Mayor Hale Reveals Cut In Fire Insurance Rates Here

Mayor Kenneth Hale announces that his office has received word from the State Board of Insurance in Austin that Fire Insurance rates will be lowered from 91¢ key rate to about 81¢ soon. Mayor Hale said that he was delighted to hear from the state board and that pertinent data and maps were sent to Austin by his office recently after a study was conducted.

The Mayor stated that this will mean a savings of about 10% on the key rate on insurance. Mayor Hale has requested that the state board give further study to our water system in order that his office can receive plans concerning how to reduce the rates further.

Plains has been listed as an unprotected city, and the mayor and the city council have been engaged in studies to lower the rates. The mayor said that our fire fighting equipment was the key reason for lowering the rates.

The Mayor stated that the findings of the cities study was sent to Austin last month.

The Chamber of Commerce voted unanimously to support and assist the city in forming a plan to get the insurance rates lowered. Other groups and individuals have expressed much interest in seeing the rates lowered.

The editor of the Record asked a local insurance agent what savings this would mean to a person who carries Fire Insurance on a stucco or asbestos siding house in Plains. The insurance agent said that it would work out about 10%. The Insurance agent also said that commercial property would also benefit from the key rate decrease.

City Political Race Looms

Filing ceases tomorrow for positions on the city election ticket. Several contests loom on the local level and the big race sees incumbent Mayor Kenneth Hale seeking reelection with challenger Billy Kennedy running for the mayor's office.

Two Aldermen will be elected in the voting and at least four hopefuls are seeking seats on the City Council. Incumbent Aldermen Roy Edwards and Ed Hunter are seeking another term, while James Barnett and Little Tommy McDonnell are running for the offices.

Only one person had filed at press time for the marshal's office, that being Duane M. McDonnell.

In the race for Mayor both men are well known in the community. Hale has served as mayor since Mayor Pro Ten. Neil Taylor left office, and has eight years experience on the council. Kennedy is civic minded and entered the race for the council last year, but withdrew due to a technicality.

The council race has Roy Edwards, local pharmacist and Ed Hunter, also a pharmacist as incumbents facing a test of two members of the fire department running against them. Barnett was named Fireman of the Year at the recent Fireman's Banquet.

Deadline for filing is Saturday, and at presstime these were the only candidates in the city race.

Stock Show Animal Classes

The 1966 Fat Stock Show is history and plans are getting underway for 1967. The boys and girls who feed beef calves are selecting their animals and the new year looks promising.

The 1966 sale was another good one and perhaps the most uniform sale to be held here in many years. The total sales of $14,989.79 is much lower than the $22,913.00 sale held in 1965. Back when we were exhibiting more calves and less barrows and lambs, it was easier to get a high total sales from the same number of animals.

Many people have asked how the 1966 sale compared with the other thirteen. Although the following is not a true picture because of the variation in calf numbers, it gives an idea of how the sales are going.

March Draft Quota Set

State draft boards are scheduled to forward 5,515 young men for preinduction mental and physical examinations in March, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, announced Tuesday. This compares with a scheduled 8,640 being forwarded in February.

The March induction quota 1,570, previously announced is the biggest monthly draft quota received for the armed forces in Texas since June 1953.

The March induction quota of 1,570 compares with a February call of 1,372.

Local board quotas for induction and preinduction examination in March already have been figured and sent to

For Texas Voters Emergency Registration Period Begins Thursday

An emergency 15 day voter registration period will begin today in Yoakum County, as well as the rest of the State.

Registration will be handled in the office of Tax Assessor Collector, E. W. Craig and in his office in Denver City.

A special session of the Texas Legislature met recently and adopted the new voter registration law. This action came following Federal court action which struck down the Texas Poll Tax.

Those 2,086 people who have paid their poll tax will not be required to register during the 15 day period; however the entire electorate will be required to register between October 1, 1966 and January 31, 1967. The emergency dates for registration are March 3-17. Those people who paid their poll tax are not expected to receive a refund.

An analysis of the recent voter registration law is included below. It is reprinted from the Levelland Daily Sun-News.

By LEE JONES
AUSTIN (AP) — Voters and election officials will find few differences between the new free annual voter registration system and the procedures they used under the poll tax.

The first phase of the new registration law, enacted this week, starts Thursday when a 15-day emergency voter sign-up period begins.

Voters who register during the 15-day period, as well as those qualified before Jan. 31 under the poll tax, may vote in all of this year's elections unless the U.S. supreme court upholds the $1.75 voting requirement. Such a ruling is believed unlikely.

Seven Race For School Board

At press time Wednesday seven candidates had filed for positions on the Board of Trustees School Election which is scheduled in 30 days.

Four positions will be elected in the April contest. Beside the four incumbents, Bob Mason, Dicky Green, and Harvey Romans filed for office.

The incumbents who are seeking re-election to the Plains Board of Trustees include Ty Field, Garland Swann, T.J. Murphy, and Foye Powell.

The remainder of the seats on the school board do not come up for election this year. The election will be conducted in the school library. The date for the election is the first Saturday in April, which will fall on April 2.

Phone Book Date Near

A spokesman at Romain Telephone Company in a news release today announced that anyone using that phone system who desires a change in address for the new directory or anyone who believes that he will change his address, to contact the Romain Telephone Business Office not later than noon Saturday, Noon Saturday is the absolute deadline in order to get the galleys to press. The telephone directories will be mailed to the customers on April 1st.

Dimes Drive Ends

Mrs. Bill Loyd, president of Tsa Mo Ga, announced that the drive for the March of Dimes has ended and that $195.00 has been turned in to the district office. Mrs. Loyd extended her thanks to the many people in Plains who contributed to the drive.

Tsa Mo Ga was in charge of the annual drive for the March of Dimes. Mrs. Loyd said that her thanks is also extended to the ladies who helped in the drive. They include: Mesdames: Alf Carpenter, P. W. St. Romain, Bob Blundell, Sid Wade, Kenneth Hale, Morris Lowe, and Cleatus Phelan.

Mrs. Loyd stated that these ladies worked hard in adverse weather and canvassed the town soliciting funds for the annual drive for The March of Dimes.

TEXAS PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK
MARCH 7-11

School Plans Program, Open House March 10th

Open house is scheduled at the Plains Independent School on March 10th. A host of events are slated on the program and G. D. Kennedy, Superintendent of Schools invites the public to attend.

At 5:30 p. m. the Science Club will sponsor a spaghetti dinner at the school cafeteria. They will continue to serve dinner until 9:00 p. m., and the public is encouraged to plan their meal time around the program.

A 30 minute program will be given by members of the band who are preparing to enter the interscholastic league contest. The ensemble will start at 7:00 p. m. in the auditorium, and at 7:30 p. m. slides of school activities will be shown. The school spokesman said that the miscellaneous pictures of school events should be of great interest to the public. The showing of the pictures will conclude at 8:00 p. m.

From 8 p. m. until 9:30 p. m. an open house is scheduled in the grade school, junior high, and the high and the high school. Class rooms will have some of their work on display and many exhibits are expected to be displayed.

Open house is conducted in most of the school systems in Texas during Texas Public School Week. Parents of children in school are particularly requested to visit their school and to see the many exhibits and to ask questions about their children's work. Classroom teachers and the administrative staff will be on hand to answer questions, and to explain the exhibits and the classroom work.

March 7-11 has been designated as Texas Public School Week, and the 10th has been set as school open house in Plains.

Teacher Group Pictures Ideal Board Candidates

BY TEXAS EDUCATION NEWS SERVICE
Voters in school districts across Texas will soon be voting in school board elections and school boards, as always, need the best qualified citizens.

The ideal school board member should be an open-minded, fair, and intelligent citizen with a deep understanding of education's importance, the Texas State Teachers Association says.

TSTA has compiled a list of qualifications for the ideal school board member.

The qualifications would rule out extremists on both the left and the right.

In publishing the qualification list TSTA urged voters in Texas's 1,350 school districts, to avoid those candidates who seek places on school boards for political gain or personal prestige.

Unselfish
Here is TSTA's summary of an ideal candidate:

- He has an unselfish interest in the welfare of the child, the schools and the community.
- He possesses the will to represent the school district as a whole rather than a political clique, a geographical section or a political cause or party.
- He has courage to explain and backup rulings which are proper but perhaps unpopular.
- He can think independently and objectively.
- He understands the need and has the desire to work with other board members—even when he is on the minority side of a question.
- He can carry on cheerfully when his sincere efforts do not stimulate public action.

Full Partners
● He believes that the professional staff of the school is a full partner in the process of achieving excellence in education.

● He can recognize and abide by the lines of authority which distinguish the powers and functions of the school board and the administration.

● He is willing to give up liberal amounts of his own time.

● He is able to withhold judgment on critical issues until all the facts are known.

● He respects and listens to the opinions of those with specialized preparation.

Dignity
● He has the ability to recognize his own errors and change his mind without considering it a loss of personal stature or as a sign of weakness.

● He has a demonstrated respect for the dignity of each individual and for the opinion of others.

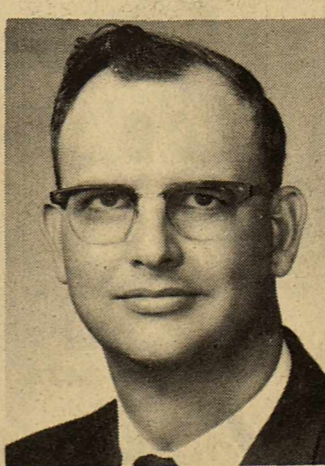

● He understands the vital relationship between high caliber education and high caliber teachers and administrators.

● He supports policies which contribute directly to highest standards and thus high morale among students and teachers.

● He understands that leadership in his community's schools often will require him to redirect public opinion into more constructive channels.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Too Sick To Work?

As the result of a stroke, Mary suffered permanent disability in one hand. This made it impossible for her to carry on her usual job in a textile mill. So she put in a claim for disability benefits under the federal Social Security Act.
However, her claim was turned down. Reason: she was still able to perform other jobs in the mill which were open to her.
Generally speaking, the Social Security Act does provide monthly cash payments to an eligible workman with a long term disability. The purpose is to "bridge the gap" until he is old enough to collect retirement benefits.
But when is a person sufficiently disabled to qualify for aid? The law seeks to help those truly in need, yet not those who in all fairness could still earn their own living.

Thus, you ordinarily cannot collect benefits if your handicap is one that could be remedied with a reasonable exercise of will power.
In one case a man was suffering from back pains, too severe to allow him to work. However, it appeared that his condition could be greatly improved if he would diet off some excess poundage.
Under these circumstances, a court held he was not disabled in the sense that the law meant—and therefore he did not qualify for disability payments.
Another rule, illustrated by Mary's case above, is that you are not disabled merely because you can no longer do exactly the same job you have done in the past. The law expects you to take an alternative job, if you are fitted for it.
On the other hand, the law does not expect you to seek work beyond your capacities. For example: A workman, forced by injuries to give up manual labor, was still physically able to do clerical work at a desk. But he had neither the education nor the experience for it. Therefore, a court held him sufficiently disabled to qualify for benefits.
Nor must you seek a kind of work which you could do only at the cost of grievous pain and effort. As one judge put it, the law should not be applied so sternly that it would aid only the "totally helpless and bedridden" and "those at death's door."

Believe It or Not Department: At one time the Supreme Court ruled that America was a Christian Nation. It happened in 1892 in what was called the Holy Trinity case. Justice David J. Brewer made the statement in delivering the decision of the court and later wrote a book entitled: "The United States A Christian Nation." In the book he went into great detail to explain what he meant in the court case. Namely, that America's historical and legal background is Christian. That, in all its compacts and charters and in all the common laws of the States Christianity is either stated or implied.

Do you remember this verse from your school days? Will some of our young folks remind us whether it is still widely quoted?
Lives of great men all remind us We can make our lives sublime. And departing leave behind us Footprints on the sands of time.

William Cowper once wrote: "How sweet, how passing sweet, is solitude; . . . but grant me still a friend in my retreat, whom I may whisper, solitude is sweet."

Once a traveller was driving across country in a wagon. He stopped to ask if there was no end to the steep hill he was climbing. The fellow reminded him that there was no hill, only that the back wheels were lost from his wagon. . . . Sometimes in our own life, when the road seems all uphill—it may just be that we have lost part of our wheels.

Recently we heard the following account of a banker and his client discussing a long term loan and its repayment. It seemed the client was making a small payment and the banker said: "This property doesn't seem to be bringing in very much revenue." "No," replied the client, "and if I had as much in this as you have I would be worried about it too."

Aunt Flo says she will always be a small town girl at heart. She wants to live in a place which is only large enough for things to happen, yet small enough for one to hear about it without having to go out and buy a newspaper.

The other night we dreamed that we were reading the want ads and came across one advertising an Amen Service for the churches. Not only is this something that might go over in this modern day, but it also reminded me of my boyhood days when we used to go to church and hear rousing a-men from all over the house. Not only that but the preacher or preachers in case extra ones were visiting would all take turns in the pulpit. Then, when the time passed on past the noon hour and the one preaching would mention quitting there would be a chorus of voices urging him to go ahead as he felt led to do. I guess in those days no one believed in the gag rule—not even against the filibuster. . . . Maybe we better stop dreaming.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" BY C. WILSON HARDER

Paraphrasing an old saying, it can now be written "what politicians propose, bureaucrats often dispose."
Millions of words have been written and spoken on opportunity for the American negro.

But at least one enterprising, resourceful negro found his opportunity closed tight. He was thrown out onto the streets by a group that is commonly known by three letters. Those letters, however, are not KKK, but ICC, the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Joe Jones, Jr. is a 42 year old negro resident of Atlanta, Georgia, a disabled veteran, father of ten children, a man of character and initiative.

To make his own way, he was operating a mortgaged rig hauling chickens from Georgia poultry growers to northern markets. Agricultural product hauling is exempt from regulation by ICC.

However, in the north, it is not easy to find exempt cargoes to haul back to Georgia, and it is expensive to return empty. So Joe Jones did something about it. He secured from the Small Business Administration a loan of $25,000 to buy three trucks and engage on a larger scale in the industry in which he had been active for some 28 years.

He also secured from shippers letters attesting to the (c) National Federation of Independent Business fact that they needed the type of service he provided.

So Jones made application to ICC for a permit to operate. The big trucking combines immediately filed protests with ICC with the result that the bureau turned down the application from Joe Jones although his customers filed additional letters with the ICC saying that if the application was not granted, rather than attempt to use the other unsatisfactory shipping services they would follow the lead of many other firms and own and operate their own trucks.

The ICC, now caught in a bind, came up with the statement that it was felt that Joe Jones was not financially equipped for the economics of today's trucking business. Then ICC officials suggested to him that he lease his trucks to some big outfit and take a job driving one of his own trucks for them.

But Jones insisted he wanted to run his own business, and he was supported in this stand by both Senators Richard Russell and Herman Talmadge.

But ICC stood firm, with the result that Joe Jones had to give up some $40,000 in debt. At this writing, nobody, but nobody, has done anything to correct this wrong.

The fact that Joe Jones Jr. is a negro is incidental. The important fact is that a government bureau can deny opportunity to any qualified, resourceful person of any color. Perhaps there should be a clause on all civil rights laws protecting all citizens from the bigotry of bureaucracy.

Yet today we have nearly 300 different religious denominations, all calling themselves Christian ... all professing the Bible as their rule of faith... and all differing to some extent or another in their understanding of what the Bible means. Could Christ have left a "rule of faith" that would permit such confusion? Would He have left the interpretation of His Word to the fallible and changing judgments of men—when our very souls depend on a correct understanding and observance of the things Christ has taught us?

Because it certainly does matter what a man believes, we invite you to examine the rule of faith of the first Christians—a rule that is still maintained by the Catholic Church. Because the Bible is God's Word, and because He gave it to us for a purpose, we invite you to see what this purpose is. An interesting pamphlet on the correct use of the Bible, will be sent to you free, in a plain wrapper. And nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. KC-13.

Emergency

Those registering in the emergency period, as well as during the first regular registration period from Oct. 1 to Jan. 31, will discover the process is virtually identical to that followed under the poll tax.

The big exception is that they won't have to pay $1.75.

Voters may register in one of three ways:

—By going to the county tax assessor-collector's office.

—By mail.

—By appearing before a deputy assessor-collector, who must operate at "fixed locations" customarily open to the public with their hours of operation specified by the assessor-collector.

The new law, signed by Gov. John Connally Thursday, wipes out the old system of so-called "roving deputies," used by the League of Women Voters, labor and ethnic organizations and other politically interested groups. That system allowed deputized individuals to go door-to-door signing up voters and receiving poll tax payments.

The mechanics of registration will be familiar.

During the emergency registration period, voters will be signed up on old poll tax receipt forms. Voter registrants will stamp each form "conditional voter registration certificate."

Voter registration forms will resemble poll tax receipts.

A voter must give his name, daughters, Lois & Debbie were supper guests in the Alfred Pippin home, Monday night.

Now under construction in Tokio is a new snack bar. It will be located in the Corner Grocery, owned and operated by Mr. & Mrs. Glenn Lewis.

WYNNE CHESTER SAYS:

Here's an Integral Part of Our History

In 1866, just a century ago, a little-heralded event took place in New Haven, Connecticut, which was to have far-reaching effects. It eventually helped change the course of history, helped build a nation, and created a world-famous name which is now part of Americana. That event was the formation of a fire arms and ammunition company called The Winchester Repeating Arms Company.

Winchester's great contribution lay in developing the world's first successful repeating arms; these proved of immeasurable importance in the settling of our Western plains. At one time, in fact, "Winchester" was a household name meaning any repeating rifle. It also became known as "The Gun that Won the West." The pioneers depended on the Winchester to defend themselves against marauding Indians and outlaws, and to provide food for their families. It can safely be said that, without it, a lot more time would have been needed to tame the old Wild West.

Buffalo Bill Cody called his Winchester "the boss." Teddy Roosevelt's favorite rifles were Winchester, and ... but there are so very many informative and intriguing stories to tell that I'll have to let some of them wait for future columns.

sex, occupation, address, voting precinct, state or county or birth, date of birth, the date he became a resident of Texas, his city and county, whether he is a naturalized or native-born citizen.

No longer will a registrant be required to state his race. Occupation must be given except in counties where registration lists and records are compiled by electronic data processing equipment.

An innovation is the requirement that a voter's registration form contain a statement, to be signed by the voter or his agent, that "I certify that the information contained herein is true and correct."

The voter keeps the original certificate, the registrar retains a copy for his records, as under the poll tax system. A voter's spouse, parents or adult children may register for him, as under the present system.

As under the poll tax, a voter who loses his registration certificate may vote after giving his precinct election judge an affidavit that the certificate was lost or misplaced.

The new law keeps the old provision that persons over 60 living in cities of 10,000 or less may vote without registering.

Commissioners Courts of counties with 500,000 or more population may, however, require such elderly voters to register.

Mail registration may be on any form prescribed by the county voter registrar. Such forms must include a statement to be signed by the voter, that "I understand the giving of false information to procure the registration of a voter is a felony."

A new provision requires the tax assessor-collector to prepare for each precinct alphabetical lists of registered voters a month earlier than was required under the poll tax. The new deadline is March 1—a month after the final date for annual registration.

The earlier date will insure that such lists are in the hands of precinct election judges before local bond elections, many of which are held in March.

Lawmakers wrote into the registration bill a new duty for registrars. They and their deputies are the only persons who may assist persons to register who are physically unable to fill out their applications or who do not read or write English.

Registrars also may send deputies to hospitals, rest homes, convalescent homes and similar institutions to register voters unable to register in person or by mail.

No registration deputy may be paid for his services unless county commissioners approve the expenditure.

Volunteer groups find the bill's main limitation on their voter registration activities in the prohibition on "roving deputies."

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Fish should be strung through the lower jaw only.

What's wrong with stringing through both lips?

A fish's nostrils are only shallow pits not opening back, and his lips are stiff, hard. If your lips were taped together in the middle, you could breathe through your nose, or open your lips at just one side to do so; but a fish obviously can do neither. Therefore, if his lips are practically fastened together in the middle, so little water can get through that he immediately begins to weaken and slowly die.

Also, when a bass is strung through both lips, his flopping around tears the thin parts of his upper jaw very badly and it soon becomes suffused and discolored with blood — so when you bring him in to show him off to your friends, he presents a disgusting rather than an admirable appearance. A walleye is much like a bass in this respect. "A pike has a still more extensive area of very thin tissue on his upper jaw, so he'll look terribly mangled and nasty if strung through lips," warns Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.

Remember not to leave that stringer of fish out when running full out—it will pull your boat sidewise and slow you down. At slow speeds, there is little problem of drag, as the fish's mouths are not held open.

There's another important angle to the question of how to string your fish: You may have on your stringer as many as you want to take in — which, if you're a sportsman rather than a fish hog, will often be fewer than the law allows. But you keep on fishing for sport—with artificials, so as not to hook the fish deeply and injure them badly — and releasing them. And you happen to land one much larger than any you already have.

If each is strung with a wire snap through the extreme forward part of the lower jaw, behind his hard lip, there will be only a tiny hole there (which will soon heal), and he'll look as fresh as when you first caught him—so you can feel justified in liberating your smallest to put that big one on instead. Of course nobody with the most rudimentary notions of sportsmanship, or even decency, would turn a fish loose with his upper jaw badly mutilated by two-lip stringing.

Mold It Pretty With Pineapple

Light and layered, this pineapple shrimp salad looks as refreshing as it tastes. Canned pineapple chunks are molded in cool lime gelatin for the crowning layer. The middle layer accented with onion and mayonnaise provides the built-in dressing. The bottom layer features rosy shrimp. With hot rolls, this light-hearted pineapple creation is perfect for little luncheons.

PINEAPPLE SHRIMP MOLD

- 1 (6-ounce) package lime gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 (1 1/2-ounce) can pineapple chunks
- Cold water
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cups cooked deveined shrimp
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon grated onion

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. To syrup drained from pineapple, add enough cold water to measure 2 cups; add to gelatin along with vinegar, and salt. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Combine pineapple chunks with 1 1/2 cups gelatin mixture and pour into 8-cup mold. Chill. Combine shrimp with 1 1/2 cups gelatin mixture; fold mayonnaise and onion into remaining 1 cup gelatin mixture. When pineapple layer is almost firm, top with mayonnaise gelatin mixture. Chill until almost firm, then top with shrimp gelatin mixture. Chill several hours. Unmold. Garnish with watercress and radish roses, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Let's Go Fishin'
BY BOB BREWSTER
Outdoor Editor, Mercury Outboards

OUT OF THE CAN

Dream of catching your own "canned" salmon? Well, if fishery biologists are successful in many states across the country, this seemingly unlikely event may come to pass.

The salmon in question is kokanee, a close cousin of the Pacific sockeye species, relate the fishing experts at Mercury outboards. While possessing certain traits common to the salmon tribe — especially table fare appeal — this diminutive salmon shuns seaward migration.

A freshwater dweller, the kokanee represents a bright hope in the fishing picture which becomes more challenging to biologists each year. With fingers crossed, experimental introductions are being made wherever suitable waters exist.

Kokanee are cold water lovers, preferring a temperature of around 55 degrees. In many recently constructed reservoirs, such conditions prevail. After spawning, which occurs every three or four years, kokanee die — characteristic of Pacific salmon.

Fishing for these tasty gamesters is largely done by trolling at favorable depths. A worm-baited hook preceded by weighted gang spinners has proven most productive in kokanee waters. Since they run in schools, where one is taken more action in the same spot usually results but handle with care: they possess extremely soft mouths and must be boated with caution.

Though most familiar in western states today, kokanee experiments are taking place elsewhere. With persistence and good fortune, the folks at Mercury say, there is a possibility that these savory fish may become fairly common across the land.

Kokanee may never replace the canned variety, but they'll be a welcome addition to every fishing family.

clubs for the convention. All members are urged to attend.

Mr. Farrer, Plains High School speech teacher presented two scenes from a one-act play entitled "The Glass Menagerie" written by Tennessee Williams. Mr. Farrer gave an interesting background of the famous and popular playwright. After a scripture reading given by Mrs. P. W. St. Romain, refreshments of cake, coffee and tea were served by Mrs. Glen Cleveland.

Iota Pi Hosts Supper

The Annual Cornbread and Bean Supper was the order of the day at the February Iota Pi Social, with husbands as guests.

After the meal, which every one enjoyed to the "fullest" extent, we enjoyed an evening of Bingo, with white elephants as prizes. This was fine, however after working so hard to bingo some 3 or 4 never made it and then others of us who did ended up with our own white elephants. However after all was said and done one would have to say "mission accomplished" as we had a very enjoyable evening of relaxation and fellowship.

Our next Iota Pi meeting will be March 7 at 7:45 p. m. in the clubroom at the old courthouse.
