

MOORE or Less

by Johnnie Moore

A small booklet entitled "Civil Rights and Legal Wrongs" found its way to my desk this week...

"The logic is said to go something like this: All decent Americans should support good things. All decent Americans should oppose bad things. Racial discrimination are good things. The President's pending Civil Rights Bill is intended to prohibit racial discrimination. Therefore, his bill is a good thing, and all decent Americans should support it.

If this were all there were to it--if the problem were as simple as A plus B, and therefore C--nothing could be gained by further discussion of the President's proposal. All decent Americans would be of one mind.

But the problems that have produced this bill are not easy problems, and the bill is not a simple bill. One of the great distinctions of the American system is that we try always to distinguish between the goal itself, and the way in which a goal is reached. Such careful distinctions need to be made in this case.

We believe this bill is a very bad bill. In our view, the means here proposed are the wrong means. The weapons the President would contrive against race prejudice are the wrong weapons. In the name of achieving certain certain "rights" for one group of citizens, this bill would impose some fateful compulsions on another group of citizens. The bill may be well-intentioned--we question no man's motivation in supporting it--but good intentions are not enough. In this area, we need good law. And the President's bill, in our view, is plain bad law.

That is perhaps the least that could be said of it. In our judgment, this bill violates the Constitution in half a dozen different ways.

It would tend to destroy the States' control of their own voting requirements.

It would stretch the Commerce Clause beyond recognition.

It would wrongly invoke the 14th Amendment.

It would undermine the most precious rights of property.

It would raise grave questions of a citizens' right to jury trial.

The bill would open new doors to the forces of government regimentation.

And in the end, because of the violence that would be done to fundamental law, Americans of every race would suffer equal harm.

The emotionalism of this turbulent summer is largely responsible for the serious attention now given the bill and for the eminent voices raised in its behalf. In a calmer climate, the bill's defects would be readily apparent. But this is not a calm time; it is a passionate time, and dispassionate thought comes hard. What is here proposed, in this brief pamphlet, is simply that we sit down and reason together. Those of us who strongly oppose the bill believe our position is sound.

Title III, relating to the segregation of public education, "would vest sweeping new powers in the U.S. Commissioner of Education and the Attorney General to deal with "racial imbalance" in schools throughout the country.

Title IV would set up a We should like to explain this position to you.

Mr. Kennedy's omnibus Civil Rights Bill of 1963 (S. 1731) is divided into seven major titles. Briefly:

Title I relates to "voting rights." It would place elaborate new controls upon the States' constitutional authority to fix the qualifications of voters.

Title II relates to "public accommodations." It would compel the owner of almost every business establishment in the United States to serve all persons regardless of race, LOOKING GOOD-- Plains Cowboy football hopefuls began workouts this week in preparations for the upcoming season. Coach Rip Sewell reports much progress with their new multiple T formation.

Start of School Here

School bells can be heard ringing in the not-too-far distance, as the start of school is just around the corner.

All the earmarks can be seen around Plains, as the parents of pupils are hurriedly making their purchases of school clothes etc.

The beginnings of it all were to have been today with the pre-registration of the first grade pupils.

A lot of groans can be heard from some of the pupils who have to start back to the old grind now, but secretly most of them admit they are about ready to go back. And, of course, most adults are ready for it to start, so someone, anyone, else can mind the kids for awhile, and of course there is the prospect of a real exciting season of football in the offing.

The buses will begin running their regular routes on next Thursday, which is registration day.

On Friday, the regular schedule will be gone through on something of a practice basis, and individual schedules will be adjusted. This, explained D. N. Taylor, high school principal, does away with a good part of the confusion usually experienced on the first regular day of school, which will be on Monday, the second day of September.

Mothers of first grade pupils are asked to accompany their children to school on next Thursday, and are reminded that their children, under state law, are required to have their immunization shots.

Football Team Looking Good

Plains Schools' new head coach, Rip Sewell, reported today on the progress made so far in the workouts which were begun this week with the cowboy football hopefuls.

He stated that a real fine number of boys have turned out and that the spirit of the entire group seems to be very good.

A total of 39 boys has so far shown up for workouts, and of this number 11 are seniors, 7 are juniors, 14 sophomores, and 7 are freshmen.

Two-a-day workouts began last Monday, and reports are that for this early in the season, the boys are looking very good.

Sewell stated that he has completely changed the offensive pattern for this year, in that he has gone to a multiple "T" formation. This type of pattern has an infinite number of variations and possibilities to it. Some of the uses it will be put to here this season, Sewell said, are such things as single wing power plays; slot and wing variations using either halfback, and a brand new, and so far very impressive, wing "T" sweep series.

The plays are all new this year, and Sewell reports that he is very heartened with the speed that the Cowboys have picked them up so far.

He says there are six series of plays and as many as six or eight plays in each series.

The Cowboys have covered the entire six series of plays in workout already this week, and are reported to have adapted to them very well.

On Wednesday work was begun on the team's defense, as well as a concentration on some of the basic fundamentals of the game, but Sewell explained he thought it was absolutely necessary for the team to have first become very well acquainted with the new offensive structure before this could be started.

As things look now, Sewell said, we will have a very well balanced team this year, with somewhat more depth in the backfield than last year.

The Cowboys' opening tilt this year will be a real test of determination. They travel to Crane, a class AA foe, with 14 returning lettermen.

Much of the credit for the Cowboys coming around so quickly, Sewell pointed out, is due to some real determined effort on the part of the assistant coaches, Bob Gross, and Guerry Wright. He said too that the new coach, John Richey, who is just finishing a term of summer school, will be here for workouts beginning tomorrow.

New Check Law Underscored

Two brand new laws go into effect in Texas this week, one today, the 22nd, and the other tomorrow.

On Friday it becomes legal to drive 70 mph on most Texas Highways.

Today a new and revised statute in connection with the passing of worthless checks. It has been said that check writing, as a method of payment, is certainly one of the most convenient methods available, is also sometimes a very expensive one to the businessman who receives them and then gets them back from the bank marked "insufficient funds", especially if those checks are not made good.

The new amendment to the penal code in this connection is said to put a great deal more strength into the present worthless check laws.

Provisions in the amendment make it unlawful for any person to write a check for any amount if he, the check writer, does not have sufficient funds in his account to cover this and all other of his outstanding checks.

Clarity of what constitutes intent to defraud is much better under the law. If the writer of the check does not make it good within ten days after receiving notice, the worthless check then becomes prima facie evidence that the person had intentions to defraud and also had knowledge of the fact of insufficient funds.

Yoakum County Attorney Vernon Townes has reminded that the address of the person writing the check must be on the check. This is to be used as the address to which the notification, either certified letter or telegram, must be sent, informing the writer his check did not clear the bank.

Beginning today J. P. Court will no longer handle any worthless check complaints, as now any check written for an amount less than $50 will be handled in county court, and amounts over that figure will be a matter for district court.

First conviction for writing a worthless check to defraud draws punishment of imprisonment in county jail for up to two years and a fine of up to $1,000. Second conviction carries jail sentence from 30 days to two years and a fine of not more than $2,000. And third offense convictions carry a penitentiary sentence of from two to ten years.

Another break-in was reported in the county this week. This one occurred at the Tokio Co-op Gin near the eastern edge of the county.

This followed several lesser robberies in that general area over the past several days of such things as batteries, heads and manifolds off of irrigation motors, as well as one complete motor.

Yoakum County Deputy Olan Heath reported that there is a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the Gin Burglar or the person who broke into the First Christian Church here last week.

City Policeman, R. J. Van Liew, while patrolling here on Tuesday night, was involved in a traffic mishap which is described as having inflicted several hundred dollars worth of damage on the City's patrol car.

He is reported to have been driving about 20 mph "very near to the curb" when an unnamed Latin American plowed into the rear of the patrol car.

Deputy Olan Heath, who was riding with Van Liew, said the other driver was going about 50 mph.

The Latin American who is currently working near Bronco, spent the night in the local jail on charges of speeding and wreckless driving.

Dear Mr. Publisher:

I just got back from the Church a while ago, where I was over-seeing a Young People's meeting. It was one of our average programs--dry as crackers crumbs and about as hard to swallow. Rufe's daughter was in charge of the meeting.

Ben Twist started off with Scripture reading--that is as soon as he found it. Ben didn't know exactly what he was gonna read until he opened his mouth. He started right in the middle of a thought, which wouldn't have been so bad, if he coulda read the last half. He read about like a fella plowing a new-ground... he'd clip along a short distance and then hit a stump. I can't figure out if Ben hadn't practiced reading the Scripture or whether he just couldn't read... period. Course it didn't upset the other younguns too much cause they were busy giggling.

When we got through singing a hymn we didn't know, why Rufe's daughter presented the program. It was on whether 12 year olds oughta go steady or not. Each young person read a paragraph from a little book written by Elizabeth Taylor, (I understand she's quite an authority on the subject.) Course they got messed up on their paragraphs and some was reading from the front of the book while some was reading from the back. The way they was reading, it woulda sounded as good one way as it would another.

Soon as that ordeal was over they took up the offering. We had 20 people present and 23¢ in collections. Looks like somebody had over-give by 3¢. I know that don't sound like much money but that's about all our young folks has got after buying a ice cream cone and a pepsie on the way to Church. (I reckon when our younguns read in the Good Book where it says, "Man shall not live by bread alone", that it meant they oughta have a few "belly-washers" and a milkshake along with it.)

Next came the business Mr. Publisher. The younguns spent 30 minutes planning a spegette supper. One boy mentioned a needy family in the community, but it kinda got lost in the spegette. Ben Twist said they didn't have money for both, and charity begins at home.

After the meeting was over we had refreshments and played ball. The secretary wrote down, "There was a good time had by all."

Mr. Publisher, if the Kingdom of God will come by popcorn and soddy water, we ain't got long to wait. Only thing is, I'm afraid there's gonna be a lotta potbellied people in it that can't even read the Bible. I reckon the best thing to do is just to rare back and have a good time. This will be one way to win the world, if you can't lick em, joim em.

I gotta close now and go to the Church. Our men's group is going to the wrestling matches. Come along. Be sure and wear your Sunday clothes cause this is a Church meeting.

Yours Truly,
Parson Jones

CITE NEED FOR I. D. NO 'S

Rev. ROBERT H. HARPER
REMINDEES

In the play of Julius Caesar we have seen and heard how Mark Anthony appears and begs to be allowed to speak at Caesar's funeral. Permission was granted with the condition that he say naught against the assassins whose daggers had taken the life of Caesar. This condition he respected so far as his words were literally concerned, but in one of the finest pieces of irony known, the feelings of the Roman populace were raised to frenzy against Brutus and his fellow conspirators.

As Anthony presented the blood-stained mantle of the dead Caesar and indicated where "the well-beloved Brutus stabbed" and other rents made by Caesar's murderers, the people were themselves roused by the lust of blood in revenge for Caesar's death.

In a similar but better way I was reminded of several great and good men I have known in looking through the bulletin of a temperance foundation that had come in the mail. In turning through the pages, I found the pictures of men I have known for their Christian labors. And there was one whose picture was not shown but whose memoir was given. And it stirred memories. For fifty years in the city of New Orleans he had lived a Christian life.

Just a thought:

Every man leaves some kind of mark along the trail of life. Great men leave theirs in the pages of history. What the rest of us accomplish is marked in the minds of the people we meet along the way.

Recognizing God

"He taketh the wise in their own craftiness."—Job 5:13

Paul the Apostle, in his first epistle to the Corinthians, reminded them that the Lord knew the vain thoughts of many who professed to be the wise men of the world.

It is somewhat human, of course, for a man to be proud of his accomplishments, his education, or his achievements in the world of business.

Yet it is wrong, as Paul explains, to glory too much in earthly achievements and at the same time forget that wisdom in the ways of the world is short sightedness if a man is at the same time foolish with God.

Small Givers Needed To Finance Elections

By Sen. Maurine B. Neuberger (D-Oreg.)

Not all of our political practices are admirable, but surely one of the least palatable to Americans is the dominance of the large private campaign contributions. For the prospective candidate to national political office, the first order of business in seeking election is the selling of his political beliefs, not to the electorate at large, but to the narrow financial constituency who must be prevailed upon to finance the campaign.

The surprising aspect of this narrow funding process is, not that it exists, but that the vast majority of legislators nevertheless exercise independent judgment and action. Yet the pressure to treat with sympathy the interests of one's major contributors is obviously great, and too often disrupts the freedom of judgment which a truly representative legislator must maintain.

Ironically, I know of no Member of Congress who enjoys the frantic pursuit of funds which has become the constant counterpoint of every campaign. It is demeaning, where it is not an affirmative evil; and it is unworthy of the most powerful deliberative body in the world.

Nor is this a static situation. Hundreds of thousand of dollars are consumed in today's campaigns by needs which were non-existent as recently as 20 years ago. Television enables the presidential or congressional candidate to confront his electorate as intimately as does the local candidate who can call personally on his neighbors who will elect him. It is no luxury for the candidate. It has become an absolute necessity. And extensive radio, billboard, and newspaper coverage are equally critical to the effective campaign.

The campaigns of 1960 furnished fresh evidence, if any was needed, of the massive financial pressures upon the candidates, inherent in all major election campaigns. The reported expenditures of the two major parties in the national campaigns alone reached nearly $20 million as compared with $12.9 million in 1952. The Democrats in 1960 spent $3.8 million more than they had raised, while the Republicans incurred a deficit of $700,000.

President Kennedy, following the report of his Commission on Campaign Costs, urged Congress to consider, together with tax incentives, a program of Federal matching incentives for small contributions. I was pleased to introduce such legislation to the Senate. Under a matching incentives plan, contributions in amounts of $10 or less per person raised by designated political committees would be matched by a like sum from funds appropriated by Congress. Where a contribution is earmarked for the use of a particular candidate the matching grant must also be used to pay the expenses of the designated candidate.

A matching incentives program is essential to motivate the political committees to organize solicitation drives on a broad basis—drives which have not in the past been characterized by either enthusiasm or efficiency. A matching incentives program would hold out to the parties, doubling of their successes in small-gift fund raising. With out the stimulus of a matching incentives program, I doubt seriously whether tax incentive alone would produce sufficient numbers of small gifts to free candidates from the need to rely on major contributions from a narrow circle of sources.

This is a limited program. But it will, if favorably acted upon, be a beginning. Fifty years ago President Theodor Roosevelt endorsed the principle of Federal contributions to campaign financing. It is time for a beginning.

Our pen-friend and reader from Box 8414, Tampa, Florida, Mr. E. T. Cummings, sends us some quotes from the state papers of Abraham Lincoln regarding Christian principles for nations. He thinks that No. 2 should be printed and reprinted in the upper righthand corner of every newspaper in the nation. See if you agree, despite the trend away from Christian principles in our country during this time...

1. God deals with nations as with individuals.
2. It is the duty of nations, as well as men, to acknowledge their dependence upon the power and goodness of Almighty God.
3. Nations should not in times of their prosperity forget the God who made them prosperous.
4. Nations sin against God by word and act and may suffer under divine judgment.
5. God punishes national sin with exact justice.
6. God punishes national sin by bringing nations to repentance and reformation.
7. The Holy Spirit can change rebellious hearts, guide the counsels of government, and console the afflicted.
8. Humiliation, confession of sin and prayer are God's way out of national judgments.
9. The united and sincere cry of a nation for pardon of sin will be heard on high and answered with forgiveness and peace.
10. Those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord.

While we kneel in prayer to God that He will forgive our great nation and continue to guide us to greater heights, let us also breathe a prayer that we will not be again deceived by the disciples of the devil as we sign a non-test pact with them...

Likely there is no feeling of admiration which exceeds that of a young son for his father... The other day we were talking to a friend, when some mention in our conversation caused a youngster nearby to ask: "Do you know R. L. Jones?"

Section 3. The Governor of the State of Texas shall issue the necessary proclamation for the election and this Amendment shall be published in the manner and for the length of time as required by the Constitution and laws of this state.

We were compelled to answer in the negative. We then asked who the person happened to be and got the following answer: "He is MY father and he works at the place you just mentioned and he has worked there for 17 years."

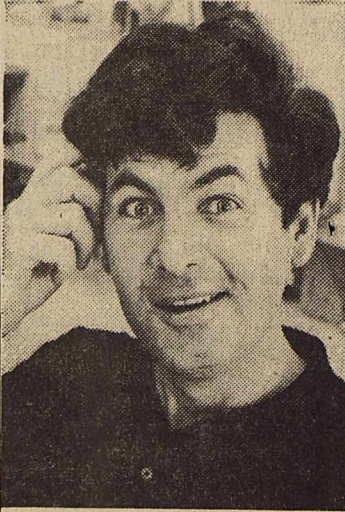

There was no question but that Mr. Jones was the most valuable person to a certain company, at least in the opinion of one certain young man of 12 years... His answer left little doubt in our mind that each of us should try harder to set the right example before our youngsters...

Love is said to be the thing that holds two individuals together until they become life-long friends.

We should appreciate our friends, for without them we would be a total stranger.

Often it is not only the person in the audience who says nothing...

We are getting old when we do more and more things for the last time, and fewer and fewer things for the first time.

RIGHT OF WITNESS

By far the most vital people in our system of justice are witnesses. Everyone else in a trial exists to hear what they have to say. Our courts need witnesses. A jury to find the facts. The judge to apply the law. The community. As a witness you too may have the right, for example, not to testify against yourself in somebody else's lawsuit or crime trial. If you are ever in such a bind, consult a lawyer of your own choice on what to do. The lawyer who called you to testify has a sworn duty to keep what you tell him secret and to advise you in your own interests within the law. Wise lawyers tell their witnesses to obey twelve rules: 1. Go to the place (say, the scene of an accident). Check your memory before you go to court. People forget and get caught up on details. But if you check what you saw and heard you are on solid ground. 2. Visit a court. Hear how other witnesses testify. It will help you see your role on the witness stand. 3. Wear clean, conservative clothes. 4. Don't memorize your story word for word. That is the surest way to sound bad. But think of what you saw and heard. 5. Listen to the questions you are asked with care and answer thoughtfully. 6. Give a simple, direct answer in your own words. Don't be rushed. 7. If you err--and people often do--correct yourself at once. If you can't remember some detail, say so. Don't bluff. 8. Tell the truth. Don't figure which side you may help. Don't identify yourself with either side. 9. Stop when the judge breaks in, and don't try to sneak an answer in before he can stop you. What you might say could end in a "mistrial." 10. Keep cool and don't sass back. 11. If they ask you: Certainly, you have talked to other people--the lawyer, for example; and yes, you may be reimbursed for certain of your expenses incurred in attending the trial. 12. Remember, without witnesses our law would fail to do justice. If you are called, be a good witness.

News Stories Computerized and Transmitted Across Atlantic Via Satellite for "Monarch" Composition

CHICAGO -- An electronic computer and the Relay communications satellite were employed together on Monday, June 10 in an historic demonstration of high-speed transoceanic automatic typesetting of computer-processed newspaper copy. The two-way demonstration was conducted by the Radio Corporation of America and the Harris-Intertype Corporation at the ANPA Production Management Conference at the Palmer House here. It was presented in cooperation with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and with newspapers in England and Scotland and press wire services on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean and in Brazil.

PRINTING HISTORY was made at the 1963 ANPA Conference with an RCA 301 computer, NASA's RELAY I communications satellite, and the high-speed Intertype "Monarch" linecasting machine. News copy originating in Chicago was set in type automatically and almost instantaneously by newspapers in Britain using Monarchs, after being processed by the computer for column-width and hyphenation, and then sent across the Atlantic Ocean by the RCA-built satellite.

In one part of the demonstration, news stories prepared by British correspondents at the ANPA meeting were transmitted to Camden, N.J., by a newly-developed RCA data communications technique known as TIES (Transmission and Information Exchange System). At Camden, the copy was line-justified and hyphenated by an RCA 301 computer and then flashed through NASA's Relay communications satellite for automatic typesetting minutes later on Intertype Monarchs at the Manchester Guardian, the Glasgow Herald, and the Edinburgh Scotsman in Great Britain.

In the second part of the demonstration, news stories were filed for transmission back through the Relay satellite to the RCA 301 at Camden by correspondents of the Associated Press in London and the United Press International at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. At Camden, the computer again translated the copy into taped instructions and transmitted them over the new RCA TIES facility to the Monarch in operation at Harris-Intertype's exhibit.

The copy which originated at the ANPA Conference in Chicago in the form of teleprinter signals was received in Camden, where the RCA 301 evaluated each line, word-spaced and hyphenated where necessary to fit the column-width of each newspaper involved. Within seconds, the copy was sent onward to the NASA ground station at Nutley, N.J., and transmitted via RELAY I to the British ground station at Goochdown in Cornwall. Post Office landlines carried the signals to London, and leased circuits carried them onward to Manchester, Glasgow, and Edinburgh where they were transformed immediately into newspaper type by their high-speed keyboardless Intertype linecasting machines which are in daily operation.

Highway Patrol Seeks New Men

ADDED INCENTIVE---A new drawing point in the DPS's new enlistment program is the department's pledge to station the new patrolman as near his present home as is possible.

Sgt. A. E. Roberts of the Texas Highway Patrol today invited men in the Plains area who feel they are "just a little better than the average" to meet him at the Court House in Brownfield between 8:00 pm and 9:00 pm on August 26 to try out for a job in the Patrol Service of Texas Department of Public Safety.

"There are good jobs open for young men between 21 and 35 who can qualify," said Roberts, "and while we want men who are much better than average to fill them we will go along with those who are a little bit better."

"These are career positions which offer much in the way of security in benefits, but they are gained only after a period of 16 weeks of rugged training at one of the outstanding police academies in the nation. Upon completion of this training men will be assigned whenever possible within 100 miles of their home town at a basic salary of $453 per month."

"In other words, these positions are for men who are willing to accept a challenge at anytime, now or in the future. The job of protecting the lives and property of the people of Texas is not always easy."

Roberts said men who can meet these basic requirements are welcome to meet him on

1. Texas citizen for at least one year.
2. 21 to 35 years of age
3. 5'8" or more in height
4. 20 - 30 vision without glasses.
5. High school education or the equivalent.

"If you can meet the above qualifications," the veteran patrolman added, "come on in--- the water is fine."

The Texas Department of Public Safety is in need of approximately 100 "better than average" young Texans to fill the ranks of the Highway Patrol and help stem the tide of traffic tragedy and rising crime in the Lone Star State.

Applications will be accepted until September 14 for a training school which begins November 19 at the DPS Law Enforcement Academy in Austin where qualified men will participate in a police training program second to none. Trainees will receive salaries while in training.

Application may be made by men 21 to 35 years of age through any Department of Public Safety office, or by contacting a DPS patrolman.

The following will be applicable for men selected for the November 19 school:

1. The school will be for Highway Patrol personnel exclusively; all applicants selected for training will be assigned to the Patrol Service.
2. Every effort will be made to assign them to stations within 100 miles of their present homes.
3. Upon graduation, the new Highway Patrolmen will benefit by a pay increase from the present $412 per month to $453.

Highway Patrolmen also receive the following benefits:

Two weeks vacation annually, 12 or more holidays each year as provided by the Legislature, 12 days per year sick leave which may accumulate to a maximum of 36 days, $10 per month added to salary at the end of each five years to a maximum of 25 years, modern liberal retirement system based on age and/or years of service, social security benefits, travelling expenses when away from station as prescribed by law, group hospitalization and life plan available, uniforms and the necessary equipment or perform duties furnished.

"The career jobs offered actually are more than just jobs---they are position of not only all Texans, but everyone who comes to or travels through our great state," said Col. Homer Garrison Jr., department director.

"The satisfaction of serving and protecting his fellowmen is the priceless possession of each of our patrolmen. We invite young men who can meet the requirements to secure the full facts concerning the rewarding careers offered in the uniformed ranks of the Department of Public Safety, by contacting a patrolman or one of our offices."

During the course of their study at the Law Enforcement Academy student patrolmen are given intensive training in such subjects as Texas Highway Law, Traffic Accident Investigation, Emergency First Aid, Professional Driving and Firearms Technique. In addition to the classroom work they are taught self-protection by means of judo, boxing, wrestling and various other police - protection methods. While in attendance at the Academy they will be brought into top physical condition.

The training of a Highway Patrolman is a test of an individual's intellectual, emotional process which prepares him for one of the most self-satisfying careers in public service---law enforcement.

In his training he is taught to recognize and control any situation that might arise from dealing with people under emotional stress. He is prepared for dealing with unusual situations under adverse conditions. The very nature of police work is demanding on the law enforcement officer---but it is also very rewarding. It deals with getting people to conform to the rules and regulations of society with a minimum of friction.

The Highway Patrolman's duties are as varied as the geography of the state in which he patrols. A day's duty may consist of tracking a tornado in the swirling sands of West Texas or rescuing a stranded citizen along a hurricane-swept coastal area. It may involve the high speed pursuit and apprehension of a flagrant traffic law violator or wanted criminal.

This is a specialized profession only for young men of above average intelligence, with high moral standards and unusual physical courage. The Highway Patrolman's primary job is much like that of a shepherd supervising traffic on the highways, which includes accident investigation, traffic direction and traffic law enforcement.

By his presence on the highways of Texas the Highway Patrolman has the opportunity and duty of assisting motorists in distress, whether it be helping change a tire or rendering first aid to someone critically injured in an accident---this same aid often being the difference between life and death.

The current need for men to fill the ranks of the Texas Highway Patrol may be seen in the light of the continuing upward spiral in traffic death and crime across the State of Texas.

Traffic fatalities in the first seven months of this year ran seven percent higher than in the same period of 1962 which means that nearly 100 more persons lost their lives tragically and violently on the streets and highways. Unless this trend is broken, it is entirely possible that the 1963 traffic toll will exceed the all-time high of 2,611 recorded in 1956.

Crime in Texas as well as across the nation has been outstripping the population increase for many years. For the first six months of 1963, an increase of 16.2 percent was recorded in the major crimes of murder and homicide, rape, robbery, burglary, aggravated assault, theft and auto theft in Texas.

Patriotic young Texans who are qualified for the Highway Patrol are needed to do their part toward halting these trends and at the same time embark upon a life-time career of security and service to mankind.

ITEM: Two words every home manager should know are "back-siphonage" and "cross-connections"---they represent hazards to health. Back-siphonage means flowing of polluted water from a plumbing fixture or other source into a water supply pipe due to a change in pressure in the pipe. A cross-connection is any physical connection between separate piping systems, one with usable water and the other with waste water, where there may be a flow from one to the other depending on difference in pressure between the two systems. These are dangers in some old homes, not in new ones where the system was designed and installed by a reliable plumbing contractor.

ITEM: Sportswear, dresses, coats, and surgical hosiery are now being made from the new elastic fiber, spandex. Spandex is the generic or family name of the manmade fiber and it comes under several trade names. It has excellent stretch recovery, is strong, yet lightweight, and dyes easily. First popular use of spandex was in foundation garments

MANY JOBS---The image of the highway patrolman as being nothing but a "speed cop" is fast disappearing as he now is expected to perform in many areas. Traffic control is one but others include law enforcement, tourist and driver aid, and storm warning service.

Tell Water Depletion Facts

Did you know that in the High Plains region of Texas under ground water is a depletable resource?

For most of you who read this article, this is an elementary question. Nearly every adult who is capable of reading and who has lived in this area for any appreciable length of time knows that, for practical purposes, when the same manner as coal, gold, or oil is mined from its subterranean hiding place, Nature does not replace the water nearly so rapidly as it is pumped.

Knowing full well that these are the facts concerning the underground water supply with which we've been encowed, some irrigators still do not recognize a need for personal responsibility in the field of water conservation.

An official with the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District has been contacted and asked about the end results that wasteful practices will bring about.

Tom McFarland, Manager of the Water District, was asked, "Why do some irrigators allow water to run off their cropland into the road bar - ditches and dry lake beds?"

His answer was enlightening. "In working with problems of waste, we're attempting to change a habit - we think a very bad habit - that has been formed during years of irrigating and allowing water to escape the land. In many cases the fellow has been doing it that way so long that it's become second-nature to him. He may not even realize that he is actually wasting water. He may feel that losing water is just part of irrigating.

"Of course, this is where our job enters the picture in convincing him that the water he wastes is water that brings absolutely no benefits to anyone and actually costs him money to pump."

We then asked McFarland about the power that the Water District has to enforce their rules against waste.

He said, "under the provisions of the law, we have the right to initiate legal proceedings against those who waste water. If we can prove to the court that waste is occurring, then an order will be issued by the court ordering that it be stopped."

"Of course, this process is not only expensive but it is also unpleasant. As a result, before we resort to legal action we attempt to convince the irrigator that too much is at stake for him to continue the practice of wasting water."

"We talk to him about declining water levels, about the economics involved in continued waste, and about the moral and political aspects concerned."

"Most people don't want to waste water for the pure pleasure of wasting it. They simply are taking the path of least resistance."

McFarland was then asked about progress that the Water District is making in alleviating waste.

"Definite progress is being made," he said, "at least a third of our staff is devoting practically full time to waste problems. When a waste situation is called to our attention, we visit the locale and to the one who has the problem."

Many times we can tell him about a similar problem that another irrigator has been confronted with an show him the steps that were taken in solving that problem. In most instances this is all that we have to do. With less conscientious farmers, it won't work so well.

"Of course, all this consumes time, and with a limited staff we cannot stop all the Chemurgetics is a new word for a relatively new field. Simply put, it describes the process of breeding plants for specific industrial uses--a sort of "you name it, we'll grow it" process.

In chemurgetics an industry determines the properties it wants in an agricultural raw material; then the geneticist, working with the chemist, attempts to breed those properties in an agricultural crop. Chemurgetics is research aimed in a positive direction toward crops that will have an immediate demand.

Recently the USDA and corn refining companies participated in a chemurgetic effort to increase the amylose content of corn. Pure amylopectin starch has important applications as a thickening agent, in the manufacture of adhesives and in textile printing and finishing. Potential uses for amylose also include permanent textile finishes, plastics, film making and paper pulp fiber bonding. Today a 50 to 60 per cent amylose crop called amylo maize is being produced commercially on a contract basis.

Changing the starch composition is not the only chemurgetic interest in the corn kernel. Since corn is the most widely used agricultural raw material for industrial products and processes, and since more is known about the genetics of corn than of any other crop, it's not surprising that many of the developments of chemurgetics are with corn.

Work is currently progressing on a "super-sugary" sweet corn, a new sweeter eating corn. There is also considerable interest in increasing the protein and oil content of corn. Most of the breeding to date has increased the zein present in corn. Zein is not as good nutritionally as the proteins, but is used in laminating adhesives, printing inks and plastics. There is a great increase in demand for corn oil which has advantages of polyunsaturated fatty acids such as linoleic.

Chemurgetics is a useful, significant word that describes waste over night. However, progress is being made. Year by year the waste is less prevalent than it was the year before.

"With the continued cooperation of irrigators throughout the Water District we will be able to continue progress toward the day when all water pumped from the underground reservoir is utilized in some beneficial endeavor."

what has in fact become a challenging new field, worthy of serious consideration by our college-bound young people, and a field which has broadened the market for agricultural products substantially.

The McClellan family reunion was held over the past weekend here.

Report was that most of the children of the W. L. McClellan's were here as well as many of their grandchildren. This included their son, Mutt, and his family from Dallas, grandchildren and great-grandchildren from Odessa and Brownfield, and their children and grandchildren of Plains, the John Andersons and the Ralph McClellans.

The reunion lasted from Friday through Sunday.

Over 3 Million Have More Than One Job

Three million or more persons have held down more than one job annually since the mid-Fifties, averaging around one out of every 20 of all those employed, according to the U. S. Department of Labor. The figure in the latest survey as of a year ago was 3.3 million, highest since 1957. The recent peak was over 3.6 million in 1956.

The study found that persons most likely to have more than one job were those whose main source of livelihood was in farming, teaching, the postal service, and the protective service occupations (guards, firemen and policemen). The predominant part of the multiple jobholders worked full time on their principal job and part time on the extra one.

In nearly a third of the cases the supplementary job was some form of self-employment. Proportionally, three times as many men had an extra job as women. Though popularly known as "moonlighting," only about a third of the extra jobs were night work.

He also pointed out that if the suits are to be kept in good repair and condition they must

PASTEBOARD ROYALTY

President Kennedy appears as the Ace of Spades in a special deck of playing cards just issued. Jackie is represented as the Queen of Hearts, Bobby as the King of Diamonds and Ted as the King of Clubs. Different as they may be from traditional pastebord royals, the Kennedys are not the first famous Americans to grace playing cards.

Andrew Jackson as the King of Spades

Washington continued to be a popular subject for playing cards. In a deck issued around 1850, portraits of George and Martha adorn the ace of spades. Earlier in the nineteenth century, medalion portraits of Washington and John Adams seem to have been used as card backs in Philadelphia.

George Washington reigns as the King of Hearts in a deck sold in Philadelphia about 1800. His cohorts in this pastebord world are John Quincy Adams as the King of Diamonds, Thomas Jefferson as the King of Clubs and northeast of Plains.

DOES GOOD JOB-- A cover of wheat used as a cover crop

Is shown to be doing a good job on the T. J. Murphy farm

Local SCS News

Six new Great Plains contracts were received this week. They are Virgil Phipps, Earl Kiser, Robert Box, D. V. Phipps, Rollin McCord and W. C. Huffacker. These plans were remainder of the plans that had been held for allocation of funds.

New conservation plans are Leon Huff, W.H. Tudor, Louis Eubanks, Oneal Spencer, Pony Henderson, and Polly Rushing. Grass planting of all kinds was completed for the year last week and the rush for cover crop seed began. Rye seed, wheat, and Barley on irrigated land with millet on dry land are being bought and arrangements are being made to plant. Good conservation farmers have learned that if a cover crop is to be successful it must be planted and planted early enough to make some growth before cold weather begins. Plant before Sept. 15. Seed by any method that will get the seed on and in the ground but seed early.

One (1) such citizen member shall, with the advice and consent of the Senate, be appointed biennially by the Governor until the expiration of four (4) years; but the members serving on said Board or the date of adoption hereof shall continue in office until the expiration of their terms to which they were appointed. In the event of the resignation or death of any such citizen member, the Governor shall appoint a replacement to serve for the unexpired portion of the term to which the deceased or resigning member had been appointed. The compensation for said citizen members shall be as is now or may hereafter be fixed by the Legislature; and each shall make bond in such amount as is now or may hereafter be prescribed by the Legislature.

Such bonds or obligations shall be sold for not less than par value and accrued interest; shall be issued in such forms, denominations, and upon such terms as are now or may hereafter be provided by law; shall be issued and sold at such times, at such places, and in such installments as may be determined by said Board; and shall bear a rate or rates of interest as may be fixed by said Board but the weighted average annual interest rate, as that phrase is commonly and ordinarily used and understood in the municipal bond market, of all the bonds issued and sold in any installment of any bonds may not exceed four and one-half percent (4 1/2%). "When a Division of said Fund (each Division consisting of the moneys attributable to the bonds issued and sold pursuant to a single Constitutional authorization and the lands purchased therewith) contains sufficient moneys to retire all of the bonds secured by such Division, the moneys thereof, except such portion as may be needed to retire all of the bonds secured by such Division which portion shall be set aside and remain a part of such Division for the purpose of retiring all such bonds, may be used for the purpose of paying the "Said Veterans Land Fund, to the extent of the moneys attributable to any bonds heretofore issued and sold by said Board may be used by said Board, as is now or may hereafter be provided by law, for the purpose of paying the expenses of surveying, monumenting, road construction, legal fees, recordation fees, advertising and other like costs, necessary or incidental to the purchase and sale, or resale, of any lands purchased with such additional bonds, such expenses to be added to the price of such lands when sold, or resold, by said Board; for the purpose of paying the expenses of issuing, selling, and delivering any such additional bonds; and for the purpose of meeting the expenses of paying the interest or principal due or to become due on any such additional bonds.

"All moneys attributable to the bonds issued and sold pursuant to the Constitutional Amendment adopted on November 5, 1955, shall be credited to said Veterans Land Fund and may be used for the purpose of purchasing additional lands, to be sold as provided herein, until December 1, 1965; provided, however, that so much of such moneys as may be necessary to pay interest on such bonds shall be set aside for that purpose. After December 1, 1965, all moneys attributable to such bonds shall be set aside for the retirement of such bonds and to pay interest thereon; and when there are sufficient moneys to retire all of such

"This Amendment being intended only to establish a basic framework and not to be a comprehensive treatment of the Veterans Land Program, there is hereby reposed in the Legislature full power to implement and effectuate the design and objects of this Amendment, including the power to delegate such duties, responsibilities, functions, and authority to the Veterans Land Board as it believes necessary.

"Should the Legislature enact any enabling laws in anticipation of this Amendment, no such law shall be void by reason of its anticipatory nature.

"This Amendment shall become effective upon its adoption."

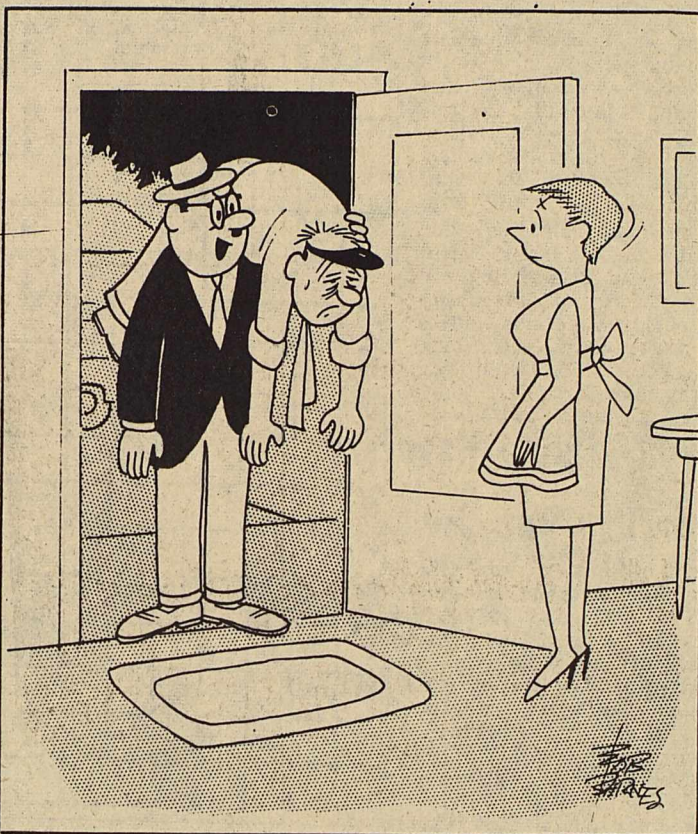

Section 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified voters of this state at an election to be held on the first Saturday after the first Monday in November, 1968, at which election all ballots shall have printed thereon the following:

"FOR the Amendment to Section 49-b of Article III of the Constitution of Texas to increase the Veterans Land Fund by $150,000,000; said Fund to be used for the purpose of purchasing land to be sold to Texas veterans who served in the Armed Services of the United States between September 16, 1940, and March 31, 1965; such funds to be expended in accordance with instructions and requirements that may be provided by law; and Section 3. The Governor of the State of Texas shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and shall have the same published as required by the Constitution and Laws of this state.

"I REMEMBER" BY The Old Timers

From Olive Bowton Kopka, Remington, Indiana: I remember when old Mr. M... had his own milk delivery in the small town where I lived over fifty years ago. His delivery truck was a hand cart; he furnished the horse power that pushed it down our (not-then-paved) street.

His stock of trade was a ten gallon milk can with a tin pint measure dangling from one handle. An old bell announced his arrival.

Our neighbor used to run out with her pint milk bottle. Down, down, down went the dust-covered or mud-spattered measuring tool into the milky depths of the ten gallon container. Up came a brimming pint of uncolored raw milk, which was transferred to Lottie's container.

By morning there was a good half inch of darker milk at the bottom of the jar. This, Lottie carefully saved for lone, her big white cat.

I recall hearing Mother argue with her about that last half inch of dirty milk. "Why don't you get milk where we do from the town dairy?" Mother would ask.

"I wouldn't have anything left to feed lone!" was always her determined reply.
