and he was its president. He sold his interests and retired from management in 1961.

McLean was a charter member and first president of the Texas Legal Reserve Officials Association.

He was a charter member, director, and official of the National Association of Life Companies, which awarded him in 1960 its Distinguished Service Award for achievement in connection with work done on the Life Company Federal Tax Act of 1958.

He is a member of a number of Fort Worth clubs, and his contribution in the field of civic work has been notable for the quality of his leadership.

A licensed pilot, his leisure time interests including, in addition to flying, sailing and bridge.

And a Few Brief Notes

Insurance, one of Texas' greatest industries, has grown along with the state — has contributed to that growth by financing many of our enterprises.

The G. W. Cleavelands returned this week from Oklahoma where they attended the funeral of a nephew, Dr. Garland Lasater.

Gary, as he was known to his family and friends, and his wife, Jane, had come from their home in St. Paul, Minnesota to visit relatives in Oklahoma. On their trip home they were involved in a three car accident which instantly took the life of Gary 25, and Mrs. Lasater 21, is still in critical condition in Mercy Hospital in Mason City, Iowa.

Dr. Lasater was doing research in human and animal medicines in Minnesota State University. He had completed two years of a five year, $35,000 scholarship. He obtained his B. S. and Veterinary Medicine Degrees in Oklahoma State University before entering the field of research.

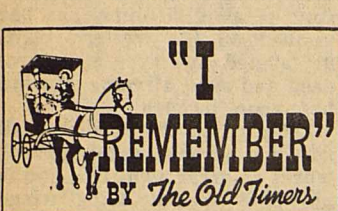

Mrs. Lasater was also a student in the medical field of the University. She lacked only a few months having completed requirements for a degree in nursing.

J. L. and Polly Neal of Odessa are spending this week with their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson.

HE DID IT... True to his boast, Cassius Clay beat British heavyweight champ Henry Cooper in five rounds of their Wembley bout. Now the highly-publicized young boxer wants to take on Sonny Liston.

Rusty McGinty and D'Lynn spent the past week in Stanford where D'Lynn ran barrels in the Stanford Rodeo.

From Clara Comstock, Sparks, Oklahoma: We're retired now on our farm, just couldn't "out-grow" that "y'en" for country life. I still go a "Polk huntin'" in the spring sometimes alone, or maybe with a couple of our "Grands" (or mabe all five of 'em) go along too, we have to only walk down in the pasture around the fences to find it. I show them the different kinds, just like my Mama showed me so many years ago. We stop and swing on a Grape vine, and find a Quail's nest by an old log. Sadie "jumps" a Rabbit and it's right under our feet, and scampers off to a brush-pile. Violet and Blue Bell walk along with us (a bucket is so interesting to them, and have to get a good small in it) When we stoop over, one may "nudge" a little, as much as to say, "what's goin' on, this is our 'stompin' ground!" We pick a few wild flowers as we walk along, and the boys throw rocks, or clods of dirt, anything to sail in the air, or into the pond. We head for the house, enough wild greens for all of us, and some to put in the freezer. It's a little like turning the clock back, at least we're slowing time up a bit—days seem longer, time to do so many small things—Yes, it's Polk Pickin' time again!

Just a few short years ago, there were scandals in the insurance business of Texas — it is to the credit of the companies of the commission, that all this has been cleared up. Nobody questions insurance today; there are many companies of all kinds, and people rely on them for protection. The magnitude of the industry reveals the confidence people have in insurance.

The early history of Texas insurance was one of confusion and turmoil. A great many people were bilked by fast operators. There was bad feeling about the Robertson Law, which required foreign companies to invest part of their assets in Texas. When the law passed, many foreign companies left the state. From these troublous beginnings grew the great insurance industry of Texas today.

Insurance laws constitute a comprehensive code for protection of insured people. The Texas Insurance Commission has broad powers to regulate the companies — and the companies work with the Commission to bring about a well-ordered, stable industry.

Insurance is a joint enterprise for the distribution of loss. A policyholder who, through carelessness or dishonesty, suffers a loss, contributes to the higher cost of insurance for all.

Among the first to apply one of the basic principles of insurance were the Egyptian pharaohs. Joseph advised the Pharaoh to order people to store great reserves of food during good times so as to prepare for the lean years. Accordingly, part of the crops were laid aside. When the harvests failed, the people were able to survive because they had saved for an emergency.

After every victory, the Roman soldiers received a bonus for their part in battle. Part of their pay was held back for their retirement years; or, if they were killed in battle, the money was paid to their families. That was an early form of insurance.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent for laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent upon his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation: For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury; For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offences; For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments; For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

Our forefathers who subscribed to the principles of the Declaration of Independence were willing to fight for their beliefs. The Revolutionary War followed, dragging through weary years of suffering and suspense. Each of us takes pride in their eventual triumph over gigantic obstacles.

The words from the song, Oh What A Beautiful Morning, from the musical "Oklahoma," inspired this picture taken at Six Flags Over Texas. At Fort St. Louis in the French section of the famous family fun land midway between Fort Worth and Dallas, corn and vegetables are grown just as were cultivated in the early days to feed the inhabitants. Now the corn — not the stalks — is as high as an elephant's eye, but baby elephant Sis Flagg and Hostess Mona Freeman are somewhat skeptical as to whether the Texas corn will "climb clear up to the sky," as it does in the famous song from the popular Rodgers and Hammerstein show, "Oklahoma."

Declaration Of Independence Expresses Basic Belief

In 1776, when the framers of our Constitution met at Independence Hall in Philadelphia, where the Declaration of Independence had been signed 11 years previously, they set to work to create a system of checks and balances in government which was to perpetuate the fundamental theory mentioned in the preamble of the earlier document.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident; That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

"That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; . . .

Some five years later, the first ten amendments of our Constitution were adopted at one time, specifically detailing various basic civil rights stemming from the underlying theory of the Declaration of Independence. Our court day by day guard these rights for us.

SHIVERS ELECTED

DRESSER DIRECTOR

Former Texas Governor, Allan Shivers, has been elected a Director of Dresser Industries, Inc., world-wide supplier of industrial equipment and technical services.

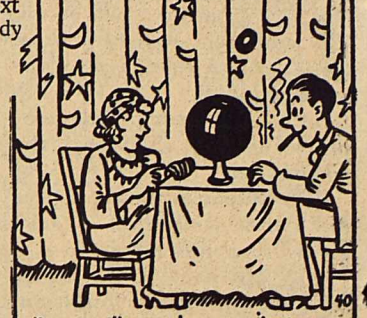

Ex-Governor Shivers served as the state's chief executive from 1949 through 1957. He resides in Austin, and in recent years has been engaged in business activities in Texas as lawyer, farmer, rancher, and is Chairman of the Executive Committee and a Director of Champlin Oil and Refining Company, and also Chairman of National Bankers Life Insurance Co., Dallas. He is a Director of Texas Gulf Sulphur Company, Bradriff International Airways, and other companies. His public life began in the Texas Senate in 1935, two years after receiving a law degree from the University of Texas. He served in the Senate until 1946, was Lieutenant Governor in 1947 before becoming Governor in 1949. He served two years in the European Theater of World War II.

During his four terms as Governor of Texas, he was chairman of the National Governors Conference, the Interstate Oil Company Commission, and President of the Council of State Governments. Dresser Industries is a group of 14 operating companies and 30 foreign subsidiaries home over the 4th of July supplying equipment and services to the chemical, gas, oil power and general industries.

The old man had been high on a ladder, pruning a pecan tree. Suddenly he was lying helpless on the ground, vulnerable to the ladder as it crashed down on his head. Still hospitalized. The price he paid for his backyard tree-pruning venture: both heels crushed, a broken vertebra, and a deep gash in his head. What prompted him to undertake so difficult a task when he was so obviously ill-equipped to handle it?

There is no firm answer to the question. The incident is just one of thousands which kill and maim and cripple people throughout Texas and the rest of the nation each year. Accidents, as of this moment, stand as the fourth leading cause of death among all age groups in Texas and the United States as a whole. Even more grim is the fact that of the 5655 accidental deaths of all types registered in Texas last year, one-fourth occurred in the most cherished of all places -- the victim's home.

Thorough studies into the nature of accidents show that very few happen by pure chance. They occur because a stairway was improperly lighted... because an electrical circuit was overloaded... because a threshold strip was not tacked down tight... because the rung of a ladder was loose... because an insecticide was carelessly stored... because someone was smoking in bed... because of an endless variety of human failings. The National Safety Council defines accident statistics as "a single human tragedy multiplied to the point of indifference." The definition is an apt one, since accidents have become commonplace in the pattern of modern life.

Miss Carolyn Warren and Miss Janith Tucker were home over the 4th of July. They are both attending beauty school in Lubbock.

Children and older people are most susceptible. Current national statistics show that 15,000 children are killed and 16,500,000 are injured each year. Persons 65 years old and over compose nine percent of the population; yet this age group experiences 74 percent of all fatal falls and 28 percent of all deaths from fire and explosion.

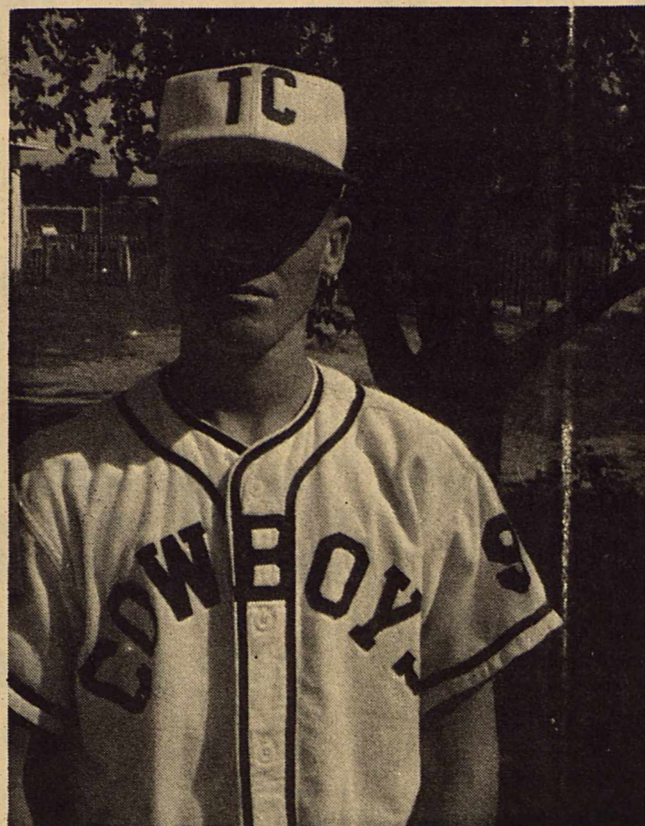

There is no reason to believe the pattern of fatal home accidents this year will vary greatly from the 1962 pattern when 1384 Texans met untimely death.

Fires and explosions killed 423; falls from different levels killed 310; 180 died of falls from the same level; 83 were accidentally shot; 79 suffocated; 54 were poisoned by solids or liquids; 43 were poisoned by gases or vapors; 18 were burned to death by hot substances, and 194 died from accidents of an unspecified nature.

These figures can only be altered by massive demonstrations of public caution, stimulated by carefully organized, continuous programs of home safety in which the whole community is involved.

"Blevins, what's this nonsense about you think we should air-condition the office?"

"We loved your sermon last Sunday. We're ALL behind you about celebrating the 4th in a quiet and dignified manner!"

Ten outstanding Future Farmers will compete in public speaking during the State FFA Convention in Lubbock, July 17-19, 1963, according to Clemon Montgomery, Executive Secretary of the Texas FFA. Each of the ten is the winner of his area in public speaking. There are ten areas in the state. Entered in the contest from Plains is Cote Trout. "The Effect of Communist System on Agriculture."

ITEM: Is your wash so gray that you want to hang it in the basement instead of outside where neighbors can see it? If so, your problem may be hard water. Modern automatic washers are designed to do a good cleaning job. Same is true of detergents. But in 85 per cent of the country, the water that's supplied reduces performance and efficiency. Hard water may even reduce the life of the washer. Solution: soften the water--add a water softener to your plumbing equipment.

ITEM: Among latest and handiest food preparations in push-button containers are cheese spreads in four different flavors--American, Cheddar, Swiss and blue cheese, and creamed Swiss cheese. They are dispensed in a flowing ribbon for easy spreading on hors d'oeuvres, frankfurters, apple pie, etc.

ITEM: Most of the colors being specified by today's top designers are warm and tinged with yellow. Choice includes curry, mustard, gold, olive, avocado, and bronze in the green family and a brownish green called green. Browns are more golden. Spanish reds are favored. They include paprika, chili, and tile red. Inky indigo blue, popular in Colonial times, now is frequently being used with Early American settings.

JFK's Recreation Plans Backed By Key Chairman

By Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D. Wash.)
Chairman, Interior and Insular Affairs Committee

My state, Washington, in the Northwest corner of the continental United States, abounds in recreational opportunities.

Nature has treated this area generously, providing two splendid mountain ranges, an island-studded boating paradise (Puget Sound), picturesque ocean beaches, thousands of lakes and evergreen forests.

Yet, the intensity of public recreational participation has grown so rapidly in recent years that this vast recreational wonderland is suffering the same pains of congestion that had earlier struck the eastern seaboard.

When the President spotlighted physical fitness, 50-mile hikes and outdoorsmanship, he was giving impetus to a movement already well under way in the United States.

Americans have been swarming outdoors in increasing numbers since World War II—and there is no letup in sight.

It is not news to most Americans that it is a tip-toeing exercise to "pick your way across crowded public beaches on a hot summer day. As our population increases and Americans expand their recreational time periods, we face more congestion.

I served on the Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission that recommended the formation of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation that has come into being under President Kennedy. We learned that demand on outdoor recreation facilities is expected to triple by the year 2000. One hundred and eighty-seven million Americans now use 4.4 billion "activity occasions" a year and will use 12.7 billion by 2000.

At the Chimney's Camp Ground in the Great Smokies National Park, "no vacancy" signs hang where there is obvious room for recreationists. But overworked sanitation facilities reduce the potential use of the site to about one-third.

At Devil's Lake, Wisconsin, it was announced that the capacity of a camp site had been reduced by two-thirds for the same reason. Word did not reach out-of-state campers and three out of every four visitors had to be turned away.

Henry M. Jackson

In Washington State, 70,000 boats of all descriptions and categories now operate on Puget Sound. By the year 2000 at least three times that many could conceivably bring about water bottlenecks to challenge the highway 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. rush hours.

The Kennedy Administration and our Democratic Congress have taken giant steps toward providing our sons, daughters and grandchildren the same recreational opportunities that we enjoyed. Instead of shrinking playgrounds, we are battling to organize and to expand. We want to preserve and protect.

The United States has seen a phenomenal growth in the use of outdoor recreation facilities. Despite "Mission 66" in the national parks, "Operation Outdoors" in the National Forests, and the 87th Congress's authorization of seashore recreation areas at Cape Cod, Point Reyes, California; and Padre Island, Texas, our facilities are lagging far behind this demand.

This is a great and industrious land, blessed with the resources to offer its people the most fulfilling life in the history of the world. It is a country of serious people, dedicated to important work that has changed the face of the earth and is now probing outer space.

Yet to accomplish the great deeds yet undone, Americans need the balance of industry, home and recreation.

New Texas Handbook Due Soon

In 1952 the Texas State Historical Association published the Handbook of Texas in two volumes with Walter Prescott Webb as Editor in Chief and H. Bailey Carroll as Managing Editor. The Introduction then gave a brief explanation of the purpose of the Handbook.

"The objective in the compilation of the Handbook of Texas was to assemble into one usable, practical, ready reference work the most significant information about the widest possible range of Texas topics. The ideal was to give to the people of Texas and to those interested in Texas a serviceable and efficient tool which would bring together pertinent facts on a multitude of subjects, many of which, prior to this publication, could be found only in definitive works, great libraries, rare or unique books and documents, highly specialized collections, university and state archives, business and industrial records, or specific local areas.

From the Beginning it has been the desire of the editorial staff to make the Handbook as comprehensive as possible. Every county in Texas has been treated as has every settlement, stream, or elevation about which any information could be found. A wide range of fields of knowledge is represented. Governmental, political, educational, business, and fraternal organizations and institutions are covered. Historically the work extends from the earliest record of life in the area to World War II and in many instances to 1951. Biographies are limited to deceased persons."

It is presently time to undertake the writing of a third volume which will bring the Handbook up to date. To accomplish this task, the newspapers of Texas and their readers are being asked to provide information about their towns and counties and about outstanding topics there in since approximately 1950. It is the belief of the Association that it is the newspapers that are most in touch with the localities and through them leads to the most accurate and important information that can be gained. In particular the Association is interested in knowing of any events which have happened in each town or county between 1950 and 1963 which are of sufficient import to be worthy or mention in the Handbook. Also of interest is information on the deaths since 1950 of any persons in each town or county of state-wide or greater importance.

The Association will do research into and analysis of any leads which are sent to the central office. The association urges the people of Texas to participate in a lasting project of state-wide, county and local history. Address all communications to the Texas State Historical Association, University Station, Austin 12, Texas.

New Uses For Cotton

Four late June developments, announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, should be of interest to producers and consumers of cotton.

Three of the developments have to do with research aimed at finding new uses for cotton and evaluating an already announced process for making all-cotton stretch yarns.

The fourth development was the announcement of Secretary Freeman of an agreement with India which provides for a record-breaking barter of cotton and possibly other agricultural products in exchange for strategic materials. Up to 300,000 bales of cotton will be exported to India, the largest bilateral barter transaction ever negotiated between the U. S. and another country.

The research announced will be conducted under contracts with the USDA. Scientists at North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering will evaluate all-cotton fiber strength while a third group at Clemson Agricultural College in South Carolina will seek methods for producing improved cotton knot goods.

The research to be conducted at Clemson is seeking a method for producing cotton knit goods with increased bulk, warmth and dimensional stability. Such a process, the USDA said, would make cotton knit goods more suitable for use in winter apparel and thus open wider for cotton.

Falls Lead Farm Accidents

Falls are a leading type of accident everywhere—ranking second only to motor vehicle accidents as a cause of accidental death.

On the farm they are certainly no less important. Because farmers work under such varied conditions, the possibility of falling is perhaps even greater than elsewhere, according to the National Safety Council.

The farm worker must repeatedly climb on and off the machines with which he works. Often he does heavy work in areas with poor footing. He works in all kinds of weather, when frozen or wet ground makes slipping easy. The farmer usually is his own maintenance man and requires the skills of many trades.

A bit of oil or grease on a tractor step, a slip on loose straw while working in a loft, a loose or cracked rung on a ladder—these and many other little things can lead to a painful and expensive fall if unnoticed or ignored.

Nor is the home exempt. About two-thirds of the nation's fall deaths are in homes; and the farm home is little different from one in town.

Falls happen when you get in too much of a hurry. Then you are likely to pay too little attention to your surroundings, use the wrong equipment for the job, and put off removing tripping hazards.

Positive steps that require only a moment if taken immediately will eliminate many causes of falls, says the Council.

Keep stairways and passageways clear of clothing, tools, and toys. Protect outdoor steps and porches from ice, weather damage, and rotting.

Fasten rugs securely; avoid loose scatter rugs. Shine waxed floors evenly to a high polish.

Keep ladders in good repair, and use them instead of makeshifts. See that they are placed on a firm footing and at a safe angle. Move the ladder instead of trying to reach too far.
