MARY ELIZABETH BEEN WINS NATIONAL HOMEMAKER HONOR

DICK FOSTER Makes Formal Statement

To The People Of Carbon And Surrounding Area

This is just a short letter to the people that may not know me very well.

I am forty years old and have spent my entire life in this area with the exception of two years that I spent in the Army during World War II. Eighteen months of that time was spent on foreign soil. I received my schooling in the Gorman school. I also had 4 years of G. I. school after returning home from the service. And as people know that have children, I have supported our school and years at every opportunity. I have enjoyed helping and taking part any way that I could in all school activities such as football, basketball and band. I own one hundred and sixty acres of land in the Carbon School District from which my taxes help support your school.

I have a wife, Velda, and three children; one daughter, Mrs. Don Underwood of Eastland; two sons, Mike, who is fourteen years old and a freshman in Gorman High School, and Brent, who is four.

I am a member of the Church of Christ which I attend regularly and try daily to live a christian life.

I have been working for the county for nine years, and feel that I am qualified for this job as I know where your roads are and what they need. The main thing I realize is that I will be working for each and everyone of you since you are the ones that pay the taxes that enable this job to be carried on.

Mary Elizabeth Been is the winner in Carbon High School in the 1962 Bety Crocker search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow. She achieved the highest score in the examination on homemaking knowledge and attitudes taken by senior girls Dec. 5. She becomes eligible now along with winners in other state high schools, for the title of State Homemaker of Tomorrow.

The girl named State Homemaker of Tomorrow is provided a $1,500 scholarship by General Mills, sponsor of the program. The state runner-up will receive a $500 scholarship.

In addition, the State Homemaker of Tomorrow and her school advisor will join with other state winners in an expense-paid educational tour of New York City, Washington, D. C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. At the latter, the 1962 All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be named.

The national winner will have her scholarship raised to $5,000 with second, third and fourth place winners being granted scholarships of $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 respectively.

And if you people elect me your commissioner, I will do my very best to make you the best commissioner that I possibly can. If there is any way that I can help you, I will be glad to do so at any time.

When the County Court meets, I will be there in behalf of you people to uphold the rights of this precinct, such as our part of the Farm-to Market road money, and other things that we are entitled to.

If elected your commissioner, I will do my very best to keep the roads worked at all times. If you consider me a qualified man for this job, I will appreciate your vote of May 5.

I have nothing to say about my opponents except that they are all good men. Your vote will be to decide which man is the best qualified for the job. I can assure you, your choice will be mine.

Dick Foster

'Hunger Insurance' Is Now Stock-piled

Hurricane Carla, with thousands of Texans left homeless and hungry, was one of the big news events of 1961.

It's history, now. But lessons learned in accommodating evacuees from the ravishing wind can well prove invaluable in future catastrophes.

Eastland countians contributed generously to the victims.

Take the matter of food. Our nation's agricultural abundance is no longer "surplus" when it becomes part of disaster feeding operations, points out the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Efforts of local, county, state and federal individuals and organizations, all working together, helped to minimize personal hardships.

The funneling of more than 1.6 million pounds of food donated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to state and local welfare agencies for use in feeding Carla victims is a case in point. In a way, it was a routine job for USDA's Food Distribution Division. This agency of the Agricultural Marketing Service handles food all year long for the Direct Distribution and National School Lunch programs.

Yet, a lot of machinery has to swing into action, quickly, to provide vide food for storm victims. Even before the vicious coquette called Carla swished her skirts through Gulf Coast areas, in September, the federal-state food distribution setup was ready.

Under the two USDA programs, foods are enroute to all parts of the nation, continuously, so there's always an abundance in or near any spot that might need emergency feeding. In the case of Carla, much was in warehouses at Houston, Beaumont and Corpus Christi. The 3,000 Texas schools participating in the National School Lunch Program also had good supplies.

All of this food was made available, as soon as needed, to local officials, Red Cross, Salvation Army and other disaster agencies. County authorities could get USDA foods for hurricane victims merely by applying to the Texas Department of Public Welfare. As in normal operations, USDA makes food available, but it is up to the local workers to put it to use.

No one hopes a similar disaster will recur—but it could. And if it does, our nation's food distribution system, combined with the great abundance of farm products, will be ready to provide "emergency hunger insurance," again.
