John Deere Day Set Here Friday

"John Deere Power Train '66 is right on schedule," reports Loyd Allsup. "Plans for our John Deere Day are now complete and we believe this will be the most exciting farm show we've ever held. You're invited to see for yourself, tomorrow night at 6:30 p. m., March 11th at the Plains High School Cafeteria."

"What's New in the Long Green Line for 1966" will be introduced in a full-color motion picture, dramatically showing new equipment on board a 48-car Power Train and at work in the field. New models of John Deere machinery include four tractor models, tillage equipment, planters, cultivators, forage tools, harvesting equipment, and many others.

Plains Farm Supply will also have an open house all afternoon, Friday, March 11th. Many of the latest models of John Deere tractors and equipment will be on display. Farmers can examine the machinery and arrange for a demonstration on their own farm. Visitors are also welcome to inspect the service department.

"I sincerely hope every farmer in the area will plan to attend and bring his wife and children," says Allsup. "Dinner and refreshments are free. You're all invited to come in and enjoy yourselves while you learn 'What's New in the Long Green Line from John Deere for 1966."

Legion Post Wins Honor

The American Legion Department of Texas has awarded the 1966 Honor Ribbon to Forest W. McCargo Post No. 585 in Plains for enrolling more than its 1965 membership by December 31st. The Plains Legion Post not only has made its quota, but it is the leading post in all of West Texas and at last report was leading the entire state in its race to join the Slaten Post in the Hall of Fame.

The local post now has 273 percent of its 1965 quota, and is keeping to its goal of reaching 300 percent of quota.

Quota for Plains is 15 members and the local post has turned into Department 41. 1966 cards. Commander Duke is still hopeful that the local American Legion will enroll 50 members in its ranks this year.

Commander Duke stated that with the increase in the Viet Nam War, that the Legion will be happy to offer service work to returning veterans. He urged all Vets to attend post meetings and to join the Legion. Commander Duke stated that the creed of the Legion is For God and Country, and that no loyal American could take exception to any program that the Legion offers. The Legion sponsors Boys State, Baseball, the Oratorical Contest for youngsters, and an adult program of Americanism, Child Welfare, and rehabilitation.

Brownfield Plant Now Completed

Goodpasture Grain & Milling Co., Inc., Brownfield, Texas, has completed its new plant for the production of furnace-grade superphosphoric acid. Grady Goodpasture, President, stated that the new plant was designed to produce acid containing 80 percent phosphorus pentoxide, equivalent to 110 percent phosphoric acid. The plant, primarily of stainless steel construction was built with technical assistance from the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The process used in the plant involves the burning of elemental phosphorus with air to produce phosphorus pentoxide (P<sub>2</sub>O<sub>5</sub>) and reacting it with water to form acid. The process was developed and patented by TVA for the production of superphosphoric acid—a more concentrated acid than is generally used. Demand for this acid, which has several advantages over the more dilute acid, is rapidly increasing.

A major product to be manufactured from the new plant's superphosphoric acid is 11-37-0 grade liquid fertilizer—a clear, nearly neutral solution. It can be used to produce mixed liquid fertilizers by cold blending or used in formulations with wet-processed phosphoric acid to produce sequestered (clear) liquid fertilizers.

"The plant is the only one of its exact construction in the world," said Goodpasture. "However, we can't emphasize enough the fine research work by TVA in demonstrating the successful operation of a stainless steel acid plant. TVA's work in the field of plant nutrient research has, in many ways, been the foundation upon which our agricultural prosperity has been built."

Norelle Sloan Heart Chairman

Mrs. Norelle Sloan, Box 992 Plains, Texas, has been named Memorial Gifts Chairman of the Plains Heart Association.

In accepting the Memorial Gifts Chairmanship, Mrs. Sloan said: "Many individuals and groups have found that gifts to the Heart Association provide a gratifying way to honor the memory of relatives and friends who have died of Heart Disease. These thoughtful tributes also give hope to the living because memorial gifts are used to support research education and community service aimed at reducing the toll of the cardiovascular diseases, the greatest cause of mortality in our communities and in the nation.

"When a Memorial Gift is received, the memorial chairman immediately sends an appropriate acknowledgment card to the bereaved family indicating the names of the donor or donors. The amount of the contribution is not included on the card to the family, but is shown on the receipt to the donor informing him that the family has been notified. Incidentally, all memorial gifts to the Heart Association are fully tax deductible!"

School Plans Program, Open House March 10th

Texas parents are answering the call of school bells this week, March 7-11, as the sixteenth annual observance of Texas Public School Week, proclaimed by Governor John Connally, turns the spotlight of public attention on education.

Open houses, school visitations, and special programs will draw parents back into the realm of classrooms and blackboards for a brief return to their school days.

The number of education minded Texas citizens who seize the chance for a first hand view of what and how today's youngsters are learning is expected to mushroom past two million this year.

Texas Classroom Teachers Association, a state-wide organization of 36,500 classroom teachers, points out that parents will find the 1966 schools a far cry from the ones they remember, however. Education is now a full-time business, and schools across the state reflect this with their well-lighted classrooms, modern laboratory equipment, and new teaching devices.

The biggest change of all, however, can be seen in today's professional teacher. When Texas parents were in school, teachers with degrees were in the minority, but 88,270 Texas teachers held at least a bachelor's degree by 1963. Only 1,821 lacked at least one degree.

By 1964, the number of degreed teachers had jumped to 92,527 with 30,892 of that number also holding one or more advanced degrees. Only 1,633 lacked a degree.

Parents will also notice changes in teaching methods, ranging from the I-T-A alphabet in reading to sets in the "new" mathematics to increased emphasis in almost all courses on developing reasoning and analytical powers.

Parents can use the following check-list, prepared by Texas Classroom Teachers

CAYCE'S CORNER

Word was received at press time that the new home of the local Headache will be ready soon. We will probably move into the new building this week-end, and are happy indeed over having our own building, thanks to the trust and generosity of our local banker. There was only one discouraging note and that only affected old Cayce. Everything in the new building should be ready reported the contractor, except one little item. That was the editor's corner in which he had expected to crawl into with a high degree of comfort. Ann and Jan didn't seem to mind a bit, since their part of the building will be completed. It seldom fails that a man who is picking up the check for the whole gang gets his glass of water last, if he gets it at all.

Last week when the wind was whistling Dixie at about 70 miles an hour, yours truly was delivering the papers about town. He was leaving Alma's when mother nature gave out with an extra puff of wind and the big glass door at Alma's slammed shut and broke into a million pieces. Cayce went on home and about that time the T. V. antenna pole did the Dipse-Doodle and ended up in a figure eight. Now I really don't know whether it is coincidence or just plain rotten luck, but just in case, I cast my vote to give the dusters back to the Indians. Of course, those red men in Oklahoma probably got enough of our topsoll to think that we had sent the whole country to them in one package. More than a few people probably thought that this would have been a worthwhile project last Thursday. It always grieves me to see the look on Murrell Thompson's face while a duster is roaring until the next rain comes. That can be a pretty long time in this country.

Even a bad haircut will cure itself in a few days.

Often when we talk about liberty we mean being free from doing the things we don't like so that we can be slaves to the things we want to do.

At the present rate, the taxpayer may be the first of our natural resources to be exhausted.

There are so many labor saving devices being sold these days that we have to work all our life to be able to own them.

Tax paying time really taxes the mind. We are almost afraid to mention it for fear some taxing agency will try to do just that.

Uncle Jay Bob says it is surely a good thing that the Chinese never piled up a big national debt like countries do today. If they had the ancestor worship idea would never have clicked at all.

We take off our hats to the Hemphill County Commissioners Court. These men made the unusual headlines in this modern day when upon discovering that they had more tax revenue than was needed to operate the county's business efficiently - it was then that they did the almost unheard of thing - Lowered Taxes.

It seemed to us as an onlooker that President Johnson bent over backwards, forwards, and in everyway went all out to make sure that he received the vote of organized labor. In looking at today's newspaper at least three large groups are right down his neck because he kept his neck tucked in on the 14-B repeal battle. It just goes to show that in politics one has to keep on doing things for everyone not only often but lately.

Sometimes we blame our children in this modern day for not being able to successfully deal with the rough spots along the road of life. It could be that too many times as parents we fail to let them feel for the bottom on their own.

Men depend on their strength for their charm. Women depend on their charm for their strength.

Lincoln himself argued that, with war convulsing the country, he was justified in taking drastic means to crush disloyalty on the home front.

But there were weighty points too on the other side of the argument. Not only was Milligan a civilian, but he had been arrested in Indiana - where, at the time, no hostilities were under way.

Most important, Indiana's civil courts were still open for business, ready, willing, and able to hear the charges against Milligan if given the chance.

On April 3, 1866, 18 months after Milligan's arrest, the United States Supreme Court set him free. Holding that the military trial was unlawful, the Court thereby marked out historic limits beyond which martial authority must not go.

Oddly enough, this decision condemning Lincoln's action was written by his own devoted friend, Justice David Davis. Lincoln by then was already dead. Yet it is easy to imagine that if still alive, with the awful pressures of war behind him, he might have applauded the judge's words.

"The Constitution is a law for rulers and people, equally in war and peace, and covers with the shield of its protection all classes of men, at all times, and under all circumstances."

A Northern editor had this comment: "Above the might of the sword, the majesty of the law is thus raised supreme." It is easy to imagine Lincoln himself saying amen.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

The Case Lincoln Lost

On a fateful autumn day in Indiana, in the fourth year of the Civil War, Union soldiers entered the home of Lambdin P. Milligan and placed him under arrest. The soldiers were acting on orders of President Abraham Lincoln, their commander in chief. Milligan, suspected of aiding the Confederates, was speedily found guilty by a military court and sentenced to be hung.

But nine days before he was to die, Milligan—invoking the ancient writ of habeas corpus—demanded his freedom. He claimed that, as a civilian, he could not lawfully be punished by a military court.

How far may military power reach in wartime? For a nation dedicated to individual liberty, the issue was a wrenching one.

Lincoln himself argued that, with war convulsing the country, he was justified in taking drastic means to crush disloyalty on the home front.

But there were weighty points too on the other side of the argument. Not only was Milligan a civilian, but he had been arrested in Indiana - where, at the time, no hostilities were under way.

Most important, Indiana's civil courts were still open for business, ready, willing, and able to hear the charges against Milligan if given the chance.

On April 3, 1866, 18 months after Milligan's arrest, the United States Supreme Court set him free. Holding that the military trial was unlawful, the Court thereby marked out historic limits beyond which martial authority must not go.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

A delightful whimsy at year's end was a meeting of maritime union chiefs to see what could be done to pep up water shipping under the U.S. flag.

This is somewhat akin to a crew member in the engine room of a ship who keeps opening the sea valves, all the while complaining of having to work under such wet conditions.

Suggested panaceas for this situation include bigger tax subsidies for American ship owners to enable them to overcome the pay differentials between American and foreign seamen, as well as laws prohibiting the transfer of U.S. ships to operations under Panamanian, some other flag.

This is no question but that the active American merchant marine, compared to the size of the United States, is quite a puny thing. But perhaps the best answers to what is wrong should be secured from the customers, the shippers.

Many years ago, in the day of sail, shippers of port and sherry wines liked to ship by water, as the rocking of the ship on a long voyage helped age the contents of the wine casks. However, today's shippers are not concerned about an ocean voyage improving

Thus, while these ideological disputes between various segments of the crew keep a ship from sailing, cargo is tied up in the hold. If the merchandise is being financed, often the only action for days on end is the steady mounting of interest charges while the dispute goes on interminably.

In the meantime, shippers wait for delivery of their goods to get their sight drafts honored so they can meet a payroll. The consignee is waiting for the goods so he can supply his customers before his competitor sells them.

This is the real problem of the American merchant marine. This is the reason why both shippers and consignees so often specify shipment on anything but an American ship. When people ship, they are buying a service. Until the unions recognize there is no substitute for dependable service, foreign ships will continue to substitute for American ships.

Editorial

School Trustee, County, and City elections are just around the corner, and the electorate will choose individuals to serve the public in positions of public trust on all of these levels as well as they do each election year.

We believe that these elections are important enough for us to take a stand in our community and exercise that true American heritage of going to the polls and voting for the candidate of our choice. Our nation is a free one, and millions of Americans have worn the uniform and fought under the great American Standard to preserve this freedom that we have taken almost for granted.

Do we really believe in freedom if we don't care enough about our country to even register to vote. Only a small showing will go to the polls to vote on election day. This shames us as a nation and puts us in a category of apathetic attitudes.

Let it not be said that we did not care! Let it not be said that we voted for an individual just because we like him. Let us vote out the deadheads and put qualifications ahead of personality. Let us return those public servants who have done us a good job, but retire those who have not contributed to giving us better government and better schools. Most of all, let us show our office holders that they work for the people, and that we care what they are doing. They will get the message if we turn out to vote in record numbers and vote strictly for ones merits and let those with the liabilities receive a resounding no at the polls. If we do not do this, then we do not deserve the right to remain a free nation. Daniel Webster said so long ago in truthful and purposeful means that "I give my hand and my heart to this vote. It should be different today?"

Beauticians Attend Show

Mr. Ken, internationally known hair stylist from New Orleans was special guest artist at the Southwest Beauty Show held in Amarillo March 6th at the Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Viva Hale, Peggy Welch, Linda Huddleston, and Jo Ann Barron all of Viva's Beauty Shop here in Plains attended the show. Of course Jesse Hale was along to make sure they got to the right place and home again.

They learned new techniques in permanent waving, hair cutting and styling. The new look is short, curly and soft looking and is achieved with a new type of teasing. All the models hair was bleached or colored by famous L'Oreal technicians from Ft. Worth as they explained what they were doing and what the results would be.

This group has attended the Southwest Beauty Show for the past three years, but this was the best yet. It is sponsored by the Southwest Beauty Supply Co. and L'Oreal of Paris.

An array of fabulous prizes were given ranging from a 1966 fully equipped Ford Mustang an RCA Color TV to Toasters, mixers, silverware, watches and many others.

Viva's name was drawn and she won a 15 piece set of Teflon cookware.

1. Are television, radio, educational films, and tape recordings being used in classroom instruction?

2. Does it seem that appropriate use is being made of maps, charts, models, tools, and other supplies needed for pupils to do effective work?

4. Are the laboratories in the schools modern and up to date, large enough to allow students to experiment safely?

6. Do elementary schools also have libraries and librarians?

7. Are teachers able to devote the major portion of their time to instruction, rather than to paper work, collections, and "police" duty?

8. Does every teacher in the system, including elementary teachers, have at least one period free for preparation, planning, and student conferences?

9. Does each teacher have a lunch period free from class responsibilities?

10. Does your school district offer in-service programs for teachers, or encourage their attendance at workshops designed to improve their teaching?

11. Are teachers in your system assigned to teach in the field for which they were prepared?

12. Do most classes have less than 23 pupils in them?

Norell Sloan is shown receiving an information kit for the Yoakum County Library from A. E. McGinty, Sec. of the Yoakum Soil and Water Conservation District.

Conservation cropping system, growing crops in a rotation that will maintain or increase the organic matter in the soil and use the entire profile of the soil is important. Continuous cotton leaves very little to return to the soil in the form of organic material. This causes poorer use of fertilizer and water by the plants and means the operator must use more and more fertilizer and more water to maintain the same level of production. Emmitt Campbell had some good examples of this the past year. He used $9 of fertilizer per acre and four waterings to produce 1 1/3 bales of cotton per acre while land where continuous cotton had been grown, took $20 per acre fertilizer and 7 waterings to produce the same 1 1/3 bales of cotton per acre. Conservation Does Pay.

New conservation plans are Edward G. Bagwell, J. C. Dearing, W. W. Prestidge and Bill Moore. The Polly Rushing and J. W. Moore contract is being prepared. This last week saw a lot of interest and work being done in soil and water conservation. There was three new Great Plains Contracts written and mailed to the area office for typing. They were J. M. Dearing, J. W. Moore, Polly Rushing and Bill Moore farms. Tommy Billings signed a contract on the W. W. Prestidge farm. New conservation plans were worked out on the following farms, Don Young, Jimmie Cox, and revision on J. D. Jones.

Underground pipe to reorganize their irrigation systems was installed on Walter Billings and W. R. Nelson.

The Board of Supervisors met on February 21st and approved conservation plans on E. P. Caudel, O. S. Hicks, Rufus L. Brain, Tom Barron Jr., Darrell Barron, R. G. Hartman and C. L. Anderson.

Work has started on several bermuda grass pastures to water and fertilize. Some who are starting are H. B. Price, J. D. Jones, C. O. Head, R. C. Trout and several others. Water and fertilizer will mean early grass and more grass. There has been enough good conservation done by local owners to prove beyond any doubt that early fertilizing and watering and grazing to an average of 5" to 6" is not only good for the grass but livestock does better.

Crop residue management our best soil and moisture conservation practice is gaining all the time. Take a drive around the District and see for yourself that conservation farmers are using the residue from grain sorghum and in some cases cotton burs along with supplemental tillage to do a good job of holding their soil and moisture. Some good examples are Martin Welch, W. F. Upton, Lee Roy McCravey, R. M. Jones, J. C. Chambliss, H. B. Price, W. L. Clannahan, and Charles and Bill Faust. It cost less to use residue than it does to destroy it. It cost less to use a chisel plow and leave the residue on the surface than it does to spread and break and it saves from 1 to 3 inches of moisture not to mention several dollars worth of organic matter, fertilizer and top soil. If you are in doubt ask your neighbor a District Supervisor or personal of S. C. S.
