A six day swimming course will start Monday at 9:00 a.m. at the swimming pool. These lessons will cost $10.00 for six two hour lessons. Anyone interested in the lessons should contact Billie Stewart at the pool this week. The instructors will be the two life guards and the pool manager. The swimming class will be divided into three groups with one group being for beginners. The course will run from Monday through Saturday.

School age children who are Yoakum County residents are not charged admission to swim in the pool.

The swimming pool officially opened last Sunday. Area residents are urged to use the local facilities and to enroll in the swimming classes which will be offered next week.

Cotton OK By 243-103

Yoakum County cotton farmers voted 243 to 103 in favor of transfers by sale or lease of upland cotton allotments out of the county, within the state, for the 1968 and 1969 crop years.

In prior sale and lease referendums Yoakum County cotton farmers have voted against the sale, lease and transfer of allotments to farms outside the county.

The vote in the referendum this year was 70.2 percent for and 29.8 against with the for vote being well over the two-thirds necessary for the referendum to carry. Last year the vote was 66 percent for and 34 percent against in the referendum on transfers across county lines.

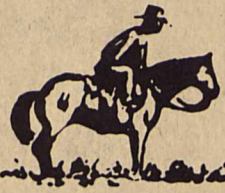

Little League action got underway Tuesday night as Commissioner Johnnie Fitzgerald officially threw out the first ball of the 1967 season. Fitzgerald was selected by Lion Boss Buster Graham because of the extensive amount of work which has been done to the ball park and the surrounding area.

In the first game of the twilight bill, the Indians came from behind and fought off a late Yankee rally to capture first place in the league race.

The Yankees were impressive even though they were defeated. Tony Chandler belted the first homerun of the season before team mate Joey Lowe got the second one. Even with these two bombs the defense was unable to hold and the Tribe held their defense together and mustered a strong offense to garner the win.

Sheriff Heath Offers Reward For Info on Local Vandals

Yoakum County Sheriff Olan Heath investigated a case of vandalism at the Pick and Pay Grocery Store in Plains Tuesday. Unknown vandals had hurled a rock through a window of the grocery store which is owned by Jerry Hale.

Sheriff Heath is offering a $50.00 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who hurled the rock through the business window. Sheriff Heath said that evidently the 'punks' who committed the act of vandalism threw the rock at the window while hot rodding by the business during late hours of darkness.

The sheriff also said that new legislation holds parents liable for acts of willful destruction committed by their children up to $5,000.00.

The chief law man of the county said he will exert every effort to apprehend violators concerning vandalism and said there is no meaning to these crimes. They gain nothing, the sheriff stated, since robbery was not a motive. Nothing was missing in the store.

Hale said Mrs. Ray Strickland called the matter to his attention early Tuesday morning. The sheriff was then called to the scene of the act of vandalism.

Sheriff Heath took the rock as evidence and is determining if finger prints were left on the rock which was used as the means of committing vandalism. The sheriff warned those who commit acts of vandalism that the matter is serious and will be dealt with accordingly.

County Judge Gene Bennett, who is the juvenile officer of Yoakum County, said that he will look sternly upon anybody charged with committing acts of vandalism who appears in his court.

Judge Bennett said anybody who commits vandalistic acts has no respect for the laws of society. The judge urged parents of the area to use a firmer hand in these matters.

Sen. Tower Urges Respect of Law

This past weekend we observed Armed Forces Day, and earlier this month we observed Law Day. Both of these observances are especially important to Americans this year—because both our Armed Forces and our Law enforcement officers face challenges of crisis proportions.

Crime has become an especially troubling problem all across the nation. Since 1960 crimes of all types have increased an amazing 46 percent the largest increase in any comparable period in our history. And, this jump has come at a time when our population increased only 8 percent. Crime now costs our nation $50 Billion each year and causes untold human suffering.

To meet this crisis the Congress has passed several bills to improve facilities and training available to our local law officers.

When I spoke at a Law Day luncheon in Fort Worth this month, I urged those present to recall the phrase used by President Theodore Roosevelt 'No man is above the law, and no man is below it.'

I hope our nation can face up to this crime problem and can rededicate itself to fulfilling the ideal of justice and equality before the law—with all citizens enjoying full exercise of both rights and responsibilities.

I hope our nation can reaffirm our belief in each citizen's individuality and our respect for each citizen's integrity. But, we can do that only if we do believe that no man is above the law and no man is below it. And, we will not ameliorate our crime problem by simple assertions and comments, we must actively live with respect for the law.

In the wake of the crime crisis we must constantly remember to support fully the dedicated law enforcement officers whom we charge with enforcing the laws all of us have a part in establishing.

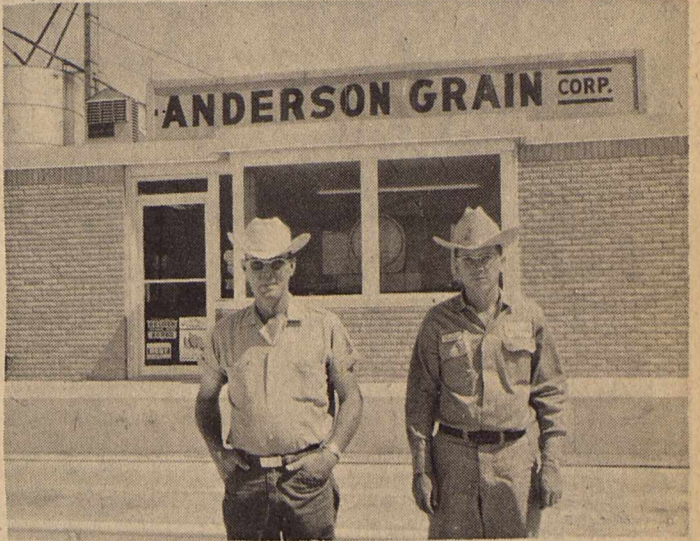

Law Day is a time to think about our problems. Today is the day to do something about them.

It is significant that Armed Forces Day also occurs this month. In fact, it is being celebrated at many military bases this very weekend.

Armed Forces Day serves to remind us that what our fighting men seek all over the world is maintenance of the same sort of stability, order, justice and peace that we seek

Grain Firm Changes Name

Jack Hamilton, spokesman for Guetersloh-Anderson Grain in Levelland, announced that a division of interest of Guetersloh - Anderson Grain operations was effective last Saturday. The Plains elevator will be known as Anderson Grain Company along with the operation at Wellman and the feeding lot and elevator at Portales, New Mexico. The Bledsoe, Levelland and Smier operation will operate under the Gueterslohs.

The company spokesman said that no changes in local management in Plains are expected.

Wayne Badgett is the Plains manager and Herbie Pickett is the Assistant Manager. Anderson Grain Company of Plains is one of the largest businesses in the Plains area.

Besides being a grain elevator the local business sells fertilizer and seed to many farmers in the area.

Both Badgett and Pickett announced that local service will continue under the present policy. Both men extended their appreciation to farmers in the area for their patronage and confidence that has been placed in the local staff of the grain company.

F.F.A. Group Off to Lake

Members of the Plains Chapter of the Future Farmers of America left Monday morning for a week of fishing and camping out at Brownwood Lake. Twenty-five boys and seven men helping to sponsor the trip left. Amos Smith, manager of the Tokio Co-op Gin announced that the gin was indeed happy to help sponsor the trip again this year. The Yoakum County Co-op Gin also helps sponsor the annual fishing trip for the F. F. A. boys.

The boys packed their gear into a large truck and departed for the lake at about 9:30 Monday morning. Bo Stephens, vocational agriculture teacher accompanied the boys with the men from the gin.

Smith said the trip affords the boys an opportunity to relax and enjoy themselves, and that the gin has received many favorable comments from parents of the boys who go on the annual fishing trip.

Smith says this also helps build an interest in our F.F.A. Program at our school, and that anyway our school programs can be helped through summer work with the boys, that the men of the community have always given unselfishly of their time.

The group will return to Plains in a week and have almost guaranteed that an abundance of fish will have been caught.

Mac Says New Low, No Rain

Mac McConnell, the official weather man for Plains reported to the editor of The Record that freezing temperatures were recorded in Plains last Saturday.

The Government weather man said the temperature dropped to a brisk 27 degrees which set an all time low for the middle of May for the Plains area.

Lubbock weather men had recorded a 29 for Saturday night in Lubbock and announced that 29 was a record for that area.

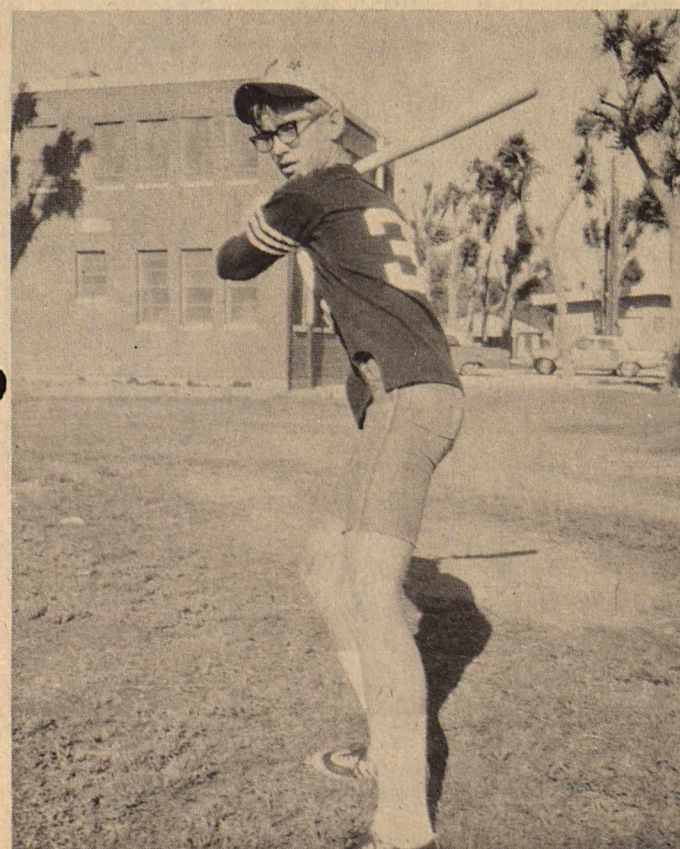

McConnell also said the .89 of an inch of rain which has fallen in the county during the past eight months also set a record low for moisture.

It has been reported that crops and pasture lands have suffered severely from the freezes and the drought which has hovered over the South Plains area this year.

The weather man also said that during February and March that records were set for warm temperature, but that the trend changed when the mercury dropped during April and May.

Meanwhile the count down for rain is in its critical stage with only about 14 days left for cotton and less than 30 days remaining for grain

Arkansas Travelors Get Hair Clipped

Three Arkansas travelers will not soon forget a little West Texas Village called Plains, or a deputy sheriff by the name of Bill Jones. Nor will the village of Plains stop talking about what happened to the three young men during their brief but eventful stay in Plains last Saturday.

Deputy Jones saw the three travelers about six miles west of town. He picked them up for suspicion and arrested them. The three suspects were William Long, 17; Kenneth Long, 21; and Herbert Freeman, of Mount Pine, Arkansas.

The three suspects were mugged and fingerprinted and given a choice to make. . . Either get a hair cut or go to jail. One was reported to have hair as long as a woman and the other two were said to have hair almost as long. The decision was made, and the three young men were escorted to Barber Randall for a spring sheering. The clippers buzzed and the hair flew, and the three Arkansas visitors once more took on the appearance of humans.

After the clippers ceased their cutting, the trio was taken to the county line and told to move on to other pastures. It was not known at press time if the trio paid for their new haircuts, but one thing was apparent, they looked ten fold better after the war of the clippers, and the floor of the barber shop was covered with a good portion of human hair.

Now if friend Bill Jones is this successful when it comes to getting the hep crowd to crop their hair, then we should notify Governor Reagan immediately and see if there is an opening at Berkeley for an enforcer of the law.

Congratulations Bill, it was indeed a job well done.

Mrs. Tippett gives book review.

Tsa Mo Ga Hears Book Review

Nineteen members of the Tsa Mo Ga Study Club met for the last program this spring at the clubhouse May 22, 1967.

This was the Texas Heritage program and roll call was answered by "Why I love Texas."

Mrs. J. W. Moore was program director and presented Mrs. J. M. Tippett, who gave a very interesting review of "Grass Roots Diplomat" by Marquerite Potter.

Dr. Potter is a professor of Modern European History at Texas Christian University, Ft. Worth, and is a sister to our club member Mrs. Tippett.

Grass Roots Diplomat is a true story about a man who is for the Americas and has spent much of his life in the pursuit of that intangible quality that promotes friendship among the people of Texas and old Mexico.

The man is Neville G. Penrose and the institution is the Good Neighbor Commission of Texas.

It is impossible to tell about one without the other, for two 'countries' and his two 'people.' It was this need for better relations between Texas and Mexico that led to the creation of the Good Neighbor Commission.

The LULACS, short for League of United Latin American Citizens is another phase of the Good Neighbor policy on which Mr. Penrose has spent much time and effort. Basically it is dedicated to improving the lot of Latin American residents of the United States, and one of its main purposes is to overcome the language barrier before children enroll in school.

The second organization with which Chairman Penrose and the commission worked fruitfully was the Pan American Student Forum. It was designed to interest high school and college students in a drive to establish better relations with Latin American who live within or beyond our borders.

The Forum has been an important factor in developing a reservoir of Spanish speaking young people for possible foreign service in government and business. Today over one hundred high schools in Texas sponsor a Pan American Student Forum Chapter. Each having from twenty to more than three hundred members. In 1960 the Forum was duplicated in Mexico and leaders there are looking forward to the day when they can report active chapters in all high schools along the Texas-Mexican border.

Tributes paid Mr. Penrose have been many. They have crossed his desk bearing postmarks of nations around the world. The come from struggling young students, and from teachers who have benefited from his generosity, and from technicians who have profited from the schooling he made possible.

Of him it may be said as it was of Sir Christopher Wren, the English Architect of St. Pauls, when he was laid to rest in the cathedral which he had built: 'If you would Melons Are Real Good!

By Sudie Thompson
Home Demonstration Agent

You'll be smiles ahead if you take advantage of all the juicy goodness found in melons and cantaloups. An ice-cold melon is just the thing to bring out the smiles on a hot summer day. Some 92 percent water, pleasantly sweet, with just enough 'meat' to bite into, watermelons quench thirst, and provide an atmosphere of gaiety and informality to any occasion.

The watermelon first called Africa its home, many many centuries ago. Even then it served many purposes: a source of water, a staple food and even food for animals. Today, the uses have increased. We can use all parts of the melon. The seeds, for example, can be roasted, salted, and eaten like nuts. The rind is pickled into a crispy, delectable creation to highlight salad and relish offerings.

But, whatever the occasion even if it's a formal dinner—there's a place for ice-cold melons. And, here, too, serving is easy. For a special party dessert, an appetizer or a dressy salad, try this heart-winning idea: Chill melon thoroughly. Then, just before serving time, cut into 1 inch crosswise slices and press out fancy designs with cookie cutters. Hearts are especially attractive. Remove the seeds carefully.

When serving melons and cantaloups as an appetizer, simply insert wooden picks and arrange attractively on a serving tray. For dessert, combine with other fresh seasonal fruits and serve in a compote with a topping of sour cream. As a salad, melon designs are radiant atop cottage cheese, pineapple rings, or simply in a bed of salad green.

Now the question is to pick a ripe melon. Despite anything you may have heard or seen, 'thumping' a watermelon is generally not too helpful. USDA watermelon experts say thumping can be an extremely misleading way to judge ripeness.

The program was concluded with a scripture reading by Mrs. E. W. Craig.

Hostesses for the social hour were Mrs. Jack Hayes and Mrs. Carl Stroup.

When buying a whole watermelon, the surest way to determine its ripeness is the traditional method of cutting a 'plug' out so you can see the flesh and test the taste. However, your neighborhood produce market manager may frown on this 'taste and see' test.

But, there are some outside indications of the ripeness within. Ripe melons, for instance, have a symmetrical shape and a velvety bloom, with a dull rather than shiny surface. Also, the underside of a ripe watermelon is apt to be turning from white or pale green to a light-yellowish color.

There are four ways to pick out a good cantaloup. First, look for a smooth shallow stem scar, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Second, check the netting or veining. It should be thick, coarse, high-rigged, and stand out in bold relief on the surface. Third, check the 'ground' color between the netting. As the melon ripens, the color will change from green to a yellowish-buff, yellow-gray, pale yellow. Fourth, check firmness, gently, with both hands. The melon, especially the blossom end, should yield a little. It is best to select melons ripe enough to be eaten, rather than trying to let them ripen at home.

By Ferne Lowrey

The Turner Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. John Dale Curtis.

Mrs. Curtis, president, presided at the business meeting. The program on Snake Bite was given by Mrs. Carl Lowrey. Poisonous snakes found in Texas which are considered dangerous to humans include species from two families. They are the Crotalidae (pit vipers) and the Elapida (cobra life).

Rattlesnakes, copperheads, and the water moccasin are included in the pit vipers. Coral snakes are the Texas representatives of the cobra like snake family.

If you are bitten by a snake you can tell by the teeth marks if it is poisonous. The poisonous snake leaves one row of teeth marks with two fang marks. None poisonous snake bites leave two rows of teeth marks.

Keep the victim laying down and as quiet as possible. There are three emergency treatments for snake bites. 1. Snake bite kit with a cord to make a tourniquet with a sharp cutting instrument and a suction device to use. This method can be dangerous as you may cut too deep and sometimes cause more trouble. 2. There is antivenium serum for snake bite. This serum is dated and is supposed to be good for five years. This can be carried in your pickup. A test should first be made to see if the victim is allergic to the serum. This serum is for the pit viper bite. 3. The bite should be emmersed in ice water. Put a tourniquet several inches above the bite. It should be extremely tight and released about five minutes after it has been in the ice water of 50-50 ice and water. It is most important to get to the doctor as soon as possible.

Nonpoisonous snake bites should be washed good with soap and water.

Mrs. L. Smith and Mrs. Curtis lead the group in two games they learned at the recreation workshop.

The Stanford Valley Home Demonstration Club met recently in the club room with 6 members, 3 visitors and the agent present. Mrs. Sidney Murphey was the hostess for the meeting. Mrs. Cecil Williams was the guest speaker for the meeting. She presented a program on 'Snake Bites, and What to do.'

Mrs. Williams reported that we no longer use the cutting and sucking the blood from the snake bit. Most of the bites are on the hands and feet. The tourniquet should be extremely tight and released about every five minutes until the extremity can be immersed in a 50-50 mixture of ice and water. Don't use salt. Place a ligature several inches proximal to the site of the bite if possible.

Immerse the part bitten well above the bite site, for example to the knee in case of a bite on the foot, and to the elbow in a bite on the hand. There is pain due to the cold for about five minutes, after that there is no pain from the bite or the cold.

The ligature must be removed within three to five minutes after the immersion in the ice water. After three or four hours of this therapy it is then possible to pack the extremity with ice bags. (Plastic bags of crushed ice) For the next 24 to 36 hours. It is most important to see a doctor and get antivenium.

mess halls. To a man, they have told me of their dedication to freedom and liberty. To a man, they have described to me their extra efforts in working with the people of Vietnam to help in the building of a free nation.

These American men of the Armed Forces have the most to lose as they lay their lives on the line. They are not burning any American flags. They are not calling for America to retreat from its responsibilities. They are not interested in selfish personal goals.

Rather, they are willing to fight to preserve a nation in which their fellow citizens can continue to protest and dissent. They are fighting to uphold the very Constitutional principles which make diversity and democracy the American way of life. They are fighting to keep the boundaries of communist tyranny as far as possible from their homeland. They are fighting so that other, smaller nations may enjoy a world climate permitting self-determination to those who aspire to it.

We here at home have a task, too. It is up to us to proclaim our willingness to live for America with just as much courage as our servicemen risk death for America.

This Armed Forces Day, I hope as many Texans as possible took the opportunity to visit one of the many military posts in our state. I hope Texans will open their homes to our servicemen. I hope Texans will tell those men that we are firmly behind them; that we will see to it they have every sort of moral and material support.

When you look for the most room and the smoothest ride and the best value, you'll end up with a Chevrolet wagon everytime.

Chevrolet Impala, roomiest in its class. While extra roominess is perhaps the best reason for buying a Chevrolet wagon, consider, also, these bonuses: Body by Fisher, Chevrolet dependability, flush-and-dry rocker panels and Magic-Mirror finish. Chevelle Malibu, smoother, quieter ride. A Malibu not only gives you a Full Coil suspension ride, but the body mountings are double-cushioned. And Chevelle carries plenty. It opens wide, 54.6 inches, to be exact, 28.5 inches high. Flip the second seat down and you've got 86 cubic feet of cargo space for all your gear. Chevelle was built to take a lot. Chevy II Nova, best equipped for the money. All-vinyl upholstery is standard. Flush-and-dry rocker panels that clean themselves are standard. Separate panels beneath each fender to inhibit rust are standard.

Mono-Plate rear suspension to smooth the ride is standard. Price? Below standard.

"ALL I KNOW IS WHAT I READ IN THE PAPERS"

America's best-loved humorist also was one of the best-informed persons in his time. Nothing, it seemed, escaped his notice. His comments on the passing scene were applauded and repeated by millions the world over. "All I know is what I read in the papers" became his trade-mark. Will Rogers recognized that newspapers, more than any other media, are the common source of information of all the people. The simple fact that everyone knew immediately what he was talking about provided an important basis for his fabulous popularity.

That same simple fact is just as true today as ever. If your advertising message is for all the people... put it in YOUR HOMETOWN NEWSPAPER!

By George
JESSE T. GEORGE

Representative Jesse T. George, Brownfield, Levelland area, today pointed out that S.B. 465, the milk price fixing bill, would cost the housewives of Texas untold thousands of dollars in higher prices for milk, ice cream, and other dairy products and that it would also add tremendous additional cost to the school districts, counties and other public institutions who could no longer purchase milk on competitive bids.

Rep. George called attention to a statement made by the Atlantic Board of Education in Atlanta, Georgia, where a similar milk price-fixing bill was being contested in court, in which the Atlantic School Board stated that if they were denied the right to buy milk 'in an open and competitive market', the board would pay more than $400,000 this year and about $525,000 next year as additional cost for milk supplies for the school system. Rep. George emphasized that the price of milk was only 99¢ per gallon in the competitive market in Atlantic as reported by the Atlanta Journal in its issue of May 5, 1967, but under the milk price-fixing order the price would have been automatically increased to $1.11 per gallon plus 25¢ for glass containers.
