

Pokes Meet Cohoma in Andrews for Bi-District Grid Honors Nov. 20th

The Plains Cowboys have earned the right to represent District 5A and will face a highly regarded Cohoma team at Andrews at 7:30 p. m., Saturday, November 20 in the new Andrews High School Stadium.

Cohoma will be the most formidable foe that the Plains Cowhands have met this year. They are rated the fourth best grid team in the state.

A hopeful Cowboy squad remembers when they were rated the sixth best eleven in the state, and how Friona an unrated eleven stopped them cold to the tune of 21-7. With this in mind, they will be out for blood when they face the top rated Cohoma team. The game will match two of the best teams in West Texas, and the winner could go down the road for a state championship game. The stakes will be high and the Pokes have played sound ball all year in the clutch, and will be geared for an upset over Cohoma. Cowboy hopes for an impressive victory will be on a powerful running attack and a sound defense. The Plains eleven as the season progressed are now a threat with the bomb and should be able to keep the Cohoma defense honest. If they are able to do this the game could be put into the win column for Plains. The condition of the Cowboy is good and they are eager to carry their District banners onto the field in Andrews. Win, lose, or draw, the Cowboys can be assured that their boosters will flock to Andrews by the hundreds to cheer the home team on to what they are hopeful will be a Bi-District title for the Pokes.

Wildcat stadium was the scene of winner take all for the honors of District 5A last Friday night as the Cowboys of Plains bombed the cats from Wink 28-15 in a hard fought contest which brought the 5A title to Plains.

The fans were brought to their feet in the first quarter as Alvie Faulkenberry caught the bomb thrown by quarterback Bobby Taylor and evaded all would be defenders to put the Pokes out in front for the first score of the 5A title battle. Butch Gayle converted to make the score 7-0.

The Cats roared back, but were stopped before they could gain scoring position and Ronnie Elmore raced for long yardage to give the Cowboys a 14-0 halftime lead.

In the second half, Taylor hit Faulkenberry for another tally and Elmore scored his second touchdown of the grid contest to put the victory in the Cowhands column. The expert toe of Gayle remained deadly accurate and the Cowboys ended up with 28 points for the night's work. The cats refused to concede defeat, but could only manage 15 points for their second half effort.

The victory was due to a unified team effort with at least a half a dozen stand outs for the Cowboys on defense and with that many stars on offense, but most of all it was due to the game being opened up with the aerial bombs. Only three passes were thrown by

Water District Report Made

The I.R.S. announcement that they will allow a depletion on the under-ground water under the Southern High Plains of Texas as a result of the Marvin Shurber tax depletion case of Petersburg, Texas, backed by the High Plains Under-ground Water Conservation Plains, but two were for touchdowns. This made the Wildcats play honest football on defense.

District 5A will close its 1965 season tomorrow night with the Cowboys meeting the Buffalos from Stanton at Cowboy stadium. The Buffs have demonstrated their ability to score this year, but will be a three touchdown underdog when they invade Plains Friday night.

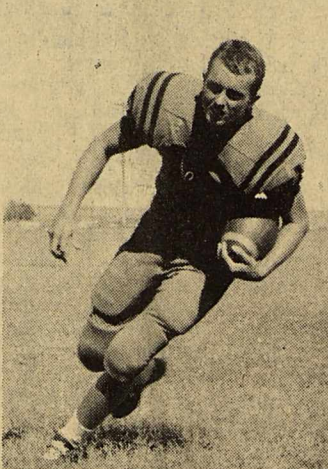

District should be very favorable new for the people in Yoakum County.

No one knows for sure yet the exact procedures of taking the depletion allowance for the underground water, but water. The exact basis for computing the tax allowance has not been completely clarified, although it appears that a landowner will have to establish the value of the water under his farm at the time of purchase. In other words, how much more money did he have to pay than he would have had to pay for comparable dry land?

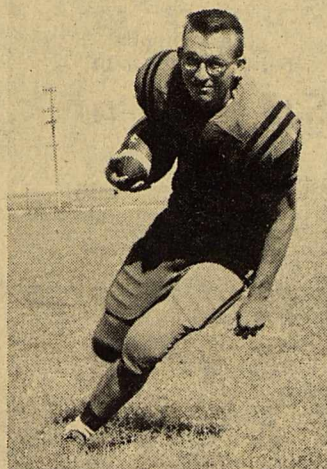

Next it appears that he will have to determine the amount of saturated material under his farm at the date of purchase and from that date he will have to determine the amount that was depleted as of January 1, 1965. Should he take full advantage of this tax ruling, and apply for the past three years depletion then it will be necessary to know how much water he has depleted during this time. The Yoakum County Water Association believes that this ruling makes it increasingly important for the creation of an underground water conservation district in this area. A Water District can assemble much of the data that will be required for tax depletion claims.

Legion Plans Vets Program Today

Members of the American Legion will assemble at the Legion Flagpole at the Plains Cemetary at 5:45 p. m. today for a ceremony to celebrate Veterans Day, said Wilson Duke, post commander and Dick McGinty, post adjutant. Veterans Day, which formerly was Armistice Day, has been so designated to honor the Veterans of all of the wars that the United States has participated.

Officials of the Legion stated that they are in hopes that many people will observe this day and join with them in their ceremonies at the cemetary. The Legion spokesmen stated that with the situation in Viet Nam and other parts of the world the way it is, that they urge the community not to forget the millions of men who have served their country in the armed forces.

A hamburger supper is planned for members of the Legion and any veterans who wish to attend following the services. The Legion supper is planned at the Legion Hut at 7:00 o'clock p. m. and the families of the Legionnaires are invited to attend.

The American Legion is still conducting their membership drive and hope to have 250 per cent of quota soon to be one of the outstanding posts in the nation.

Members of the American Legion erected the flagpole at the local cemetary for services for the Nation's war dead last Memorial Day. Plans call for erecting a stone monument at the foot of the pole.

1966 Cotton Quota Vote Set Nov. 23rd in Yoakum County

Tuesday, November 23, has been set as the date for cotton growers to vote on cotton marketing quotas for the 1966 crop year. Under the Cotton Marketing law this referendum is held each year and for marketing quotas to be in effect the referendum must carry by at least two-thirds of the voters voting in the referendum. There will be a number of voting places throughout the county. These places will be selected by the ASC Committee and will be announced within a few days. Farmers who engaged in the production of the 1965 upland cotton crops will be eligible to vote in the November 23 referendum. All Yoakum County farmers and their wives are urged to vote in this election.

If marketing quotas carry the two-thirds or more majority the new cotton program that is being discussed at this time will be in effect. Farmers that exceed their 1966 allotment will be subject to a marketing quota penalty on the excess cotton. If quotas are not approved in the referendum by the necessary two-thirds of the vote there will remain in effect for the 1966 upland cotton crop, but there will be no marketing quota and no penalties on excess cotton.

There will be no additional price support in the form of payments, no diversion payments, and no export market acreage reserve. Price support loans at 50% of parity would be available to growers who do not exceed their farms acreage allotment; and the new cotton law recently passed will not be in effect. Also carried on in connection with this marketing quota referendum each county will vote in the November 23 referendum whether the cotton allotments may be sold or leased outside the county. If farmers in a county vote by two-thirds or more to sell and lease allotments outside the county they may sell or lease their allotments to other farmers in other counties within the same state.

If after the November 23 election marketing quotas are carried and some counties do vote to lease and sell their allotments, farmers interested in leasing or buying should obtain more detailed information in regard to how the program operates before obligating themselves to buy allotments from other counties; since this thing will be operated on a yield basis in most cases instead of acre basis. The 1966 farm cotton acreage allotment notices will be mailed prior to the November 23 referendum and it is expected that the farm allotments in these West Texas Co. will be near or slightly less than the 1965 original allotment.

Sen. Tower

Viet Nam Battle Greater Than War on Poverty

As you know, I serve on the Senate's Armed Services Committee. In that capacity, and as your representative, it is my responsibility to help assure the strength of America's defenses.

Certainly, the greatest test for America's strength is the current war in Vietnam. The chairman of the Armed Services Committee, Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, has authorized me to conduct an investigation on behalf of the Armed Services Committee. I hope to make this inspection tour next month; and in anticipation of that tour, I'd like to review with you the very great stakes now in the balance in Vietnam.

ment from our other military forces. I was convinced, and I still am, that we could not afford to let the demand for weapons and equipment in Vietnam result in lowering the readiness of our worldwide forces that are on standby to meet any challenge which might arise in other potential trouble spots.

The Armed Services Committee called for additional funds to replace those arms and equipment sent from existing forces to Vietnam, and for funds to replace the resulting shortages facing our troops at home and in Europe. The Congress added an additional $1.7 billion to the Defense Appropriations bill for this defense Appropriations bill for this purpose.

But, many times that amount doubtless will be required next year. It is a matter of concern to me that, in spite of the huge expenditures already required for the fighting in Vietnam, the congress was asked to pass new and untested welfare and social programs costing millions and billions of dollars.

erty is not the only war we are fighting.

The Armed Services Committee is maintaining a continuous watchfulness over this situation. My inspection trip to Vietnam is part of this watchfulness. I am sure the committee will continue to insist that our men be provided the best and most modern equipment, in ample supply.

While our military situation in Vietnam is serious, indeed, recent developments in the fighting have been encouraging. There is ground for cautious optimism about the future.

CAYCE'S CORNER

Things looked lively in Plains Saturday and Sunday as Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Walker were attempting to get the clinic ready for its opening Monday. But news had spread like wildfire and the good doctor didn't have much time to clean the clinic, since people by the scores descended on him for treatment. Dr. Bill worked until 11:30 Saturday night seeing the town's sick, and then returned on Sunday morning and stayed most of the day seeing his new patients.

We were delighted to see the physician move to our little town, and we extend our very best welcome mat to the walkers and want them to know that people of Plains are most grateful to them for making our village the town of their choice.

Jan Mason came to work Monday morning at The Record muttering something about losing her head on the way to work. We always knew that things were far out down at The Record but had hoped that only the editor could be accused of such things. It being a regular Monday morning, it took some while and at least two cups of coffee for Jan to make herself understood. It wasn't her head that she lost on the way to the office at all, but instead she explained that she had started to work with a head of cabbage but couldn't find it when she got to the office. We aren't saying much, but it could be that Jan watched the Legend of Sleepy Hollow the other night and thought that she was Jacob Crane.

The better part decided that she needed a change of scenery this past week and flew the coup in the direction of Scottsdale for a nice little rest. What we want to know is just how does a person rest at those resorts. It wouldn't be easy, but the editor would like to find out. Some of these days, Old Cayce will get up the nerve to announce that he is going to take a rest out Vegas way. That would go over like a lead balloon.

Cayce had a change of heart when his wife handed him a copy of the Arizona Currents, which has a circulation of 140,000 and he saw under their column "Wish I'd Said That," a quotation from the local paper was in the paper taken from an editorial that Cayce had written several months ago. We didn't expect this honor, but were tickled purple to see it in print!

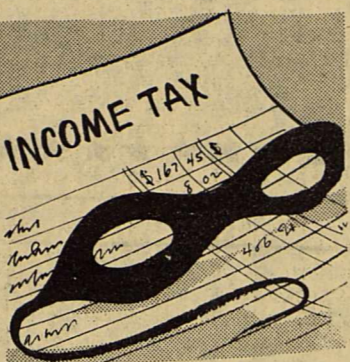

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Theft: A Tax Deduction

During divorce proceedings, a court awarded part of the family's money to the wife. Her husband, outraged, reacted very much like the proverbial pugilist who cries: "I wuz robbed!"

In that spirit, he solemnly claimed a deduction for "theft" on his next income tax return. But the government took a dim view of his claim. And, after a court hearing, the judge ruled that was not exactly the kind of theft that the tax law had in mind.

Generally speaking, you do have a right to deduct for loss-by-theft of your personal property, above a $100 minimum. Unless you are covered by insurance, you may subtract the amount of the loss from your gross income.

But the government will insist on a reasonable showing that you really did suffer a theft. Mere unexplained disappearance is not enough.

For instance:

In one case, a man's wallet vanished from his pocket at some unknown point during a walk downtown and a ride in an elevator. The court found "only the suspicion of a theft"—not enough to justify a tax deduction.

In another case, a valuable bird dog, released for exercise, simply disappeared. The court, observing that the dog might as probably be lost as stolen, denied tax relief to the owner.

On the other hand, you do not need overwhelming, ironclad proof to establish a claim. The circumstances of your loss may be convincing enough, even though no thief is ever caught.

For example:

A traveler was advised, at an airport stopover, that it was safe to leave his camera in the plane. But upon his return he found the camera gone. There was held sufficiently likely, in these circumstances, to support his claim for a tax deduction.

A woman kept a diamond pin in a locked drawer, but with the key accessible to her maid. When she returned home after a few days' absence, the pin was missing. So were some clothes, so were some linens, and so was the maid. Held: good enough evidence of theft.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

It is now definite that at least for another year, the independent business economy will be taxed to throw away more billions in foreign give aways.

This is despite the many revelations that have come to light. For example, not too long ago Rep. H. R. Gross of Iowa commented on the incident whereby the Prime Minister of Singapore reported when they caught a State Dept. man involved in hanky-panky, the State Dept. offered him $3 million to keep quiet.

Such penny-pinching irritated the Prime Minister of Singapore who is a much bigger thinker than $3 million. He countered with an offer to keep silence for $3 million.

Apparently the State Dept. at the time did not have quite that much as the piggy bank, or around where it could be paid out without raising questions, so it was not paid.

State Dept. at first denied any such involvement so the Singapore Prime Minister, Rep. Gross relates, called in newsmen and produced a 1961 letter written by the Secretary of State admitting distress over improper activities purportedly engaged in by U.S. officials.

But the Prime Minister of Singapore is apparently a man who at times overlooks the

Editorial For The Record

Millions of words have been written about academic freedom. It could therefore be assumed with a high degree of accuracy that a country editor in his weekly editorial could contribute little to the debate on this issue which burns throughout our land. After all, a country editor is seldom a member of the National Association of University Professors, the Civil Liberties Union, and he is not often found in the ranks of the members of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA).

A country editor will be the first to admit that he does not think like a Madison Avenue Junior Executive, nor does he believe that he qualified to stand behind a podium in our large Universities and explain in detail the principals of economics. However, we do believe that he is imminently qualified to draw a conclusion on a subject such as freedom of the press, or the freedom of speech. He realizes more than most people that these freedoms cease when they infringe upon the rights of others. That is why he is always careful in his tedious job of editing, because he would not dare slander or libel anyone. Oliver Wendell Holmes said in the days of World War One that these rights were forfeited when by writing or speaking a person infringed upon the rights of others. He said loud and clear in his opinion in Schenck vs The United States that the individual had committed sedition when he printed leaflets against the American cause.

We believe that our children should not be exposed to a group of Marxists or members of communist front organizations in the classrooms on our college campuses. We believe that their teachings verge on the threshold of treason, and that they have infringed upon the rights of all loyal Americans when they expound their theories to our children.

If we want our children to learn about the use of drugs, then we do not want an addict showing them the results. If we want our daughters to learn of the dangers of rape, then we do not want a rapist to teach her what it is, now do we want a person who advocates the overthrow of our government telling our children with silver tongues what failures their forefathers have been and how indecent it is to be an American patriot and about the advantages of Communism.

We do not believe that this was the intent nor the purpose of the Bill of Rights. Neither do we believe that it takes many qualifications to realize that these fellow travelers are laughing up their sleeve at those well meaning Americans who honestly and pathetically state that it would be a violation of Academic Freedom to purge these teachers from our campuses.

As we have said, we can contribute little to the debate, but the parents of America can contribute greatly by seeing to it that their children know their American heritage well, and by once more placing the destiny of our nation in the hands of God. Show our children who learn these lessons and we will show to the world men who will light the destiny of darkened age.

niceties permitted by semantic exercises. He would not equate "improper activities" with a bribery attempt and threatened to produce a tape recording of the whole sorry mess unless the U.S. admitted it was caught trying to bribe. Rep. Gross reports this was done.

The Congressman also raises the question as to how many millions have been used in this manner when there was no big thinker as the Singapore Prime Minister involved to demand a 1100 per cent raise in the ante.

Along this line it is also interesting to note that as soon as India and Pakistan started shooting at each other, Washington predicted they could not fight for long because they would run out of ammunition and other military needs.

Some of the officials in Washington should have a pretty good idea of their military supplies because both of the warring nations have been recipients of U.S. foreign aid.

The American position in this area has been somewhat similar to this. We have acknowledged to Indians that they do not like the folks in Pakistan, and in Pakistan we have understood their attitude toward India. American officials have then said, in effect, "we know you are at each other's throats so we will give both of you tanks, guns, other supplies. Now please keep the peace."

This is diplomacy.

It sounds more like keeping a group of teen age girls calm and quiet by sending them to a Beatles concert.

BY SUDIE THOMPSON

The term "delayed cure" may sound like a health fad but it actually refers to a new textile process which represents a happy news for the family wardrobe.

Wash-wears finished by this technique have an exceptional ability to retain their shape during wear and after laundering.

Durable creases and pleats can be set in to last the life of the garment even after repeated washing.

The finish requires two steps. First, the fabric is treated with thermosetting resin and goes to the manufacturer to be made into garments, including sharp creases or pleats, if desired.

Then the finished garments are placed in a high-temperature oven to "cure" the finish by heat. This permanently "sets" the shape of the entire garment. It also reduces the problem of subsequent seam pucker and eliminates the need for touch-up ironing.

Certain wools are also being treated by a chemical process with a delayed setting similar to that used for cottons and cotton blends. Creases or pleats are made in finished woolen garments, and the setting takes place in a subsequent step, again assuring the durable sharpness so important to a pleated fashion.

stored since the bombings by the Germans in World War I. Another interesting picture was the flooded streets from Danube River in Budapest, Hungary. Also, one of the oldest church buildings. Most of these old buildings are known for their architectural beauty.

Yugoslavia seemed to be the best developed. Belgrade had good hotels. They also visited East & West Germany. In the East side very little has been done to rebuild, but in the West side, many modern facilities are in use. All their trains are very ancient in Germany. The Country is filled with memorials built by the Russians. One good picture was of the Brandenburg Gate Memorial, where President Kennedy once delivered a speech.

In England, they visited the famous Big Ben Clock, Queen's Palace, The Public Square, The River Thames, and the famous old church where Shakespeare was buried Also, the St. Paul's Cathedral.

Mrs. Perkins, Program Leader, stressed conservation and the topic was "Mother of Life Water". It is more important now to save water than ever before. Mrs. Chambliss, in the scripture reading gave the 10 Commandments of Agriculture given in the Bible. 1. Produce good products. 2. Prepare your land. 3. Grow legumes. 4. Terrace your land. 5. Cultivate your land. 6. Manage livestock. 7. Market your products. 8. Preserve fruits and vegetables. 9. Get clear title to land. 10. Leave your children a sound inheritance.

Many interesting things are always brought out in roll call. Did you know that the many sand dunes around Wink and Monahan is part of a National Sand Dune Park? We often wonder how people ever pay for some of our land. One farmer when asked, replied, "I paid for 1/2 section of land by forgetting the things my wife ordered from town."

In the East you are not served a glass of water with your meals. Think of the many gallons of water this saves each day. Water shortage is problem. It is better to save now than do without later.

Our Special Project now is Operation Santa Claus.

Iota Pi Meets

Iota Pi Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha held its regular monthly business and educational meeting Monday, November 1, in the home of Mrs. Sandy Cobb. Mrs. Melba Duke president called the meeting to order and 13 members answered roll call. Upon completion of the business the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Wanda Ashburn, Program Director for the evening.

Kennedy's inaugural address. Wanda reminded all members that November 2, was election day and although we did not have any candidates running the amendments to the State Constitution was a very important election and not only was it a privilege to be able to vote it was also an obligation every one has to their country. Mrs. Juanita Cooke told the Story of Our Flag. She started with the first flag that flew over this country and described each flag that has flown up to the one we have today.

Mrs. Elsie Carpenter discussed "How a Bill Becomes a Law" and she also read an article on the symbolism of the of the dollar bill.

Sourdough Jack's Fruitcake

AMBROSIA! . . . and more for Christmas. A fine old Sourdough Fruitcake recipe.

That great old pioneer gustatorial standby, Sourdough, furnishes the leavening for a tasty version of the traditional fruitcake, melding the superb Byzantine Christmas traditions of Russian-occupied Alaska with those of our own American West. It's a moist and toothsome cake similar to spice cake in texture and California Port goes well with this fruitcake.

This fine recipe comes complete with a package of dry Sourdough Starter in a delightfully designed 50-page book entitled "Sourdough Jack's Cookery." The book gives a light, enjoyable bread history with tantalizing recipes for Sourdough pancakes, waffles and biscuits. This recipe book makes an ideal Christmas stocking stuffer for dear Aunt Zelda and friends who pride themselves on baking and for the man cook who delights in creating ambrosial pancakes and breadstuffs.

Sourdough Jack's Cookery Kit is sold in many gift, gourmet and book stores. Or, an autographed copy may be ordered by mail direct from the Country Kitchen, 119 Post St., San Francisco, Calif. 94108 for $2.00 postpaid.

SOURDOUGH JACK'S CHRISTMAS FRUITCAKE

- 1/2 cups raisins
- 1/2 cups currants
- 3 cups mixed glazed fruits & peels
- 1 cup hard cider or California brandy
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup brown sugar (packed)
- 2/3 cup shortening
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
- 1 tsp. nutmeg
- 1/2 tsp. allspice
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 cup Sourdough Starter
- 1 cup sliced almonds
- 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 2 tsp. salt

Rinse and drain raisins and currants. Chop raisins, currants and glazed fruits. Combine all fruits with cider or brandy; cover and let stand overnight. Cream sugars, shortening and spices together until fluffy; beat in eggs. Stir in Sourdough Starter. Combine with fruit mixture and almonds. Sift flour, soda and salt together into batter and mix thoroughly. Turn into two greased loaf pans 9x5x3 which have been lined with heavy brown paper. Bake, below oven center, in very slow oven (275°F.) about 2 1/2 hours. Remove from pans, cool on wire racks before removing paper. Spoon 2 or 3 tablespoons additional brandy or cider over each cooled loaf before storing. Wrap in foil and refrigerate for keeping. Douse with cider at two-week intervals. Makes 2 loaves.

Views From County Agent

BY LEO WHITE

Studies made at the South Plains Research and Extension Center near Lubbock show that cotton defoliation can easily cost the cotton farmer a large portion of his profits. Cotton farmers can lose money by applying harvest-aid chemicals before figuring the economics of the practice.

The practice of defoliating cotton can be profitable when it enables the grower to harvest mature cotton ahead of adverse weather. Yoakum County cotton is usually considered mature when eighty percent of the bolls are open. When harvest-aid chemicals are applied before eighty percent of the bolls are open the farmer can lose ten to twelve dollars per acre plus the cost of the applied chemicals. Very little benefit can be expected from harvest-aid chemicals if they are applied less than three weeks ahead of the first killing frost.

In 1962 the researchers at the center applied harvest-aid chemicals at different stages of maturity. Applied when 46 percent was open, the lint yield was 791 pounds and worth $229 per acre; when 72 percent was open, lint yield was 870 pounds per acre and worth $252 per acre; when defoliated by frost with 92 percent open, lint yield was 881 pounds worth $264 per acre.

Young Homemakers Host Early Turkey Day Feast

Thanksgiving arrived early in Plains this year for the families of Yoakum County Young Homemakers. They were honored with a holiday feast on Monday night, November 8, in the clubroom. The traditional meal consisted of turkey and dressing, candied yams, green beans, cranberry salad, hot rolls, and pumpkin balls. Members of YH arrived at the clubroom at 9 a.m. on Monday morning to begin the day long meeting. Instructing and advising on all phases of the meal was local home demonstration agent, Mrs. Suddie Thompson, an honorary YH. In addition to the evening meal preparation, Mrs. Thompson served two casserole dishes at noon. A luncheon guest, in addition to members, was Mrs. Jerry Perez of Palmer, Alaska, mother of Mrs. Jerome Head.

While the turkeys were roasting and the rolls rising, club members had a welcome chance to sit down and relax with a cup of coffee. This time was delightfully filled with a book review by Mrs. Tom Box. Mrs. Box, a member of State Line Home Demonstration Club, reviewed the book, "White Mother", by Jessie Bennett Sams. The well prepared report was the story of two colored twins who were befriended by a southern white lady.

The evening meal was served at 7 p.m. to 32 persons. Special guests were honorary members and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Barron and Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Thompson, and Young Farmer Advisor and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bo Stephens.

A short business meeting followed the dinner. It was decided to have a semi-formal Christmas Party. Most members are planning to make formal dresses for the occasion, and also to wear them at the state convention awards banquet.

YH were urged to support the Tsa Mo Ga in their current fund raising project by purchasing a ticket on their Cedar Chest. The cedar chest is on display in the window of Moore & Oden.

Other recent projects of YH have been to raise funds for the state convention trip. Among these projects was catering and serving the Homecoming Bar-B-Q for the ex-student association, October 22. A refreshment booth was provided at the High School's Halloween Carnival, October 30. The special feature of the menu, Frito Pie, was a complete sell out. A check was presented to the Student Council for their annual fund by Mrs. Kent Welch, president of YH. This project was carried out as a part of the club's "Big Sister" relation to the F. H. A.

ers Corps of specially trained teachers who will serve in urban slums and areas of rural poverty. This is a plan to upgrade the levels of education in our low-income areas.

Although student assistance is a major part of this Act, there are several programs to strengthen institutions of higher education.

For instance, there is a first year authorization of $50 million to enable colleges to buy additional library resources, and another $35 million to buy laboratory educational facilities.

This same bill amends the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963 and increases construction loans from $230 million to $460 million for undergraduate laboratories, dormitories and classrooms. The loans for graduate facility construction are raised from $60 to $120 million.

This Higher Education Bill is one of the most important educational developments in the history of the United States standing with the GI Bills and the National Defense Education Act. I am hopeful that we can get the GI Bill enacted in the next session of Congress. It passed the Senate by more than four to one and if we can just get it out of the House of Veterans Committee and on to the floor of the House of Representatives for a vote, I feel it will pass that body by four to one, too.

cotton is to be planted and how much to be diverted.

Any producer who plans to participate in the government program at all will first need to reduce his effective allotment by 12.5 percent before using the above factors. And the same procedure will be followed if he chooses to cut back 25 or 35 percent, the other two alternatives.

The question is posed also as to how acreage will be measured for allotment purposes when cotton is interplanted with other crops. This is an important question to High Plains farmers, but the final answer will not be available until the Secretary issues his regulations.

It would seem, however, that if cotton were interplanted with another allotment crop, say grain sorghum, there would be no logical way to count each crop as more than the actual planted acres. Assuming of course that no rows were skipped between them.

For instance if land was planted solid, two rows of cotton alternated with two rows of grain sorghum, it would not be logical to measure the two crops in any manner which would result in a total acreage over 100 percent of the land.

However, betting that logic will be used in government regulations has not always been a good gamble. Better to wait and see.

South Plains Cotton Harvested

USDA

Cotton News

Cotton harvesting on the South Plains continued to gain momentum during the past week, according to W. K. Palmer, in charge of the Lubbock Cotton Classing Office of the USDA.

The three USDA South Plains Classing Offices classed 49,

300 samples during the week ending Wednesday, November 3. This was over one-half of the cotton classed this season and brought the total for the season to 90,800. During the week the Lubbock office classed 37,000 samples, the Lamesa office 9,000.

Sample receipts increased during the week because of an increase in stripping operations and the three offices received approximately 9,000 samples daily.

Trading in the new crop cotton on the Lubbock market increased considerably as more cotton became available and prices remained steady. Prices for cotton with micronaire of 3.5 and better, as reported to the Consumer and Marketing Service of the USDA, ranged from the loan for Strict Middling and Middling to $2.50 per bale over the loan for Low Middling.

Light Spotted grades continued to be in best demand and were bringing from $1 per bale over the loan for Strict Middling Light Spotted to $5 per bale over the loan for Strict Low Middling Light Spotted.

Prices paid for the predominant qualities with micronaire of 3.5 and better were: Middling 15/16-27.65, Middling 31/32-28.25, Middling 1 1/8-29.10, Strict Low Middling 15/16-26.45, Strict Low Middling 31/32-26.95, Mid-

The USDA-Consumer and Marketing Service's Cotton Classing office in Brownfield classed 2,924 Smith Doxey samples for the week through Thursday, November 4, 1965. This is 500 samples more than was classed at this same time last week. Wilburn L. Reeves, officer-in-charge reports approximately 500 samples on hand to be classed with daily receipts at about 800 samples and steadily increasing. Total samples classed from Gaines, Terry and Yoakum counties for the season reached 7,345 Thursday night November 4. This is 7,000 samples less than was classed at this time last year.

Three classers are currently on duty at the Brownfield office ding Light Spotted 15/16-26.75, Middling Light Spotted 31/32-27.25 and Strict Low Middling Light Spotted 15/16-25.80.

Prices paid farmers for cottonseed ranged from $45 to $50 per ton.

Record Cotton Crop Forecast For 1965

The November 1 estimate of High Plains cotton production for the 1965 year jumped to 2,218,000 bales, up from 2,141,000 estimated the first of October.

The estimate covers the 23 member-counties of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. and is jointly compiled by PCG and the Lubbock Cotton Exchange each month beginning with the first of September.

The indicated total production rise is attributed to excellent weather conditions for maturing the crop during the past month.

These guesses in past years have proven accurate to within a few percentage points. If the current prognostication is correct it will mean the 3rd largest crop on record for the area, less than 5.4 percent below the top crop in 1961 of 2,344,803 bales. 2nd highest for the area was in 1962, when 2,328,293 bales were harvested from the 23 counties.

Quality of the 55,000 bales classed through October 29 this year is reflected in the first 1965 cotton quality report from Plains Cotton Growers. Each year the producer organization publishes every two weeks a complete analysis of the High Plains crop as it is harvested.

The first report this year shows an increase over the first period last year in cotton staple length from 30.9 thirty-seconds of an inch to 31.4 thirty-seconds. However, this is probably not an indication of the staple picture for the entire season.

More open-boll, longer stapled cotton was planted on the Plains this year. The first picking of this type cotton is usually done either by hand or with spindle-type pickers before shorter storm-proof cottons are ready for stripping. Therefore it is likely that the early-season average may have unduly weighted by bales of longer stapled cotton.

Even so, there is still reason to hope that the season's staple average will be up to some extent over last year's 30.1 thirty-seconds of an inch. In addition to the open-boll cotton referred to, another 200,000 bales or more of varieties which normally measure one inch or more is yet to be harvested.

Micronaire on the first bales harvested averaged 4.1, not greatly different from the first average last year of 4.2. Micronaire on the crop in 1964 held up through the season exceptionally well, and good cotton maturing weather for the past month would indicate another good year for micronaire in 1965.

The importance of micronaire will become increasingly evident this year with the inclusion of micronaire premiums and discounts in the government schedule of loan values for cotton. Previously this factor had been used by the trade, but not by the loan schedule, in determining cotton value.

The most disappointing quality factor so far this year has been "pressley" or fiber strength. This average came to only 78,600 pounds per square inch on the first 55,000 bales. Average on the first quality report in 1965 was 80,100 pounds.

Cotton Bill Questions Debated

Questions on the new cotton program are still coming in. There is still a great deal of confusion.

The Omnibus Farm Bill, which contains provisions for the cotton program, was signed into law by the President on Wednesday of this week. From that date, the Secretary of Agriculture has 15 days in which to issue final regulations. So they should be out no later than November 18.

In the meantime, Plains Cotton Growers has attempted to answer some of the questions being asked. A "Jumbo" card bearing an analysis of the cotton program for 1966 was mailed by PCG this week to each of approximately 25,000 members. These include farmers, ginners and most others on the Plains with an intense interest in cotton.

One of the things still bothering farmers is the method of figuring acreage under the new skip-row planting rules issued last week by the Secretary.

The simplest way of doing this, as pointed out by PCG President J. D. Smith, is by using a factor for each of the popular skip-row patterns. The farmer who plans to plant cotton on two rows and skip one row will multiply the acreage he intends to plant by 1.15.

If he plants two rows and leaves two rows blank he will need to multiply the acreage by 1.53.

A pattern of four rows cotton and two blank requires a factor of 1.30.

Using these factors the farmer can determine the total acreage that can be covered by cotton and still remain within an allotment. However, producers will need to first determine how much of their

J. M. Dearing harvested the first bale in 1965 and is the first to start stripper operations. The crop exceeded a bale per acre. (SWCD Photo)

New conservation plans, Great Plains contracts to help carry out these plans, cover crop planting and plans for management of crop residue are keeping Soil Conservation Service personal and a lot of conservation farmers and ranchers busy.

Two new Great Plains program contracts, Jack Carothers and A. P. Hudson were signed last week. New conservation plans on these farms along with O. H. Clark, Bill Rex Webb, Tommy Barron, Darrell Barron, T. D. Roberts, Harvey K. Knight and the Mayor of Plains Kenneth Hale were completed and mailed to the area office for typing.

New Great Plains applications were Lela B. Wooley Trust, W. R. Nelson and Clifford Anderson. We will be working with these people this week and next on a program to cost share conservation work on their land.

We have never seen such flowers as the green thumbs of Plains can produce. Mrs. Barrett brought a variety of colors of the most beautiful chrysanthemums for our dining tables over the weekend. Mrs. Craig is a genius at arranging the cooks-comb and other flowers that she grows. Just let her have an old fashioned crock, and some flowers and see what she comes up with. If you want to see some mums that are just out of this world, see the one like Mrs. Overton brought to the Center. We haven't met all the ladies who have brought flowers, but we do know that Mrs. Mary Lane, and Mrs. Essie Hill were among the women who brought gorgeous arrays of the most beautiful flowers, and we thank all of you. You can never know the joys the flowers and your visits bring to the guests of the Center.

The little Sunbeams of the First Baptist Church of Plains, turned their trick or treat, about face, and brought treats to the Senior Citizens at the Center, along with a sing song. They are precious children & we love them and appreciate their loving and tireless sponsors. Needless to say their treats were delicious and enjoyed by all.

The Pastor of The Assembly of God Church, Rev. Tarkington, brought the message to the Center last Sunday. The guests of the Center enjoyed his picking the guitar and singing and were inspired by his talk.

We are glad that there are enough men at the Center who like to play dominoes to make a forenoon, for they spend many pleasant hours at the game table.

Mrs. Hattie Cora Coke contributed a nice bundle of worn sheets among other nice things she has done for the Center. Thank you, Mrs. Coke. These nice white rags of that size are nice & handy to use.

We are especially grateful to the nice people from Denver City who have brought flowers. We want to get acquainted with you & learn your names.

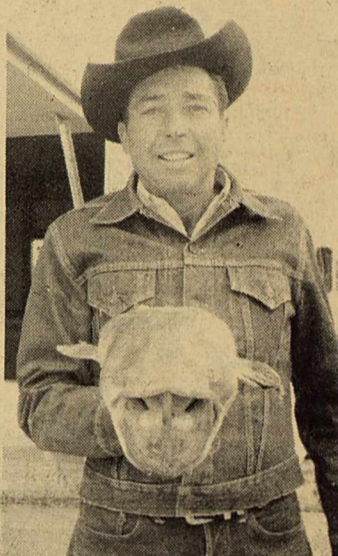

We are happy as you are to have a Doctor in Plains. Dr. Walker and his charming wife were gracious enough to accept an invitation to have coffee with Curtis and Austa Echols, and their staff at the Center.

A.S.C. News

A number of landlords have visited the county office in regard to the new farm program and many landlords have the idea that they can take over their farms and place all of it or what they can in these government programs and collect more than the rent they have been receiving and as stated in the past it is my opinion that when the regulations are received the County ASC Committees in each Co. will have ample authority to protect the tenant farmer. County ASC Committees must approve any payment contract before any payment can be made and is expected that many applications will be refused or not approved. We would advise all landlords before displacing a good tenant for the purpose of collecting government payments to obtain a copy of the regulations when they are available.

Yes, you guessed it. The big one got away. One of the many like caught by L. D. Jr. and Robert Hamm. The two went alone but were joined later by another brother, Jack and two of his buddies, Ronnie Graham of Brownfield and Bobby Jene Laster of Seagraves. The party of old time fishermen reported good fishing. Wonderful weather and a good time, but lots of hard work. If you have ever fished the Rio Grande pulling, pladding and guiding a 15 ft. boat over the shoals and through the canyon you know what it means. But its worth every minute of it.
