SIGNS AT WAYLAND----Ron Hillis, Seminole, is congratulated by tennis coach, Dalton Wood, after signing to play tennis at Wayland Baptist College where he will be a freshman student this fall. Hillis, a 1971 graduate of Plains High School, recently moved with his family to Seminole. At Plains he won district 5-A singles Championship in his freshman, sophomore and senior years, and this past year he also won the regional singles championship, advancing to the state tournament in Austin, where he came in third.

Swine Producers See Encouraging Future

By Leo L. White, County Agricultural Agent

Hog producers are starting to breathe easier now that prices are recovering from one of the sharpest drops on record.

Between February and December 1970 market hog prices at seven major markets plummeted from $28.25 to $16.65. Prices continued to stay low until June when they reached $19.00 per 100 pounds.

Ups and downs in hog prices is nothing new. It happens every so often and with a certain degree of regularity. At USDA's Economic Research Service, hog waters call the roller coaster ride pork producers have just been through a "cycle". There have been two other such cycles since 1960.

Pork prices and hog production go together to make a real fine example of the law of supply and demand. High hog prices usually mean a bigger pig crop the following year; low prices mean a cutback. When the number of hogs marketed reach a certain peak, prices go down. Since 1960, prices have hit three lows; in the spring of 1964; the fall of 1967; and the fall of 1970.

The current hog cycle started during 1969 when, in response to favorable hog prices, producers launched the biggest expansion since World War II. The 1970 pig crop of 102 million was the largest since the record breaking crop of 121 million in 1943. The 1971 pig crop has been estimated at 97.6 million, an 8 percent decrease in fall farrowing from a year earlier, and hog slaughter, too, is nearing a turnaround. These two factors indicate higher prices paid for hogs during 1972.

Other factors that are important in hog prices and production include feed prices and supplies, consumer demand for pork, and availability of other meats. The going price of the 1971 crop of hog feed, grain sorghum and corn, will have a great deal to do with changes made in hog numbers. Swine producers in Yoakum County will not increase the size of their operation just because hog prices are taking an upward trend. The price and the supply of grain sorghum must also be favorable for hog production before swine producers will start gearing for larger operations.

Most of the producers in Yoakum County are fairly stable. They have ridden out the storm without making sizeable cutbacks in their operations, and now they are ready to reap some of the benefits that are rightfully theirs.

Accident Occurs

Deputy Sheriff, Bob McDonnell reported the last weekend to be a quiet one in the Plains area.

While investigating a truck accident at the intersection of highway 82 and the Old Lovington road west of Plains, he reported that this was the only incident of any significance. The accident occurred about 1 p.m. Sunday when an A&S Trucking Co. tank truck went into a skid and jackknifed across the barrow ditch on the south side of the road and came to a halt in the alfalfa field adjacent to the highway. Edgar Whitehead, Plains, driver of the truck, stated that when he applied the brakes to slow for entrance onto the Old Lovington highway, the truck went into a skid on the rain soaked pavement. The driver was uninjured. The only damage to the truck was a badly crushed cab on the right side caused by the scissor action as the empty tank trailer overran the truck. No other vehicle was involved.

ROMAIN TELEPHONE COMPANY asks that the citizens who have telephone bills to pay and who wait until the 9th or 10th of the month should either bring it by the telephone office, or if it is placed in the mail, be sure to phone the office and tell the clerks that the money has been placed in the post office. The rules of the telephone company are that the bills must be in the office on or before the 10th of the month or the telephone will be disconnected.

Many times in the last few weeks, due to the employment situation, the telephone bills have been placed in other box numbers, thereby making the payment to the company late. This has caused hard feelings between the telephone company and the customers, but with the cooperation of the people by letting the clerks know that your telephone bill has been placed in the mail, this unpleasantness can be avoided.

ASCS NEWS

PROGRAM PAYMENTS: Approximately 90 percent of 1971 farm program payments have been received and mailed to producers. Due to being in a drought disaster area we have been authorized to deliver all the checks to producers even though regulations require at least every sixth farm to be checked. It may be, and perhaps will be, necessary for some producers to make refunds if due to farm spot check it is found that the farm is not in full compliance. We understand that in certain counties (Yoakum may be one) a complete review of complying farms will be made to see that acreage has been reported correctly; if the set-aside is of equal productivity and on irrigated farms, to see if set-aside is within the irrigation system; to see that set-aside is being maintained in accordance with the contract and to see that the farm is being farmed in

Aircraft Acquired For Institute

AMARILLO -- The Mid-Continent Campus of Texas State Technical Institute has acquired four U-6 aircraft -- nicknamed "Beavers" -- from the Texas Surplus Properties at Fort Hood. The planes were requisitioned through the office of Health, Education and Welfare for "Educational Use."

Mr. James Scott, head of the Aircraft Mechanics Department at State Tech, said the four airplanes will be used to teach airframe and power plant mechanics. The U-6s are 8-passenger planes built for the U.S. Army during World War II. The reciprocating engine planes were used for light cargo and short haul passenger runs, said Scott.

New classes in Aircraft Technology will begin September first at the Mid-Continent Campus. Enrollment for classes is now in progress. For full information on the Aircraft Mechanics program contact Mr. Scott or the TSTI Registrars Office.

The presentation by President Nixon of his new economic policies can be heralded as a tremendous and decidedly bold move packed with potentialities as a curative for many destructive ailments that have been a talking the economy of this country both at home and abroad.

The success of these policies is entirely dependent upon the patriotism of the American people and their willingness to support the President with a deep and sincere desire to pull out of the doldrums of the past.

The full support of a Congress who is willing to forego political bickerings for the sake of the welfare of their country is essential. Whittling, chiseling and granting of exemptions to certain factions for the sake of political prestige will only spell doom to the entire program.

The time is ripe for the American People to consolidate and support this new approach to the economic problems that have so long seemed invulnerable to solution.

It is time now for all economic and political critics to speak with caution and reservation, criticism without reason can serve but one purpose, and that to distract from the potential for the national economic recovery.

There will be sufficient time for politics when we see this country on the road to recovery. With out this, there could be no need to politic.

It is regrettable that another Plains businessman has seen fit to cease business here and move away. Namely, Jerry Hale's Pic & Pay.

This is four businesses that have been lost to Plains since the first of the year. How long can Plains persist in this trend?

We wonder if the local resident fully realizes the consequences of their actions as they continue to travel to other towns for their merchandise.

We believe that there can be some savings at the stores in other towns. But is it truly frugal to take advantage of these savings? Have you figured the increase in your tax burden each time a business is lost?

The cost of maintenance of city government and public utilities does not decrease with the loss of these four businesses, therefore, their portion of this cost must be portioned to remaining meters, ultimately resulting in increased utility costs to those who remain.

Last but not least, what will happen to the value of your property, your business or your home as the number of businesses continue to dwindle?

This is your town folks. It's destiny is in your hands and dependant upon your support.

We are moving our Pic & Pay Store in Plains to Artesia, N.M., where we will open a 7-11 Store on the Carlsbad Highway. We wish to express our appreciation to our customers for their patronage for the past six years that we have been in business. During the 14 years that we have lived in Plains we have made many friends. We will sincerely miss all of you and would like to extend an invitation to you, come by to see us whenever you are near Artesia.

Friendly Chats with Faye McConnell

"Some folks light the candles along the pathway of life, others only curse the darkness."

Friday afternoon, one of the nicest compliments came our way about the paper that has been said in many a day. Mrs. Ruth O'Neal telephoned me at the County Judge's office and said, "Faye, we didn't receive our paper this week, and I am lost." I promised to see that she received one just as soon as possible even though it might be after 5:00 p. m., when I got off from work at the courthouse.

Thank you, Ruth. It made us happy that such a small paper as we have can brighten the day for you. Your call certainly gave us more confidence in our work, and your compliment was sincerely appreciated.

It is wondered if other Texans are as proud of our Democratic Ex-Governor John Connally as I am! He has certainly shown great intellect and judgment in all the things he has done and is doing as U. S. Secretary of Treasury. Monday night, while listening to the program "The Economy, A New Way To go," it was very noticeable that Mr. Connally is an outstanding national leader. His ability to work for the good of our country while working under a Republican President, whom I greatly admire, shows not only his good common sense and judgment but also that full trust can be place in him by the opposing Political party.

Last week after the article had been written that goes underneath the church page, the question was asked if there was anyone special in mind when it was written. The answer was "No, only myself." In recent months, little things have triggered anger within me, and in living a spiritual life, there are so many things that must be fought against. Anger, which causes prejudices, backbiting and enmity toward others, in only one of them.

Mind is the most powerful instrument available to the spirit but the moment it is out of control, it becomes destructive.

Oh, our arrowhead hunters! Son Harvey Lusk from Midland, Hoss Newsom and Roy Edwards left early Sunday morning to go arrowhead hunting. Roy was the luckiest, but Hoss and Harvey found two each, which were almost perfect, and the boys came in very happy. Boys?... yes, they are still my boys even though they are grown men. Of course, Roy is no kin, but because of the close relationship that has always existed between the Hague-McClellan-Lusk-Anderson families, I claim him as partly belonging to me. Whether he wishes to claim the same, is an entirely different matter.

Isn't it wonderful to have friends? Tuesday morning, Ruby Head, our county clerk, brought me in one of the largest, most delicious peaches that I have seen in a long time. It had been grown by a neighbor of hers in Denver City, and the neighbor had been kind enough to give Ruby a number of them. It was saved for a midafternoon snack.

A Texan died and went to heaven. Saint Peter greeted him at the gate and asked, in a friendly kind of way where he was from. "Texas," the man replied. "Well," said Saint Peter, "come on in, but you aren't going to be satisfied."

a workmanlike manner. Where set-aside is of lesser productivity or where dry land is set aside on farms with signed intentions to participate filed their report by the final date and we at this time want to take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation to all farmers for the splendid cooperation during the certifying days. We believe that farmers have done a good job measuring and reporting crop acreages.

COVER CROP PRACTICE: We have been advised that the emergency summer cover crop practice has been extended through August and farmers that need to establish a summer cover crop on cropland for wind erosion protection should consider applying for cost-share assistance, if an application has not already been filed. To be eligible for payment under this emergency program the established cover must not be grazed or harvested. Rate of payment is $3.00 per acre. A winter cover practice which pays $1.40 per acre for establishing cover of small grains (rye, oats or barley) is approved for the county under the REAP program, formerly ACP. To be eligible for cost-share payment on any of the approved emergency ECM or REAP practices a request must be filed before the practice is started.

1972 WHEAT PROGRAM: It is expected that the 1972 wheat allotment will be approximately the same as 1971. The set-aside acreage under the 1972 wheat program will be an acreage equal to 83 percent of the wheat allotment. Under the 1971 program the set-aside was 75 percent. Barley, under the 1972 program, will be considered a feed grain. Participants in the wheat program may substitute barley, corn, grain sorghum or soy beans for wheat and earn program benefits and protect wheat allotment history. Same as this year, there is no marketing quotas on wheat and any amount of wheat may be planted and harvested without marketing quota penalties.

SUDIE THOMPSON CHDA★ Says

Using Dairy Products

Ever consider how much dairy products can contribute to a varied menu?

Dairy foods come in so many different forms you hardly recognize the similarities. Yet the high nutrition is common to all. Milk preparations vary from dry milk to skim to fresh milk. Then you have the cheeses, including such favorites as cheddar and cottage cheese. Don't overlook sweet and sour creams, ice cream and yogurt.

Naturally the selection makes for tasty eating in a variety of ways.

Cottage cheese is the simplest form of cheese. This creamy white goodness is just soft uncured curds of skim milk seasoned with cream. It rates high in popularity with cooks because it is high in protein value, low in calories, easily digested and ready to serve.

For an appetizer, try Cheese Dip. Blend cottage cheese until smooth and creamy with a small amount of milk. Then add garlic, spices, horseradish, chives, herbs, shrimp or deviled ham to taste. It's just right to serve with crunchy potato chips, an assortment of crackers or carrot dipper sticks.

Try this Cottage Cheese Sandwich Filling.
 1 cup cottage cheese 2 tablespoons chopped sweet
 1 tablespoon mayonnaise pickle
 3 or 4 slices diced, crisp bacon 1/2 teaspoon grated onion
 Blend cottage cheese with mayonnaise. Then mix in lightly bacon, pickle and onion. Serve on whole wheat toast. Makes four sandwiches.

MARBLED BROWNIES

Prepare our favorite brownie recipe or packaged mix and spread half the dough in a square bake pan. Then spread with a cottage cheese mixture made by creaming 1 1/2 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons sugar and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Blend in 2 teaspoon s cornstarch, 2/3 cup cottage cheese, 1 egg well beaten, 1 tablespoon milk and 1/8 teaspoon salt.

Top cheese mixture with the remaining brownie dough and draw spoon through layers until marbled effect is achieved. Bake as directed on brownie recipe, cool in pan and cut into squares. Serve and you will discover the creamy cheese is a perfect blend with the rich chocolate goodness.

Skim milk has a reduced butterfat content. A cup of skim milk contains about 90 calories. Try it in this No Bake Cheese Cake.

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin 1-1/2 cups skim milk
 1/2 tablespoon sugar 3 eggs, separated
 Dash of salt 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
 2 cups creamed cottage cheese 1 teaspoon vanilla
 2 tablespoons lemon juice 1/3 cup graham cracker crumbs
 Combine gelatin, 6 tablespoons sugar and salt in the top of a double boiler. Beat skim milk and egg yolks together and add to gelatin. Stir constantly while cooking over boiling water until gelatin dissolved and milk thickens -- about 6 minutes. Remove from heat, add lemon rind and chill.

Whip cottage cheese into billowy lightness, stir in lemon juice and vanilla, and fold into the thickened gelatin. Beat egg whites until stiff, add 6 tablespoons sugar and continue beating until stiff peaks are formed.

Fold egg whites into the gelatin mixture and spoon into an 8-inch spring-form pan. Sprinkle 1/3 cup graham cracker crumbs on top. Chill until firm.

Delita's grandparents, Mr. & Mrs. Bill Overton were also surprised by the visit, along with a visit from their daughter, Joan. Sherrie and Delita were leaving early Sunday morning with Delita's parents for a trip to Possum Kingdom.

Hank and Louise Goehry of Colorado Springs, Colorado, were in Plains over the weekend of August 7th to attend the wedding of their son, Myron Goehry to Peggy Rushing on August 8th, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Polly Rushing.

Miss Pam McDonnell worked three days in the county sheriff's office the first of the week in the place of Mrs. Verda Lee Robertson. Verda Lee took a few days off and Pam did an excellent job in taking her place.

Mrs. Laverne Newsom is still not feeling well after her long trip to California. She became sick going through the mountains of Northwest California and their trip to Colorado had to be postponed. It is hoped that after a few weeks rest that she will be back feeling as well as ever.

Weekend visitors of Perry and Celes Anthony were Mrs. E. G. Bryan, Mrs. Anthony's mother and her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Bryan, daughters Leigh Ann and Susar. They are all from Ralls. The brother and his family went on to the Carlsbad Caverns and came back and picked up the mother on their way back home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Greathouse and friend, Mrs. Sanders, calling themselves "The three Musketeers" were in Plains the other day making their usual visit to the Tumbleweed to get a frosted coke. Mrs. Sanders' husband is the manager of the Holiday Inn in Hobbs, New Mexico. They have been away for some time and just recently moved to Hobbs so the "Musketeers" have really been enjoying good times together again. They also came back to Plains Sunday night to attend the singing at the Methodist Church.

Visitors in the M.S. Weed home last week were Mrs. Weed's mother, Mrs. A.E. Hobson and sister, Mrs. A.H. Cline, both of Lubbock.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

We are presenting the above pictures because we think they are a fine work of photography and a tremendous accomplishment for a pilot 82 years of age, flying solo and taking pictures at the same time.

Mr. Fitzgerald, a former resident of Plains and brother of Messers Roy and John E. Fitzgerald, flies a small Luscomb two passenger plane that he has been utilizing for the past 15 years in his Arizona ranch operations near Phoenix. Here is a portion of his letter describing the flight:

Dear John:

I have been waiting since February for a perfect day to take these pictures; at last it came on July 3rd.

I took off from Phoenix at 5:30 am and headed straight for the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River in northern Arizona; via Flagstaff.

On arrival I discovered that it was going to be a bad day for taking pictures. In north east Arizona there was a forest fire raging and all of Arizona north of Flagstaff had a blanket of smoke over it.

I flew due north to the Glen Canyon Dam on the Colorado River, then on up the river into Utah. I took pictures of the Lake and then turned back and flew down the river to the Grand Canyon. I took pictures of the Canyon and the surrounding country. But due to the smoke they did not turn out very good.

It is difficult for a person to fly and take pictures at the same time; especially as hazardous a place as the Grand Canyon with the wind blowing like it was that day. The next time I fly up there I will take a passenger along to do the picture taking.

I arrived back in Phoenix at 2:30 pm after stopping an hour at Page, or Glen Canyon Dam. I was in the air six hours, and flew a little over six hundred miles over some of the roughest country in Arizona.

Sincerely,
 Clyde Fitzgerald

"FORGIVE US OUR DEBTS,
 AS WE ALSO HAVE FORGIVEN OUR DEBTORS."

THESE familiar lines from the Lord's Prayer are as meaningful in life today as they must have been on the day when they were spoken. Jesus had just told His followers: "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy. . . . Blessed are the peacemakers . . . be reconciled to your brother . . . Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you."

As we reread these passages, we can see how applicable they are to us and to the situations in our lives. We need to be merciful. We need to be peacemakers. We need to be able to curb and cure our hostilities. We need to be reconciled with our brother and to know that all men are our brothers. We need to learn how to love not only those who love us but those whom we consider our "enemies." We need to pray for and bless those who we feel persecute us.

Surely, right now, we all have a need to pray in the Christ Spirit of love and forgiveness.

♦ "For if you forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father also will forgive you."—MATT. 6:14.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Let us live in the present, looking neither backward in horror, nor forward with apprehension, but looking into the present with joy - "abiding in faith."

LEVELLAND (Special) A new half-time welding program is scheduled for the Fall semester at South Plains College.

Interest from people concerning a half-time evening program in welding indicates a need for providing training on a half-time basis beginning with the Fall semester, August 1971. The program provides the same training as the full day program. Students meet 15 clock hours per week in scheduled evening classes. Half-time evening classes received the same completion credit as day classes.

The college is currently in its third year of training students in occupational welding, under the able instruction of Clyde Morgan. A favorable response from industry resulted in graduates securing immediate successful employment.

Three programs in welding are presently available to the student: Welding Technology - a four semester integrated program including specialized welding courses and related courses that lead to an Associate in Applied Science degree; Apprenticeship Welding - a four semester program of specialized welding courses that lead to a Certificate of Proficiency at completion; and Job Entry Welding - a one-semester program of specialized training for production line or structural welding that leads to a Certificate of successful course completion.

The instigation of a half-time evening program is contingent upon sufficient interest expressed by prospective students. Interested persons should reply or inquire immediately to the Technical Vocational Division or directly to Clyde Morgan, welding instructor, South Plains College, Levelland.

CHELATES and COTTON

Chelate!
To a linguist, the word — literally — means "claw." To a cotton grower, however, "chelate" can mean the difference between profit and loss at picking time.
It all has to do with micronutrients, minute soil-nourishing agents that plants need to flourish. When these are deficient — either depleted or tied up in a form plants can't use — the results are unhealthy crops and reduced yields.
And that's where chelates come in.
A chelate is a micronutrient compound formed by combining a metal with a special state, this metal stays in the ground in an available form until plants are ready to absorb it. Unlike other sources of micronutrients, such as sulfates and chlorides, chelates can not become tied up in the soil.
Further, a chelate like Sequestrene zinc can be used either dry or as a liquid, which means it can be simply and conveniently combined with

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Barbs From the Bench

On trial for burglary, the defendant was trying to explain why he had been observed near the scene of the crime at three o'clock in the morning. But the judge was skeptical.

"Honest people," he said caustically, "are in bed at three o'clock in the morning."

Was the judge's remark prejudicial? Indeed it was, ruled an appellate court, granting the defendant a new trial. The court said the judge had no right, even by wisecrack, to blacken the defendant's reputation.

The appellate court was concerned not about the feelings of the defendant but about the minds of the jurors.

"The jury," said one expert, "can be easily influenced by the slightest suggestion from the (trial judge), whether it be a nod of the head, a smile, a frown, or a spoken word. It is imperative that (he) conduct himself with utmost caution in order that the unusual power he possesses shall not be abused."

Unfortunately, a new trial is costly in both time and money. Accordingly, even if a judge has said something to disparage the defendant, the appellate court will usually overlook it if there seems to be no great harm done. Often a judge who realizes his mistake can "take the sting out" of what he said by instructing the jury to ignore it.

Nor is a judge expected to be superhuman. In the heat of a trial, he may understandably show flashes of nonjudicial emotion.

In one case, while the judge was talking with a lawyer, the defendant kept interrupting. Finally the judge burst out:

"Please keep quiet. I don't like it. You are here to answer questions. If there is any more of that kind of talk, you will be in jail for contempt of court."

But this time, an appellate court found no grounds for a new trial. The court said that, even though the judge should not have lost his temper, he could be excused for a natural reaction to a stressful situation.

The United States Supreme Court once summarized the matter as follows:

"A defendant is entitled to a fair trial but not a perfect one."

Off-Types In Grain Sorghum Should Be Controlled

Tall, unsightly off-type sorghum plants have made their appearance again in grain sorghum fields over the area. These off-types produce abundant seed that can volunteer readily, causing problems to crop production in succeeding years. Crop rotation and roguing can eliminate this situation.

Off-types develop from seed present in the soil from previous years, or from seed present in planting seed, says Darrell Rosenow, grain sorghum breeder at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock. Such plants are also called outcrosses since they arise when foreign pollen from undesirable plants pollinates male-sterile plants in seed production fields.

According to Rosenow, off-types can be placed in five groups: (1) Tall mutants. These occur spontaneously in all grain sorghum hybrids, are similar to the hybrid, but are one to two feet taller. (2) Off-type or off-color heads. (3) Forage Types. These are tall, vigorous plants with coarse stems. (4) Rhizomatous grassy types. These are johnsongrass or sorghum alum hybrids with grain sorghum. They are loose headed, grassy types that have rhizomes of varying degrees. They are quite sterile and produce little or no seed because of an unbalanced chromosome number. (5) Non-rhizomatous grassy types. These are tall, somewhat grassy types which usually tiller freely and produce abundant amounts of glume covered seed on a loose, open head.

The plants in group 5 are by far the most objectionable and troublesome because of their volunteering potential and should definitely be controlled, says Rosenow. The rhizomatous types are not as serious a problem since they produce little or no seed, and their rhizomes are usually not as extensive or vigorous as those of johnsongrass. However, they should be controlled. Off-types in the other three groups may be unsightly but usually do not pose any serious volunteer problem in succeeding years.

It is also important to determine the source of off-type plants, adds the scientist. If they come from planted seed, the individual plants will be uniformly distributed over the entire field in the seed furrow with the grain sorghum. If the off-types are volunteers, they will be in circular patches and will be concentrated in certain areas of the field where smaller patches were located in previous years.

Continuous efforts by farmers are essential to prevent some of these objectionable off-types from becoming a serious weed problem, contends Rosenow. Crop rotation helps control volunteer plants from seed already in the soil. Rotating sorghum with small grains or alfalfa is one of the best methods of control. Rotations with a broad leaved crop such as cotton or soybeans are also good since herbicides recommended for controlling grasses can be used on some crops. These herbicides also control volunteer sorghum. Rotations with corn may be somewhat effective by using higher than normal rates of certain herbicides even though the corn may be slightly damaged.

Roguing of undesirable off-types is especially useful in fields not badly infested and in preventing the establishment of weedy types in clean fields. For roguing to be effective, heads must be removed before viable seed is produced. This is as little as 10 days after flowering. Later, roguing requires the complete removal of heads from the field.

Roguing rhizomatous types requires that the entire plant be dug and removed from the field, explains Rosenow. This should be done as soon as they are recognized to prevent establishment of rhizomes.

Other practices are also useful in controlling off-types. Buying planting seed from a reputable seed company is important. Care should be exercised in all phases of handling sudangrass or sorghum-sudan hybrids. They should not be allowed to go to seed.

Failure to rotate crops or roguing weedy sorghum off-types may result in fields that require one or more years of intensive clear-cultivation to restore them to usefulness. Certainly the prevention of a serious weedy-type sorghum volunteer problem is much cheaper than curing such a problem, says Rosenow.

Tax Man Sam Sez:

When Congress passed the Interstate Highway plan, they set up a system to help pay for the nationwide network of highways. They imposed a highway use tax on large trucks, truck-tractors, and buses. The good folks at Internal Revenue Service have issued a friendly reminder to truck owners that August 31st is the deadline for filing their form 2290 and paying the highway use tax for the fiscal year which began July 1, 1971. If you are not sure as to whether your truck is big enough to put you in a taxable category, IRS will be glad to send you Publication 349, Federal Use Tax on Trucks, truck-tractors and Buses. The Do's & Don'ts Of Lawn-Care Logic

Let's face it—good lawns don't just happen by accident. They need plenty of tender loving care to prosper. So, if you want a lawn to turn your neighbors green with envy, cultivate these do's and don'ts suggested by the gardening experts at Disston:

DO water a new lawn lightly and often enough to keep the soil moist until it is established, but DON'T water it if the rainfall has been adequate. Excessive watering brings on certain lawn diseases.

DO soak an established lawn to a depth of three to six inches, but DON'T water again until the soil becomes dry and crumbly.

DO keep a newly planted lawn at a height of one to two inches, but DON'T mow it until it is three inches high. The one exception is bentgrass, which must be kept much shorter.

DO use shears, like the Disston Cordless Electric, around shrubs, trees, patios and sidewalks, but DON'T chip your mower blades or damage your greenery by trying to use that mower where it doesn't belong. The light-weight Disston is battery operated, rechargeable, and need only be guided wherever you want to trim.

DO use a good lawn food and follow its package instructions carefully, but DON'T apply lime, fertilizer or anything else haphazardly.

DO use a quality seed mixture and DON'T TRY the bargain-basement variety. A quality seed will not only prove an economy in the long run, it will also save you a lot of needless work, re-work and aggravation.
