CAYCE'S CORNER

Not many flags flew in Plains on Memorial Day, but we believe those who flew Old Glory should be mentioned in Cayce's Corner this week.

These include: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Strickland, Cowboy Grill; Woody Wilmet, Woody's Hardware and Oil; Frank Whitlock, White Auto; Mrs. S. Streetman, Streetman's Department Store; Bill Loyd, Plains State Bank; Ford Hawkins, Hawkins Food Market; Dick McGinty, Yoakum County Farm Bureau, the employees and officials of the Yoakum County Courthouse; and Ann Cayce at The Plains Record.

We also commend Commander Wilson Duke, of the American Legion for flying the Flag of Our Country at the cemetery on Memorial Day. I for one was proud to see the flag fly in different parts of our little city on Memorial Day.

Some will no doubt say that I am a flag waver. It is true, and I am not ashamed of it either.

Perhaps if we had more flag wavers and less flag burners things would seem a little better. I am proud that I wore a uniform under that flag, and I will wave the colors at every opportunity the rest of my life. To me the flag means a glorious Union which the world has never seen an equal, and if anybody tells me it is out of style to feel such emotions when looking upon our National Standard then a little red will fade from that flag with the blue and the white. For those who don't know, the red stands for bloodshed, the blue for valor, and the white for purity. To me these are noble things which I am proud to know and to feel emotion about. If you don't then you have missed

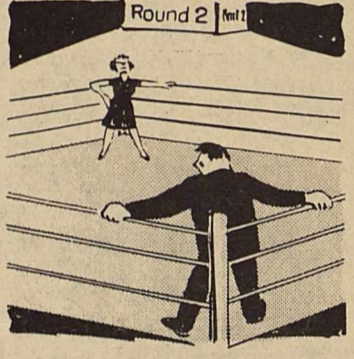

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Second Look at Alimony

Divorce ends the marriage. But divorce may not end the fighting, particularly over alimony. All too often the parties return to the courtroom for a second round, as one or the other seeks to change the amount of the alimony payments.

What rules apply? To start with, a court will not reopen the question at all unless there is something really new in the situation. Suppose a divorce comes in and says: "I'm just satisfied with the alimony I'm getting. It was set too low at the original hearing."

That alone is not enough grounds for a change. All the arguments of both husband and wife should have been set forth fully at the time of the divorce, when the amount of alimony was first established. The court's time should not be wasted in ploughing the same ground over and over again.

Nor is the court likely to amend the alimony award simply because of minor financial difficulties—caused, for instance, by a brief layoff from work or moderate losses in the stock market. Such fluctuations in a person's fiscal health are so common that they were presumably allowed for in the original decree.

Still, there are some circumstances important enough to justify a modification of alimony. The law recognizes that conditions can change in significant and unforeseen ways after the divorce. Thus:

In one case, the ex-husband suffered a disabling heart attack. In another case, the ex-wife inherited a large sum of money from a relative. Both of these events were held to be a sufficient change of conditions to call for a lowering of alimony payments.

something that is truly worthwhile.

To the many who have paid the supreme sacrifice these flags were flown in your memory and to those who serve in Vietnam we pray may the Good Lord Bless and Keep You, and may your days be few until you are at home again.

To our president we pray that he will be given the wisdom and the means to find a way to end the war in Vietnam. He carries the heaviest burden of all on his shoulders.

Fraud, too, may provide a reason for alimony revision. For example, a husband may have fraudulently concealed his assets at the time of the divorce, thus tricking the court into setting alimony too low.

Should a man's alimony burden be lightened because he has remarried? That many carry some weight with the court, at least if

Coffee Cake Has Oriental Charm

Next time the garden club meets at your house work with the program chairman to set the theme for the day. When the program features Oriental gardens or Japanese flower arranging, serve this delicious Mandarin Coffee Cake.

You'll be delighted with the ease of preparation provided by a package of easy coffee cake mix. Mix the few ingredients right in the mixing bag that comes in the package, adding colorful mandarin orange segments. Reserve a few orange segments to garnish the top of the coffee cake. Tea, hot or iced as the day demands, is the perfect accompaniment for this flavorful, light coffee cake.

MANDARIN COFFEE CAKE

Makes 8 servings

One 11-oz. can mandarin orange segments
One 10½-oz. pkg. easy coffee cake mix
1 egg

Heat oven to moderate (375° F.). Drain oranges, reserving juice. Add enough milk to juice to make ¼ cup liquid. Put egg, the ½ cup liquid and ¼ cup of the mandarin orange segments into large bag of mix. Squeeze upper part of bag to force air out. Close top of bag by holding tightly between thumb and index finger. With bag resting on table, mix by working bag vigorously with fingers. Mix about 40 seconds or until egg is completely blended.

Squeeze bag to empty batter into special aluminum foil pan contained in package. (Do not grease pan.) Sprinkle topping contained in smaller bag evenly over batter. Bake in preheated oven (375° F.) about 20 minutes. Decorate top with remaining orange segments. Continue baking about 5 additional minutes. Open corner folds of pan for easy cutting and serving. Serve warm.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Harry Cayce
Publisher
The Plains Record
Plains, Texas

Dear Mr. Cayce:
Mr. Murrell Thompson sent me a copy of the Third Annual Soil and Water Conservation Edition of The Plains Record which contains a volume of useful information. I am impressed by the large number of people who participated in the preparation of the material for the special edition.

The people of the community of Plains and the Yoakum Soil and Water Conservation District are to be commended for their interest in soil, water and plant conservation. This is also evident when driving through the district, by the presence of crop residue that is controlling wind erosion on the sandy soils during this time of dry weather.

You did a service to the soil and water conservation district, the Soil Conservation Service and to the people through the publication of the edition containing useful information.

Very truly yours,

We have also noticed that the pictures you use in your editions are unusually good. The picture of the old tractor and the sand on this year's edition is a classic.

We appreciate the fine support you are giving to the conservation movement. Please convey our regards to your staff.

Plains Grad Gets B.S.

Mrs. Marilyn McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, received a B.S. degree from McMurry College in Abilene at the spring commencement held on May 22.

Mrs. McCormick, a 1963 graduate of Plains High School was editor of the Totem yearbook for two years, and was member of SEA. She is majoring in business education. McMurry College held its 44th commencement exercises on Monday, May 22, 1967 for 142 graduating seniors. Commencement speaker was Dr. Willis M. Tate, president of Southern Methodist University.

Two honorary Doctor of Divinity degrees were presented to two Methodist ministers at the service. The Rev. S. Duane Bruce superintendent of the Childress District of the Methodist Church, received one, and the other going to the Reverend Ray B. McGrew of El Paso.

Baccalaureate services were held at First Methodist Church in Abilene on Sunday, May 21, 1967. The sermon was titled 'So You Want To Be Great', and was given by the Reverend Mr. Selwyn Duane Bruce.

Cotton Club to have Speaker

Mrs. Carl Lowrey has been named president of the Yoakum County Cotton Club which was organized recently for the purpose of helping our economy through the use of cotton on the South Plains.

Mrs. Lowrey, who is Tokio correspondent for the Plains Record, and also County Democratic Chairwoman, announced that a meeting is scheduled in the school cafeteria in Plains on June 9, at 8:00 p.m. J. P. 'Pete' Brown, field representative of the National Cotton Council of America will present the program. Brown is from Lubbock.

The Cotton Club president issued a cordial invitation to all people in the area to attend the public meeting. She stated that cotton in one way or the other is a major factor in our lives. Mrs. Lowrey said we should be concerned with cotton on the Plains because a major part of our economy is based on King Cotton.

CASEY AT THE BAT

IT LOOKED extremely rocky for the Mudville nine that day; The score stood two to four, with but an inning left to play. So, when Cooney died at second, and Burrows did the same, A pallor wreathed the features of the patrons of the game.

A straggling few got up to go, leaving there the rest, With that hope which springs eternal within the human breast. For they thought: "If only Casey could get a whack at that," They'd put even money now, with Casey at the bat.

But Flynn preceded Casey, and likewise so did Blake, And the former was a pudd'n, and the latter was a fake. So on that stricken multitude a deathlike silence sat; For there seemed but little chance of Casey's getting to the bat.

But Flynn let drive a "single," to the wonderment of all. And the much-despised Blakey "tore the cover off the ball." And when the dust had lifted, and they saw what had occurred, There was Blakey safe at second, and Flynn a-huggin' third.

Then from the gladdened multitude went up a joyous yell— It rumbled in the mountaintops, it rattled in the dell; It struck upon the hillside and rebounded on the flat; For Casey, mighty Casey, was advancing to the bat.

There was ease in Casey's manner as he stepped into his place, There was pride in Casey's bearing and a smile on Casey's face; And when responding to the cheers he lightly doffed his hat, No stranger in the crowd could doubt 'twas Casey at the bat.

Ten thousand eyes were on him as he rubbed his hands with dirt, Five thousand tongues applauded when he wiped them on his shirt; Then when the writhing pitcher ground the ball into his hip, Defiance glanced in Casey's eye, a sneer curled Casey's lip.

And now the leather-covered sphere came hurtling through the air, And Casey stood a-watching it in haughty grandeur there. Close by the sturdy batsman the ball unheeded sped; "That ain't my style," said Casey. "Strike one," the umpire said.

From the benches, black with people, there went up a muffled roar, Like the beating of the storm waves on the stern and distant shore. "Kill him! kill the umpire!" shouted someone on the stand; And it's likely they'd have killed him had not Casey raised his hand.

With a smile of Christian charity great Casey's visage shone; He stilled the rising tumult, he made the game go on; He signaled to the pitcher, and once more the spheroid flew; But Casey still ignored it, and the umpire said, "Strike two."

"Fraud!" cried the maddened thousands, and the echo answered "Fraud!" But one scornful look from Casey and the audience was awed; They saw his face grow stern and cold, they saw his muscles strain, And they knew that Casey wouldn't let the ball go by again.

The sneer is gone from Casey's lips, his teeth are clenched in hate, He pounds with cruel vengeance his bat upon the plate; And now the pitcher holds the ball, and now he lets it go, And now the air is shattered by the force of Casey's blow.

Oh, somewhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright, The band is playing somewhere, and somewhere hearts are light; And somewhere men are laughing, and somewhere children shout, But there is no joy in Mudville: Mighty Casey has struck out.

Security 'A Thumb & Blanket'

By Sadie M. Thompson
Home Demonstration Agent

Security is 'a thumb and a blanket?' Maybe, if you're a Charles Schultz character. If you're searching for security in today's world, however, it's a much more complicated matter says Leota C. Lane, Extension family life specialist with Texas A & M University.

There are many kinds of security relating to an individual's well-being. Thomas C. Desmond has defined 'Security in Aging' for people of all ages. He says, 'All of us have an individual responsibility to employ and develop our own resources for as long as we can. Happiness is usually achieved by effort, integrity, and understanding. Five kinds of security—the kind that government cannot legislate—help to promote true happiness.

'Spiritual security'—the development of a faith of some kind that gives us courage and serenity to face the unknown.

'Social security'—not what is commonly understood by that term, but the security that stems from service to others, from knowing we are wanted and needed by friends, family, and community, and from making a success of interpersonal relationships.

'Intellectual Security'—is a peacefulness that comes to those who understand their role in their changing stages of life, and who draw upon the needed strength of mature minds for inner resources.

'Economic security'—the assurance that one will not be without food, shelter, or clothing, or be forced to so drastic a readjustment that later life will be intolerable.

'Auto-security'—this is the assurance and support one builds from being active and creative, retaining a zestful outlook on life. It is the security one builds for oneself through work, through constructive use of leisure, through flexibility in attitudes, and through knowing that one is a 'doer,' not a 'drone.'

So, we might say this formula—'Your heredity plus the food you eat plus your motivation plus your physical activity plus divine guidance equals you' is a good equation to follow for effective living.

Don't wait until retirement to join a club, develop a hobby, or participate in civic affairs. Plan for exercises—whether it is a vigorous active sport, relaxing as gardening, or as unorganized as an evening's walk. The important thing is regularity of exercise. Better muscle tone, improved circulation, and respiration, good digestion, and relief from physical and mental tension will be rewards for regular exercise.

As your body ages, it needs fewer calories (Less quantities of food, too) than when you were younger. Nutritional needs remain about the same. Think about food in relation to your own bodily needs—a balanced diet.

Adequate rest benefits adults as much as young children, so don't cheat the sandman—check up on your health. Many times preventive or control measures can be taken if symptoms of a disease are detected at an early stage.

Omar H. Hyman Wounded in Action

Reliable sources reported at press time that Omar H. Hyman, a 1963 graduate of Plains High School, and a member of the Green Beret in the U. S. Army in Vietnam, had been wounded in action.

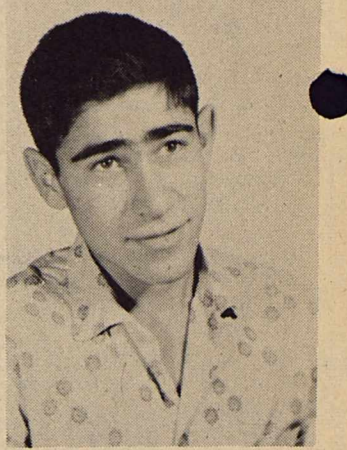

Hyman was reported to have been critically wounded in the Viet Nam Theatre of action while serving his country.

Mr. G. D. Kennedy, superintendent of schools, reported that Omar was a fine student and the best drummer that the Plains High School Band has ever had. When learning of the news from the editor of the paper, Mr. Kennedy said that he regrets the news deeply, and that Omar was one of his favorite pupils.

Hyman was a football and basketball letterman at Plains High School and his parents owned and operated a variety store in Plains.

The young soldier attended West Texas State and San Angelo State College before entering the service of his country. More details will appear in the Record in next week's edition concerning Hyman.
